We All Imitate Each Other.

Have you ever noticed how persons who have something on their minds imitate unconsciously the actions of others?

A sub-intelligence seems to be at work in all of us, at all times, that controls our actions and causes us to do a great many things unconsciously. A nervous man or woman will twist and tear a scrap of paper, or toy with some article, for an hour at a time. When spoken to, such persons start and look at the article in their hands as though wondering where they had obtained it. In nine cases out of ten this person saw some other person doing the same thing, and unconsciously his or her hands, under the direction of sub-intelligence, sought out the paper or article to play with.

A few days ago a physician experimented on this subject in a railway-station waiting-room where a score of business men were waiting for the train, all preoccupied mentally with the business of the day.

The physician began a march up and down the waiting-room. In two minutes a worried-looking man, who appeared to be a prosperous merchant, began to march also. Two clerks and a stout person followed his example. In five minutes two men who were reading newspapers were the only persons out of the twenty-odd in the room who were not walking about. The physician ceased suddenly. Peculiar as it may seem, his action appeared to give the whole assemblage a shock. They woke up, as it were, but not sufficiently to know that they had been experimented upon. Before the train arrived they had assumed the positions in which the physician found them.

"Another thing I have noticed," added the physician, "is that the higher the intelligence of a man is, the more liable he is to be controlled by sub-consciousness. An unintelligent man seems to have none of it."

Novel Design in Belts.

Novel designs in girdles and chatelaines are shown among the new gold and silver ornaments. The Cleopatra girdles are set with real gems, and their price is excessively high. Apart from its usefulness, an artistically constructed silver chatelaine makes an effective break in the plainness of the dress skirt, more especially when it is tailor-made. The genuine solid silver chatelaines worn at the waist of women in feudal times are heirlooms greatly prized, seldom seen, and really beyond price. Their close imitations are, however, wide-cast, and they certainly look antique enough to satisfy the majority. But there are chatelaines and chatelaines. Oxidized metal, which at first gives one an impression of silver work of very antique design, soon gets rubbed, and the good effect is destroyed, so that nickel silver chatelaines, which pretend to be nothing but the honest articles they are, are largely sold in place of oxidized goods. Occasional cleaning with whiting will keep nickel bright, and the attachments, while less fanciful, are certainly stronger, and therefore more likely to stand the wear and tear of frequent use.

How to Avoid Lumpy Drawn Butter.

Lumpy drawn butter for fish sauce is an impossibility if the simplest care is given to its preparation. An ounce of butter should be melted in a clean saucepan and into it is sprinkled from an ounce to an ounce and a half of fine sifted flour. This is stirred to form a thick, smooth paste that will leave the sides of the pan clean. Add to it, when this condition has been reached, half a pint of boiling water, and let it boil over the fire for ten minutes, stirring it all the time to prevent lumps. If, despite all care, some lumps have formed, it can be poured through a sieve on its way to the hot sauce dish. Despite the ease with which this unappetizing condition of the sauce is obviated, many housekeepers seem to accept the lumpy sauce as trying but inevitable.

Dress Trimmings.

All sorts of ruffling for trimming summer gowns and evening dresses can be bought in the shops all ready for use. It comes in Liberty gauze, chiffon and lace all finished on the edge with rows of narrow gathered satin ribbon, a little ruche of chiffon, a tiny border of flowers, or frills of narrow lace.

A DAINTY APRON.

Timely Items.

Combs are best cleaned with brushes; washing them causes the teeth to split and the tortoiseshell becomes rough.

The following is a soothing lotion to be applied with an eye bath several times a day: 1 grain borax, 1 oz. camphor water.

When the hair has become dry the following mixture should be well rubbed into the roots: 4 oz. oil of sweet almonds, 4 oz. glycerine, 4 oz. lime-water, ½ oz. tincture of cantharides; shake the bottle well before using.

Carbonate of soda is the best of all remedies in cases of scalds and burns. It may be used on the surface of the burned place, either dry or wet. When applied promptly the sense of relief is magical. It seems to withdraw the heat, and with it the pain, and the healing process commences. It is the best application for eruptions caused by poisonous ivy and other poisonous plants, and also for bites and stings of insects.

Strong tea applied with a sponge several times a week will darken faded hair.

A few drops of oil of cloves added to paste will prevent paste from turning sour.

Patent leather shoes should be cleaned with sweet oil applied with a piece of flannel, and afterwards polished with a soft duster.

A little powdered borax added to the water in which red material is washed, will keep it from losing its brightness.

Ringworm in children can be cured by applying a strong solution of common salt and water every night to the affected parts, and then washing off in the morning with a solution of boric acid.

Saucepans should never be put away with their lids on, or the smell of the last thing cooked in them will remain. Turn the saucepan upside down on a shelf with its lid hung above or below the shelf on a nail in the wall.

Mind How You Walk.

Did you know that your own particular was indicative of some trait in your character? If you have a slow manner of walking it shows you are not energetic, but if you turn out your toes it indicates a thoughtful mind.

In the case of determined, energetic people, their walk is marked by rapid, long steps, which are the same under all circumstances; while the fops and the careless portion change the style of their walk to suit the prevailing weather. One hour they will walk one way, and the next hour their manner of walking will be entirely different, and at all times uncertain and unreliable.

On the other hand, those who walk easily and gracefully are very apt to be easy and graceful in everything they do. A heel walker is generally a solid kind of a character, while those who do the most part of their walking on the forward part of their feet are fond of sport, and incline strongly towards sentimental things in life.

For the Easter Bride.

Now as the season of weddings approach there is always a demand for neat and dainty bridal gowns suitable for the home wedding. A pretty model is made of cream white satin, although silk could be substituted if preferred. Over the back of the skirt falls a circular train of medium length, while down the left side the skirt is trimmed with a cascade frill of lace, and also orange blossoms. If there is any lace which is an heirloom in the family this would be an excellent way to use it, as it would not be necessary to cut into it.

The bodice is made with a tight-fitting back. The front is covered with pleated chiffon, which is draped and fastened with a bow on the left side below a small vest also of chiffon. Sleeves quite tight fitting puffed on the shoulder.

Mutton Pie.

This is a very good and economical family dish, and can be made with the remains of a cold leg or loin, or any other joint of mutton, from which nice, neat slices of rather lean meat can be cut. These should be put, with a good seasoning, in alternate layers with thinly sliced potatoes, into a pie dish, commencing at the bottom with some of the meat, and finishing at the top with potatoes. Parsley, savoury herbs, onion or shallot, with a little mace, white pepper, and salt, may be used at discretion. A cupful of good gravy from the meat should be poured into the pie before the crust is put on.

A New Fabric.

Among the new fabrics seen in the stores is the elorinda, a new weave in a piece-dyed material that is at once a plain fabric and a novelty. Dunoon plaids seemingly forsake clan colors, and retaining Scottish designs take on the colors that fashion favors. The plaids come in six beautiful colorings. In one type two shades of blue in the ground are overshadowed by broken lines of brown and tan, and a dash of gold adds brilliancy to the material.

Preserving Cut Blossoms.

To preserve cut blossoms of hard wood trees or shrubs, such as lilac, laburnum, apple blossoms, roses or hydranges, the stalks should be stripped of the bark a good way up at the ends so that they can suck up the water, and the water in which they are placed should be warm.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Special Correspondence.

The son of Chinese parents, born in the United States is a citizen of this country, says the Supreme Court, speaking through Justice Gray. The case is that of the United States vs. Wong Kim Ark, on appeal from the Northern District of California.

Wong Kim Ark was born in San Francisco in 1873, and at the age of 17 went to China with his parents. After a brief stay he returned to the United States and was permitted to enter on the sole ground that he was a native born citizen of the United States. In 1894, he again visited China, and, returning in 1895, admission was denied him on the sole ground that he was not a citizen of the United States. He was released from custody and permitted to remain by the Federal Court, before which it was asserted and admitted that Wong Kim Ark had not, either by himself or by his parents acting for him, ever renounced his allegiance to the United States, and that he had never done anything to exclude him therefrom. From this judgment the United States appealed.

The question at issue was "whether a child born in the United States of Chinese parents, who, at the time of his birth, were subjects of the Emperor of China, becomes at the time of his birth a citizen of the United States by virtue of the first clause of the Fourteenth amendment to the Constitution."

After an elaborate and extended discussion of the points involved, Justice Gray, in affirming the judgment of the lower court, said:

"The distinction between citizenship of the United States and citizenship of a State is clearly recognized and established. Not only may a man be a citizen of the United States without being a citizen of a State, but an important element is necessary to convert the former into the latter. He must reside within the State to make him a citizen of it, but it is only necessary that he should be born or naturalized in the United States to be a citizen of the Union.

"The opening sentence of the Fourteenth Amendment," said the Justice, "is throughout affirmative and declaratory, intended to allay doubts and to settle controversies which have arisen; and not to impose any new restrictions upon citizenship. It affirms the ancient and fundamental rule of citizenship of birth within the territory, in the allegiance and under the protection of the country. The amendment in clear words and manifest intent includes the children born within the territory of the United States, of all other persons, of whatever race or color, domiciled within the United States. To hold that the Fourteenth Amendment excludes from citizenship the children born in the United States of citizens or subjects of other countries, would be to deny citizenship to thousands of persons of English, Scotch, Irish, German or other European parentage, who have always been considered and treated as citizens of the United States."

Chief Justice Fuller, joined by Justice Harlan, entered a vigorous dissent from the doctrine and principles enunciated by the majority of the court. Justice McKenna took no part in the decision.

A Praying President.

"Unless it is provoked by a cause that God and all mankind will approve." The words with which President McKinley qualifies his determination to avoid war will become historic. They are admirable. Uttered as they were in private conversation, they are not open to the supposition of having been studied or of having been inspired by the formality of the occasion. They came, as did that famous expression of another, at a time to calm feverish apprehension, spontaneously from the heart, "God reigns and the Government at Washington still lives." Nothing that has been spoken in public or private during the present emergency will give wider satisfaction than President McKinley's utterance of desire for approval of God and all mankind. There is a praying President in the White House. This fact may not be generally understood. The President's observance of the forms of religion is well known. Officials and politicians in Washington learned long ago that only in emergencies were matters of business to be taken to the White House on the Sabbath. The President's observance of the forms is not ostentations. It is consistent, and beneath the observance is deep and strong faith in an all-wise Providence.

Facts About the Capitol.

The corner-stone of the original capitol building was laid September 18, 1793, by President Washington, with Masonic ceremonies. The North wing was finished in 1800 and the South wing in 1811. August 24, 1814, the interior of both wings was destroyed by fire, set by the British. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced, and was completed in 1827. The cost of the capitol up to 1827, including the grading of grounds, alterations, etc. was $2,433,844.13. The corner-stone of the extensions was laid on the Fourth of July, 1851, by President Fillmore, Daniel Webster officiating as orator. This work was completed in 1865. These extensions were first occupied for legislative purposes January 4, 1859. The old dome was torn down and work commenced on the new one in 1855. The present structure, which is of cast iron, was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,909,200 pounds. The statue which crowns the dome was put in position December 2, 1864. It is of bronze, and its correct designation is Freedom. The height of the statue is nineteen feet six inches and its weight 14,985 pounds. There is now a bill before Congress to cover it with gold leaf.

Notice to the Public in General.

The American people shall have no need of the CHINAMAN in the future if every American Laundryman will supply the proper kind of work. Try us and be convinced that we are up to date, and that you would rather have AMERICANS by all odds to serve you. Think of the terrible odor that comes from a Chinese Laundry, and yet one half of the people don't know what causes it. Here it is in a Nut Shell. Could you for instance turn out first-class laundry in a room 12x20 where there is three or four living. Think of your laundry in a place of this kind, where they do cooking, smoke their opium and also sleep in same apartment. And stil what is more horrible is that all your clothes are sprinkled from the mouth. Think twice before you speak and have an American citizen to do your laundry by all odds.

HEALTH CATECHISM.

To be Committed to Memory by all Dyspeptics, Invalids, Consumptives.

What is the first cause of nine-tenths of all disease?

Imperfect digestion of food.

Why does imperfect digestion cause disease of other organs?

Because blood, nerves, muscles, bone and flesh are derived from the food we eat and digest. If digestion is perfect the blood is pure, nerves and muscles strong, flesh firm. If the digestion is poor the blood is supplied from half-digested, fermenting food, irritating every nerve and organ. The result is, sooner, or later, organic disease, because every organ, being poorly nourished, the weakest gives way first, and we have liver trouble, kidney complaint, heart disease or consumption.

Is not dieting the usual and best treatment to cure indigestion?

No, because the dyspeptic has been starved long enough; what is needed is abundant nourishment, not the lack of it. The stomach and blood demand nutriment, not bran crackers.

What is the best method of cure?

Plenty of wholesome food well digested.

But how can a weak stomach digest plenty of wholesome food?

By taking with the food after each meal certain harmless remedies which are known to digest food and thus nourish the blood and rest the weak stomach.

What are these harmless remedies?

The most valuable are vegetable ferments, pure pepsin, Golden Seal and fruit salts. All of these are now combined in the form of pleasant tasting tablets sold by drug ists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Are these tablets superior to the various liquid preparations so called dyspepsia cures?

Most decidedly because all liquid medicines become stale with age and lose whatever good qualities they may have had originally, while the tablet retains its properties indefinitely. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be carried in the pockets, always at hand ready for use when traveling or at daily occupation. They cost but 50 cents and should be kept in every family. They keep the digestion perfect and save doctor's bills by warding off disease.

Are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets adapted to all forms of dyspepsia.

Yes, because in all cases the trouble results from indigested, fermenting food. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cause the food to be digested before it has time to ferment.

It you wish to know more about them ask your druggist for a package and try them. 4 11 13 15.

dent wishes to be empowered to act at his discretion, but the best constitutional lawyers of the Senate do not believe that Congress has the right to empower the President to make war some time in the future. They believe that it is a departure from the Constitution to grant the administration the right and power to use the army and navy to-morrow, next week or next year as it chooses. Therefore, they will accept his views for the enforced pacification of the island, but will assume their constitutional responsibility by directing him to stop the war and avenge he Maine now.

During the past twenty-four hours telegrams and protests against further delay have been received by the members of the committee from a number of their constituents. One of the most notable of these was one received by Mr. Quigg of New York, containing about 100 names, protesting against the "policy of to-morrow."

Another thing that is said to have had a pronounced effect upon Congress, as well as the President, was Consul-General Lee's triumphal march. The so-called "conservative" members of Congress have been declaring for weeks past that the great body of the American people were for peace at any price, and regarded the Maine as an international incident. The reception of Lee at crossroads and hamlets has quieted all this talk, and will no doubt convince the President that the whole people of the Republic have answered his battle cry, "The war must stop!" with a shout, "And stop right now!"

OFFICIAL REPORT OF MAINE DEAD.

President Submits Complete Figure in Response to Senate Resolution.

Washington, April 13.—In responding to a resolution President McKinley yesterday transmitted to the Senate a report from the Bureau of Navigation with regard to the loss of life by the Maine disaster, the bodies recovered, etc. It follows:

Number on board the Maine at the time of the disaster: Officers, 26; sailors, 290; marines, 39; total, 355. Saved: Officers, 24; sailors, 60; marines, 11; total, 260. Bodies recovered: Officers, 2; sailors, 230; marines, 28; total, 260. Bodies recovered: Officers, 1; sailors, and marines, 177; died from injuries, 8; total, 186.

Those buried in the cemetery at Havana number 166; buried at Key West, 19; buried at Pittsburg, 1.

Number of bodies not recovered. Officers, 1; enlisted men and marines, 77. Total, 74.

The work of recovery, says the report, was continued until April 6, when the wrecking tugs were withdrawn, and nothing is now being done in that direction so far as is known, and the last bodies reported as recovered were sent to Key West on March 30. No estimate has been made of the portions of bodies which were recovered and buried.

The large percentage of bodies not recovered is due, no doubt, to the fact that the men were swinging in their hammocks immediately over that portion of the vessel which was totally destroyed.

MR. HARRITY'S ANSWER.

Denies the Right to Recall Him from National Committee.

Philadelphia, April 13.—William F. Harrity's answer to the charges of Democratic State Chairman Garman and others, upon which his removal from the Democratic National Committee has been demanded, along with letters and extracts from newspapers bearing on the case, all of which have been published in pamphlet form and circulated among the leading Democratic politicians throughout the State, and also sent to the members of the National Committee for their perusal.

In this pamphlet Mr. Harrity denies the right of the Democratic State Committee and convention to recall him from membership in the National Committee, and says that the power to make removals is vested in the National Committee alone.

Mr. Harrity says he was always ready to perform, and did perform, any and every duty assigned to him by the Democratic National Committee or its officers, with one exception. He refused to contribute to the State campaign fund because of want of confidence in Mr. Garman's management, but he did give money to the city campaign fund.

SENATE SWELLS NAVY ESTIMATE.

Eight Million of Shells, Armor, Etc. Added to the House Bill.

Washington, April 13.—The Senate Committee on Appropriations yesterday completed consideration of the Naval Appropriation bill, and Senator Hale afterward reported it to the Senate. The amendments recommended by the committee increase the aggregate appropriation made by the bill as it passed the House to the extent of $8,293,500, making the total $46,277,558, as compared with $33,003,234, carried by the Appropriation bill of 1897.

The principal items of increase are the following: For the construction and the machinery of new war and defense vessels, $6,000,000; for armor and armament, $1,500,000; for equipment, $200,000; for additions to and repairs about navy yards, $622,000.

SPAIN'S FLOTILLA HEARD FROM.

Taff's Captain Saw the "Beggars" Off the Canaries.

New York, April 13.—Captain Canrobert of the British fruit steamer Taff, which arrived yesterday fom Port Antonio with a cargo of fruit for the American Fruit Company, reports seeing the Spanish torpedo flotilla. On arrival at Quarantine the captain said that he saw the flotilla at the Canary Islands, and added:

"They are coming over to smash your crockery. They arrived as I was about to sail. The authorities sent off word for me to display my bunting, but I told them I didn't know the beggars, and would not do it. I only saw them at a distance, and had no chance to examine them."

Spain's Consul Quits Key West.

Washington, April 13.—Word reached here yesterday that the Spanish Consul at Key West had retired from the consulate there because of threats said to have been made against his life. This is the first removal of a Spanish official in the United States as a result of the present trouble.

CYCLING COMMENT.

John Bicknell, of South avenue, expects to purchase an Eldridge wheel.

The roundsmen and sergeant, of the police department, have received their new wheels. Their old wheels will be used during bad weather.

The Eldridge Cycle Company at their local store on Park avenue are selling Eldridge wheels every day, and Manager Cuming is kept very busy.

Dennis Carney, of Paradise alley, is recovering from the effects of an accident he met with while wheeling near New Brunswick. He was riding along with a friend and started to descend the Albany street hill into New Brunswick. Between a trolley car and a passing vehicle, he ran afoul of the trolley track and was thrown from his wheel. He landed on the side of his face and somewhat damaged it.

maid of honor and the best man and then by the bridesmaides and ushers.

The groom presented the ushers with gold scarf pins composed of a circlet of pearls with a diamond set in the centre. The bride's gift to the bridesmaids was a clasp pin of gold in the shape of a four leaf clover and wish-bone, set with pearls.

The marriage gifts formed a magnificent display. They included silver, cut glass, and many valuable articles of use and decoration

After the ceremony a reception was given to the relatives and visiting friends at the home of the bride's parents on East Ninth street. The house was handsomely decorated The prevailing color in the reception room was green and white. The drawing room and dining room were decorated in pink and green.

The reception was an informal one. Over a hundred were present. Among those from out of town were J. A. Babcock, of Brooklyn, Mrs. E. R. Kirbie, of Philadelphia, Rev. Dr. Dodd, of Newark, Dr. and Mrs. Prescott Vail, of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson and son, of Lambertville, Miss Miles, of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heath and son, of Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull, of Brooklyn, Henry Golden, of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Smalley Corriell, of Bound Brook, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Ammerman, of Somerville, Mr. and Miss Smith, of Somerville.

The newly married couple left the house soon after 10 o'clock. Before leaving, the bride distributed the boxes of wedding cake among the bridemaids according to the old custom. The box containing the fated ring, which is supposed to go to the one to be married first, was received by Miss Ethel Holmes.

On their departure, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were plentifully showered with rice by the friends at the house. They took the 10:28 train for New York. They will spend several weeks at Old Point Comfort. On returning they will take up their residence at the home of J. Wesley Johnson, on LaGrande avenue.

After the departure of the couple from the reception, the guests spent the remainder of the evening in dancing. An elaborate supper was served by Caterer Russ, of Elizabeth. The floral decorations were arranged under the charge of Mrs. Denton.

STRUCK ON THE TRACKS.

A Wandering Bridge Builder Hurt and Taken to Hospital

Patrick Courley, aged 32 years, a bridge builder living at Pittsburg, Pa., was crossing the railroad tracks near the freight house yesterday afternoon when a passing coal train struck him and tossed him to one side. He was picked up by some people who happened to be near and taken to the hospital in the ambulance. An examination proved that Courley had received a scalp wound and a contused wound of the back The doctors in charge do not think that the injuries are serious and believe it to be only a matter of a short time when the patient can return home. Courly is unmarried and is at present out of a job.

into the actual service of the United States, the militia of the several States to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect.

The House committee of foreign affairs also made its report this afternoon and presented a resolution. It was preceded by a preample similar to the Senate preamble.

The House resolution was as follows:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be and hereby is authorized and directed to intervene at once in the island of Cuba for the purpose of putting a stop to the war between the government of Spain and the inhabitants of that island, restoring peace and order thereon, and also establishing a stable and independent government of their own by the free act of the people thereon;

And that the President is hereby authorized and empowered to use the army and navy of the United States for the purpose of carrying out the object of this joint resolution.

Both resolutions will be debated this afternoon and will come up for a vote, this evening, it is expected.

Madrid, April 13—At a special Cabinet meeting held last night important war credits were granted, including a large sum for the completion of artillery preparations at Porto Rico.

Senor Gullon, Minister for Foreign Affairs, read to the Cabinet the official text of President McKinley's message, which was discussed at length.

Afterward an official note, giving an opinion on the message, was issued as follows:

"Although the document transmitted to the Government is incomplete, lacking extracts of previous messages whereto it refers, which are indispensable to a complete understanding of the document, the Council is of the opinion that the strange, meddling attitude expressed in President McKinley's message is incompatible with the sovereignty and rights of the Spanish nation.

"These rights admit of no interference with Spain's affairs by any other Nation.

"The Council deems it inexpedient to make any further declaration, except to express in the solemnest manner its unalterable determination to uphold the rights of the Nation until the American Congress or President McKinley takes definite steps to enforce the doctrines expressed in the message.

"Government awaits further developments with calmness and with a determination to defend with energy the sacred interests of Spain by the patriotism of the Spanish race."

Key West, April 13.—Acting under orders from Madrid, the Spanish Consul has closed his office here and has gone to Tampa. Before leaving he turned his papers over to the British Vice Consul, Mr. Taylor, who will represent Great Britain, Spain and Italy.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 13.—The United States troops stationed at Fort Bliss have received orders from the War Department to start for Chickamauga today.

"What's use of talking," exclaimed representative Grosvernor, of Ohio, this morning, when asked whether we were going to have war, "we are going to declare war before night or at least that will be the effect of the action that Congress will take today."

Grave Cause for Anxiety.

The maiden aunt of a San Francisco official, according to the News Letter has gradually cultivated a fondness for sensationalism until a love for reading horrible descriptions in the newspapers and morbid imaginings in books has gained a complete ascendency over her. An old friend of the family inquired a few days ago of the nephew concerning the health of his aunt.

"We are rather anxious about her," was the perfectly serious reply. "She is not exactly ailing, but her spirits seem depressed. She does not seem to be enjoying her murders and lynchings as much as usual!"

A Queer Notion.

Some women, as well as some men have queer notions. The day that Mrs Leonora McMahon, of St. Joe, Kan. was married, she had her first husband's body taken up at Wichita and sent to her at Kansas City. The bride and bridegroom joined the remains there, and accompanied them to Wisconsin for reinterment.—Atchison Globe.

WAR INTEREST NOW CENTRES IN SENATE.

Delay Over the Debate in the Upper House.

DEFINITE ACTION TODAY?

NOTHING HEARD OF FLYING SQUADRON NOW AT SEA.

Consul General Lee Before the Foreign Relations Committee This Morning—Spanish Officials Are All Ready to Leave Havana—Senate Will Probably Compromise by Passing the House Resolutions, But That Action Will Not Come Until Late Today or Probably Not Until Tomorrow.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 14.—The National Capital is all alive with excitement. Crowds throng about the Capitol and the White House, anxious to pick up any stray bit of information. The interest principally centres about the Senate Chamber where the Senators have been busy all the morning and part of the afternoon discussing the resolution calling for armed intervention as introduced by the committee on foreign relations yesterday afternoon.

There is considerable opposition in the Senate to the form of the resolution and it seems to be the general opinion that there will be some delay in passing it. It will probably be passed late this afternoon or tonight.

Regarding the final action of both houses, the impression prevails that the Senate resolution, even if passed by the Senate, will be given up and the House resolution passed by the Senate as a compromise measure to the more conservative.

There was an exciting session of the Senate committee on foreign relations this morning, at which Consul General Lee was present. He testified regarding the destruction of the battleship "Maine," and stated that he was informed that topedoes were laid at the entrance of the harbor of Havana after the destruction of the "Maine."

The Spanish minister in this city has packed up all his household goods and is ready to depart for his native land at a moment's notice. It is expected that he will leave as soon as the Senate passes the resolution calling for armed interference.

The usual activity prevails at the navy department. The government officials are now conferring with President Griscone, of the American line, who is now in Washington, regarding the purchase of the ocean liners, "New York" and "Paris," by the government.

Old Point Comfort, April 14.—The flying squadron of the United States navy, under the command of Commodore Schley, sailed yesterday afternoon. Nothing more has been seen or heard of them.

The war department has completed its arrangements for mobilizing the whole regular army in Chickamauga Park, and those regiments which are not already on the way could be started for the Park on special trains within an hour or two of the receipt of orders to move.

The 25th Infantry, a negro regiment, is now on its way from Montana to Chickamauga and Key West. The troops which will be called on first comprise seventeen infantry and five cavalry regiments. They can all be set down at the Park within three days.

Opossums Were Fighting.

When Liveryman George Belcher went into his barn, on East Fifth street, last evening he found a fierce conflict in progress. Two opossums were engaged in a fight on the barn floor. Mr. Belcher killed both the combatants with a club.

FAVORABLE FINANCES OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTISTS.

Owing to the Liberality of the Members No Special Effort Had Been Made to Enlarge Collections—Election

A very satisfactory state of affairs was found at the annual meeting of the church and society of the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening. All the bills had been paid and a small balance still remained in the treasury.

The meeting was called to order by the clerk, Thomas A. Cuming. Rev. J. W. Richardson, the pastor was made moderator. The report of the general fund committee was made by E. Fenton Haynes. The committee stated that owing to the good financial condition of the church, no special efforts had been made to enlarge the collections.

The report of the treasurer, E. Fenton Haynes, showed the receipts in the general fund amounted to $3,661.47; and $1,540.08 for benevolences, making a total of $5,201.58. A balance of $57.41 remained in the treasury. There is still a mortgaged indebtedness amounting to nearly $8,000 which was not mentioned in the report.

The report of the board of trustees was made by the president of the Board, J. Wesley Johnson. It showed that while all the expenses had been paid when they fell due, the income had been somewhat smaller than usual. The Board asked that the subscriptions be increased as there were some needed repairs that would soon have to be made.

The election of trustees was held and the following were chosen: J. Wesley Johnson, A. D. Thompson, E. Fenton Haynes and R. C. Treadwell.

The meeting empowered the trustees to purchase a hymn and psalm indicator to be placed in the front of the church.

ELDERS AND DEACONS.

Officers Elected by the Crescent Avenue Presbyterians.

A business meeting of the Crescent Avenue church was held in the chapel last evening for the election of elders and deacons. The meeting was preceded by a brief devotional service.

The election resulted as follows: Elders, John Leal, A. J. Gavett, Stephen Cahoone, A. W. Duxberry, Silas Yerkes, Dr. E. W. Hedges. The first two were re-elected. The deacons were H. O. Newman and John Doull Miller. Mr. Newman was re-elected.

Trolley at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 14.—The trolley road is at last in sight as work will be resumed Monday and pushed with vigor until the road is completed. The injunction has not yet been raised, but undoubtedly will be within a few days. Lodging places for a large number of Italian laborers are being secured, and the Central has commenced the preliminaries for allowing the trolley to pass under its tracks betweed here and Raritan. The trolley company has deposited the required cash and bond with the Commissioners, and has accepted the ordinance as passed by that body.

Up-to-Date Views.

Among the pictures to be seen at Music Hall this evening at the entertainment of the Plainfield Camera Club will be that of the Fern passing Morro Castle with General Lee on board on his return to this country. There will also be views of Fort Morro and all the defences at Havana harbor. The exhibition promises to be the best of the kind ever given in this city. The present situation of national affairs makes the subject doubly interesting.

For Saturday Only.

The H-O Company, of New York, has arranged with a few enterprising grocers of this city to give a three-pound package of its Hominy to every purchaser of H-O Oatmeal. Saturday and Saturday only every lady who buys a package of H-O Oatmeal from her grocer will receive a three-pound package of the H-O Company's Hominy.

No Liquor at Pumptown.

Judge Woodbridge Strong has decided that wheelmen and others can get along very well without a tavern at Pumptown, on the road between Metuchen and Plainfield, and refused to grant a license to Madge E. Vail, who applied for one. The Court allowed Howard MacSherry to withdraw the application. Judge Strong stated that the probabilities are that there will be no need of a tavern at that place for some time to come and advised no one to apply for a license in the future.

WILL FIGHT PAYMENT OF TAXES BEFORE '80.

Citizens Affected by Martin Act Hold a Meeting.

A FORMIDABLE OPPOSITION.

A GENERAL FUND TO BE RAISED TO MAKE THE CONTEST WITH.

Lawyer W. R. Codington Has Been Engaged to Make the Legal Fight—Everyone Affected by the Report Will be Urged to Assist in the Contention to be Made—Mr. Codington Expressed the Opinion That No Back Taxes Prior to 1880 Could be Collected—Justice Nash Also Made Some Remarks About Taxes.

As a result of a meeting held in the rooms of the Board of Trade last evening, it now looks as though a formidable opposition will be made to enforcement of the findings of the Martin Act Commissioners. There was a good-sized number of interested citizens present and they voted unanimously to send Lawyer W. R. Codington to Elizabeth next Monday morning to have him, if possible, secure a postponement of the hearing. In the meatime, Lawyer H. C. Runyon will go to Elizabeth and make a copy of the names and the several amounts as shown in the report of the commissioners. Postal cards will then be sent to everyone interested asking them to attend a meeting at a later date when definite action will be taken to contest the work of the Commissioners.

The plan decided upon is that each person desiring to go in the fight shall contribute five per cent. of the amount he is assessed so that a sufficient amount can be secured to put the thing through. Eugene A. Laing, V. W. Nash and F. C. Lounsbury were appointed a committee to take charge of the matter and anyone desiring can call at the stores of Messrs. Laing and Nash or upon Mr. Lounsbury and they will have an opportunity of signing a petition which will be presented by Lawyer Codington to the Court.

There was no opposition to the proposed plan and it seemed to be the general opinion that so far as the innocent purchases of property are concerned, the Court will be willing to grant them their petition.

The meeting was called to order by F. C. Lounsbury, who stated the object of the meeting. H. C. Runyon was made chairman. Lawyer W. R. Codington rehearsed the acts of the city and the commissioners in their endeavors to collect the back taxes. He said that the citizens of Plainfield as a unit opposed the paying of taxes prior to 1880. The records were uncertain and there is a general feeling that they cannot be collected. In his opinion, in a large number of cases the findings of the commissioners had proved a hardship. Mr. Codington said that heretofore when persons called at the office of the collector to ascertain about the taxes prior to 1880 they were informed that no effort would be made to collect the amounts. He thought that it should be the first duty to find out whether the first amounts prior to 1880 are liens. He thought there would be no doubt about the Court granting a postponement.

V. W. Nash also made a few remarks. He said that the books prior to 1880 were found to be in such shape that the several amounts due to the city could not be figured out. When Mr. Nash was delinquent tax collector, he said it was often necessary for him to have the assessor go over his field book to learn about many cases. It was in some instances impossible to ascertain which was real and which was personal. Mr. Nash also spoke of the time when Mr. Clark was collector. He said that suits were commenced and discontinued because of the inaccuracy of the accounts. When he collected delinquent taxes he was given explicit instruction not to collect prior to 1880 as it was the general opinion that the amounts could not be collected. In view of all these facts it seemed to be unfair that the people should now be called upon to pay taxes prior to 1880.

Other remarks were made by Charles H. Hand, J. C. Pope, Eugene A. Laing and others. Each one was unanimous in the action decided upon by the meeting and at the next meeting the matter will take a more definite shape.

A THIRD ANNIVERSARY.

AUSPICIOUS CELEBRATION OF LUCETTA COUNCIL LAST NIGHT.

Varied Programme Rendered—Gifts Presented to Two State Officials—Patriotic Address by Lawyer Fred. Pope.

In honor of the third anniversary of Lucetta Council, No. 28, Daughters of Liberty, an entertainment and reception was given last evening in Washington Hall by the members. Prof. Guttman and his orchestra furnished music for the occasion, and after the entertainment dancing was indulged in and continued until a late hour.

Benjamin W. Hand had charge of the programme, and after an address of welcome he announced the several numbers thereon, which consisted of tenor solos by Alfred Springer; recitations by Miss Try Mattox; comicalities by Messrs. Rose and Melvin; cornet solo by Prof Guttman; songs by John Moran; stump speech, "Woman's Suffrage," J. Rose; vocal solos by Miss Mattie Howell, of Newark, and selections by Sousa Queen City Band, composed of the members of the Council.

In part second there was an address by Mrs. L. Irwin, State vice councilor, of Keyport; piano solo, Miss Ida Nichols, of Newark; mandolin solos, F. Davenport; comical selections by Messrs. Tod and Harrison; select readings, Mrs C. Andrews, of Newark; farce, "Trilby's Feet," Messrs. Davenport and Rose.

During the evening there was an address by State Councilor Mrs. C. Lippincott, of New Brunswick, and when she concluded her remarks Mr Hand, on behalf of Lucetta Council, presented her with a handsome toilet set. The State vice councilor, Mrs. Irwin, also received a similar present. The presents were gratefully received and accepted.

One of the main features of the evening was the patriotic address by Lawyer Frederick Pope, of Somerville. Mr. Pope is a talented young man, and his remarks concerning the present condition of the country and the trouble that threatens the dishonor of the American flag brought forth the wildest enthusiasm.

The committee in charge consisted of W. W. Stratton, F. Shattle, E. Whittenbert, Miss Try Mattox, Miss Carrie White, Mrs. S. E. Messler and Miss Dora Bennett.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Stelton, April 14.—A charming home wedding was held here yesterday afternoon, when John R. Manning and Miss Nettie C Morris, both of this place, were united in marriage before a happy gathering of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C Morris, parents of the bride. Rev. Mr. Cubberly, of South Plainfield, was the officiating clergyman, and he was assisted by Rev. Mr. Palmer, of Bound Brook.

The bride looked very beautiful in a gown of white satin. She carried white roses. She was given away by her father. Miss Jennie Morris, her sister, acted as bridemaid. She was gowned in light green silk and carried yellow roses. The best man was Frank R. Kellogg, of Plainfield. The ushers were Louis Walker, of Stelton, and Peter Clark, of Bound Brook.

There were 150 guests present at the marriage, including relatives and friends from New Brunswick, Plainfield, Bound Brook, New Market, Dunellen and New York. An informal reception followed the ceremony and all sat down to the wedding supper.

The newly-married couple left the house amid a shower of rice and drove to New Brunswick where they boarded the 5:05 train for a two weeks' stay at Lakewood, N. J. On their return they will take up their residence in New Brunswick, where Mr. Manning is employed.

FEAR HAS MASTERED HIS MIND TERRIBLY.

Samuel Baxter Driven Insane at Thought of Hydrophobia.

HE KNOCKED DOWN NURSE.

ESCAPED FROM THE HOSPITAL NAKED LAST NIGHT.

Was Bitten by a Dog Two Months Ago and Brooded Over the Wound—Friends Agitated Him by Discussing the Possible Results of Hydrophodia—Became Violent Last Night, Overpowered a Nurse and Escaped to the Yard Where He Snapped at the Police When They Captured Him.

Horrible thoughts, suggested by unthinking friends, obtained the mastery of the mind of Samuel Baxter so that last evening he broke away from the nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital and fled to the yard where he wandered about in an apparently crazed condition. He was finally captured by the police after a severe struggle and strapped to his cot.

Baxter lives at 1,444 South avenue. Two months ago he was bitten by a dog. Now Baxter had a horrible dread of hydrophobia. Although his wound was carefully cauterized by Dr. B. VanD. Hedges and there were no symptoms during the first six weeks, Baxter could not get the idea from his mind that he would suffer from that terrible malady. He returned to his duties with Pearson & Gayle, the carpenters and builders, but the thought still clung to him.

His friends unthinkingly added to his horror by constantly reminding him of it and showing him various clippings telling of people who had finally become victims to the dread trouble.

Monday night Baxter was taken with an illness that greatly frightened his family. They feared as well as he that hydrophobia was upon him. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where Dr. Hedges found him greatly exercised in mind but showing no other symptoms of the malady.

Despite the confident assurances of physicians and nurses, Baxter still allowed his mind to dwell on the subject until he was in great agony.

It was 11:30 o'clock last evening when a hurry call came to the police from Muhlenberg Hospital. They were told that the patient had suddenly become very violent.

One of the nurses had heard a noise in the room where Baxter lay and had gone in to investigate. She found Baxter cautiously disrobing. She attempted to place him in his cot again. The man defied her efforts, knocked her down an escaped into the hall.

The other patients became greatly alarmed at the invasion of the crazed man. Some tried to escape, others screamed and added to the general confusion. The janitor attempted to stop Baxter as he rushed down the hall, but Baxter jumped on him fiercely and threw him to the floor. Then he rushed forth into the open air in a nude condition.

Sergeant Kiely and Roundsman Frederickson hurried to the hospital at once on their bicycles. They found the strange figure wandering about the streets and the lawn to the hospital apparently in great agony. He ran about, then lay down on the grass to roll, or crouched against the side of the building. He appeared to be muttering to himself.

When the police officers came near, Baxter snapped at them and violently resisted their efforts to lead him back to the hospital ward from which he so precipitately had fled. His mind was apparently in a deranged state, for he could not talk coherently.

It was with difficulty that the officers carried him into the hospital. He was then strapped to his cot to prevent a repetition of his wanderings. A man was placed near to watch him.

FUN AT THE BOYS' CLUB.

Youngsters Enjoyed the Efforts of Those of Their Own Age.

Fun and lots of it was given to all that attended the Boys' Club entertainment at their clubhouse last evening. Mr. Saugstad made the welcoming speech, after which Billy Skinner sang an original song, causing the audience to roar with laughter. Then the "Three Merry Hoboes," represented by Richard Higgins, Clarence P. pe and Wilbert Bentiff, did a laughter provoking tramp sketch.

Master Joseph Higgins won hearty applause in his baton throwing act. The black art, as played by Richard Higgins, was far better than when it was played before. The entertainment closed with tumbling and a chase on the ladders by members of the club.

The success of the entertainment was due to the efforts of Mr. Saugstad who has carefully rehearsed the members who showed the success of his efforts by their very creditable work.

SOMERSET WAS NOT READY.

So the Formal Organization Was Postponed.

Somerville, April 14.—A meeting was held in the parlors of the Somerset House last evening to take formal steps for the organization of the trotting association which is being planned by the horse owners of Somerset, Union, Middlesex and Hunterdon counties. Owing to the fact that the delegations from Somerset and Hunterdon counties had not yet completed their guarantees no action was taken, and the meeting adjourned until Tuesday evening, when it will convene at Bound Brook.

PLEDGED FIDELITY FOR THEIR LIVES.

Johnson - Clark Nuptials in Crescent Avenue Chhrch.

A FASHIONABLE CEREMONY

JOINED IN WEDLOCK AS THE SUN WAS SETTING.

The Ceremony Performed by Rev. W. R. Richards at the Altar Surrounded by Beautiful Floral Decorations and Witnessed by a Large Audience of Friends and Admirers of the Couple—Reception Held Afterwards at the Home of Bride's Parents—Costly Presents Received—Guests at the Reception

The designs of coy Dan Cupid were consummated in a most happy manner last evening when among an admiring assemblage of relatives and friends, Miss Bertha McCullough Clark daughter of Mr. and Mrs E. B. Clark, of this city, became the bride of Samuel Portor Williams, of Hartford, Conn.

The Crescent Avenue church, where the ceremony took place, presented a beautiful appearance. The pulpit platform and the surrounding floor space were burdened with floral decorations of superb beauty. The only blossoms visible were those of Easter lilies, which were arranged with profusion on and about the platform. These were supplemented with palms of various varieties and trailing vines in which smilax predominated. The floor about the front of the church was carpeted in white, giving an added beauty to the effect.

The large concourse of friends and relatives gathered before 6 o'clock, which was the hour set for the ceremony. The members of the immediate families of the bride and groom were seated in special seats at the front of the church.

At 6 o'clock the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march pealed from the big organ and amid a pause of expectancy the bridal party entered the church. The bride came first, leaning upon the arm of her father. She presented a charming picture, attired in white satin with pearl trimmings and duchess and white lace. In her hand she carried a cluster of Easter lilies.

The maid of honor was Miss Helen Clark, a sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Marion Williams, Miss Gertrude Haviland, Miss Mary Shreve, Miss Marion Henderson, Miss Mary Bushnell, of this city, and Miss Sarah Homer, of Chicago. The maid of honor and the bridesmaids were attired in white organdie over white silk, and carried bunches of Easter lilies.

The party moved up the aisle to the pulpit, where it was met by the groom and his best man, Philip Williams. The different members of the party took their proper places, while the bride and groom standing in front of a small railing of white, surrounded by flowers, plighted their troth.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. R. Richards, D. D., the pastor of the church, who uttered in impressive manner the words which united the couple. The bride was given away by her father.

The ushers were Sheldon Catlin, of New York; Wm. Hooker, of Hartford; Frank Lisle, of Rochester; Howard Foster, of New York; Frank Frost, of Plainfield, and Irving Clark, a brother of the bride. The picture presented by the bridal party was a particularly pretty one, not to be forgotten soon by those who witnessed it. At the conclusion of the ceremony the party, preceded by the bride and groom, left the church and were driven to the home of the bride's prrents, at 131 Crescent avenue.

A reception to the relatives and immediate friends followed at the home of the bride's parents on Crescent avenue. The house was beautifully decorated with southern smilax Easter lilies, pink and white roses, pink carnations and palms. The decorations were very handsome. A wedding supper was served in the dining room. There were a hundred and fifty guests present at the reception.

Among those present at the reception from out of town were the Misses Clark, Mrs. W. J. Clark, Mrs. W. J. Clark, Jr., Miss Bessie Clark, Lawrence Clark and Mrs. A. Homer, of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Lukens, Carl Delacour, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Clark, the Messrs. Clark, of Conshohocken, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Williams and Dr. J. W. Harper, of Hartford, Conn., Mrs. J. W. Ball, Miss Bull, Harcourt Bull, of Springfield, Mass., Charles Homer, of Beverley, N. J., Miss Farnham, of Sing Sing and Miss McCracken, of

CUBAN WAR MUST STOP

House Adopts the Foreign Relations Committe's Report.

THE VOTE WAS 322 TO 19

Riotous Scenes in the House During the Discussion—Bailey Objected to Immediate Consideration and Riot and Confusion Followed, the Lie Passed, Books Thrown and Fists Used at Close Quarters.

Washington, April 14.—The House, at 6.30 o'clock last evening, passed the resolution reported by the Foreign Affairs Committee, directing the President to intervene in Cuba to stop the war there and to use the army and navy of the United States in so doing.

The vote was 322 to 19. The resolution now goes to the Senate. It reads as follows:

"Whereas, The Government of Spain for three years past has been waging war on the island of Cuba against a revolution by the inhabitants thereof without making any substantial progress toward the suppression of said revolution, and has conducted the warfare in a manner contrary to the laws of nations by methods inhuman and uncivilized, causing the death by starvation of more than 200,000 innocent non-combatants, the victims being for the most part helpless women and children, inflicting intolerable injury to the commercial interests of the United States, involving destruction of the lives and property of many of our citizens, entailing the expenditure of millions of money in patrolling our coast and policing the high seas in order to maintain our neutrality; and, whereas, this long series of losses, injuries and murders for which Spain is responsible has culminated in the destruction of the United States battleship Maine in the harbor of Havana and in the death of 266 of our seamen;

"Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the President is hereby authorized and directed to intervene at once to stop the war in Cuba to the end and with the purpose of securing permanent peace and order there and establishing by the free action of the people thereof a stable and independent government of their own in the island of Cuba, and the President is hereby authorized and empowered to use the land and naval forces of the United States to execute the purpose of this resolution."

The resolution reported by the minority of the committee providing for the recognition of the Republic of Cuba, was defeated by a vote of 191 to 150.

SESSION A LIVELY ONE.

Republicans and Democrats Disagreed as to Debate and Came to Blows.

Washington, April 14.—Mr. Adams presented the resolution of the majority of the Committee on Foreign Affairs at 3.02 o'clock yesterday afternoon, amid perfect silence, and asked unanimous consent for immediate consideration.

The recital of the preamble and resolutions was received with loud applause. Pending an effort to get unanimous consent a violent outbreak occurred, the most sensational in years.

Mr. Bailey, reserving the right to object, endeavored to secure the right for Mr. Berry to present the views of the minority, stating that consent would depend upon whether or not a satisfactory arrangement could be made for debate.

Several voices: "No debate!"

Mr. Bailey continued to explain, when he was interrupted by Mr. Quigg with a demand for the regular order.

Mr. Bailey said he would object then, and the Speaker announced that there was objection. Immediately a wild tumult arose, Gen. Henderson asserting that an agreement had been reached regarding the matter of debate, which Mr. Barry of Kentucky denied.

Mr. Richardson shouted that the action of the Republicans was intended to secure political advantage and was a political trick.

The tumult increased, and Messrs. Brumm and Miers engaged in a violent controversy about something, the tenor of which could not be determined in the noise and uproar.

A copy of the manual and rules was thrown into the melee, striking Mr. Brumm, who started for the Democratic seats. Mr. Gaines jumped on the desks to reach for the Pennsylvanian, but no actual conflict occurred.

The occupants of the floor and the galleries were in a state of wild excitement, shouting and hissing, drowning the voices of those who were facing the mace, which the Sergeant-at-Arms was trying to get immediately before the combatants. By persistent pounding of the gaval and threatening to clear the galleries the Speaker was able in the course of ten or fifteen minutes to get something like order.

A parliamentary struggle ensued over the propostion to read the resolutions of the minority. For this, unanimous consent was asked by Mr. Dingley of Maine, and an effort was made to have the views of the minority in support of the resolutions also read, but this failed. The resolutions were read.

After the excitement was over it was learned that Mr. Martin was the man who atempted to knock Brumm down by throwing at his head a bound volume of the Constitution of the United States and a manual of parliamentary procedure.

His aim was poor, however, and he missed Brumm's head. This was the nearest approach to an actual encounter in Congress since Money of Mississippi, then a Representative and now a Senator, and Hall, a Republican from Missouri, in the Fifty-third Congress indulged in the famous battle of the inkstands in the room of the Committee on Naval Affairs.

In a few minutes the Committee on Rules returned with an order, which Gen. Henderson reported, for the consideration of the resolutions of the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

It provided no time for closing debate. In stating this fact Gen. Henderson said the overwhelming sentiment of the Republicans was that the time had come for action and not for talk. The question had been discussed everywhere, and the people of the country were satisfied that, sad as it was, the Government must intervene.

Mr. Bailey said that himself and associates approved the order for immediate consideration of the resolutions. He reviewed the circumstances which necessitated the reporting of the rule, and said that it was not his intention to object to the consideration of the resolutions. He referred to the previous scene in the House as more nearly a disgrace to the American Congress than any other he had ever witnessed.

The Republicans jeered and groaned during his explanation. Mr. Bailey said he would not disgrace himself by noticing such behavior.

"Call the roll," he cried, amid tumultuous applause from his side and cries of "vote" from the Republican side.

Mr. Henderson then demanded the previous question on the adoption of the order. The House rose en masse and the demand was carried—290 to 0.

The rule was then adopted without division and the resolutions of the committee on foreign affairs were presented by Mr. Adams.

The substitute resolutions offered by the minority were also read as follows:

"Resolved, That the United States Government hereby recognizes the independence of the Republic of Cuba.

"Second, That, moved thereto by many considerations of humanity, of interest and of provocation, among which are the deliberate mooring of our battleship, the Maine, over a submarine mine, and its destruction in the harbor of Havana, the President of the United States be, and is hereby directed to employ immediately the land and naval forces of the United States in aiding the Republic of Cuba to maintain the independence hereby recognized.

"Third, That the President of the United States is hereby authorized and directed to extend immediate relief to the starving people of Cuba."

The previous question was ordered by a strict party vote—183 to 129. This allowed twenty minutes for debate.

FLYING SQUADRON SAILS.

Washington Officers Say Vessels Are Simply Going to Sea for Practice.

Washington, April 14.—Commodore Schley's flying squadron sailed from Hampton Roads yesterday afternoon under orders of the Navy Department. There is nothing startling or significant in the movement. The big ships are merely going out to engage in some evolutions, and will be back in Hampton Roads, according to the best information obtainable at the Navy Yard, some time to-day.

On account of the uncertainty involving the relations of the United States and Spain the squadron has been kept at anchor awaiting news from Washington. Now, however, that a probability of a resort to arms has been postponed until Congress acts, the Navy Department believes that the squadron can spend twenty-four hours out of communication with Washington without endangering American interests or its stategical worth. Squadron manoeuvres are much needed by the vessels of the squadron. They have not had the opportunity of such practice.

THE POPE STILL FOR PEACE.

Has Telegraphed Emperor of Austria Begging Him to Use His Influence to Prevent War.

London, April 14.—A dispatch from Rome announces that the Pope has again telegraphed to Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, begging him to use his inhuence with the other sovereigns in behalf of peace between the United States and Spain.

A Swiss Proposal.

Berne, Switzerland, April 14.—The National Council has suggested that the Bundesrath consider whether it could not offer to mediate between the United States and Spain. The question will be considered to-day, but it will doubtless be rejected.

Diphtheria Appears Among the Reserves.

League Island Navy Yord, Philadelphia, April 14.—An enemy more dreaded than any torpedo boat or warship that Spain might send here made its appearance yesterday and has been a damper to the spirits of every one in the navy yard. Diphtheria has broken out on the Nahant. The full significance of the outbreak has not been appreciated by the men in the yard, for few of them know of it. Amang the officers, however, it has created much excitement. The Nahant is at the present time theonly one of the monitors in the yard which is in condition to go to sea.

To-day it was confidently expected she would get under way, but she is now tied up at the long dock with the Lehigh astern.

Spain Preparing to Fight.

Washington, April 14.—Information has reached here showing that the Spanish Government is making extraordinary efforts to obtain all the munitions of war possible. She recently gave to one of the most prominent English firms unlimited orders for all the munitions of war it could deliver up to the 1st of May.

The Alaska Liquor Law.

Washington, April 14.—Secretary Gage has sent a statement to the Senate in which he says that notwithstanding the efforts of the department, the liquor law in Alaska is openly violated. The Secretary says that it is impossible to enforce the present law against the existing public sentiment.

Tennessee Militia Is Ready.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 41.—The militia is ready to move on three hours' notice. Tennessee will furnish between 3,000 and 4,000 militia if necessary. The omcers expect that this State will be among the first to be called upon, and the mobilization will be at Chickamauga.

RESENTED BY SPAIN

Cabinet Will Not Admit of Intervention by America.

PREPARING FOR DEEENSE

No Action Will Be Taken, However, Until the Resolutions of Congress or the Initiative of President McKinley Leads to "Concrete Acts"—To Draw Up an Address to the Crown.

Madrid, April 14.—The situation is regarded to-day on all sides, even, apparently by the United States Minister, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, as being most serious.

Advices just received from Carthagena confirm the report that the United States Consul and the United States Vice-Consul at that port, both of whom are natives of Spain, have resigned.

As the result of a long important Cabinet council Tuesday night, the Spanish War Office is actively engaged in fortifying and manning the Mediterranean island of Spain and in placing other portions of the kingdom in a state of defense.

It is understood that instructions have been cabled Captain-General Blanco to carry the suspension of hostilities into practical effect, "according to the circumstances in each district."

The Cabinet meeting lasted five hours and, it is said, was mainly devoted to the consideration of President McKinley's recent message to Congress on the Cuban situation.

Official Note Issued.

When the Ministers adjourned an official note was issued, setting forth the views of the Government. It is variously commented upon and interpreted in newspaper circles.

In brief, the note sets forth that the Cabinet has granted an extraordinary credit for war purposes, and has incidentally increased the grant for the account of the artillery of Porto Rico.

After disposing of current affairs, the Premier, Senor Sagasta, designated two of the Ministers to immediately draw up an address to the Crown.

Senor Gullon read a portion of the text of President McKinley's message. Although several paragraphs were lacking, the Cabinet, after referring to the President's previous messages, which was considered necessary in order to fill up the gaps in the present summary, decided that the paragraphs received were sufficient for the Cabinet to affirm that the Government refuses to acknowledge the right of the United States to interfere in Cuba, adding:

"The doctrines contained in the message are incompatible with the sovereignty and rights of the nation, and are an interference in the international affairs of this country."

The Spanish Government, however, expressed the opinion that it is not called upon to take action until the recommendations of President McKinley have become specific acts. Thus, it is considered by the Spaniards here that matters are practically as they were before the message was sent to Congress, and the opinion is expressed in official circles that neither the message nor last night's Cabinet meeting has changed the prospects of peace.

No Action Yet.

The Spanish Government considers that, apart from its solemn affirmation of Spain's rights as a nation, the Ministers are not called upon to make any declaration so long as the resolutions of Congress or the initiative of President McKinley do not lead to concrete acts.

The official note also says: "A firm consciousness of its rights, united with the resolution to maintain them, will inspire the nation, as they inspired the Government, with the serenity necessary in these difficult moments to direct successfully and defend energetically the sacred interests which are the patrimony of the Spanish race."

Cabinet Was Unanimous.

London, April 14.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing at 5 o'clock last evening, says:

"Lieutenant-General Correa, Minister of War, and Count Xiquena, Minister of Public Works, both told me in conversation this afternoon that the Government was firmly resolved to repel every attack, direct or indirect, on the sovereignty of Spain in Cuba. They said, also, that they were sure this line of conduct on the part of Spain would certainly be supported by the European powers, more especially because the negotiations were based on a acknowledgement of Spanish sovereignty in Cuba.

"They told me that the conduct of Spain would be adjusted to that of the United States, and that, in fact of the fact of the continuation of military and naval preparations in the United States, Spain was fully justified in carrying on her preparations. Finally the Ministers said to me: 'Our resolution at the Cabinet Council was taken unanimously, and we shall maintain it with all the necessary energy.'"

WHAT SAGASTA SAYS.

He Thinks McKinley's Message to Deplorable.

Madrid, April 14.—Senor Sagasta in an interview yesterday said: "I consider President McKinley's message deplorable. I think it was forced upon him by the clamor of Congress, which took advantage of his weakness. I believe that Mr. McKinley himself wished to considerably modify the message, but some adviser dissuaded him from doing so.

"The duration of the Cuban armistice depends upon the conduct of the insurgents and the attitude of the United States. The Spanish Minister at Washington has been instructed to present to the American Government a further memorandum through Secretary Sherman."

Premier Sagasta considered that Congress was likely to confer upon the President the powers he asked. With regard to further intervention through the friendly efforts of the powers Senor Sagasta said: "They cannot do any more than they have already done without running the risk of having their friendly counsel regarded as an imposition."

The American people shall have no need of the CHINAMAN in the future if every American Laundryman will supply the proper kind of work. Try us and be convinced that we are up to date, and that you would rather have AMERICANS by all odds to serve you. Think of the terrible odor that comes from a Chinese Laundry, and yet one half of the people don't know what causes it. Here it is in a Nut Shell. Could you for instance turn out first-class laundry in a room 12x20 where there is three or four living. Think of your laundry in a place of this kind, where they do cooking, smoke their opium and also sleep in same apartment. And stil what is more horrible is that all your clothes are sprinkled from the mouth. Think twice before you speak and have an American citizen to do your laundry by all odds.

Noticed This Before.

You Probably Have and May Have Spoken About It.

The reader of this newspaper, if he takes the time and trouble to look carefully through its columns, will probably find half a dozen statements attached to the foot of reading notices about medicinal preparations. Note this fact. In each and every case, as far as Plainfield is concerned; as far as the reader's knowledge of the party is concerned; he might just as well live in the moon. Make another note of this. The only remedy on the market which gives testimony at home, local proof in every town and city in the Union, to back up its claims, is Doan's Kidney Pills. They all try it, but they cannot do it. Why they are unable to do it can safely be left with the reader to draw his own conclusions. Here is Plainfield proof for Plainfield readers:

Mr. Charles Giese, Cigar Manufacturer, of 25 Elm Place, says: "I have been subject to attacks of kidney complaint for the last 2 or 3 years. Most of the pain was in my back and hips and I could not stoop or straighen up without feeling sharp, shooting twinges. When I sat for any length of time I grew stiff and sore and was compelled to get up and move about. Last spring I grew so bad I had to do something for it. I had read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills being such a good medicine for kidney troubles so I got a box of them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I used them according to directions and after 2 or 3 days I felt better I continued their use until the pain disappeared and I am only too glad to be able to testify to the fact, that Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy."

CUBAN INDEPENDENCE

Resolutions Direct the President to Stop the War at Once.

LAID OVER IN THE SENATE

The Majority Report Holds Spain Officially Responsible for the Maine Disaster, and Scores Her Conduct of the War in Cuba—Foraker Addresses the Senate on Cuban Situation After Resolutions Are Laid Over.

Washington, April 14.—Senator Davis, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported the following resolution to the Senate yesterday afternoon, which, on a point of order, with majority and minority reports, went over till to-day:

"Whereas, The abhorrent conditions which have existed for more than three years in the island of Cuba, so near our own borders, have shocked the moral sense of the people of the United States, have been a disgrace to Christian civilization, culminating as they have in the destruction of a United States battleship with 266 of its officers and crew, while on a friendly visit in the harbor of Havana, and cannot longer be endured, as has been set forth by the President of the United States in his message to Congress on April 11, 1898, upon which the action of Congress was invited; therefore,

Resolved, First, That the people of the island of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent.

Second, That, it is the duty of the United States to demand, and the Government of the United States does hereby demand, that the Government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters.

Third, That the President of the United States be and he hereby is directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States and to call into the actual service of the United States the militia of the several States, to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect."

Majority and minority reports accompanied the resolution. The minority report, which recognizes the independence of the republic of Cuba, was signed by Senators Foraker, Turpie, Mills and Daniel. It reads as follows:

"The undersigned members of the Committee on Foreign Relations cordially concur in the report made upon the Cuban resolutions, but we favor the immediate recognition of the republic of Cuba as organized in that island, as a free, independent and sovereign power among the nations of the world."

On a point of order by Senator Hoar resolutions and report went over to today.

The report gave a very thorough review of the entire situation, and a strong presentation of the facts which have led the committee to its conclusions. The report takes up the Maine disaster, the leading topic for consideration, and plunges into that question in its first sentence, which is as follows:

"The destruction of the United States battleship Maine, of two of her officers and of 264 of her crew, in the harbor of Havana, on the night of February 15, 1898, excited to an unprecedented degree the compassion and resentment of the American people."

Continuing, the report says:

"Manifestations of that resentment were suspended, although the feeling was not allayed, by the self-restraint of our people, who determined to hold their judgment in suspense concerning their ultimate action until an official investigation should disclose the cause of that great disaster and enable them by direct or circumstantial testimony to impute the responsibility therefor.

Its Official Cause.

"That investigation has been made. It was conducted with judicial thoroughness and deliberation. The difficulty of demonstrating by conclusive proof the efficient personal cause of that sinister event was the usual one of exposing plotted and mysterious crimes. No such difficulty, however, obscured its official and responsible cause."

The committee say that the explosion itself of the Maine was linked with a series of precedent transactions, "which cannot in reason be disconnected from it."

"With animus by Spain so plainly apparent that no one can even plausibly deny its existence, it is merely one reason for the conclusion to which the investigating subject of the relations of the United States with that government.

Spain Officially Responsible.

"It is the opinion of your committee that the destruction of the Maine was compassed either by the official act of these Spanish authorities or was made possible by a negligence on their part so willing and gross as to be equivalent in culpability to positive criminal action."

"When property and life are destroyed by an act which the exercise of due diligence by the person whose duty it is to use it could have prevented the happening of such an event is sufficient proof that the diligence was not employed."

"The time of the explosions," says the report, "must have been calculated for the moment when the Maine should swing within the destructive radius of the mine."

Concluding this portion of its presentation, the committee says:

"The duplicity, perfidy and cruelty of the Spanish character, as they always have been, are demonstrated still to continue by their manifestations during the present war in Cuba. All these circumstances considered cumulatively, warrant the conclusion that the destruction of the Maine was compassed either by the official act of the Spanish authorities (and the ascertainment of the particular person is not material), or was made possible by a negligence on their part so willing and gross as to be equivalent in culpability to positive criminal action."

In taking up the moral general subjects the committee expresses the opinion that "the United States ought at once to recognize the independence of the people of Cuba and also ought to intervene to the end that the war and its unexampled atrocities shall cease, and that such independence shall become a settled political fact at the earliest possible moment by the establishment by the free action of the people of Cuba when such action can be had of a government independent in fact and form."

The committee asserts that the cause of Spain has continually grown weaker, while the cause of the insurgents has grown stronger, and says that the few reinforcements now being sent to Cuba do not supply a tithe of Spain's losses caused by battle and disease. The western portion of the island is spoken of as a desolation created by Spain, in which portion of the island alone she exercises a sovereignty.

Calling attention to the policy of Spain, the committee says that over two hundred thousand persons have have been killed as a result of this action, and adds:

"There has been no distinction of sex or age in this protracted and torturing massacre. The children of this generation have been starved to death, and the immolation of womanhood has destroyed the possibility of posterity."

Intervention Justified.

On the subject of intervention the committee says:

"Justification for intervention is strengthened in such cases as the present, where the oppressions by a state of its subjects have been so inveterate, atrocious and sanguinary as to require intervention by other nations in the interests of humanity and the peace of the world, for the purpose of overthrowing that government and establishing or recognizing another in its place as the only means of extirpating an otherwise incurable and dangerous evil."

"Further justification for intervention in the present case is found in the fact that it is the only means of extirpating an otherwise incurable and dangerous evil. The conduct of the European powers respecting Turkey has been pursuant to the policy which impels one nation to intervene in the affairs of another state to stop cruelty and massacre, and, if necessary, to depose it from sovereignty. The fact that Spain is a Christian state does not give her greater warrant to exterminate her subjects than Mohammedan Turkey possessed to extirpate hers.

After the report was read the Vice-President sustained a point of order that the resolution should lie over until to-day. This, however, did not prevent discussion.

Foraker's Speech.

Senator Foraker then announced that he desired to speak on the subject, and he was recognized and began at once. He carefully reviewed and analyzed the resolutions presented by the committee. He said a scrutiny of the resolutions would reveal the fact that there was a difference of opinion between the President and the committee. He said he had signed the report of the minority of the committee for the recognition of the Cuban Republic, and "I stand here to defend it."

Mr. Foraker said while there were differences of opinion in the committee, all were agreed that the Cuban people should have freedom and independence. He said the committee had differed from the President because it believed the time for action had come. They had grave doubts as to the rights to confer on the President the war-making power which was contingent upon complying with the President's request.

All these things being true, the United States has the right to intervene, and would perform a duty in so doing. The resolution to be passed here, declared Mr. Foraker, would force Spain either to abdicate the island of Cuba or give battle. If Spain should resort to the arbitrament of the sword, then he had no doubt the United States would prosecute the war to a successful and triumphant conclusion.

LINERS TO BE CRUISERS.

The Government Will Take the St. Louis and the St. Paul.

Washington, April 14.—The Navy Department has decided to buy the transatlantic liners St. Paul and St. Louis. The vessels belong to the American line and, under the terms of the Subsidy act, are at the disposal of the Government in times of emergency. The department also has decided to purchase the Brazilian cruiser Nictheroy, if she proves satisfactory to a board of inspection, which will examine her. This cruiser rendered a fine account of herself in the Mello revolution in Brazil.

There is also under consideration the purchase of another auxiliary cruiser from a list of three or four whose merits are known, the Yorktown of the Old Dominion Line being especially well regarded.

The St. Paul, in command of Capt. Jamison, sailed from Southampton April 9 for New York, and is due at that port to-morrow. The St. Louis, in command of Capt. Randle, arrived at Southampton yesterday from New York, and, if she returns according to the schedule of the American Line, will sail from Southampton next Saturday.

Are you in constant fear he will be ill?

Then give him more flesh. Give him more power to resist disease. He certainly needs a fat-forming food.

THE LOCAL ELECTIONS.

Outside of Elizabeth the Democrats won distinctive victories in the principal New Jersey cities that held municipal elections Tuesday last, and even in the Union county metropolis the results were partially in favor of the Democrats. As the Mayoralty candidate Frederick C. Marsh was sacrificed at the polls by the Elizabeth Democrats through the bickering in their own ranks. A balm for the defeat of their chief candidate, however, is afforded Democrats in the success of their candidate for the next highest city office, the president of the Common Council, which was captured by P. J. Ryan.

In Newark, New Brunswick, Trenton and Hoboken the Republicans were easily bested, a strengthening result throughout the State for the Democratic party which has lately been in sore straits in its one-time stronghold.

In the campaign which preceded the election not a reference was made at any time to National affairs as having a bearing to influence voters either one way or the other, the issues being purely local and different in each of the municipalities. Now, however, since the Democrats gained a general victory, several metropolitan journals are doing their best to attribute the result to the McKinley policy in the Spanish-American crisis. Such expressions are nothing more nor less than flapdoodle.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

The Christian Endeavor, Epworth League and current Sunday-school lesson columns, all regular features of The Press every Friday, are printed on page 7 today, owing to the heavy advertising which will crowd the columns of paper tomorrow. The weekly installment of Catholic news is also printed today on the same page, so that the good people of Plainfield will find a wealth of topics in the religious realm in The Press today. While speaking of the special features of The Press, it is opportune to mention the fact that since the enlargement of the paper and the addition to the quota of reading, selected with particular respect to the inclinations of the local public, the paper has been complimented on all sides for its improvements and new unsolicited subscribers have been added to the list in sufficient numbers to prove that the enlargement is appreciated.

THE CITY PARK.

These balmy days and evenings urge on one's mind the promise of the Woman's Town Improvement Association to provide Plainfield with a really creditable public recreation place at the City Park, a title for which many years was a misnomer—a waste of land covered with rank weeds and an eyesore to the residential elysium of which it was a disgraceful part. Carpeted with a fine lawn, shaded with spreading oaks and chestnuts, and dotted here and there with comfortable resting places, it will be a point to which love-lorn couples, crusty bachelors, frolicsome youths and sedate husbands and wives will wander to loll in the summer breezes that will be wafted over from the rugged Watchung spur. Indeed, it will be a delightful resort for all classes of people, and a glorious monument to the progress and worthiness of the women to whom its improvement will be due.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

As Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt has ample opportunity for the display of the qualities that have made him widely known. He has been untiring in the work of preparing our fleet to meet any emergency that may arise out of the Spanish-Cuban trouble.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Seven counties elect State Senators next fall—Atlantic, Bergen, Cumberland, Hudson, Mercer, Morris and Ocean. As nine Republicans and five Democrats hold over, the Republicans need elect only two to control the Senate, while it will be necessary for the Democrats to carry six of the vacant seats. From this it appears certain that the next Senate is sure to be Republican, and the chief fight will be on the Assembly. Whichever side has the eleven votes from Essex county will probably direct the operations of the lower house.—Tribune.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

The Daily Press has just received a postal card from way up in the Klondike region from a party of Plainfielders who started from here many weeks ago bound for the newly-discovered gold mines. The party are C. F. Smith, Wm. D. Doolittle and Wm. C. Wolfe. The last writes from Edmonton, Alberta, and says: "We are on the way to the gold fields by the Edmonton route and we will take horses for the trip. I would say to everyone that is going to the gold fields, that is, if he is going by the Edmonton route, not to get everything in New York, as the price is the same here."

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Daniel R Ryan and his excellent company, including Miss Ethel Fuller, will be at Music Hall all next week in a repertoire of the latest New York successes. Mr. Ryan's repertoire for the week is as follows: Monday evening, Louis Aldrich's laughing comedy "The Editor;" Tuesday, Charles Frohman's New York success, "The Lost Paradise;" Wednesday, "The Fatal Wedding;" Thursday, A. M. Palmer's "Jim the Penman;" Friday, "Ingomar", and Saturday "The Circus Girl." Seats are now on sale at the box office and the prices are 10, 20 and 30 cents. There will positively be no free tickets of any kind given out for Monday evening nor will "The Editor" be repeated during the week. A pleasing feature of every performance is a number of high class specialties between the acts. Matinees will be given Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Matinee prices 10 and 20 cents.

In thorough accord with the glad spirit of Easter time is "Way Down East," the positive and artistic success which has brought the Manhattan into commanding prominence as one of New York's most popular and profitable playhouses. Its fame has extended throughout the entire country and W. A. Brady is overwhelmed with offers for its representation in the best theatres next season. "House Full" is placarded with clockwork regularity and hot weather alone can terminate the New York run. All sorts and conditions of people find the sympathetic and rural play restful, refreshing and entertaining. Its sweet and wholesome atmosphere, tender pathos, rollicking rustic humor, and all pervading realism of pictorial embellishment, combine to make it a play for the people that commands the endorsement of clergy and laymen, agnostic and true believer.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, April 14.—George Shick, sergeant of the local military company and village barber, returned from Bordentown last evening with a wife. The boys about town found it out and arranged a serenade which was kept up about all night, much to the annoyance of the neighbors, one of whom is quite ill. The sergeant and his wife have the best wishes of all for a happy life.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, April 13.—Certain residents living on South avenue are at present stirred to a degree of anger over the recent action of one of their townsmen, Luther M. Whitaker, one of the aspirants for position of postmaster of Westfield. Mr. Whitaker owns some property on South avenue near Westfield avenue, a piece of which he has leased to the Cranford Gas Company who are about to locate their pipes through the township. The one hundred or so Italians who will be employed to lay the pipes will have to be housed temporarily, and yesterday the gas company erected a shanty on the ground. The shanty is only a short distance from some very nice houses and property, and the residents have already pictured in their minds the condition of affairs as they will no doubt exist. Italians living in such places do not always observe proper decorum and they are liable to do all sorts of things. It is for this reason that the residents in the neighborhood went to the members of the Board of Health yesterday and complained about the place as a nuisance. It is possible that the Board will take action and cause to have removed the undesirable shanty and its inhabitants.

It is reported that the Central Railroad Company is having plans perfected for lowering the grade of Broad street at its intersection with the company's tracks, so that it will pass under the railroad. For several years the citizens of the township have been petitioning the railroad officials to abolish the grade crossings, but the necessary expense involved in the execution of the work has caused it to be delayed from year to year. The growth of the township within the last few years, however, has rendered the change a necessity.

The newly elected officers of the Westfield Club are as follows: William J. Bogart, president; Lawrence Bastable, vice-president; Frank S. Smith, treasurer; C. D. Orth, recording secretary; H. S. Waldron, corresponding secretary; trustees, John Ris, H. C. Sergeant, George H. Hoyt and George McCay.

The death of Mrs. John Kane, of Westfield, occurred last Tuesday evening after a long illness. The deceased was about 70 years old and well known in Westfield and this city. The funeral services will be held at St. Mary's church, Plainfield, tomorrow morning. Interment will be in the Catholic cemetery.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church held its regular monthly meeting in the lecture room this afternoon. Tea will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Braiding in vermicelli, French arabesque, Greek key, trefoil, clover, floral, and purely conventional devices, appears on many of the very stylish imported costumes, redingotes, jackets, and small pelerines just brought to view; and the new effects produced by this graceful form of decoration arouse quite as great a degree of admiration as if this were the initial season of its vogue.

Net and tulle gowns are again with us and very dressy garments they make for theater and reception wear. The dainty dress here pictured is of black tulle ornamented with black lace applique and mounted on a white satin foundation. The plain bodice is covered with tulle to match. The long transparent sleeves are shirred and trimmed with full epaulettes at the top.

The hat to accompany this gown is of black basket straw turned up slightly on the left side and trimmed with tulle and violets, a black ostrich plume on the side. The newest shape in hats this season will be the "Shepherdess," with the drooping brim back and front, and will be the form most in use by those who can wear it.

In Dotted Challie.

A simple and becoming blouse for home wear is of cadet blue dotted challie. This waist is made over a fitted lining. The front edge is turned in and slip stitched to edge of lining, which hooks invisibly, then on to the right side the revers is joined. The revers is of the material, trimmed with three rows of lace. Tight fitting sleeve with a small puff at the top. Ceinture any collar of cadet blue velvet.

While the real Russian blouse is now a thing of the past, the pouched effect in front will long remain with us. The blouses may be worn with or without the basque, but the belt is universal and will be seen with all styles of waists.

Crepe de Chine Evening Waist.

The draped bodice with the material draped across the front in soft folds on one side, is seen again, and whether the back is full or plain it has no seams except the one under the arm.

An effective model is of steel blue taffeta with yoke and sleeves of silk crepe de chine. The draped material is finished at the edge with a ruffle of black velvet, headed by a large velvet rosette. The shirred sleeves of crepe de chine have epaulettes of the material at the shoulder, edged with black velvet, velvet also outlining the yoke, and finishing, the collar, belt and sleeves.

The dainty hat worn with the corsage was of yellow straw, slightly dipped on the right side, while a rosette of black velvet rested on the hair on the left. The crown was of mirror velvet, and a bunch of violets and an aigrette completed the trimming.

Where the Great Plagues Come From.

There are three places in the world to which the great plagues of cholera and kindred epidemics that have swept over the world may always be traced. These are Hurduar in India, Mecca in Arabia, and Nijni-Novgorod in Russia. Hurduar and Mecca are the meeting-places of thousands of pilgrims every year, whilst Nijni-Novgorod is famous for its annual fair.

A Mouth Wash.

Half an ounce of salts of tartar, four ounces of honey aug. opt., thirty drops of oil of peppermint, thirty drops of oil of wintergreen, two ounces of spirits of wine, ten ounces of triple rose water, sufficient liquid cochineal to color. Mix well. To be used morning and evening.

Hot Milk as a Stimulant.

When overcome by bodily fatigue, or exhausted by brain labor, no stimulant, so called, serves so well the purpose of refreshment and rest, both bodily and mentally, as milk. When heated as hot as one can readily take it, it may be sipped slowly from a tumbler, and as it is easily digested, one feels very soon its beneficial effects. Few persons realize the stimulating qualities of this simple beverage.

German soldiers each carry a four-ounce religious book with the rest of their personal equipment.

According to a Swiss physician, a symmetrically worn heel and sole indicate an energetic, faithful, well balanced character.

A Valuable Coin.

It is generally believed amongst French people that there is a five-franc piece still in circulation which is worth 100,000 francs, which is equivalent to $20,000. The story of this valuable coin is, that the Emperor Napoleon the First finding that a new issue of five-franc pieces, which he had ordered to be coined, was by no means popular with the people, made it known that in one of the coins of this issue he had caused an assignment for 100,000 francs to be hidden, and afterwards had had this particular piece reminted so that it should be undistinguishable from the rest. The story was received by a large number of the French with the greatest incredulity, but those who believed it, pointed out that the five-franc pieces were sufficiently large to conceal a small paper, and in order that the assignment should pass uninjured in the re-minting of the coin, it was written on asbestos paper. The consequence was that every year hundreds of five-franc pieces were split open, and those who believe that the coin is still in existence continue to destroy as many five-franc pieces as they can afford in the hope of lighting upon the assignment. It goes without saying that the search is an expensive one, as when split open the coins can only be sold for their silver worth. However, it has now been suggested that the Rontgen rays should be called into the service, as any difference in the density of a piece of metal could readily be discerned by their aid. In this way the 100,000 francs assignment could be quickly discovered, or its existence proved to be a myth, by the examination of all the five-franc pieces issued under the rule of Napoleon, and seeing the years that have elapsed since then, the number of these coins cannot possibly be very large.

A Fetching Gown.

The incongruous combination of net, chiffon, or other transparent bodices, with cloth or velvet skirts, still appears among dressy winter toilets, and one very attractive gown lately worn at a fashionable gathering in the city consisted of a tailor skirt of nun's gray cloth elegantly fitted and hung, and lined with gray taffeta, shot with pink. The skirt was finished with stitched straps of cloth trimmed with small pearly looking buttons of opal gray. The waist was in full blouse style, formed of creamy point de Gene net, draped full over a second under-waist of the most exquisite shade of pink Liberty satin. The bodice opened at the side where it was cut in scallops, with a deep frill of beautiful lace pleated beneath the scallops, and fastened across with the same handsome buttons that decorated the skirt. These buttons were only visible through the meshes of the filmy lace pleatings. The collar was of pink satin and lace. At the waist was a jewelled belt of gold filigree, and the close sleeves were minus even a little frill or puff at the top.

Petticoat Styles.

Much care and attention is lavished these days on the underskirt. Many women wear only one of these nowadays, but the gown is assured of a better shape, fit and hang if the long underskirt is supplemented by an additional skirt falling to the knees or a little below.

In this season of the year the second underskirt is made usually of pique, flannel, cotton flannel, or, more elegant than any of these, light surah, lined with crepon.

Women with stout figures whose hips the wearing of a second underskirt makes too prominent, usually wear a single long underskirt falling to the ankles. This single skirt, when made of silk, is usually lined with surah or polonaise, as much to give it shape and durability as to make it comfortably warm.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Green Pea Soup.

Ingredients.—One pint of shelled green peas, a handful of pods, two sprigs of parsley, four shalots, two sprigs of mint, two lumps of sugar, two ounces of fresh butter, half a small lettuce, one quart of stock, two tablespoonfuls of cream, or one ounce of cornflour mixed with a little milk.

Method.—Melt the butter in a stewpan, put in the peas, shalots (peeled and sliced), parsley, lettuce (cut up), mint and sugar; let all cook very gently by the side of the stove for fifteen minutes; do not let it fry brown, as the soup must be kept as green as possible; warm the stock and pour it on and simmer gently until the peas are tender; rub through a hair sieve, return to the saucepan, re-heat, and if necessary, thin with a little stock; add the cream and salt. If a cheaper soup is wanted stir in one ounce of cornflour mixed with a little milk instead of the cream.

Black Taffeta Shirt Waist.

At this season of the year when the weather is so uncertain it is well to include in one's wardrobe a silk or light woolen waist. Black taffeta shirt waists are tucked, corded, or shirred in every possible manner, and trimmed with lace insertions, or if preferred made perfectly plain with loose fronts and fitted sides and backs, with which is worn a scarf tie in bright colors, or one of net or mull.

An attractive woolen waist is of fine dark red serge, made tight fitting in back, slightly bloused in front and fastens under a large box pleat. The trimming consists of small gait fronts, which also adorn the small leg-o'-mutton sleeves.

"Do you actually believe in signs?"

"Why, certainly. For instance, if I awake in the morning and it is raining hard, I know that it is the sign of a wet day."

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Provinz Sachsen.

Nordhausen. Ein Silberfund wurde bei den Ausschachtungsarbeiten zum Bau der neuen Volksschule gemacht. In einer Tiefe von einem halben Meter unter der Erdoberfläche fanden Arbeiter zwei tellergroße Silberbarren von zusammen 34 Pfund Gewicht und 1300 Mark Werth. Die Fundstätte auf der Höhe des Petersberges, dicht bei der Petrikirche, galt von jeher als eine der ältesten Kulturstätten unserer Gegend, und trug im Mittelalter Grafen- und Ritterhöfe, von denen aber längst jeder Rest geschwunden ist.

Halle. Auf dem der Mansfelder Gewerkschaft gehörigen Glückhilfsschacht bei Welfesholz wurden neun Bergleute durch niedergehendes Gestein verschüttet. Zwei von ihnen wurden getödtet, andere schwer verletzt. Sie wurden sämmtlich geborgen.

Provinz Schlesien.

Breslau. Der Stellmacher Lehnert hierselbst ist wegen Falschmünzerei verhaftet worden. In seiner Wohnung fand man Formen zum Gießen von 10-Pfennig- und 2-Markstücken. Lehnert brachte zahlreiche Falschstücke in Verkehr.

Liegnitz. Ein fürstliches Bürgermeistergehalt schreibt die Stadt Hohenfriedeberg aus. Den Bewerbern werden nämlich 750 Mark baares Einkommen zugesichert, ferner Nebeneinkünfte von insgesammt 265 Mark. Die Sprache der Zahlen wird verständlicher, wenn man hervorhebt, daß Hohenfriedeberg 794 Einwohner zählt.

Provinz Schleswig-Holstein.

Schleswig. Zur Feier des 50jährigen Gedenktages der Erhebung Schleswig-Holsteins erfolgte ein Festzug zum Denkmal der Statthalter Reventlow und Berseler, sowie zu demjenigen von Martin Chemnitz, des Dichters des Liedes „Schleswig-Holstein meerumschlungen" und zu dem von Bellmann, des Komponisten dieses Liedes. Daran schloß sich die Weihe eines Erinnerungssteines.

Kiel. Die Prinzessin Heinrich von Preußen hat hier kürzlich in Lebensgefahr geschwebt. Die Pferde vor ihrem Wagen gingen bei einer Spazierfahrt durch. Die Prinzessin hatte die Geistesgegenwart, ruhig im Wagen sitzen zu bleiben, bis es gelang, die Pferde zum Stehen zu bringen.—Hochwasser hat hier großen Schaden angerichtet. Die Hafenanlagen haben sehr gelitten, zahlreiche Wohnungen standen unter Wasser.

Provinz Westfalen.

Buer. Drei angetrunkene polnische Bergleute drangen in die Wohnung des Vaters eines der drei Burschen, des 52jährigen Cielniski. Sie schlugen die Hausthür ein und bedrängten den alten Mann derart, daß dieser in seiner Angst ein großes Brodmesser ergriff und seinen eigenen Sohn und dessen Begleiter, den Bergmann Borjaczin, niederstach. Beide sind tödtlich verletzt. Der alte Cielniski wurde verhaftet.

Soest. Von der Kornverkaufsgenossenschaft wird hier ein Kornhaus eingerichtet. Die Regierung gewährt dazu eine Beihilfe von 200,000 Mark. Es ist schon dazu ein Grundstück für 80,000 Mark erworben worden.

Sachsen.

Dresden. In einer Versammlung der Lagerhalter und Verkäufer der sächsischen sozialdemokratischen Konsumvereine wurde ein Mindestlohn von monatlich 90 bis 130 Mark, außerdem Wohnungsgeldzuschuß oder freie Wohnung, Mittagspause und Geschäftsschluß an Sonn- und Feiertagen ganz und an Wochentagen um 8 Uhr Abends verlangt. — Durch schiedsgerichtlichen Vergleich wurde der Ausstand der Bergleute im Plauen'schen Grunde beendet.

Bischofswerda. Der Fernsprechverkehr zwischen hier und Inowrazlaw ist dieser Tage eröffnet worden. Die Gebühr für ein gewöhnliches Gespräch bis zur Dauer von drei Minuten beträgt im Verkehr mit beiden Orten 1 Mark.

Leipzig. Hier tagte der Stiftungsausschuß über die vom Verband Deutscher Handlungsgehilfen zu errichtenden Genesungsheime. Bis jetzt sind etwa 80,000 Mark dafür gespendet worden. Weil der größte Theil der eingegangenen Gelder aus Sachsen stammt, wurde beschlossen, das erste Heim im Erzgebirge erstehen zu lassen. Fabrikbesitzer Lehmann in Niederschlema stiftete dazu 16,000 Quadratmeter Wiesen- und Waldgelände. Der Bau wird sofort in Angriff genommen und bis zum Herbst fertiggestellt sein. Das zweite Genesungsheim kommt in den Taunus.

Zschoppau. Ein geachteter Bürger, Herr Robert Bruno Ehrlich, feierte kürzlich mit seiner Gattin Juliana, geb. Schmidt, die goldene Hochzeit. Der amtirende Geistliche übergab dem Jubelpaare eine von Sr. Majestät dem König geschenkte Traubibel. Als im Jahre 1845 Herr Ehrlich in Dresden als Oberkanonier diente, wurde der damalige Prinz Albert am Geschütz im „Detail" in der Abtheilung des Herrn Ehrlich ausgebildet.

Zwickau. Der Schutzmann Hübner aus Aue zog einen jungen Kaufmann von der Straße in die Wache und mißhandelte ihn. Der Schutzmann wurde vom hiesigen Landgericht zu einem Monat Gefängniß bestraft.

FAMOUS MONASTERY.

It Has Been Brought to Light by Workmen In Old London.

A most interesting relic of old London has recently been brought to light in the neighborhood of Aldgate. Workmen engaged in the demolition of houses in Mitre street have laid bare all that remains of the once famous monastery of the Holy Trinity, or Christ church. The remains, as they may at present be seen, consist of an arch and surrounding masonry, and are in an excellent state of preservation, almost as sound and solid as the day they were built. They probably formed a portion of the old refectory of the priory, which was the most important conventual house in England. It was originally founded by Maud, the wife of Henry I, who established the monastery for canons regular of the Order of St. Augustin, and made her confessor, Norman, the first prior in 1108.

In the Hunterian museum at Glasgow is still preserved the famous "Liber Trinitatis," or chartulary of the priory, a work much quoted by the chronicler Stow. The priory was one of the first confiscated by Henry VIII, in 1531, and given by him to his chancellor, Sir Thomas Audley, for reasons which, Fuller says, were "best known to himself." The pretence assigned was poverty, "the house being not a little sunk in its revenues and over head and ears in debt." Portions of the gateway of the priory were standing until 1816, when they were pulled down. It is to be hoped that the remains now brought to view will not share the same fate.—New York Catholic News.

CRAWFORD ON THE POPE.

The Novelist Draws a Vivid Portrait of Leo XIII.

"He has molded the Catholic church of the world into such a homogeneous mass that when the conflict comes with anarchy, and it is bound to come, the Catholics of the entire world will present an unbroken front to uphold law and order," said F. Marion Crawford in one of his recent lectures.

"In 20 years Leo XIII has accomplished more for the Catholics than 20 popes in the preceding two centuries. Vincenzo Gioachimo Pecci, Leo XIII, is nearly 89 years old and was born in Carpineto, a small town about 30 miles south of Rome. He is of noble parentage, but this nobility is considered of little value in southern Italy, where there are so many small houses of lineage. The pope has a well developed, bony head, high cheek bones, a very aquiline nose and a strong chin. His eyes are black and piercing, and hold you in their gaze with an indescribable power. His mouth, wide and well set, with thin lips, seems to wear an eternal smile, which, however, is not a smile. His complexion is very beautiful and his face has been likened to a face cut out of alabaster, with a bright light shining on the inside. His cast of features can be likened with justice to those portrayed in the busts of Julius Cæsar."

The novelist said that Leo XIII had been a man of immense physical strength in his youth and likened both physically and intellectually to Lincoln and Gladstone.—Kansas City Times.

ARCHBISHOP KAIN.

Christian A. Hardy, Late of Philadelphia, Leaves a Large Fortune For Him.

Archbishop Kain is heir to a large estate in Philadelphia. According to the will of the late Christian A. Hardy of that city, a certified copy of which is now on file in Recorder of Deeds Lewis' office in St. Louis, his grace has been left a one-third interest in his estate, which is estimated to be worth over $2,000,000.

Mr. Hardy was the editor of a Catholic paper in Philadelphia, and in addition was possessed of large realty holdings and financial interests. He also inherited large and valuable holdings of St. Louis real estate by the will of his uncle, the late James A. Hardy of St. Louis. A portion of this realty was sold under the hammer about three years ago for $300,000. There is still quite a portion of it left on Olive and Sarah streets. It is thought the fact that so much of his wealth came from St. Louis was what induced Mr. Hardy to leave an interest in his vast estate to the metropolitan of St. Louis. He also left property to Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia.

Mr. Hardy died last December. As a return for the bequest he asks that ten masses be said annually for ten years for the repose of the soul of his uncle, who died in St. Louis. In a codicil he tells his executors that they can divide his estate immediately among the archbishops if they will guarantee $3,000 a year to his widow.—St. Louis Republic.

Notes of the Catholic Church.

As many as 120 cardinals have died during the pontificate of Leo XIII.

Mgr. Edward McColgan, who died recently in Baltimore in the eighty-seventh year of his age, had been pastor of St. Peter's church of that city for 57 years.

The Catholic churches of New York city have 768,590 parishioners and over 400,000 Sunday school children. The value of the church property is $100,000,000.

Rev. John M. MacVeigh is a Catholic priest who for 18 years has been a missionary in the country districts of China, where he wore a cue and otherwise dressed as a Chinaman.

The total number of Catholics in India, according to the returns sent to propaganda by the bishops of that country, is 1,865,245. The number of native priests in India is 655, against 745 European priests.

English Catholics are hoping that the new Westminster cathedral will be finished in time so that within its walls may be celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the Catholic hierarchy in England. This event occurred on Sept. 29, 1850.

THE LOURDES WATER

A YOUNG WOMAN ATTRIBUTES HER RECOVERY TO ITS PROPERTIES.

Miss Marie E. Beimdick of St. Louis Drank the Water of Lourdes and Immediately Was Restored to Health—About an Eighth of an Ounce Was Taken.

After suffering for a year from loss of speech and a complete paralysis of her right side, Miss Marie Elizabeth Beimdick of St. Louis was suddenly restored to health. She attributes her recovery to the miraculous properties of the water of Lourdes, a vial of which she drank a few minutes before the remarkable change in her physical condition occurred.

Miss Beimdick is well known in public school circles. In March, 1897, her friends were grieved to learn that she had been forced by sickness to give up teaching. Her condition rapidly grew worse. First her voice was affected. For several months she could barely make herself understood. Then she lost the power of speech altogether. She took to her bed, and her vocal affliction shortly was followed by severe pains in the right shoulder and hip. The entire right side was affected and for weeks the unfortunate young woman was unable to speak or move without the greatest effort.

Physicians were summoned. One of them diagnosed her ailment as spinal trouble. Another said it was hip disease, and a third one informed her that she was a neurasthenic. Remedies were prescribed and taken, but they gave her no relief. In time she was able to leave her bed and move about on crutches. She became discouraged and discontinued the services of several of the attending doctors.

She was prepared for death, and, being a devout Catholic, had received the sacraments of the dying. A few weeks ago two Sisters of Mercy visited the sick girl. Seeing she was beyond medical aid they proposed to the mother that Marie try the Lourdes water. Most marvelous cures have been ascribed to the supernatural efficacy of the water from the celebrated French spring. A bottle of the liquid was left at the house, but Marie, though a good and faithful Catholic, hesitated to use it. She had grown so despondent over her prolonged and seemingly incurable illness that she had given up all hope.

"I actually thought I was beginning to lose my mind," said Miss Beimdick to a reporter. "I could not make myself understood, as I knew from the answers I received to some of my whispered questions. I was in a desperate condition and just didn't know what to do.

"On Thursday evening, Feb. 24—the day after Zola was convicted, by the way—the folks went out for awhile and I was by myself. I was moving around on the crutch. I began to think for a moment; then I knelt down and prayed for perhaps three-quarters of an hour. I thought somehow or another of a book I read in my childhood days, entitled 'The Wonders of Lourdes.' It is an account of cures effected by the waters of the resort. Then I reflected for an instant on the Zola incident and the book written by him, 'Lourdes.' The thoughts just flashed across my mind, and I paid no particular attention to the matters recalled.

"When I arose from my prayer, I walked instinctively, as it were, over to the mantel on which was standing the bottle of Lourdes water. I drank a small vial—not more than an eighth of an ounce—and started back to the parlor. In a few moments my brother came in. I don't know what made me do it, but I sat down at the piano and asked him to turn to the hymn 'The Holy City.' I played and with some little effort used my voice. When I got to the second verse, the notes were very distinct, and before I finished the anthem my vocal organs, to me, at least, were as good as they ever were. I had fully recovered speech. My brother was amazed at the sudden transition, and my mother, who came in, could hardly believe that it was I at the instrument.

"I had used the crutch to get to the piano. When I got up, I said, 'Oh, I think I can walk without this,' and I went clear across the room unaided. Within ten minutes after I took the water my ailment had disappeared, and there was not an ache in my body. I felt like shouting for joy, and the members of the family were just crazy with delight."

"Did you get up early the next morning and go to church?" asked the reporter.

"Well, you guessed it about right," replied Miss Beimdick. "You may be sure I was and am thankful for my recovery, and I am convinced that it was effected solely by other than natural means.

"Why, only a few days before I got well Dr. F. C. E. Kuhlmann, who was the last physician that attended me, said he would have to place my limb in a plaster of paris cast and that I would be confined to my bed for three months if I hoped to recover. I was, indeed, very much disheartened and almost wished for death to relieve my sufferings."

This is the second time within a few months that a member of St. Bridget's parish has attributed a sudden and remarkable cure to the efficacy of Lourdes water. The son of Jeremiah Murphy, the pork packer, fell off a wagon and fractured his skull. The doctors despaired of his life. One of the Christian brothers, whose school the boy attended, recommended the use of the water, and the result was gratifying to the patient and his family. The young man was completely well in two or three days.

Father Walsh, pastor of St. Bridget's church, announced from the altar the other evening that Miss Beimdick was restored to health, detailing the circumstances.—St. Louis Republic.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson For the Week Beginning April 17. Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M. Topic, The Keeping Power of God.

SCRIPTURE READING.—I Pet. i, 5; Deut. xxxiii, 27; Isa. lix, 19.

"Kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time."

The salvation, though not seen by men in its fullness, is all ready to be unveiled before them. The time for its full manifestation has not come. Plans are complete, the figure of the perfect man has been cast and reared aloft on its pedestal so high that all men and angels and demons can see it, but the covering is still over it. The hour of its unveiling comes on, but is not yet. The people are to be prepared. By faith they are being made ready for the great day. While it delays the power of God keeps them in hope, purifies them in love, perfects in patience, leads in good works and protects in dangers and delivers amid temptations.

"The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath is the everlasting arms."

Is the present pain so hard to bear?
Is the future dark with dread?
Are sin and sorrow everywhere?
Are you weary and hard bestead?
Do the billows and tempest terrify?
Have the waves gone over the head?
There's refuge secure in God's sweet grace
And comfort in His love.
His everlasting arms embrace.
He rules below, above;
He gives His peace to troubled hearts
Like the brooding of the dove.

Whatever may be the temptation, however great the sorrow or pressing the exigency, when all human sources of help fail and all human reason is baffled, God finds the way. "Man's extremity is God's opportunity." With Him is no weariness. Our failures come from our lack of simple trust in God. It is not that the difficulties of life are so great that we fail; it is because we fail to grow strong in Christ and rest in His power. We rely upon our own prudence and sagacity and fail. What we ought to do is to think clearly and act resolutely so far as we know and submit all to God for His guidance never wavering in faith. When the hour comes for decision, some way — the right way—will have opened, oftentimes in unexpected directions.

Cast your care on Jesus.
Trust Him to the end.

Saints, Ancient and Modern.

It is not to be supposed that because we call them St. Peter and St. Paul and St. James, etc., they called each other by this title. At close view Paul saw some things in Peter which he called dissimulation and rebuked sharply before the company of Christians met with them. Yet they were both godly men, and we do no wrong in calling them saints.

Perhaps at the present day our near view of some gives us less regard and appreciation for their piety than is really deserved. Perhaps we are looking for marks of sainthood not to be found on earth in any age. Even Jesus had no halo around His head until it was placed there by artists, and then it was only a canvas. Sainthood means the indwelling of the Divine presence in holy thought and choice and feeling. It means the faithful performance of daily duty in uncomplaining patience, however humble the task may be. It needs no winding sheet of flame to make one heroic, no striving after the unattainable. Sanctity and saintliness mean now, as they ever meant, loving obedience to the will of God. Earth may never enroll your name in this calendar and write your name with holy prefix, but if you live rightly God will crown you with His glory in due time and all eternity shall call you blessed.

What Are You Reading?

No young person can afford to read haphazard whatever comes to hand any more than they can afford to eat and drink anything chance may throw in their way. Some plan should be adopted and closely followed. To read nothing but stories is to ruin the power of the mind and spoil all appetite for more healthful and valuable reading. Quality should be more considered than quantity. If one wishes to improve in mind and character, close attention should be given to the selection of the books to be read. Life is too short and time too precious to waste in the worthless. A book which is not positively good and helpful is inevitably harmful and wasteful of time and energy. It would be well to have an evening in every chapter when the members shall in turn tell what they have read recently and recommend what they have found of value.

The Symbol of the Cross.

How strange a thing it is that the instrument of most painful and shameful death should become the cherished emblem of purest faith and most devout worship! Early in the Christian centuries this sign of the cross was chiseled on the tombstones of the martyrs and made prominent in the decorations of church buildings and articles used in religious service. The lamb, the dove, the fish, the shepherd's crook and many other devices illustrative of Scriptural truth and having reference to Jesus were early introduced. All have yielded to the sign of the cross, and it remains as the one significant emblem of the Christian faith.

Just as God Leads.

Just as God leads me I would go.
I would not ask to choose my way.
Content with what He will bestow,
Assured He will not let me stray,
So as He leads my path I make,
And step by step I gladly take,
A child, in Him confiding.

Just as God leads me I abide,
In faith, in hope, in suffering true.
His strength is ever by my side.
Can aught my hold on Him undo?
I hold me firm in patience, knowing
That God my life is still bestowing,
The best in kindness sending.

Just as God leads I onward go
Out amid thorns and briers keen.
God does not yet His guidance show,
But in the end it shall be seen
How by a loving Father's will,
Faithful and true, He leads me still.
—From the German.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

TOPIC.—Lessons from great missionaries.—Acts xiii, 1-3, 13-23, 42-52.

Christianity is essentially a missionary religion. The mission of the Christian church, as marked out by its Head and Founder, is a worldwide mission. All nations are to be led to Christ, and the only way by which this can be done is for the disciples of Christ to go as missionaries and tell all men the story of Jesus and His love. This has been done from the earliest days of Christianity. This thirteenth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles tells the story of the origin and beginning of the first great missionary movement under the Holy Ghost and Paul, by which the Roman empire was to be led to Christ. Paul was the greatest of the early followers of Christ. He consecrated his life to missions. Many of Christianity's great men have done the same thing since. From their lives we may learn useful and important lessons as to what is necessary to successfully carry forward God's work, whether at home or abroad.

1. From great missionaries we may learn to submit ourselves to God. This is characteristic of all great missionaries. They submitted themselves entirely to God. They were guided by the Holy Ghost. In the origin of Christian missions the Holy Ghost said to the church at Antioch, "Separate Me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them." The church submitted. Barnabas and Saul submitted. After fasting and prayer and the laying on of hands Barnabas and Saul were sent away. After listening to a missionary address when a young man in England Robert Moffat, the great missionary, went home to his room and prayed that if it were God's will he would send him forth to preach the gospel to the heathen. He found it was God's will and gladly went forth. Entire surrender to God is a necessary prerequisite to successful work for God.

2. From great missionaries we may learn to be willing to labor in new and uncultivated fields. Barnabas and Saul carried the gospel where it had not been before. Paul afterward declared that he built upon no other man's foundation. It is recorded in the life of Livingstone that early he showed "a fixed determination not to labor in more accessible fields, but to strike out beyond." To strike out beyond requires courage, self sacrifice, willingness to do hard work, but it pays in the end, and we should be willing to do it. In his first striking out into the inland of Africa Robert Moffat lived for six months alone in a rude hut. "In this hut," says the historian, "he remained, exposed to the sun, rain, dogs, snakes and cattle, doing his own sewing and cooking and often having nothing to cook, consoling himself with his violin and Scotch psalms, but with all his hardships maintaining regular day schools and preaching services." And God blessed his arduous, self sacrificing toil. God will bless us if we are willing to do the hardest work for Christ.

Bible Readings.—Isa. lii, 7; Nah. i, 15; Math. v, 11, 12; xxviii, 18-20; Rom. ix, 1-5; x, 14, 15; Acts i, 6-14; viii, 26-40; xv, 25, 26; xvi, 8-12; I Cor. iii, 5-10; ix, 19-22; II Cor. xi, 23-33; II Tim. iv, 6-8; Heb. xi, 36-40.

Common Sense In Doing Good.

We want more common sense in doing good. Oh, how many people there are who want to do good and they are dead failures! Why is it? They do not exercise the same tact, the same ingenuity, the same stratagem, the common sense in the work of Christ that they do in worldly things; otherwise they would succeed in the other. There are many men who have an arrogant way with them, although they may not feel arrogant in their soul, or they have a patronizing way. They talk to a man of the world in a manner which seems to say, "Don't you wish you were as good as I am? Why, I have to look clear down before I can see you, you are so far beneath me." That manner always disgusts, always drives men away from the kingdom of Jesus Christ instead of bringing them in.—Dr. Talmage.

A Plea For Egypt.

Egypt is parched and dry. The Nile is low and practically useless for watering the land. The farmer looks in dismay. There can be no harvest unless the seed is watered. Is there no supply for his need? Yes. On the snow capped mountains of Africa there is all he needs, but it is snow, and so useless. But the fiery sun arises, the snow is melted, the lakes are filled, the rill overflows, and the land is refreshed, the seed grows, a harvest is sure. Men are as the snow. They need the Holy Spirit to bless the world.—Preachers' Magazine.

The Difference.

Responsibility is a word of six syllables, love is a word of but one. Yet the distance between them is very much greater than the difference in time it takes to write them.—Lutheran.

Endeavor Jottings.

Cincinnati proposes to send a large delegation to Nashville, 1898, to work and talk for Cincinnati, 1899.

There are in Wisconsin and Illinois 29 Welsh Christian Endeavor societies, with 1,500 members. They have formed a Welsh Christian Endeavor union.

The railroad rate to Nashville, 1898, has been definitely decided by several railroad associations. It will be a one fare rate from all points and return.

Secretary Baer has been invited by the British council to cross the Atlantic and to attend the next British national convention, which will be held in Glasgow in May.

It is significant of the growth of Christian Endeavor in Ireland that at a county rally, the mid-Ulster rally, there came together recently more than 300 visiting delegates.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text.—We beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father.—John i, 14. April 17, 1898.

First Step.—At one time during the last year of our Lord's life he took his three favorite disciples up to one of the spurs of Mount Hermin. There they saw a sight which they never forgot. A change came over their Lord, and he shone with a radiance not of this earth. Two persons came to converse with him, the one the great lawgiver of Israel, and the other the great prophet of that nation. The disciples were filled with fear and awe, and wist not what to do. Peter, who generally led the way, proposed that they build three booths and remain on the mount; for, while I do not suppose that at the time he realized all the significance of the occasion, yet he thought that it was a privilege to be in such company and hear such discourse. But while he was speaking they heard a voice that said, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. Hear ye Him." When the cloud that had overshadowed them passed away, they lifted up their eyes and found all as it had been before the wonderful vision had come to them; they saw Jesus only, and him in his natural form and appearance.

That this experience made a deep impression on them is apparent from what Peter wrote many years afterwards. He said, "We have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eyewitnesses of his majesty. For he received from God the Father honor and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the execellent glory, This is my beloved Son, in whim I am well pleased. And this voice, which came from heaven, we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount" (II. Peter 1:16-18).

Second Step.—Having brought out the lesson story, let the teacher go on to bring out some of the practical lessons that it contains. The first one to which I would call attention is this that the interview of Moses and Elijah with Jesus, and the theme of their conversation shows us what they thought the most important thing about which they could talk. When men meet they generally talk about those things that they deem of the most interest to them. Indeed, you can tell much about a set of men by merely listening to their conversation. Vile men do not talk about noble things nor do noble men talk about vile things. Now what was it that filled the thoughts of these three as they met on that "holy mount?" There were many things about which they might have spoken, of deep interest. They might have talked about that heaven from which Jesus had come, and in which the other two were then living. But that was not the theme of their conversation. They might have talked about the future of Israel, which was, doubtless, most dear to the two great leaders of Israel in former centuries. But that was not the matter that interested them most deeply. What actually seems to have engrossed their minds was "the decease which he should accomplish in Jerusalem." (Seee Luke 9:31.) That is, the death on the cross was the one thing that most drew their attention. Why was this? For a very good reason. Jesus knew that this was what he had come to this earth to do. He had come to seek and to save that which was lost, and to give his life a ransom for many. The Son of Man MUST be lifted should come to those who were dead, unless the "corn or wheat should gall into the ground and die." Without shedding of blood (that is, without giving of life), there is no remission of sins. Jesus was the Lamb of God slain up, for it could not be that salvation from the foundation of the world. All this he knew. But all this Moses and Elijah knew, too. They understood the significance of the types of the Old Testament, and knew that Jesus was to fulfil them. Their own salvation depended on what Jesus was to go through in Jerusalem. No wonder, then, that they were more deeply interested in this one theme than in all others put together.

But if the death of Jesus was of so much importance to these two men from the other world, ought not we to understand that it is of equal importance to us? There are those in these days who make much of the life, example, and teaching of the Master, but little of his death. We agree with them in exalting his life, example, and teaching, but above all the Bible exalts his death, as the most important of all. So, too, do those in heaven who are redeemed by his death, for there they sing, "Thou art worthy . . . and people and nation". (Rev. 5:9). And John says, "Unto him that loved us and washed us from our sins . . . to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen" (Rev. 1:5, 6). In fact, the whole book of Revelation exalts the death of Christ as the ground of the redemption of those who reach the celestial city. This, then, is why this theme was the most important one that these three persons could discuss.

Third Step.—Now call attention to the fact that this interview of these two men with Jesus must have been a great comfort to him and a great strength to the disciples. Jesus in his life in this world, was the most lonely of men. His enemies, of course, traduced him. But even his best friends misunderstood him. His relatives at one time thought that he was "beside himself,' and when he spoke of his death Peter took him and began to rebuke him. His alms were spiritual, and the aspirations of all of his disciples were earthly. So, to have two such persons as Moses and Elijah talk with him about that part of his earthly mission that was of the highest importance must have been to him a great comfort. They could SYMPATHIZE with him, and sometimes sympathy is what he most crave. I, myself, believe that this was the chief reason why God permitted this heavenly visit to Jesus just at this time, when his death was so fast approaching.

But to the disciples this visit was a great strength in later years. At the time they did not at all realize its full significance, but later on they undoubtedly did. They then understood that their two greatest men were "at one" with Jesus in their estimate of the importance of his death on the cross, and so what was incomprehensible to them from their own standpoint was all the more easily understood.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Isaac Schwed, the well-known clothier, has purchased a Spalding wheel from W. H. Rogers.

Miss Nellie Spicer, of West Seventh street, has been presented with a new bicycle of which she is very proud.

J. E. Morse, of Franklin place, has received his new Crescent wheel from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

Roundsman Flynn now rides a Wolfe-American wheel, purchased through the agency of A. M. Griffen.

The Dayton tandem now on exhibition in the Bard Cycle Company's window on North avenue, is attracting much attention among wheelmen and wheelwomen who admire a fine mount.

The High School boys will hold a run to Newark Saturday morning, starting from the High School building at 8:30 o'clock. They will go to Newark to witness the baseball game that the High School team plays there.

The first Eldridge tandem to arrive in Plainfield is now the property of Nathan E. Lewis, of West Eighth street. It is a handsome machine and runs very easily. It was purchased through the Plainfield branch of the Eldridge Company.

AROUND THE BASES.

The contract for grading the Crescent Oval and preparing it for use by the Plainfield Crescent Baseball Club this season has been awarded to Captain William Hand. The work was started yesterday.

The second team of the Plainfield High School again defeated the Leal's school team yesterday afternoon on the LaGrande avenue grounds. The game was a one sided affair, the High School boys winning 25 to 5, after playing five innings. Atchinson and Egan were the battery for the High School team and Dupee and W. Roome for the Leal school nine.

The nine of the Plainfield High School will open the season on Saturday with a game against the Newark High School at Newark. The game will be played Saturday morning. The personnel of the team has not definitely been decided upon but its probable the make-up will be as follows: Pitcher, Edwards; catcher, Lederer; first base, Snodgrass; second base, Schenck; third base, Craig; short stop, Fisher; left field, Morgan; centre field, Radford; right field, Thompson.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The gymnastic championship of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will be held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Monday evening. The medals for the athletic contest which has just ended will be presented at the same time.

There is very little interest in the prospect of a field day this spring among the boys of the Plainfield High School. The field day has always been an annual affair but may be given up this year on account of a lack of interest.

HONEYMAN PRIVATE TOURS.

Pleasurable Trips That Are Conducted by a Plainfielder.

The next three of the Honeyman Private Tours, as announced by circulars, are as follows:

The first is the usual European vacation tour of sixty-three days, leaving New York, June 23d, on the elegant North German Lloyd Steamship "Friedrich der Grosse." This trip takes in the Isle of Wight, London, Salisbury, with the Druidical monuments at Stonehenge, then Southwestern England, Landsend and coaching along the Cornwall and Devonshire coast. It includes South Wales, Ireland; Scotland, as far North as Oban and the Caledonian Canal; the Queen's Highland Castle, Balmoral; Edinburgh and Abbotsford. From here a special section goes over to Norway and make an interior trip in that country of ten days to Christiania, then to Copenhagen, Denmark, and so home from Bremen. Any portions of the tour may be taken.

The next is the usual fall vacation tour of ten days to the Adirondacks, leaving New York August 29th, and returning September 7th, but with provisions for teachers to return September 5th, in case it is necessary for beginning a school term. This tour takes in Saratoga, Blue Mountain Lake, and then follows a three days charming journey by canoes through the chain of lakes and small streams to Paul Smith's, where the party remains several days.

The third tour advertised is one to Greece, Egypt, the Holy Land and Italy next February, leaving New York February 18th, and returning in eighty-eight days. This tour gives a week to Greece, nine days to Egypt and three full weeks to the Holy Land, and takes in the most interesting spots along the Mediterranean.

Mr. Honeyman states that the war scare has not seriously interfered with applications for registry for the European summer trip, and that his quota is already two-thirds full.

PLEDGED LIFE FIDELITY

New York.

The bridal couple expected to take the Southwestern Limited on the Jersey Central Railroad which passes through Plainfield at 9:45 o'clock They had been given to understand that the train would stop. After leaving the house amid a shower of rice, they arrived at the station to see that train pass through Plainfield going at a rate of sixty miles an hour. They were, therefore, compelled to wait for the 4:17 train for the south.

The newly married couple will spend several weeks in the south and will then return to Hartford, Conn., where they will reside.

They were the recipients of many handsome and valuable gifts. Silver and cut glass in large variety were included in the beautiful array of presents.

Board of Trade Have Acted.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Your editorial of last evening does the Board of Trade an injustice. The meeting you refer to as having been requested by Mr. Hand, and which you say has not yet materialized, was held, and proper action has been taken, and everything done that can be done at present to bring the industry in question to Plainfield. The matter now rests with the company, and while we cannot compel them to accept our proposition we are exerting ourselves toward that end, and if we succeed we will then be able to give the citizens an opportunity to put their shoulder to the wheel and further the efforts of their Board of Trade.

Very respectfully,
Fred Lounsbury,
President.

New Front Street Store.

A new building will be erected in the near future by George Voehl, where his bakery is now conducted on West Front street, adjoining J. A. Smith's grocery.

SAYS HE CAN PROVE IT.

Submarine Mine Expert in London Ridicules Spanish Denials.

London, April 14.—The Daily Mail publishes this morning an interview with Joseph Panell Gibbins, the submarine mine expert, in which he ridicules the Spanish denials of the his statement as to the sale by him of submarine mines to Spain, and declares that he can prove that the United States warship was wilfully and deliberately blown up.

What is more, according to the Daily Mail's report, he thinks it possible to reduce the explosion to the act of two men, or even to one individual.

Yousouf Matched for $1,000.

New York, April 14.—Yousouf, the "Terrible Turk," who hails from Constantinople, and Tom Jenkins, of Cleveland, Ohio, were matched yesterday to wrestle mixed Groeco-Roman and catch-as-catch-can styles, best two out of three, for $1,000 a side. Their managers, W. A. Brady and Gus Hill, met at the Police Gazette office and, after signing the articles of agreement, each deposited the amount of the stake.

The match is to take place in Cleveland, O., on May 4 of this year, and both men are to be in the ring and ready to wrestle at 8.30. If a man fails to appear with a reasonable time after that hour or fails to fulfill the obligations imposed upon him by the articles of agreement, he must forfeit his stake, $1,000.

Russia Says War Is Impossible.

St. Petersburg, April 14.—The semi-official Journal de St. Petersburg contends that the concluding passage of President McKinley's message to Congress precludes the possibility of military action upon the part of the United States, taking the ground that the passage referred to recognizes Spain's armistice, and that the armistic "suspends hostilities, which is the object the United States had in view."

Foreign Powers Will Submit a Joint Note for Peace to This Country—Conference of Ambassadors This Afternoon—The Pope Interested in the Movement—Assistant Secretary Day Says Congress is Resolute for War—Consulate Mobbed in Spanish City—Spain Attacks U. S. Consuls to Cuba.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 15.—The European powers are preparing to step in and prevent war between the United States and Spain if possible. The foreign offices of the different powers have communicated to their respective ambassadors in this city instructing them to prepare a joint note to be submitted to the United States.

There will be a conference this afternoon between the ambassadors from England, Germany, France, Italy, Austria and Russia, to prepare the joint note. It is understood that the Pope is actively interested in the movement as well.

The substance of the joint note will be that the Powers ask for more time for Spain with the idea that Spain will finally submit to the demands of the United States and recognize the independence of Cuba. The object of the note is to prevent war, it is stated.

Assistant Secretary Day, of the State Department, said this afternoon regarding the joint note of the Powers, that he did not believe that this country would entertain any overtures from the Powers seeking to change the programme that has been arranged. He did not say what the programme was.

President McKinley has set at rest all doubts as to what action he will take regarding the resolutions that may be passed by the House and Senate. He has given out the statement that he will sign any resolution within an hour of its arrival at the White House that meets the approval of both houses of the National Legislature.

The Senate is still considering the resolution calling for armed intervention and is likely to continue to do so for the remainder of the day.

Barcelona, Spain, April 15.—An angry mob made an attack on the American consulate in this city last evening. The United States consul was not in the building at the time. No one was injured during the excitement.

—The horse attached to Fred Endress' meat wagon ran away on Park avenue, between the railroad bridge and Front street this morning. The frightened horse was stopped after a short dash by Lee Dawson, near Second street. The driver hurried up and thanked Dawson, then jumped into the wagon, and much to the disgust of pedestrians, plied the whip vigorously on the hide of the horse.

CARE OF COUNTY INSANE

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS TALK OF ESTABLISHING AN ASYLUM.

Have 73 Patients for Which County is Charged at State Hospital—County Could Save $2 a Week by Caring for Them.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 15.—The Somerset Freeholders, with an eye to economy in public expenditures, are considering the idea of establishing a county insane asylum, to care for the demented of the bailiwick within its own borders instead of paying for their keeping at the State Hospital at Trenton. Sometime ago a committee on lunacy was appointed to investigate the subject and they have just finished their work and made the following report:

Your Committe on Lunacy visited the State Hospital at Trenton March 16th, and find that we have 73 patients chargeable to Somerset county, and we saw nearly all of them. They seem to be well fed and clothed and comfortably cared for. From the information we received there appears to be only two that could possibly be released. We have been advised from reliable sources that with a county institution we could probably care for our patients at a saving of two dollars each per week. But said institution would probably cost an outlay of from $20,000 to $25,000. We understand that Camden county, with an outlay of $28,000 are maintaining their insane at a cost of $2.57 each per week, of which the State pays $2, leaving a net cost of only fifty seven cents, whereas it costs three dollars per week and cloths extra to keep a patient at the State Hospital. We would advise the Freeholders to take further means to obtain information in regard to a county insane hospital, and, furthermore, we desire, through the press or otherwise, to have an expression of the views of the people of Somerset county in regard to a county insane hospital.

The report was received, but no action taken upon the recommendation.

Pierpont Morgan, who recently refunded the indebtedness of the road and has since secured control of the company.

The Daily Press on Tuesday exclusively predicted the above important change, in announcing General Passenger Agent Lee would take up his residence in this city May 1st.

TRAMPS BARRED FROM THE SOMERSET JAIL

Board of Freeholders Won't Have Any More Sent There.

FARMERS HAVE AGITATED IT.

EXPENSE HAS BEEN GREATER THAN FREEDOM FROM NUISANCE.

Ruralites Have Rebelled Vigorously Against the Custom of Sentencing the Hoboes to Long Terms, and the Board of Freeholders Have Ordered That the Wanderers be Kept Out of the Bastile at County Expense—The Tramps Will Probably be Disappointed to Hear of this Movement.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 15. — Somerset county takes a distinguished and unique position among New Jersey counties as viewed by the wandering gentlemen of leisure, popularly known as hoboes.

For several years the Somerset county jail in this place has been largely populated by tramps who have been arrested by vigilant constables and marshals in the various towns in the county, and regularly consigned to from thirty to ninety days in the bastile at the expense of the county.

The result has been a heavy expense on the county without preceptible freedom from the tramp nuisance. The ruralites who form an influential portion of the county's taxpayers and politicians have rebelled vigorously at this condition. They have pointed out time and again that the tramps, except in the warm summer months, are only too anxious to secure a soft bed and enough wholesome food under the care of Sheriff Wyckoff to be perfectly willing to undergo the privation of freedom.

Nearly all of the Freeholders have been approached to remedy this condition of affairs, and the agitation has grown to such an extent that at the last meeting of the Board it was ordered that no more tramps should be received at the county jail at the county's expense.

Justice Thomas, formerly borough recorder in North Plainfield, has had much opprobrium heaped upon his head for the persistency with which he sentenced harmless men to long terms in the county jail, entailing great expense without improving their moral conditions, and his record in this line was always used as an argument with the Freeholders to induce them to take the action.

CALLS AS A MATTER OF FORM.

Mrs. Dodd Technically Fills Her Duty as the Jail Matron.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 15.—No decision has been yet rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Warden John C. Blore, of the Union county jail, in this city, whose term has expired, but who insists that he is entitled to the position under the veteran act. His successor, Charles Dodd, who has been elected by the Board of Freeholders, is not permitted to enter the jail by Warden Blore. Dodd's wife, who has been elected matron, calls at the institution every day, but only as a matter of form.

The Martin Act Objection.

The signatures of many people affected by the findings of the Martin Act Commissioners have been placed on the petitions that will be presented to the court asking for a postponement in the hearing, thus giving them time to make a formidable contest against the report. Many persons affected are not now personally acquainted with the amounts they owe, and if so, they have little idea of how the act will work against them.

The Herons are Prompt.

Percy C Ohl reports the first arrival of that species of waders, of the family of Herons, comonly known as the Quakers, which corresponds exactly with recorded notes of their arrival for the last eleven years. Mr. Ohl says that this is the time to watch turkey hens. They have commenced to lay and the crows are on the alert for the eggs.

Entries for handicap competitions must be accompanied by the member's last three gross scores (totals) unless they are already in the hands of the golf committee; otherwise he must play from scratch. Members are requested to deposit their score cards in the score box, so that the committee may have a reliable basis for handicapping.

When an entry is accepted, the member failing to play will be considered as defaulting; and the entrance fee, if any, will be charged to his account.

In all club events each participant must play with a competitor.

VIEWS OF CUBA.

A Patriotic Entertainment Given in Music Hall.

Something of Cuba, its oppressors and its people, made the patriotic entertainment of the Plainfield Camera Club in Music Hall last evening a very interesting affair. Then, too, the navies of the United States and Spain were illustrated on the screen. It was a stereopticon entertainment and consisted of some hundred views of the all absorbing question of Cuba and its people and the destruction of the Maine.

The views were handsome ones and included many that were new to a Plainfield audience. Rev. Charles E. Herring acted as lecturer and gave a brief explanation of the different views as they were shown. During the entertainment Miss Charlotte Messersmith sang two patriotic solos.

Despite the rain the entertainment was well attended, and all who came were enthusiastic in their applause Sattel's orchestra was present and rendered patriotic selections during the evening. Garret Dunham gave a trombone solo that was particularly well received.

Former Plainfielder Weds.

The following interesting item appeared in a recent number of the Lumber Journal:

E. C. Pease, the ubiquitous representative of Wm. Schuette & Co., manufacturers of lumber at Saginaw, Mich., has taken to himself a wife, and congratulations are in order. Mr. Pease is what we would call a thoroughly domestic man. Home is where he finds his pleasure and we believe the young lady who has been fortunate enough to link her happiness with his will have no cause to regret it. We extend congratulations, and trust that their lives may be happy and long continued.

Mr. Pease was formerly of Washington Park, North Plainfield, and he has many friends both in this city and the borough who wish him happiness and prosperity.

Got Thirty Days.

James H. Emmons was arraigned before the City Judge this morning on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was arrested early this morning by Patrolman Saffron. He went to the county jail for thirty days.

BAXTER DIED FROM THE HYDROPHOBIA.

Passed Away in Terrible Agony at the Hospital.

HE WAS STRAPPED TO A COT.

HIS SNARLS AND SCREAMS WERE HIDEOUS TO HEAR.

All Day Yesterday He Was in the Throes of the Dread Disease, Though at Times He Became Rational and Seemed to Realize That the Malady Had Its Fatal Grip Upon Him—Strained at the Straps That Held Him Down—Disease Resulted From the Bite of a Pet Dog Two Months Ago.

As the result of a bite, playfully given by his pet canine, Samuel Baxter passed away after a day of horrible agony at the Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, a victim of hydrophobia. A happy home has been desolated and a wife and child left alone in the world as a result.

Samuel Baxter lived with his wife and child at 1,444 South avenue. Baxter was a carpenter by trade and was one of the most trusted employes of Pearson & Gayle, the builders. He was particularly fond of dogs and always had several of them around the house.

Two months ago a dog supposed to be suffering from the rabies visited the Netherwood district where Baxter lives and bit a number of the dogs there. Among those bitten was one of Baxter's pets. The strange dog was afterwards killed when found to be really mad.

It was soon after that that Baxter's dog jumped at his master one day and sunk its teeth in his wrist. The dog seemed in play. Baxter had the wound cauterized by D. B. VanD. Hedges at once. The dog was shot before it developed any signs of the rabies.

The idea began to grow in Baxter's mind that he was going to have the hydrophobia. His neighbors unthinkingly told him about similar cases in which the victim had died from the effects. They used to bring clippings from newspapers to him. His employer urged him to visit the Pasteur Institute but Baxter would not. His friends also urged, but Baxter remained obdurate.

Still he began to think about it and grew morbid under the thought. Monday night the climax came. He felt very ill. Some one had told him that when he could not drink water it was a symptom of the dread malady. He found or imagined that he could not drink and declared that he had hydrophobia. He was conveyed at once to Muhlenberg Hospital.

There was no sign of the malady except the great mental suffering on the part of the victim until Wednesday. He remained perfectly rational, however, until Wednesday night at 10 o'clock. The circumstances of his attack on the attendants of the hospital and his subsequent flight into the streets in a nude condition were related in yesterday's Press.

From the time of his return to his cot, where he was strapped down by the police who had captured him, he grew rapidly worse. He was apparently crazed. The symptoms of hydrophobia developed rapidly. He was wildly delirious at times and frothed at the mouth and snapped and snarled. Then he would sink into an unconscious state to return to sensibility for a short time.

When in a rational state he was free to talk of the dread malady that had overcome him. He perfectly realized that he was suffering from hydrophobia and that the end was near at hand. He seemed perfectly resigned.

At two o'clock he became suddenly worse. His ravings were terrible to witness. He had all the signs of the feared malady in a violent form. Despite the straps that held him down, it was with difficulty that he was kept in his cot. A policeman was kept at his bedside constantly to care for him should he break loose. His snarlings and screams filled the ward.

At four o'clock, the end came. After a paroxyism of unusual vigor, a shiver passed through his frame and he sank down dead. The nurses and the watcher were present at the time.

A short funeral service of the late S. W. Baxter will be held this afternoon at 5:30 at A. M. Runyon & Son's undertaking parlors. The body will then be taken to Fres Pond, L. I., for cremation. The lodges in Plainfield to which Mr. Baxter belonged will be notified when the regular funeral services will be held in this city. Interment will be in Hillside Cemetery.

STUDY OF THE JUVENILE.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE ON AN EDUCUATIONAL PROBLEM.

The Advantages of the Kindergarten System of Froebel Explained—Much Demands on Co-Operation of Mothers.

The paper on "Educational Ideals," presented by Mrs. Charles F. Underhill last evening at the Watchung avenue meeting house, furnished her interested audience with many fresh thoughts and inspirations.

Mrs. Underhill spoke of the aims and methods of the past when the child was but the fractional part of the masses to be taught, and rigidity signified goodness, and of the growing discontent of the best educators with the results obtained, until the increasing knowledge of the principles of Froebel marked a new era in the history of education.

The study of the child and his needs was recognized as the most important factor, and individuals were to be developed; not masses instructed.

The Froebel Academy was the outgrowth of a small kindergarten established in a Brooklyn back parlor. As the children outgrew the work of one year, higher classes were added, where the Froebel principles were put into practice; not necessarily by strict adherence to his particular methods, but by the adaptation of his ruling thought the particular needs of the child. The academy work covers a ten years' course—two years of kindergarten, four years of primary and four years' academic work, at the completion of which the pupils are fitted for the high school. Pratt Institute admits Froebel Academy pupils without examination.

One of the important elements that had contributed to the success of the school had been the co-operation in the home. Mothers had formed themselves into a club, devoted to the study of educational problems, and had established close social relations with the teachers, trying to supplement the work of the school in the home.

The value of manual training was fully recognized, that the muscles might execute the conceptions of the mind, and the "artist and the artisan be united in one person."

The paper closed with an appeal to parents to remember that not book knowledge, but development of character, should be the ideal toward which we should aspire; that "the heart we are to keep with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life."

State Superintendent Baxter, who was present, heartily endorsed the sentiments of the paper, and emphasized the point of greater unity of action between the parent and the teacher. If parents would establish friendly retations with those to whom the education of their children was intrusted, and familiarize themselves with the aims and difficulties of the teacher, the result could not fail to be mutually beneficial.

Prof. Dalziel, of the Plainfield Manual Training School, gave interesting testimony to the value of this work upon character. The effort to reproduce an object with a pencil exactly as one sees it, develops a higher standard of truthfulness and uprightness.

Aaron M. Powell gave some interesting incidents of kindergarten influence upon the home life of the poor.

His Fifteenth Anniversary.

In honor of the celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of his birthday, Charles Windham, of Fairview avenue, was tendered a surprise party Wednesday evening. The affair was arranged by the Misses Nettie Bauersachs and Lucetta Clark. During the evening there were violin solos by Robert Hand and piano solos by Lulu Windham and Joseph Farlee. Various games also helped to pass an evening of pleasure for the following guests who were present: The Misses Florence McDonald, Carrie Dentz, Mamie Philpott, Emma Windham, Lulu Windham, Florence Windham, Minnie Nischwitz, Lucetta Clark, Nettie Bauersachs and Arthur Jeffery, Joseph Farlee, Albert Utzinger, William McCullough, Fred Martin, Robert Hand, Willie Nischwitz, Harry Joseph and Charles Windham.

CONSTABLE BLOCKS THE HUSBAND'S WAY.

H. T. Smith Not Allowed to Enter His Family's Home.

LEGAL ACTION NOW TAKEN.

THE WIFE SAID TO BE INFLUENCED BY ANOTHER WOMAN.

Mrs Smith, It is Said, Thinks That Her Husband is Not the Ideal Partner That He should Be, and She Refuses Him Admittance to the House Owned in Her Name—Husband Declares That Miss Sue Peck Exercises an Undue Influence Over His Wife—Miss Peck Threatened With Prosecution.

The question as to whether a husband can be deposed from the residence of his wife when the latter owns the property is about to be determined by law in this city. The case is a very peculiar one and will considerable interest until it is settled.

Mrs. H. T. Smith, of Westervelt avenue, has had a notice served on her husband through her lawyers, Reed & Coddington, warning him not to come on her premises. If he does, he will be considered as a trespasser and will be dealt with according to law. This notice was served last Monday on Mr. Smith.

The cause for such action is given that Mrs. Smith does not believe that her husband is the ideal life partner that a man should be, and she refuses to live with him.

Mr. Smith was at one time wealthy, but through a chain of unforunate circumstances he lost his property. During the past year he has held the position of clerk in the treasury department at the courthouse in Queens county, L. I., which place was his former home. Of late he has come home every night but found the doors locked and Constable Rockafellow on duty to keep him away. Wednesday evening Mr. Smith came home as usual and learned that Constable Rockafellow was not there. He went in the house, and while there talked with the children. Rockafellow came in and ordered him from the house. Mr. Smith asked the constable to show his authority for deposing him. The constable replied he had none, but that he could soon secure a writ if necessary. Mr. Smith was threatened with arrest if he did not leave.

Mr. Smith has since learned that Constable Rockafellow has been occupying his room in the house every night while on duty to keep him away from the house.

Mrs. Smith seems to have a feeling that her husband is not a proper life partner and there seems to be a spell come over her at times. One night recently Mr. and Mrs. Smith went out together to church. Everything was all right and they both exhibited affection for each other. The next morning when Mr. Smith left the house to go to work his wife's actions were just the reverse.

It has been discovered that there is a third party in the affair, Miss Sue Peck, of West Front street. Miss Peck is a Christian scientist, and it is claimed has had an influence over Mrs. Smith. Not long ago Mrs. Smith had a bad spell and Dr. Hedges was sent for, as well as Miss Peck.

Miss Peck arrived first, and when the doctor came Mrs. Smith seemed all right. A notice was served on Miss Peck today warning her to keep away from the residence of Mrs. Smith, and it is probable that a suit for damages will be commenced against her for interference in family relations. A similar notice has also been served on Constable Rockafellow warning him to keep away or he and his bondsmen will be prosecuted.

NO ACTION ON COUNTY TROLLEY.

Board of Freeholders Meet Without Considering the Matter.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 15.—The Union County Board of Freeholders held a meeting yesterday afternoon, but did not take any steps to ask for bids for the trolley franchise between Elizabeth and Plainfield. The county engineer had not completed the necessary maps of the route. So far as can be learned John Kean's offer to pay $100,000 for the franchise is the only one received by the Board.

Jack Has Throat Trouble.

For sometime past John H. Carney, of Craig place, has been troubled a great deal with a difficulty in the throat, and for this reason he has not appeared in public. He was on the programme to appear Wednesday evening at the anniversary of Lucetta Council, D. of L., but owing to the trouble he could not. Mr. Carney expects to have an operation performed on his throat very soon.

GEN. LEE ON THE MAINE

Says the Explosion Was the Work of Spanish Officials.

A SIGNIFICANT DISPATCH

Our Consul General to Cuba Produces Copy of the Captain General's Telegram Ordering the Destruction of a Mysterious Letter—The Mines Were Placed in Havana Harbor During Weyler's Reign—Exonerated Gen. Blanco, Who Seemed to Be Deeply Grieved at the Tragedy.

Washington, April 15.—The testimony of Gen. Lee before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations in the investigation relating to the Maine disaster is the most important heard by the committee. It was made on the 12th inst. In the statement Gen. Lee said that he was informed on very good authority that the Spaniards had placed two rows of torpedoes just at the mouth of Havana harbor by Morro Castle within the last two months, or subsequent to the Maine disaster, and that switchboard was in a room in the castle. He said, however, that he had no information of the placing of any torpedoes before the Maine was destroyed, and none in regard to the purchase of torpedoes or mines abroad by the Spanish authorities.

"Have you any reason to suppose that the harbor was mined at all before the blowing up of the Maine?" asked Senator Frye.

"No, sir; I had no reason to suspect anything of the sort up to that time." He then went on to say that Gen. Weyler's letter to Santos Guzman had led him to believe that mines might have been placed there previous to he Maine incident, and he said that this supposition was strengthened by a telegram from Gen. Weyler, of which he had cognizance. Upon the whole, he thought the Weyler letter (the Laine letter) was a correct copy of a genuine letter. The telegram to which he referred was addressed to Eva Canel, a noted Spanish woman and an admirer of Weyler, and to Senor Guzman, and it read as follows:

"Grave circumstances cause me to ask you to destroy the last letter, of February 18."

Gen. Lee said that this telegram had never before been published, and he found in it strong confirmatory evidence of the genuineness of the Weyler letter.

Outside Explosion Certain.

With reference to the responsibility for the destruction of the Maine, Gen. Lee said:

"I am satisfied the explosion was from the outside. I cabled the State Department a few days after the board assembled that it was almost certain that the explosion was from the exterior. I have always had an idea about the Maine that, of course, it was not blown up by any private individual or by any private citizen, but it was blown up by some of the officers who had charge of the mines and electrical wires and torpedoes in the arsenal there, who thoroughly understood their business, for it was done remarkably well.

"I do not think Gen. Blanco, the present Captain and Governor-General of the island of Cuba, had anything to do with it. I do not think he had any knowledge of it. I saw him just after the occurrence. I was sitting in my room at the hotel, and from the balcony of the hotel I heard the explosion and saw a great column of fire go up in the air. A few moments after, ascertaining that it was the Maine, I went right down to the palace and asked for Gen. Blanco. He came in directly, by himself. He had just heard it, and was crying; tears were coming out of his eyes. He seemed to regret it as much as anybody I saw in Havana.

"I think the explosion was the work of some of the subaltern officers who had been there under Weyler, and who were probably anti-Blanco anyhow, and who had full knowledge of the business."

Manterolla's Telegram.

Gen. Lee said that he had seen a copy of a telegram from Admiral Manterolla, dated in Havana, prior to the explosion of the Maine, to the Spanish Commission in London, asking the Commission to "hurry up the electrical cables." "Whether that referred to wire for submarine mines or torpedoes, I do not know," he continued, "I tried to ascertain if any of the wire or electrical cables had arrived there, but they came on Spanish ships and I could not find out."

Gen. Lee said that this testimony in regard to Manterolla, and also that with reference to the Weyler telegram, had been furnished to the Court of Inquiry which investigated the Maine disaster, but had not been sent to Congress nor published, because of a request of his made to the State Department not to make them public, "as I was afraid the Spanish papers there would republish it and they would probably kill the man that gave it to me."

Continuing this testimony, Gen. Lee said that ten minutes after the explosion he was at the Palace talking to Gen. Blanco, and that the latter gave him an order for a boat to take him out into the harbor. Senator Morgan asked if, when he got to the water's edge, he saw any light burning.

"I did not notice that," said Gen. Lee: "but I have made inquiries since and have ascertained that no electric lights went out. I sent for electric light men and gas men. Some gas jets went out in one or two places, caused by the shock or something, but I could not ascertain from these men that a single electric light went out. One of the electric light men whom I called upon is a friend of mine, and he sent for the man who has direct charge of the lights, who came to my office. This man said he had not heard of any such thing. I said I wanted to know with certainty. The man then made an exploration of an hour or two and returned, saying that with the exception of one electric light near the harbor, and one at another place not very far distant, which might have gone out by the shock, no other electric lights went out."

Spanish Officers Rejoiced.

"Have you heard since the explosion of the Maine any expression by Spanish officers in relation to it, indicating their pleasure at the act?" asked Senator Frye.

Gen. Lee responded: "I heard two or three days afterward from various persons who came in that there was a good deal of rejoicing among some of the officers. All reports I got said they were drinking champagne, quite a thing to do in honor of the event, and in different portions of the city officers were making merry. I attribute it to the fact that what they considered almost an enemy's battleship had been blown up, and it was that much in their favor." He said that he had not heard any threats of or allusions to the destruction of the Maine previous to the explosion.

Senator Lodge asked if he had heard of an attempt on the Montgomery.

"I heard," responded Gen. Lee, "that that there was something of that sort one evening, but I believe upon investigation it was found that it did not amount to anything."

The following colloquy between Senator Foraker and Gen. Lee brought out some further opinions of the General in regard to the destruction of the Maine:

Senator Foraker—You think that no novice could have destroyed the Maine?

Consul-General Lee—Oh, no, sir. The man who did the work was an officer thoroughly acquainted with explosives of all sorts, and knew all about it. It was very well done.

Senator Foraker—A man who had expert knowledge, necessarily?

Gen. Lee—Yes, sir.

Senator Clark—And who must have had knowledge of the location of the torpedo?

Consul-General Lee—Yes. I never have been certain that the submarine explosive was placed there prior to the entrance of the Maine into the harbor. It might have been done afterward. The Maine was anchored to a buoy by some little chain. A vessel swinging around that way sometimes gets at various places all around the circle. When she would swing off that way, with the bow next to the buoy and these boats plying about the harbor all the time, anybody could go pretty well in front of her on a dark night and drop one of these submarine mines of 500 pounds. They have fingers, as it were, and as the boat goes around it would touch the finger, which makes contact and explodes the mine. That might have been done after the Maine got in there and not be discovered.

Easily Done.

"One or two men rowing quietly in a boat could drop it off the stern of the boat on a dark night. A boat would not have been noticed, because boats go there always to a late hour of the night. The harbor is full of these little boats. A mine weighs about 500 pounds, and I suppose it would take four or five men—one man to row, and probably three or four to handle the mine."

In reply to a question from Senator Gray, Gen. Lee said that the Spanish population is not especially hostile toward the United States.

Senator Gray—How as to the Cuban part of the population?

Gen. Lee—They are generally all for free Cuba.

Senator Cullom—What is the condition of the reconcentrados out in the country?

Gen. Lee—Just as bad as in Gen. Weyler's day. It has been relieved a good deal by supplies sent from the United States, but that has ceased now.

The Chairman—How about the Spaniards?

Gen. Lee—Gen. Blanco published a proclamation rescinding Gen. Weyler's bando, as they call it there, but it has had no practical effect, for, in the first place, these people have no place to which to go. The houses have been burned down; there is nothing but the bare land there, and it takes them two months before they can raise the first crop. In the next place, they are afraid to go out from the lines of the towns, because the roving bands of Spanish guerrillas, as they are called, would kill them. So they stick right in at the edges of towns, just like they did, with nothing to eat except what they can get from charity. The Spanish have nothing to give.

Armistice Means Nothing.

Senator Lodge asked: "What does this cessation of hostilities spoken of in the last few days amount to?" to which Gen. Lee responded: "Nothing; practially nothing—the armistice amounts to nothing."

"Suppose Havana was blockaded," said Senator Mills, "so that no provisions could go in, would the people there have any way to get any?"

"None watever," responded Gen. Lee. "The town would surrender in a short while."

Gen. Lee said that all but about 300,000 Spaniards of the population of Cuba, which is about 1,500,000 were Cubans.

"Are all the Cubans friendly to the insurgents?" asked Senator Foraker.

"I never saw one that was not," responded Gen. Lee.

Senator Frye asked various questions in regard to the physical condition of the Spanish soldiers, and the method of providing for them, of which the following are specimens, with their replies:

Senator Frye—What is the condition of the Spanish soldiers there in the island?

Consul-General Lee—Very bad.

Baseball Season Opens To-Day.

New York, April 15.—The great game of baseball will be on in full force today, for the National League and American Association championship battle will then begin. It promises to be a most successful season. In all the teams except the Baltimores and Clevelands important changes have been made. Whether they are to the advantage of the teams will only be proved as the season advances.

Elephants for War Service.

Washington, April 15.—Secretary Alger yesterday afternoon received a dispatch from a circus proprietor, tendering to the Government twenty-five elephants. These elephants, he explained, had seen service in India and might prove of benefit in a Cuban campaign. Men are also offered to handle them.

We now offer the goods at prices below those of the importer and manufacturer, and many shades lower than we can buy again.

There is absolutely no other as good as the first named; there may be other makes that will equal the last six, but they will cost you from $75 to $150 more than we would ask for the same grade and quality.

CAR FARE PAID.

HEALTH CATECHISM.

To be Committed to Memory by all Dyspeptics, Invalids, Consumptives.

What is the first cause of nine-tenths of all disease?

Imperfect digestion of food.

Why does imperfect digestion cause disease of other organs?

Because blood, nerves, muscles, bone and flesh are derived from the food we eat and digest. If digestion is perfect the blood is pure, nerves and muscles strong, flesh firm. If the digestion is poor the blood is supplied from half-digested, fermenting food, irritating every nerve and organ. The result is, sooner, or later, organic disease, because every organ, being poorly nourished, the weakest gives way first, and we have liver trouble, kidney complaint, heart disease or consumption.

Is not dieting the usual and best treatment to cure indigestion?

No, because the dyspeptic has been starved long enough; what is needed is abundant nourishment, not the lack of it. The stomach and blood demand nutriment, not bran crackers.

What is the best method of cure?

Plenty of wholesome food well digested.

But how can a weak stomach digest plenty of wholesome food?

By taking with the food after each meal certain harmless remedies which are known to digest food and thus nourish the blood and rest the weak stomach.

What are these harmless remedies?

The most valuable are vegetable ferments, pure pepsin, Golden Seal and fruit salts. All of these are now combined in the form of pleasant tasting tablets sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Are these tablets superior to the various liquid preparations so called dyspepsia cures?

Most decidedly because all liquid medicines become stale with age and lose whatever good qualities they may have had originally, while the tablet retains its properties indefinitely. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be carried in the pockets, always at hand ready for use when traveling or at daily occupation. They cost but 50 cents and should be kept in every family. They keep the digestion perfect and save doctor's bills by warding off disease.

Are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets adapted to all forms of dyspepsia.

Yes, because in all cases the trouble results from indigested, fermenting food. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cause the food to be digested before it has time to ferment.

If you wish to know more about them ask your druggist for a package and try them. 4 11 13 15.

SENATE DELAYS ACTION

A Vote on War Resolution May Be Reached To-Night.

STAND OF THE PRESIDENT

Said That He Will Veto Any Resolution Recognizing the Cuban Republic—Report edto Have Informed British Ambassador to That Effect—England's Sympathy Would Be Forfeited if Cuba Were Recognized.

Washington, April 15.—When the Senate decide to adjourn a few minutes past 6 o'clock, last night, the vote was 43 yeas and 22 nays.

The adjournment was taken until today, and it is proposed to continue the speeches to-morrow. No time was fixed for the vote.

It is possible that a vote may be reached to-day if a night session can be forced, but it is more likely that to-morrow will see the Cuban resolutions still pending in the Senate.

Despite the general uncertainty as to what course the Senate will take, the consensus of opinion is that the recognition resolution will be defeated and the Davis resolution, as reported by the majority of the Foreign Relations Committee, will be the one adopted in the Senate. If this is done it means a conference between the two branches of Congress, and again the opinion is divided as to the final result. If the Senate should adopt the recognition resolution, the House would not accept it, and the Conference Committee would reject it, so there is no possibility of its final adoption.

It is asserted by members of Congress who have talked with the President that if either the House resolution or the majority resolution of the Senate is sent to him he will sign it promptly and execute its provisions immediately with the army and navy, but that if the recognition of the present republic of Cuba is inserted he will veto the resolution. It is said that the Foreign Relations Committee is aware of this. The President is quoted as explaining his position on this proposition to the Senators who called on him.

He is represented as saying that the sympathy even of England would be forfeited by this Government if the present republic were recognized. The expression "stable and independent government," he is represented as saying has been carefully considered and found acceptable, but that Sir Julian, the British Ambassador, has represented to this Government that the recognition of the present republic would be regarded by Great Britain, as well as by the other powers, as encouraging malcontents among the colonies and possessions of foreign government in this hemisphere to revolt, relying on the United States to recognize their independence, however weak they might be.

Though no fear might be entertained that this Government would encourage such revolts intentionally or that it would give the recognition sought, the fact of recognition being given to Cuba in advance of intervention, might furnish sufficient encouragement to start revolts.

The President is reported as saying that he has given assurance that no such recognition will be given. He is further represented as declaring that he will veto any resolution including recognition of the Cuban republic. The statement of a threatened veto of such a resolution is current at the Capitol.

Senator Turner of Washington bitterly assailed the President yesterday in speaking on the Cuban resolution, declaring that Congress alone had the right to declare war, and should not delegate its power to the President. He denounced the delay of the administration and declared that the President had been guilty of equivocation and subterfuge; that the "shameless procrastination" had humiliated us in the eyes of the rest of the world.

Senator Hoar replied in defense of the President in a long and telling speech, and his most sensational statement was that he believed Spanish officials guilty of the destruction of the Maine, and that Spain should be held accountable for the loss of the battle ship.

At a late hour last night Senator Foraker confidently said that if his resolution went through the Senate and House with the provision for the recognition of the Cuban republic, President McKinley would not veto it. Several Republican Senators concur in this opinion because they believe the President would rather take that resolution than cause further delay, which would give Spain time to prepare for the war which is inevitable.

Foraker claims 51 votes against President McKinley's policy. The opposition concedes him 40. Many of the Senators, favorable to immediate recognition, have no enmity against the administration; nevertheless they have joined forces with the President's most bitter foe. If Senator Foraker succeeds in amending the Senate resolutions so that recognition will be added, the House of Representatives must deal with the Cuban question all over again.

As the Senate has virtually rejected the House resolution as too mild, the House must now either pass the senate resolution or appoint a conference committee. This means that the war resolution is not likely to reach the President before Monday or Tuesday.

The President will then give notice to Spain that unless she abandons her war in Cuba (which means "Get out!") the United States Army and Navy will take possession of the island.

Queen Threatens to Resign.

London, April 15.—The Madrid correspondent of the Morning Post, telegraphing by way of Biarritz, says: "The Queen Regent has informed the members of her court that it is her intention to abdicate immediately if the Cabinet takes any steps derogatory to Spains' honor and dignity."

No Swiss Mediation.

Berne, Switzerland, April 15.—The Swiss National Council has unanimously rejected the proposal that the Swiss Government offer its services in mediation between the United States and Spain.

Bill Drafted to Provide Funds for the Conflict.

BIG BOND ISSUE PLAN

Annual Revenues to Be Increased by $100,000,000—The Tax on Tobacco and Beer Will Be Increased—Other Changes in the Tariff.

Washington, April 15.—Chairman Dingley of the Committee on Ways and Means is at work on a bill to be introduced in a day or two, providing for the raising of revenue to meet the expenditures already authorized and those anticipated by the passage of the Cuban resolution. It is the understanding that the bill will be introduced immediately succeeding action by the Senate on the resolutions now pending before it.

The bill has been drafted upon the basis of an increase of $100,000,000 annually in revenues, and an immediate loan of $500,000,000 to enable the Government to enter upon and carry on war with Spain.

The loan will be divided into bonds of the amount of $300,000,000 and $200,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness, which the Secretary of the Treasury will be authorized to issue.

This proposition may be made a permanent provision of the law, to be exercised in times of exigency. The bonds will be offered for general subscriptions at Government agencies in all parts of the country, that the loan may be as widely distributed as the people may desire—a popular loan in the fullest sense.

To provide the additional revenue the tax on tobacco will be increased, and the special license tax assessed against retail dealers, repealed by the law of 1890, may be revived.

The Stamp Tax act of 1866 will be reenacted, omitting those features which the experience of the Treasury Department has demonstrated were vexatious to the people without the compensating advantage of producing revenue omitted.

An increase will be made of $1 a barrel in the beer tax. It is also proposed to enact Senator Lodge's bill to tax transfers of bonds and stocks, which was added to the Dingley Tariff bill in the Senate and afterward stricken out in conference.

Coffee and tea will be taken from the free list, and the old-time war duty levied on the importations of those articles.

This is the only change that will be made in the tariff, all other taxes being included within the internal revenue.

WEYLER CALLED TO MADRID.

The Butcher-General Declares That Cuba is Lost Unless Spain Fights.

Madrid, April 15.—Gen. Weyler arrived here yesterday, apparently called by the Government. He considers war with the United States inevitable. He was met at the railroad station by Gen. Prat, in full uniform, and many friends, military men and civilians.

The Governor of Madrid prohibited the demonstrations which it was proposed to make, and adopted strong precautionary measures. There was a detachment of police at the station, there were policemen in the streets through which the General passed, and police officers were stationed even within the entrance of the General's residence.

From the railroad station the former Captain-General was driven rapidly to his home in a carriage, accompanied by Senor Mosamena, a member of the Chamber of Deputies.

When questioned on the subject, Gen. Weyler refused to say he was called to Madrid by the Government, but, he added, speaking to the correspondent of the Associated Press:

"I have indeed offered my services to the Queen. I consider war with America inevitable or Cuba is lost to Spain.

"I believe war is preferable to a continuation of the prolonged tension between Washington and Madrid."

More Spanish Cruisers at Cape Verde.

St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, April 15.—The Spanish armored cruisers Infanta Maria Teresa and Cristobal Colon arrived here yesterday and joined the torpedo flotilla, which has been here since April 1. All of these vessels are now in this port.

Washington, April 15.—The arrival of the armored cruisers, Infanta Maria Teresa and Cristobal Colon, at Cape Verde Islands, where they have joined the Spanish torpedo flotilla, confirms the belief among naval officers that the Vizcaya and Oquendo are bound for the same port. If that is the case, the Vizcaya and Oquendo should arrive at the Cape Verde Islands to-morrow or Saturday.

Patriotic Express Company.

New York, April 15.—The American Express Company has notified such of its employes as are members of the National Guard and Naval Reserve of the several States, that, if called upon to accept service in aid of the United States in case of war with Spain, they will be allowed half pay during such service, and upon their return to duties with the company, will be given their former positions and salary, or some other position of an equal salary.

Took Coast Guns from Havana.

New York, April 15.—Information that is regarded as somewhat significant has reached this city to the effect that when the Spanish war ship Vizcaya left Havana she took with her from that port a number of rapid fire guns that had been mounted on shore preparatory to repelling a possible invasion. The vessel also took away a large quantity of the private papers of the Captain-General and of the Government archives.

Italian Cruiser Not Sold.

Rome, April 15.—It is announced that there is no truth in the report that the Italian Cabinet is considering a contract for the sale of the armored cruiser Giuseppe Garibaldi to Spain, as the sale has not yet been decided upon.

THE FIREMEN'S HOME.

The fact that the Hotel Hunterston (popularly known as the Netherwood) has been leased as a summer resort has not disturbed the efforts of those who are working to secure its selection for the Home for Feeble and Disabled Firemen. The industry in this direction is being quitely pursued, however, and probably with good effect. J. Fred MacDonald, a man who generally undertakes any endeavor in a thoroughly practical manner, is at the head of the plan to have the home located at Netherwood Heights. Just how much co-operation he has we are not aware, but at least it is not that of public agitation, which would be a very good thing in its way. The State has appropraited $75,000 for the purpose of establishing the home and it seems that sum ought to be sufficient to secure the Hunterson building and grounds for the Home. Those who are in a position to know the requirements of a building such as will be needed, say that the hotel property is particularly well-adapted to them.

The New Brunswick Board of Trade is agitating the subject of securing the home for their city, and, in fact, have taken aggressive steps in that direction. The establishment of the institution in Plainfield is a goal for which the local Board of Trade could very worthily strive.

LUCKY NEWSPAPERMAN.

Republican editors of New Jersey are not faring badly in gathering in their share of the patronage plums these days. Trenton had a large representation of journalists holding public positions during the last legislature, and even now a number are basking in the shunshine of permanent berths until their political sponsors are turned out of office by popular votes.

Only a short time ago the Rahway postmastership went to Editor Rollinson—who holds the record for perpetual office holding in Union county—and now comes the news from Washington that Editor Mason, of the Bound Brook Chronicle, will not only wrestle with delinquent subscribers and writing obituaries, but as well with the aggravating details—also the pleasing ones, such as drawing a liberal salary—in the local postoffice. He has Congressman Howell to thank for this perquisite.

THE WAY THAT REACHES.

The Hartford Courant editorially declares that "judicious advertising is the way to make business, and the newspaper is the direct way to reach the customer. There is no getting around this statement." Of course, there are other ways of wooing trade, and all have their values or they would not last. But what other tradewinner is there that goes into so many thousands of homes every morning before the families are up, sits beside them at breakfast and speeds the day telling of the war news and the store news?—Philadelphia Record.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

The number of Collier's Weekly for April 9th contains a full page illustration for Richard LaGallienne's poem, "Marjorie in the Spring," by George Warton Edwards, of this city. The verses, which describes one blind and dumb to the sights and sounds of the springtime, are written on a tombstone, below which lies the sleeping form of a fair woman, unconscious of the flowers waking to life around her, and the beautiful scene beyond. The exceeding delicacy of finish and perfection of detail that characterize all Mr. Edwards' work, are shown to the full in this drawing, and the several smaller illustrations by the same hand which appear in the paper. These are fanciful panels framing in pages of reading matter, and tiny exquisitely-drawn foreign scenes illustrating a story by Robert W. Chambers. The perfect grace and soft harmoniousness of the former and the atmosphere of French life which seems to pervade the latter, will be felt immediately by the many who admire and appreciate Mr. Edwards' dainty work.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Daniel R. Ryan and Miss Ethel Fuller will be at Music Hall all of next week in a repertoire of plays new to Plainfield. The opening play is Louis Aldrich's great New York success, "The Editor." The play abounds with humorous situations, the whole performance being most interesting as well as amusing. The character of Col. John Hawkins, editor of the American Eagle, is brim full of comedy, and Mr. Ryan portrays the life of a far west American editor, who, though not fashioned in the polish at all times, is large of heart, true and steadfast of purpose, noble in aspiration, and at all times American, with the highest respect for his profession of honest journalism. The sale of seats for "The Editor" opened this morning at the box office. Prices are 10, 20 and 30 cents. Mr. Ryan will present the following plays during the week: Monday, "The Editor;" Tuesday, "Lost Paradise;" Wednesday, "The Fatal Wedding;" Thursday, "Jim, the Penman;" Friday, "Ingomar," and Saturday night, "The Circus Girl."

RECEPTION AT EVONA.

Pleasant Affair Arranged by the Heavenly Rest Women.

The reception held in the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest yesterday afternoon and evening, notwithstanding the inclement weather, was a pronounced success.

The refreshments, consisting of a generous supply of cake, sandwiches and coffee, was a leading feature and enjoyed by all.

Mrs. J. W. B. Lewis and Miss Graves rendered appropriate selections on the piano. Miss Violet Leivers recited "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight" with excellent effect.

Phonograph selections were many and varied and listened to with marked interest.

Much credit is due the ladies of the church in their efforts to make such an informal affair an enjoyable success. The reception committee consisted of Mrs. E. E. Brown, chairman, assisted by Mrs. L. H. Morgan, Mrs. J. R. Phillips, Mrs. J. W. B. Lewis, Mrs. Chas. Graves and Miss Jennie E. Wenzel. It is rumored about church circles that this parish is enjoying a steady, healthy growth, which will be pleasing news to its many friends.

DUNELLEN

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, April 15.—Last evening in Apgar's Hall the members of William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a reception and dance in honor of the event of their taking possession of their new quarters. Formerly the Council met in the Whittier School Hall, but recently a change was thought advisable. The new quarters are very well adapted to the needs of the Council and the affair last night was a pleasant one in every particular. A number of Juniors from Plainfield and other nearby towns were present and all enjoyed the programme presented.

The Piscataway Township Committee will meet today and decide about the route for the trolley line from New Market to Bound Brook. It appears to be conceded that the route will be by the way of Harris Lane and Lincoln, as the road is much wider and better adapted for the trolley.

The Central Railroad Company still continues to use the freight car as a substitute for a freighthouse, and the prospects of a house being erected very soon are small. The car seems to answer every purpose and while it does there will be no freighthouse.

A meeting of the Board of Education will be held soon, when the resignations of Principal Whitney and Miss Imogene Smith, one of the teachers, will be accepted, and a new principal selected.

Captain George Liable and wife, the midgets, who have been stopping in town for a short time, expect to sail for Europe next week with Mrs. Tom Thumb.

Rev. Alfred Jamison, the new pastor of the M. E. church, will preside at the class meeting to be held this evening in the church.

It is rumored that one of Dunellen's prominent and popular young women is to be married before long.

W. G. Runyon, of North avenue, has returned from a business trip out of town.

W. H. Terry, of Church street, has about recovered from an attack of asthma.

The work of changing the curb lines on North avenue is about completed.

Mrs. George VanNest is greatly improved from a recent illness.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, April 15.—State Officer W. N. Pangborn, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has been notified that two well-known citizens a few days ago indulged in practices for which they will be prosecuted. Both own teams of horses and they fell to discussing which was the strongest. One offered to wager that his team was, and to prove it he suggested they chain the two wagons together from the rear axles, and let the teams pull to decide the bet. It was agreed to. One man started his team too quick and pulled the other team off their feet. One of the horses fell on his side and the mate turned a complete back somersault. The other team could not be stopped till it had pulled the prostrate horses quite a distance along the rough road. Officer Pangborn was notified and tomorrow the men will probably be arrested and vigorously prosecuted for the action.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, April 15.—An alarm of fire was sounded in Westfield at a few minutes past 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The firemen responded promptly and discovered flames in the residence of Oswald Young, on Broad street The fire was confined to one of the rooms upon the lower floor, and by gallant work of the firemen it was extinguished before it had spread to the other rooms. The furniture in the room was totally destroyed. The fire is supposed to have originated from a stove in the room. The loss was about $150, and is covered by insurance.

The Ladies' Sewing Society of the Presbyterian church held a successful meeting in the church lecture room yesterday afternoon and evening. Tea was served at 6:30 o'clock.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Washingtonville, April 15. The new school building at Washingtonville will probably be opened for school purposes next month. Everything is now ready and in order for holding school. The old school building still stands in the same place and there is some talk of using it for a township hall for public meetings. At one time there was a person who wanted to buy it and use it for farm purpose but the price offered was not high enough.

BACK TO A FAMILIAR PLACE.

John McGowan, of Varied Talents, Severely Dealt With in Court Today.

John McGowan is one of the "old guard" at the Union County jail. His has been a remarkable career, extending from a champion prize fighter in "de Bowery" to standard bearer for the Salvation Army. The latter position he gave up some time ago as a too unprofitable one, and since has wandered about this section of the country on the lookout for adventure and some thing to drink. Last night he was successful in the latter particularly, and got delightfully drunk.

This morning the erstwhile pugilist appeared before City Judge DeMeza. With frowning face he proclaimed himself guilty and went to Elizabeth to serve a sentence of sixty days and square off the additional fine of $25. John has been there before.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Roundsman Frederickson has purchased an Eclipse wheel from Charles Lister & Bros.

The High School run to Newark will start from the High School building tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock.

A small repair shop has been erected in the rear of Charles C Lister & Bros.' cycle shop by the owners, Messrs. Woolston & Buckle.

Victor Christofferson, of the Jackson building, started yesterday morning on a wheeling trip to Philadelphia. He will be absent several days.

The police have received their new wheels. One is a Wolff-American, purchased from A. M. Griffin, and the other a Spalding, bought from W. H. Rogers. Both seem very satisfactory.

William M. McCutchen, of Rockview terrace, is one of those chosen to represent Yale University on the track this season. McCutchen has been sent to the training table where he will remain until the close of the spring riding season.

George Taggart, formerly of this city, has been elected flirst lieutenant of the Quill Club Wheelmen of America—probably the most unique and exclusive cycling organization in existence, the active membership being rigidly restricted to writers upon cycling matters. The club, whose headquarters are now at 150 Nassau street, New York, will open on May 1st, a clubhouse at 120 Nassau street, the many advantages of which will be extended to an associate membership open to all wheelmen, the initiation fee in this class being $2, and the dues $1 a month. The club, organized in 1895, has already held many notable and successful meets, and a majority of the great racing cyclist—Zimmerman, Bald, Sanger, Gardiner, Johnson, Baker and many more, ride under its colors as associate members. The Quill Club Wheelmen perpetuate, in a way, the American League of Racing Cyclists, formed by the National Circuit "chasers" of 1894, among whom were many of its charter members.

BASKET BALL

Although the basket ball season is considered at an end, a game between the first team of the Y. M. C. A. and the "Big Five" has been arranged for Monday night. It will be played in connection with the gymnastic contest which takes place that evening.

On account of the removal from Plainfield to New York city, F. S. Cutter has resigned his position as deacon in Trinity Reformed church. His successor will be elected at the next Wednesday evening prayer meeting of the church, April 20th.

POLO IS READY TO GO.

Spanish Minister Has Packed the Archives—Awaits Word to Depart.

Washington, April 15.—The Spanish Minister, Senor Polo, has made final preparations for his departure from Washington, but no actual step in that direction will be taken until specific instructions are received from Madrid. Thus far, there have been no such instructions, and no intimations that they were about to come, but the preparations for removal have been completed, in view of the obvious condition of affairs.

The official archives, which constitute the most important possession of the Spanish Legation, have been sealed in readiness to be placed in charge of the French Ambassador at Washington, M. Cambon. They fill a dozen or more large cases, each protected by heavy wire screened doors. The transfer of these documents has not been ordered from Madrid, nor has the Foreign Office of Paris instructed M. Cambon to receive the archives and act temporarily in behalf of the Spanish Government.

Nevertheless, a call by the French Ambassador at the Spanish Legation and a return call by Senor Polo at the French Embassy brought about an understanding as to what steps would be taken in the event of the retirement of the Minister.

Orders for Polo's Return.

London, April 15.—According to a special dispatch from Madrid, the Supreme Council of State has authorized Senor Gullon, the Foreign Minister, to order the Spanish Minister at Washington, Senor Polo y Bernabe, to return to Spain at the moment President McKinley accepts "any resolution of Congress which attacks Spain's sovereignty in Cuba."

FOUGHT A FIERCE DRAW.

Billy Smith and Joe Walcott Come Together in Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 15.—By all odds the fastest and hardest fight ever seen in Bridgeport was witnessed here last night, when Billy Smith of Boston and Joe Walcott, colored, of the same city, fought twenty-five rounds to a draw. The men met in a ring in the Park City Theatre. According to the articles of agreement they were to fight twenty-five rounds at 142 pounds for a percentage of the gate receipts, and they certainly fulfilled their agreement to fight.

The battle was a vicious one. There was not a second of it that was not intensely interesting, and more than once the tension was so great that the crowd, no longer able to restrain itself, vented its enthusiasm in ringing cheers and shouts.

There were fully 500 visitors from out-of-town. New York and Boston sent large delegations, as did New Haven, New London, and other Connecticut towns. Walcott was a pronounced favorite in the betting, but Smith was not without friends, and when they thought the odds about right they placed their money without the slightest ehsitation.

The crowd was well pleased with the contest and with the referee's decision of a draw.

PATRIOTIC JOHN WANAMAKER.

He Offers to Raise a Regiment and Go With It.

Philadelphia, April 15.—Ex-Postmaster-General John Wanamaker proposes to fight for his country if the need comes. Yesterday he sent this dispatch to the Secretary of War:

"Though opposed to war, unless honorably unavoidable, in the event of its coming I will, under your instructions, raise a regiment of Pennsylvanians for military duty, and go with it for service."

Throughout Mr. Wanamaker's store were posted yesterday notices to the male employees designed to allay any fear of leaving those dependent upon them, if they desired to go to the front.

In these notices Mr. Wanamaker pledges that if any of his men volunteer to enlist for military duty, in case of a call for volunteers, he will keep their positions open for them, pay to their properly designated representatives their salaries during absence and insure their lives in the sum of $1,000 against death.

THE PHILLIPINE REVOLT.

Rebellion Renewed and Troops Hastily Sent to the Interior.

Madrid, April 15.—A letter just received from the Philippine Islands says that all the troops which were embarking for Spain at the time the communication was mailed were marched hurriedly to various towns in the interior, where the rebellion against Spanish rule has been renewed. It is added that over twenty thousand well-armed men are now in the field. There have been several engagements and a number of Spanish priests have been massacred. Nobody appears to know how the Philippine insurgents, who had been disarmed, according to general report, were rearmed. But the belief prevails that Japan had a hand in the matter.

The Captain-General of the Philippine Islands, it is further alleged, has been concealing the facts in the case from the Government.

To Flash War Signals.

East Hampton, L. I., April 15.—The War Department has completed arrangements for flashing signals from the Long Island coast to New York in case of war. The crews of the life saving stations are to co-operate with the signal corps of the New York Naval Reserve, which will establish a code of signals between Montank Point and the Cable building, in Broad street, New York. The Naval Reserve signal men will, as far as possible, make their headquarters in the life saving stations. The members of the signal corps are under orders to proceed to the Long Island coast on call. Telegraphic communication is being established along the coast and between the forts.

Ordered to Buy 1,000 Army Mules.

Washington, April 15.—The Quartermaster-General of the army has been instructed to purchase 1,000 mules for transportation purposes. The purchase will probably be made at St. Louis or Kansas City.

Bremen. In der Untersuchungssache wegen des Mordes an Kapitän Plasse hat sich der Verdacht, den Mord begangen zu haben, auf einen Oekonomen, Wolfgang Bergen, gelenkt. Dort ist er verhaftet und nach hier gebracht worden. Ob seine Ueberführung gelingt, ist nach Lage der Sache natürlich sehr fraglich.

SPAIN MAY DECLARE WAR

Berlin Thinks the Resolution Before Our Senate Is in the Highest Degree Provocative and Insulting.

Berlin, Germany, April 15.—The general belief in Berlin is that Spain will declare war on the United States immediately.

The debate in the House of Representatives at Washington seems to have still further embittered feeling here.

The Bismarck papers regard the resolutions reported from the committee in the highest degree provocative and insulting to Spain.

The Tageblatt speaks of "a frivolous provocation to war unequalled in history," and says the resolutions are "marked by infamous hypocrisy."

..London, April 15.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "Several European powers, including Austria, are reported to have advised Spain to declare war because further delay or concessions would be likely to provoke a revolution."

Berlin Regards the Case Hopeless.

London, April 15.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times says:

"The vote in the American House of Representatives is universally regarded here as rendering war inevitable. Indeed, one description of the resolutions adopted is that they constitute an overt declaration of war. It is, therefore, asserted on good authority that the European powers have no intention of making any further attempts at joint mediation."

HE LAID THE MINE.

Admits the Part He Innocently Played in the Destruction of the Maine.

Chicago, April 15.—Charles A. Crandall, alias Emanuel Escadero, who acting under the personal orders of Captain-General Weyler, planted the mines and torpedoes in the harbor of Havana, has been run to earth. He is in the custody of three United States Secret Service agents, who will escort him to Washington, where he is expected to give information to prove beyond any possible doubt that the Maine was blown up by a mine and her 266 officers and crew murdered designedly by agencies known to the Spanish officials.

Ever since the Maine was blown up Crandall has been dodging. He was run down by a Cuban spy, who dogged him from Nashville to Highwood, a Chicago suburb, where he was located by the Secret Service agents early last evening.

At first he tried to evade the agents, but when they assured him he would be protected he volunteered to accompany them, and he is on his way to the national Capitol, where he will give his evidence before the State Department.

Sagasta Declares His Policy.

London, April 15.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail says he has had a conversation with Senor Sagasta, who assured him that the Government was absolutely resolved not to provoke hostilities with America. The Premier added:

"I should be extremely sorry were the country to lose its present self-possession because of the incessant menaces addressed to us by the United States. We are striving with all our might to repress the national excitement.

"While others are carrying on agitation with as much cleverness as Don Carlos has displayed in his recent manifesto, I hope the policy and action of the Government will inspire confidence in the country. Just as we are careful now to avoid giving any cause of offense to the United States, so will we, when necessary, display all possible energy to defend the honor and interests of Spain."

Army to Wait for Congress.

Washington, April 15.—The statement was made on very reliable authority last night that the order executing the plans of mobilization will not be given until Congress passes a resolution authorizing the use of the army in carrying out its orders. All department commanders have received orders to be ready to move South or East as the case may be, when called upon and plans have been fully matured for concentrating the military forces at whatever point will be best suited to the purpose. The present arrangement contemplates mobilization at Chickamauga, but the troops may be centred at some other point.

The Powers to Try Again.

Washington, April 15.—It is reported in Washington that the European powers again will send their representatives to the White House to labor with the President in the hope of averting war, what line of argument is to be used is not disclosed. Spain is doing her best to stir the powers of Europe to intervene in her behalf. Evidently, in spite of her war talk she has no longing for a trial of strength with this country.

Shawneetown's Dead.

Shawneetown, Ill. ,April 15.—The bodies of Dora Galloway and Mary Galloway, daughters of Sheriff Galloway, and Mrs. Edward Fleck, have been found. The Mayor and Council of Evansville, Ind., will send fifty firemen to join in the search for the dead. The water is falling rapidly. Inspection has been made of the levee and it was found a total wreck. It will require $100,000 to put it in condition.

To Keep Navy Plans Secret.

Washington April 15.—Secretary Long has issued a written order closing the Bureau of Navigation to members of the press and forbidding the publication of the official list of movements of naval vessels from this date. Hereafter the movements of ships will be kept absolutely secret so far as possible. This order is the most significant of the war measures yet taken.

Miantonomah to Sail Next Week.

Philadelphia, April 15.—The big monitor Miantonomoh, it is announced, will leave the League Island Navy Yard early next week, when it is hoped the repairs to her ammunition hoisting machinery will be completed.

Baltimore's Urgent Orders.

Yokohama, April 15.—The United States cruiser Baltimore, from Honolulu, will depart for Hong Kong to-day, under urgent orders.

KNOW:

That to-morrow
one three-pound package of the H-O Co.'s Hominy will be given away free to each purchaser of one or more packages of H-O
(Hornby's Oatmeal)
at the Groceries mentioned below

But no person is to receive more than one package of Hominy free

You know us and our oatmeal; and that the quality of everything bearing our name is guaranteed both to the public and the grocer.

Hominy

is the most useful of all cereals. The variety of ways in which it may be cooked is evidenced in a degree by the following recipes, of which we recommend a trial.

HOMINY CROQUETTES.

1 cup H-O Co.'s Hominy.
3 cups milk.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoonful salt.
4 tablespoonfuls sugar.
1 teaspoonful vanilla.

Boil the hominy in the milk about three-quarters of an hour, or until the hominy has entirely absorbed the milk. Remove from the fire and stir into it the eggs previously well beaten; now add the salt, sugar and flavoring. Mix well and stand away to cool. When cold form into little cylinders, about three inches long, and after rolling in beaten egg, and then in bread crumbs, fry in smoking hot fat. Serve hot, as a dessert, and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

HOMINY MUFFINS.

1 cup H-O Co.'s Hominy.
1 cup water.
1 cup milk.
1½ cups H-O Co.'s Flour.
1 tablespoonful butter.
1 teaspoonful sugar.
2 eggs.
If H-O Co.'s Flour is not used add ½ teaspoonful baking powder.

Boil the hominy in the water until every grain is dissolved, and the water displaced by a thick paste of hominy. Beat the butter into this, and gradually beat in the milk and sugar; add the flour and beat well. Now add the eggs, beaten altogether until very light. Pour the mixture into well-greased muffin rings, and bake in a hot oven about half an hour.

HOMINY CROQUETTES.

2 cups cooked H-O Co.'s Hominy.
2 tablespoonfuls hot milk.
Yolk of one egg.
Salt.

Mix the cold-boiled hominy with the hot milk; add the beaten yolk of egg, and salt to suit the taste. Mix well and stand away to cool. When cold, form into croquettes, roll in beaten egg, and then in bread crumbs, and fry in smoking hot fat about two minutes.

HOMINY CRISPS.

1 cup boiled H-O Co.'s Hominy.
1 egg.
Salt to taste.

Heat the hominy in a farina kettle, adding one tablespoonful of water, and stir until it is softened. Remove from the fire, add the egg, the yolk and white beaten separately, and about a salt-spoonful of salt. Mix thoroughly, drop in tablespoonfuls on a well-buttered pan, and bake brown in a hot oven

VANILLA SNOW.

1 cup H-O Co.'s Hominy
1 cup cream.
2 egg whites.
1 cup sugar.
1 teaspoonful vanilla.

Cook the hominy one hour in four cups of boiling water, to which a teaspoonful of salt has been added. When done, add the cream, the whites of eggs, sugar and flavoring. Pile in a glass dish, dot with jelly, and serve with cream and sugar.

HOMINY ZEPHYRS.

1 cup cold boiled H-O Co.'s Hominy.
1 cup milk.
2 eggs.
1 cup H-O Co.'s Flour.

Beat the milk gradually into the hominy until smooth, add the eggs, previously well beaten, and gently stir in the flour and a little salt. Pour the mixture into hot buttered gem pans and bake at once in a hot oven.

If H-O Co.'s Flour is not used, add ½ teaspoonful baking powder.

HOMINY PUDDING.

1 cup H-O Co.'s Hominy.
2 cups water.
3 cups milk.
1 teaspoonful salt.
½ cup raisins.

Put the hominy, water and raisins in a double boiler, and cook for one-half hour; then add the milk and salt and cook for two hours longer. Serve either hot or cold, with sugar and cream.

HOMINY GRIDDLE CAKES.

1 cup cold boiled H-O Co.'s Hominy.
1 egg
1 cup milk.
1 cup H-O Co.'s Flour.

Beat the egg until very light, and stir it into the hominy; add the milk gradually. Now add the flour, and mix well together. Bake on well-greased griddle, in a hot oven, and serve with maple syrup.

If H-O Co.'s Flour is not used, add scant ½ teaspoonful of baking powder

PEACH PUDDING.

½ pound dried peaches
½ pound sugar.
¼ pound H-O Co.'s Hominy.

Wash the peaches first in cold and then in hot water; put them and the hominy in a scant quart of cold water and let soak over night. In the morning, cook it two hours in a double boiler, then add the sugar and cook two hours longer, stirring occasionally. Turn into wetted molds, and serve cold with cream.

HOMINY, FRIED.

In cooking hominy for frying, less water will be needed than for serving as mush. To fry it for breakfast, cut the cold-boiled hominy into quarter-inch slices, flour each slice, fry in just enough pork fat to prevent burning until brown and crisp, and serve with maple syrup.

HOMINY MUSH.

1 cup H-O Co.'s Hominy.
1 quart boiling water.
1 teaspoonful salt.

Stir the hominy gradually into the boiling water; add the salt, and, when well blended, bring to a boil and steam for at least one hour, and longer if there is time, stirring occasionally while cooking. Hominy may be eaten with milk, or with cream and sugar, if desired, or served as a vegetable with beefsteak or any kind of roasted or boiled meat, and makes a very palatable and nutritious dish.

HOMINY CUPS.

1 cup H-O Co.'s Hominy.
3 cups of milk.
1 tablespoonful butter.

Soak the hominy all night in cold water, then strain it and boil the hominy in the milk, so that it may be quite dry when done. Mash fine with a wooden spoon; add the butter and flavor to taste. Press the hominy so prepared into small cups or tin molds, fill them full and press it solidly. When cold, turn them out, place upon a dish, put some jam on top of each, and serve with sweetened milk.

HOMINY WAFFLES.

1 cup boiled H-O Co.'s Hominy.
1 cup milk.
2 eggs.
1 tablespoonful melted butter.
1½ cups H-O Co.'s Flour.

Break up the hominy with a fork, and beat the milk and butter into it; add the flour and beat thoroughly; now add the eggs, well beaten. Have the waffle irons well greased and very hot, and cook the mixture as other waffles are cooked.

If H-O Co.'s Flour is not used, add ½ teaspoonful baking powder.

HOMINY PUFFS.

1 cup cold boiled H-O Co.'s Hominy.
½ cup milk.
1 tablespoonful sugar.
1 egg.
Flour.

Cook the hominy in the milk in a double boiler until very soft; add the sugar, a little salt, the egg, well beaten, and sufficient flour to make it hold together. Spread on a tin, having the mixture about one-third of an inch thick, and bake in a very hot oven until a nice brown. Split and serve with syrup.

These recipes in book form are packed in each package of Hominy.

AN INGENIOUS DEFENSE.

Colored Man Said He Couldn't Hold Up His Pants and Fight Too.

He wore such a guileless expression that it was difficult to believe that anything but the truth ever passed his lips.

The offender was William Brown, a driver for the Plainfield Sanitary Company. His brother Edmund and Miss Eugenia Jackson had had trouble. She charged William with threatening to kill her and attempting to strike her the night after Edmund was arrested.

He explained to the Judge that he had forgotten to put on his suspenders and so had to keep his hands in his pockets to keep his trousers up. His hands were in his trousers pockets all the time, he said, and so how could he have possibly struck her?

The court was convulsed at the story but the Judge was not affected. He fined Brown $8.

MUST OBTAIN APPROVAL

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS EXERCISED OVER A NEW LAW.

It Refers to Repair of Bridges and Makes More Work for Whole Board—Senator Reed Asks for a Better Road.

The Board of Freeholders of Somerset County is somewhat exercised over the new law, which reduces the amount of repairs that can be made upon bridges by committees, without the approval of the whole Board. The members discussed the matter informally at Tuesday's meeting. They were of the opinion that it would add materially to the expense of the Board for it practically would require the whole Board to look after matters which were now left largely to committees. The Board will meet today at the Duryea bridge near Skillman's station, and in the meantime a committee will look at the bridge at Millstone, which the people of Franklin township want renewed. In this instance the committee can report to the full board at once, but frequently they would have to wait until the regular meeting, which would greatly delay the work.

Senator C. A. Reed appeared before the Board with a petition for macadamizing the road known as the Plainfield and Morristown road. The petition was received and filed.

A similar petition was presented by Freeholder VanCleef, for the Six-Mile Run road, extending 5½ miles through Franklin township, from the junction of French and Somerset streets to East Millstone. The same action was taken.

County Engineer Doughty recommended that the Board permit the boroughs of Bound Brook and North Plainfield to make their own rules as to the opening of sewers, etc., in the county roads that pass through them.

The last part of the hour was devoted to the members of the society who announced their favorite hymn and gave reasons why it was a favorite. Another feature was the relating of the origin of a number of popular hymns. The service was very helpful and interesting throughout.

COUNTY POLITICS IN THE BERGEN PLAN.

Freeholders Secure New Engineers to Make Plans.

STORMY CAUCAS WAS HELD.

FRANK BERGEN SAID TO BE ANGRY OVER THE ACTION.

Louis Quien Deposed, and His Position as County Engineer to be Filled by Jacob Bauer, of Linden, Assisted by W. J. Hubbard, of This City—The Vote in the Caucus 7 to 6, With Director Hubbard Voting for Quien—Bergen Says That Quien is the Best Man to Make the Plans for Widening County Road for a Trolley Line.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 16.—There was a stormy session Thursday afternoon at the caucus of the Republican majority of the Union County Board of Freeholders where it was finally decided, by a vote of 7 to 6, to relieve County Engineer Louis Quien, Democrat, from making a survey and maps of the proposed trolley road between Elizabeth and Plainfield.

Lawyer Frank Bergen, the projector of the trolley lines, was allowed to enter the caucus, and he made a vigorous protest against the deposing of Engineer Quien. Mr. Bergen said politics should not be allowed to enter into an important matter of this kind, and he pleaded strongly for Engineer Quien's retention on the job on account of his ability and large experience in the construction of trolley roads.

Mr. Bergen was seconded in his views by Director Hubbard, of the board, but their efforts in Mr. Quien's behalf were unavailing, as a majority of the Republicans had made up their minds to have somebody else do the work.

Those who voted for Engineer Quien were Director Hubbard and Freeholders Tier, Farrell, Ehrlich, Ogden and Roll. Those opposed to him were Freeholders Hulskamper, Miller, Krause, Robinson, Littell, King and Wahl.

The victorious majority then decided on Civil Engineer Jacob Bauer, of Linden, a relative of Freeholder Krause, for the position, together with W. J. Hubbard, of Plainfield, nephew of the board's director, as Bauer's assistant.

Frank Bergen was angry, it is said, at this act, and abruptly left the caucus. He still insists that Engineer Quien was by far the most competent man for the work, as he had constructed the Staten Island Electric Railway from Port Richmond to Elizabethport ferry, and had also charge of the laying of the trolley tracks of the Consolidated Traction Company from Clinton Township through Elizabeth and Elizabethport. Engineer Quien likewise surveyed and had the charge of the construction of the branch lines for the Staten Island Electric Railway Company through the interior of the island.

GREETED NEW PASTOR.

REV. G. W. GARDNER WAS INTRODUCED TO HIS PARISHIONERS.

The Reception Held in Grace M. E. Church, Which was Filled With a Cordial Assemblage—Music Rendered

The reception given by the members of Grace M. E. church to their new pastor, Rev. G. W. Gardner last evening, was, as usual, a great success. The pretty little church was filled with members and friends who gathered to give the pastor a cordial and warm greeting. Dr. Carroll was master of ceremonies and announced the several numbers on the programme that was presented during the evening.

The first selection was by an orchestra composed of Louis Hummer, piano; Morris Sorensen, cornet; Ernest Wilcox and Bert Naylor, violins. This was followed with a recitation by Miss Ada Wilson, and a pleasing soprano solo by Miss Kathryn Glen, accompanied by Miss Lillian Glen on the piano. The two remaining numbers on the programme were a recitation by Miss Hoagland and a tenor solo by M. C. VanArsdale, and both were finely given. Louis Hummer accompanied Mr. VanArsdale on the piano.

The remaining portion of the evening was devoted to sociability. Rev Mr. Gardner, assisted by Dr. Carroll and Mrs. John Valiant, received those present and many for the first time met the new pastor. All were delighted with the genuine hospitality evidenced, and the enjoyable occasion. Other ministers present were Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, Presiding Elder G. W. Smith, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, and they all extended to Rev. Mr. Gardner their best wishes for success and blessing in his work.

An enjoyable feature was the serving of refreshments by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society, who had charge of the reception.

ANOTHER SUNDAY OFFENDER.

Huff Couldn't Convince the Judge That He Was a Seventh-Day Observer.

Fred Huff came up in the City Court yesterday afternoon for trial on the charge of violating the Sabbath observance ordinance by selling cigars and tobacco at the little stand at the Dunellen terminus of the trolley.

He put up a defence that he was a Seventh-Day Baptist. He failed to prove it to the satisfaction of the court. He had no lawyer. Corporation Counsel Marsh was present for the city. The Judge found Huff guilty and announced that he would pronounce sentence in a week.

The H-O Company requests its patrons to leave their order with whatever grocer they trade with and the hominy will be delivered Monday.

WOULD NOT ACCEPT PLEA OF NON VULT

An Exciting Scene Witnessed in City Court Today.

CASE OF SEXTON KENNEDY.

CITY WILL PROSECUTE HIM FOR NOT DIGGING GRAVES DEEPER.

Lawyer Swackhamer Represented the Defendant and Corporation Counsel Marsh for the City—Former Asked for Privilege to Retract Plea, Which Was Refused—Witnesses for City Were Ready to Testify—Petition Asking the Judge to Suspend Sentence on Kennedy—Case will be Heard Again Next Saturday

Legal complications placed a new face on the troubel at the Methodist cemetery. It will be remembered, as was told in the Daily Press at the time, that the Sexton was arrested on the charge of violating the health ordinance by not interring bodies in the cemetery at a sufficient depth to correspond with the demands of the health ordinance. The neighbors were up in arms and a lively trial was expected.

This morning was the time set for the trial. It was to be held in the Council chambers before City Judge DeMeza. This morning the Judge and all the officials of the court with the witnesses assembled. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh was present to represent the city. S. S. Swackhamer appeared as counsel for Isaac W. Kennedy, sexton of the First M. E. church, the alleged offender of the Health Board's rules.

Mr. Swackhamer asked the privilege of retracting the plea of not guilty for his client and of substituting that of non vult. The request met with decided opposition from the Corporation Counsel. Mr. Swackhamer gave as his reasons for the change that the defence had understood that Kennedy was charged with violating a regular city ordinance which does not provide any special depth. The mistake had been discovered and therefore they wished to change the plea. He explained that Sexton Kennedy had no knowledge of breaking the law in any way and that if he had violated any ordinance it was entirely unintentional.

Mr. Swackhamer had a petition to present to the court from a number of representative citizens testifying as to the good character of the sexton and asking that the sentence of the court be suspended. Among the signers were J. W. Gavett, G. Q. Packer, G. L. VanEmburgh, Fred G. Lounsburw, Henry Liefke, E. M. Laing, A. M. Runyon & Son, C. H. Rugg, L. W. Randolph and J. W. Jackson. There were also personal letters from J. W. Jackson and Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass.

Corporation Counsel Marsh made a vigorous protest and declared that as the representative of the city he would oppose the changing of the plea to anything but guilty. It was an attempt to get around the law, he said. He also declared that the defence had been trying to bring the Board of Health and its ordinances into disrepute.

Judge DeMeza refused to accept the change of plea but remarked that a change to guilty would be allowed. Mr. Swackhamer was undecided and asked for a week's adjournment to consider the case. The adjournment was granted.

600 AFFECTED BY MARTIN ACT.

Delinquent Tax Items Can be Seen at Lawyer Runyon's Office.

Lawyer Harry C. Runyon, after two days' work in the County Clerk's office, has succeeded in copying off all the names of property owners concerned in the collection of taxes under the Martin Act. The list includes about 600 names, and will be a revelation to many.

Included in the names are a number of property owners who are probably uniformed as to their alleged delinquincies. In one or two instances Mr. Runyon says that he has found citizens who were not aware that they would be assessed anything under the Martin Act adjustments. The documents at Mr. Runyon's office will prove very interesting to those who care to inspect them.

The petition to the County Judge, asking for an adjournment of the hearing on the report which is filed by the commissioners for confirmation, is at Eugene Laing's hat store, where it can be signed by the interested ones.

In conversation with one of the principal objectors to the findings of the Commissioners this morning, a Press reporter was assured that a vigorous fight to have them declared invalid was to be made.

PROMISING CAREER CUT SHORT.

Clarence L. Titsworth Passed Away This Morning.

The many friends of Clarence L. Titsworth, aged 27 years, will be shocked to learn of his death, which occurred this morning at the home of his uncle, J. D. Spicer, No. 125 West Fifth street. Death was due to consumption of long standing. Mr. Titsworth spent sometime in the west at Denver, in the hopes that he would recover his health, but all efforts proved fruitless. He was born in this city and attended the public schools. While the work of locating the sewer system in Plainfield was in progress he was engaged in doing civil engineering work. For sometime past he has been unable to do very much and he has of late been residing with his uncle where he died. The funeral services will be held from the home of J. D. Spicer next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

May Fairchild, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fairchild, of the borough, received a severe cut in her forehead a few days ago as the result of a fall down stairs. In falling she struck her head against a sharp piece of wood. At first her injuries were thought to be serious, but fortunately they proved otherwise.

TROLLEY WILL HUM THROUGH LINCOLN.

The Question Decided at New Market Last Night.

ORDINANCE PROGRESSED.

OLD STAGE ROAD PEOPLE DISAPPOINTED OVER RESULT.

Route of the Proposed Extension of Brunswick Traction Company Decided on by the Piscataway Township Committee—Lincoln Citizens are Rejoicing Over the Victory Which They Have Won—A Big Property Owner Offers Inducements to Have the Route Changed Somewhat, But Not Leave Lincoln Out.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, April 16.—The new town of Lincoln won a victory over the "benighted backroads people" at the meeting of the Piscataway township committee held yesterday afternoon. The route of the trolley line connecting Bound Brook and Dunellen has for some time been a bone of contention over which the promoters of Lincoln and the residents along the line of the old stage road have been fighting.

The advocates of the latter route, including the people of Greenbrook, were represented at the meeting by Allan Strong, of New Brunswick, who applied to them the high-sounding title of "benighted backroads people." His argument was that Lincoln already had two railroads and sundry other advantages that were not given to his faction. Therefore they thought they were entitled to some consideration.

The franchise of the Brunswick Traction Company came up for the first reading and the committee decided by a vote of two to one that the route by the way of Lincoln was the preferable one. The committeemen voting in favor of the Lincoln route were Joseph Field and John Dayton. John Sebring opposed it. The meeting was held in Nelson's hotel. There was great rejoicing among the advocates from Lincoln.

The proposed route goes from Bound Brook to Beechwood Heights and up Harris lane and Lincoln boulevard to Lincoln and then to Dunellen Heights and Dunellen. The franchise will come up for second and third reading at a meeting next Wednesday.

One of the greatest kicks now seem to be regarding the use of Union avenue over which the trolley is supposed to run into Bound Brook. The trolley company would perfer not to use Union avenue at all, but go by Dr. Pierce's property in Bound Brook and so on through Lincoln to New Market. Dr. Pierce's property is divided by two railroads and he has signified his willingness to bridge the place so that his property will be joined. Of course, the company would like to secure some help and they want to shake the other route so for as Union avenue is concerned By the latter route they would be obliged to fill in a great amount of lowland.

A Congregational Sociable.

The storm kept many away but nevertheless, the sociable of the Women's Association of the Congregational church, held in the church parlors last evening, proved a very enjoyable affair. An informal programme was arranged for the evening and consisted of recitations by Miss Carrie Potter, of Rahway, and Miss Aimee Emmons, and piano solos by Miss Nellie Winckler and Miss Cornelia Rockfellow. Refreshments were served during the latter part of the evening and all enjoyed a pleasant social time. Miss Cornelia Rockfellow acted as chairman of the committee in charge of the sociable.

Entertained Insurance Men.

The local agents of the Metropolitan Insurance Company and their wives were entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bailey, of 26 Manning avenue. During the evening Mr. Townley, of Westfield, entertained the guests with a phonograph exhibition, and there were solos by Messrs. Naylor and Hummer on the violin and piano. Mrs. John H. Manley sang several soprano solos with piano accompaniment, a ter which supper was served. Before the guests departed all voted that the host and hostess entertained in a royal manner.

Grocer Weber Cleared.

Herman Weber, the Liberty street grocer, freed himself this morning from the imputation of having oleomargerine in his store to represent butter. The suit of Dairy Commissioner McGuire against him to recover the fine of $100 alleged to be due was tried before Justice Nash this morning. The Justice decided that there was no cause for action.

Part of the Troops Will Mobilize at Chickamauga—Entire Force of the War Department Included in the Plans—Decision Reached After an Important Conference Between Members of the Strategic Board and Secretary Long—Most Warlike Indications Yet.

Washington, April 16.—Orders were issued by the War Department late yesterday afternoon for the immediate movement of practically the whole regular army of the country to the Department of the Gulf. The only regiment not included in the order is the Fourteenth Infantry, stationed in Alaska.

All of the cavalry and light artillery forces of the United States are to be mobilized in the Chicamauga and Chattanooga Military Park, Tenn., with six companies of the Twenty-fifth Regiment, negro infantry, which have already gone into camp there.

The remaining twenty-three regiments of infantry are ordered to three points on the Gulf coast as follows:

First, Seventh, Eighth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Eighteenth, Twenieth, and Twenty-third at New Orleans; Second, Third, Fourth, Sixth, Thirteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-second and Twenty-fourth at Mobile, Fifth, Ninth and Twenty-first at Tampa.

Field officers have been assigned as follows: General Shafer to New Orleans, General Coppinger to Mobile, General Wade to Tampa, General Brooke in Chickamauga.

The same orders provide for the immediate movement of all baggage, tent equipage and supplies of each regiment to the points designated.

It is estimated that all the troops can reach the several respective points of destination in twenty-seven hours, except those west of the Rocky Mountains.

It can be stated on highest authority that Major-General Miles, commanding the army, and Adjutant-General Corbin will leave Washington in a few days and establish headquarters for the general command of the army in the field. Headquarters may be at Atlanta, but the location is not yet definitely decided upon. The organization of the army into brigades, divisions and corps will proceed immediately.

Detail of the Various State Naval Forces.

The department has also decided to assign the naval militia forces of the following States to these cruisers:

The Massachusetts militia to the Yankee, the Maryland militia to the Dixie, the Michigan militia to the Yosemite, and the New Jersey militia to the Venesuela.

The department has decided to use these vessels principally for coast patrol duty. At least one of the vessels will be stationed permanently in New York harbor. This will be the Prairie, manned by the New York and Brooklyn militia, under Colonel W. H. Stayton.

It is likely that one other of the vessels will be assigned to patrol duty on the Long Island coast, so that it may be in position to back up the Prairie in New York harbor.

Yesterday's order for the movement of the regular army toward Cuba was celebrated last night in the Capitol's military colony enthusiastically, and with toasts for the lucky officers who are to join their regiments. It is realized that the order to concentrate troops in Florida is only preliminary to a move upon Cuba. It is believed the stay in Florida will be a short one. The delays and uncertainties of the past are giving way to definite assurances of active service for the army at an early date.

General Miles is of the opinion that the President's first call will be for 50,000 volunteers. That number, with the present enlisted force, will be sufficient to open the ball. The volunteers will comprise hte pick and choice of the militia organization of the country, who will be enlised individually by the Governors of the several States and handed over to the army, to be reformed into their old regimental and company organizations under the title of volunteers.

The Flying Squadron May Sail for Porto Rico To-Morrow.

Washington, April 16.—As soon as the mobilization of the United States army in the South was ordered all eyes were turned toward the Navy Department. It has been announced that the plan of the administration was to order a naval and military demonstration preparatory to making a demand upon Spain. With the assembling of the land forces on the Gulf it was expected that important orders would be at once given the naval commanders. Inquiries at the Navy Department brought forth replies to the effect that nothing had been done. Naval authorities now decline to discuss any question relative to the movement of the fleets, either confirming or denying reports.

There is a well-founded belief, however, that a naval movement of equal significance will be started within a brief time. The flying squadron arrived in Hampton Roads last night, and a hint was dropped unintentionaly that the fleet would leave to-morrow. It is presumed that it will sail for Porto Rico or St. Thomas.

At the same time it is believed that the fleet at Key West will move toward Cuba.

Several large cargoes of provisions sent to Cuba recently gave rise to rumors that preparations were being made for a siege. This is denied by shippers.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

We Seem Able to Do Business and at the Same Time Prepare for War.

New York, April 16.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: New York banks now realize that they are strong enough for all possible emergencies, and may give the Government valuable aid by greater freedom in business loans. Sound New York banks are not in the least alarmed about the business situation, nor have they any occasion for alarm.

The industries are doing well, because they have enormous orders taken in February and March or earlier, which ensure operations for periods varying from a fortnight to several months. But the new orders, upon which they have to rely if partial stoppage or closing of many works is to be prevented, are just now restricted by apprehension about the money market and the possibility of loans. A week ago there was more complaint about loans than there is now, but less real prospect of difficulty. Men who complain are not those who can calmly shut down their works, wholly or in part, and wait. In the iron business there are orders for about 20,000 tons structural work held up by questions of law; in Chicago the large Post Office order is yet waiting, and the Russian order for rails is still pending, possibly because of financial difficulties. While new business offered in this line is still very heavy, the production is so large that it may easily be disastrously checked by a persistent restriction of the current demand. But foreign orders for six large vessels are pending in Eastern shipyards, and actual orders for cars alone cover 20,000 tons basic steel at Pittsburg. Angles have been advanced $1 per ton, and structural works are all crowded with orders, while pipes are in heavy demand.

In boots and shoes remarkably heavy orders have been booked, and others of considerable magnitude are being received. With prices for print cloths still at the lowest point ever touched, buying of cotton goods is more hindered than many are willing to admit by the idea that other goods, not equally over produced, may likewise decline in price.

Wheat rose 5 1-2 and held 2 1-2 cents for the week, although Atlantic exports for the week have been 3,045,021 bushels, flour included, against 876,719 last year, and Pacific exports 827,368 bushels against 212,056 last year. The total from both coasts for two weeks of April has been 7,379,136 bushels against 3,057,482 last year.

Because of the extraordinary output of products, gold imports rise, and the orders for shipment from Europe and Australia have now exceeded $60,458,000, with the prospect that the movement may not be checked until rates for money abroad have been materially advanced. The stock market has not dropped as was expected by many, and although 59 cents per share lower for the week in the average for railroad shares, is supported by railway earnings 10.5 per cent. larger than last year for the first week of April, and 8.0 per cent. larger than in 1892 for the month of March. Chicago eastbound tonnage in two weeks has been 258,551 against 182,791 in 1892. The outgo of money from this city continues large, $4,500,000 during the past week, but is more than covered by gold imports, of which $6,284,500 have been ordered this week. The volume of legitimate business is enormous, and meanwhile failures are remarkably small; for the week they have been 254 in the United States against 207 last year, and 18 in Canada against 30 last year.

ON THE BASEBALL FIELD.

Rain Interferes With the Opening in Eastern Cities.

New York, April 16.—Although bad weather yesterday played havoc with the opening of the National League champion season of 1898, the opening was propitious one in one sense. It demonstrated that the interest in baseball is unabated. Large and enthusiastic crowds assembled in the three cities where games were played, and in New York, where a game was begun, but not finished.

Rain necessitated a postponement in the three cities of the East, where games were scheduled. The gods were kinder to the Western cities, where the opening programmes were carried through. Cincinnati, Louisville and Chicago were the winners, and Cleveland, Pittsburg and St. Louis the respective losers.

Results of yesterday's games:

Louisville—Louisville, 10; Pittsburg, 3. Cincinnat—Cincinnati, 3; Cleveland, 2. St. Louis—Chicago, 2; St. Louis 1. New York—Boston, 3; New York, 2; game called in third inning on account of rain.

Militia Commanders to Meet in Washington.

Harrisburg, April 16.—There will be a confernece in Washington to-day of the general officers of the National Guard of the United States, which will be attended by Gen. Stewart and Major-General Snowden. The purpose of the conference is to settle the question of the right of the President to call out the Guard for service beyond the boundaries of the several States, and also to further oppose the Hull bill to reorganize the regular army.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The hearing by the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission of insurance officers on the Platt bill has been postponed until December.

The Queen Regent of Spain heads the National Navy Fund with a donation of a million pesetas and the Infanta Isabel contributes fifty thousand pesetas.

El Imparcial of Madrid says.: "The Government must not leave it to Don Carlos to take the lead in patriotism. His manifesto is a strong document, but we suggest, however, that he contribute to the national subscription to send volunteers to defend Cuba instead of using his influence to convulse the country."

WILL NOT INTERVENE

The Powers Will Make No Naval Demonstration

AGAINST UNITED STATES

Great Britain Would Refuse to Have Anything to Do With It—Austrian Ambassador Says He No Longer Has Any Hope of Preventing War—Consequently the Proposed Gathering of European Warships to Overawe America Has Been Abandoned.

London, April 16.—A specil dispatch from Rome referring to the rumors of a proposition to make an international naval demnstration off the Island of Cuba, says Austria is taking the lead in the matter, but it is understood that Great Britain and Germany are not favorable to the suggestions.

The officials of the British Foreign Office, when questioned on the subject, refused to make a statement on the hypothetical case as to whether Great Britain would join in a naval demonstration in behalf of Spain. But, they added, they did not believe such a demonstration will be attempted.

A representative of the Associated Press, however, learns from the ambassador here of a continental power, that no such demonstration is contemplated, "though it might be mooted by some despairing friend of Spain." He added:

"Such a movement could not succeed if attempted, in view of Great Britain's flat refusal to join in any demonstration or step with the view of putting pressure upon the United States, if the continetal powers attempted it, Great Britain would probably openly endorse the United States. This would be a certain snub to Europe."

The Austrian Ambassador openly says he has given up any hope of Europe preventing war.

The Rumor in Rome.

Rome, April 16.—The Popolo Romano says it understands the powers of Europe will intervene between the United States and Spain in favor of the latter, and, it adds, according to information gathered in well-informed quarters, the intervention will take the form of a naval demonstraion in which all the powers will participate.

Powers Warned Against Hasty Action.

Paris, April 16.—The Temps warns the powers against hasty action and says:

"Europe must not forget she has a great interest in America. It would be simply disastrous to provoke war between the two continents, and above all it is necessary for the powers to come to an understanding and act in concert.

Any nation which alone assumed the responsibility of supporting Spain and making an enemy of the United States, would do the greatest injury to its most essential interests."

No Mediation by the Powers.

Washington, April 16.—The powers will not be allowed to meddle in the affairs of the United States and Spain. It can be authoritatively stated that in case the diplomatic representatives of the powers in Washington shall present a second joint note offering to mediate between the two countries this Government will decline their mediation diplomatically, but firmly.

SPAIN TO THE POWERS.

Having Exhausted Every Means of Peace She is Compelled to "Prepare for War."

London, April 16.—A special dispatch from Madrid says, regarding Spain's appeal to the powers:

"The note to the powers reviews the whole Cuban question, pointing out that all the trouble with the United States arises through the clamor of the sugar manufacturers, who, it is claimed, fomented and organized the entire revolt. Attention is recalled to the alleged unmolested American fillibusterings, and it is asserted that the chief insurgent leaders are not Cubans, but adventurers of all nationalities, whose sole purpose is plunder and robbery.

"The concessions made by Spain are enumerated, and the note points out that while Spain has done everything possible to pacify the island, the consuls of the United States, it is alleged, have constituted themselve inurgent agents, and the statement is made that when autonomy promised the desired result an American squadron was sent to Cuba to encourage the insurgents to hold out.

"These contentions, it is added, are supported by documentary evidence which, it is alleged, proves the bad faith displayed throughout by the United States toward Spain."

The note to the powers concludes with declaring that Spain, having exhausted every means of peace, is "reluctantly compelled to prepare for war and to fight for the maintenance of its rights and honor."

SPAIN'S POSITION STATED.

Under No Circumstances Will She Consider the Question of the Evacuation of Cuba.

Washington, April 16.—In view of conflicting reports as to the attitude of Spain, a high foreign authority authorized the following semi-official statement of the Spanish position as to the surrender of Cuba:

"Once and for all let it be understood that the erroneous impressions as to Spain's relinquishment of the island of Cuba are false and are calculated to inspire false hopes and embarrass intelligent action. The Government of Spain has never entertained the thought, and never will entertain it, of evacuating Cuba. At no time has there been a consideration of any step withdrawing the soverignty of Spain over her West Indian colonies. The honor and dignity of Spain revolt at the suggestion of the independence of Cuba, which would alike reduce that island to the misery of irresponsible role, and at the same time terminate a Spanish authority irreparably bound up with the prosperity of the island.

"For this and other reasons the reports that Spain is slowly yielding to a retirement from Cuba are both mischievous and groundless. No rulers, no statesmen, no Cortes of Spain would ever consider such a humiliation. But in the face of it, Spain, always desirous of peace and ready by every honorable means to secure peace, will stand resolutely in defense of her inalienable right, her sovereignty and her honor. And she feels confident she has with her the moral support of the entire civilized world."

SAGASTA ON THE MAINE.

Says the American Charge Is an Infamous and Heartless Calumny.

London, April 16.—Senor Sagasta, the Spanish Premier, is quoted in a special dispatch from Madrid as saying, with reference to the destruction of the Maine having been caused through Spanish agency:

"This infamous calumny merits the reprobation of the whole world. All the nations know the true cause of the disaster, and many American officials know it, too. For the American Government to base a plea of intervention upon heartless calumny of this character is to rebel against reason and justice. For this reaon it is impossible for us to refrain from protesting formally to the powers against the imputation."

The Queen's Change of Front.

London, April 16.—The Madrid correspondent of the Standard says: "The Government's attitude has pacified popular and military excitement. In fact, the military and political press is unanimous to-day (Friday) in praising the Queen Regent and Ministers and in discussing the prospects of inevitable war. General Woodford next week will officially communicate to the Spanish Government President McKinely's demands on lines foreshadowed in the resolutions passed by the American House of Representatives."

The Cuban Colonial Cabinet, according to another dispatch from Madrid, has addressed a manifesto to the Queen Regent offering unconditional assistance in defense of Spain and in behalf of the regeneration of Cuba. Senor Sagasta, the Premier, presented the manifesto to Her Majesty this afternoon as soon as it was received.

Denial in Rome.

London, April 16.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"The Foreign Office declares it absolutely untrue that the powers have even discussed any proposition of concrete action in the Hispano-American dispute. So far they have merely decided for the moment, to offer no further intervention as a body.

"Italy, however, has proposed that Russia, a recognized disinterested nation, should use its offices to induce the United States to accept a middle course—one less vigorous in its actions. This the other powers have heartily approved."

BAILEY ATTACKS REED.

Says the Speaker Tried to Put Democrats in a False Light.

Washington, April 16.—In the House yesterday Mr. Bailey of Texas made an attack on Speaker Reed's ruling on Wedensday, when the Cuban resolutions were presented. He read from the record and declared the Speaker had purposely taken a mean advantage of the chair's position, and had endeavored to put the Democrats in the false position of objecting.

When Mr. Bailey had finished Speaker Reed replied that whatever he had done had been done in the presence of a thousand witnesses. He did not think it necessary to make any discussion of his conduct.

He said it was not the first time the gentleman from Texas had made a similar attack on him. The gentleman had required two days to study up an explanation and apology for his course.

Mr. Bailey sought to reply, but Gen. Henderson exclaimed: "I demand the regular order. We have had enough of this tom-foolery," and Mr. Bailey subsided.

Sixty-two Bodies Recovered.

Vancouver, B. C., April 16.—The steamer Packshaw which has just arrived here from Dyea, Alaska, reports that the search for bodies in the Chilkoot slide has been concluded. Sixty-two bodies had been taken out altogether. Among the passengers was R. A. Ellis of California, who left Dawson March 17. Ellis says the first boat will leave Dawson for St. Michaels about the middle of June. He estimates that she will carry fifteen million dollars in gold and that the total output of the Klondike region will be forty millions.

Hiram Maxim on War.

London, April 16.—Hiram Maxim, the American inventor of rapid-fire guns, says he thinks the war will be terribly one-sided, and the result is a foregone conclusion. He adds: "Any superiority which the Spaniards have in the number of ships is overwhelmingly counterbalanced by the greater strength, equipment and speed of the American warships. Spain has no resources in the way of production of steel or the building of ships, while America's resources are thoroughly adequate."

Story of the Weyler Agent Denied.

Washington, April 16.—Officers of the Secret Service Division of the Treasury Department have no knowledge of the reported arrest in Chicago of one Crandall, who is alleged to have laid the mine which blew up the battleship Maine. So far as known no agent of the Secret Service has made any recent arrest except in connection with the regular work of apprehending counterfeiters. Treasury officers pronounce the story as absurd on its face and absurd in fact.

Monitor Nahant Starts for New York.

New York, April 16.—The monitor Nahant, manned by New York Naval Reserves, sailed from League Island for New York yesterday afternoon fully equipped for war service. The ocean going tug Pioneer, owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, accompanied the monitor. The Nahant cannot make over ten miles an hour under her own steam, and the tug will tow her. It will take about two days to make the trip to New York.

SENATE VOTE TO-NIGHT

Peace Plans May Be Rebuked by Extreme Action.

THE PRESIDENT WAITING

Not Expected to Veto Any Cuban Message That Congress May Send Him—Cortes to Act on Our Ultimatum—Formal Notice Must Be Served on Spain of Our Determination to Intervene, with Reasonable Time for Her to Answer.

Washington, April 16.—Filibustering has thrown the question of armed intervention over until next week. In the Senate, after an exciting struggle of twelve hours, an agreement was reached last night to take a vote late this evening. No better arrangement could be effected by the friends of Cuba.

There were 23 names down for speeches on the list of the Vice-President last night when the Senate adjourned to attend the reception and dinner party of the venerable Senator Morrill of Vermont. Eight speakers spoke yesterday, and yet the Vice-President's list, which was taken up this morning at 10 o'clock, still had 23 names upon it. Four hours are to be given Caffery, White and Wellington to divide as they please. Then a half hour will be assigned to Senator Platt of Connecticut. After that the time will be assigned in fifteen-minute speeches until every Senator has had a chance to be heard before the votes upon the pending resolution and all substitutes and amendments are taken. The programme means 9 o'clock to-night before the subject can be disposed of.

When the Senate resolutions are substituted for those of the House and the question of recognition is determined it will be impossible for the report of the Senate to reach the House until Monday.

There has been a deliberate plot in the Senate to cause delay so that the two Houses may not be be able to agree before the Spanish Cortes meet on Wednesday, April 20. Then the peace-at-any-price faction in Congress can protest against the inhumanity of armed intervention while the legislative branch of the Spanish Government is trying futher to deceive the United States and the world.

Senator Money, of Mississippi, says the friends of the resolution are determined to take some steps to bring the matter to an end if a Sunday session is necessary.

There is no warrant for the reports current that the President had threatened to veto the resolution of Congress if it came to him with recognition incorporated. He has not indicated to any person any such intention. His utterance in his message may well be recalled by those now charging the President with interference, "Prepared to execute every obligation imposed on me by the Constitution and the law. I await your action."

Trying to Straighten Out the Tangle.

The real friends of the administration are trying to straighten out the tangle, and say that they are ready to vote if given an opportunity. They believe that if a proper resolution is passed now it will precipitate a peaceful settlement of the whole matter and they also believe that one of the most potent factors in an adjustment satisfactory to this country will be the clearly evident fact that this country will not be responsible for any Spanish debt.

Against the opposition of the conservative administration Senators to the Foraker resolution is the open and vigorous advocacy of that resolution by the sugar Senators and their Democratic allies, who, for political reasons, are working, might and main, for the acknowledgement of Cuban independence. These forces offer the most dangerous opposition to speedy action, and should they proceed to carry out their threats, may indefinitely postpone the taking of a vote on he pending resolution in the Senate.

There is no doubt whatever that the President prefers the House resolution, whatever its crudities of expression, all of which could be eliminated in conference. It gives the President authority to intervene to stop the Cuban war, but does not order a course of action which may be construed as a war of aggression or acquisition. The House resolution leaves our position impregnable before the world and void of offense in the eyes of those nations who desire to maintain a friendly and sympathetic neutrality. The Senate resolution, even without the Foraker amendment, is a hostile and minatory declaration and orders action which in some quarters of the world, will look like aggression and attempted conquest. An official high in authority says that the differences between the two resolutions might mean the difference beween a war fought among the West Indies, close to our base of supplies, or a war fought across the ocean under disadvantages which naval men do not like to contemplate.

Serving Notice on Spain.

Intervention will be authorized, however, in one form or another. After Congressional action, what? By every precept of international comity, reasonable notice must be given to Spain of the passage of the resolution, and, in diplomatic phraseology, Spain must be told to get out of Cuba. There is little probability that this official notice can be given by to-day. The Spanish Minister is packing his trunks and is likely to ask his papers on the passage of the resolution, either form of which he regards as insulting to his country. General Woodford may also have been escorted across the borders by that time, and only by circuitous channels and by the assistance of other legations can formal notice be brought to the Madrid authorities and formal demand made for the evacuation of Cuba.

Reasonable time, at least forty-eight hours, must be allowed for compliance or refusal. That will certainly bring us up to Wednesday next, when the Spanish Cortes has been called into extra session. Sagasta has all along given as his excuse for refusing even to discuss the surrender of Cuba the claim that only the Cortes could assent to a surrender of territory. There will be oportunity, therefore, for the Cortes to authorize the Government to assent to our demands if it feels that way. Every indication is, however, that the Cortes will meet in defiant and warlike mood, and that the idea of surrender of Cuba will be scouted. The limit set in our ultimatum will expire and then must come action.

Probable Trend of Action.

If our warships have not already been dispatched conveying a fleet of merchantmen loaded with provisions for Cuba's starving people, they will leave at once and invest Havana. United States troops will be disembarked at some seaport near Havana and take up their march to the rear of he doomed city. No shot will be fired at first—none will be fired at all if it can be avoided. But the first shot from Spain against either our ships or our men will absolve us from millions of impossible the intervention of any other impossible the intervention of any other power in behalf of Spain.

It is not believed that any serious defense of Cuba will be put up. Spain will retire peaceably or by force from Cuban, perhaps by force from Porto Rico also, but it will be to wreak elsewhere her awful revenge upon Americans afloat, upon unprotected cities, and upon American commerce. There will be a wholesale privateering upon all vessels sailing under the Stars and Stripes. Our ships will be hunted and captured on every sea, and the loss and anoyance will at last become intolerable. It will either compel reprisals in kind, or the armed descent upon the coast and capital of Spain, which President Grant is said to have contemplated when this very situation was threatened twenty-five years ago.

McKinley to Ignore Recognition

Washington, April 16.—The Washington Post to-day says:

"Immediately the President is empowered to use the army and navy he will issue an ultimatum to Spain, giving her twenty-four hours—possibly forty-eight—within which to answer whether she will peaceably withdraw her troops and flags from Cuba. Vigorous use of both our naval and land forces will follow her refusal. The Post makes this statement upon the highest possible authority:

"Should the resolutions reach the President accompanied by the amendment recognizing the people of Cuba, the President will sign them; but in a brief message to Congress he will hold that the constitutional prerogative vested in the President to recognise other governments cannot be taken away, and that the amendment is therefore void and imperative."

Big American Liners Chartered.

New York, April 16.—President Clement A. Griscom of the American Line, who is now in Washington, notified the New York office late yesterday afternoon that the Government had chartered the steamships St. Paul, St. Louis, Paris and New York. The vessels are chartered under contract, and the Government reserves the right to buy them at any time. No further details had been received concerning the charter. The St. Louis and St. Paul, when they arrive here, will be taken to Cramp's shipyard, in Philadelphia, and fitted for service as auxiliary cruisers. The New York and Paris will be held under charter until necessity for their use arises.

Weyler Contradicts Lee.

Madrid, April 16.—Gen. Weyler authorizes the correspondent of the Associated Press to say that reports published here as to supposed statement by Conul-General Fitzhugh Lee respecting a letter Gen. Weyler addressed to Santos Guzman as to torpedoes and mines placed in the port of Havana during his (Weyler's) command and respecting a subsequent dispatch from him begging Guzman to destroy the letter after the catastrophe that befell the Maine are entirely without foundation.

Comedian Barry Dead.

New York, April 16.—William Barry, the well-known comedian, died yesterday at his home, 501 Second street, Brooklyn, from a complication of diseases, which kept him confined to his bed for the last six weeks. Barry was 47 years old and had a very prosperous career on the stage from the time he began in vaudeville with Hugh Fay until recent years. Lately he had been the star of the Hyde-Behman's Park Theatre Stock Company. Seven children survive him, one daughter, Lydia Barry, being an actress.

$500,000 Voted for War Expenses.

Boton, April 16.—Governor Wolcott sent a message to the Legislature yesterday afternoon recommending an emergency appropriation of $500,000 to increase the efficiency of the State militia. A bill was framed embodying the recommendation of the Governor and in twenty-five minutes from the time the Governor's message had been received the bill had become a law and was signed by the Governor.

CHANCES OF NEW LAWS.

Governor Voorhees will give hearings on several bills next Tuesday afternoon that are of particular moment to ruralites, and one of them especially to Senator Reed, as the legislative representative of a large agricultural constituency—that of the appropriation of $50,000 a year for five years as bounty to encourage the growth of sugar beets in New Jersey. It is said that the friends of the measure will have to put up some pretty strong arguments if they expect to convince the Governor that the bill ought to become a law. He is on principle opposed to civil pensions or bounties as being "class legislation." The champions of the measure claim that it is only another form of protection for which the Republican party stands.

If the game law passed by the recent Legislature has friends throughout the State, they will do well to let the Governor know it. There is some active effort making to have him disapprove it, and it is known that the State Fish and Game Protector advises its veto, leaving the present law, known as the Griggs law, on the books. If the agricultural population understood that the law whose fate rests in the Governor's hands gives them the privilege of protecting themselves against the rabbit nuisance, the demand for his signature would be made in no mistaken tones.

A PROSECUTOR EXPLAINS.

John S. Voorhees, prosecutor of Middlesex county, has filed exceptions with the editor of The Press to the editorial comment directed at him the other day concerning the report of his action on a license application that appeared in nearly all the metropolitan papers. Mr. Voorhees states that those reports were not correct. He says that the only basis for the article was the fact that he read a remonstrance against the granting of a tavern license prepared and signed by Rev. Dr. Jacob Cooper, of Rutgers College, in which the charge was made that cock fighting had been conducted at that place. "After reading this," "writes Mr. Voorhees, I paused to say that while it might be so, no evidence had come to me as Prosecutor to prove it."

GLINTS OF HISTORY.

Advertisements sometimes show glints of history. New York had a newspaper called The Post Boy in the Revolutionary days, and cannon, saltpetre and cutlery were advertised in one issue along with an invitation to "gentlemen, sailors and others" to join a privateer just fitting out against His Majesty's enemies. There are no privateering advertisements in these warlike days; but there are other advertisements which suggest war's business side. Yet how modest they seem in comparison with the aggressive announcements of the spring trade campaign! — Philadelphia Record.

THE COURTS.

JUSTICE MOSHER.

Warrant issued—Mrs. John Venable against John Venable, assault case. Hearing this evening at 7:30.

JUSTICE MOFFETT.

Case settled—Dreier against Berton, for possession of premises.

Summons issued—Beerbower against Trust, in tort, returnable Monday.

The engagement is announced of Mrs. Nina Skeel Weir, of North Plainfield, and David Lewis, a well-known banker, of Ilion, New York.

A SPANISH NAVAL TRIO.

Three formidable vessels of the Spanish fleet are the Infanta Maria Teresa, Cristobal Colon and Destructor. The two first named are new armored cruisers. The Destructor is a torpedo gunboat. She was built in 1886, but has recently been overhauled and brought more upto date.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

All the newspapers of the State are intensely gratified over the passage of the new libel law. The law gives the press of the State proper protection against imposition and deception, and relieves them of the danger of being made the victims of speculative sharks. Perhaps the most important feature of the new measure is the part preventing a plaintiff from recovering more than actual proven damages. "Puntitive" damages are practically wiped out by the new law. Another good feature is that correspondents of out-of-town papers may be held personally responsible for their contributions. Hererofore the correspondents were not responsible and libeled persons could only obtain redress by suing the papers. And nearly everybody understands the difficulty and hopelessness of legally fighting one of the great metropolitan dailies.—Paterson Call.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

Without doubt the majority of the people of this country have learned more about the army and navy of the United States within the last month than they ever knew before. Many of the large newspapers and magazines have devoted considerable space to a description and illustration of both, and every publication has something to say on the matter.

* * * * *

The Press bulletin board, which every afternoon sums up the situation in a few words and gives all the latest intelligence, is daily surrounded by an interested crowd. Even the rain does not deteriorate the crowd. Yesterday afternoon from the time when the bulletins were first put up until the last commuter had departed homeward, there was a crowd of varying size gazing at the board and speculating as to what is going to happen now.

* * * * *

When ex-President Cleveland was interviewed at his home in Princeton, N. J., regarding the present national situation, he advised his hearers to leave the President and those who were thoroughly posted on the subject alone and that they would settle it satisfactorily. That, however, is not a trait of the American people. They always insist on having their say on every subject. It is now impossible to go anywhere without hearing the subject discussed. Even the tow-headed little youngster on the street corner has his opinion which he lisps out to his equally tiny companions.

* * * * *

Since the disappearance of the two famous bunco steerers, Spencer and Ludlum, from this city, there has been a noticeable cessation in the burglaries that at one time quite alarmed the residents of this city. Whether there is any connection between the bunco men and the many burglaries, it is impossible to say but it certainly looks somewhat significant. While it does not seem probable that such experts at swindling would risk their liberties for such small game as the burglar or burglars obtained, there are many who believe that some confederate of theirs visited them and tried to put his time to profitable use by making way with such property as he might be able to lay hands on.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

At the meeting of the Westfield Township Committee, held last night, the question of the construction of a shanty for Italian laborers on South avenue was the interesting feature. The shanty was constructed on ground owned by Luther M. Whittaker, and was designed to shelter the Italian laborers who are at work laying the mains of the Cranford Gaslight Company. The adjoining property owners complained that the shanty was a nuisance and a damage to their property, and the matter was brought to the notice of the Township Committee and the Board of Health. When the matter was talked over last night Mr. Whittaker appeared before the committee and informed them that he had decided to heed the remonstrances of the property owners and move the shanty. Several bills were ordered paid and other routine business transacted. The next meeting of the committee will be held Tuesday evening, when a hearing on the trolley franchise will be held.

The barn and greenhouse upon the property of John Stutzman, on the Jerusalem road, narrowly escaped destruction by fire Thursday afternoon. In some manner unknown, the woods at the rear of the buildings caught fire and when the flames were discovered by the owner of the place they were close upon the buildings. A still alarm of fire was given and Bucket and Engine Company responded promptly, and after a hard fight the fire was extinguished without causing much damage.

Rev. W. H. Ruth and family have removed to Rahway, where Mr. Ruth will have the pastorate of one of the leading Methodist churches.

The funeral services of John Miller, of Picton, were held Thursday. The burial was in the Catholic cemetery at Rahway.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Woodruff, of Grove street, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Thursday evening.

P. G. R. Sjostrom is confined to his home on Dudley avenue by illness.

THREE REASONS WHY WE FEEL PLEASED.

1.—More 1898 "Eldridges" have been sold than all other 1898 models together in the six cities in which we have stores—over 1,000 so far.

2.—More lies have been concocted about this concern by starving competition than about all other bicycle dealers in the State—over 50 YARNS so far and more in the process of manufacture.

Dainty Foulard Waist.

Very few waists now made have the material reaching the neck; the bodices are invariably cut more or less low and worn with a yoke or guipure of different material. Some are cut open down the front, showing a strip like the fitting at the neck. Foulards have appeared again this spring and promise to be more in vogue than ever. These summer silks show more figures than any other design.

An effective blouse bodice of foulard combine the dainty shades of violet and green. This waist is worn over a guimpe of white mousselaine, this filmy material also trimming the sleeves and bodice. Straps of green ribbon come over the shoulders and the ceinture is of green velvet.

Teapot Cosey.

A very useful and necessary article is the teapot cosy. A pretty pattern measures 9 inches across the top, 14 inches across the lower part, and 9½ inches deep. A foundation of fine muslin is cut one inch larger than this each way. The two pieces are first covered with maize silk, then a strip of golden brown velvet is placed in the centre, puffings of maize Indian silk are arranged each side, and two shaped strips of guipure are placed over the joinings of velvet and silk. The two sides are laid face to face, and are sewn together and turned inside out.

The cosy is next lined with a well wadded lining of maize silk, which should be made a trifle smaller than the cosy, so that it fits inside; the lining should be joined to the top and ends of cosy by a few stitches, and is top-stitched to the lower part. The edge is finished with silk and tinsel cord arranged in loops at the corners, and two bows of golden-brown ribbon velvet.

White Vegetable Soup.

Ingredients.—One carrot, one leek, two onions, one turnip, a bunch of herbs, a blade of mace, one ounce and a half of dripping, two ounces of flour, a small lump of white sugar, one pint of skim milk, one pint and a half of warm water.

Method.—Prepare the vegetables and cut them into nicely-shaped pieces; melt the dripping in a saucepan, put in the vegetables, papper, salt and sugar, put on the lid and let them cook gently for ten minutes without browning. Add the water, herbs and mace, and let all simmer gently until tender, from twenty to thirty minutes according to the age and size of the pieces of vegetables. Mix the flour smoothly with a little cold milk and stir into the soup when boiling; take out the herbs and mace and add the rest of the milk.

Golf Stockings.

The invalid who wishes to use her little strength in some simple employment can take advantage of the golf craze, if she be able to knit, and make for her golfing friends the knitted scarves which are now so popular. These are woven to show the Scotch plaids on a dark blue, red, or green ground. They are one and a-half yards long, and are about half a yard wide. On the links, men and women both, but women especially, are wearing such scarves knotted round the waist, or across the breast, like a plaid. In that position it is meant as an ornament, while by merely shifting it in the position of a kerchief or muffler, it becomes on cold days on the links a comfort and protection.

Sally Lunn.

Sally Lunn is as well known as Mother Goose, but perhaps few know that she was a pastry cook famous for her teacakes and flourishes in Bath, England, about 1776. Her fame did not die with her.

"Charlotte" is a corruption of the old English word "charlyt," meaning a custard, so that a charlotte russe is simply a Russian custard.

"Macaroni" means "the blessed dead," and derived its name from the custom of serving it at funeral feasts.

New Cloth Gowns.

Among new cloth gowns being made up by the tailors are those in gray-green or Roman-blue shades, with a close braidwork over the front of the skirt made to simulate an overskirt. The open jacket is likewise densely braided, and, as a rule, there is an odd vest beneath, either in pale blue, cherry red, or violet—this of silk laid in tucks and fastened down the front with jewelled studs.

The Origin of Fairy Tales.

Nearly every fairy tale and nursery rhyme has a foundation in fact, and in the case of "Little Jack Horner" and his famous pie the original hero was an ancestor of the present family of Horner, who live at Mells Park, Somersetshire. Some three hundred years ago an abbot of Glastonbury was ordered to give up the title-deeds of the property that is now called Mells Park, and was then the property of the abbey of Glastonbury, or else to lose his head. The abbot naturally felt that his life was of greater value to him than the property, so despatched the title-deeds by a faithful and trusty messenger called Jack Horner. But for greater security he placed the documents in a pie which was to be delivered untouched into the hands of the authorities. Jack Horner however was seized with hunger not unmixed with curiosity on his journey, and opening the pie took out the documents—"the plum" of the nursery rhyme. Then he replaced the pastry and putting the title-deeds in his pocket went his way. What happened to the abbot is not known, but the title-deeds remained in the possession of the Horner family until at last they became owners of Mells Park.

Taffeta Holds First Place.

In silks, taffeta still holds its place. Four yards of plain taffeta are required for a tucked yoke collar, folded belt and two long sash ends, to fall from a rosette or small bow. Turquoise, burn-journalism are not among the lost arts is apparent from a modern instance, quoted in the Kansas City Journal. It seems that Gomer Davies, editor of Concordia, is minus his left leg. A. D. Campbell, editor of the Hanover Democrat, is minus his right leg. By a singular coincidence these two men wear exactly the same size shoe. When Mr. Davies buys a pair of shoes he sends the left one to Mr. Campbell, and when it comes the latter's turn he reciprocates.—Mail and Express.

The Honest Farmer Explains.

"It's dreadfully queer," said the housewife, "that the potatoes you bring should be so much bigger on the top of the basket than they are at the bottom."

"Well, mum," said the honest farmer, "it comes about this way. P'taters is growin' so fast right now, that by the time I git a basketful dug the last ones is ever so much bigger than the fust ones."

The Japanese foot has been praised for its strength and beauty. Japanese can walk incredible distances without feeling weary.

A swordfish weighing 2,070 pounds was lately brought to the market at Taeping. It was 30 feet long, the sword alone weighing forty pounds.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Bayern.

München. Dieser Tage ist zum ersten Mal frisches amerikanisches Schweinefleisch in gefrorenem Zustand auf den Münchener Markt gelangt. Als Ursache wird angeführt, daß seit 1½ Jahren die Einfuhr lebender und todter Schweine aus Oesterreich verboten ist, während die heimische Landwirthschaft den Bedarf der Hauptstadt nicht zu decken vermag.—Die Daimler'sche Motorwagenfabrik in Cannstatt will hier mit Hilfe einer in Gründung befindlichen Gesellschaft Benzinmotordroschken einführen.

Ansbach. Kürzlich wurde hier zur Nachtzeit in nicht weniger als sieben größeren Verkaufslokalen eingebrochen und die dortselbst aufgesprengten Kassen ihres Baarinhaltes, insgesammt circa 900 Mark beraubt. Der Zutritt zu den einzelnen Läden ist ausnahmslos vom Innern der Anwesen durch die sogenannten hinteren Ladenthüren erfolgt. Nachdem in der letzten Zeit auch in der Umgebung von Ansbach wohldurchdachte Einbruchsdiebstähle vorgenommen wurden, liegt die Vermuthung nahe, daß man es mit einer organisirten Bande zu thun habe.

Augsburg. Den hiesigen Aerzten ist seit einiger Zeit der Verkehr mittelst Fahrrads in sämmtlichen Straßen der Stadt freigegeben. Statt der Fahrradnummern führen die Aerzte eine gleichgroße Tafel mit rothem Kreuz im weißen Felde, so daß sie nicht nur den Polizeiorganen, sondern—was besonders von der Ausburger Bevölkerung geschätzt wird, auch dem Publikum von Weitem erkennbar sind, ein Vortheil, der bei plötzlichen Unglücksfällen sich schon wiederholt glänzend bewährt hat.

Bamberg. Der hiesige Magistrat hat die Errichtung eines Elektrizitätswerkes zur Abgabe von Licht und Kraft auf Rechnung der Stadt genehmigt. Anlage und Betrieb sollen in eigener Regie der Stadt erfolgen und eine Submission zur Vorlage von Projekten sowohl für Gas- wie für Wasserbetrieb ausgeschrieben werden.

Erlangen. Der seit einiger Zeit vermißte Gendarm Ponader wurde im Walde erschossen aufgefunden. Es liegt Selbstmord vor. Die an sein Verschwinden geknüpften Gerüchte—Ponader sollte das Opfer von Wilderern geworden sein—sind also hinfällig.

Kelheim. Hungerlöhne bezahlt die hiesige Cellulosefabrik ihren Arbeiterinnen. Für den vollen Arbeitstag haben diese Arbeiterinnen einen Verdienst von 45 und 50 Pfennigen. Da sich die Fabrik sehr gut rentirt, so ist nur die reine Profitgier die Ursache der Ausbeutung armer, wehrloser Arbeiterinnen.

Bilsbiburg. In Eggelsreuth kam kürzlich die Frau des Bauern Wimmer mit Vierlingen, drei Mädchen und einem Knaben, nieder und befindet sich die Mutter ganz wohlauf; von den vier Kindern ist jedoch eines gestorben. Die Bäuerin, die—34 Jahre alt—zum vierten Mal gebar, war kurz vor der Entbindung noch, wie gewöhnlich, ihrer Arbeit vorgestanden.—In derselben Gegend erblickte vor ganz kurzer Zeit ein Siebenmonatkind das Licht der Welt, das sich eines theilweise schon ganz gut entwickelten—Gebisses erfreute!

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Speyer. Die von der Direktion der pfälzischen Eisenbahnen in Aussicht genommene Verwendung weiblicher Hilfskräfte im sogenannten Manipulationsdienste (Telegraphie, Gepäckabfertigung, Einnehmerei) hat schon 118 Bewerberinnen zur Anmeldung veranlaßt. Es werden zunächst nur 20 bis 30 angenommen.

Kaiserslautern. Neulich Nachts verstarb der 14jährige Sohn des Maurers Schwarzelbach an Gift, das ihm seine Stiefmutter eingegeben. Zwei andere Söhne konnten durch ärztliche Hilfe noch gerettet werden. Das Ehepaar wurde verhaftet.

Pirmasens. Die Holzschneiderei der Gebrüder Gundelwein dahier ist vollständig niedergebrannt. Das Etablissement war zu 500,000 Mark versichert.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Zwischen den hiesigen Brauereibesitzern und den Braugehilfen ist ein günstiges Uebereinkommen bis zum Jahre 1900 getroffen worden, wodurch eine Arbeitszeit von zehn Stunden, Abschaffung der Sonntagsarbeit im Prinzip, höhere Entlohnung für nothwendige Sonntagsarbeit, sowie für Nacht- und Ueberarbeit, Mindestlohn von 25 Mark pro Woche und volle Koalitionsfreiheit den Arbeitern zugestanden wird. Das Schlafen in der Brauerei wird aufgehoben und der Kostzwang beseitigt.—Ein preußischer Unterthan erhielt wegen Majestätsbeleidigung seines Landesherrn hier die hohe Strafe von drei Monaten Gefängniß, obwohl er bei Begehen derselben betrunken war und durch einen Gast sehr gereizt wurde. Nach den Zeugenaussagen war er nicht „sinnlos" betrunken.

MANUFACTURING HIGH EXPLOSIVES

The Importance of Compressed Air as a Motor in Firing.

It is a long jump from a pop-gun to a dynamite gun; and yet such a jump a certain schoolmaster made. This is how it came about:

One day a mischievous urchin fired a paper ball from a pop-gun and struck his schoolteacher in the eye. So forceful was the impact of the wad of paper that Meford, the teacher, who was of an inventive turn of mind, determined to see if compressed air could not be used as a motive power for firing something more important than paper balls out of a boy's pop-gun. Why might not dynamite, or other powerful explosives, be fired safely from a huge air-gun? was the question the wad of paper propounded to his mind. In this way, he thought, the shock liable to cause premature explosion might be avoided. The experiment was worth trying, and he at once set about devising such a gun. His success was sufficient to attract the attention of Lieutenant Zalinsky, who had the crude gun of the schoolmaster brought to his station; and, working from it as a starting point, finally produced the Zalinsky Pneumatic Gun, the first successful gun capable of firing a shell heavily loaded with dynamite. This is the part the small boy and his smaller pop-gun played in the invention of the deadly dynamite gun.

The knowledge that several hundred pounds of dynamite, gun-cotton or nitro-gelatine can be hurled from a great gun, miles away, and exploded at the spot aimed at by the gunner, makes all anxious to know something about the nature and military uses of these dread substances.

Five things are required of military explosives. "1—The substance must possess the greatest breaking efficiency for the smallest unit of weight and unit of volume. 2—It must possess great insensitiveness to sympathetic explosions and to mechanical shocks, especially those due to small projectiles, while it yet retains the property of exploding completely through the influence of an initial detonation. 3—It should be quite insensitive to fire, or at least so much so that there would be no chance of an immediate explosion when a considerable mass of it becomes ignited. 4—It should possess great stability, and not only should its efficiency remain unimpaired, but it should remain so under very extreme conditions. 5—It should remain unaffected by water."

Thus far the chemist have produced only three substances which may be considered as approaching the fulfillment of these requirements. They are dynamite, compressed wet gun-cotton and military explosive gelatine. Of these three gelatine comes the nearest to meeting the five required conditions. Weight for weight it has 25 per cent. more breaking efficiency than the best dynamite or gun-cotton, and for equal volumes it possesses 40 per cent. greater efficiency than dynamite and 75 per cent. greater than gun-cotton. It is superior to gun-cotton or dynamite in its insensitiveness to great pressure or mechanical shocks; but stands below wet gun-cotton as regards fire and about on par with dynamite. Wet gun-cotton cannot be set on fire by either flame or spark. It must be dry before it can be ignited. This property of wet gun-cotton makes it the safest of all explosives where the danger feared is fire. The keeping qualities of gelatine are equal to those of gun-cotton or dynamite; and it remains unaffected by water.

These properties of gelatine make it the most valuable of the explosives for military uses. This will quickly be seen if the question of transportation and storage is considered; for 25 per cent. more energy can be carried if explosive gelatine be used instead of dynamite and 40 per cent. more force can be put into one magazine if it is filled with gelatine in place of dynamite. Then again smaller torpedoes, having the same destructive power, can be employed if loaded with gelatine rather than the other high explosives. Gelatine is the most effective filling for shells; now that it can be fired with comparative safety and accuracy from pneumatic guns. A small chloride of silver battery is enclosed in each shell, and so arranged that the electric current fires the charge at the moment the shell strikes. This battery nearly does away with the danger of premature explosion; and also renders it possible to explode the charge from the rear, which has been found to be the most effective way.

In the navy compressed gun-cotton is still largely used for torpedo charges and other submarine ground mines; but the army favors the more powerful nitro-gelatine owing to its enormous shattering power. When bridges, stockades, walls, forts or any similar obstructions have to be removed gelatine is the substance that will do it the most effectively.

Gelatine, as used for military purposes, consists of 92 per cent. of nitro-gelatine and 8 per cent. of nitro-cotton. A certain percentage of camphor is sometimes added to this compound, as a safeguard, camphor having the property of rendering the gelatine less explosive. Gelatine, at an ordinary temperature, is quite elastic to the touch and looks very much like a beautiful straw-colored jelly. When lighted with a match it burns with an intense white flame. It is insensible to shock, to friction, and to the pressure or action of water. A powerful detonator must be used to explode it.

Dynamite is made by forcing a certain quanity of nitro-glycerine into some porous substance, usually siliceous infusorial earth. Nitro-glycerine is formed through the action of concentrated nitric and sulphuric acids on glycerine. It is an oily liquid, clear, colorless or of a yellowish tint, of a sweetish and burning taste and without odor. A sudden blow will explode it.

Gun-cotton is produced by treating ordinary cotton with concentrated nitric and sulphuric acids. Notwithstanding the extraordinary chemical change which has taken place in the nature of the cotton, it still looks like cotton. It is a trifle less white, feels somewhat harsher to the touch grates slightly when squeezed and is heavier than cotton. When rubbed gun-cotton will become strongly electrified and stick in lumps between the fingers of a dry hand. Cotton will not do this. Gun-cotton explodes from a blow, or heat, particularly by ignition; but when wet cannot be lighted.

A Sign of the Times.

A few days ago a solicitor, while instructing a man with regard to the cremation of the remains of a deceased client, remarked:

"You know well enough that the headings 'Births, marriages, and deaths' also bear the description Hatched, matched, and despatched?'"

"Oh, yes," said the man; "but if cremation becomes more general than now, those words will have to be modernized into 'Created, mated, and cremated!'"

The First and the Last.

A short time ago a young fellow, having heard wonderful tales of the skating-rink, made up his mind to visit one. The sight of such a large number of young ladies and gentlemen gliding round and round in all directions led him to believe that skating was the easiest thing in the world.

He hastily made up his mind, and, after ordering a pair of skates, and having them fixed to his boots, he took a brave bold step forward, and—bang he dropped full length on the ice! An assistant at once ran up to help him up.

"Is this your first attempt at skating, sir?" he asked.

"No," growled the young fellow; "the last!"

For Suffering Cubans.

A very successful cake, candy and flower sale was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Snediker, of 110 Grove street, who together with the members of her Sunday-school class from the First Presbyterian church, gave the affair for the benefit of the Cuban reconcentrados The American colors were predominant in the parlor and dining room. During the afternoon many persons called and assisted the worthy object by purchasing freely of the things on sale. In the evening there was an additional attraction in the form of a musicale. There were vocal solos by Miss Kathyrn Glen, Robert Clark, piano solos by Miss May VanFliet and Miss Tallamy, mandolin solos by Mr. Beekman and recitations by Miss Lulu Randolph.

NO RECOGNITION OF CUBAN INDEPENDENCE

House Passes Amended Senate Resolutions.

NOW DEPENDS ON SENATE.

UPPER HOUSE WILL DISCUSS RESOLUTIONS TODAY.

The House of Representatives Stick to the Administration Policy and Refuse to Concur in the Independence Clause of Cuban Resolutions—President Opposes of Bill Calling for 400,000 Volunteers—Steamer Ready to Transport 400 Spaniards From Tampa to Havana—The Pope is Still Active.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 18.—Despite the various predictions, the House of Representatives did not break with the administration in the question of the recognition of the independence of Cuba.

The House met this morning at 10 o'clock and immediately adjourned until noon. It was not until 1:30 o'clock that the Senate resolutions were taken up. There was little debate and the resolutions were put to vote.

The Senate resolutions were passed with the exception of the clause in which the independence of the Cuban government is recognized. That clause was defeated. The remainder of the resolutions were passed by a very large majority. The resolutions were then reported back to the Senate.

The vote in the House on the Senate resolution this morning was 179 to 156. This is a victory for McKinley, and probably means a deadlock over the question of the independence of Cuba.

The bill providing for the call for the call for 400,000 volunteers was submitted to the President this morning by Chairman Hull, of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. The President approved of it and the bill will be introduced at once.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Former Plainfield Women Succumbed to Heart Disease in New York

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, April 18.—The death of Mrs. Josephine Miln, formerly of Plainfield, but of late a resident of 146th street, this city, occurred very suddenly last Friday evening of heart disease. She was enjoying her usual good health and nothing unusual was noticed. She was about the house when suddenly she called to one of her daughters. By the time the daughter arrived Mrs. Miln was found on the floor dead.

Mrs. Miln was the daughter of the late E. V. Shotwell, of Seventh street, and a sister of Mrs. A. L. Cadmus, of Plainfield. She resided in Plainfield for sometime and then moved to this city. Two daughters and one son survive her. The son, Max Miln, is a law student in Brooklyn.

The funeral services were held this afternoon at 3:30 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cadmus, of West Front street. Rev. Dr. Yerkes and Rev. C. E. Herring officiated. Interment was in the North Plainfield cemetery.

SOMERSET COUNTY COURT

THE APRIL SESSION CONVENES AT SOMERVILLE TOMORROW.

One of the Important Cases to be Heard is the $10,000 Damage Suit of Mrs. Henry Burnett Against Lehigh Valley Railroad.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 18.—The session of the Somerset county courts open here tomorrow and with their opening will come the usual influx of lawyers from all parts of the county. There are two cases of unusual import to come up at this session which will atttact much interest.

One of the most important suits is that brought by the widow of Henry Burnett, of Stirling, against the Lehigh Valley Railroad for $10,000 damages. It will be remembered that Burnett was struck by a train at the South Plainfield crossing several months ago. Suit was brought and the case went to trial. The trial was a very sensational one. The testimony was very contradictory. The jury disagreed and now the case will be retried.

The other case of general interest is between the townships of North Plainfield and Warren over the disposition of poor old Mulford Ross, the insane pauper.

Nobody seems able to tell exactly where he does belong, and the two townships have been squabling over it for some time. They have resorted to all sorts of means to rid themselves of the old man, until finally the matter has been taken into the courts. While there is no great sum under consideration, both township committees are thoroughly aroused over the matter, and are determined to leave no stone unturned to win the case.

MORMONS DENIED A HALL.

Disgusted With Somerville Ways They Quit the Place.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 18.—A company of Mormon elders, who have been doing missionary work here for the past week, have left town after they found they would be unable to get any hall in which to hold their meetings. They were quite indignant at the rebuffs.

They had been making a house-to-house canvass, leaving literature and urging people to attend their meetings, and were expecting a large meeting tomorrow evening.

When they found that they could not have Arcanum Hall they made a fruitless attempt to get another place to hold the meeting. Once before they had engaged a private room, but the woman who rented it cancelled her engagement when she found they were Mormons.

The elders say Mr. Green promised them Arcanum Hall, after they had explained what they purposed doing, and when they went to him he said a minister and many neighbors had told him that he must not, under any circumstances, let them have the hall. Mr. Green says he would have notified them sooner, but could not find them.

Venable at the home of the bride's father, Thomas Stokes, of West Fifty-third street, on Tuesday. Among the six bridesmaids will be Miss Lulu Talmadge, of Netherwood, and Miss Edith Hyde, of East Front street. The costume of the bridesmaids will be shaded pink, trimmed with white, and hats to correspond.

No admission will be charged, but an offering will be taken.

A Talk on Faith.

SHAKESPEARE GIVEN BY LOCAL AMATEURS.

"Merchant of Venice" Was Successfully Produced.

LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT.

MISS POND AND A. E. SMITH IN THE LEADING ROLES.

The Presentation Was Given at Music Hall Saturday Evening by the Students of the New Jersey Military Academy and Their Friends—The Young Thespians Gave a Very Creditable Performance and Received the Enthusiastic Plaudits of the Audience—Miss Pond and A. E. Smith Displayed Talent.

The famous Shakespearean comedy "The Merchant of Venice" was presented for the first time on a local stage Saturday evening. What made it of special interest to the good people of Plainfield was the fact that the "Merchant of Venice," the fair "Lady Portia," the penurious "Shylock" and all their friends and companions of Shakespeare's creation were impersonated by the sons and daughters from Plainfield homes. The drama was given in Music Hall by students of the New Jersey Military Academy.

It was a courageous thing to do, that attempt to portray one of the greatest of dramatic productions. It took careful study and long training to prepare for scenes in which the greatest actors of the age have appeared. And the amateur thespians did well, considering all the circumstances under which the play was given. It was not and no one expected it to be, a production like that given by Ellen Terry and Henry Irving. Nevertheless, there was much deserving of praise to be noticed in the production, and some of the parts were taken with a skill and ability that marked decided talent on the part of the participants. The dramatis personæ was as follows:

The Duke of Venice..... Percy Robert Colwell
Antonio, the Merchant of Venice. Walter E. Serrell
Friends of Antonio.
Bassanio.....George Proctor Smith
Gratiano.....Charles M. Dolliver
Solanio.....Abbott Brainerd
Salarino.....Fred C. Bonney
Lorenzo, in love with Jessica. Lindley M. Hillman
Shylock, a Jew.....Arthur Embury Smith
Tubal, a Jew, his friend...N. Douglass Drake
Launcelot Gobbo, a clown, servant to Shylock. Aubrey Cameron Hull
Old Gobbo, father to Launcelot. J. Alexander Wilson
Jailer.....Seward A. Rickards
Leonardo, servant to Bassanio. Edwin Smalley
Servants to Portia.
Balthazar.....William H. Hepburn
Stephano.....Stanley G. Fielding
Portia, a rich heiress.....Miss Rita Pond
Nerissa, her companion. Miss Edith B. Horton
Jessica, daughter to Shylock. Langdon Wright Howard

The students of the academy, it will be noticed, were assisted by several of their friends. The play, itself, was adapted to suit the occasion. Several of the unimportant scenes were omitted and a few minor changes made. All the characters were costumed in appropriate Venitian fashion. Some were so made up that their own parents had difficulty in recognizing them. Besides the characters mentioned in the cast there were the Magnificos of Venice, officers of the Court of Justice, servants and other attendants, impersonated by other students from the academy.

Miss Rita Pond, as "Portia," and Arthur Embury Smith, as "Shylock," took the principal roles, and they undoubtedly carried off the highest honors of the evening. Miss Pond was delightful. She entered into her part with ease and feeling. She seemed perfectly at home on the stage and every action and expression portrayed the character as depicted by the author. Her most pronounced success was in the court scene, where she appeared in the guise of the young but learned doctor, wearing mortar-board cap and black gown in very becoming fashion. Her exposition of the case between "Shylock" and "Antonio" was given in a manner that evinced her decided dramatic talent. Her enunciation was remarkably distinct.

Smith was a surprise to the audience. His part was, perhaps, the most difficult of all, but he carried it in a way that brought praise from even the most fastidious of the critics. His voice, his step, his every action showed that he had carefully studied the part and used his every effort to represent it according to Shakespeare's ideas as suggested in the play itself. His accuracy in the little details was noticeable. In the court scene he, too, was at his best. His acting at that time was equal to that of the many who make their livelihood behind the footlights.

There were others who deserved

OBJECTORS GAIN TIME.

MARTIN ACT REPORT HEARING ADJOURNED.

The Matter Called in County Court This Morning and Judge Vail Grants a Postponement of the Hearing.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 18.—The hearing of the objectors to the report of the Martin Act Commissioners did not come off this morning. Instead the matter was laid over for several weeks. The hearing was originally set for this morning before Judge Vail, of the Union County Circuit Court.

R. V. Lindabury, W. R. Codington, John H. VanWinkle and J. B. Coward appeared for the postponement of the hearing. Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, for the city, opposed any adjournment of the hearing.

The court, after hearing the counsel, intimated that the objectors should have further time. F. C. Lounsbury called the attention of the court to the fact that the county clerk's notice of the hearing did not contain the words "city of Plainfield" and so some persons interested had doubtless paid no attention to the notice.

Mr. Marsh replied that the order of the Court contained the necessary reference to the city of Plainfield and the notice of the County Clerk was in the form approved in the case of the city of Elizabeth and all other cases. If, however, there was to be a postponement he would ask for a new order fixing the time for the hearing, and the County Clerk would give a new notice to cover Mr. Lounsbury's objections. The Court approved that suggestion and fixed May 6th as the time for the hearing and signed the order prepared by Mr. Marsh for that purpose.

There was considerable discussion between Mr. Lindabury and Mr. Marsh as to the right of the objectors to have an order of the Court to examine the records in the custody of the Commissioners. Mr. Marsh opposed the application and said he would examine the records and allow objectors to have free access to them if it appeared right. The Court refused the order offered by the objectors and said he was assured that the city would afford full opportunity for examination. If it did not the application might be renewed. After Court adjourned Mr. Marsh examined the records and agreed that they should be deposited with the collector of taxes.

A MILE OF MOURNERS.

LARGE CONCOURSE OF PEOPLE PAID TRIBUTE TO LATE JOHN COOPER.

Masons Had Charge of the Services at the Grave Which Were Very Impressive—Names of the Pall Bearers.

The funeral of the late John Cooper, of South Stirling, held yesterday, was the largest one witnessed for sometime. The deceased being a Mason, the members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., of which he was a member, turned out about sixty strong and held the services at the grave in Evergreen cemetery.

The funeral services at the house were held at 10 o'clock, and Rev. Peter Gibbs, of Millington, officiated. There was a very large gathering of relatives and friends and Mr. Gibbs spoke words of comfort regarding the life of the departed who was a faithful Christian man. After this service the funeral cortege proceeded to this city and was met on Somerset street near Jackson avenue by the members of Jerusalem Lodge, who escorted the remains to the cemetery. At the grave the Masons took complete charge and their beautiful service was impressively presented.

Those who took prominent parts were: Master, H. O. Hance, marshal, W. J. Ford; orator, B. Frank Coriell; Masonic chaplain, Rev. Geo. Hauser, and M. C. Dobbins, who carried the Holy Bible. Each part was perfectly taken.

Those who served as bearers were: George Watts, D. D. Smalley, Jacob Blimm, Herman Weber, L. S. Pocock and W. R. Codington. The floral tributes were beautiful. There were three set pieces. One from the Masons, one from the nephews of the deceased and another from the family, in addition to a number of smaller pieces.

The funeral cortege was nearly a mile in length.

AN EXCITING SUNDAY RIDE.

MRS. PETER FINGER AND TWO CHILDREN BEHIND THE STEED.

While Descending a Steep Hill near Pedeflou's Hotel on the Valley Road the Breeching Strap Broke and the Powerful Horse Took Fright and Went Tearing Down the Road Toward Home—Mrs. Finger Pluckily Clung to Reins—Bicyclists and Pedestrians Had to Hurry Out of the Way—Horse Ran to its Stable.

It was a wild ride that Mrs. Peter Finger had yesterday afternoon, and she and her children had a wonderful escape from a tragic ending. Mrs. Finger is the wife of Peter Finger, the proprietor of Finger's Hotel, which is located on Somerset street, just south of Washingtonville.

Mrs. Finger and her two small children drove up to Warrenville to visit friends. They had the powerful white mare and the two-seated open wagon. All went well until the return. As they were descending a sharp declivity, near Pedeflou's hotel on the valley road the breeching strap broke and the wagon rushed against the flanks of the horse. The equine made a spring and away she went at full gallop down the hill and up the next grade.

Mrs. Finger was frightened, but she clung to the reins and devoted her energies to keeping the frightened animal in the middle of the road. The roadway was narrow and there were other teams on it. Mrs. Finger's screams warned them of the approaching runaway and they drove down in the ditch to allow her to pass.

A wheelman came along with head bent down. He never saw the flying horse until close upon it. There was no time to dismount so he headed for the ditch. He landed in a heap while Mrs. Finger and her frightened steed went dashing by.

Narrow escapes were frequent all the way. Many did not see the runaway until it was close by and had barely time to get out of the road. Still Mrs. Finger clung to the reins and directed the course of the white mare.

Over the bridge into Washingtonville they thundered. Round the corner they swerved while the children fled in all directions to get out of the path. Along the brook the runaway sped and went straight into the hotel sheds where she stopped of her own accord. Mrs Finger was taken to her room while the frightened children were carried in too frightened by the exciting ride to walk. No damage was done to harness or wagon by its unexpected drive.

A DUET OF OFFENDERS.

The City Judge Dealt Out Punishment This Morning.

City Judge DeMeza had a duet of offenders before him this morning. One was Alexander Fillmore, who was arrested and locked up Saturday night by Patrolman Saunders at the request of J. E. Beerbower. Fillmore happened down town Saturday night and stopped into the City Hotel after partaking somewhat freely. Now the story he told this morning was that a man wanted to fight him. His comrades had accused him of being a coward until, at last, he claims, he went out on the street and was just about to "do" the man in question when an officer arrived on the scene. The Judge left him to meditate on the relative advantages of a fine of $3 and ten days in the county jail.

Hans Schultz has been up before Judge DeMeza before. In fact, this was his third appearance in the third week. The Judge explained that it would not do. Hans agreed. He had been arrested by Sergeant Kiely Saturday night for being drunk near the postoffice. He seemed a harmless kind of being so the Judge decided to give him a chance before landing him in jail for a lengthy stay. Hans escaped with a fine of $10.

POOR INFIELD SUPPORT.

CAUSE OF DEFEAT FOR HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL TEAM.

First Game in the Contest for the Championship of New Jersey Was Played at Newark Last Saturday

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark April 18.—The contest for the baseball championship of the New Jersey Interscholastic Association opened in this city Saturday morning with a match between the nines of the Newark Academy and the Plainfield High School. The Newark boys won after a hard game by a score of 22 to 16.

Claude Edwards pitched for the visiting team for six innings and held the home team down well. He received rather poor support from the infield, however. Then William A. Fisher went into the box for the visitors and proved an easy prey to the Newark batters. The rest of the team lost heart and Newark Academy netted eight runs in one inning.

They took a brace toward the last, however, but could not overcome the lead. Considering this was their first game, the Plainfield boys did very well, although everybody made his share of errors.

The High School team was composed of Thompson, right field; Morgan, centre field; Craig, third base; Lederer, catcher; Fisher, short stop; Schenck, second base; Radford, left field; Snodgrass, first base; Edwards, pitcher.

The score by innings was as follows:
Newark Academy—1 0 1 1 1 5 8 1 4—22
Plainfield H. S—0 3 1 3 0 2 2 5 0—16

GREAT MUSICAL SUCCESS.

Work of Collegiate Musicians Was Very Fine and Appreciated

The concert given last Saturday evening in Monroe Avenue church by the Syracuse University Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs, under the auspices of the Young Men's Association of the church, was a great success. Two years ago the same club appeared at the same place and the church was not large enough to accommodate all who wished to attend, and the same difficulty was experienced Saturday evening. There was scarcely room enough for all.

The work of the club was fine and appreciated to a high degree. The glee club has a strong chorus, although several members were not present owing to illness. On several occasions the singers brought down the house by rendering patriotic airs, and the rendition of the "Stars and Stripes," by the mandolin club, won the hearts of all. Each mandolin carried a small flag and this had its effect upon the audience. A song was given by the glee club the title of which was "What a Happy World This Would Be." Some of the words were "If we could only find out who blew up the Maine, what a happy world this would be; if Uncle Sam would only drive out Spain, what a happy world this would be." The selection captured all present.

The banjo club also did exceedingly well. Altogether the concert was one of the best ever given in Plainfield and having such an enthusiastic audience, the affair was one long to be remembered.

After the concert the members of the musical clubs retired to Epworth House where they held a reception and many of those present were introduced to the college boys. The Young Men's Association will no doubt realize a good sum from the entertainment and they deserve praise for their excellent efforts in giving their friends such a good time.

Benefits for Members.

A meeting of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W., was held Friday evening at which time a committee, consisting of Messrs. Charles Ulrich, Wm. Woodruff and Robert Meeker, was appointed to change the by-laws of the lodge so as to provide for benefits for the members. Another committee was appointed, with Garret Dunham as chairman, to draft suitable resolutions on the death of the late S. W. Baxter.

Humorous and Graphic.

"To England and Back in an Hour" is the title of a humorous and graphic lecture which will be delivered by Rev. Dr. George C. Wilding, in Vincent chapel this evening. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Young Women's Home Missionary Circle of the First M. E. church.

MAN KILLED WHERE CATTLE ARE SAVED.

Horrible Fate of South Plainfield Man.

SAW SURE DEATH COMING.

THOMAS M'CLANNIN'S FOOT WEDGED IN A CATTLE GUARD.

He Was Walking Along the Tracks On His Way Home—Heard the Train Thundering Towards Him, But Was Powerless to Release Himself From the Death Trap—Engineer Saw the Struggle for Life in the Glare of the Headlight—His Body Badly Mangled—Taken to Perth Amboy for Interment.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

South Plainfield N. J., April 18.—Knowing that he was standing in the face of death, but a few seconds removed, a careless step had put Thomas McClannin into the fearful position of being unable to escape the fate that awaited him. McClannin lived at South Plainfield and yesterday morning started out to visit some friends living near Oak Tree.

To make his walk shorter on his return home in the evening McClannin followed the Lehigh Valley tracks from the Oak Tree station. It was just about 7 o'clock when he passed over the crossing at the road that runs between Oak Tree and Mt. Pleasant. At each side of the road slanting pieces of timber are paralled with the tracks between the abutting fences as a guard to prevent cattle from walking on the tracks.

The guards put there to save cattle was the death trap for McClannin. He had almost got across the guard when one foot slipped and became wedged in between the slanting timber. For a few moments before McClannin had heard the rumble of the approaching western express due in New York at 8 o'clock, and which passes the point at a speed of sixty miles an hour. He was hurrying to cross the guard and climb upon the bank to get out of the way of the oncoming train, when his foot became fastened like a grip.

No one was present to see the wild struggles of the unfortunate man to release his foot, and so no one knows what efforts he made as the express train came flying onwards towards him. But as the swaying locomotive came within a hundred yards of the ill-fated spot the engineer saw in the headlight's glare the form of a man swaying back and forth in desperate endeavor to get out of the way of the sure death that awaited him.

The engineer applied the air brakes, but to late. The powerful engine struck McClannin with such force as to release his leg and throw him to one side of the track. In the hope of saving his life McClannin had evidently bent the upper portion of his body over the outside of the rail, but a sharp projection of the ponderous machine almost severed his head and he was instantly killed.

The train was stopped a short distance away and run back to the spot where the involuntary death had taken place.

The mangled body was picked up and put in the baggage car and the train ran back to South Plainfield, where it was taken off. Then the train ran into New York a half hour late.

McClannon was a single man, and a few friends took the remains to Perth Amboy, where he will be buried.

The County Physician of Middlesex county granted a burial permit after hearing the circumstances.

MISS PECK INDIGNANT.

H. T. Smith's Charges are Not in Keeping With Miss Peck's Life.

Further inquiries into the domestic troubles between Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Smith, of Westervelt avenue, show that Miss Sue Peck is unjustly accused by Smith, who has had, as stated in The Press, a long notice served on her charging things which Miss Peck's position in the community as a sensible woman and earnest Christian precludes accepting as just to her. Miss Peck says that Smith's claim that she has proved a disturbing force in his family is utterly false; that the only interest she has taken in Mrs. Smith has been one of kindly sympathy in her afflictions, and has not in any way led her to estrange husband and wife. Miss Peck is justly sensitive to the charges of Smith that she has had an influence over Mrs. Smith in a way to deprive him of a home.

Miss Peck is an active worker in Warren chapel and is recognized by acquaintances as a woman above the actions with which Smith charges her.

TO MAKE CUBA FREE

The Senate Adopts Its Resolution with the Turpie Amendment.

GOES TO THE HOUSE TO-DAY

After Eleven Hours of Debate the Proposition to Recognize the Republic of Cuba is Adopted—Resolutions Will Go to the House To-day—If They Are Not Adopted by That Body a Conference Will Be the Result.

Washington, April 18.—The Senate at 9 o'clock Saturday evening, after a continuous session of eleven hours, passed, by a vote of 67 to 21, the following joint resolution as a substitute for the House resolution, which directed the President to intervene by force, if necessary, to stop the war in Cuba:

Joint Resolution.

For the recognition of the independence of the people and republic of Cuba, demanding that the Government of Spain relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba, and to withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters, and directing the President of the United States to use the land and naval forces of the United States to carry these resolutions into effect.

Whereas, The abhorrent conditions which have existed for more than three years in the island of Cuba, so near our own borders, have shocked the moral sense of the people of the United States, have been a disgrace to Christian civilization, culminating, as they have, in the destruction of a United States battle ship, with 266 of its officers and crew, while on a friendly visit in the harbor of Havana, and cannot longer be endured, as has been set forth by the President of the United States in his message to Congress of April 11, 1898, upon which the action of Congress was invited; therefore

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

First—That the people of the island of Cuba are, and of right ought to be, free and independent, and that the Government of the United States hereby recognizes the republic of Cuba as the true and lawful government of that island.

Second—That it is the duty of the United States to demand, and the Government of the United States does hereby demand, that the Government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters.

Third—That the President of the United States be, and he hereby is, directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States, and to call into the actual service of the United States the militia of the several States to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect.

Fourth—That the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction, or control over said island, except for the pacification thereof; and asserts its determination, when that is accomplished, to leave the government and control of the island to its people.

"Free Cuba and the independence of the island republic," was the shibboleth of the Senate throughout the four days of debate. While the verdict returned was decisive, there were notes of discord. They were prompted by a fear lest if the action taken by the Senate should ultimately be accomplished as final this Government might become involved in complications that in future years would prove serious.

No less than twenty-five Senators addressed themselves to the momentous question under consideration, and while, under the rule, elaborate arguments were impossible, the speeches were characterized by an impassioned force and eloquence rarely heard in or out of the halls of the American Congress.

They were, with very few exceptions, in favor of the most extreme messures proposed in dealing with the Cuban question. Only three of them were distinctly and unequivocally in advocacy of peace. They were delievered by Senators Wellington (Rep., Md.), Caffery (Dem., La.), and White (Dem., Cal.). The speech of Senator Platt (Rep., Conn.) was a straddle.

An analysis of the final vote follows:

Yes—Republicans, 24; Democrats, 31; Populists, 7; Silver Republicans, 5. Total, 67.

Nays—Republicans, 19; Democrats, 2. Total, 21.

When the resolution was passed Chairman Davis of the Committee on Foreign Relations moved that the Senate insist upon its amendments and ask a conference, but there was so much objection to this, Mr. Faulkner saying that the House might concur in the Senate's action, that he withdrew the motion, and the resolution will go to the House to-day, the passage of the "House resolution, with an amendment in which the concurrence of the House is requested." It may be that some member of the House will desire to move immediately concurrence in the Senate's action, but he will probably not be permitted to make the motion.

The programme for to-day is for Mr. Adams, acting Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, to move that the resolution be referred to that committee, and he alone will be recognized. The committee will then report to the House a recommendation that the House disagree to the amendment of the Senate and ask a conference. If this motion shall carry, and it is confidently believed that a majority of the House are apposed to recognition of the insurgent Government and will support the committee's recommendation, Messrs. Adams, Quigg and Densmore will be named as managers of the conference on the part of the House.

It is believed that the resolutions as reported from the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, with the Teller amendment added, disclaiming any intention on the part of the United States to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over Cuba, except for the purpose of pacification, will finally be reported to the Senate and House for adoption.

There is no reason to believe that the President will withhold his signature in whatever shape the resolutions may come to him, but some of his friends insist that if the House agrees to the provision for the recognition of Cuban independence he will allow the resolution to become a law without his signature.

Mr. Dingley, the Republican leader on the floor in the House, said last night:

"The situation is unforunate. The question whether the country shall have war or peace has become a partisan one. The exigencies of party have taken the place of calm understanding Faced with such conditions the Republicans cannot affard to do otherwise than to stand firm. I do not apprehend that there will be any division, certainly I hope not. There is an attempt by the Senate to invade the prerogative of the President. Since the formation of the Government the Executive has carried on the functions of a portion of Congress would now assume."

Said Secretary Long last night: "The matter rests with Congress. It is for them to do."

Another canvass made yesterday among those Republicans who have been known to advocate radical action upon the Cuban question shows no apparent change in the situation. It is believed that not more than twelve or fifteen Republicans will vote with the Democrats upon Mr. Bailey's motion to concur in the Senate resolutions. Therefore, there is still an apparent majority for the Republican motion, which will be to non-concur and send the Senate resolution to conference.

A conference was held last night at which Gallinger, Foraker, Chandler, Quay, Penrose, Mason, Nelson, Baker, Wilson and Perkins were present. No agreement was reached except to wait for the developments of to-morrow. It would seem from talks with several of these Senators that they have almost concluded they are beaten.

FLYING SQUADRON'S NEXT MOVE.

When the Fleet Goes to S a It Will Be to Destroy Spain's Forces.

Washington, April 18.—It is not proposed by the Department to send the flying squadron again to sea until war has actually been declared, and then it will be sent to Porto Rico to destroy Spain's force there.

Just as soon as the New Orleans has received her full complement of men she will proceed to Hampton Roads for duty under Commodore Schley's command. It is also proposed to fill the San Francisco crew to the maximum limit, and to attach that vessel to the flying squadron.

No action has yet been taken on the proposition of transferring the New York and Massachusetts, in order that Commodore Schley's fleet may be composed entirely of speedy ships. This transfer, it is believed, will not be ordered until after the flying squadron starts for Porto Rico, where the heavy battery of the Massachusetts will be required for reducing the fortification of San Juan. When this work is accomplished the flying squadron will be sent to the other side of the Atlantic to meet the Spanish vessels with a view to their destruction.

Besides the vessels mentioned which will be attached to Commodore Schley's fleet, it is generally understood in naval circles that the St. Louis and St. Paul will be assigned to his squadron as soon as they are converted into auxiliary cruisers.

DESERTS POLITICS FOR WAR.

General Wallace Would Rathe Fight Than Be a United States Senator.

Indianapolic, April 18.—General Lew Wallace has caused a stir in Indiana by publishing the following statement:

"In view of the certainty of war with Spain, I to-day tender the national Government my services in the field. That I have been a candidate for United States Senator may subject this action on my part to miscontruction, so I announce my withdrawal from the Senatorial race. To many Republicans who have given me their support I offer my hearty thanks and most grateful acknowledgment."

General Wallace has gained distinction both in war and literature and his withdrawal from the Senate race removes a dangerous opponent of the other candidates.

Army Moves Kept Secret.

Washington, April 18.—Russel A. Alger, Secretary of War, said to a reporter last night:

"I shall henceforth be compelled to refrain from giving out information concerning the movement of troops and other official matters connected with the department. I would like the press to know I intend to treat its representatives with absolute courtesy, as I have always tried to do. But if the war cloud lowers I shall feel constrained to maintain unusual reticence regarding official matters."

A Furniture Trust.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 18.—Negotiations that were begun during the January furniture season in this city for forming a trust have been successful, and it is said that over 80 per cent. of the chamber suit manufacturers of the country, controlling nine-tenths of the output of case good, have agreed to put their plants into combination on a plan similar to that of the nail trust. There is some opposition to the trust here, but it is not extremely formidable.

Watching Spanish Warships.

London, April 18.—Cable dispatches were received yesterday directing all American diplomatic and consular officials to watch for movements of Spanish warcraft in British waters and to report any such movement to Washington immediately. It is supposed that the other embassies and consulates have been similarly instructed.

Hospital Supplies for the Army.

Washington, April 18.—The President has authorized the allotment of $20,000 out of the $50,000,000 emergency fund for the purchase of field furniture, surgical chests, surgical instruments, blankets, mattresses and hospital supplies for the army.

MAILS DURING THE WAR.

Will be Sent Abroad on Neutral Vessels to Insure Safety.

Washington, April 18.—In case of war the Post Office Department will have to undergo a general overhauling. The rules that now hold good, and make the carrying and distribution of the nation's letters one great smoothly working mechanical system, will have to be changed to meet the exigencies of the occasion. For instance, the letters and packages that are now carried on the great ocean steamers of the American line to England and European ports will have to be taken by neutral vessels.

"Mail will not be molested on neutral vessels in case of war," said First Assistant Postmaster General Perry Heath. "This immunity will apply to the mail belonging to the Government, as well as that of private persons.

"The forwarding of the mail to the soldiers on the field of battle will be in itself a department, and a very important one. The men who are risking their lives for the loved ones at home must have their letters delivered promptly, whether they are in the battle field or are marching from one part of the Union to another. The Government will make special contracts with the railroads in case of war, and the trains carrying the mail will have precedence over all others, except those carrying troops and munitions of war.

"War will cost the Post Office Department a pretty sum of money, but I hope we will have it if General Weyler is to be commander-in-chief of the Spanish Army.

"I hope he will land in Florida with his troops and begin that famous march to Washington that he once spoke so glibly of making. What the Southern boys would do with Mr. Weyler and his men would be, to use a slang term, a plenty."

TEN MEN KILLED IN BLOODY FEUD.

Bakers and Howards Fought in Kentucky —Regular Pitched Battle.

Pineville, Ky., April 18.—A man who just arrived here from Clay County reports that the Howard and Baker factions met in open battle at Manchester, Clay County, on Friday, and that ten men were killed and three wounded. Their names are unknown, but it is generally believed there was a battle.

Anselen Baker and his brother Al, who were under guard at Manchester, escaped Thursday night. More than fifty persons had been held as witnesses, but when they were released the Sheriff foolishly returned their arms.

The feud began only ten days ago over a business transaction between the Howard and Baker families. Ex-Sheriff A. B. Howard, his son, Wilkes, and a man named Stow were waylaid and Wilkes and Stow were killed. The elder Howard was wounded. The following day County Assessor James Howard, another son, was shot and killed by G. W. Baker, ex-County Assessor, whose two sons had been arrested for killing Wilkes Howard and Stow.

The Bakers refused to be arrested unless allowed to carry their arms and to have a guard of 100 of their friends. This was granted. News from the scene is anxiously awaited, but no one has come from there since Saturday.

THE PLAN OF ACTION.

Congressional Action, Ultimatum to Spain Return of Ministers, War.

Washington, April 18.—Just as soon as the President is empowered to use the army and navy, et is stated, he will issue an ultimatum to Spain, giving her 24 hours—posibly 48—in which she shall answer whether she will get out of Cuba or wait to be driven out. Her refusal to evacuate the island, which all expect, will be followed by the command from the President: "Fire!" and the bloody conflict will be on.

The moment the resolutions become a law by the signature of the President Senor Polo y Barnabe, the Spanish Minister, will turn over the effects of his legation to the French Ambassador here, and will hurry to Madrid with all his staff.

Minister Woodford will leave Madrid and turn over the office to the British Ambassador to Spain.

Germans Anxious to Fight for Us.

Berlin, April 18.—There have been many applications at the United States Embassy upon the part of old German soldiers who are desirous of enlisting in the army or navy of the United States.

Senor Sandoval, the Spanish agent here, leaves for Kiel in order to test thirteen Schwartz-Koff torpedoes, which he has purchased for Spain, before their shipment to that country. The United States Embassy has been notified of the facts in the case, and will request the German Government to prevent the shipment of the torpedoes if war breaks out before they are on their way to Spain.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Ten more yachts are to be purchased by the Government and armed for possible service in Cuban waters.

All troops of the Department of the East, except those doing garrison duty at coast fortifications, will be moved South to-morrow.

A cable dispatch from Paris says that the strained relations between Spain and the United States form the chief topic of the day.

A London dispatch states that the condition of Mr. Gladstone remains unchanged. A well-known oculist has been summoned to Hawarden.

Former Minister Edward J. Phelps advocates an alliance between the United States and England, largely on the ground of common origin and mutual commercial interests.

Robert M. Lant, who was Minister to France during the first Cleveland Administration, died in Paris on Saturday, aged eighty-three years. The funeral will take place at Baltimore, Md.

Charles W. Hackett, of Utica, chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee of New York, died at Palatka, Fla., Saturday evening. Mr. Hackett was stricken with apoplexy on Thursday morning, and was unconscious for several hours before his death. He was about fifty-five years of age.

When you buy a Piano

you naturally want to get the very best possible for the money you are going to pay. That is what we propose to give you. There is no Piano concern in America that sells Pianos as cheaply as we do. An ordinary Piano man will say "You must make a big profit for I only sell a Piano occasionally." We have always said "We make the profit small and thereby stimulate business." It has paid us to do so, for it stands to reason that quarter the profit when you sell ten is better than the whole profit when you only sell one.

Pay us TEN DOLLARS and you can have a Piano at once.

A TRAVELING MAN

Gives Some Valuable Hints Regarding the Care of the Health While Traveling.

Mr. R W. Wincherdon, a commercial traveler from Birmingham, whose business keeps him almost constantly on the road, relates in the Sunday News the dangers to health resulting from constant change of residence and the way he overcame the usual injurious effects.

He says: One thing people traveling cannot very well avoid is the constant change in water and food; the stomach never has an opportunity to become accustomed to anything and in a few years or much sooner the average traveling man becomes a hopeless dyspeptic.

For several years I suffered more or less from indigestion, sour stomachs, headaches, distaste for food, often no appetite, gas on the stomach and the usual unpleasant effects of imperfect digestion.

Nearly every traveling man has his favorite remedy for different troubles and I tried all of them with indifferent results. Finally on the train between Pittsburg and Philadelphia one day, I overheard a conversation between two ladies, one of whom had suffered severely from indigestion and stated she had been completely cured by a remedy which she called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets; I remembered the conversation because it directly interested me; and at the next town I inquired at the first drug store and bought a package for fifty cents, and from that day to this I have never been without them. They are pleasant tasting tablets, not a secret patent medicine but composed of vegetable essences, pure pepsin, fruit salts and Golden Seal; being in tablet form they never lose their good qualities like a liquid medicine would, but are always fresh and ready for use.

I carry a box in my pocket continually, and whenever I see any symptoms of indigestion I take one, also one after each meal, and for a year and a half I have not lost a day by reason of poor health and can eat anything and relish what I eat; my digestion is absolutely perfect as far as I can judge from my feelings and although there may be other stomach medicines just as good as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, I do not know what they are. Certainly for people who travel they are far ahead of any liquid medicines, as they are so convenient, they can be carried in the pocket and used whenever needed.

I believe they are sold by all druggists at 50 cents, and believe anyone who will try them will agree with me, that for indigestion and stomach trouble Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are unequaled. 4 18 20 22.

ARMY TO INVADE CUBA

Plans Perfected to Raise a Force of 118,000 Men.

MOVEMENTS OF THE TROOPS

Plan of Invasion of the Island Almost Identical With That of General Grant During Ten Years' War—The Hull Bill for the Reorganization of the Army to Be Taken Up in the House—Bill to Be Introduced Authorizing the President to Call for 60,000 Volunteers.

Washington, April 18.—The army administration has practically completed the most comprehensive plans for raising an army of 118,000 men for the immediate occupation of the island of Cuba, and to defend the coasts of the United States. These plans are the result of a series of conferences held on Saturday between the President, Secretary Alger, members of the House Committee on Military Affairs, Major-General Miles, commanding the Army, Adjutant-General Corbin, and Lieutenant-Colonel Wagner, Assistant Adjutant-General, and Chief of the Bureau of Military Information.

The purposes of the conferences were to reach an agreement on the bill introduced in the House regarding the standing of the National Guard organization in time of war.

It was recognized that the expressed willingness of National Guard regiments all over the country to enlist in the coming conflict was due in part to the belief that they will be allowed to preserve the integrity of their organizations while in the service. It was agreed to organize the regular army on a war footing, according to the provisions of the Hull bill, providing for a total force of about 58,000 men.

The only serious difference of opinion which developed in the conference was caused by the proposition of Major-General Snowden, of the Pennsylvania National Guard. He maintained that in case the State troops are called into the service they should be employed under authority entirely distinct from that exercised over the regulars. He said that he would like to enter the expected campaign in Cuba at the head of the Pennsylvania Guard, but that he wished to use his troops as he saw fit, without restraint or direction of any kind from the Major-General commanding the army or any officers connected with the regular troops. His proposition was rejected unconditionally.

Secretary Alger and General Miles insisted that the militia, if used at all, should be used as a part of one composite force, under the control of the War Department and the Major-General commanding the army. The views expressed by General Snowden found no support among the other National Guard commanders present at the conference, and it was generally criticised afterward.

It is expected that the Hull bill will be taken up in the House to-day or to-morrow. It is the intention of the War Department to have presented at the same time a bill authorizing the President to call for 60,000 volunteer troops, to be composed of members of the National Guard from the several States. A bill of this kind is being drafted in the department.

The unusual activity in the several bureaus of the War Department was continued to-day. The preparations for the movement of troops to the Department of the Gulf have been completed so far as the offices of the Commanding General and of the Adjutant General are concerned. The Quartermaster General's department, however, has a vast amount of work to do in connection with the mobilization of the army on the Gulf coast.

The Navy Administration has worked out a complete plan of campaign in the island of Cuba. No details are lacking in the scheme for the occupation of such ports and bases of supplies as it may be necessary to seize in the course of hostilities, not only in Cuba, but in the outlying islands of the West Indies. In general the plan is identical with that devised by President Grant at the time of the ten years' war in Cuba, when it seemed probable that the United States would become involved in war with Spain.

COLORED TROOPS INSULTED.

White Residents Say Infantry's Presence Is Obnoxious.

Key West, Fla., April 18.—Two companies of the Twenty-fifth Infantry sent here to guard Key West came ashore yesterday from the Miami steamer, feeling almost that they were in a hostile country. These troops are colored, and about the best in the United States. The only persons to welcome them when they stacked rifles on the wharf and began to carry their tents ashore were the colored citizens of the town.

The Cubans did not turn out, because they are afraid of being drafted. The Southern whites did not turn out because their dignity is offended at colored troops being sent here.

The Key West Herald, edited by the local "Colonel Starbottle," had attacked the black soldiers and called on God to send yellow fever and small pox to kill them off. In addition to this the whole artillery garrison had made no arrangements to quarter them.

The two companies have gone into camp, and the Key West Herald has taken to the woods.

$600,000 Fire in Boston.

Boston, April 18.—The roof of the big grain elevator at Hoosac Tunnel piers, Charlestown, was blown completely off by a dust explosion yesterday morning and the fire that followed it not only destroyed the remaining part of the immense structure, but it consumed nearly the entire contents, more than 400,000 bushels of grain, mostly wheat. Several small tenants adjoining and a building used as a distillery by Chapin & Trull were damaged more or less by the debris from the roof. The loss is estimated by the fire underwriters at nearly $600,000, making a fire loss that has not been equalled in this city since 1892.

CROWDS HONOR GEN. LEE.

He and Miss Cisneros Attend to Unveiling of a Memorial Window.

Richmond, April 18.—Thousands of people turned out to greet Consul-General Lee at St. Paul's Church yesterday. Only a very small portion of them could get into the building. Miss Cisneros was with the general.

There was no cheering as they passed through the long lines of people into the church, but it was evident that it was difficult for the crowd to check its enthusiasm.

The service was dedictory of the Jefferson Davis memorial window, the gift of the Confederate societies. Rev. Dr. Dame, of Baltimore, made the address. The widow of the Confederate President sat in the pew her husband occupied on Sunday, April 3, 1865, when he heard of the evacuation of Richmond.

During the course of a brief interview Gen. Lee stated that there was no possibility by which a war could be averted unless Spain backed down completely and exacuated Cuba.

"I have been in consultation with the War Department," he said, "and you can state that the militia of the country will be ordered out not later than to-morrow. The order may come to-day; if not, certainly by to-morrow."

General Lee was asked whether he would be made a Major General in the event of hostilities.

"I have not yet been officially notified of my appointment," he answered, "so cannot say anything on that point."

WILL FIGHT WITH LEE.

Secretary Roosevelt Ready to Resign in Order to Join the Volunteers.

Washington, April 18.—Theodore Roosevelt is anxious to demonstrate his patriotism by going to the front as soon as war is declared. He proposes to resign his present position as Assistant Secretary of the Navy and apply for a position on the staff of General Fitzhugh Lee, who expects a commission as Major General of the volunteers.

Mr. Roosevelt has been one of the strongest and most consistent advocates of an aggressive policy against Spain, and his courage and ability have challenged the admiration of every American. He has never attempted to conceal his ambition to take an active part in hostilities against Spain, and the knowledge of this fact has given rise to the report that he has already resigned his present position in the Navy Department and volunteered for active duty in the field. The report appears to be premature, pending authority from Congress to commission General Lee as commanding general of volunteers.

Secretary Long has informed the President and Mr. Roosevelt that he will regard the resignation of his assistant at this time as a personal loss. By his activity and quick grasp of affairs and his labors with the Board of Strategy, Mr. Roosevelt has taken an immense amount of work off the Secretary's hands, and the Secretary argues that a new man, however bright, could not take hold in the present emergency without creating some confusion.

ORDER PREVAILS IN MADRID.

Newspapers Deplore the Attack on Our Consulate at Malaga.

Madrid, April 18.—Perfect order reigned in Madrid last evening, though the streets were thronged with promenaders. The usual Sunday bullfight absorbed popular interest and overshadowed the action of the United States as a topic of discussion.

The Epoca (Conservative), referring to the outbreaks of popular feeling in the provincial towns, counsels the Government to deal gently with the rioters, considering the provocation received from the American public and Congress, and even from the President, and urges the Spanish nation to continue in its dignified attitude, standing shoulder to shoulder in defense of the nation's rights.

More Rioting at Malaga.

London, April 18.—A special dispatch from Madrid says that there was another hostile demonstration outide the American Consulate at Malaga yesterday afternoon. The civic guard dispersed the mob after repeated charges. Three people were injured. Most of the shops were closed.

St. Paul Goes for Guns.

New York, April 18.—The American line steamer St. Paul, acquired by the United States navy for use as an auxiliary cruiser, left her dock at the foot of Fulton street, North River, yesterday for Philadelphia, where she will be armored and equipped for service. There were two commanders on board. One was Capt. John C. Jamison, of the American line; the other was Capt. Charles G. Sigsbee, late commander of the United States steamship Maine. The latter was the guest of the former, but Capt. Sigsbee will command the American cruiser St. Paul.

Alabama's Launching May 1.

Philadelphia, April 18.—The battleship Alabama will be launched at Cramp's shipyard May 1. Miss Morgan, daughter of United States Senator Morgan, will christen the ship. The Alabama will be the first in the water of the three battleships contracted for in October, 1896. The Wisconsin and Illinois are being built respectively at San Francisco and Newport News. All are alike.

Andree Relief Expedition.

Stockholm, April 18.—Professor Stadling, who has been appointed to conduct the search for Herr Andree, the balloonist, who started last year in an attempt to cross the Arctic regions in a balloon, has decided to proceed to the Klondike, owing, it is said, to the fact that geographers give credence to the report that Andree has been heard from in those latitudes. He will start on Thursday next.

Consul's Wife in Danger.

St. Augustine, Fla., April 18.—Anxiety is felt here for the safety of United States Consul Alfred T. Triaya, his wife and children at Baracoa, Cuba.

When last heard from Mrs. Triaya's life was imperilled by the claimed accidental discharge of a Spanish sentinel's gun. The sentinel was angered by the display of the American flag.

BILL FOR WAR REVENUE

Additional Annual Income of $120,000,000.

POPULAR LOAN INCLUDED

Republican Members of the Ways and Means Committee Ready to Submit Measure to the House as Soon as War Resolutions Are Signed by the President—Present Generation to Bear the Burdens of War, if It Comes.

Washington, April 18.—The Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee of the House have practically concluded the preparation of the revenue measure, which will be passed to raise revenue suffisient to prosecute the war. The members propose that the present generation shall bear the burdens of the war, and proceeding upon that theory they have prepared a bill that will raise between $100,000,000 or $120,000,000 additional revenue per annum.

The bill will provide for an additional tax of $1 per barrel upon beer, from which $30,000,000 will be raised. On manufactured tobacco and snuff the internal revenue tax will be increased from 6 to 12 cents. This is expected to raise $15,000,000 of revenue. The increase on cigars and cigarettes has not been absolutely fixed, but it probably will be $1 on all classes. From this $5,000,000 is expected.

The proposition which the Senate placed on the tariff bill, but which went out in conference, to tax all stocks and transfers of corporations, is embodied in the measure, together with practically all the scheme of internal revenue taxation of the act of 1866, which includes a stamp tax on all checks, drafts and all instruments of business—mortgages, loans and bonds—a tax on patent and proprietary medicines and a tax on telegraph messages and express packages is also incorporated in the bill. The scheme of taxation is estimated to raise $35,000,000.

The tax on proprietary medicines will be two cents on packages or bottles retailing at 25 cents or under, and four cents on those retailing above that price. The tax on telegraph messages will be one cent on all messages which cost 25 cents or less and two cents on all above 25 cents. A duty of 10 cents per pound upon coffee with a countervailing internal revenue tax on stock on hand. This latter will be in the form of a tax on the sales of stock on hand to avoid the constitutional inhibition against a direct tax. From tea and coffee $28,000,000 are estimated. Bottled waters are to bear a tax similar to patent medicines.

For the pressing needs of the Government the Secretary of the Treasury is given the general power to issue certificates of indebtedness, payable in one year and to bear not more than 3 per cent. interest.

The Secretary of the Treasury is also authorized to borrow on the credit of the Government, by popular subscription, a loan of $500,000,000. This loan is to be placed throughout the post offices of the country, the sub-Treasuries and Government depositories in low-rate bonds, which are to be sold at par. They are to bear 3 per cent. interest, and to be redeemable after five years, to be due in twenty years. The principal and interest are to be payable in coin.

The measure will be presented to the full committee to-day or to-morrow, and it will be brought into the House as soon as the war resolutions are signed by the President.

MR. WANAMAKER'S REGIMENT.

He Receives Many Offers for Enlistment and Also to Drill the Men.

Philadelphia, April 18.—John Wanamaker has received several offers from men of military experience to recruit and drill the companies of the regiment which he has promised to raise if needed. The Secretary of War notified Mr. Wanamaker to-day that as soon as plans are decided on, details will be mailed to him for his guidance. In various departments of the Wanamaker store men have signed a roll volunteering their services to the United States for military duty. Outside the store hundreds of offers have been received by mail.

"I do not desire war," said Mr. Wanamaker in an interview, "and if any way could be arranged by which a compromise would enable us to maintain an honorable peace, I would favor it, but it seems that the arbitrament of war is the only solution apparent. Therefore, it is wise, in my opinion, for every available American citizen to volunteer at once, and thus present an array of strength that would be impressive. I believe that if we must have war the only method to pursue is to push the matter vigorously. Such a course would tend to shorten the war. I believe, therefore, that men should step to the front and perform their duty as true citizens of a great republic."

Germany Said Hands Off.

Berlin, April 18.—It is learned from an authentic source that Germany took the lead in pledging the Continental powers to maintain absolute neutrality in case of war between the United States and Spain. The greatest resistance offered to Germany's proposals was from France and Austria, who acquiesced only with the proviso that Europe is to have something to say toward the end, or after, in settling the peace conditions.

Troops from Department of Lakes.

Chicago, April 18.—Troops from the Department of the Lakes will leave for the front to-morrow. This includes the troops at Fort Sheridan, Fort Thomas, Ky.; Forts Brady and Wayne, Mich., and Columbus Barracks, Ohio. General John P. Brooks and his staff will not go to Chickamauga until the end of the week.

This Ought to Settle It.

Madrid, April 18.—The Official Gazette soon will publish the report of the Spanish Commission of Inquiry into the Maine disaster, demonstrating that the explosion was of internal origin.

ASSESSING AT REAL VALUE.

The recent determinaion of two Supreme Court Judges in New Jersey to order Grand Juries to indict assessors who could be proven guilty of the act of not assessing property at its real value—an offense that will probably not find an assessor in the State innocent of—has stirred the Bergen county officials deeply. It was in that bailiwick that Judge Dixon issued the edict against the prevailing practices of assessors, as noted in these columns a few days ago, and last Friday the Bergen County Board of Assessors had a long and stormy session which ended in the adoption of a resolution that each assessor should assess property at its full value, and if any assessor makes a return otherwise, refusing to swear to his figures, his valuations will be increased by the County Board. Many of the members fear indictment and are anxious to ameliorate the situation.

Whether or not the stand taken by Judge Dixon will be emulated in other counties is a question that is a throbbing issue with a very large number of officeholders. The determination arrived at after years of tacit knowledge that such derelictions from the actual wording of the law have existed, put the assessors in a rather uncomfortable position. If they follow the letter of the law in their official work to escape an accounting with the judicial forces of government, that virtuous action is followed with reaping a whirlwind of wrath from taxpayers who cannot recognize themselves to the manner of assessing property at its real value, and whose range of responsibility for the new condition of things does not extend further than the assessors. It is not anticipated, however, that there will be any dearth of candidates for assessorships by reason of these things.

At casual glance one would conclude that a bill passed by the Legislature directing municipalities to grant a rebate in taxes to users of broad wagon wheels, in the cause of better roads, would be interesting and perhaps a profitable act for Plainfield to take advantage of as one of the contributing forces for a system of good streets—one of the crying needs of this town.

A perusal of the bill passed by the last Legislature last winter embodying these benefits, shows that Plainfield, together with all other towns of over 5,000 people in the State, would not be able to accept any provisions of the law. What reason impelled the astute legislators to make the law apply only to rural sections does not appear on the surface, but presumably it is for the protection of cities whose streets are paved and who would not benefit any from the use of broad tires. Under a general law they might be put to the necessity of rebating taxes from which they could secure no material benefit under the circumstances.

In juxtaposition to this rule is the conditions of affairs in Plainfield—that is, Greater Plainfield, city and borough. On the city side the people would be denied the benefits that might accrue from the provisions of the law, but in the borough, with less than 5,000 population, a reverse order prevails; and yet we are one town in business, society and general things that affect both the same. Incidentally, it only illustrates again the need of Plainfield and North Plainfield being united into one municipality.

There is no certainty, however, that the measure will become a law

PREPARING FOR ACTION.

It is but a step in imagination (and sometimes in fact) from preparation for action on board a man o' war to actual conflict with the enemy, and yet perfect order and calmness mark every movement. The picture shows a United States warship making ready for serious work.

There is some question about its constitutionality, and tomorrow Governor Voorhees is to give a hearing on it. It may be that after hearing all argument he will consign the bill to oblivion.

ANCIENT USE OF ADVERTISING.

In his address at the Sphinx Club, of New York, Wednesday night last, Robert C. Ogden cited from Sampson's "History of Advertising" the interesting fact that illustrated advertising was known before the time of Christ, as is evidenced by the record of a papyrus poster bearing the date 146 B. C., which contains the offer of a reward for the recapture of two runaway slaves. Thus advertising is older than Christendom; but it has only been within the present generation that it has taken its place among the fine arts. Not only is it there by right, but all the other fine arts now welcome it as a valuable member of the select guild.—Philadelphia Record.

AMERICAN ELECTRICAL MACHINERY.

The American invented and manufactured electrical machinery that is shipped abroad is increasing enormously in amount. Most of the adaptations of electricity to the needs of modern industry are American, from the telephone to the trolley car. The huge dynamo is also built better in America than anywhere else. For the reason that we know better how to make electrical machinery than the people of any other nation do, we have many orders for it from abroad.

In this case it is not a question of where the machinery can be made most cheaply. It is a question where it can be made at all. If foreign manufacturers are to keep up with the times, they must have such machinery at any price. Machinists of the United States have had more experience than any others in this kind of work, and they are the ones now called on to supply the demand. It is gratifying to our national pride and filling to our individual pockets. A contributor to The Electrical Engineer mentions that in a recent order for machinery received from Europe by an American firm he saw a request for a dynamo of 60 horsepower.

There are reasons why Americans ought to and can manufacture almost everything more cheaply than other nations. One is the abundance and low price of our raw material of every kind. Another is that here labor saving machinery has been brought to such perfection that even with higher wages paid to workmen we can more than hold our own with foreign peoples who still use so much hand labor.

The month of April will witness throughout some of the most tremendous grain shipments abroad from the port of New York that have been known in our history. In all 2,250,000 bushels will go, more than half of it wheat. The freight and tramp ships are not equal to the demand on them, and the liners have been engaged to carry part of the grain. It is notable that nearly every ton of this grain goes to Great Britain, to Liverpool, London, Glasgow and Hull. If this grain were being shipped in American vessels, some of it might stand a chance of capture by Spanish cruisers and privateers. As it is, however, we do not own the steamers in which our grain is shipped, and the Spanish man-of-war that would capture one of them would immediately rush into trouble with one of the European powers, probably England. Spain could not hurt us at sea, because we have nothing to be hurt on the Atlantic ocean except four passenger steamers.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Judge Strong wisely refused to grant a tavern license at Pumptown. There is a tavern on the Plainfield road about two miles away, and three in Metuchen, about one mile away. The neighbors protested, and travelers will have to carry their thirst a mile or two.—Metuchen Recorder.

There seems to be trouble in store for Plainfield over the sewer bed nuisance. The people at Dunellen have appointed a committee composed of Rev. A. L. Todd, Adam Dealaman, William Craig and John Peters, who have been before the State Board of Health and entered a complaint in the form of a petition signed by over 200 citizens of Dunellen and the western end of Plainfield. The State Board has appointed a committee to confer with the people of Dunellen and investigate, which they will do in a few days. We think we see the finish of the obnoxious sewer bed system in this county. This city slop pail is a detriment to all property in the vicinity, and to think that any sane person would put up with such an insult and remain quiet is unreasonable. Plainfield, you cremate your garbage, why not evaporate your sewage?—New Jersey Real Estate News.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, April 18.—Tonight an important meeting of the Building and Loan Association will be held, when officers for the ensuing year will be chosen.

It is generally believed that the State Board of Health will make their visit to the Plainfield sewer beds in a quiet manner and that their coming will not be known. From what can be learned they are likely to make their visit very soon.

The sale held last Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. was very successful, and a goodly sum will be realized for the union. Nearly everything was disposed of at good prices.

Edward White.

A Dream of a Gown.

The majority of the thin materials which are now beautifying the windows and counters of city stores will next season be made up with linings separate from the outer skirt, except at the waist, where one belt holds both skirts. Very lovely indeed are the French organdies that tempt every woman into a purchase who beholds dainty or the textiles finer than in the patterns just opened to view. The prices are all most alluring, and the gown, as it lies before one, sheer and dainty, looks like an inexpensive Venetian purchase. But take it to Madame, and this frail bit of cloth will presently return to you done up in silk-tissue paper, laid in a beautiful satin-paper box; and the bill for silk linings, ribbons, lace, trimmings, and the additional, inevitable, vague, but very potent, item of "findings," compoped to this exquisite "creation," will turn the "dream" aforesaid into a realistic nightmare of consternation. Ergo, unless your purse is plethoric, and money no object; unless you have some pretty, half-worn silk gowns you can beautifully utilize for foundation slips for your new organdies; unless you have a deft, artistic home dressmaker, avoid the undeniable temptations that are now set before your eyes in the mull and muslin departments of all the great emporiums of the city.

Novel Neckties.

The craze for neck fixings still continues unabated. Every week seems to bring some new fancy, and one can never have too many of these pretty accessories of dress. As the warm weather approaches chiffon and tulle scarfs brought twice around the neck and tied in a large bow will be much worn with tailor made suits.

A dainty model suitable for afternoon or evening wear is of cream mousseline and fine lace. The mousseline is laid over a stiffened foundation and closes in the back. Another model is simpler in style and can be worn with shirt-waists. The material is silk, trimmed with frills of chiffon. This tie is caught in the middle by a gold ring.

The Latest in Sleeves.

There is as yet but little change in the general preference for the close coat sleeve with every sort of odd little garniture as a finish to the tops, including the wing decoration consisting of a three-cornered piece of the dress fabric, or else of a material matching the trimming used on the gown, this piece hemmed, ruffled, piped, or satin-lined with a contrasting color. It is carried under the arm after the sleeve is sewed into the bodice. The third short point is tucked away under the folds; the two longer points are then brought to the top of the shoulder and simply tied, the ends left to somewhat resemble the wings of a bird in flight. A full soft knot is left in the centre. Wide-ribbon loops in place of a puff, a number of horizontal tucks taken in the fulness of mutton-leg sleeves, and straight flat rows of gimp laid across the tops of close coat sleeves are other popular modes.

Tomato Soup.

Ingredients.—One pound of tomatoes, one onion, two sticks of celery, one bay leaf, one blade of mace, a small piece of cooked ham, pepper and salt, one pint and a half of water, one ounce of crushed tapioca.

Method.—Slice the tomatoes; prepare the celery and onion and cut them in pieces; put the vegetables in a saucepan with the mace, bay leaf, ham, water, pepper and salt, and cook till tender; rub through a sieve or colander, return to the saucepan, bring to the boil, sprinkle in the tapioca and stir and cook till clear.

The annual women's championship tournament will be held in the latter part of September. The exact dates are not yet determined, but they will be arranged soon, and in all probability laid before the Executive Committee meeting of the United States Golf Association for ratification. More women are expected to enter for this event than ever before, and particularly noticeable among the contestants will be many of the younger players, who came prominently to the front last year.

"Mr. Billings spoke of you last evening as such a womanly woman," said the brunette one.

The blond one burst into tears. "To think," she sobbed, "that I have been at the forefront of all the intellectual movements for the betterment of woman's lot for more than a year, only to get maligned in that fashion."

Colors in Millinery.

Bright tulip colors, red in Roman, geranium, and other brilliant dyes, mauve, and tangerine yellow, are the most popular colors in millinery as it is now presented. Violets, velvet and Venetian lace trimmings are so fashionable on bonnets and toques worn in Paris, and sent to this country that notwithstanding the fact that these flowers decorate seven-tenths of the headgear worn here, they are likely to be elected by a large portion of our best-dressed women as garnitures for their spring hats and bonnets. But the violets selected are as different from the every-day sort, seen everywhere, as a paper rose is different from a genuine Jacque. The French-made violets are soft and flexible, and perfect replicas of Nature's own production. The petals are shaded and velvet-like, and many of the delicate clusters are perfumed with the natural odor of these modest blossoms. They look refined and dainty on any style of head-covering, and are becoming alike to the young and the elderly.

Pretty Evening Bodice.

A dressy waist suitable for party or theater wear is of plain light blue silk, trimmed with spangled embroidery, the shirred sleeves being of chiffon. The yoke is set in pleats across the front, being cut without a seam as the bodice hooks down the back. The blouse portion is spangled over, and slip stitched to the yoke under the passementerie trimming. The waist is banded with ribbon and fastened at the left side with a large bow. Epaulettes of silk have an accordeon pleated frill of chiffon at the edge.

Silk waists hold a prominent part in a woman's wardrobe, and very elaborate some of them are. Many of them have the popular blouse effect and are fancifully trimmed with tucks and ruffles.

Frocks for Young Girls.

The new dainty silk cashmere and thin cotton frocks for girls from four to sixteen years have velvet ribbon edging the ruffles on the waist and skirt similar to those prepared for women. These frocks also have yokes of tucked silk and velvet ribbon, and ribbon is worn in profusion on children's dresses. The belts are made of No. 9 or No. 12 ribbon, with a rosette on each side, and two ends falling to the lower edge of the skirt. Since sashes have returned to favor children wear them tied in a knot at the back. Black and fancy ribbons are preferred to solid colors for children's frocks. Square yokes are sometimes finished with a rosette or donkey-ear bow on each side, with long ends of the former.

Brown Soup.

Ingredients.—One pound of bones, one carrot, one turnip, two onions, a bunch of herbs, two ounces of barley, two ounces of dripping, two quarts of warm water, twelve peppercorns, one ounce and a half of brown thickening.

Method—Prepare the vegetables and cut them in halves; chop the bones; melt the dripping in a large saucepan and fry the bones and the vegetables; pour off any dripping that is left and put in the herbs, spices, pepper and salt, and the barley (blanched). Put on the lid and let all simmer for three hours. Strain off the soup through a colander, put the liquor back in the saucepan with the vegetables cut up small, add the thickening and stir until the thickening dissolves and the soup boils.

Charming Summer Frock.

A model which would make a lovely summer frock was worn by a petite blonde in the first act of a popular play recently. The material was blue accordeon pleated crepon, mounted on a separate silk lining. The skirt, which had the fashionable train, was trimmed with cream guipure.

The bodice, made tight fitting had a plain back, while the fronts were artistically trimmed with guipure. Band collar covered with guipure and edged with lace, and around the waist was a sash of blue silk, made into a knot in the back. The close fitting sleeves were made with a slight fullness on the shoulder, the lower part being trimmed with the insertion.

To Clean Prints and Engravings.

Immerse the print for an hour in a lye made by adding to the strongest muriatic acid its own weight in water, and to three-parts of this mixture add one of red oxide of lead or black oxide of manganese. Indian-ink stains should, in the first instance, be assisted out with hot water; pencil-marks should be carefully taken out with indiarubber or a piece of stale bread. If the print has been mounted, the paste on the back should be thoroughly removed with warm water.

IN BLACK TULLE.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Oeffentlich. Ein Soldat der hiesigen Garnison ließ sich von einem Bahnzug überfahren aus Furcht vor Strafe, weil er ohne Grund des Nachts die Kaserne verlassen hatte.—Kürzlich veranstaltete der Evangelische Arbeiterverein eine öffentliche Versammlung, in der die herrschende Wohnungsnoth besprochen wurde. Verschiedene Redner machten der Stadtverwaltung schwere Vorwürfe über die Verschleppung in dieser Sache. Es wurde ein Beschluß gefaßt, der die Stadtverwaltung auffordert, sofort die geeigneten Schritte zu ergreifen, um den Nothstand zu beseitigen.

Maulbronn. Das Reichsgericht in Leipzig verwarf die Revision des wegen Unterschlagung verurtheilten Ephorus August Palm.

Röttingen. Im Wald wurde die Leiche eines Schlossers aus Pommern, Namens Woike, aufgefunden, die in geradezu scheußlicher Weise zugerichtet war. Der Ermordete soll kürzlich Zeuge eines Verbrechens gewesen sein, wo er sich schlafend und betrunken stellte, in Wahrheit aber Alles mit ansah bei vollem Bewußtsein, und da er drohte, die Sache anzuzeigen, so nimmt man an, der Mord sei begangen worden, um Woike aus dem Wege zu räumen und als Zeuge unschädlich zu machen.

Ulm. In der Entfestigungsfrage sind in der letzten Zeit erhebliche Schwierigkeiten hervorgetreten, die eine Entscheidung noch für längere Zeit hinausgeschoben erscheinen lassen. Die Verhandlungen mit Berlin dauern fort.

Urach. Hier starb Dekan Paul Lang, der in der kulturgeschichtlichen Novelle und der historischen Erzählung Tüchtiges geleistet hat. Das liebevolle Versenken in die vergangene Romantik seiner schwäbischen Heimath war seine Eigenart.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Von einer fixen Idee befallen wurde eine Verkäuferin. Sie glaubte, den französischen Exkapitän Dreyfus zu erblicken und verursachte, ihn vor seinen Verfolgern zu verbergen. Zu diesem Zwecke warf sie in dem Laden Alles durcheinander, stülpte Kisten um u. s. w., um ein Versteck ausfindig zu machen. Fortwährend schrie sie dabei: „Dreyfus ist unschuldig, ich muß nach Paris, um seine Unschuld zu beweisen." Ein herbeigerufener Arzt verordnete der Bedauernswerthen Beruhigungsmittel, worauf sie in ihre Wohnung geleitet wurde. Ein zu eifriges Lesen des Sensationsromans „Dreyfus" mag wohl mit Anlaß zu der fixen Idee gegeben haben.

Heidelberg. Althergebrachter Sitte gemäß wurde am 20. März bei großer Theilnahme der hiesigen und auswärtigen Bevölkerung die lokale Frühlingsfeier, der Sommertag, begangen. An dem Zug durch die Straßen der Stadt nahmen circa 2500 bis 3000 buntgeputzte Sommertagsstäbe tragende Kinder Theil, darunter etwa 50 Paare, die die charakteristischen Gestalten des „Sommers" und „Winters" darstellten.

Mannheim. Der Redakteur des hier erscheinenden Antisemitenblattes „Deutscher Volksbote," Jakob Göbel, hatte vor Weihnachten in seiner Zeitung aufgefordert, nicht bei Juden zu kaufen. Das hiesige Schöffengericht verurtheilte Göbel wegen groben Unfugs zu einer Geldstrafe von 25 Mark.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Straßburg. Die philosophische Fakultät der hiesigen Universität hat den Verlagsbuchhändler Karl Trübner zum Ehrendoktor der Philosophie ernannt. In weiteren Kreisen ist Trübner namentlich dadurch bekannt geworden, daß es seinem Geschick und seiner Energie gelungen ist, die berühmte Manessische Liederhandschrift im Austausch gegen andere Handschriften für Deutschland wiederzugewinnen, nachdem sie seit zwei Jahrhunderten aus Heidelberg nach Paris verschlagen war.

Metz. In zweitägiger Verhandlung verhandelte die Strafkammer gegen 15 Leute wegen Diebstahls beziehungsweise Hehlerei in Sachen der im vorigen Herbste begangenen und viel besprochenen Diebstähle in mehreren Proviantmagazinen. Es wurden verurtheilt die Angeklagten Schehl zu 1½ Jahren, Kuhnert zu 1 Jahr Gefängniß, 5 Angeklagte zu 3 Monaten bis 2 Wochen Gefängniß; 8 Angeklagte wurden freigesprochen. Der Hauptdieb ist unermittelt geblieben.

A HORSE THAT EATS RAW MEAT.

Cured of Stealing Fish by a Crabs Tenacious Grip.

The most extraordinary appetite known in a horse belongs to Billy, a handsome bay, owned by a firm in San Francisco.

Billy's duties are to draw the firm's delivery wagon, and his stand is on Merchant street, in front of the shop. Here he is often on exhibition, eating with an apparent relish steak, liver, ripe, and, in short, almost any variety of meat handed him. Sometimes, after having had his fill of oats and hay, he refuses to munch meat, but this seldom occurs.

Billy's appetite developed several months ago. No one knew of it until one day he was seen to reach into a butcher cart that was tied just ahead of him and calmly begin eating a steak. After that he was fed often with the firm's wares, and many a bet has been won and lost on his appetite.

The horse formerly varied his carnal meals by purloining fish, but he was cured in a manner that was ludicrous to the spectators, but very painful for the equine phenomenon.

He reached into a fish wagon one day, when his olfactories detected the odor of his favorite smelt, but an active and belligerent crab took offence at the intrusion and promptly fastened to his lower lip.

Billy shook his head frantically and whinnied in pain, but the crustacean held on until he was crushed by being banged against the side of the wagon. Since then the horse has kept clear of fish.—San Francisco Call.

LEGS LOST IN BATTLE.

Evidence That the Soldiers was Not Trying to Avoid the Enemy.

"I can tell almost to a certainty to which branch of the service he belonged when I see an old soldier stalking around on one leg," said Colonel Lamar Fontaine, of Mississippi, the famous Confederate scout and poet. "If the left leg is missing then I am pretty certain he belonged to the infantry, and if he is minus the right leg, then I feel safe in betting that he was a cavalryman. In either case the absence of the leg proves more conclusively than the written record that the man who lost it was fighting like a soldier when wounded.

"The reason the infantryman loses the left leg in battle is this: Infantrymen are drilled to place the left foot forward when firing in order to balance the body so that steadier aim can be taken. This naturally acts as a protection to the right leg, which, of course, is more or less concealed. Consequently the bullet of the enemy is much more apt to find lodgement in the left leg than the right. Now, the cavalryman uses a pistol nearly altogether. It is handier and less cumbersome. The pistol is held in the right hand, and this causes the cavalryman, when firing, to place his right foot forward for support. In this way that side of him is much more likely to suffer than the left. But, as I said, either case is conclusive evidence to me that the soldiers thus maimed were facing the enemy when shot. The loss of the leg indicates almost to a certainty that the sufferer was standing in military position and not crouching or running."—St. Louis Republican.

REASONING OF A MONKEY.

By Frightening a Fruit-Seller, He Secured a Good Meal.

Monkeys love by nature to imitate what they see, and have been known to smoke a pipe, and to pretend to read a book that they have seen other people reading. But sometimes they can do a great deal more than this and show that they can calculate and reason better than many men, says Lang's Animal World.

A large Abyssinian monkey was one day being taken around Khartoum by its master and made to perform all sorts of tricks for the amusement of bystanders. Among them was a date-seller, who was squatting on the ground beside his fruit. Now the monkey was passionately fond of dates, but being very cunning was careful not to let this appear, and went on performing his tricks as usual, drawing, little by little, nearer to the date-basket as he did so.

When he thought he was near enough for his purpose he first pretended to die, slowly and naturally, and then, after lying for a moment on the ground as stiff as a corpse suddenly bounded up with a scream straight in front of the date-seller's face and stared at him with wild eyes.

The man looked back at him spellbound, quite unaware that one of the monkey's hind feet was in the date-basket, clawing up as much fruit as his long toes could hold. By some such trick as this the monkey managed to steal enough food daily to keep him fat and comfortable.

Testing Water.

To test the purity of water, there has been found no better or simpler way than to fill a clean bottle three-fourths full of water to be tested, and dissolve in the water half a teaspoonful of the purest sugar—loaf or granulated will answer; cork the bottle and place it in a warm position for two days. If in twenty-four or forty-eight hours the water becomes cloudy or milky, it is unfit for domestic use.

Lace from Leaves.

The beautiful lace known as Fayal lace is made from the fibres in the leaves of the bitter-aloe—grown in the Azores, or Western Islands—a relative of the common century-plant.

This lace is manufactured by women, but the necessary skill is so rarely attained that there are but twenty-five persons on the islands who can make it.—Harper's Round Table.

OUR COAST LIGHTS.

BEACONS WHICH GUIDE MARINERS SAFELY TO FRIENDLY HARBORS.

May be First to Detect the Approach of an Enemy—The Loneliness of the Lighthouse—How They Aid in Time of Peace or War.

All along our Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and usually situated on some lonely, storm-beaten point of land, where the great waves never cease their sullen roarings, the lighthouses of the United States, like giant sentinels, keep watch and ward. And then, far out from the shore, where the danger from rock and storm is greatest, with only the unquiet ocean and the changing skies for company, swing and tug at the moorings the lightships of the coast. Hundreds of brave men and thousands of dollars worth in ships and merchandise are saved annually from the waves and the rocks by these watchful guardians, who have eyes that never slumber and warning voices that even the noises of the storm cannot drown. The wildness of their situations, the lonesomeness of their surroundings, the character of their duties—the saving of human life and property—cast a glamour over the lonely lighthouses and storm-tossed lightships and make all that pertains to them of fascinating interest.

Stark and white upon the bare white beach of North Island, South Carolina, stands the historic Georgetown lighthouse. The tower is 85 feet high, and its light can be seen for fifteen miles. It throws a plain white light, which shines with unbroken radiance far out over the dark waters, a beacon of hope to the storm-driven mariners. This light has watched while history was made. It was built in 1801, and rebuilt after the war.

Another light, famous in history, is the one at Cape Henry off the coast of Virginia, at the entrance of Chesapeake bay. It is 108 years old; and its light has often guided "the father of his country" on the way home from his travels. Recently a new house, 157 feet high, was built at this place and equipped with all the latest light appliances, electric light signals, a steam siren, etc. A "steam siren" is a trumpet blown by steam, which sings a song to lure mariners away from destruction, and has a voice so loud that it can be heard for many miles at sea. The song of this siren is a blast five seconds long, then a silence of ninety seconds, a blast five seconds, followed by a silence of ninety seconds, and so on through all the hours of the day and night. The light is white in color, with red rays between southwest and west and south-southwest, and shines steadily.

The Cape Cod lighthouse is connected with Boston by telegraph. A signal display station reads the messages signalled from passing ships, and within a minute these messages are in Boston. The light is situated on the highlands of Cape Cod, facing the ocean two hundred feet above the level of the sea. The building is all white and can be seen by vessels twenty miles away. Its Daboll trumpet sends forth continually blasts eight seconds long, with intervals of half a minute of silence.

The entrance to Delaware bay is guarded by the Cape May lighthouse, 167 feet high. This light can be seen for a distance of nineteen miles. One of the highest lighthouses in the United States is the one at Block Island, Rhode Island. It is 204 feet high, and shows a fixed white light than can be seen for a distance of twenty-two miles.

The lonesomeness and the dangers of the position of lighthouse keeper are so apparent that one would hardly expect to find women serving in that capacity; and yet, in the United States, some twenty women hold this responsible and ofttimes dangerous post. There are heroines, too, among them, whose deeds have been so heroic as to command the admiration of the brave everywhere. Ida Wilson-Lewis, the story of whose bravery is too well known to need retelling here, keeper of Lime Rock lighthouse, Newport, Rhode Island, has rescued eleven persons. Five people owe their lives to the courage of Mrs. Blake, keeper of the lighthouse at Robbins Reef, off Tompkinsville, New York harbor. Heroic Janet Malby, keeper of the Elk Neck lighthouse in Chesapeake bay, during a terrible storm of wind and rain and hail in 1894, pushed her own boat out from the safety of Elk Neck Rock into the angry waters, and rescued six men, whom she saw struggling in a frail boat, which the great waves threatened to swamp each moment.

Few people, except seamen, know anything about the number of lightships, which the United States keeps moored in dangerous places, far out in the ocean and exposed to all the perils of the stormy sea. From Boston to Galveston there is an almost unbroken line of these floating lighthouses, placed where they can best warn the mariner of danger. Fastened to the ocean's bottom with great anchors and strong chains or hawsers these lightships keep lonely vigils over the surrounding waters; and when the heavy storms and seas sweep down the coast the bright flashes of their electric lights, the loud blasts of their steam whistles or the deep boom-boom of their great bells warn the storm-tossed sailor lads from hidden dangers and guide them on their way to havens of safety.

SAYS HIS WIFE IS A TERROR.

And She Don't Stay Home to Cook What He Buys.

The marital infelicities of John Venable and his wife Rosa, colored, were aired in Justice Mosher's court room Saturday evening.

John was arrested by Constable Rockafellow on a warrant sworn out by his wife, charging him with having assaulted her. The alleged assault occurred at the home of the couple on East Third street last Thursday evening. Rosa in her testimony swore that John had a habit of beating her whenever the idea to do so occurred to him. She also charged that he did not provide her with sufficient food and other necessities of life.

John testified that Rosa was a terror. "She don't stay home long enough to cook what I does buy, nohow, Judge," he averred, glancing reproachfully at his wife.

Concerning Rosa's charge of assault Venable said that she was annoying him and that he merely pushed her from him.

The Justice reserved sentence until tonight.

SHAKESPEARE GIVEN.

much credit for their parts in the production. Walter E. Serrell, as "Antonio," was a grave and distinguished Venetian merchant. He played his part with a depth of feeling that was very acceptable. George Proctor Smith was a calm and dignified "Bassanio." His anxiety at the fate of his friend and benefactor was well shown. The "Duke of Venice," Percy Robert Colwell, was very satisfactory.

Charles Marvin Dolliver made a successful "Gratiano." He was easy and self-possessed and introduced a freedom of action that was a relief from the usual set notions of amateurs. His humorous speeches were brought out with a spontaneous ease that made them effective.

Lindley M. Hillman as "Lorenzo," and Langdon Wright Howard as "Jessica" made a very loving couple. Howard was a trifle out of his element as a girl, although he made a good-looking one. Hillman sang a tenor solo.

Miss Edith B. Horton was a charming "Nerissa." She fulfilled the requirements of her role very satisfactorily.

Abbott Brainerd and Fred C. Bonny looked very brave Venetian nobles in the parts of "Salanio" and "Sararino," "Tubal," the "worthy friend" of "Shylock," was well impersonated by N. Douglass Drake. The "Gobbos," father and son, were a funny combination.

In one way, some of the young thespians deserve criticism. They did not speak distinctly so that those in the back part of the hall were unable to understand what they said.

During the play, several solos by Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis were introduced. She had a sweet voice of considerable power, which she used with effect in her well chosen selections. The orchestra was under the direction of W. E. MacClymont, of this city. A number of pleasing selections were pleasingly rendered during the evening by them. "The New Jersey Miliary Academy March," dedicated to the school by its composer, Mr. MacClymont, met with an enthusiastic reception.

The performance was witnessed by a large and fashionable audience that seemed thoroughly satisfied. Enthusiastic encores were given to each scene.

At the close of the court scene, the most effective in the presentation, Miss Pond was presented with a handsome bouquet.

LIGHT-EYED PEOPLE AT A DISCOUNT

In Parts of South America a Man's Life is Not Safe Who Possesses Them.

A correspondent states that in many parts of South America the Indians are suspicious and very dangerous. Some of them will trade with strangers, but can never be relied on, while others will be friendly and have a fairly good reputation in the matter of dealing with foreigners. But on one point all the tribes agree; they do not trust a man with eyes like a cat. In many light eyes is never safe, and the Indians are apt to kill such a man on sight. If no present opportunity should offer itself of gratifying this prejudice, they will often hang around for days for the chance of disposing of the intruder. It is related that not long ago a French trader was sitting among some Goajira Indians, discussing business, when a party of the same tribe, who had been filling up with mescal came along, and the cry was raised, "A man with eyes like a cat! Let us kill him now." There was a scramble and a daring rescue, for the trader's companions reached his side only just in time.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Frances Had a Mind of Her Own.

When Frances Willard reached her 18th birthday, says the Boston Woman's Journal, she celebrated her majority by beginning Scott's "Ivanhoe," a book which her father had forbidden as he disproved of novels. In answer to his stern remonstrance, she told him that up to that day she had obeyed him in the matter, but, "Now," she continued, "I am 18, I am of age, I am now to do what I think is right, and to read this fine historical story is in my opinion a right thing for me to do." Her father was taken aback, but he saw the funny side of the matter, and, remarking that she was "a chip of the old block," made no further effort to kep her from reading good stories.

AN INCIDENT OF INDIAN STOICISM.

An Old Squaw Having Outlived Her Usefulness Prepares Her Own Death.

A striking illustration of Indian stoicism was enacted recently in the vicinity of the Wichita Mountains, in the Indian Territory. Manna-Sook-A-Wan, a Commanche squaw who had been known as the oldest woman in the tribe, decided to put an end to her existence because of her inability to longer assist in any of the doings of the other Indians. She had attained the age of over one hundred years, as near as could be told by Indian calculations.

She made preparations first by sending out to all her relatives to assemble at her tepee at midday. All her immediate family have long been scattered or dead, and she had lived entirely alone for years.

After all had assembled she arose and addressed herself to them, telling them that she was no longer useful, that she could no longer do anything but await death, and that she had decided to die of her own accord.

The assembled Indians did not utter a sound, but stood as though they were glad to be rid of the old woman, who had been old ever since they had known her.

She first kindled a fire in the center of the tepee which had been her home for so long.

She then arose and took all of her dresses, of which she had several, and put them all on, one over the other. She then put on her regular buckskin dress, embroidered with beads, in Indian fashion, and about her waist wrapped a large amount of cotton cloth, burlap sacking and other inflammable material.

tion. The fire's voluntary victim was then quickly burned to a crisp, the body at last separating into two smouldering bits of sizzling flesh and bone.

The tepee and everything in it was also consumed.

All thewhile the other Indians stood about and did not change their expression during the whole grewsome spectacle. It was also witnessed by two white men, who live in that part of the country, and it was through them that the particulars were learned by a correspondent of the Journal.—New York Journal.

An Eel Skin Factory.

One of the strangest factories that ever existed, and what is more, pays handsomely for its existence, is situated in a quiet street in the neighborhood of London bridge. Here are prepared and manufactured various articles from the skin of the commonplace eel.

The skins are manipulated by numerous complicated processes until they resemble and would easily be taken for leather, although of a more gelatinous and pliable nature. This strange commodity is cut into long thin strips and plaited very closely together for whip lashes, and to cover portions of the handles of more expensive whips. Certain kinds of lashes and harness laces are also made of eel skin.

The leather is almost indispensable in articles of this description, where flexibility allied with an uncommon toughness is desired.—Golden Penny.

LICENSE DEPENDS ON NEW SIDEWALK.

Novel Position Taken By the Common Council.

MR. HETFIELD OPPOSED IT.

DIDN'T THINK IT WAS RIGHT TO USE THEIR POWER AS THEY DID.

The License Application Laid on the Table in the Hope That They Can Force the Construction of a Walk Around the Hotel Property—Home Telephone Company Wants a Franchise—Mayor Fisk Suggests That Old Glory be Flung to the Breeze—An Ordinance in Favor of Liquor Dealers.

The chief topic of interest discussed at the adjourned meeting of the City Council held last evening was that regarding the granting of a licence to sell liquor at Hotel Hunterston. Wm. H. Morrison made application for the privilege and considerable time was spent in discussing the matter.

For sometime past it has been the object of the Council to have a stone sidewalk laid around the property upon which stands the hotel, and the license committee now think that they have met a way for getting the walk. Mr. Hetfield moved that the license be granted. Immediately afterwards Mr. Barrows moved that the application lie on the table for one week. The cause for placing the application on the table then came out in the discussion. It was that if the people at the hotel want a license they will be willing to put down the walk, thus compelling the owners of the hotel to grant the request of the Council first. For this purpose the application was laid over for one week.

Mr. Hetfield talked vigorously against the laying on the table and stated that it was not Mr. Morrison's place to have the walk laid as he was only the lessee of the hotel, and Mr. Hunter had already stated that he could not afford to put down the walk at present. Mr. Barrows said he thought Mr. Hyde, the owner, could, and that he thought the improvement should be made. Mr. VanHerwerden, representing the Netherwood district, voiced the sentiments expressed by Mr. Barrows, as did also Mr. Runyon and Mr. Buckle. When the question was put to a vote, Mr. Hetfield was the only one to vote against laying on the table.

Other matters of minor importance came up in routine order as follows:

Norman K. Barnes and other residents of West Fifth street, asked for three two-way fire hydrants on their street; Edward White and other business men on Front street asked the Council to locate a keyless fire alarm box on Front street between Park and Madison avenues.

The Home Telephone Company, of Trenton, petitioned the Council for a franchise to install a telephone and telegraph system in this city. The petition was simply received and filed. G. L. Marsey, of the company, will appear before the proper committee two weeks hence and be accorded a hearing.

The Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company presented an ordinance regarding the placing of wires under ground, and stated that they are now ready to do the work.

A communication was received from Mayor Fisk in which he said that inasmuch as the city does not now own an American flag, he thought that one should be purchased and displayed every day over the city offices. He suggested that a flag and pole be purchased at an expense not to exceed $100, and that the flag be displayed every day from sunrise to sunset, and that Chief Doane, of the fire department, see that the flag is properly displayed. The matter was referred to the committee on fire and buildings with power.

Mayor Fisk also asked the Council to adopt an ordinance giving him authority to charge a license fee of $25 or less for the giving of entertainments and exhibitions where an admission fee is charged.

Mr. Barrows presented a resolution ratifying the report of the Westervelt Avenue Commissioners and, no one being present to object to the report, the Council adopted the report.

Mr. Barrows offered a motion that crosswalks be laid across West Front street opposite Madison avenue, at Watchung avenue and Ninth street, and another on East Sixth street. The motion was adopted.

Mr. Barrows offered three ordinances which provide for the macadamizing of Madison avenue from West Ninth street to Stelle avenue,

SOMERSET GRAND JURY.

FORMER MAYOR HEGEMAN CHOSEN FOREMAN OF THE BODY.

No Very Important Cases to Come Before Body—Mill Owners' Rights on Green Brook Will Also Be Heard.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 19.—The April term of the Supreme Court of Somerset county convened at the courthouse at Somerville this morning. Judge Magie presided.

The first business was the announcement of grand jurors by Sheriff Wyckoff. Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, of North Plainfield, was chosen foreman. Elston M. French is the other grand juror from North Plainfield. After being sworn in the Judge charged the jury on their duties, and then sent them into session. There are not any very important cases to come up before them.

The first case to be called, and one of the most important on the calendar, is that of the mill owners along the course of Green Brook against the Mountain Water Company, which supplies Summit and Orange with water, for damages for diverting the tributary waters of the brook from their natural channel and so diminishing the flow as to entail great cost and loss to the mill owners by reason of being compelled to provide artificial power for their mills. The pumping station of the water company is located at Glenside Lake, three miles north of Scotch Plains, which is also the source of Green brook. Where a few years ago before the establishment of the pumping station at that point Green brook always provided enough power for the numerous mills along its banks, it now fails to furnish power about one-half the time.

Nearly a hundred witnesses have been called to offer testimony in the case and the dispute as to the liability of the water company for causing this condition of affairs will be bitterly contested. Constable W. H. Pangborn, of North Plainfield, has been busy for three days serving subpœnaes in the case.

The usual number of applications for liquor licenses were made from North Plainfield. There were no new applications. The case of Burnett against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company went off for the term by the consent of the lawyers on both sides. A number of other cases also went off for the term.

lainfield was well represented by most of her lawyers who evidenced more or less interest in the business of the court.

Both the bride and groom are popular young people. Mr. and Mrs. Martell will spend their honeymoon in Worcester, Mass., and upon their return they will reside on East Front street in the Voehl flats.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, April 19.—The Cranford Electric Light Company has started a rate war against the Suburban Electric Light Company. It is offering electric light service for $2.50 per month for the first five sixteen-candle power lights, and ten cents per month for each additional light. It is expected that the Suburban company will meet this with a counter cut the first of the month.

WILL PAY FOR TROLLEY.

CASH OFFER IN FAVOR OF THE LINCOLN ROUTE.

The Boulevard Advocates Want to Clinch Their Bargain With Money and Euchre the Old Stage Route People.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, April 19.—The Bergen plan of disposing of trolley franchises for cash, which is to be followed out in Union county, is already bearing fruit in Piscataway township, Middlesex county, where there has been a bitter fight raging for two months to secure the Dunellen-Bound Brook extension of the Brunswick Traction Company to go over either one of two routes which have been proposed—the Lincoln boulevard or the old stage road.

Last week the Piscataway officials decided to select the Lincoln route, but since then other influences have been at work and it is feared that the officials may change their minds at the last moment. Tomorrow night, when the township committee meets to consider the matter, the property owners interested in having the trolley go over the Lincoln boulevard—which is called the temperance route, because the old stage road is marked with a roadhouse whose proprietor is working against the former line—will offer a cash bonus of good size to the township committee to have the route definitely selected over the Lincoln boulevard.

This action, it is considered by the advocates of the temperance route, will clinch the bargain for them, and completely euchre the roadhouse proprietor and his friends out of the benefits of a trolley road passing their doors.

A DEFEAT AT LAST.

Whist Trophy Wrested From Park Club by the Ridgewood Team.

After a short visit to the clubhouse of the Park Club, the new challenge trophy of the New Jersey Whist Association has departed hence to visit the Ridgewood Club. This change in the stopping place of the cup was occasioned by the defeat of the Park Club whist team by the team from the Ridgewood Club last evening in a match for the trophy played in the Park clubhouse.

The defeat was a surprise to all concerned, the visitors included. The Ridgewood team was at its best, however, and played a remarkably strong game, while the Parks had fallen off a little in their usual excellence. It was a fair defeat, however. The game was a close one from start to finish, the visitors finally winning out by a score of 15 to 11.

The Ridgewood team was composed of Messrs. Bruck, Dunbar, Winans and Rodrigo. The Park Club players were Messrs. Rogers, McCutchen, Howell and Reed.

What Mr. McCutchen Says.

Charles W. McCutchen says I am sure that Mrs. Josephine Jennings Percy will prove acceptable to the musical people of Plainfield who will attend the concert the 21st in Y. M. C. A. Hall. She made a very favorable impression when she sang before the Daughters of the American Revolution about a year ago.

Extension of Water Mains.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company has commenced work on the extension of its mains on South avenue, beyond Berckman street. The extension will be made for a distance of 1,500 feet, and two new fire hydrants which have been ordered by the city officials will be placed in position in that section.

Theatre Parties.

Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., chaperoned a party of young people to the presentation of "The Merchant of Venice" at Music Hall Saturday evening. The party occupied all the lower tier of boxes. Another theatre party from the Seminary, chaperoned by Miss F. F. Clark, occupied one of the upper boxes.

GRIM WAR VERY NEAR.

Spain Must Get Out of Cuba Quick.

PRESIDENT GIVEN POWER

Armed Intervention in Twenty-four Hours if Spain Does Not Withdraw From the Island—Ready for Battle.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 19.—Armed intervention is certain and war seems inevitable. Both Houses of the National Congress have declared in favor of intervention and the action of the President is now anxiously awaited. There is now no doubt but that he will sign the resolutions as passed by Congress late last night.

The concurrent resolutions, which were finally agreed upon by the House and Senate after a long contest that lasted until after midnight, were signed by Speaker Reed of the House at 12:05 this afternoon.

The resolutions were signed by Vice-President Hobart at 13:30 o'clock and then sent to the President for his signature.

The President was up early this morning despite the excitement of the preceding night. He called a Cabinet meeting for this afternoon. The Cabinet is now in session.

An ultimatum to Spain is being prepared at the meeting. It will demand that Spain withdraw her forces from Cuba in forty-eight hours.

At 3:30 o'clock the President will place his signature to the concurrent resolutions and issue the ultimatum. The delay in signing the resolutions was so as to allow the ultimatum to be prepared.

The ultimatum will be cabled to Ambassador Woodford at Madrid the moment it is made public. A copy will also be furnished the Spanish Minister in Washington.

The House has adjourned until tomorrow. Great excitement prevails everywhere. War is regarded as inevitable and there is great activity in army and navy departments.

The work of concentrating the regular army along the south-eastern coast is going forward with vigor.

The Sixth Cavalry passed through this city this morning. President McKinley greeted the famous troop and waved his hat repeatedly as they passed. Major General Miles and Secretary of War Alger also reviewed them. There was a rousing public demonstration in their honor.

London, April 19.—The Austrain and Italian ambassadors visited the Foreign office of Great Britain this afternoon for the purpose of making a final attempt to prevent bloodshed.

Mr. Balfour, the acting secretary, said that unless the United States or Spain directly requested her intervention Great Britain would do nothing more.

Madrid, April 19.—Ambassador Woodford is awaiting the arrival of the ultimatum to Spain which he will present to the Spanish government without delay. He is prepared to leave Madrid at a moment's notice.

SHORT, YET LONG TRIP.

HUMOROUS AND GRAPHIC LECTURE IN VINCENT CHAPEL.

Rev. George C. Wilding Was Full of Reminiscences, Most of Which Were Humorous, but Here and There Pathetic.

It is a difficult thing to transport several hundred people to England and back in an hour, but Rev. George C. Wilding, D. D., of Jersey City, accomplished that feat last evening by the aid of his clever lecturing abilities. He gave a lecture in Vincent chapel on that subject. A humorous and graphic lecture it was called and it fully bore out the name.

Dr. Wilding has appeared in Plainfield before. So when he was announced to speak last evening there were many who wanted to hear him again. He came under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Mission Circle. The chapel was crowded with an attentive audience.

Dr. Wilding's lecture was not built on the lines of the usual essay that the public is frequently called upon to listen to. It was made up of an infinite number of reminiscences and anecdotes, most of which were funny. There was a serious or pathetic touch here and there, however, that prevented the wit from becoming tiresome.

Dr. Wilding set out to tell something of his own trip to England and back and carried his hearers along with him. His descriptions of life on shipboard were carefully drawn true to life. He seemed to have the happy faculty of seeing the fun in everything and so his hearers were enabled to witness them too.

He remarked on the wonderful manner in which everybody gets acquainted on shipboard and how the striking peculiarities shine forth during the ocean trip. He told of a collision that his vessel had with a lumber vessel and how the crew of the latter craft was saved.

Then he landed his hearers in England and told them how the sights in that land looked to an American. London was reached and a brief trip made through the principal buildings of interest. Then the return was made to Liverpool by the way of York. The ocean voyage back to the western continent was filled with happenings that were graphically pictured. Then Dr. Wilding's audience was landed safe in Vincent chapel again after a delightful trip.

A DISPUTE ABOUT WOOD.

A Complicated Contention for Justice Mosher to Decide.

The case of David Hand against Eastman, trover and conversion, was tried in Justice Mosher's court yesterday afternoon. The facts of the case are that Mr. Hand purchased some standing timber of George L. Colgate on the latter's farm in Fanwood in December, 1896. In June, 1897, Mr Colgate sold the farm to Mr. Eastman, telling him at the time of sale that Mr. Hand owned the wood in a certain portion of the farm. Mr. Eastman allowed Mr. Hand to take some of the wood from the lot, after which he sold the farm to Lawyer Johns, of New York. Later Mr. Hand went after the balance of the wood that belonged to him, and Mr. Johns would not allow him to take it or even come on the premises.

Mr. Hand was represented at the trial by Lawyer Swackhamer, while Lawyer Hall, of New York, represented Mr. Eastman. The witnesses included Mr. Hand, Mr. Eastman, Mr. Colgate and Chris. Hansen, a teamster. The amount of the claim was $200, and Justice Mosher reserved his decision for one week. The case was very warmly contested and the debate on both sides was lively.

Verdict for Plaintiff.

The case of J. E. Beerbower against William Trust, in trover and conversion, was tried yesterday afternoon in Justice Moffett's court. Some time ago Mr. Beerbower loaned Mr. Trust a watch and he claims that it was never returned to him, and he brought suit against Mr. Trust in consequence. Mr. Trust was represented by Lawyer Harry C. Runyon, while Pope & Runyon represented the plaintiff. Judgment was given the plaintiff and he was awarded $35.

AN EDITORIAL MIND SILENCED BY DEATH.

Ernest O. Chamberlain's Successful Career Closed.

ONCE A PLAINFIELD EDITOR.

WIDELY KNOWN AND RESPECTED IN NEW YORK JOURNALISM.

Stricken With a Fatal Illness Two Months Ago, and Died at His Home Last Night—Made His First Journalistic Success in Plainfield—For Several Years He Has Been Prominently Identified With the New York World, Where His Success Was Marked—Strict, But Popular, With His Subordinates—Parents Reside Here.

In the death of Ernest O Chamberlain, which occurred last night of pneumonia at his home, Rockledge, Edgewater-on-the-Hudson, one of the most respected and widely known newspaper men in the metropolitan district, who started on his successful career in journalism in Plainfield, pass away. Mr. Chamberlain was the pioneer daily newspaper man of Plainfield and all but the younger generation of Plainfield well remembers Mr. Chamberlain's conduct of the Bulletin in the latter part of the seventies.

Although Mr. Chamberlin had been ill for a month his death came as a great shock to his friends. Reports from his home told that he was improving and that he would return to take his active place in the field of newspaper work after a period of rest.

On Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Mr. Chamberlin's condition became so alarming that his physicians were hurriedly sent for. They announced then that they could hold out little hope of his living for another twenty-four hours.

At Great Bend, Pa., where he was born in 1860, Mr. Chamberlin had only the advantages of a common school education, but as a boy he was a close student of newspapers and magazines and developed the faculty of observation which served him so well in after years.

Deciding to adopt the newspaper profession as his life work Mr. Chamberlin began writing for a little local publication, the Great Bend Reporter. From there he went to Dunellen to edit a newspaper called The Rock.

Just after attaining his majority Mr. Chamberlin established the Plainfield Bulletin. For a long time he edited it with much success. His treatment of the politics of New Jersey particularly attracted attention and resulted in his being called to edit the Trenton Times.

While editing that paper he also served the New York Sun and the Philadelphia Press with the polical news of New Jersey. The Philadelphia Press sent for him and made him its New Jersey editor.

In 1886 he went to New York and was employed by the New York Sun. He remained with that paper until the spring of 1892. He never occupied an executive position there, but as a special writer detailed to handle matters requiring accurate judgment and conscientious work, such as National and State political conventions and important acts of Congress or the Legislature, he established a reputation among newspaper workers and men in public life throughout the country.

It was in the spring of 1892 that Mr. Chamberlain was made city editor of The World, which position he filled with the same marked ability that characterized his whole career.

It was but a step for Mr. Chamberlain from the desk of the city editor to that of the managing editor of The World. For five years he had charge of either the morning or the evening edition of that newspaper, except for brief intervals when he gave up his executive duties to take charge of the gathering and writing of news of special importance, or when he had gone away for rest.

His last vacation of this kind was in August and September, of 1897. For two months he was abroad. When he returned he wrote a series of articles on the government of European cities which were widely quoted and favorably commented upon.

Mr. Chamberlain was a man of charming manner and amiable disposition. The hundreds of men serving under him on The World entertained for him a personal friendship that was the highest tribute to his executive ability, while all who knew him, even those whom he had to most severely criticise in the performance of his duty, respected him for his absolute sincerity and fairness.

Mrs. Chamberlain survives her husband. Two of his brothers, Wilbur J. and Walter Chamberlain, are well-

CUBA MUST BE FREE

War Resolutions at Last Agreed on by Both Houses.

AN ALL NIGHT'S SESSION

Long Conferences That Lasted Over Midnight to Settle the Status of the Cuban People—Recognition Left Out "and Are" Remain.

Washington, April 19.—Congress has declared for armed intervention against Spain. The President is directed to demand the withdrawal of the Spanish land and naval forces from Cuba. This means war.

President McKinley is ready for the issue. He has been waiting for the word given last night that releases him and puts the army and navy of the United States in motion. The ultimatum will be communicated to Spain without delay. It will reach the Cortes in session to-morrow. Spain will have forty-eight hours to accede to the will of the American people. By Friday the guns ought to boom off Morro Castle.

The whole night was spent in conflict over two words in the first paragraph of the Senate resolution: "That the people of the Island of Cuba are, and of right ought to be free and independent."

The House conferees finally yielded to the Senate, and the committee decided on a report for the original Foreign Relations resolution, which includes the much-mooted words "are, and."

The Senate passed the resolution at 1.30 o'clock this morning by a vote of 42 to 35.

The House followed in half an hour, adopting the resolution by a vote of 176 yeas to 95 nays.

The President retired before midnight, and the White House was deserted except for the Executive clerk. Mr. Montgomery, who received the bulletin announcing the Senate's action over the Capitol wire. The message was turned over to the domestic end of the mansion, and, without waiting for the action of the House, the Executive office was closed for the night.

The recognition of the independence of the Cuban Republic is deferred by the omission of the Turpie amendment, but it stands in the preamble by the retention of the declaration that the people of Cuba "are and of right ought to be free and independent." The House wished to strike out the words "are and" and simply declare that "the people of Cuba of right ought to be free and independent."

Seven times the resolution traveled from House to Senate. Thrice the Republicans of the House voted down propositions to recede, each time by increased majorities. Three times the Senate stood firmly by its purpose.

A deadlock seemed imminent, and was only averted at the last moment by the concession of the two seemingly unimportant words of the first resolution.

President McKinley now not merely is empowered to act against Spain; he has been directed to do so, and to use the land and naval forces of the United States to make effective the instructions and directions of the Congress. Whether he shall strike the first blow or not is not the question for him to consider. The blow will be struck if it is necessary to strike it in order to induce Spain to quit Cuba. With the attachment of his signature to the joint resolution war is declared, if Spain chooses it shall be war.

The only escape from war is for Spain to accede without resistance to the demands of the United States.

THE VOTE IN THE HOUSE.

Senate Resolution Accepted, With an Amendment, by a Vote of 179 to 156.

Washington, April 19.—The House of Representatives yesterday passed the Senate Cuban resolutions after striking out the clause recognizing the republic of the island.

The vote to concur in the resolutions as thus amended was, on motion of Mr. Dingley, and was 179 to 156.

The resolutions were then sent back to the Senate. There was no debate in the House.

The resolution as it now stands reads as follows:

"Whereas, The abhorrent conditions which have existed for more than three years in the island of Cuba, so near our own borders, have shocked the moral sense of the people of the United States, have been a disgrace to Christian civilization, culminating as they have in the destruction of a United States battle ship, with 266 of its officers and crew, while on a friendly visit in the harbor of Havana, and cannot longer be endured, as has been set forth by the President of the United States in his message to Congress of April 11, 1898, upon which the action of Congress was invited; therefore,

"Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled,

"First—That the people of the island of Cuba are, and of right ought to be, free and independent.

"Second—That it is the duty of the United States to demand, and the Government of the United States does hereby demand, that the Government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters.

"Third—That the President of the United States be, and he hereby is, directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States and to call into the actual service of the United States the militia of the several States to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolution into effect.

"Fourth—That the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said island, except for the pacification thereof; and asserts its determination when that is accomplished to leave the government and control of the island to its people."

The Democrats applauded the reading of the first section declaring that the people of Cuba are and of a right ought to be free and independent, and again when the recognition of the Cuban Republic was reached there was handclapping on that side, but the Republicans were silent.

Mr. Dingley made the motion to concur, with an amendment striking out the recognition clause.

The actual form of the motion, which was reduced to writing, was as follows:

"I move to concur in the Senate amendment to the House joint resolution with an amendment striking out in the first paragraph the words 'are and' and also the words 'and that the Government of the United States hereby recognizes the republic of Cuba as the true and lawful government of that island' so that the first paragraph of the Senate amendment will read as follows:

"'First, that the people of the island of Cuba of right ought to be free and independent.'"

Mr. Bromwell then moved to concur in the entire Senate resolution.

Mr. Dingley met this by moving the previous question.

This shut off debate and a vote was taken. Mr. Dingley's motion was carried.

Thirteen Republicans voted against Mr. Dingley's motion, because they favored recognition of the present Cuban Republic.

The vote announced by Speaker Reed was yeas 178, nays 156.

The scenes on the floor for the two hours were exceedingly lively and interesting, and for a time it seemed almost impossible to predict which would win.

After the vote was announced, Johnson, of Indiana, wanted to speak again, but there were cries of "Regular order." Mr. Bailey arose and asked if it was not the regular to allow Mr. Johnson to speak. The Speaker quickly responded:

"If the gentleman from Texas will listen he will soon learn something about parliamentary order."

This angered Mr. Bailey, and he retorted: "I want to make a parliamentary inquiry, and ask if it is in order for the Speaker to thus answer an inquiry of a member made in a respectful manner."

The Speaker answered: "Not if made in a respectful manner."

This intimation that Mr. Bailey had not made his inquiry properly, only made the Texan more angry, and he endeavored a further wordy recounter, but the Speaker refused to hear him, and called for order. Although Mr. Bailey shouted and tried to speak, he was rapped down and took his seat.

Mr. Sherman, of New York, then read the apology of Representatives Brumm and Bartlett for their part in the scene in the House last week, when the lie was passed. The House then took up a bill to authorize a railroad in the Indian Territory.

SENATE REFUSES TO CONCUR.

The House Resolutions Turned Down by a Vote of 32 to 46.

Washington, April 19.—When the Cuban resolutions, as amended by the House were received in the Senate, Mr. Chandler suggested the absence of a quorum. Seventy-five Senators answered to their names.

On motion of Mr. Davis the Cuban resolution was laid before the Senate.

Mr. Davis addressed the Senate, detailing the effect of the action of the House. He urged the Senate to agree to the House action and avoid delay. He moved concurrence.

Mr. Davis said many lives had passed away while Congress was debating the question and that the Maine disaster still remained unavenged. He thought there should be no further delay.

Mr. Davis thought the independence of Cuba would quickly follow intervention. In order to secure hasty action, Mr. Davis moved concurrence in the House action.

Mr. Stewart opposed concurrence. He yielded the floor for a vote on the suggestion of Mr. Teller. Yeas and Nays were ordered.

The vote was taken on the Davis motion to concur in the House amendment.

The motion was defeated and the Senate refused to concur.

The vote was 32 yeas to 46 nays. Ten Republicans voted no. The Senate then at once sent the resolution back to the House.

The resolutions were then sent back to the House, the Senate insisting on their passage intact.

A motion to strike out the amendment was defeated by the House by a vote of 148 to 172.

The House then passed a motion calling for a conference with the Senate. This apparently meant a deadlock unless the Senate receded from its position regarding a conference.

London, April 19.—The Times announces this morning that its correspondent has been expelled from Havana. Against this expulsion the Times protests editorially, characterizing the act as "another of Spain's efforts to stifle the truth."

THE CUBAN SITUATION

The Final Resolution Will Not Recognize Independence.

ANOTHER WEEK'S DELAY

The President Probably Will Not Receive the Resolution Before Thursday and Spain Will Not Answer at Once—President Confident Independence Will Not Be Recognized.

Washington, April 19.—In view of the present condition of affairs, your correspondent considers it safe to make the following predictions:

First—That the resolution which will go to the President for his signature will not contain a provision for the recognition of the Junta Government.

Second—That the President will not receive the resolution before Thursday morning, and that he will immediately sign it.

Third—That although it will be immediately cabled to Minister Woodford, it will not receive a response from the Spanish Government before a week from to-day.

Fourth—That if the resolution, as it shall be finally agreed upon, recognize the Cuban Republic as at present organized, it will be either vetoed or Congress will be given notice from the President that it meets his disapproval and that he shall ignore, under protection of the Constitution, that portion of the mandate.

President McKinley does not believe the resolution which will be finally adopted and sent to him for his signature will recognize the present insurgent form of government, on the island of Cuba. He is confident that the conference committee, selected for the adjustment of the differences between the two houses, will be composed of men of far sight and sound judicial judgment who will see their way clear for a right concession to the principles involved in the House resolution, although he does not expect that that form will be finally adopted.

In his conversations with Senators and Representatives he has pointed with emphasis to his arraignment of the present form of government in Cuba and did it in a manner that signified his itnention to either veto or disregard the mandates of a resolution which directs him to recognize that form of government.

The President very frankly states that he is not now working for the applause of the galleries. He believes that action, based upon the sober, serious moral and financial interests of the country, will alone last and make or unmake his administration.

President McKinley acknowledges the cognizance of the severe criticism of his position by yellow journals and political warriors, but he has no disposition whatever to yield one iota to that sort of clamor.

He will not discuss the prudence or wisdom exhibited by Mr. Bryan, the late Democratic candidacy for the Presidency, in advising his party in Congress to draw political lines and to stand out against the policies of this administration, but it is easily perceived by those who talk to him now and who have seen him frequently and discussed the subject with him, that he leans backward a little stronger in the direction of his old policy on account of the visit of Bryan.

The President realizes that to recognize the present insurgent government in Cuba is to assume all the responsibility of war without retaining in our own hands any of the lines by which we could control the island either commercially or politically in the future. In other words, the President believes that we give away every prerogative that we have earned by our action when we recognize the independence of Cuba for the purpose of establishing permanently the present form of government alleged to exist on the island.

He not only feels that we would be financially responsible for all the obligations incurred by the Junta form of government, and that we might involve ourselves in international obligations and indirectly commit ourselves to a form of protection very much in opposition to the policy of the administration and of the country, but that we would establish a colony, a government and a class of people who might and probably would cause us a great deal more trouble than Spain has caused the United States up to this moment.

Unless this Government can have something to say in the form of government to be established in Cuba and the character of the people who are to control it, the President feels that we should recognize no individuals and no form of government whatever.

The position of the administration is in favor of immediate interventin, a declaration of independence and the establishmet of a suitable form of government without any internation entanglements.

Officers Offer Their Services.

London, April 19.—Gen. Marcelo de Azcarraga, the former Minister of War and Prime Minister, has, a special dispatch from Madrid says, arrived at the Spanish capital in order to attend the meeting of the Cortes. He is quoted as declaring that war is inevitable. Many Swedish, Brazilian and other foreign officers are offering their services to Spain. The next meeting of the Spanish Cabinet will discuss the question of privateering. Leaflets inciting a popular demonstration have been seized at Madrid.

Treasury Clerks May Enlist.

Washington, April 19.—Secretary Gage has issued a circular in which he states that, in case any officer, clerk or employe in the Treasury Department desires to leave the service temporarily to enlist in case of war, he may be reinstated at any time within one year. Temporary appointments will be made to fill places so vacated with the understanding that upon the return of the employe the temporary clerk will be removed.

Would Not Recall Polo.

London, April 19.—The Madrid correspondent of the Morning Post claims to know that if both houses of Congress adopt the resolution which has passed the House of Representatives Senor Polo will not be recalled from Washington, the Government believing that the powers will still find an issue out of the difficulty.

Refined Torture.
It's on the Decrease in Plainfield Now.—A Citizen Explains Why.

Year in and year out many of our citizens have struggled along bearing unnecessary burdens of the rack, seeking relief from sources where it could not be found, suffering the refined torture which goes with a bad back. The little conqueror has brought about a wondrous change and from all parts comes the same report, hundreds of grateful citizens hasten to endorse the good work and speak publicly of their own personal benefit. Read what this Plainfield citizen says:

Mr. F. O. Smith, of 686 W. Front St., Contractor for Painting, etc., says: "For sometime past I had symptoms of kidney trouble and despite all my endeavors to get rid of it I never was successful until I obtained a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. There was a distressing pain across the small of my back which clung to me all the time. When I got seated at times if I moved a sharp pain struck me in the back and loins and almost made me exclaim. Any change in the weather or if I caught the least cold always aggravated the trouble and caused me to suffer severely. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by one of my employes who had been cured of a long standing case of kidney complaint by their use. I commenced the treatment and derived benefit from it immediately and before I had finished the first box I was cured. It affords me pleasure to recommend such a valuable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

SPEECH FROM SPANISH THRONE.

It Will Ask for Funds to Defend the National Honor.

London, April 19.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing at 10 o'clock last evening, says:

"The Cabinet Council met at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The session lasted three hours. Senor Sagasta, the Premier, submitted a draft of the speech from the throne. Its tenor is not precisely known, though it makes an appeal to the highest patriotism of the nation. It summarizes the international problem, and points out that Spain has always presented an accommodating front in everything which did not diminish her sovereignty, though she only agreed to grant a cessation of hostilities in Cuba when the Pope made his request and the Powers joined in counseling it.

"The speech from the throne appeals to the Spanish people to rally around the young king, in order to save the country and to grant to the Government everything which may be necessary and urgent to defend the national honor and integrity."

Queen's Speech Will Be for War.

Madrid, April 19.—The speech from the throne which will be laid before the Cortes to-morrow, has been drafted. The Queen, despite the restraining influences of her Ministry, has infused fire and spirit into the document. It is short, evading none of the issues by circumlocution. Unless further modified by the cautious Ministry, the Queen's speech will incite rather than quell the war spirit in the Cortes. This is the Queen's contention: She believes the Cortes will be for war, that Spain is for war, and she dares not oppose her subjects at such a time.

Big Tobacco Deal.

New York, April 19.—Advices from St. Louis are to the effect that a big tobacco deal has been consummated, by which the Continental Tobacco Company is to be organized with a capital stock of $50,000,000, to absorb all the plug tobacco charters of the country. Mr. Drummond is to be president, Mr. Duke of New York vice-president, and Pierre Lorillard treasurer. Liggett and Meyers, it is said, have not yet signed, but are to go in. Plug tobacco and cigarette and smoking tobaccos are hereafter to be manufactured separately. The American Tobacco Company will keep out of the plug, and the new Continental Company out of the smoking tobacco.

Coal Miners on a Strike.

Altoona, Pa., April 19.—Eight hundred miners in the Clearfield district are on a strike because their employers insist on paying them by the car instead of 45 cents a ton, the district price. The strike started several weeks ago. It has spread until now four collieries of the Peale, Peacock & Kerr syndicate are involved. Despite threats of being blacklisted, if they do not come in, the men are obdurate. The operators have Government rush orders for 400,000 tons of coal, to be delivered at Key West, and they are badly embarrassed by the strike. The strikers are backed by the United Mine Workers' Union.

New Prison Superintendent.

Albany, April 19.—General Austin Lathrop, of Corning, yesterday retired as Superintendent of State Prisons and Cornelius V. Collins, the new appointee, assumed the duties of the office. The term is for five years and the salary is $6,000. Mr. Collins's first official act was to reappoint Charles V. Baker, of Comstock, as chief clerk and acting deputy.

Cheyenne Indians Threatening.

Guthrie, Okla., April 19.—Nearly 1,000 Cheyenne Indians have gathered on the banks of the North Canadian River, many miles from the agency, holding a ghost dance. It is feared that the Indians, incited by their medicine men, will take advantage of the absence of troops from neighboring forts to start an uprising to secure more beef rations.

Spain After a Loan.

London, April 19.—It is reported in this city that the Government of Spain has been in communication with leading financial houses here, including the Rothschilds, in an effort to raise a loan of $20,000,000 on the security of tht Almaden mines. The Rothschilds decline to confirm or deny the rumor.

Shot Dead in Court.

Danville, Ky., April 19.—While court was in session in Danville Court House yesterday, Francis Kerr, a German farmer, was shot five times and instantly killed by George Rowsey, a neighbor with whom he had quarreled. Rowsey was drunk.

THE CALL FOR TROOPS

When It Comes Regiments Will Go as Organizations.

GENERAL ROE'S OPINION

Militia to Be Ordered Out Before Volunteers Are Asked for—Married Men May Stay at Home—Must Pass a Rigid Physical Test.

New York, April 19.—Major-General Roe, of the National Guard of the State of New York, says that he has no doubt that when the time came for the calling out of troops the National Guard would be ordered out as an organization. This statement of the Major-General is something more than a guess, although he did not say that he had authority to make the statement, because Colonel Greene had just been in consultation with him, and Colonel Greene went to Washington Saturday and was in conference with Secretary Alger on this very subject.

The call for the militia will precede the general call for volunteers. It will be in a way a call for volunteers, for the Major-General says that he thinks arrangements will be made by which the regiments will go as regiments, but by which men who do not feel like going with the regiment may stay at home to firm the nucleus of a home guard without losing rank or caste as soldiers.

"There are many cases in the National Guard of men who have families dependent upon them for support, who cannot leave for a campaign outside the State unless they are absolutely needed," said General Roe. "These men owe it to their families to wait till their services in the field are absolutely needed, and arrangements will be made, I have no doubt, so that these men will not have to go with their regiments, and so that they will not be considered any the less good soldiers. They will still keep up their regimental standing, or, at least, some plan will be devised by which they will be held ready for home service, perhaps detailed to the mustering in and drilling of volunteers."

He placed no credence in the reports that the Government was not going to recognize the State militiary organizations, but, on the other hand, expressed himself as confident that the individuality of the military organizations would be preserved.

"During the civil war volunteer regiments, raised in the various States, organized and elected their own officers before they were mustered in by the general government. I am certain that, in case there is any call for volunteers, this method will be continued. The Governors of the States will commission colonels of the regiments and the officers below that rank. The President will certainly not commission officers below the rank of colonel."

As to reports that officers in the National Guard of other States had declared that they would not take their regiments out as a part of the regular army, Major-General Roe said that it would not be in good taste for him to say anything. He thought that these officers must have declared that they would not go out unless the entity of their regiments was assured. "There are about forty-five National Guards, and it wouldn't do to have them all down in Cuba as separate armies. There will have to be one general army. And it is natural to suppose that the general of the United States Army will command."

The Major-General said that he thought the men in the National Guard would be put through a new physical examination under the supervision of the United States military authorities if they were called out for duty. A strict examination is required by the authorities of this State before a man is enlisted, but the United States Government would probably require another.

"The Government is going to do the best it can to avoid starting another big pension roll like it got after the civil war. Every man who is called upon to fight, unless something unexpected happens, will be a man as near perfect physically as men are. The pension rolls of the last war contain a great proportion of names of men who were disabled by disease. They were not physically strong enough for soldiers."

JOHN WANAMAKER'S OFFER.

Salaries of Employes in New York National Guard Will Be Paid.

New York, April 19.—John Wanamaker has issued the following statement: "To members of the National Guard, State of New York, in our employ:

"In case the services of the National Guard of this State are required in the early future by the Federal Government, all regularly enrolled members thereof in our employ can depend upon the following while in the discharge of active military duty.

"First—All positions thereby vacated can be resumed by the incumbent when the military service is terminated by honorable discharge.

"Second—All salaries of such National Guardsmen shall be paid, while in actual military service, to the authorized representative of the respective families or other dependents.

"Third—An insurance to the amount of $1,000 will be paid by the firm to legal heirs in all cases of death of such employees while engaged in actual military services.

"Fourth—Mr. J. N. Daggett is charged with the administration of this order. JOHN WANAMAKER."

Red Cross Is Ready.

Washington, April 19.—The War and Navy Departments and Surgeon-General Sternburg have been notified of the readiness of the American National Red Cross to render service, supplemental to the army and navy medical departments, if called upon. Miss Clara Barton will shortly visit this city for conference and will then return to Key West.

Our Consul's Servant Slain by a Mob.

London, April 19.—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Gibraltar, dated Monday, says a telegram received there from Malaga reports a resumption of the riots at Malaga on Monday, that the American Consul's negro servant was killed and many persons in the crowd were wounded.

TO SEND SPANIARDS HOME.

Spanish Consuls, Under Minister Polo's Orders, Making Preparations to Get Their Countrymen from America.

Washington, April 19.—Acting under instructions from the Spanish Minister here, Spanish Consuls in various parts of the country are making arrangement for the departure of the Spanish colonies in their several localities.

Arrangements are now concluded for the departure of the Spanish residents of Boston, about thirty in number. Similar arrangements have been made as to the Spanish colony in New York.

The start from New York will be to-morrow, a steamer having been chartered for this service. The Spanish officials at Philadelphia and many other points are taking a register of all Spaniards within their jurisdiction. This is not a census, as that was taken December 31 last, but is for the special purpose of learning the number of those who desire to leave at once.

The Spanish Government pays the expenses of all those who go to Cuba or other Spanish ports. Some of those who are about to leave prefer to seek asylum in Mexico or Canada, in which case their expenses for removal will not be borne by Spain.

This general movement is not inspired by any fear of indignity at New York, Boston and other ports, but is due to the customary rule of international procedure that the subjects of a hostile power remove from the territory of the country with which that hostile power is at war.

SIR CHARLES DILKE'S VIEWS.

Says the United States Is Sure to Win in the End.

London, April 19.—Sir Charles Dilke, Radical, member of Parliament for the Forest of Dean, Division of Gloucestershire, is quoted in an interview on the Spanish-American crisis as expressing the opinion that the two opposing fleets are about evenly balanced, adding:

"Therefore, the decisive action will be fought at sea. If the Americans win the war will be over. If Spain wins it will be the beginning of a long struggle, which must end in the crushing defeat of Spain."

Continuing, Sir Charles Dilke ridiculed the idea of the Spaniards shelling cities, pointing out that it would be no advantage to Spain for her to do so. He expressed the opinion that both sides should be allowed access to British coaling stations, allowing twenty-four hours to elapse between the departure of one nation's ships and the arrival of their enemy to coal. He also said that he anticipated considerable trouble from the chaotic state of international law, announced that his sympathies were with the United States and explained that the United States was quite right in interfering in Cuba, adding, "Although I pity the grand old empire of Spain, which is crumbling."

Boats to Defend New York Harbor.

New York, April 19.—Every stanch boat in this harbor that is over one hundred feet long and capable of carrying one or two rapid-fire guns may be impressed into service within the next two or three days. The small boats that are to be taken will be used as harbor defense ships and as scouting boats. One or two fairly large guns can be mounted on them and they can annoy greatly any ship which may attempt an attack upon the city or try to come up the harbor. These boats are expected to make from twelve to fifteen knots an hour and to be of a comparatively light draught.

This Looks Like Business.

Washington, April 19.—A force of workmen is employed in digging a trench between the State Department and the White House. This trench will hold a conduit that will contain the telegraph lines leading from all the fortifications up and down the Atlantic seaboard and the Gulf. The system of communication between these fortifications and the War and Navy Departments has been perfected, and it only remains to connect the White House with these two departments to place the President in direct communication with all fortress that guard the country.

Old Fighters in Commission.

Philadelphia, April 19.—Two more of the old monitors, the Montauk and Lehigh, went into commission at the League Island Navy Yard yesterday. Neither of the old fighters has a full complement of men, but both are expected to complete their crews in a day or two. The Lehigh and Montauk are expected to sail to-morrow or Thursday, the former for Boston and the latter for Portland, Me. The Catskill, which went into commission on Saturday, is expected to sail for Boston to-day.

Buffalo Bill's Cowboys to Fight.

Washington, April 19.—General Miles has accepted the services of Colonel William F. Cody in the event of war with Spain. Colonel Cody—or Buffalo Bill, as he is best known—will be placed in charge of the cavalry scouts who will accompany the United States infantry to Cuba. His command will be largely made up of cowboys from the southern tier of the Western States and a few trained Ogallalla and Brule Indian scouts.

DEATH OF E. O. CHAMBERLAIN.

Considering that Ernest O. Chamberlain made his first success in Plainfield, and while here as the editor of The Bulletin laid the groundwork for the successful career which has been his in the great metropolitan field, the news of his untimely ending comes with regret to the large number who had watched him go higher and higher in his chosen profession.

Mr. Chamberlain was what might be called a born newspaper man—that is, he had in him the natural aptitude and intuitiveness for practical, successful work that only brief experience was required to develop. He was scarcely out of his teens when he came to Plainfield and launched The Bulletin. Instinctively he was aggressive and independent and during his editorship the caustic manner in which he treated local politics made his paper a lively one—sometimes a hated one by those who felt in truth that "the pen is mightier than the sword."

Mr. Chamberlain was only thirty-eight years of age, but he had earned for himself a conspicuous place among the writers and editors of the country. He developed in an unusual degree the rare combination of literary and executive ability.

The announcement of his death will be received in Plainfield with profound regret, for though his interests in a business way were elsewhere he often visited this city to pay devotion to his parents and was always welcomed by many friends.

A STATE TREE.

State Superintendent of Public Schools Baxter has promulgated an order that on Arbor Day the pupils of the State shall decide by popular vote a State tree—the idea being to designate some tree peculiarly identified with New Jersey. There has been but very little thought given to the matter, and unless the scholars, the vast majority of whom owing to their youth will have no particular preference, are given some suggestions by older heads there may be no distinctive result. The following comment of the Newark News comes in very opportunely in this connection:

Probably none would be more appropriate than the cedar, the red variety of which is to be found in every part of the State, where its dark green foliage and symmetrical shape add a cheerful touch of color to the wintry landscape, while its aromatic berries furnish food for the snow birds and sparrows. The white cedar of the swamps is more exclusively a New Jersey tree, but it is not so widely distributed nor so well known, while its habit of thick growth robs it of much of the beauty of its red cousin.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Board of Fish and Game Commissioners are no friend of the farmers. They have urged the passage of laws which made it easy for the sporting men to trespass upon the farmers. Last year this Board cost the State $36,136.28, and of this amount only $5,000 was expended in stocking the waters of the State with food fish and defraying the cost of maintaining a hatching. — Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

Civil Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh, of East Second street, is now busily engaged in staking out the grounds for the plant to be erected soon by the Plainfield Hygiea Ice Company on Berckman street.—Plainfield Daily Press.

Considering the abundance of lakes and ponds in the vicinity of Plainfield it seems like carrying coals to the Newcastle to erect an artificial ice plant in that city. There is certainly no scarcity of the artible when the dealers are selling it for 20 cents per 100 pounds, as we note from items in the Press in regard to the ice war.—New Jersey Real Estate News.

THE CRUISER NEW ORLEANS.

The New Orleans, formerly the Amazonas, was built by the Armstrongs of England for Brazil and was purchased by the United States. She carries numerous rapid fire guns and throws 5,040 pounds of shot. Her speed is 20 knots and her length over all is 330 feet.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

In connection with the concert to be given at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on April 21st, it is interesting to note that three of the Lotus Glee Club are well-known in Plainfield, being members of the Crescent Avenue church choir. Those who heard Mr. Stricklett at the entertainment given recently at the Park Avenue church will welcome another opportunity of enjoying a voice of such unusual purity and sweetness. Mr. Smith, who conducts this popular organization, and Mr. Lewis, the baritone, were connected with the club when they appeared before large audiences in London, singing with great success in concerts with Mme. Patti in Royal Albert Hall.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Last night a fair-sized house was present to see the David R. Ryan company give one of the best popular-priced performances ever seen here. Louis Aldrich's latest success, "The Editor," was given and the best praise that can be bestowed upon the company is that Mr. Aldrich himself, who was visiting Manager Edwards, witnessed the performance and declared it better than the usual run of dollar performances. Tonight the company will play "The Lost Paradise," and Wednesday they begin daily matinees with "My Niece from New York." The prices are 10 and 20 cents.

THE LINCOLN STATUE.

The above cut represents the statue of Abraham Lincoln as it will appear when unveiled on Memorial Day, May 30, 1898, at Lincoln. This photograph was taken from the clay model of Abraham Lincoln as it was modeled at the works of Wm. H. Mullins, of Salem, Ohio. The pedestal is now being erected out of Martinville stone, to be eight feet high, with figure of Lincoln, in bronze, seven feet high. On the occasion of the unveiling of the statue, a public dedication will be held. The veteran Zouaves, of Elizabeth, General J. Madison Drake commanding, with the Drake Band, of Elizabeth, will be present on this occasion—unless they are in Cuba. A gentleman of national character will deliver an oration. Lincoln has had many celebrations in the past year; but this event will outdo all others, in that it will interest the State of New Jersey.

Mr. Hetfield introduced an ordinance which provides for the licensing of inns and taverns. The ordinance provides that saloons can remain open in the evening until 11:30, that the owners do not have to from year to year secure the signatures of freeholders and the customary affadavits, providing the application and applicant is all right, and that a license can be transferred on the payment of $25.

THE COCAINE HABIT.

IS SUPERSEDING THE OPIUM HABIT—ITS TERRIBLE EFFECTS.

Seemingly the Worst Narcotic Habit a Person Can Become Addicted to—It Kills Absolutely All Sense of Self-Respect and Decency.

An article in the New Orleans Times-Democrat says: Opium smoking, "hitting the pipe," as it is called, is practically a thing of the past. It is a question if there is within the boundaries of New Orleans a room where a stranger can go for indulgence in the oriental vice. Of course, as long as there are "fiends" in the city, and these fiends have money enough to rent a room and buy an outfit, there will be opium smoking, but so vigilant are the police that "joints" are practically unknown.

Never a vice was killed, though, that another did not spring up in its place. Cocaine has superseded opium, and it is a question if cocaine is not doing more harm to-day than opium ever did. Indulgence in the cocaine habit is cheap. There is no stove needed, no needle, no long pipe. You can take cocaine in whisky, you can inhale the white powder, or you can use it hypodermically. Any one of the three methods insures forgetfulness and recklessness. Cocaine is dreamily maddening, it intoxicates, it deadens heartaches and bodily pains. Ten cents worth of cocaine will last most victims of the habit one to two days. Its extreme cheapness puts it within the reach of the most poverty-stricken.

The police realize what harm the cocaine habit is doing, and are making every effort to stamp it out. They are making slight headway, though. Not a day passes but that from four to ten shattered wrecks of humanity, devotees of the drug, do not drag their trembling forms from the prisoners' pen and take their medicine from the recorders in the shape of fines and imprisonment. When they have worked out their sentence they surrender themselves again to the benumbingly delightful vice without the slightest delay.

"The cocaine habit," said a police officer, who had just been dealing with an habitue of the drug, "is responsible for more crime, for more immorality, and for more degradation than any of the standard evils. Of course, it is against the law to sell the stuff, and any one caught in the act would be bitterly prosecuted, but there is no getting at the facts. There are too many druggists who are ready to violate the law for the profit there is in it. No reputable druggist will furnish the drug, but, as detection is impossible, and there is big money in selling the stuff in spite of its comparative cheapness, a cocaine fiend never has any trouble in gratifying his appetite.

"You can take cocaine anywhere. A pinch of the stuff on the back of the thumb nail, a sniff and the drug is at work. I suppose cocaine is mostly taken this way. Inveterate users of the drug, I believe, get, sooner or later, to using the 'hypo.' I remember not long ago when we arrested a hoodlum and cocaine fiend and locked him up for creating a disturbance and using vile language. We searched him at the station and took away his syringe and supply of cocaine. When the effect of the drug already in his system wore off he gave way to hysterical grief. Tough as he was, he wept and begged and prayed for his accustomed instrument and its deadly load. We refused to give him back his belongings. He grew hysterical, and at last we thought it safer to telephone to the Charity Hospital for instructions. We were told that it would be dangerous to keep him without the drug.

"I carried the fellow the syringe and some cocaine. He danced and shouted for joy. Dissolving about a grain of the drug in a teaspoonful of water, he rolled up his sleeve. The marks left by previous injections were so thick that it was impossible for him to find a spot big enough to allow the insertion of the needle. The other sleeve was rolld up. There was the same result. At last it was necessary to insert the needle point in the man's right thigh, where there was an unpunctured spot the size of a dime. The man's skin looked as if he was suffering from smallpox. It was a horrible sight. I believe he has since died. I never knew until then how awful the use of the drug was.

"In my opinion the worst result of the cocaine habit, is that it absolutely kills all sense of self-respect and decency. Its users have no morals, no consciences. There is no depth too low for them to dive into to procure the money for supplying themselves with the drug."

Masses Still Sung for Napoleon.

In several of the parish churches of France masses are still sung for the repose of Napoleon's soul. In the great Cathedral of Notre Dame, for example, 113 masses are sung for Napoleon every year. One legacy from an old soldier provides for 104 masses during the year, and the services are observed with the greatest fidelity.

Wifely Interpretations.

Husband—Well, dear, did you notice that I came home early last night?

Wife—Yes; and I noticed in this morning's paper that the new apparatus for heating the club rooms would not be in working order before to-night.—Chicago Post.

A NEW ANÆSTHETIC.

Not a Poison—Its Influence Lasts for Several Hours.

Two German investigators, MM. Einhorn and Heinz, have discovered a new anaesthetic agent, to which they have given the name orthoform. This substance belongs to the chemical group of aromatic amido-ethers. It consists of a white, christalline powder, without taste or odor. It does not readily dissolve, and its action is slow. But this fact is compensated for by the duration of the influence of the substance. Orthoform is produced with acids from soluble salts, which possess anaesthetic properties.

Applied to the surface of a wound, or an irritated mucous membrane, orthoform, in a powder or ointment, produces insensibility. Many observations of sufferers bring this fact to light boldly. With bad burns in particular—and every one knows how distressing these are—orthoform subdues the liveliest pain in a few minutes, and its effect lasts for hours. Inasmuch as orthoform is not a poison (rabbits and dogs may take with impunity from two to six grams a day), one may safely make a fresh application when the anaesthetic influence has begun to diminish. One discovers how great is the toleration of it by the organism, for instance, in a case of cancerous ulcer of the face, which is the seat of such intense pain as to render sleep impossible. The ulcer is sprinkled with orthoform for a week, and the quantity applied may amount to fifty grams. The patient ceases to suffer, and no inconvenience follows the experiment.

For the torture of cancer of the stomach Messrs. Einhorn and Heinz have administered many doses of a gram in the course of a single day. In affords great satisfaction in all cases of wounds or ulcers of the skin and mucous membrane, and, as it is strongly antiseptic, it hastens recovery from bacterial ravages. It has no action on unbroken skin, but its powerful influence permits one to regard it as suitable for a local anaesthetic in cases where one is to operate on a mucous surface. Experiments of this kind have, indeed, been made at Munich.—Paris Temps.

Sold a Mine on a Bet for $1,500,000.

One of the most famous mines in Leadville was the Robert E. Lee. Its promise was discovered when the vein or deposit was first struck, but for some purpose or other people who did not take kindly to it, and the owners tried in vain to sell an interest. A gentleman who happened to have a few hundred dollars was besought to take a third of it for $300. He studied the matter, and deeming the venture too risky, declined. The Lee was a pocket mine, and some of the pockets contained rich ore. To effect a sale the owners wagered that they would take $1,000,000 of ore out of the mine in twenty-four hours. By great good luck they discovered a few rich pockets and won the bet. After this there was no difficulty in selling the mine for $1,500,000.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Par for Star-Gazers.

There look to be a good few stars above us on a clear night. But the eye can, as a matter of fact, only see at the best about 6,000.

Take a telescope that will show you stars of the eighth magnitude, and look again. Now 40,000 are in view. A more powerful glass, and you can see hundreds of thousands, even millions.

But the astonishing and wonderful part of it all is that the stronger the magnifying power the more stars you can see. The Milky Way is no longer a faint cloud of light, but flames into a million suns.

And yet this is only the beginning of the wonders which surround our universe. The only conclusion we can come to is that our huge sun and great system of revolving planets is the merest dot—nothing but the tiniest speck in the Infinite that we are lost in.

Thackeray's Opinion.

"The little ills of life," say Thackeray, "are the hardest to bear. What would the possession of one hundred thousand pounds a year for fame or applause avail to a gentleman who was allowed to enjoy it only with the condition of wearing a shoe with a couple of nails inside it? All happiness would disappear and plunge into that shoe; all life would rankle around those nails." And as little things have the power to annoy they have also the power to comfort and help.

Admiration.

"Do you consider the Electoral College a desirable institution?" inquired the man whose mind is on the nation.

"Well," remarked the nervous friend, "I can't help admiring it for the fact that I never yet heard of an Electoral College yell."—Washington Star.

Safe.

Cora—Jack has gone off on a horrid hunting trip, and I just know he will freeze to death.

Dora—Oh, I guess not. He can warm himself at the mountain range, you know.—New York Journal

Prosperity as a Leader.

"As you never work, Slowboy, I can't understand why you take such an interest in trade reports."

"Well, when other men are prosperous I find it easier to borrow money from them."—Chicago Post.

Watts—Some of those Chinese plays are six months long.

Potts—What of it?

"I was thinking one of them would be a good thing to take to the Arctic regions for a one-night stand."—Indianapolis Journal.

Local-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Der Detektivdienst im Parlamente, der unter dem Ministerium Windischgrätz eingeführt und während der Regierung des Grafen Badeni umfassender gestaltet worden war, wurde wieder eingestellt.—Die Kommission für Verkehranlagen hat beschlossen, auf der Strecke Heiligenstadt-Michelbeuern der Gürtellinie der Stadtbahn den elektrischen Betrieb einzuführen. Die Kosten für die Umgestaltung der Geleise belaufen sich auf 40,000 Gulden. — Die 28jährige Marie Haberl, Frau eines Bäckergehilfen, schnitt im Wahnsinn ihrer 1½jährigen Tochter den Hals durch und hängte sich dann auf.

Bozen. Im Vorglauer Hochthal in Ueberetsch wurde die Leiche des vor mehreren Monaten verschollenen Cleser Oekonomiebesitzers Bertholdi gefunden. Der Verunglückte war bei Begehung eines gefährlichen Steiges abgestürzt, hatte sich einen Beinbruch zugezogen und mußte elend erfrieren.

Fiume. Einem hier durch einen Blitzschlag verursachten Magazinbrand sind Jutewaaren im Werthe von 750,000 Gulden und Zucker im Werthe von 56,000 Gulden zum Opfer gefallen.

Oberhollabrunn. Drei Burschen geriethen beim „Fensterln" bei der Magd des Försters Bruckner in Unterzögersdorf in Streit, worauf der Förster herbeieilte und zwei Schüsse auf dieselben abgab. Alle Drei erhielten eine Schrotladung in den Rücken. Als der Förster einen dritten Schuß abfeuern wollte, stürzten sich die drei Burschen trotz ihrer Schmerzen auf den Schützen, entrissen ihm das Gewehr und prügelten ihn so weidlich durch, daß er bewußtlos liegen blieb.

Salzburg. Der Bankier und Direktor der Aktiengesellschaft Salzburger Elektrizitätswerke, Karl Leitner, angeklagt wegen Betruges, Veruntreuung und Exekutionsvereitlung, wodurch er Schaden im Gesammtbetrage von 1,034,375 Gulden angerichtet haben sollte, wurde nach mehrtägiger Verhandlung freigesprochen.

Wadowice. Der Raubmörder Wlodarski, einer der Mörder des Pleßer Bankiers Cohn, wurde hier hingerichtet.

Schweiz.

Bern. Der Schweizerische Schützenverein zählt nunmehr 58,502 Mitglieder in 1195 Sektionen. Von dem Aufschwung des schweizerischen Schießwesens mag man sich einen Begriff machen, wenn man berücksichtigt, daß vor zehn Jahren, also im Jahre 1888, der Schweizerische Schützenverein nur aus 257 Sektionen mit 12,463 Mitgliedern bestand.

Zürich. In Zürich wurde gelegentlich der Märzfeier von den Sozialdemokraten ein Umzug veranstaltet, an welchem etwa 2000 Personen theilnahmen. —Der Privatdozent für Psychiatrie an der Züricher Hochschule und Sekundararzt an der kantonalen Irrenanstalt Burghölzli, Dr. Hans Delbrück, ist als Direktor an die Irrenanstalt in Bremen berufen worden und wird dorthin übersiedeln.

Basel. Das Basler städtische elektrische Trambahnnetz hat das erste Jahr hinter sich. Es umfaßt gegenwärtig 12 Kilometer und sieht einer weiteren Ausdehnung entgegen, sobald einmal die mit der Bahnhoffrage zusammenhängenden Arbeiten in Angriff genommen werden. Die Zahl der beförderten Personen erreichte 1897 die Zahl 4,538,356, was einer Bruttoeinnahme von 608,303 Francs entspricht.

St. Gallen. Bischof Egger von St. Gallen hat in Rom seine Resignation angezeigt.

Aargau. Im verflossenen Winter ist man bei Windisch, dem römischen Vindonissa, ganz nahe dem durch seine Glasmalereien bekannten Kloster Königsfelden auf die Spuren eines römischen Amphitheaters gestoßen, von dessen Existenz man bisher nur durch Tradition Kunde hatte. Ein Theil des Amphitheaters wurde nun auf private Kosten bloßgelegt, die Weiterführung der Ausgrabungsarbeiten scheiterte aber an den hohen Preisen, die die Eigenthümer des Ausgrabungsareals forderten. Nun hat der schweizerische Bundesrath beschlossen, die in Frage kommenden Liegenschaften zu erwerben, und er wird bei der Bundesversammlung um die Bewilligung der nöthigen Kredite für die Erhaltung dieses historischen Denkmals einkommen.

Waadt. Das durch den Tod von Professor Nicolas in Erledigung gekommene Ordinariat für Hygieine an der Lausanner Universität ist dem Professor für Bakteriologie, Galli-Valerio, übertragen worden.

A $1,000 SERMON.

THE NEW YORK HERALD GAVE THIS SUM IN A PRIZE CONTEST.

Rev. Richard G. Woodbridge, Pastor of the Congregational Church of Middleboro, Mass., Wins the Money by a Dissertation on the Power of Gentleness.

The New York Herald offered a prize of $1,000 to the minister who should write for publication the best sermon. A provision of the contest was that the money should be devoted to charity.

The sermon to which the Herald awarded the prize was written by the Rev. Richard G. Woodbridge, pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Middleboro, Mass., and is given herewith:

"THE POWER OF GENTLENESS."

"Thy gentleness hath made me great."—Psalms, xviii., 35.

There is little in the popular idea of gentleness to make it desirable for God or man. We thnk of it as lacking in vigor and a long way removed from greatness. So suggestive is it of weakness and softness that we want very little to do with it.

Our ideas of gentleness need rectifying. We speak often of a gentle horse. What do we mean by it? That horse that is nervy and full of mettle, able to pass anything on the road, and yet so easily subdued that the voice of a little child would bring him to a standstill at once. That man is gentle who has the strength of a Hercules and the tenderness of a woman. Gentleness is power withholding itself and spending itself in goodness.

THE REV. RICHARD G. WOODBRIDGE.

A good illustration of gentleness was that on a Spanish battlefield. A gallant French soldier's sword was uplifted to strike his foe to the earth, but he saw as the sword was about to descend that his antagonist had but one arm. Instantly he stayed his sword, brought it to a salute and rode on.

Gentleness in a woman is love's mighty magnet, and will attract its own from the end of the earth. A woman without it is a monstrosity; a warrior with it is greater far than he who shows his power by burning villages, destroying crops, executing prisoners. The great General at Appomattox, considering the interests of the men in gray, treating them as his fellow countrymen, silencing the salute already under way to celebrate victory lest they should be further humiliated, and sending the defeated ones home well fed and equipped for labor on the farms, declared himself a gentle man as well as a great soldier, and did more in that hour to make his country great than other great men have done in a lifetime. Grant could have crushed the South in that hour; instead, he caressed it as a mother her weak, wayward child, and melted it to tears.

We speak often of the power of God, but it is the gentleness of God that works the greatest wonders. It is this that makes men great. See the gentleness of God at the beginning. It is not the strong arm, but the tender heart, that concerns itself with fallen man. It is not a king's voice that we hear in Eden, but a father's. Pathetic cry that, "Adam, Adam, where art thou?" When God came down in human flesh to save a lost world He came in the same spirit. A still and quiet night it was when the Saviour was born. The stars looked down peacefully upon the shepherds as they watched their sheep. The world was wrapt in slumber. It was into this stillness and quiet that God's angels came and God's glory shone around. Gentle words those were the angel spoke: "Be not afraid." So sweet and gentle was the music of the angelic host that no one save the shepherds heard it.

The spirit of the Gospel is the same. It is summed up in the words: "A bruised reed will He not break; the smoking flax He will not quench." It is by gentleness that God seeks to win the world to righteousness and truth. "The Lord God is a sun." Sooner or later cold and icy hearts must give way before Him. We need more gentleness before the earth can become like heaven—gentleness on the part of parents. You can shout at your children and bring them into trembling submission; you can thrash them into obedience; you can starve them into submission. The strong can bring the weak to terms for a while by these methods. But if you want to show your child the sweet reasonableness of your position and to make him docile, obedient, trustful, sit down and talk gently with him and seek to make his heart your own.

We need more gentleness on the part of teachers. It is by appealing to the best in a boy that the best is developed. Humiliate a boy, degrade him, ridicule him, and you have not subdued him. Beam upon him gently and lovingly, apart and alone, and he will be your friend forever.

We need more gentleness on the part of preachers. "The servant of the Lord must not strive, but be gentle toward all men." The Great Preacher was so gentle that Simon the Pharisee asked him to dine with him; the poor harlot lingered near His feet caressingly; Zaccheus and Matthew, the publicans, became His loyal disciples, and even a thief, in the agony of crucifixion, cried: "Lord, remember me!" The world needs nothing more than it needs gentleness and love. Human hearts are hungry for the music of gentle voices and the touch of tenderness. Why should we not all try to show that we are the sons and daughters of the gentle God?

Rough, rude boys have been made great for time and eternity by the sweetness and gentleness of mothers and sisters. Dull, willful, petulant scholars have been made thoughtful and earnest by the tender, patient love of self-denying teachers. Souls small, mean, selfish, sinful, have been made great by the gentle, faithful labors of those not willing that any should perish.

The night of life is coming on apace. It will be sweet to have the gates swing inward at our approach to the city eternal, and to be welcomed by some watching for our homecoming, and to hear from joyful lips such words as these: "Thy gentleness hath made me great."

WIRE SAWS FOR STONE CUTTING.

One Cable Will Dress More Than 500 Square Feet.

In the stone quarries of St. Triphon, in the Rhone Valley, the stone is sawn by means of continuously running steel wire cables kept moist with wet sand. The wire, which is about a quarter of an inch in diameter, is an endless rope travelling over a system of pulleys. It is so arranged as to be either a driver at one end or a tightener at the other, and one part of the rope is always being pressed against the portion of stone from which the block is to be cut. The cable is driven at a speed of 1,000 to 1,200 feet per minute, and as it enters the cut it is charged with a silicious sand in a small jet of water. This sand, carried in the twist of the cable, forms the actual cutting matreial, and does the work rapidly and well. A running cable contains about 500 feet and can make cuts of 100 feet long if necessary. It will dress about 1,000 square feet of surface, or more than 500 square feet of cut, before it becomes worn too smooth to hold sand. In order to remove a ledge of stone, pits are dug around it about a yard in diameter, and as deep as the cut is desired to be. The cable is then started and cuts the ledge into blocks, which being held only by their bottom surfaces, can be readily split off by wedges. These large blocks are removed by a powerful electric traveling crane, and afterward sawed into smaller sizes, and loaded by the crane upon cars for transport. While the crane is rated at a capacity of thirty tons, a block containing 460 cubic feet and weighing thirty-three tons has been quarried and transported.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

GOVERNS THE HUB.

Josiah Quincys to the Number of Three Have Been Boston Mayors.

Mayor Josiah Quincy is the third man of his name who has served as chief magistrate of Boston City. He was elected last November for a second term by the Democrats over the Republican candidate, E. V. Curtis, who had himself defeated Mr. Quincy for the mayoralty two years before. In 1823 the first Josiah Quincy was Mayor of Boston. The second Josiah Quincy filled that office in 1847, and in 1895 the present, or Josiah III., became Mayor of the Hub. The present Mayor is 41 years old, and is a graduate of Harvard with the class of '80. He was graduated in law, but did not practice, preferring to go at once into "practical politics." When he espoused the Democratic cause, he flung aside all the traditions of his family and ancestors. He won from the very start. Four times he was sent to the Legislature. He was Assistant Secretary of State under the late Judge Gresham, and it is said have turned out more consular officials than any of his predecessors. He has been member of the National Democratic Committee, chairman of the Executive Committee of the State Committee and has held other important political places. He is a tall, spare, cool, reserved New Englander. He never loses his temper, does not smoke or use strong language or liquor, works fifteen or more hours a day, and is one of the shrewdest men in Massachusetts politics.

JOSIAH QUINCY.

Family Secrets.

"That's papa's picture," explained the little girl to the caller who was looking at a framed photograph on the piano. "You wouldn't know it unless I told you, 'cause it's got a smile on the face."—Chicago Tribune.

"Oh, oh!" moaned Mrs. Weeks, who was suffering from a decayed molar. "why aren't people born without teeth, I'd like to know?"

"Why, my dear," exclaimed the husband, "do you happen to know any one that wasn't?"—Pittsburg Chronicle.

ONE KIND OF COURAGE.

It Gained Two Enemies for a Lieutenant in the Confederate Army

"Courage on the battlefield is not the only thing that makes a soldier," said an ex-Confederate officer. "It is very easy for a man to be brave when he is shoulder to shoulder with his comrades, but it is different on other occasions. It reminds me of an incident that came under my notice during the late war. One day the Captain of a company received word that Union soldiers had taken possession of a big mansion, and it was thought that some of the soldiers had been left behind concealed in the building. A Lieutenant and two privates were immediately detailed to make an investigation. They reached the place easily. The lower floor was examined, but nothing appeared to be wrong further than the removal of a few valuables. The family had fled at the approach of the enemy. The men crept up the stairs and looked over the second story. It was the same as on the first. In the hall, however, there was a ladder leading to a trap door in the garret. The door was swinging down and it was evident that some one had climbed up to the ceiling. The Lieutenant said that the garret would have to be searched. He told a private to go first.

"The private refused absolutely. He said it was certain death and that if he was a soldier he did not expect to have his head smashed open simply to look for a Union spy. He said he would take his punishment at camp, but he would not stick his head through the trap door. The second private was told to close the swinging door. He refused. His reason was that he had a wife and children at home and it was not bravery to stick his head in the fire.

"Without a word the lieutenant climbed the ladder and poked his head in the doorway. It was very dark and he shut his eyes, expecting every moment to have a big axe slash out his brains. He remained there a half-minute and then came down, closing the door after him. He told the privates that he would not report their cowardice to the Captain, but during the remainder of the war those two privates were the bitterest enemies the Lieutenant ever had. It was human nature, I suppose, for them to hate him."—New York Sun.

CHAMPION LADY SHOT.

She Hits Quail on the Wing and Rabbits on the Jump.

Miss Maude May, a charming young lady of Joplin, Mo., can justly lay claim to being the champion huntress of the Southwest, and is one of the most expert lady shots with the shotgun in the United States. Although only in her 18th year, Miss May can easily drop the fleetest flying quail or prairie chicken at long range, and her work in the field would make many an old hunter envious of her wonderful marksmanship, steady nerve and quick eye. She is also a great rabbit killer, and has yet to miss her first rabbit. In a hunt with her father, Capt. Ben May, last winter, this young huntress killed thirty-four rabbits without a miss, all of them being on a dead run when hit.

Miss May is just finishing her course in school, but often takes time to accompany her father on his hunts, with her well-trained setter, and never fails to give a good account of herself in the field. She has yet to kill a deer, but is preparing to go with her father to the Indian Territory next season, to try her skill with deer and bear.

DESIRE OF THE DRUG CLERK.

Parting Request to a Customer in Search of a Mixture to Cure a Cold.

The Long Acre drug clerk was coughing and sneezing when the young lady with the astrakhan cape hung carelessly over her arm stepped in.

"I want something for a cough," she said.

The clerk sniffed and sneezed and then wiped the tears from his eyes.

"I see you have a cough too," she ventured.

"O yes, horrible," he replied, and then he showed her a bottle labelled "Our own cough mixture, guaranteed to cure the most stubborn cases of cold or cough of years' standing."

"Is that good?"

"Best in this market," he answered.

When he had finished another attack of coughing and sneezing she asked the price.

"One dollar a bottle."

"You may wrap me up a bottle."

He did so, and after she had paid the money and emerged from the door he called her back.

"Madam," he said, "if that should help you any I would be pleased to have you come back and let me know."

And then he began coughing again.

Inspiration.

"And if I marry you then what?" asked the heiress.

"Why," replied Penniless, with sudden energy, "then you will be my wife."

SPORTS

VARIOUS SPORTS.

A meeting of the members interested in baseball, basket ball and out door athletics will be held at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening at 9 o'clock, to arrange for the coming season's sport.

The tie for the championship medal in the Y. M. C. A. junior gymnasium work, between John Dalziel and Irwin Leland, was decided at a special contest Saturday, in favor of Dalziel. The medal will shortly be presented to the winner in public.

Those who enjoy the spearing or gigging of suckers are reporting good luck. It seems to be the opinion of most lovers of fishing that it should be stopped by law. It is understood that the game and fish warden has his eye on some people who have been trespassing in Cedar brook on property leased by the Union, Somerset and Middlesex Game Association, and that some arrests are likely to follow.

A peculiar state of affairs resulted in the postponement of the gymnastic contest at the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium last evening. While there are a number of good gymnasts in the association, it so happened that there was only one contestant ready last evening. So Physical Director Heywood postponed the contest for a week. A game of basket ball was played during the evening between the regular team of the association and the "Big Five." The first team won easily although their opponents played a good game. The "Big Five" lacked the fine team play of their opponents which was a meterial factor in the result. The score at the close of the first half was 18 to 4, in favor of the regulars. The final result was 32 to 10 in favor of the same side. The teams lined up as follows:

FIRST TEAM.		BIG FIVE.
Long	right forward	Overton
E. Moraller, Bonny.	left forward	Zimmer
Egan	centre	Moraller
M. Moraller	right guard	Perrine
G. P. Smith	left guard	Doane

CYCLING COMMENT.

Prof. Eugene O'Reilly is out with a new Stearns bicycle.

Thomas Welsh and William Winn rode to Paterson on a tandem Sunday. They are coaching James Minor for the Milburn road race.

Louis Mohring, of Collier's jewelry store, recently rode his wheel to Perth Amboy and took a peep at the submarine torpedo boat Holland.

There was an unusual number of wheelmen out on the county roads Sunday. Plainfield was well represented and then there was the usual contingent of cyclists from New York and Newark, out for a spring jaunt. McVey's hotel was thronged about dinner time with hungry and thirsty wheelmen from all parts of the State. There were several club runs to this city.

BASKET BALL

After considarable talk, the return game between the girls of the Junior and Third classes of the Plainfield High School has been arranged. It will be played tomorrow afternoon in the gymnasium in the Whittier building. The game will be played with the lines dividing the floor into the three sections instead of the open game as was played at the first match.

GOLF.

Tomorrow evening a meeting of the members of the Park Club will be held to discuss the advisability of establishing a golf course.

Rapid progress is being made on the new links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. They will be ready for occupancy in a short time. It is claimed that when completed, they will be among the best links in the State.

The delightful weather of Saturday brought many of the local golfers out. The old links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club were thronged during the afternoon. All the crack players of the club are rapidly getting into form for the regular opening of the season.

Not a Boy Had a Button Left.

"That's right, that shows you are a careful boy. Whenever you find a button bring it to me," said one of the Catholic sisters in charge of the Orphan Boys' Home in Westport, and to encourage the boy to do so she gave him a piece of candy.

The other boys in the home heard of this and during the next two or three days a great many buttons found their way into the hands of the sisters. Every boy who brought one was rewarded as the first had been. Sunday came and the sister was busy making the boys clean and tidy for church. She was laying out their best clothes when she made this rather startling discovery: Not a button was left on the coats of those twenty-seven boys.—Kansas City Star.

Sterilizing Vaccine Lymph.

According to the latest medical reports from England, persons who are being vaccinated need no longer fear the suffering which comes from sore arms. Dr. Monkton Copemans has discovered a means for sterilizing vaccine lymph with absolute certainty by mixing glycerine with the calf lymph, and so destroying adventitious microbes, while enhancing the efficacy of the lymph. This should make vaccination practically painless.

GET OUT OF CUBA BY SATURDAY SAYS UNCLE SAM TO SPAIN!

American-Spanish Crisis is Now Brought to Focus by President's Ultimatum Today.

Joint Resolutions Signed and Sent to Congress this Noon—Spain Must Get Out of Cuba by 9 a. m. Saturday—Not Expected That Spain Will Answer

WASHINGTON, APRIL 20—THE PRESIDENT'S ULTIMATUM DEMANDS THAT SPAIN EVACUATE CUBA BY SATURDAY NOON.

SPAIN WILL PROBABLY REFUSE.

THAT WILL MEAN ARMED INTERVENTION.

Washington, April 20.—War with Spain is now the one subject of conversation at the National Capitol. The joint war resolutions, passed by Senate and House, have been signed by the President. Closely following came the ultimatum to Spain.

Washington has been in a grand turmoil of excitement all day. The White House was crowded with people who wished to see the President on business. There was a universal feeling that the President would sign the joint resolution.

It was expected that the President would take action yesterday afternoon. He did not, however. He was in close consultation with members of the Cabinet and the State Department.

It was stated that the delay in signing the resolutions was made so that the ultimatum might be issued immediately afterward.

It was announced that the President would surely sign this morning. Another meeting of the Cabinet was held early in the morning.

At 11:23 o'clock, President McKinley placed his signature to the joint war resolutions of the Senate and House. The news was quickly passed about the city. It was taken to be the final step. Everybody believes that war is now inevitable.

At 11:50, the President issued an ultimatum to Spain. It was short and to the point. It declared that Spain must vacate the island of Cuba by Saturday noon, (Madrid time). That is about 8 o'clock Saturday morning, (Washington time).

The ultimatum was cabled to Ambassador Woodford at Madrid at once. He was directed to present it to the Spanish ministry without delay. The text of the ultimatum has not yet been made public.

A copy of the ultimatum was served on the Spanish Minister in Washington, Senor Polo. He has asked for passports, which will be granted at once. He expects to leave Washington this afternoon.

It is not expected by the authorities here that Spain will make any answer to the ultimatum. If no answer is received by Saturday at the appointed time, hostilities will begin at once.

The movement of the regular troops to the southeastern coast still continues. They are rapidly being mobilized at the different camps. The great activity in the War Department continues.

It is announced at the Navy Department that the United States Navy is ready for the conflict and is ready to start for Havana and Porta Rico at once.

Madrid, April 20.—Ambassador Woodford received the ultimatum this afternoon. It will be presented to the Spanish Government at once Ambassador Woodford sent a farewell card to the members of the diplomatic corps in Madrid this morning. He will probably leave this afternoon.

General Weyler is in favor of war. He says that if the Americans manage to reach Cuba, they will find it necessary to have many thousand men. The yellow fever, he says, will kill half of them and the Spanish troops will answer for the rest.

The Spanish Cortes was assembled here this morning. Prime Minister Sagasta made a very warlike speech to the Cortes. He declared for war.

The time to talk, he said, has passed. It is the time for action. Acts and not words are required.

Spain, he continued, had suffered with patience resignation and prudence the greatest and most indescribable bitterness and worry but the Spanish people felt encouraged and inspired by patriotism.

He characterized the action of the United States in trying to secure the independence of Cuba as a most infamous calumny.

The action of the United States, he said, filled all the Spaniards with the holiest indignation against those who tried to take away Spain's indisputable sovereignty over one choice piece of Spanish territory.

Just as the announcement came this noon of the signing of the war resolutions and the sending of the ultimatum to Spain, the fire whistle told the people of Plainfield of the fact by a long and furious blast.

The State department has sent instructions to Minister Woodford to apply to the Spanish authorities for his passports if the reply of the latter to the ultimatum of this Government is not satisfactory.

Paris, April 20.—There is a rumor current here that Spain is about to take a new way out of the difficulty with the United States. It is said that Spain is considering the advisability of turning Cuba over to the sovereignty of the Pope. He would then declare its independence.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE IN NEW HAVEN.

Twenty Girls Penned in By the Flames and Burned to Death.

New Haven, April 20.—A disastrous fire broke out this morning at 10 o'clock in the heart of the business section. The flames started in the five-story building occupied by Beecher, Leonard & Company, the largest dry goods and clothing establishment in southern Connecticut.

The flames spread very rapidly and communicated to E Moses & Company's four story block on the east. On the west, two large millinery stores and the Young Men's Library and Institute caught fire.

Twenty persons, mostly young girls who were employed in the store, are supposed to have been burned to death.

The loss on the stock in the stores and on the buildings will amount to over $1,000,000.

KNOWING WILD BIRDS.

INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE LAST NIGHT.

Dr. Stone Talks on "Our Wild Birds and How to Know Them"—Urged Women Not to Use Feathers on Hats.

The illustrated lecture on "Our Wild Birds and How to Know Them," by Dr. Witmer Stone, of Philadelphia, given at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, under the auspices of the New Jersey Audubon Society, was one of the most interesting yet presented. Despite the very stormy night there was a large attendance of people who are supporters of the society and all were highly pleased with the lecture.

Former Mayor Alex. Gilbert, president of the society, made a few remarks previous to introducing Dr. Stone. Mr. Gilbert said that he had to confess that he knew very little about birds, although he had for several days past been trying to interest himself in the subject. He said that there is one wild bird that everyone is now interested in—the American eagle—and he thought it well worth while in keeping an eye on him, for if he escapes he is bound to do some damage. Mr. Gilbert then introduced Dr. Stone, who, for over an hour, talked in an entertaining manner about wild birds.

He divided his subject into three divisions. First, scientific ornithology; second, economic ornithology; third, æsthetic ornithology. He then took up the subject of birds individually.

He commenced with the swallow, warbler, wren, sparrow, etc., and told of the difference in style of habits and living. He explained how birds build their nests and how they live. Of the curious manner in which they travel from one clime to another. He spoke of the act in Pennsylvania how the authorities offered a bounty for the capture of hawks and owls, and in a short time they paid out the sum of $9,000 in bounty. This he claimed was wrong, for the legislators thought that the birds were destroying fowls, when in fact they were ridding the land of mice and rats.

Regarding the use of feathers and aigrettes for women's hats, Dr. Stone spoke in positive language. He did not favor the idea and thought the plan altogether wrong He said that the Paradise bird was now almost extinct on account of the use made of its plumage.

SHARP WORDS ABOUT SUGAR BEET BOUNTY.

Albert H. Atterbury Classes it as Vicious Legislation.

"IS A FRAUD AND A SHAME."

THOUGHT THAT GOVERNOR WILL KILL THE MEASURE.

Mr. Atterbury Opposed the Bill, He Said, in the Interests of the Plain People Who Did Not Want Their Taxes Increased for the Benefit of Their Neighbors—Vital Force Behind the Bill Was Greed and Monopoly—Dr. Hough Said Lawyers Were Always Trying to Hurt the Farmers.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 20.—While the distinguished legal gentleman, Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield, Senator from Somerset county, was the chief champion of the sugar bounty bill in the legislature another legal luminary who resides in Plainfield—just across the brook—was its principal opponent at the hearing held before Governor Voorhees yesterday. The latter was Albert H. Atterbury, the difference with Mr. Reed in legal status being that the former is a New York practitioner. This does not prevent him, however, from being a very alert and public spirited citizen of New Jersey.

Unfortunately for Mr. Reed his professional engagements in court at Somerville prevented his being present at the hearing, but there were several other influential gentlemen at the hearing to support the measure.

The bill provides for $250,000 in bounties for growers of beets, which are manufactured into sugar within the State. Mr. Atterbury opposed the bill, he said, in the interests of the plain people, who did not want their taxes increased for the benefit of their neighbors. He argued that the bill was vicious from an economic standpoint, and demoralizing socially and politically. The beet sugar industry, he said, would thrive without a bounty if it could profitably be pursued in New Jersey. He added: "We are bearing burdens enough; this bill, when considered as a public benefit, is a fraud and a shame. Who helps the clerk, the laborer, the shopgirl, who are forced to submit to close competition to get through life? The vital force behind this bill is a small and grasping monopoly. It makes an intolerable proposal to a free State. Farmers are not ready to be held up as objects of charity, and this is a charity of the boldest kind, a proposition for the vicious waste of the substance of the community."

Dr. Hough, Assemblyman Wright, of Burlington, the father of the bill, and ex-Senator Parry, asked the Governor to sign it. Dr. Hough said that lawyers were always trying to injure the farmer's interests.

The Governor replied that the last Legislature had done more for the farmers than for any other class of citizens. In citing laws enacted for their benefit he mentioned the Tuberculosis Appropriation bill, and took occasion to say that tuberculosis was a fad. He signed the bill, he said, as a matter of protection, as other States demanded the frequent examination of the cows which produce the milk their inhabitants consume.

Dr. Hough, Atterbury, Wright and the Governor then drifted into an argument which was interesting. The point was made by Mr. Atterbury that there was no standard of quality in the bill, and that a farmer who raised a ton of beets containing only an ounce of sugar would be entitled to the bounty. He denied that he represented the Sugar Trust or any other corporation.

Those who heard the Governer's remarks on the bill believe he will kill the beet sugar bill on general principles.

CLINTON AVENUE DRAIN.

As Soon as the Ground Becomes Dry it Will be Built.

Civil Engineer David Townley, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, called on Street Commissioner Gavett yesterday afternoon with a plan and profile of the proposed drain from Clinton avenue.

Mr. Townley reported that he found the ground was so full of water at present that it would be almost impossible to lay the pipes. As soon as the water is low enough, the pipes will be laid through Rushmore avenue to the brook from Coriell's hat shop.

Mrs. Comstock, of West Fifth street, has recovered from a slight illness.

A $250,000 FRANCHISE.

THAT IS THE ESTIMATED WORTH OF COUNTY TROLLEY RIGHT.

In Going Over the Route it is Found That at Least 100 Houses Will Have to be Moved or Torn Down.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 20.—While the road committee of the County Freeholders were inspecting the proposed West field avenue trolley route from Elizabeth to Plainfield Monday, they met with many property-holders who asserted they would contest any action taken by which their land would be appropriated for the widening. In Cranford it is proposed to cut a street through the rear of the lot on which the opera house block stands in order to make the street at this point straight. This would necessitate the purchase of considerable property, and would alone cost about $10,000.

In Westfield a large brick building will have to be moved or razed. It is believed that at least 100 houses will have to be moved or torn down at an approximate cost of $1,000 each, which would take all of the $100,000 offered for the franchise.

The Board has decided that it ought to have $250,000 for the franchise. Two surveyors have been employed on the road, one to work from Elizabeth to Westfield, and the other from Plainfield to Westfield. Their report, with that of the committee, will be made to the Board of Freeholders May 5th.

RACE TRACK FOR MIDDLESEX.

Prominent Horsemen are Interested in the Project.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, April 20.—Middlesex county, while abounding with prominent men who are lovers of horseflesh, is very poorly equipped in the way of race tracks. New Brunswick is the centre of the horsemen. The only race track in the county convenient to this city is the one at South River, the property of the Middlesex Driving Association. It is located four miles from here.

Sometime ago a project was started to erect a track at Highland Park, a suburb of New Brunswick. This movement has received a new stimulus from the proposed trotting association which is to be composed of the horsemen of Middlesex, Union, Somerset and Hunterdon counties. The men who are interested in the latter are now taking active steps toward the carrying out of the scheme for a new track.

The necessary financial support has been secured and there will be no delay in starting work on the new track. It will be a half-mile track and will be made as fast as possible. A bicycle track will also be built within the inclosure as well as stables and grand stand. Highland Park is connected with New Brunswick proper by excellent roads and by a trolley line.

Among the leading New Brunswick men who are interested in the movement are: John H. Conger, the County Clerk of Middlesex county; P. M. Welsh, Robert J. Smith, a member of the Board of Education; Edward H. Radel, superintendent of the Brunswick Traction Company; George H. Deinzer, a member of the County Board of Freeholders; John V. Hubbard and Dr. Harvey Iredell.

The articles of incorporation for the association which is to conduct the new track have been filed at the county clerk's office in this city. The association is known as the New Brunswick Driving Association. The capital stock is fixed at $20,000, divided into 400 shares.

A BIRD DAY.

New Departure for Public Schools Adopted by Superintendent Baxter.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 20.—Charles J. Baxter, State Superintendent of public instruction, has issued his circular regarding Arbor Day to the county and city superintendents. Besides the reference to the usual observation of the day and the vote on the State tree, Superindent Baxter makes the following report:

"It has been suggested by the United States Department of Agriculture that a Bird Day be set aside and observed annually. There is also a strong public sentiment favoring the establishment of such a day. As it seems unadvisable to make futher encroachments upon our already short school year, I would suggest that a portion of the exercises on Arbor Day be devoted to the birds. With this purpose in view I have prepared a circular designed to awaken among the pupils a more sympathetic interest in these denizens and friends of the trees."

The circular mentioned will be read at the Arbor Day exercises.

THE CLAIMS OF MIL. OWNERS DISPUTED BY WATER COMPANY.

Reed & Coddington Represent the Plaintiffs—Celebrated Case of Elizabeth Myers Against Joanna C M Blume for $20,000 Damages is Down on the Calendar, But Defendant is Not Quite Ready—Judge Magie Says That if Witnesses Cannot be Got by Monday He Will Put it Over the Term

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 20.—The Somerset county court opened its spring term yesterday. There were several cases of importance to come up in the Supreme Court but all were laid aside for the trial of the case of George Harper et als against the Mountain Park Water Company. The case has already been mentioned in The Press. The Water Company furnishes the water supply for Summit and Orange. The owners of the mill rights along the course of Green brook have claimed that the company is diverting the water that properly belongs in Green brook for its own benefit. The suit has resulted. All other cases have been laid over until Monday as it is expected that this suit will occupy the rest of the week

Reed & Coddington, of Plainfield, are the legal representatives for the mill owners and Riker & Riker, of Newark, are counsel for the water company.

Yesterday afternoon the case of Elizabeth Meyers against Joanna C. M. Blume for $20,000 damages, which has attracted so much attention in New York courts, was called and finally adjourned for a week. The suit was originally over injuries that Mrs. Meyers, of New York, received from falling on a loose cover to a coal hole in front of a house on West Forty-fifth street, New York. The house is said to be the property of Mrs. Blume, who owns a summer residence at Washingtonville. Suit was first brought in the New York courts, but Mrs. Blume claimed to live in New Jersey. Then suit was again started in Hudson county and was transferred to Somerset county.

Mrs. Meyers was represented by Tyndall and VonMoschzisker, of New York. Mrs. Blume's counsel was Senator C. A. Reed, of Reed & Coddington. Mr. Reed wanted an adjournment, as he said that some of the most important witnesses were out of the State and had not yet been secured. The case was laid over for a week when the Judge said that if the witnesses could not be secured he would adjourn the case until the next term of court at the expense of the defendant.

After the programme the remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner while the ladies served ice cream and cake.

The reception was arranged by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society. Mrs. Noah W Pike and Mrs. Garriet Q. Packer acted as chairman of the general committee in charge. The entertainment committee was composed of Mrs. J. R. Joy, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins and Mrs. D. E Davis. The decoration committee was composed of Mrs. J. R. Joy, Mrs. Yerkes and Mrs. O. L Jenkins. OFF TO SERVE ON THE MONITOR MONTAUK.

Surgeon Simpson and Apothecary Fulton Left This Morning

WILL REPORT AT HOBOKEN.

THEN GO TO THE LEAGUE ISLAND NAVY YARD.

Both Went Prepared to Stay an Indefinite Length of Time—Monitor is in Commission and There is Plenty of Life on Board Getting Her Ready to Start—Supplies and Ammunition are Being Put in the Hold—It is Thought Likely That the Monitor Will Leave for the Maine Coast Next Monday.

Surgeon M. S. Simpson and Apothecary Frank Fulton, of this city, left at 7:55 o'clock this morning for the headquarters of the New Jersey Naval Reserve, Battalion of the East, at Hoboken, where they will report and afterwards leave, with a number of other members of he detail assigned to man the monitor Montauk, for League Island navy yard, near Philadelphia. Both Dr. Simpson and Mr. Fulton went prepared to stay an indefinite time, and from present prospects they may get some active service.

League Island, April 20.—Looking spick and span, with her commander's pennant and the Stars and Stripes floating in the breeze over her, the monitor Montauk, the pride of the navy yard and of the Battalion of the East, New Jersey Naval Reserves, was the scene of much activity today. The monitor having been put into commission with the idea of hurrying her to completion, there has been plenty of life in every part of the vessel since. Orders have been given out to push the work on the monitor's four boats, which are being put into shape in the yard shops.

Part of the ammunition for the big guns, the muzzles of which show at the turret holes, has been put abroad, and today a start will be made upon the placing of supplies in the hold. Commandant Casey has been making frequent visits to the Montauk during the past few days and having talks with Commander Strong and the Naval Reserve officers. The suggestions he made were with the view of getting the monitor out within the ten-day limit he set, which will be up Monday next.

There is talk of sending for the sixty odd men who are to fill out the crew at the end of this week. The practice is, after the vessels have been made also ready to sail, for the commandant to send notice to the naval authorities at Washington, when the State officials are communicated with and then the reserves are called out. Should the rest of the New Jersey men arrive Saturday next the monitor would most likely leave for Portland, Me., Monday.

PEEKE SISTERS VISIT.

Charming Entertainment Given in Trinity Church Last Night

The members and friends of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed Church enjoyed a visit, last evening, from the Peeke Sisters from Alaska. The Sisters usually make their rounds once a year, and this year they decided to visit the society of Trinity Reformed church. They were gladly received by those present and a cordial reception was accorded them.

The Sisters were all gowned alike, red being the prevailing color, while the presence of the peak cap was an unmistakable evidence as to who they were. They entertained their friends by singing songs and giving recitations.

Miss Sadie Searing, as Keziah, had charge of the performance. Miss Bessie Randall, as the irrepressible Sophia, greatly amused the audience.

The tunes were all familiar and were quickly recognized. Those who represented the Sisters were Miss Sadie Searing, Miss Corinna Young, Mrs. Bertha Richards, Miss Jennie Ross, Miss Grace Berg, Miss Minnie Berg, Miss Nettie Kreitling, Miss Sadie Holmes, Miss Lillian Zeiss, Miss Emma Line, Miss Bessie Randall and Miss Grace Randall.

After the entertainment the Sisters served refreshments to all present and a good social time was enjoyed.

The affair was in charge of the social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of which Mrs. H. J. Martin, is the chairman.

Death of an Aged Woman.

Mrs. S. B. Ross, aged 96 years, widow of the late Peter Ross and mother of John Ross, died this morning at her home, 339 East Sixth street. Notice of funeral will be made hereafter.

CALL FOR 80,000 MEN

Practically Decided on by the War Department.

ARMY OF 200,000 MEN

That Number Is to Be Placed at the Government's Disposal—Plans Contemplate a Standing Army of 27,000 Men, a Call for 60,000 Volunteers, State Militia Call for 75,000 or 100,000 Men and 5,000 More Through Army Reorganization Bill.

Washington, April 20.—The War Department has practically decided that its first call to arms will be for 80,000 men to be taken from the militia of the several States.

There are some complications in the matter which it will take a little time to adjust and which will prevent the issuance of a call to-day and may delay it even a little longer.

Plans now being formulated in Congress involve the placing of about 200,000 soldiers, in round numbers, at the disposal of the Government within a very short time after the Cuban resolutions are approved by the President.

This calculation is based on the following figures covered in plans already in effect or in contemplation, viz.: Standing army, 27,000; by call for volunteers, 60,000; by calling out State militia, 75,000 or 100,000; by army reorganization bill, 5,000.

Leaving aside the present army force, the second and fourth items are practically settled on in committee, while the third, as to State militia, is being actively canvassed, and while there are different views, they are expected to crystallize into an authorization to call out the number stated.

The bill drawn up by the War Department for introduction by Representative Hull, chairman of the Military Committee, authorizes the President to call for something like 60,000 volunteers, to be drawn through the various States. While this method obviates the legal technicalities involved in the services of State militia organizations per se, it is likely the volunteers thus obtained through quotas furnished by the respective State and Territorial Governors will come from within State militia ranks.

In the House Committee on Militia a plan to effectually put a large number of the militia at the disposal of the President is being formulated. Some think 100,000 excessive, but Chairman Marsh and others regard the figures as conservative in the view that the resolution evidently means war.

The President as now suggested by Representative Marsh can call out the militia at any time, and Cnogress follow up the executive action by legislative enactment providing for their mustering into the United States service.

At the same time the army reorganization bill recently recommitted by the House is being carefully pruned in the Military Affairs Committee to meet objections. It is proposed to extend the army organization to the three battalion war formation.

WAR DEPARTMENT BILL.

Provides Two Branches, the Regular and the Volunteer Army.

Washington, April 20.—The War Department bill, to provide for temporarily increasing the military establishment in time of war, was sent yesterday to Chairman Hull, of the House Military Affairs Committee, and Senator Hawley, the chairman of a similar committee in the Senate. The measure was prepared under the immediate supervision of Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn.

The following are the provisions of the bill in full:

A bill to provide for temporarily increasing the military establishment of the United States in time of war, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted, etc., that all able-bodied male citizens of the United States, and persons of foreign birth, who shall have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, under and in pursuance of the laws thereof, between the ages of 18 and 45 years, are hereby declared to constitute the national forces, and, with such exceptions and under such conditions as may be prescribed by law, shall be liable to perform military duty in the service of the United States.

Sec. 2. That the organized and active land forces of the United States shall consist of the army of the United States and of the militia of the several States when called into service of the United States;

Provided, that, in time of war, the army shall consist of two branches which shall be designated respectively as the regular army and the volunteer army of the United States.

Sec. 3. That the regular army is the permanent military establishment which is maintained both in peace and war according to law.

Sec. 4. That the volunteer army shall be maintained only during the existence of war, or while war is imminent, and shall be raised and organized, as in this act provided, only after Congress shall have authorized the President to raise such a force; provided that all enlistments for the volunteer army shall be for a term of three years, unless sooner terminated, and that all officers and men composing said army shall be discharged from the service of the United States when the purposes for which they were called into service shall have been accomplished, or on the conclusion of hostilities.

Sec. 5. That when it becomes necessary to raise a volunteer army the President shall issue his proclamation stating the number of men desired, within such limits as may be fixed by law, and the Secretary of War shall prescribe such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the terms of this act, as may in his judgment be necessary for the purpose of examining, organizing and receiving into service the men called for; provided that all men received into service in the volunteer army shall, as far as practicable, be taken from the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia in proportion to their population.

Sec. 6. That the volunteer army and the militia of the States, when called into the service of the United States, shall be organized under, and shall be subject to, the laws, orders and regulations governing the regular army; provided that each regiment of the volunteer army shall have one surgeon and one assistant surgeon, and that all the regimental and company officers shall be appointed by the President, upon the recommendation of the Governors of the States in which their respective organizations are raised, subject to such an examination as to fitness and capacity as the President may describe.

ARMY BILL TO BE PUSHED.

The President Anxious to Issue a Call for Volunteers Soon.

Washington, April 20.—The House Committee on Military Affairs has obtained permission to sit during sessions of the House in order that the completion of the Army Reorganization bill and that providing for enlisting volunteers may be accomplished as speedily as possible.

The Reorganization bill, as far as prepared, retains its original features, except that the size of companies is reduced. For infantry a company shall consist of 106 men, exclusive of commissioned officers; cavalry, 100 men; heavy artillery, 150 men, and light artillery, 122 men.

The Volunteer bill will be pushed to an early passage, as the President wants to issue a call as soon as possible.

TO USE SOUTHERN SOLDIERS.

The War Department to Land 40,000 Men in Cuba, Half Regulars and Half Militia.

Washington, April 20.—Secretary Alger has had several conferences with the officers of the army in regard to the plan for the army invasion and occupation of Cuba. The present intention of the War Department is to land an army of not less than 40,000 men in Cuba, half of which will be composed of the regular army and the other half of the militia of the Southern States.

The reason for this action is that the army officers are of the opinion that the Southern men will be better able to withstand the dangers of the climate of Cuba than the Northern militia men. The soldiers of the Northern and Western States will be scattered along the Southern coast and used to garrison the ports and coast defenses.

When Gen. Lee was before the War Board he testified that there was no great danger to American troops on the island of Cuba from the climate. He explained that the death rate among the Spanish army is due to the fact that these soldiers are badly fed and that there are no sanitary arrangements perfected in their camp life.

PENNSYLVANIA MILITIA.

Preparing Camp Ground Near Lebanon for Mobilization.

Lebanon, Pa., April 20.—Active preparations are going on here for the mobilization of the Pennsylvania National Guard on the camp grounds of Mt. Gretna, near this city, in the event of their being called out. The grounds have been designated on several occasions for the annual Summer encampment of the troops and are admirably adapted for the purpose, the State rifle range being located there. Workmen have cleared the ground of its growth of underbrush, the big water tank has been filled and the water pipes have all been tested.

State officials say that if the troops are called for 9,000 Pennsylvania soldiers can be concentrated at Mt. Gretna within twenty-four hours. This arrangement contemplates the fact that a railroad journey of fifteen hours is necessary in order to get the troops from remote sections of the State to this place.

It is believed here that New Jersey troops will also be brought to Mt. Gretna and possibly those of Maryland and Delaware. The railroad facilities are admirable. Both the Pennsylvania and the Reading Railroad companies have tracks running direct to the camping grounds, and arrangements could be made on short notice to handle train loads of troops in quick time.

NEW SQUADRON FORMED.

Will Protect New York, Philadelphia and Other Northern Ports.

Washington, April 20.—A new squadron of naval vessels in the North Atlantic has been formed by the Navy Department to be composed of the four Morgan liners, recently acquired by the Government, and the San Francisco as a flagship.

The duty of the squadron will be to afford protection to New York, Philadelphia and other northern cities, and the headquarters will be at New York.

Commodore J. A. Howell has been detached from the Cincinnati, of the European squadron, and will command the North Patrol Squadron, as it is officially designated.

Arizona Regiment of Rough Riders.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 20.—Governor McCord is deeply interested in the formation of Colonel Bridges' regiment of rough riders. He has telegraphed to the President as follows:

"I beg you to remember that Arizona was the first to offer to the Government a regiment of cavalry recruiting from the cowboys of the Southwest. The regiment can be ready for muster in ten days and will be an honor to the Territory and to the nation. Please give me authority to raise such a regiment outside of our quota of volunteers to be called for."

Price of Army Mules Advanced.

Kansas City, Mo., April 20.—It is said that a combination has been formed among the mule traders of Kansas City and St. Louis to take advantage of the necessities of mules needed at once for the army. Prices have been advanced fully 2 per cent., and another advance is planned. The 200 mules sold in Kansas City last week for $83.40 a head and the 800 sold in St. Louis for $93 are said to have cost the dealers less than $50 a head. The Government requires immediately 1,800 more mules, and for these a still higher price will be exacted by the men who have corned the available supply.

Patriotism at Cornell

Ithaca, April 20.—Illinois boys got together last night and passed resolutions offering their services to Uncle Sam. Several of the seniors are circulating petitions asking the faculty for degrees in case they shall enlist before June.

TWENTY BANKS VICTIMIZED.

George B. White, of Boston, Said to Have Secured $302,000.

New York, April 20.—The Grand Jury yesterday, upon the evidence of ex-Mayor Strong and several clerks from the Central National Bank, found an indictment for grand larceny against George B. White, a wholesale leather merchant of Boston. He will be brought to this city on extradition proceedings and tried.

According to the testimony given to the Grand Jury White has been doing business for several years on his father's reputation. The firm name was William S. White & Co., of Boston. Their tanneries were at Hyndham, Pa. White has, it is alleged, in tht past five years, through a series of swindlings, secured $302,000 from twenty banks in New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

White first appeared in New York in 1893, and called upon ex-Mayor Strong, who was the president of the Central National Bank. He told him that he intended to go into business in this city and that he would like to get a financial rate. He said that he had valuable properties in Boston and Pennsylvania, which were unencumbered, and upon which he would like to get a loan of money. White then deposited a small sum of money in the bank, and upon his statement of his property in Pennsylvania, secured a loan of $10,000.

Then, according to the testimony, a series of notes were put through the bank, but the deposits that had been made by White had all been drawn out. According to the complaint White kept working his note system for nearly a year, at the close of which time the Central National Bank found that it had lost, through their customer, $19,595.93. Nothing more was heard from White for some time, it is said. Other banks in this city, in conference, told of dealings with a man named White. The result was that it was found that White had had under similar pretensions secured some $20,000 from each of the three other banks.

The Philadelphia authorities had worked in conjunction with the New York bankers to run down White. It is said that White, for the past four or five years, has been in South America, and has recently returned. He was arrested a week ago in Philadelphia, and is now under heavy bail.

M'KINLEY WELL GUARDED.

Special Officers Now See That the President is Not Molested.

Washington, April 20.—An extra guard has been detailed at the White House to assure the personal safety of President McKinley. Two sergeants and a lieutenant of police have been added to the detail of policemen, also trebled, at the Executive Mansion. A guard of the regular army will be substituted for the police officers in case of war.

Under the charge of Lieutenant Cross the force at the Executive Mansion has been completely reorganized. The policemen stationed about the grounds are compelled to turn in a call from watchboxes every fifteen minutes while on duty. On a failure to report, a sergeant is sent out to investigate.

There are two men stationed in front of the Executive Mansion and five in the rear. New locks have been placed on the gates leading to the grounds. Two detectives are constantly on duty at the entrance and inside of the mansion. Four policemen are detailed inside, who are on duty all night. At stated intervals they visit the corridors in the office portion of the buildings.

Further Delay Unwarranted.

London, April 20.—The Times says, editorially, this morning:

"Delay on the American side can now do no good. It is better that what the President has to do should be done quickly. It is surprising to hear from our American correspondent that President McKinley alone, in Washington, with the possible exception of Archbishop Ireland, still believes in the possibility of peace. A peaceful solution would doubtless still be possible if both Governments were sincerely desirous to avoid war. It is quite conceivable that in the long run both will have reason to regret the decision at which both have arrived. We regret the outcome on behalf of both peoples."

Squadron Expects to Sail on Saturday.

Fort Monroe, April 20.—Capt. Higginson, of the battleship Massachusetts, one of the most conservative officers of the flying squadron, believes that sailing orders will come Saturday. That Commodore Schley does not expect to be sent away at once was evidenced by the issuing of invitations for a reception on the flagship to-day, tendered by the wardroom officers in honor of Commodore and Mrs. Schley and Capt. and Mrs. Cook.

Alleged Proposal for Cuban Plebescite.

London, April 20.—It is reported that the Dreibund, or Triple Alliance (composed of Germany, Austria and Italy), acting upon the suggestion of Italy, has proposed to the powers the formation of a plebiscite (the vote of a whole country, namely, Cuba in this case), to settle the Cuban question, meaning that the population of Cuba should be allowed to vote for the form of government most popular there.

New $2 Counterfeit Note.

Washington, April 20.—The Treasury Secret Service Division announces a new $2 counterfeit Treasury note, series of 1891, portrait of McPherson. The note is on heavy bond paper and red pen scratches are substituted for the silk fibre of the genuine. The portrait, in the work and parallel ruling are all poor and the words "bearer" and "bureau" art both misspelled.

448 Carloads of Troops.

Chattanooga, April 20.—The railroad officers here have received notice that 448 carloads of troops will reach Chattanooga within the next twenty-four hours. A small portion of them, being infantry, will move on to the coast, but the major portion of them will disembark here and march thirteen miles to Chickamauga Park.

Spanish Fleet at St. Vincent.

A TRAVELING MAN

Gives Some Valuable Hints Regarding the Care of the Health While Traveling.

Mr. R W. Wincherdon, a commercial traveler from Birmingham, whose business keeps him almost constantly on the road, relates in the Sunday News the dangers to health resulting from constant change of residence and the way he overcame the usual injurious effects.

He says: One thing people traveling cannot very well avoid is the constant change in water and food; the stomach never has an opportunity to become accustomed to anything and in a few years or much sooner the average traveling man becomes a hopeless dyspeptic.

For several years I suffered more or less from indigestion, sour stomachs, headaches, distaste for food, often no appetite, gas on the stomach and the usual unpleasant effects of imperfect digestion.

Nearly every traveling man has his favorite remedy for different troubles and I tried all of them with indifferent results. Finally on the train between Pittsburg and Philadelphia one day, I overheard a conversation between two ladies, one of whom had suffered severely from indigestion and stated she had been completely cured by a remedy which she called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets; I remembered the conversation because it directly interested me; and at the next town I inquired at the first drug store and bought a package for fifty cents, and from that day to this I have never been without them. They are pleasant tasting tablets, not a secret patent medicine but composed of vegetable essences, pure pepsin, fruit salts and Golden Seal; being in tablet form they never lose their good qualities like a liquid medicine would, but are always fresh and ready for use.

I carry a box in my pocket continually, and whenever I see any symptoms of indigestion I take one, also one after each meal, and for a year and a half I have not lost a day by reason of poor health and can eat anything and relish what I eat; my digestion is absolutely perfect as far as I can judge from my feelings and although there may be other stomach medicines just as good as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, I do not know what they are. Certainly for people who travel they are far ahead of any liquid medicines, as they are so convenient, they can be carried in the pocket and used whenever needed.

I believe they are sold by all druggists at 50 cents, and believe anyone who will try them will agree with me, that for indigestion and stomach trouble Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are unequaled. 4 18 20 22

ULTIMATUM TO SPAIN

She Will Have Three Days to Get Out of Cuba.

PRESIDENT TO ACT TO-DAY

After an Evening Cabinet Meeting the President Decided to Issue Ultimatum To-Day—In Favor of Granting Spain Two or Three Days' Time—This Will Give Opportunity for Preparations.

Washington, April 20.—President McKinley's ultimatum to Spain will be presented to-day through Minister Woodford at Madrid. It will carry the substance of the United States Congress resolutions demanding that the Government of Spain shall at once relinquish its authority in Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from the island. Should Spain attempt a parley which in any way indicates the possibility of delay forcible means will immediately be used to drive Spain from Cuba and Cuban waters.

The Cabinet was in session from 3.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon until 5.35, but was unable to agree on the terms of the ultimatum to Spain.

There was a difference of opinion as to the length of time that should be given to the Spaniards within which to reply to our peremptory demands for the evacuation of the Island of Cuba. One or two of the members still thought that twenty-four hours would be sufficient, while a number of others suggested forty-eight hours.

The President, however, was of opinion that we would not be in a position to enforce our demands even at the end of forty-eight hours, and in view of the fact he thought at least three days would not be too long a time to permit Spain to have for decision.

It was not with a view of giving Spain any particular consideration that he favored a longer time, but in his opinion it would take that time to put our army and naval forces in position to strike a decisive blow.

Of course, the President does not expect Spain to evacuate Cuba in that time, but he does expect that the Spanish Government shall indicate whether it is going to comply at once with his demands, or whether the United States must intervene with the forces of the army and navy.

As the Cortes meets in Madrid to-day the matter can be laid before that body at once, and for this reason the President has concluded to grant the Spaniards more than the proposed forty-eight hours in which to decide. This will bring the matter up to some time on Saturday, when the answer will have to be made.

If Spain refuses the demand, which is expected, the President will then proceed to carry out the will of Congress.

First Move by Navy.

He will use the armed forces of the army and navy to bring about peace in the island, and to drive the Spaniards from it. This was discussed to some extent in the Cabinet meeting, and the President was of opinion that the first move would be a naval demonstration.

He is most desirous of relieving the suffering of the reconcentrados, but, as he said to the Cabinet members, it is impossible to do that now, nor can it be done until the United States has some one on the island to superintend the distribution of the supplies.

It is also decided by the President that while waiting for Spain to answer the ultimatum, there will be no move made by this Government towards Cuba. The fleets will remain at their stations. The moving of the land forces toward the South will continue, however, so as to have them ready for any millitary demonstration that may be necessary.

The President and the Cabinet have decided that this course is best, because to order the navy or any of its vessels to make a demonstration before the harbor of Havana or any Cuban port might be considered an overt act by Spain, and intended to influence her action on the ultimatum. The rest of the week, however, will be given up to active preparations, and the auxiliary vessels of the navy will be ready to move at a moment's notice.

The resolution as passed by Congress Monday night was so amended as to empower the President to use the land and naval forces "and to call into actual service of the United States the militia of the several States to such an extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect."

Can Call for Volunteers.

This provision gives the President full power to call for volunteers, and to use the militia without the passage of a special act of Congress, which was necessary under the Constitution.

So the President is in a position to issue his call for volunteers at any time. What he will do in this matter, when the proclamation shall be issued, and how many volunteers he will call for, the President and the Cabinet will decide to-day.

Chairman Dingley of the House Committee on Ways and Means believes it necessary that war should not begin before the close of the present week, that important legislative developments for the national defense may be completed. The President, having informed Congress that he awaited its action, understands that no excuse will be tolerated for delay. He does not propose to offer any, nor to lose a minute in conducting an aggressive and swift campaign. But a certain amount of formality is necessary.

All signs point to a flat refusal by Spain to accept the demands of the United States. The tone of the Spanish press, the failure to receive any assuring information from the United States Minister, and the preparations of Minister Polo to leave Washington as soon as the resolution is signed and the ultimatum ordered to be presented point to the probability that Spain already has decided that the controversy must be settled after a contest.

Says Spain Can Do Nothing More.

Paris, April 20.—Le Journal publishes an interview, which its Madrid correspondent has had with Senor Moret, the Spanish minister of the colonies, in the course of which Senor Moret said: "Spain has made all the concessions compatible with honor. If McKinley wants Cuba let him come and take it. We can do and say nothing more."

MAKING THE ARMY READY.

Larger Preparations for Mobilization Already Made—Arranging Small Details.

Washington, April 20.—The larger preparations for action are about completed and the work is now reduced to perfecting details. The army is being mobilized and all that remains is to insure the prompt supply of all classes of equipment.

The four points to which the army moves are Chickamauga battlefield, Tampa, New Orleans and Mobile. The troops carry thirty days' rations and much ammunition. Telegrams received at the War Department to-day indicate that a large proportion of the army is now on its way South.

Orders were issued from the War Department placing the light batteries or artillery on a strictly war footing. Telegrams were sent to the commanding officers of these batteries in all parts of the country directing them to increase each battery from four to six guns and to increase the horses for each gun from four to six.

The Quartermaster General's Department of the army is rushing work on tents and tent equipage. Ordinarily the manufacture of this class of goods is confined to Philadelphia, but recently the War Department has contracted for making them at St. Louis, New York and Chicago. A large consignment of tents has been allotted to the militia of the States under the act of Congress.

The War Department will need about two hundred men as packers for the mule teams now being collected by Captain Thomas Cruse, at Jefferson Barracks. Pack trains will be particularly useful in the mountainous parts of Cuba and where the roads are bad. Chief packers will get $100 a month; cargadores $75; first-class packers $50 and second-class $40.

In the event of hostilities the engineer office of the War Department will promptly take steps to form a corps of officers, especially to assist the army in the field in such engineering projects as the operations of the campaign call for. The battalion of engineers at Willet's Point, N. Y., doubtless will be called on, as well as the West Point Military Academy.

Reindeer Scheme Comes to Grief.

Washington, April 20.—The War Department has received a telegram from Brigadier General Merriam, commanding the Department of the Columbia, announcing that the Alaskan reindeer expedition is a complete failure. Acting on General Merriam's recommendation, the War Department has issued an order relieving Captain Brainard from further duty with the expeditions in Alaska and directing him to report in person to the Commissary General of Subsistence at Washington.

Ship for Army Hospital.

Washington, April 20.—A number of ships in New York harbor will be examined to-day by Colonel Kimball for the purpose of selecting a boat to be used as an army hospital ship. The ship will carry the beds and will be sent to Cuba. It will be for the use of the army exclusively. Army medical officers will be stationed on board, and a number of available volunteers will be assigned to duty as soon as the ship is selected and placed in commission.

Want to Fight Spain.

London, April 20.—There have been many applications at the United States Embassy and at the United States Consulate here this week for enlistment in the United States army or navy. Most of the applicants were Englishmen, including several officers and former officers of the British army of lieutenant's grade. A number of engineers also applied, and applications were received from women who are desirous of serving as nurses in the field.

Biggest Gun in the World.

Cleveland, O., April 20.—The big eight-inch gun cast by the Otis Steel Company for Dr. Gatling, in accordance with a new method invented by him, has been shipped to Washington to be rifled and forwarded to Sandy Hook for trial. The gun weighs 31,000 pounds and is the biggest coast-defense weapon in the world.

Germany's Attitude.

Berlin, April 20.—Germany considers mediation worse than useless. The German Foreign Office declares that Dr. von Holleben, the Ambassador of Germany at Washington, instead of joining in renewed representations to the United States, is urging the Ambassadors to stop their attempts at mediation.

Senator Walthall Dying.

Washington, April 20.—Senator Edward C. Walthall of Mississippi, who has been critically ill in this city for several weeks, is now in a sinking condition. His physicians have given up all hope for his recovery, and his death is expected at any moment.

Financial Disturbance Predicted.

Paris, April 20.—The Temps says: "How long, if the war is protracted, will the United States adhere to the sound-money principle? There will be a great disturbance in the financial markets."

A dispatch from Madrid says great indignation has been caused in English speaking circles in Madrid by an unwarranted attack upon General Stewart L. Woodford, appearing in two issues of an American journal. The American Minister's courtesy is much appreciated by all in English speaking circles, especially by the newspaper representatives.

SAY WAR IN MADRID

The Aotion of Congress Makes Hostilities Inevitable.

SAGASTA TO THE CORTES

Spanish Papers Urge Immediate Action on Government—El Liberal Says Time Has Come for Blows—London Report of Proposal by the Triple Alliance for a Cuban Plebescite—Effort to Persuade Spain to Abandon Cuba.

Madrid, April 20.—The general belief here is that the joint resolution of Congress makes war between Spain and the United States inevitable.

It is claimed Spain prefers to face war rather than yield to the American demands.

The terms of the speech which the Queen Regent will deliver at the opening of the Cortes to-day, are jealously guarded, but, it is said that the speech will prove firm, convincing and satisfactory to the national sentiments.

An official note says negotiations are actively proceeding between the colonial government of Cuba and the insurgents of that siland, with the view of obtaining the submission of the latter as a result of further concessions regarding autonomy.

The Liberal says: "The Spaniards are tired of talk of papal and other interventions. War is a matter of hours, in spite of the rumors of delays upon President McKinley's part."

Continuing, the Liberal urges Spain to stop argument, adding: "The time has come for blows, and not for words."

The Imparcial, commenting upon the commercial aspect of the war, which it regards as certain, "so soon as President McKinley stops vacillating," says:

"The Americans who are rushing into war will be surprised to find that it is not an affair of weeks, but of months. It will last until the commercials are more anxious for peace than they are now anxious for war."

SPAIN DEFIES US.

Cortes Told Not to Yield by Senor Sagasta.

Madrid, April 20.—The supporters of the Government in both Houses of Parliament met in the Senate Chamber at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Senor Sagasta, the Premier, addresed them as follows:

"The times are so grave and the circumstances are so exceptional that acts and not words are necessary to face the present difficulty.

"Attempts are being made to sully the glories of Spain by an infamous calumny. The different Spanish Governments have done their utmost to avert war to which we are being provoked.

"We have now reached the limits of concession compatible with honor and territorial integrity. We consented to the last concession at the instance of the Pope and the powers. We yielded, in fact; but now attempts are made upon our honor and menaces directed against our territory. That is a thing to which Spaniards will never consent. (Applause.)

"This is not the moment to trace a parliamentary programme, but the moment to unite ourselves, as our fathers have done, in the face of an odius attempt against the integrity of our territory. The insult offered us to-day is the most infamous that has ever been offered." (Prolonged applause.)

Continuing, Senor Sagasta counseled the rapid constitution of the Chambers in order accord to the Government the means to defend the country's interests.

"Spain," he added, "will not allow a parcel of her territory to be taken from her with impunity; nor will she be a party to any trafficking for her possessions."

Prolonged and enthusiastic cheers greeted the speech.

Last night the parties constituting the Cortes held their preliminary meetings. Senor Silvela presided over the meeting of the Conservative minority. In the course of his remarks he advised all Conservatives to support the Government. The Republican party has sent a message to Senor Emilio Castellar, appealing to his patriotism to take part in the Parliamentary campaign. The communication points out that "during the present situation it is the duty of Republicans to maintain an expectant attitude toward the monarchy, but at the same time to stand ready to make the sacrifices demanded by patriotism, in the face of a powerful enemy, for the defense of Spanish sovereignty over Cuba, the preservation of which is demanded by the history, security and rights of Spain."

Asks Spain to Abandon Cuba.

London, April 20.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says:

"Some of the powers, including France and Italy, are acting in concert with the Vatican in an effort to persuade Spain to abandon Cuba. It is said Spain is secretly inclined to this course, but prefers to await the outbreak of war in order to have the appearance of yielding to force and so to be justified by public opinion. At the Vatican and several of the foreign embassies it is still believed there will be no war."

The Daily News, commenting on the "probability that Spain will not attempt a conflict in Cuba, but will attack and prey upon American commerce in European waters, in which case the coal question would become important," says:

"It is not Great Britain's interest to encourage the supplying of coal to belligerents, and the Spanish Government is mistaken if it is reckoning on unrestricted access to British coaling stations."

Makes Peace Impossible.

London, April 20.—The afternoon newspapers here unanimously express the opinion that if President McKinley signs the joint resolution of Congress it will preclude the possibility of peace. The papers also think it probable that when the demands of the United States are transmitted to Spain the latter will regard them as an act of war, without waiting for further action upon the part of the United States.

A CYCLE REVERIE.

For the first summer season in several years Plainfield is without a bicycle club of any prominence This is in truth a strange condition of affairs Plainfield has always up to the present season been one of the leading cycle racing towns in the eastern States; and, in fact, in the early construction of the Crescent Oval track paved the way for racing as it is followed today in the great metropolitan district.

In the number of noted amateur and professional racers who first won renown while carrying the colors of Plainfield clubs, and who have since attained National and Inter-National honors on the bicycle course, this town has no inglorious record. A conservative estimate will place 5,000 bicyble riders in Plainfield, and the numbers constantly increasing each season—an evidence that the exercise is generally more popular than ever.

While the principal promoters of cycle racing—the Crescents—are totally defunct, their greatest enterprise, and a worthy one, still stands lonesomely under the shadow of the Short Hills with no prospect of immediately echoing the excited plaudits of cycle enthusiasts for the performances of pedalists who have in years past brought prominence and credit to its egg-shaped course.

In cycledom it is a sad thing to contemplate.

AN EYE TO STATE BUSINESS.

From the casual remarks dropped by Governor Voorhees at the hearing on the bill seeking to increase the appriation for roads from $100,000 to $150,000, it is taken that his excellency will not make the measure a law. The broad tire bill, which was referred to editorially a few days ago in these columns, is also doomed to defeat, as the Governor infers that it is unconstitutional in leaving towns of over 5,001 population out of the benefit of its provisions, under which Plainfield would not be affected even if it did become a law.

The Governor is on record for good roads—a very natural thing for anyone coming from Union county—but he seems to feel that $100,000 a year is ample for the State to appropriate, especially as the institutions such as the insane asylums, State prison, etc., are so badly in need of increased facilities.

CUBAN CONSULAR REPORT.

The withholding even from congress of the full text of recent Cuban consular reports was perhaps necessary. Our consuls are now safe out of Cuba, yet there is many a fanatical Spaniard in this country who would not be averse to shooting one of them in the back for telling the tragic truth concerning the reconcentrados in the unhappy island.

Again, if the full reports had been published the American people could not have been held back another day from driving the Spaniards out of Cuba.

Talk of Turkish atrocities in Armenia, talk of red Indian barbarity in the west or Tibetan and Chinese savagery to strangers within their borders! Turk and Chinese are only half civilized; Indian and Tibetan are barbarians. Yet no deed committed by any of these ever exceeded in horror the work of "Christian" Spaniards in Cuba. The consuls have reported plainly what they saw in their respective districts and for their protection the stories are kept from being published. McKinley had them as pointers when he wrote his message to congress that the war in Cuba must stop.

Lying in the ditches on the outskirts of Havana itself hundreds of naked wretches have died of starvation. The same story repeats itself in every district. Yet the fate of those who thus died was happiness compared to that of the young women and girl reconcentrados who fell into the hands of the Spanish soldiery. The soul sickens and turns from the frightful record. Spanish commanding officers of the highest rank took part in the outrages on women. There are tales of inhuman barbarity that rouse a fury in every breast; tales which make even a Quaker feel that the whole Spanish army in Cuba, with its officers at the head, ought to be stood up in a row and wiped off the face of the earth with cannon shot.

W. C. WHITNEY. SECRETARY LONG. W. E. CHANDLER.

BUILDERS OF THE NEW NAVY.

A considerable part of the credit for the improvement which has taken place in our navy during the past sixteen years is due to the efforts of the three secretaries, Chandler, Whitney and Long.

UNITED STATES OF EUROPE.

Under the above queer title Eliot Gregory writes in The North American Review a paper queerer still. He declares, and there is a note of savage sarcasm in his showing up of the case, that the unity of Europe dreamed of by poets and reformers is an actual fact already. There is practically now, today, he says, a united states of Europe and its bond of union is money. The powers of Europe are a unit in wanting Turkey to hold her own and oppress Greece, the Armenians, Cretans and other unbelievers. If Turkey is disturbed, they will not get back the money they have lent her. France, hating England by traditional usage since the days of Joan of Arc, jealous of her supremacy by sea and land, railing at the British occupation of Egypt, nevertheless would not for the world that the British occupation in Egypt should be shaken a millionth of an inch. If it should be, French bankers and money lenders would lose the money they have invested in Egypt.

He recalls how the German zollverein, the commercial tariff union, preceded the political union of the states of Germany. Such a community of commercial interest is approaching in all Europe now. It must come. The nations cannot afford to keep apart from one another. Taxpayers are already weary under the grievous burden of the sums wrung from them by sugar bounties and other government prizes in the different nations. All must stand or fall together. The future politics of united Europe will be a politics of money and the nations will inaugurate universal brotherhood because they cannot afford anything else. Thus a caricature of the union of nations pictured in the visions of poets and dreamers will be established—the united states of Europe.

If Spain wants the Cuban junta in New York city suppressed because it has been giving aid and comfort to the insurgents, insisting that the United States government shall undertake the task of suppressing it, then let her also tackle England and demand that the British government suppress the Cuban junta which has been operating at Kingston, Jamaica, and from that point rendering ablebodied help to the patriots. As to the quality of the offense, England is just as much to blame as we are in the matter of giving aid and comfort to Cuban rebels.

The republic of Cuba has also a council or junta at Kingston, Jamaica. One peculiar advantage it has is that among its members and supporters are several first class pilots who know every foot of the Cuban shores. The Jamaica junta's offer of the services of these skilled pilots to the United States in case of a war with Spain is one that will be appreciated and accepted gratefully.

It is right for Americans to fight Spain if war should be declared, but that does not mean that they shall go to fighting with fists among themselves in congress as some members did in open session of the house of representatives the other day. The nation is not proud of them. They have disgraced themselves and the constituency that sent them to Washington.

It will in a little time become absolutely plain not only that the Spanish government had mines in Havana harbor, but also that persons in the employ of the Spanish government touched off the wires that blew up the Maine.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Following the precedent set by the New York Stock Exchange and other patriotic bodies, The Chronicle will keep on its pay roll any or all of its employes who may enlist for the war, until they cease sticking Spaniards and resume sticking type.—Cranford Chronicle.

Albert H. Atterbury, of Plainfield, made a hit with the Governor and nearly all the farmers at the hearing yesterday on the sugar beet bounty bill. He struck at the measure right and left and his arguments were followed frequently by notice of approval from the Governor. Atterbury's contention that the bounty must be paid for by taxation representing principally the labor of persons not benefited by the law, struck the big delegation of prosperous farmers in the right spot, and few words were spoken in the bill's favor. The Governor emphatically said he did not approve of such legislation, and a veto can be looked for. When Dr. J. Stockton Hough, of Trenton, suggested that it would be good policy to sign the bill, the Governor struck the table with his fist and exclaimed:

"Policy be hanged!"—New York Press.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Those who visited Music Hall last night were well repaid in witnessing one of the best performances seen there in some time at any price. The Ryan Company is most evenly balanced and capable of handling anything from heavy dramatic composition to farcial comedy. They invited comparison by playing "The Lost Paradise," the play Mr. Waite opened his last engagement with here. It is not saying too much in declaring the production in a distinctly higher class. This afternoon they play Monday night's bright play, "The Editor," and tonight "The Fatal Wedding." A novelty promised tonight is W. E. Dallon's famous educated and mind reading dog, Dodgerfield. The greatest dog in the world.

LINCOLN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Lincoln, April 20.—At present the water supply of Lincoln comes from three large springs on the mountain top near Green brook, their flow being sufficient to meet the demands. The office of the Watchung Water Company has been opened in the Lincoln Bourse.

Silas Drake has succeeded in having another company incorporated. The name of the new concern is the Silas Drake Real Estate Company. The company has a capital stock of $25,000 dividend into 250 shares of $100 each and will commence business with $1,100. The incorporators are: Silas D. Drake, of Bound Brook, 4 shares; J. B. Sabine and LeRoy Bunker, of New York, 3 shares; Henry G. Herbert, Bound Brook, 1 share. The company dates its existence from April 16, and will continue for fifty years.

Seven houses and two stores are now in course of erection here. Ground is to be broken on the south side of the Lehigh Valley road next week for the factory of the Lincoln Waterproof Cloth Company.

AROUND THE BASES.

While everybody regretted the defeat of the Plainfield High School nine at Newark last Saturday, the showing made by the team was very satisfactory. The Newark Academy team won the championship in the Interscholastic League last year, and is considered the strongest team in the league. So the showing that the Plainfield boys made against them in the first game was very good. In fact, at one time it looked as if the Plainfield boys might win. Had Edwards received better support from the infield, there is no doubt that Plainfield would have won.

It seemed rather poor judgment to displace Edwards as pitcher at the end of the sixth inning. He pitched a remarkably good game. The first five men that came before him were struck out, while he struck out ten men during the six innings he pitched. He had the ball under perfect control and was never batted hard. Most of the runs made while he was in the box were the result of infield errors.

The High School boys showed a decided tendency to hit the ball hard. Lederer did very good work as did several of the others. If that tendency is developed, the High School team will be greatly strengthened.

An exciting game of baseball was played on the LaGrande avenue grounds Monday afternoon between teams captained by Robert Crane and Henry Barttan. Crane's team won by a score of 11 to 6. McGinley and McVoy were the battery for the winning side. Sharkey and Barttan formed the other battery.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

The horsemen interested in the proposed trotting association will meet at Bound Brook this evening to organize the association.

The first trial on the Plainfield Driving Park was made Monday when one of the pacers owned by the tribe of Gypsies now encamped at Avon Park went a half in 1:16. Remarkably good time considering the condition of the track.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

A toilet to envy is an afternoon frock of royal purple cloth and nile green silk and chiffon. The entire skirt and part of bodice is of the cloth, while the remainder of the waist is a shirred front of chiffon, bordered on either side with bands of green silk. Fine lace, forming epaulettes on the shoulder extend down the front to the waist. Purple velvet forms the choker and waistband.

Another gown of gray cashmere is trimmed with white satin, on which is mounted a net pattern in chenille and jet. This forms a deep collar and revers to jacket blouse, which closes in double breasted fashion and is edged by a narrow ruffle of the wool.

Accordeon Pleated Chiffon Gown.

The full skirt is seen in chiffon for evening dress, and nothing is more becoming or dainty for a youthful figure than a gown of accordeon pleated chiffon made over a silk lining. A chic evening gown of this description has the bodice also accordeon pleated below a wide band of cream guipure insertion, and belted at the waist with a girdle of pale blue velvet. Velvet bows are also worn on the shoulders.

The day of embroideries has reached its height and no chic evening gown is without its due allowance of fine insertions and applications. An example is a severely simple trained skirt of white satin covered with mousseline de soie. Up the left of the skirt extends from waist to edge a bow design of Venice point applications. The low bodice is tight-fitting, except the pouched front which is ornamented with the embroidery.

Spring Fancies.

Among the early spring costumes for the street or house nothing newer than the blouse is shown. The latest tailored costumes have the fronts lapped diagonally with one large drooping revers.

A blouse without darts, yet snug in fit, and with a flat basque, is one of the accepted styles for spring gowns of plain or mixed goods. The basque part is often dispensed with, but when there, it is cut in tabs or not, as the wearer elects.

One in two shades of cloth has a yoke, collar and vest of the light goods, with black braid forming Vs; revers, collar, close sleeves, tabbed basque and blouse having underarm seams only of the darker material; stitching on all edges and a black satin belt.

A Pretty Home Dress.

A neat and becoming home dress of leaf green cashmere is lined throughout with sateen of the same color, and is trimmed with horizontal rows of black mohair braid at regular distances from the foot to the waist; the blouse bodice is made on a lining cut to the same pattern as the material, and striped with rows of braid. It opens in front with pointed revers also braided, and lined with silk.

The chemisette is of cream lace, made on a cream silk lining, and gathered to a collar band of canvas, covered with green velvet. Belt of oxidized silver, mounted on a band of green velvet.

A Fruit Diet.

A fruit diet has often been known to cure where every other remedy has failed. Thousands of cases, which have been given up as hopeless, have been cured through this means. To fruit feeders such things as rheumatism, gout, lumbago, sciatica, gravel, etc., are seldom known. Dyspepsia, nervous irratibility, to say nothing of numbers of other diseases, can, more or less, be traced to a wrong diet, and are removable when a correct, frugivorous one is adopted. If therefore, a fruit diet has indeed nothing else to recommend it, its curative powers would be great enough to insist upon its value.

There is a decided tendency to replace the white cut glass long used on fashionable tables with the French gold and white. This does not mean that cut glass is banished, or even put in the background very seriously; but rather, that in the desire for a change something else has come to the fore.

All the newest shades of gray can be matched in gloves and hosiery, and also the browns, tans and violet tints.

A Fog Dispeller.

The latest invention is a fog-dispeller. The apparatus consists of a horizontal outlook-pipe eight feet in length and eight inches in diameter. At the mouth of the tube is a wide flange; the rear end is covered with a thick disc of glass. About two feet from the rear end a pipe enters the tube from below, at an obtuse angle with the forward section. This connection is made through a sort of turntable, which permits the outlook tube to be pointed in any direction desired, up or down, from one side to the other. The pipe below connects with a blower down in the vessel.

When the dispeller is in use, the blower sends a powerful stream of air up through the pipe into the tube, and the current hurtles into the fog, boring a hole through it, as it were.

The action of the suspended moisture is twofold. The fog is rolled back in every direction, the high pressure of the blast produces a cooling influence, the moisture in suspension condenses and falls in rain. A great cone of clear atmosphere, with its apex at the mouth of the tube, results.

The eye of the pilot is at the glass at the rear of the tube, and he gazes into the bowels of the fog. With its aid a pilot can readily pick up his buoys in a fog, and keep an eye out for vessels ahead.

With a powerful blower the inventor hopes to make a fog-dispeller useful at 1,000 feet.

No claim is made that the dispeller would be practicable except when the vessel is going at a slow rate of speed, which is customary when there is foggy weather.

Dressy Calling Gown.

A dressy gown of turquoise blue bayadere silk, has the full front of the blouse intersected with three rows of dark blue velvet, which are put on to give a round yoke effect. The little bolero of blue velvet has revers of cream guipure over white satin bound with the velvet. Over the shoulder are small epaulettes, covered with the same applications as the revers. The sleeves have a slight fullness at the top, and are then fitted tight to the arm down to the wrist, and are trimmed with rows of blue velvet.

The skirt is plain and trimmed around the foot with three rows of blue velvet. The hat worn with this gown is of turquoise blue straw literally covered with flowers.

The Language of Stamps.

The newest language of stamps is as follows: The stamp in the usual place—that is, on the top right-hand corner of the envelope—means, when upright, "I desire your friendship;" across, "Do you love me?" upside down, "Don't write me again;" crooked, "Write at once."

When the stamp is at the bottom corner on the right hand it means, if upright, "Your love makes me happy." When it is on the left top corner it means, if upright, "I love you;" across, "My heart is another's;" upside down, "Good-day, my darling." When it is on the bottom left hand corner it means, upright, "Fidelity will be rewarded;" across, "Do not leave me alone in my sorrow;" upside down, "You have withstood all trials." When the stamp is on the same line as the surname of the address, it means, if upright, "Accept my love;" across, "I long to see you;" upside down, "I am engaged."

The Care of Veils.

The preservation of veils is an important item and a difficult one. Winding them over a piece of stiff cardboard is undoubtedly of some value where one cannot have a drawer for their exclusive use. The best way is to fold them on the width, as in opposition to the natural inclination of the day in stretching them round the brim of the hat. A long box, like a glove box, is the best thing to use, and if they are neatly folded away each time, will last a long time. Nothing ruins veils so quickly as scattering them carelessly in a drawer which is full of other things.

The World's Largest Flower.

The largest flower of the world grows on the island of Mindanao, one of the Philippine group. It was first discovered there some years ago by a German explorer. It is a five-petalled blossom nearly a yard wide. At a distance the buds look like giant cabbageheads. A single flower has been known to weigh 22lb. The natives call it the bolo. Specimens sent to Europe were recognized to be of the species Rafflesia, a plant discovered in Sumatra, and named after the English Governor of that island—Sir Stamford Raffles. The bolo is only to be found in the neighborhood of Apo, one of the highest volcanoes in the Philippines, or about 2,500ft. above the level of the sea.

Two Ounces of Blood Daily

Are added to your veins by taking with each meal one of the natural iron Capsuloids made from the fresh blood of young, healthy bullocks.

Hundreds have testified that this is the only iron medicine which agrees perfectly with stomach and bowels. The following testimony is selected at random from among some hundreds. Mr. Howard Patterson, of Tremont, N. Y., while acting as manager of one of Mr. Edwards' grocery stores, began to lose flesh and after almost losing his life through a steady decline, was saved and restored to health by taking Capsuloids. He writes as follows:

THE CAPSULOID COMPANY, New York City.

GENTLEMEN:—I cannot thank you too heartily for what your Capsuloids have done for me. I was a powerful young man two years ago but developed dry consumption, and continued to grow worse for nine months, when I was forced to go west. Climate, travel and medicine failed to do me the slightest good. My blood was exhausted; I was completely out of breath; to simply make change for customers made me pant; I grew thinner and thinner, lost my appetite and coughed terribly and was rapidly reaching the last stage of dry consumption, when I heard of your Capsuloids. They acted like magic. My blood grew rich, my heart ceased palpitating. I could get my breath easily, my appetite returned, I grew strong, had good color and had gained seven pounds at the end of seven weeks. I am still gaining right along and will report to you later. I am out of all danger now. HOWARD PATTERSON.

AN HONOR MEDAL.

It Was Granted to a Union Soldier on Confederate Testimony.

"The Secretary of War granted a medal of honor recently to a Federal soldier on the affidavit of a Confederate," said Charles I. Evans of Texas, "and it is probably the first instance on record of this kind. The Federal soldier who received the medal was Thomas I. Higgins, now of Hannibal, Mo. During the war he was the color-bearer of the Ninety-Ninth Illinois regiment, and was holding that position at the siege of Vicksburg. In an assault, on the 22nd of May, 1863, the Ninety-Ninth Illinois was ordered to charge and not to look back. I was a member of the Second Texas regiment, and we confronted the charging Illinoisans. We repulsed the Illinois regiment a short distance from the breastworks, and sent it back in confusion. Higgins, however, was literally obeying orders. He never looked back. He never noticed the retreat of his regiment, but came bounding forward, his colors flying as prettily as a soldier ever saw. When within forty yards of our works word was passed along the line not to shoot the brave soldier, and all firing ceased. When Higgins saw his predicament he started to retreat with his colors, but we told him to come on or we would have to shoot him. Several men ran out and brought him within the breastworks. We kept him several days, during which time we learned to like and admire him. He was then paroled. I was one of the men who witnessed his heroic deed, and made an affidavit to that effect. Several of my companions who remembered Higgins and his charge also made affidavits. On these the Secretary of War granted a medal. Higgins could have been vouched for by members of his own regiment, but the novelty of the recommendation by his former foes led to that course."—Washington Star.

Prolix Verbosity.

Here is a good story of how a father cured his son of verbal grandiloquence. The boy wrote from college using such long words that the father replied with the following: "Although somewhat circumlocutory, hyperbolical, and superbombastic in his language the father is something of a phraseur himself." Here is the letter: "In promulgating your esoteric cogitations or articulating superficial sentimentalities and philosophical or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversation possess a clarified conciseness, compacted comprehensibleness, coalescent consistency, and a concatenated cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flatulent garrulity, jejune babblement, and asinine affectations. Let your extemporaneous descantings and unpremeditated expatiations have intelligibility, without rhodomontade or thrasonical bombast. Sedulously avoid all polysyllabical profundity, pompous prolixity and ventriliquial vapidity. In other words, speak truthfully, naturally, clearly, purely, but do not use long words."

Marble Ponds of Persia.

That beautiful transparent stone called Tabriz marble, much used in the burial places of Persia and in their grandest edifices, consists of petrified water of ponds in certain parts of the country. This petrifaction may be traced from its commencement to its termination; in one part the water is clear, in a second it appears thicker and stagnant, in a third quite black, and in its last stage it is white like frost. When the operation is complete a stone thrown on its surface makes no impression, and one may walk over it without wetting one's shoes. The substance thus produced is brittle and transparent, and sometimes richly striped with red, green and copper color. So much is this marble, which may be cut into large slabs, looked upon as a luxury that none but the king, his sons and persons especially privileged are permitted to take it.

How Alaskan Indians Trap Bears.

Strips of whalebone are folded into the shape of the letter "N," enveloped in "hunks" of fat, and frozen that way The fat thus prepared is left in promising spots for the great white bears to devour. Along comes one of the monsters, gulps a lump down whole; the gastric juices melt the fat and eat away the strings of tendon with which the whalebone is bound; the whalebone springs out straight across the animal's stomach, and presently it dies. Next day Mr. Eskimo comes along and gathers in a bearskin worth several quarts of whiskey.—Oregonian.

Paper Bath Towels.

The most curious use to which paper is to be put is that suggested by the blotting paper towel. It is a new style of towel, consisting of a full suit of heavy blotting paper. A person, upon stepping out of his morning bath, has only to array himself in one of these suits, and in a second he will be dry.

GOMEZ, THE WARRIOR

HE IS TO CUBA WHAT WASHINGTON WAS TO AMERICA.

His Words Upon Hearing of the Maine Disaster—A Grand Old Man Who Knows No Fear and Has but One Aim—the Freedom of His People.

A story sent from the interior of Cuba, describes in detail the reception of Gen. Maximo Gomez of the news of the Main disaster. That the veteran soldier and undaunted commander of the insurgent forces in the field should have been deeply stirred by this awful tragedy was to be expected. It was to be expected, too, that he should unhesitatingly attribute to Spanish activity the perpetration of a dastardly crime. His bitter experience fully justifies his conclusion, for he is not in a position to judge the Spaniard impartially even in a specific case which lacks satisfactory evidence of guilt.

But aside from his ready and necessarily hypothetical opinion, there is an admirable mingling of dignity and pathos in his use of this catastrophe to point a moral from the Cuban view. In these words from the insurgent headquarters there is laid bare the soul of an indomitable warrior who has risen superior to the assaults of age and the heart of a patriot wrung with a sense of hope deferred. Gomez rests under the conviction that his letters to two Presidents of the United States, and his government's reports to the government at Washington, been heeded, we should have saved $300,000,000 of lost commerce, the Maine and her gallant crew, and all the foreign complications, present and prospective, arising from the postponement of definite action.

There is, of course, in this the error of a judgment naturally biased. History, when impartial, will record that the United States has handled this question with admirable patience, positive skill, and a determination to so guard its own honor and the rights of Spain, and so meet the demands of international comity, that it shall eventually stand blameless before the civilized world. The very fact that a distinctively commercial nation has been willing to sacrifice $300,000,000 of trade in order that it might be absolutely right when it should decide to go ahead is alone eloquent of the domination of principle throughout. But these concluding words of the aged soldier will strike a responsive chord in the heart of every American:

"One of the saddest disappointments of my life is the knowledge that there are in the United States persons who believe that our just representations, asking only for the recognition which we have the right to request, were made for the purpose of involving the United States in a war with Spain be-Spaniards. We had fought the Spancause we could not cope alone with the iards ten years. Now we have been fighting them three years more, and no honest man can doubt after what we have done that we are resolved to die rather than surrender. I have been thirteen years in the saddle, and Spain has sent against me across the Atlantic 400,000 men. I have needed no help to do that much, for with me were the 40,000 Cubans who died in the last war, and to-day the whole Cuban Army is ready to die for the principle we maintain."

To this grand old man of a stricken but unconquerable people the hat of every right-minded American must be doffed. From the inauguration of the present war, of which he assumed direction at a time of life which justified permanent retirement, in which he has sacrificed a beloved son upon whom he had come to lean, and displayed an energy that would shame most younger men, he has never spoken to the world from camp or field that he did not increase the respect in which he is held and render more hideous by contrast the perfidy and brutality of his foe. Master of himself at all times—even when his heart was most torn by the cold-blooded butchery and torture of his unarmed and helpless countrymen—no grander figure is presented by the annals of modern warfare.

Rightly may Maximo Gomez be immortalized by his people as the Washington of Cuba—serene, statesmanlike, uncompromising, just—but terrible.

Raymond "Matched" Between the Lines

"The late John T. Raymond carried his love of matching dollars so far that he once actually made a bet while performing his role in a theatre here in Washington," remarked Mr. William St. John, the well-known New Yorkers.

"I happened to have a seat in the front row that night, and as soon as Raymond came on he spied me and nodded. That very afternoon he and I had been matching, and he came out second best. He hadn't been speaking a great while, when, half turning to me and pulling out a silver dollar to my utter amazement, he said very distinctly:

"'Heads or tail, Saint?' I caught on, and though I thought everybody in the house must be looking, put my finger to my head. 'All right, you win,' said Raymond, and immediately proceeded with his lines. It certainly was a funny thing, but the audience appeared to think it was regular, though perhaps some were puzzled at its irrelevancy. Raymond himself thought it the best joke of the season, and after adjournment of the audience another matching engagement followed."—Washington Post.

He Didn't Like the Suggestion.

"I understand that whisky comes pretty high in the Klondike," said the sociable old gentleman with the red nose.

"Looks like it reaches the top of the glass around in this town," said the bartender, and the old gentleman walked out full of wrath.—Indianapolis Journal.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Carroll L. Runyon, of the Plainfield High School, and George Proctor Smith, of the New Jersey Military Academy, the local rivals for honors in throwing the hammer, will meet for the first time this season at the Berkeley School games Saturday afternoon. Smith will also contest in the pole vault and shot putting contest at the same games. Both Runyon and Smith have greatly improved over the last year's form and a lively contest between the two is expected.

Hurt at Pond's.

Patrick Bergen, of 17 South Second street, an employe at the Pond Tool Works, narrowly escaped death yesterday by having a large casting fall on him. Bergen was walking about the casting at the time when it slipped from its position and fell on him. He received a cut five inches in length in the back of his head, his back was bruised and there was another cut in the chin. At first it was thought that Bergen was dead, but he was quickly removed to the hospital for treatment. An examination of his injuries showed that they were not as serious as was at first supposed, and today he is improving, with strong hopes of recovery.

A Fine Musician.

Philip Egner, who will render 'cello music at the concert in the Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow evening, will be remembered with pleasure by many who heard him at his former appearance in Plainfield at the Casino. He delighted his audience at that time, being most enthusiastically received.

Miss Homer, of Chicago, who has been spending a few weeks at the home of E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, has gone to Philadelphia to visit friends.

A RESTLESS YOUNGSTER

STUDENT AT MILITARY ACADEMY HAS DISAPPEARED.

He Comes From Chicago and it is Possible That He Has Started for Home on a Bicycle, as He Had Talked.

After quarreling with his schoolmate, Stanley G. Fielding bundled up a small stock of clothing and started for Chicago on his wheel. This occurred on Sunday evening and since that time nothing more has been heard of the lad.

Fielding is the son of a prominent citizen of Chicago. He entered the New Jersey Military Academy as a boarding pupil several months ago. He is a young lad of fifteen years. He has a dark olive complexion and is quite stout and of a stocky build. He is about five feet, three inches in height.

Fielding has been staying at the Academy under the direct supervision of the superintendent, Dr. Warde. Some time ago Fielding's father sent him a wheel. The lad frequently told his classmates that sometime he would ride home on his wheel. He thought he could make the journey in a couple of days.

On Saturday evening Fielding took part in the production of the "The Merchant of Venice" with the other students of the Military Academy. He took the part of "Stephano," a servant to Portia. Sunday afternoon he was at the Academy. There was some trouble between him and one of the other boys, Seward A. Rickards. Fielding went up to his room.

He donned his ordinary clothes and packed up his uniform. With a few other things, he made a bundle and tied it to his wheel. He then mounted the wheel and rode off.

Dr. Warde was not at the Academy at the time. It was always the custom to make the Academy as homelike as possible, and so the boys were allowed to leave the building under ordinary circumstances. No one thought Fielding's departure anything out of the ordinary until some time after he had disappeared.

An alarm was then sent out but no trace of the missing boy could be found. The police of the neighboring cities were notified. Dr. Warde then went to New York to continue the search.

Mr. Fielding was notified of his son's disappearance and telegraphed back that no expense should be spared to discover his whereabouts. No possible blame was laid on Dr. Warde. Despite all the efforts that are being made to find the lad, he seems to have vanished completely after he rode away from the academy.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Lucy Westphal, of South Second street, has purchased a new wheel.

George Hoffman, of Somerville was the guest of Plainfield friends today.

J. T. Closson, of East Front street, went to Philadelphia today to visit relatives.

J. K. Arnold, Jr., of Manning avenue, has made application to join the Naval Reserves of New Jersey.

Rev. Dr. Ketcham, of Long Island, has returned after a visit with his daughter, Mrs. Hatch, of West Eighth street.

Dr. Witmer Stone, of Philadelphia, who gave an illustrated lecture at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, under the auspices of the New Jersey Audubon Society, returned home this morning.

Charles H. Smith, who has resided for a number of years on Grove street, corner of Prospect place, will soon change his residence to Grove street, between Linden avenue and Park place.

John Abbott, the contractor, of West Front street, is enjoying a visit from his sister whose home is in England. Today the two went to Asbury Park to spend the day. Mr. Abbott's sister, who lives along the English coast, is quite anxious to see the coast on this side of the Atlantic.

Jerry Landed His Prisoner.

Under ordinary circumstances, Michael Readington, of High Bridge, is an inoffensive creature as ever lived. With a slight amount of liquor abroad, he became abusive. Yesterday afternoon, he went into Giles' bakery on Lee place and wanted to buy a cup of coffee. He didn't want to pay for it. Then he refused to leave. Cash was called in. Readington swung his arms and Cash went down. A struggle followed. Cash was finally victorious. His prisoner was lodged in jail. This morning, Judge DeMeza sent Readington to Elizabeth for thirty days.

A Great Surprise.

A Michigan paper tells a story of a little girl named Hattie, whose mother was putting her to sleep one night. At last her mother said:

"Hattie, dear, I am anxious that you get quiet and go to sleep, because I want to go downstairs and join in the evening prayers."

"Who's doin' to pway?" asked Hattie.

"Why, Uncle William, of course, dear."

"Uncle William pway?" said the baby, with wide-eyed astonishment, and springing up in bed in the vigor of her surprise. "W'y I fawt he was a Demokwat?"

The Reason of a Name.

"Lemme see," asked the boarder who is always wanting to know things of no use, "what is it they call those red, green and blue lights that a skyrocket throws off?"

"Verifiers," said the Cheerful Idiot.

"Really?" asked the inquisitive boarder.

"Yes. They give color to the report."—Indianapolis Journal.

An Adage Knocked Out.

"Love is blind," murmured Mr. Meekton regretfully.

"That's nonsense," replied his wife. "When a girl falls in love with a man she sees magnificent qualities in him which none of her family can make out and which become wholly obscure even to her in the course of a year or so."—Washington Star.

BLENHEIM'S DAINTY HOSTESS.

Loved by the Tenants—Fees Taken at the Gates Devoted to Charity.

Blenheim Palace has undergone remarkable changes since the second American Duchess of Marlborough has made it her home. Ten years ago Blenheim, except for its size, bore anything but a resemblance to even a modest ideal of what a ducal palace should be. It was no secret that the roof was leaking, and the best of the art treasures, for which Blenheim was so famous, had passed into other hands under the hammer.

In spite of the fact that the palace is vastly too large for anything but a royal residence, that its architecture could hardly be described as homelike or beautiful, and the interior decorations were disgracefully shabby when first she saw it, the little lady who was engaged to the Duke admired it from the first, decided to make it her home, and since her marriage has proved her interest in and affection for the ugly old pile.

The fact is clearly patent to the visitor who saw Blenheim under the old regime and who stops in the village beyond the park gates for a bit of lunch and a gossip with any of the sociable townsfolk. One and all they have a word of admiring praise for the Duchess. It evidently did not take her long to win the hearts of the elderly inhabitants and the children. Since her coming all fees taken in at the gates from tourists who visit the palace have been devoted to charity, and out of her own pocket and her own heart the Duchess devises many schemes for amusing and benefiting her husband's tenants.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WAR IS BUT A FEW HOURS AWAY.

Spain Ignores the Ultimatum of the President.

Minister Woodford Given His Passports and Departs From Madrid—Bill Calling for 80,000 Volunteers to Be Passed Today—Everything is Ready for Battle and Victory.

SPECIALS TO THE DAILY PRESS.

Washington, April 21.—The news that Spain had refused to accept the ultimatum of this country, and had given Minister Woodford his passports, caused the war excitement to run at flood tide in both Houses of Congress and in the different government departments today.

President McKinley early had a conference with the leaders of both Houses. It was said at the close of the conference that he expressed a wish that Congress should pass a declaration of war.

The Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate went into secret session soon afterwards to consider the question of passing the war resolution. The prevailing opinion among members of both Houses is that war actually does exist.

The refusal of Spain to consider the ultimatum of this government is looked upon as an act of war. The Senate considers that the signing of the intervention resolutions by President McKinley constituted a declaration of war.

The impression prevails with the Government that hostilities between this country and Spain will commence before Saturday. No one can say at what hour and in what manner the first blow in the war will be struck. Many are of the opinion that hostilities are only a few hours distant.

The latest plan of action outlined by the Board of Naval strategy is to blockade all the Cuban ports with the United States fleet.

No shot will be fired by Uncle Sam's ships until the Spanish first open fire. It is probable that a fierce naval battle will be fought by opposing fleets in Cuban waters as an incident of the blockade.

General Fitz Hugh Lee, who is to be given the rank of Major General and placed in command of the invading forces in Cuba, stated in an interview today that in his opinion the war will not last two weeks.

Information has been received here today from trustworthy sources that the powerful fleet of Spanish war vessels has sailed away from the Cape Verde Islands where it has been stationed for sometime past. Its destination cannot be learned.

The volunteer bill will be rushed through Congress today and the President will at once issue a call for 80,000 volunteers.

President McKinley has issued a statement to the public, explaining the facts in connection with the ultimatum of the government and Spain's refusal to receive it from Minister Woodford.

NO PEACE FOR SPA N.

Everything Looks Warlike at Madrid This Afternoon.

Madrid, April 21.—The outlook in Spain is exceedingly warlike. All talk of peace has vanished. The enthusiasm among the Spanish people is great, and all internal differences seemed to have disappeared. The feeling against Americans is very strong.

The actions of the Spanish government during the last 24 hours have been very significant and point directly toward an aggressive policy against the United States.

The ultimatum of President McKinley was received by Ambassador Woodford last evening. It came too late to be presented to the Spanish Ministry last night and so the American Minister held it until this morning.

In the meantime the Spanish Ambassador in Washington wired the text of the ultimatum to his home government here. Their action on the subject was prompt.

Before Minister Woodford had a chance to present the ultimatum of the American President to the Spanish authorities here, he received a curt notice that Spain would not accept it. He was tendered his passports at the same time.

Everything at the American Embassy was ready for instant removal. Woodford made what concluding preparations were necessary. He left the American interests in the hands of the English Ambassador. This afternoon the chief representative of the United States in Spain departed from this city accompanied by his entire suite.

Ambassador Woodford went to southern France where his family is now awaiting him. Before departing he bid farewell to the other members of the diplomatic corps in Madrid.

With the departure of Ambassador Woodford the last link that bound the two nations together has been severed. All diplomatic relations are now at an end.

Great excitement prevails in Madrid and all the Spanish cities. Preparations for the conflict are going forward with great rapidity. The people are very enthusiastic and express great confidence in being able to defeat the American Republic.

Spain is making preparations to fit out privateers to prey on American commerce.

Infernal Machine Sent.

It is reported that an infernal machine was sent to President McKinley. The police who are on guard at the White House, intercepted a cigar box with the lid so arranged that when raised it would ignite a match and explode the powder and stick of giant powder. It is not known who sent the package

KEAN TO LEAD A REGIMENT.

Chosen Colonel of Volunteer Cavalry to Be Raised in Elizabeth

Elizabeth, April 21.—The Mattano Club, the swell social organization of this city, have decided to raise a volunteer cavalry regiment and offer its services to Governor Voorhees.

John Kean was chosen Colonel; Charles C. Suydam, a veteran of the war, was selected as Lieutenant Colonel; County Collector Edward M. Wood, Major; James L. Fisher, Adjutant; ex Alderman Melene W. Halsey, Quartermaster, and Edward C. Woodruff, Commissary.

Former City Treasurer John W. Whelan volunteered to command the first company that should be raised.

The regiment will be known as the Union Volunteer Regiment John Kean pledged himself to support the movement financially. Jas F. Fisher, one of the members, said the regiment would be quickly equipped by volunteer subscriptions from a number of the millionaire members of the club, and that there would be no trouble in securing 500 names to the roll.

HOW PLAINFIELD FEELS.

Subdued Feeling is Giving Way to Strong Patriotic Sentiment.

Plainfield is all ago with excitement over the approaching conflict between the United States and Spain which seems so imminent.

A party of young men who were prominently interested in the football team of the Plainfield Athletic Association are preparing to join the volunteer army the moment the call is made by the President.

W. W. Coriell, of West Front street, will probably apply to Adjutant General Stryker, of the New Jersey National Guard, as recruiting officer in Plainfield. Mr. Coriell is a retired business man well-known in this State. He is a veteran of the Civil War and was president last year of the Second New Jersey Brigade Veteran Association.

It is rumored that Edward Milliken, of Duer street, a member of Company H, whose headquarters is at Somerville, has been authorized to secure the enlistment of men to fill out the quota for New York cavalry troops. It is understood that he has already secured the names of a hundred young men from Plainfield and nearby towns.

Got a Naval Appointment.

William Boyd, a member of the New Jersey Naval Reserves has been given the position of assistant pay master. He came to Plainfield to get some things he would need on board ship. He displayed considerable fire and enthusiasm and a determination to do all he can for his country.

A PLEASANT LUNCHEON.

Benevolent Band of King's Daughters Hold a Successful Affair.

The Benevolent Band, Circle of King's Daughters, gave a successful luncheon at the home of Mrs. David Eastman, 143 Crescent avenue, yesterday afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock.

The tickets were sold by subscription and 100 were disposed of. About eighty ladies were present. The luncheon was served in the dining room and parlors, which were decorated in a beautiful manner with cherry and apple blossoms and other spring flowers. The general effect of the decoration in the dining room was pink, while in the parlors a white effect was secured.

The committee in charge of the affair was Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, Mrs. Josiah Brown, Mrs. Isaac Field, Mrs. F. S. Martin and Mrs. David Eastman. The committee was assisted by members of the band, who acted as waitresses, serving dainty refreshments to the guests

In one of the parlors was a beautifully furnished fancy table in charge of Mrs. Charles W. King and Miss Mary Storrs.

The proceeds of the affair will be devoted to defraying the expenses of the city nurse which is supported by the City Union of King's Daughters.

OFFERED $5,000 FOR TROLLEY FRANCHISE.

Sudden Turn of Affairs Before Piscataway Officials

LINCOLN BOUND TO HAVE IT.

OFFER MADE BY S. D. DRAKE FOR LINCOLN TROLLEY COMPANY.

Bergen Idea of Selling Franchises Already Bearing Fruit—Offer Was the Result of Brunswick Traction Company's Refusal to Accept the Route as Wanted by the Township Committee, Which Leaves Out New Bound Brook—The Proposed Route—Drake Says He Will Furnish Ample Security.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, April 21.—The Bergen idea of selling trolley franchises at auction is already bearing fruit in Piscataway township, where yesterday afternoon the township committee was offered $5,000 for the franchise to build a trolley road over the route they had selected between Bound Brook and Dunellen. The offer was made by Silas D. Drake, in behalf of the Lincoln Trolley Company, which is capitalized at $25,000 and will file papers of incorporation with the Secretary of the State in the course of a few days.

For several months past there has been a bitter contention in Piscataway between different influences to secure the proposed trolley line to go over two routes—either through Lincoln or over the old stage road. At the meeting yesterday the ordinance granting the franchise to the Brunswick Traction Company to go over the Lincoln route was received and read. In addition to going through Lincoln, the railroad company also put in a clause permitting them to cross the Central and Lehigh tracks at Bound Brook and go over a road leading through the section known as New Bound Brook, which is owned and being promoted for building operations by Dr. Pierce, the noted patent medicine man.

This latter section, after it was read to the committee, was disapproved by them, and they voted to accept the ordinance only in the form of giving a franchise from Union avenue, in Bound Brook, to Grant avenue, to Harris lane, to Lincoln boulevard, to Lincoln avenue, to the old stage road and thence to Dunellen.

Considerable discussion of the Committee's action ensued, during which E. H. Radel, of the Brunswick Traction Company, stated that unless the clause giving a franchise by the way of New Bound Brook was passed the company would refuse to build the road at all.

This move had been anticipated by the people who want the trolley over the Lincoln boulevard, whether or not it touched New Bound Brook, and Silas D. Drake, representing the Lincoln Trolley Company, which was organized Tuesday to grasp the situation that was expected to develop, immediately offered the Township Committee $5 000 for the franchise, and stated that at the next meeting of the Committee he would furnish the necessary security to fulfill the contract.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver, who resides in the township requested the Committee, as one of the taxpayers who would be benefited by the acceptance of the Lincoln company's offer, not to take any further action unless the Brunswick company would agree to the same offer.

The Committee adjourned to next week without doing anything further with the matter.

Good Attendance.

The reports of the committee on religious work of the Y. M. C. A. shows a large increase in the attendance of men at the Sunday afternoon meetings. WEDDED AT DUNELLEN.

TERRY-GRAY NUPTIALS CELEBRATED IN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Event a Fashionable One and Witnessed by a Large Concourse of Friends—Performed by Rev. Mr. Martine

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, April 21.—In the marriage of Miss S. Louise Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Gray, of Washington avenue, to William Edwin Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Terry, of Church street, which occurred last evening at 7 o'clock, in the Presbyterian church, one of the most fashionable weddings of the season was witnessed by a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

Long before the appointed hour the church was filled with people who were pleased with the rendition of a select programme of classical music on the organ by Miss Frances Phillips, of Hopewell. Precisely at 7 o'clock the first notes of the favorite Lohengrin wedding march were sounded, and at the same time the bridal party made its appearance.

The ushers, Thomas King, Blanchard Randolph, of Plainfield; Leigh Pearsall, of Westfield, and Robert Carpenter, of Dunellen, entered the church first, from the front, and were followed by the bridemaids, Miss Marjorie Thatcher, of Glen Gardner, and Miss Janie Churchill, of Dunellen. They were gowned in white organdie over green, with trimmings of lace and ribbons. They carried bouquets of pink roses. Then came the maid-of-honor, Miss Ethel Gray, of Irvington, cousin of the bride. She wore a gown of white organdie over pink and carried pink roses. Following the maid-of honor, was the bride leaning on the arm of her father. She was richly gowned in white brocaded satin with peal trimming and chiffon. She also wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of valley tied with streamers.

At the altar the bridal party were met by the groom and his best man, F. H. Archer, of New Rochelle, and Rev. A. I. Martine, the pastor of the church and officiating clergyman, who entered the church from the chapel door. The entire party formed a circle in front of the altar where a pleasing arrangement of palms and greens were displayed.

The bride was given away in marriage by her father. Following the ceremony the party reversed and Mr. and Mrs. Terry left the church first, followed by the other members. While the people were leaving the church the Mendelssohn wedding march was rendered perfectly.

At 7:30 a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which is to be the home of the bride and groom upon their return from a wedding tour in the south. The home was beautified through the use of choice flowers, palms and greens.

During the evening a wedding supper was served. The bride and groom left the scene of pleasure at an early hour to enjoy a bridal tour.

The elegance of the wedding gifts was evidence of the popularity of the recipients. Among the valuable collection of furniture, gold, silver, cut-glass, pictures, etc., were two checks of $100 each from the parents of the groom.

The groom is an employe of the house of John and James Dobson, of 73 Worth street, New York. The bride is an accomplished and talented young woman, and both have a host of friends.

Workmen commenced yesterday tearing down one of the old landmarks on West Front street—the frame building at No. 127, for several years occupied by George Voehl as a bakery. The old structure is to give way to a handsome three story brick and terra cotta building. The plans were drawn by Blanchard Foegate.

The work of razing the old building and starting the new will be pushed rapidly The owner of the property is Jacob Voehl. It is calulated that about three months will be taken up to complete the improvement. After the new building is finished it will be occupied by George Voehl again as a bakery, his business having been removed to 245 West Front street only temporarily.

AN OLD-TIMER GONE.

THOMAS JENNINGS DIES FROM THE EFFECTS OF PARALYSIS.

Lived for Many Years on the Ground Where the Jackson Building Stands—Always a Friend of the Firemen.

In the death of Thomas Jennings, aged 68 years, which occurred last evening at 10:45 o'clock at his home, No. 35 Duer street, Plainfield loses one of its oldest inhabitants, who was well and favorably known throughout this locality. Death was due to paralysis. For some time past Mr. Jennings was in poor health and recently he had suffered from two strokes of paralysis. One came on while he was visiting friends in Westfield, and the second stroke occurred a few days ago in his barn on Duer street. The third stroke occurred last evening and resulted in his death.

Thomas Jennings was the son of the late William Manning Jennings, who resided for years at the corner of Front street and Madison avenue where the Jackson building now stands. Previous to the erection of the brick building there stood a low, frame house which was occupied by the Jennings family for years. Thomas was born in that house and his father conducted a blacksmith business just back of it on Madison avenue. Thomas went to work for his father when a young lad and continued in the business for years. Later when his father was obliged to give up his work the business was taken by Thomas and his brother Rufus Jennings. Sometime afterward Thomas resigned and gave his time to taking care of his father until he died. From that time he has lived a life of retirement.

When a young man and the No. 2 engine house stood opposite his home, he kept the key for the engine house and whenever there was a fire he would unlock the doors and allow the firemen to go out with the engine His interest was always with the firemen.

During his illness he has resided with his sister, Miss Sarah F. Jennings, of 35 Duer street, where his last days were made as comfortable as kind and loving hands could make them.

Three sisters, Miss Sarah E. Jennings of Duer street; Mrs. Catherine LaFountain, of Troy, N. Y.; Mrs. Jennie E. Brokaw, of Duer street; and one brother, William Rufus Jennings, of Bridgefield, Conn., survives him. Another brother, Henry Jennings was killed at the North Avenue station during the commencing of the war. A cannon exploded, killing him instantly.

The funeral services will be held from the house 35 Duer street, next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

PUNCHED HIS RIVAL IN LOVE.

A Humorous Case Being Investigated by the Grand Jury.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 21.—An amusing case is to be called today by the Grand Jury. The case is E. K. Allen, Jr., against William Calloway, both of North Plainfield, and employed by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Co.

Last summer Calloway paid his attentions to a Miss Sharpshear, of Washingtonville. A short time afterward, Mr. Allen commenced calling on the young woman, with whom he seemed to be quite popular. Calloway, it is said, became jealous and a war of words followed when the two men met.

One day Calloway called on Miss Sharpshear and found his rival there This was more than he could stand. He threatened to do things to Mr. Allen when he had a chance. The opportunity was not far off. One day Allen was coming from Washingtonville with a load of ice for Plainfield people. On the road he met Calloway. The latter jumped from his wagon and on the wagon in charge of Allen It was only a question of a few seconds when Calloway struck Allen in the face and injured his jaw. The latter had his antagonist arrested and he was held to appear before the Grand Jury The friends of both parties have been trying to patch up the affair, but without success. Witnesses will be called by the Grand Jury today to determine whether the case will be tried.

At a New Location.

Townsend, who for the past six years has conducted the marble and granite business on Somerset street, has started business again on East Front street, near Powlison & Jones' furniture establishment, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public. His card appears in the advertising columns of today's Press.

—On the evening of Monday, May 2nd, the local fire companies will elect officers for the ensuing year.

STRICT LAW RIDDLED BY JUST CRITICISM.

Building Ordinance Discussed By Board of Trade.

HARD WORDS APPLIED TO IT.

BOARD OF HEALTH ALSO COMES IN FOR STRONG COMMENT.

Prominent Citizens Say Unreservedly That the Building Ordinance is Not Suited to Plainfield and That it is Doing the City a Vast Amount of Harm by Retarding Building Operations—Several Truthful Instances are Shown—Board of Health Practices are Criticised by President Lounsbury.

A public meeting of the Board of Trade was held last evening for the purpose of discussing the building ordinance. There was a number of members and contractors present.

Prior to the discussion some business of more or less importance was considered by the members Secretary Harry C. Runyon stated that he had received letters from H. P. Baldwin and W. C. Wyckoff, of the Central Railroad, in which they stated that at present they could not reduce the fare or the rate of charges on freight between Plainfield and New York, as requested by the Board. C. B. Morse and George F. White were elected to membership and Adam Dealaman, of Dunellen, and Maze Edwards were proposed for membership.

President Lounsbury, who was in the chair, at this time called for a report from the committee on building ordinance, consisting of Messrs. Eugene Laing, Horace Sherwin and Wm. Clum. Mr. Laing stated that the committee had had very little time to accomplish much and asked for more time. He said that he had seen several contractors who had promised to be present and offer a number of objections to the ordinance. The matter then rested for a few minutes while President Lounsbury made a report of the purchase of furniture for the rooms. Mr. Lounsbury also made a report of the work accomplished at Elizabeth last Monday when a postponement in the confirmation of the report of the Martin Act Commissioners was secured until May 6th. On the latter date, he said, the court would confirm the report as against all who do not appear and make a protest. He had been given assurances by Lawyer R. V Lindabury that the work of the commissioners so far as prior to 1881 was concerned, could be set aside, and he advised all to join the pool in contesting the findings of the commissioners.

Mr. Lounsbury then stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of discussing the building ordinance, and it was intended to give all an opportunity of freely expressing their views on the subject. He said that many might differ from the opinion of the "powers that be," but he could not agree with those who had framed the ordinance. He thought the ordinance had been weighed and found wanting. He stated that he had written to seven places in New Jersey asking the city clerks regarding the ordinances relating to building.

In the case of Rahway they have no ordinance, neither has Somerville. North Plainfield, he claimed, having no ordinance, is reaping the benefits of Plainfield's strict laws. Montclair with a population of 11 753 has no building ordinance, and East Orange with a population of 17,927 has no ordinance relating to building Orange with a population of 22,792 is without a building ordinance, and so is Elizabeth with a population of 43,834 but Plainfield with a population 13 629 has a very restrictive building ordinance.

Mr. Lounsbury then gave an amusing incident of how the ordinance works in Plainfield. He cited the property at the corner of Fifth street and Arlington avenue, where an outhouse was erected on the rear of the lot a distance of 70 feet from the house to take the place of the one worn out from age. The owner was obliged to put a tin roof on the small building.

L. B. Woolston spoke of an experience he had with the ordinance in erecting a small workshop in the rear of his new building on North avenue. He was obliged to cover a small cornice with tin, when he was allowed to erect a wooden fence ten feet high in the same place. He said that he would have put up a four-story building if the ordinance was not so strict. He also thought the fire limits should be cut down.

J. C. Pope cited several very absurd things about the ordinance, where a person is obliged to use brick to build

TIME UP ON SATURDAY

Ultimatum Sent Spain Demanding the Evacution of Cuba.

NO REPLY IS EXPECTED

Unless the Madrid Government Yields in the Time Granted, the Armed Forces of the United States Will Be Put in Motion to Enforce the Demand of Congress.

Washington, April 21.—The Cuban resolution is now a law of the land and the ultimatum to Spain an accomplished fact.

The ultimatum is not long, but it is clear, vigorous and firm. There can be no mistaking its meaning by Spain. It includes the resolution passed by Congress and the demand that Spain shall evacuate Cuba, and says that unless an answer is given by noon Saturday the President will use the armed forces of the United States at once to stop hostilities in Cuba and drive the Spaniards from the island.

Resolution Signed.

The President signed the Cuban resolution in the presence of four members of his Cabinet, Assistant Secretary Day, several Senators and officials of the White House. It was a most impressive scene, and the excitement around the White House was intense. The crowds that gathered in and outside the executive mansion have not been equaled in many years.

General Alger had brought over from the War Department a pen which he requested the President to use in appending his signature to the document. The pen had an ordinary gutta percha holder and as it was handed to the President by his secretry, Mr. Porter, those present gathered around the table to witness the act. There was considerable feeling manifested by those about, but there was no demonstration or congratulations. The party soon dispersed and within ten minutes the usual condition of things at the White House had been resumed.

The ultimatum was prepared at the State Department by Assistant Secretary Day and at 10.30 announcement was made at the White House that it had been signed by the President and had been sent to the Spanish Government.

The ultimatum was taken over to the White House by Assistant Secretary Day, who went over it with President McKinley before the latter affixed his signature.

After announcement Assistant Secretary Day said the ultimatum had been transmitted to Madrid addressed to United States Minister Woodford, who delivered it to the Spanish Government.

Polo Asks for His Passports.

As soon as the final determination to send it had been reached, and it had been started on its way to Madrid Senor Polo, the Spanish Minister, in accordance with diplomatic courtesies, was furnished with a copy of the papers. The minister as soon as he received them made a brief reply and requested his passports.

The Spanish Minister's request was as follows:

"Legacion de Espana.

"Washington, D. C., April 20, 1898.

"Mr. Secretary: The resolution adopted by the Congress of the United States of America and approved to-day by the President is of such a nature that my permanence in Washington becomes impossible and obliges me to request you the delivery of my passports. The protection of the Spanish interests will be intrusted to the French Ambassador and to the Austrian-Hungarian Minister. On this occasion, very painful to me, I have the honor to renew to your the assurances of my highest consideration.

(Signed. "Luis Polo de Bernabe."

"Hon. John Sherman, Secretary of State of the United States of America."

Assistant Secretary Day directed that Polo's passports be prepared and sent him at once.

Terms of Our Demand in Spain.

Although the text of the ultimatum was not made public, it is known that with it is transmitted to the Spanish Government, through Minister Woodford, a copy of the joint resolutions of Congress, together with the statement that they have been approved by the President.

The President makes a demand upon Spain to withdraw her land and naval forces from the island and its waters, and in the event that a satisfactory response to the demand is not received by the President by Saturday next, he will proceed with the armed forces of the United States to carry the resolutions into effect.

The President does not name any hour of the day of Saturday prior to which Spain must make answer, if at all, to our demands, but a reasonble assumption is that any time up to midnight will be regarded as a compliance with the terms of tne ultimatum.

One of the members of the Cabinet in speaking of this feature said that the Government would not hold a stop watch on Spain in this emergency, and could well afford on our own account to give her three days to decide a question. From this time forward war preparations will go forward with renewed activity, and both the Army and the Navy will be put in position for active operations.

There seems to be little doubt that the first move will be to blockade one or more of the Cuban ports, and as soon as an army of occupation can be transported to them a demand will be made for an unconditional surrender. In the event of a refusal the work of reducing the ports by bombardment will be begun immediately. It is not thought that the assembling of naval forces will be delayed even for a day, and it is not unlikely that important movements of both arms of the service will be ordered within the next few hours.

There is still some talk in Washington of renewed intervention by the Pope and the powers, but this is not likely, as the time for intervention of any kind from any quarter in behalf of peace has gone by. It is now war within three days or the evacuation of Cuba by Spanish troops. Judging from Sagasta's speech, the evacuation demanded will not take place.

Austria has forbidden the importation of American fruit, which, on examination at the port of entry, shows traces of the San Juan scale.

WILL WAIT FOR TIME LIMIT.

Minister Woodford Will Not Leave Madrid Until That Period Has Expired.

Washington, April 21.—Assistant Secretary Day informed your correspondent that Minister Woodford has received no instructions to ask for his passports upon the delivery of the ultimatum to Spain. He will remain at Madrid until the time has elapsed for Spain to make a reply to this country, unless he is handed his possports in the meantime. In this event he will, of course, come home immediately.

Any communication between this country and Spain that may be necessary after the withdrawal of the two countries will be conducted through the British Foreign Office.

Secretary Day says that it will be unnecessary for Congress to pass a resolution declaring war against Spain—that the resolution which was signed yesterday gives the President full power to go ahead and begin operations.

Secretary Day also said that nothing would be done in the way of beginning active hostilities until Spain has replied to our ultimatum.

General Woodford has notified the State Department that he and all the American consuls in Spain were ready to leave that country at a moment's notice.

The State Department has made arrangements for the immediate withdrawal of its consular officers from Spain. It will be left to General Woodford, however, to give the word for their withdrawal and he undoubtedly will do this before asking for his own passports.

WOODRUFF MAY BE DISMISSED.

Likely to Receive His Passports at 8 O'Clock This Morning.

London, April 21.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing at 11 o'clock last evening, says:

"General Woodford's family left tonight by the ordinary express for Biarritz. The American Minister himself has taken tickets for the south of France express to-morrow. He has received extensive dispatches of instructions.

"It is doubted whether he will have an opportunity of presenting the American ultimatum, since, in all probability, Senor Gullon, the Foreign Minister, will send him his passports at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning (Thursday), with a declaration that diplomatic relations between the two governments have been broken off.

"General Woodford has handed the archives of the legation to the British Embassy, where he dined to-night."

CUBA TO AID OUR ARMY.

Perfected Plans for Rendering Effective Aid to the American Soldiers.

Washington, April 21.—General Miles was in conference yesterday with representatives of the Cuban Junta relative to the co-operation of the Cuban insurgents with the United States troops in an attack upon Havana. It was said that the principal officers in command of the insurgents have had this contingency under consideration for some time and have perfected plans for rendering effective aid to the American soldiers.

As the Spanish troops are withdrawn into Havana the insurgents are closing in behind them, and before hostilities begin the Spaniards will be inside the trocha, with the Cubans to the rear of them and the American fleet to the seaward. The insurgents will cut off communication between Havana and other portions of the island and prevent supplies getting into the city.

TO RECOGNIZE CUBA

Foraker Says in the Senate That This Government Will Recognize Their Representatives Here.

Washington, April 21.—Senator Foraker said in debate in the Senate that he had positive information that it is the intention of this Governmet to recognize the representatives of the Cuban Government in this country.

Senator Foraker has written a letter to a constituent, W. D. Bissma, of Toledo, Ohio, denying charges that he is interested in Cuban bonds. Senator Foraker says:

"If any such story is being circulated it is a falsehood pure and simple, without the slightest shadow of truth for its foundation. I have no interest in any Junta or Cuban bonds, or any other kinds of bonds affected by the Cuban question, or any other interest of any kind whatsoever, directly or indirectly, and never did have and never expect to have."

NO PRIVATEERING.

Government Will Not Resort to This Method of Warfare—Official Statement Issued.

Washington, April 21.—The State Department has announced the policy of the United States in regard to privateering. The decision of the Government is contained in the following official memorandum:

"In the event of hostilities between the United States and Spain, it will be the policy of this Government not to resort to privateering.

"The Government will adhere to the following rules;

"First—Neutral flag covers enemy's goods with the exception of contraband of war.

"Second—Neutral goods not contraband of war are not liable to confiscation under enemy's flag.

"Third—Blockades, in order to be binding, must be effective."

A Popular Loan to Be Issued.

Washington, April 21.—Congress will be asked to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to issue $500,000,000 in bonds for the purpose of carrying on the war with Spain. This will be in the form of a popular loan, as it is intended to issue bonds of denominations as small as $50 each. Circulars will be sent all over the United States requesting subscriptions. These can be sent by means of money orders directly to the Secretary of the Treasury. The bonds will be issued as soon as the authority is given by Congress and will pay 3 per cent. intarest.

Want to Enlist in London.

London, April 21.—The rush of applicants for enlistment in the United States Army or Navy continues. Between forty and fifty English and Irish sailors or soldiers applied for enlistment at the United States Consulate yesterday.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS DELAYED.

House Passes the Bill Too Late for the Senate to Consider It.

Washington, April 21.—It was the President's intention to issue his proclamation yesterday afternoon, calling out the volunteers, if Congress had passed the Volunteer bill. The President would have been glad to have sent forth the call upon the same day that he signed the Cuban resolutions, if possible.

Congress can never do anything without talking, and this rule held good yesterday. There was no necessity for debate, but the House spent the day in quibbling over small points, and the afternoon had moved into evening before the talkers drew off and let the bill pass. Then it was too late for the Senate to act.

Chairman Hull, of the Military Affairs Committee, gave intimation to the House of the advisability of early action when he presented the bill in the morning. He said the President desired its immediate passage as a measure of vital necessity, and had sent a message to him to that effect. The Secretary of War had also urged it, and General Miles had appeared in person before the committee in the forenoon to represent the urgency of thec ase.

The committee, in order to remove every possible cause for friction in the House, had stricken from the bill the paragraph authorizing the President to appoint the regimental and company officers of the volunteers, and provided that the Governors of the States wherein the troops were raised should exercise that power.

Despite Mr. Hull's earnest appeals, the day dragged along, while the President waited at the White House for authority to send the proclamation flashing over the wires which would arouse the patriotic ardor of the people and meet with an early response in armed legions answering "Ready!"

The Volunteer bill is not hastily drawn or crude. It is the result of three weeks' work on the part of the law officers of the Government and the War Department officials, together with the consideration of suggestions from National Guard officers. Before the bill was passed in the House a clause was inserted giving the President authority to call out the volunteers, thus obviating the necessity of a special act hereafter.

The bill was passed, without division, at 5.15 P. M., and the House adjourned.

THE PENNSYLVANIA MALITIA.

Governor's Guard Inspected in Harrisburg —All Ready to Serve.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 21.—The Governor's Troop was inspected yesterday afternoon by Major Millar, of Scranton, inspector of the Third brigade, in the presence of 3,000 people. Governor Hastings and Adjutant General Stewart were present. The Governor and Adjutant-General will inspect the State arsenal and camp and garrison equipage of the National Guard to-day. The guard was never as splendidly equipped, and in response to a call for troops the entire division of 9,000 officers and men can be placed in the field under canvas in twenty-four hours.

The Governor is delighted with the spirit of patriotism that prevails in Pennsylvania, as evidenced by the numerous offers of service since the destruction of the Maine.

More than 600 letters and telegrams have been received at the Executive Department during the last six weeks from all classes of people to volunteer in the event of hostilities with Spain. Every one of these offers has been acknowledged by the Executive and carefully tabulated and filed under the direction of Private Secretary Beitler.

The course of procedure is the same in the Adjutant General's office.

If the Governor were to accept the services of all who have responded 50,000 volunteers would go to the front from Pennsylvania. These offers have come from old soldiers, ex-members of the National Guard, patriotic societies and former officers of the regular army, who have entered the United States service from this State. More than 100 women have offered their services as nurses. If there is a war with Spain, the Keystone State will respond quickly and generously to any demand made upon it by the President and the Governor.

BOMBARDMENT OF NEW YORK.

Story from San Francisco that the Spanish Fleet Has Designs on This City.

San Francisco, April 21.—An English army officer, now residing here, has just received from a prominent Spanish political agent in New York a letter relating to the plans of the Spanish fleet.

The agent writes that he procured some months ago copies of official plans of the fortifications of New York harbor and dispatched them to his Government. These plans, he says, are now in possession of the Admiral of the Spanish fleet at Cape Verde Islands.

The agent states that Spain has withdrawn all her good vessels from Cuban waters, because she does not purpose to make any defense of Cuba, except by means of forts, and that all the available Spanish naval strength will be concentrated at the Cape Verde Islands.

The agent intimates that the fleet, commanding 118 guns, will be dispatched direct for New York, when it is seen war is certain. Transports loaded with coal would be taken along, so that after the run across the ocean the vessels could be coaled one or two days out from New York.

The fleet then would anchor in a body off Coney Island, where it would be exposed to no dangerous fire, and bombard New York.

General Army Hospital.

Atlanta, April 21.—The general hospital for the entire United States Army is to be established in Atlanta. Fort McPherson will be the headquarters of the hospital corps, and in a short time it is expected that there will be a full corps of surgeons sent here to make up the hospital brigade. Fort McPherson is an ideal place for a hospital. The barracks are clean and roomy and the reservation is healthful. The barracks buildings can be used as offices for the different officers of the hospital.

Mate Bram a Murderer.

Boston, April 21.—Mate Bram, of the barkentine Herbert S. Fuller, was convicted for a second time yesterday for killing the captain of the ship while at sea. The verdict was guilty of manslaughter without capital punishment.

THE QUEEN FOR WAR

Says Cortes Was Summoned to Defend Spain's Rights,

THE SITUATION REVIEWED

She Refers to the Efforts of the United States in "Fomenting Rebellion"—Appeals to the Spanish People to Gather Round Her Son's Throne—Says the Pope Spoke Words of Peace.

Madrid, April 21.—The opening of the Spanish Cortes yesterday afternoon was a magnificent sight. All the wealth and beauty of Madrid gathered in the Senate, where every available foot of space was occupied. There was a terrible crush at the entrance leading to the Senatorial seats, many of which were occupied by ladies.

Large bodies of troops were drawn up outside the building, including the handsomely uniformed Blue Dragoons and the magnificently attired Palace Guards.

All the members of the diplomatic corps were present in full dress.

The Queen's Speech.

The Queen Regent read the speech from the throne. She referred to the troubles mentioned at the last session of the Cortes, saying they had increased "owing to the attitude of part of the people of the United States in fomenting rebellion," adding that hitherto Spain had submitted "to these threats and injuries, as not being the genuine expression of the American nation: but, becoming national, they would oblige me to break relations with the United States."

Continuing, the Queen Regent remarked that in the supreme crisis the Pope "spoke words of peace, which were hearkened to by my Government, in the firm consciousness of right and in the strict performance of international duties."

Her Majesty added: "Spain's gratitude is due to the Pope, and also to the great powers, whose action strengthens my conviction that Spain's cause deserves universal sympathy."

Peace Efforts May Fail.

Continuing, her Majestey said: "Possibly, however, the peace efforts may fail to control the evil passions excited against Spain. Lest this moment arrive, I have summoned the Cortes to defend our rights, whatever sacrifice they may entail.

"Thus identifying myself with the nation, I not only fulfil the oath I swore in accepting the Regency, but I follow the dictates of a mother's heart, trusting to the Spanish people to gather behind my son's throne and defend it until he is old enough to defend it himself, as well as trusting to the Spanish people to defend the honor and the territory of the nation."

The Queen Regent then referred to the trouble in the Philippine Islands, and, continuing, said:

"Although a dark and gloomy future is before us, the difficulties are not beyond our powers. With our glorious army, navy and united nation before foreign aggression, we trust in God that we shall overcome, without stain on our honor, the baseless and unjust attacks made upon us."

The Queen Regent read the speech with the little King on her right, amid great enthusiasm.

SITUATION IN MADRID.

Minister Woodford Expected to Leave at Any Moment.

Madrid, April 21.—All is quiet and orderly here, and nothing unusual has occurred. Two policemen are stationed at the corner of the street upon which is situated the residence of the United States Minister General Stewart L. Woodford, who is making preparations for his departure from Madrid.

On the departure of General Woodford from Madrid, which is expected almost immediately, the arms of Great Britain will replace those of the United States over the United States Embassy, and the British charge d'affaires will look after the interests of the United States in Spain.

There is no foundation for the story, published in Rome, that Spain has, or will offer Cuba to the Pope, so that the latter may surrender the island to the United States, thus enabling Spain to escape the humiliation of a surrender to the United States. The idea is ridiculed in Spanish official circles here. The Spaniards say they will never renounce Cuba without a heroic struggle.

The Press Warlike.

The newspapers of the Spanish capital are very warlike in tone.

The Imparcial (independent) contrasts the manner in which the United States and Spain enter into the conflict, saying: "The aggressor is noisy, insulting and clamorous, and the aggrieved is reserved, calm and self-contained."

The Liberal, which is the organ of Senor Sagasta, the Premier, heads its leading article to-day with the single word "War" and says:

"The resolutions passed (by Congress) are tantamount to a declaration of war. Spain is fearlessly and unitedly prepared to defend her rights, single handed and abandoned by the powers, but fortified by the justice of her cause."

The public, generally, accepts the situation without apparent concern.

Advices from Cadiz say that the commander of the new Spanish squadron now being formed there recently visited the shrine of the Virgin with his men and there addressed the crews of the ships, offering the choice of remaining behind to whoever felt fear. The crews, it is added, unanimously declared that they preferred to go to battle, whereupon the Spanish commander and his men knelt and took the solemn vow never to return to Spain unless victorious.

An official dispatch from Havana says Captain-General Blanco has chartered a vessel to bring over 4,000 Spanish sailors "who have heretofore served in the United States Navy, but who are now desirous of defending their own country."

The dispatch adds that the Cuban insurgent leader, Betancourt, has published a proclamation agreeing to a suspension of hostilities. In conclusion it says: "The inhabitants of Santiago de Cuba, even those who are the most hostile to Spain, are resolved to fight on the side of the Spaniards, and some influential rebel leaders have the same intentions."

SENOR POLO DEPARTS.

Senor Polo y Bernabe Receives the Ultimatum and Demands His Passports.

Washington, April 21.—Traveling under a special passport similar to the one peremptorily issued to Lord Sackville West, Senor Polo, his family and six members of his suite left Washington for Canada at 7.30 P. M. last night. He will avoid New York and pass through Baltimore, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Rochester and Buffalo. The party will spend a day or two at Niagara Falls staying at the Clifton House, on the Canadian border. They will then go to Montreal.

Senor Polo made a hurried call at the French Embassy and the Austrian Legation at 6 P. M. Then he joined his staff at the legation and started for the train. An express wagon was piled high with the trunks of the large party.

Just before the departure from the legation the Austrian Minister, Mr. Hengelmuller, and Baroness Hengelmuller dropped in for a last word, and several other members of the Diplomatic Corps called.

As the Minister entered the railroad station he was recognized by the crowd, which closed in about him until cautioned by the officers. No words of indignity were spoken and the salutations of those in the crowd were rather agreeable than otherwise. He smiled in acknowledgmtnt of the attention given him and several times touched his hat. He wore a brown tweed suit and a soft felt traveling hat.

As soon as the President had signed the resolutions he notified the Minister, who at once demanded his passports, which were handed to him at his residence by an officer of the State Department. Then Senor Polo at once sent cablegrams to the various Spanish Ministers in South America. All of them were worded as follows:

"Intervencian armada. Salgo Canada. POLO."

A liberal translation of the above is: "Armed intervention. I go to Canada."

Arrangements had been made with the French Ambassador here some little time ago, and the archives of the legation were placed in his hands as soon as the Spanish Minister received word that the resolution had been signed. After this had been done the following message was sent to Philadelphia:

"Spanish Vice-Consul, Philadelphia: I leave to-night. Intrust the archives to the French Consul. When you get ready, go to Toronto. POLO."

The Spanish Minister gave a farewell luncheon at the legation here yesterday afternoon.

The following is a copy of the passport furnished Senor Polo, in compliance with his request:

United States of America,
Department of State.

To whom these presents shall come, Greeting:

Know ye that the bearer hereof, Don Luis Polo de Bernabe, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Spain to the United States, is about to travel abroad, accompanied by his family and suite. These are therefore to request all officers of the United States or of any State thereof to pass freely, without let or molestation, and to extend to him all friendly aid and protection in case of need.

In testimony I, John Sherman, Secretary of State of the United States of America, do hereunto set my hand and have caused the seal of the Department of State to be affixed at Washington, this twentieth day of April, A. D. 1898, and in the independence of the United States of America 122.

JOHN SHERMAN.

SPURGEON CHURCH BURNED.

Metropolitan Tabernacle in London Completely Destroyed by Fire.

London, April 21.—Spurgeon's Metropolitan Tabernacle was completely destroyed by fire at noon yesterday. The flames were not discovered until the fire in the interior of the edifice was beyond control. The burning of no other building in London could have so aroused a community.

The Tabernacle stood to the south of Blackfriars Bridge, in Newington. It has been standing for nearly forty years, by all odds the most popular place of worship in London. At the time it was built, to be immediately occupied by Rev. Charles Spurgeon, it was regarded as a piece of folly.

It was a commodious building, 146 feet long and 81 feet wide, built in classic style and approached by ten broad steps leading to a portico. Over this stately portico there was a roof supported by six massive columns.

The seating capacity of 5,500 was taxed every day of worship, in addition to the standing room, which accommodated 500 persons. Pewholders were always admitted by ticket. Ten minutes before the services began the great front doors were opened to the crowd, which always congregated on the portico in advance.

REVENUE BILL READY

The Main Features of the Forthcoming Measure.

TAXES THAT ARE PROPOSED

Increase of $1 Internal Revenue Tax on Beer, a Stamp Tax and a Duty on Tea and Coffee—Bill May Also Contain Provisions for a Number of Other Taxes.

Washington, April 21.—It is announced at the Treasury Department that the main feature of the war revenue measure that is shortly to be introduced in the House will provide for an increase of $1 on the internal revenue tax on beer, a stamp tax and a duty o tea and coffee.

The intention is to draft a bill that will yield about $100,000,000 a year and the Treasury Department estimates that the taxes proposed on these commodities will result in this amount of revenue.

At least $35,000,000 will be realized, according to the estimation of the Treasury officials, from the additional tax on beer. Another $10,000,000 will result from the imposition of a duty of 10 cents a pound on all tea imported. It is proposed to place a duty of 3 cents a pound on coffee, which would bring in about $20,000,00 a year. Fifteen millions are depended upon as a result of the proposed stamp tax on operations in stovks and banking busiess.

These will form the most important features of the bill, which is now being drafted by the members of the ways and means committee, although it is likely that the measure will contain provisions for a number of other taxes.

Preparing to Tax Free Articles.

One of these will likely be a proposition to tax all articles now on the free list at the rate of 10 per cent. This could be done without seriously effecting any important industry and would net a good income.

It is announced at the Treasury Departmet that there will be uniform increase all along the line on all articles already on the dutiable lists.

It is believed that the Government can get all the revenues it will require by picking out certain commodities for special duties and that this can be done without materially damaging any persons or prticular interests.

Stamp Tax on All Sales of Tea.

The department is considering a proposal to impose a stamp on all sales of tea. Immense shipments of this article have been made into the United States recently and the Department believes that it would be only just to impose a tax of about 10 cents a pound on all sales made hereafter. This could be enforced by requiring all tea now on hand to be put up in pound packages and having stamps placed on them.

The Department has furnished to the Ways and Means Committee a complete schedule of the war taxes in force during the rebellion. It is asserted at the Treasury Department that many of these schedules could be enforced with good effect at the present time.

Protests Already Coming In.

It is the opinion of the leading officials here, however, that the main features of the revenue bill will be as outlined above. This proposed measure, however, will not be placed on the statute book without a protest from the interests affected. Already the brewers are writing to Senators and Congressmen begging them not to agree to an additional tax on beer, and the free silver contingent in Congress is getting ready to urge the advantages of an income tax.

It will be seen from this that the Republican leaders, particularly the members of the Finance Committee of the Senate, and the Ways and Means Committee of the House, will have their hands full devising the necessary means for conducting the war. The radicals now see that it is one thing to talk war, but quite another thing to carry it on.

$200,000 from the Klondike.

Tacoma, Wash., April 21.—A party of eight from Dawson City has just arrived here overland, with $200,000 in Klondike gold dust, nuggests and drafts. "Plunger Charley" Meadows, who arrived on Sunday, says that $30,000,000 is a conservative estimate for the season's output on the Klondike. He thinks there is now two-thirds of that amount on the dumps, and the production will continue for six weeks yet. He thinks the first Klondike steamers will bring down $8,000,000 to $12,000,000, while the succeeding boats will bring large amounts.

International Interest Involved.

Paris, April 21.—The Temps, commenting editorially upon the political situation, says: "Everything points to the Spanish-American war leading to a serious impairment of international and commercial interests, in view of Great Britain's open sympathy with America, especially as an agreement between the European Powers to safeguard their interests seems impossible."

WAR NOW.

After days and weeks of anxiety as to the outcome of the complications with Spain, this country is now at the breaking point of peaceable relations with that nation.

War is but a short time distant, perhaps, as indicated by the news dispatches contained in our columns today, hostilities may commence before this day has passed away.

A quick war is a merciful one, and there is no gainsaying the fact that the United States is in a position to prosecute its rights with armed force more effectively than the power with whom it has become involved in such serious business.

The United States is in the zenith of its position among the governments of the world while Spain is tottering and falling year by year. There is no doubt as to the result of the conquest—victory cannot long be delayed this country. Every contributing force that has a bearing on war between the United States and Spain over a contention that is so closely at hand as is Cuba is favorable to the U. S. forces.

Loyalty to country and urgent assistance to the men who will do battle are the two things that will make the Yankee of today.

DECAY FOLLOWS NEGLECT.

A Columbus, O., engineer states that his city has spent $5,000,000 on improving 114 miles of street, but they have been allowed to get into such shape that an expenditure of $250,000 for repairs would hardly put them in decent condition.

Unless the roads are constantly watched and repaired, just as regularly and carefully as the great railway companies watch their road beds, they will deteriorate very rapidly and practically have to be rebuilt every few years. There is no use in building expensive roads, and leave them go to ruin from neglect.

In a recent address, E. H. Thayer stated on this subject that "a man with one horse and cart, working eight months of the year, can keep seventy miles of road in constant, effective and complete repair at the outside expense of $350, which is $5 per mile, while the cost of even attempting to make passable the ordinary country road exceeds $35 per mile. A dirt cart is loaded with crushed rock or gravel. With a hoe, a shovel and a rammer, the repairer, as frequently as the task is assigned him will permit, starts out on the road. Every washout he repairs, every rut he fills up, loose stones he throws out, rough places he levels, obstructions in water courses he removes, and his tireless efforts day after day result in keeping the good road in good repair and making happy every man and woman who drives over the highway."

It is only by following the example set by railway companies in the care of their road beds, and acting upon such suggestions as those above given, that the highways can be efficiently maintained and properly preserved.

THE BICYCLE POLICEMAN.

In one respect Passaic is behind the times. Plainfield has a police bicycle corps. Bridgeton, one of the smaller cities of the State, has mounted every bluecoat on wheels, and Rutherford has a bicycle corps consisting of one policeman. Passaic has no bicycle policemen at all, and none of the officers can ride a wheel.—Passaic News.

Profiting by the experience of this city with bicycle-mounted cops, Passaic officials ought to immediately give a few of their policemen instructions in the act of preserving their equilibrium on a bicycle. The bicycle cop in Plainfield has been such a success that any suggestion to relegate them to shanks' horses would be met with derision by the populace. The bicycle policeman is a glorious success and constant menace to the evildoer. He has often proved his advantage over the pedestrian policeman, and the Common Council thinks so well of him that it has taken money out of the city treasury to purchase the bicycle necessary to his equipment.

NAVY YARD RECRUITS AT DRILL.

One of the features most interesting to the visitors at the Brooklyn navy yard is the drilling of recruits in the use of war weapons. Probably the most important item in this drill is the manoeuvering that must be done with the six-pounder field pieces.

VETO FOR ANTI-TRADING STAMP BILL.

Very interesting news comes of the probable action of Governor Voorhees on the anti-trading stamp bill. It is that the Governor will veto it. That means the everlasting gratitude of the housewives of New Jersey for his excellency and the bitter disappointment of a large number of business men—among them many Plainfielders—who worked hard to have the bill passed by both houses of the legislature.

The claim made by the supporters of the traffic in trading stamps was that the bill is unconstitutional, and if the Governor vetoes it that will probably be the reason assigned for such action.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The New York World of Tuesday, March 22d last, contained a statement—in what were or purported to be Frank Bergen's own words—of the provisions of the county boulevard law. Among those provisions was one to the following effect:

The people most directly interested—the owners of property abutting on the county road—have some voice in the matter; for the consent of owners of one-half the frontage must be obtained before the work of widening is begun.

At the meeting of the Board of Freeholders held Thursday, April 7th, nine days after the bill was signed, a request for a copy of the boulevard law was made by the editor of The Chronicle. He received a printed document represented to be the act desired, and published it complete in the issue of April 8th.

Two or three days ago the official copy of the laws, session of 1898, arrived from Trenton, and comparison with the Freeholders' copy shows that the clause requiring the consents of abutting property owners has been stricken out.

Is Mr. Bergen engaged in a bunco game? If not, will he kindly explain how the emasculation of the bill as he explained it March 22d was accomplished, and the reason therefor?—Cranford Chronicle.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

Captain S. C. Peck, of this city, unearthed the following interesting letter from the midst of a heap of old correspondence recently. At this time, when the war fever is running high, the letter is of interest as a reminder of the days of the Civil War. The letter was written to Captain Peck by the Commander of the United States Naval Ship Wabash, and is as follows:

U. S. S. Wabash,
11 April, 1864.
Harbor of Port Royal.

Sir—Before leaving this harbor I am anxious to convey to you my sense of obligation for the prompt action you have taken in the various cases to which I have been compelled to call your attention: and it will be a most pleasant duty for me to make this known to the Commander in Chief of the fleet. We sail tomorrow for Charleston Bar, and will be glad to render any service in our power.

I am very respectfully your obed't serv't.

John D. Camp.

Few people know that Daniel R. Ryan, who is now playing the leading role in the repertoire company that is appearing at Music Hall this week, is the same man that a few years ago appeared on the LaGrande avenue baseball grounds with the celebrated Norwich, Conn., team as a pitcher. Mr. Ryan gained an enviable reputation as a pitcher and was known as "Cyclone" Ryan. He was a terror to all players that faced his pitching and it was seldom that his team was defeated. At that time there was a friendly feeling between the members of the Crescent team and the Norwich team, and after Manager Keller took his team to Norwich for two games he succeeded in getting the Norwich team to come to Plainfield. Mr. Ryan is a large and powerful appearing man and he has made as much of a hit on the stage as he did on the baseball field.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"The Fatal Wedding," one of the very best plays ever presented in this city, attracted a fair-sized audience at Music Hall last night, and the Daniel Ryan Company won for themselves deserved praise. The play is another version of the famous Kendal play—"Claire, the Forge Master," and as rendered by the Ryan Company is as perfect a performance as could be wished. Mr. Ryan showed the true artist that he is, in his rendition of the very difficult role of "Derblay," while Miss Ethel Fuller, in the character of "Claire," demonstrated the fact that she is by far the best leading lady that has ever appeared here in repertoire. Her dressing is superb, and the stage settings are very handsome. Our theatre-going public should not fail to witness the performances of this more than excellent company. Tonight the celebrated success, "Jim the Penman," will be presented, and a great performance is assured. Don't fail to see it and see the matinee performance tomorrow, Friday.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, April 21.—The board of engineers of the Westfield Fire Department is making investigations preparatory to adopting a new and more modern system of fire alarm than the one now in use. A compressed air whistle is one of the systems suggested to take the place of the present alarm bell, which is fast becoming inadequate to the needs of the town. The engineers will make a thorough study of the different systems and will render a report to the department at its next meeting. It is thought that the officers of the department will have the township partioned off into districts and a system of fire boxes erected. Maps of the township will also be pepared showing the exact location of the fire hydrants.

The members of the Westfield Methodist church will tender a reception this evening to Rev Charles M. Anderson, their new pastor.

Westfield Conclave, I O. H., has rented the St. Paul's church parish rooms in Etta Hall for the holding of its monthly meetings.

STRICT LAW RIDDLED.

a small addition to a house when the fire risk is not to be increased.

W. A. Woodruff waited a year to build an addition on his house and was then obliged to use iron columns when his house is a frame structure.

J Fred MacDonald thought the fire limits covered too much territory, and that the ordinance should not touch anyone outside of the limits. Seaman Williams though the ordinance very extortionate, and amounted to nothing outside of the provision for lining inside of chimneys. Lawyer H. C. Runyon was of the opinion that the ordinance placed a premium on frame buildings. Architect Clum thought the ordinance should be repealed altogether and that it had worked a great deal of harm to building interests in the city.

Mr. Truell, of Central avenue, stated that he expected to erect a house at the corner of Fourth and New streets, but when he learned that it had to be built of brick he gave up the plan. He is now waiting to have the fire limits reduced. Eugene Laing said that people are being driven into the borough by the ordinance, and that a number of houses were to have been built, but the ordinance killed the plans. Mr. Lounsbury said that if a man wanted to keep chickens he should stay away from metropolitan Plainfield. Harry Runyon related an incident when a man employed by Mr. Pinto, of Central avenue, was obliged to stop erecting a hot-house, 15x3, until he could get a permit to put it up. J. D. Runyon thought the fire limits too large, and that it was foolish to be obliged to get a permit for every little thing. He thought, however, that the Council would be willing to make such alterations in the ordinance as were reasonable.

J. D. Spicer thought the ordinance a detriment to the interest of the city. He also said that never before since he came to Plainfield, thirty-two years ago, had there been so many empty houses in the city. There must be some good reason for it, he said, and it is too much government. The building ordinance and the Board of Health is too much.

Mr. Laing expressed an opinion that the Board of Health is more of a nuisance than otherwise. J. C. Pope cited the case of a year ago when Plainfield had a slight epidemic of scarlet fever and he blamed the Board of Health for scaring people away. Some person spoke of the newspapers being responsible for much of the scare, whereupon Mr. Spicer said that the newspapers do not compare with the Board of Health.

Mr. Lounsbury stated that a person has a perfect right to criticise, and while personally he had a very high regard for the president of the Board of Health he thought that in matters pertaining to the Board of Health he is a fanatic and a crank and that the ultimatum would be issued sooner or later.

Other remarks were made by Henry Liefke, G. O. Stevens, Horace Sherwin, A. C. Rogers, J. T. Vail, Mr. Jessup, and all were about of the same tenor as stated above. The result of the meeting was that resolutions were adopted which provides for the establishment of fire limits as follows: Central avenue south of the railroad 150 feet, Watchung avenue and Greenbrook, also that outside of the fire limits the ordinance is not to have any effect. These resolutions were adopted and referred to the building ordinance committee, and they are to present them to the councilmanic committee on fire and buildings.

The meeting then adjourned.

SHOES OF ALL NATIONS.

A Description of What They Were in the Days of Long Ago.

A unique exhibition in London, shows a collection of shoes from the earliest times down to the present. Not only the shoes but the different leathers, machinery and tools used in the manufacture of them are seen.

The earliest shoes were of the sandal type, fastened on to the foot by leather thongs, and in many cases the "uppers" are of beautifully pieced work, with loops for the straps to pass through. Many of the children's little shoes are lovely specimens of this open work. Then there are men's shoes made entirely of one piece of leather, cut into loops over the foot, believed to be the English of the eleventh century.

Up to Queen Anne's time, and later, run on the high-heeled, brocaded shoe. Neat little clogs, or patterns, with leather soles and brocaded sides to match the shoes they were intended to encircle, were much used by the fine ladies of eighteenth century, and these were tied with ribbons, or fastened by a buckle, while a large raised pad in the center supported the instep. Every description of shoe seems to have been made about this time—white kid, painted with formal red patterns, soft silken brocade or satin, stiff with gold and silver embroidery. Coronetted and initialed toes, heels with inscriptions running round their smooth surfaces, and many more curiosities are here. There are some possessing pathetic interest because of their wearers, like the red and blue baby shoes, with a crown and A. V. embroidered on the tiny toes, which were worn by Prince Albert Victor. Others have historical associations clinging round, like that shoe made by a Chartist, and taken about to collect subscriptions, in those days of fierce struggle for freedom of election and political liberty.

Turning to the foot covering of other nations, the earliest examples are the wonderfully preserved sandals and slippers from ancient tombs in Upper Egypt. The embalming fluid used for the bodies must have affected the shoes as well, for, though they were the work of the fourth and sixth centuries, they are almost in a wearable condition. Some are made of layers of leather, padded with papyrus, and have the upper surface patterned and gilded. Others are pierced with a floral scroll pattern, underlined with gilt leather, to which it is sewn.

Perhaps shoes in use at the present time are more interesting and these are well represented. The plaited straw sandals of the Japanese, delicate shoes netted of aloe-fibre by the convicts of Toulon, Turkish foot-rests and bath-clogs, Indian snow-shoes, and Russian boots fill the different cases. Tiny shoes, three and four inches long, worn by the Chinese ladies, contrast with the comfortable embroidered boots worn by the Tarkund women. Then the quaint, long-toed shoes used by the modern inhabitants of India, recall the pictures of magicians and wizards while the Indian woman's gold and silver embroidered slippers keep up the fame of the celebrated Benares work. Perhaps the most curious foot covering worn by any of the Eastern races are the yellow leather socks, made in five pieces, and mounted on high wood and mother of pearl stands, worn by the Damascus brides. But there are various foot coverings in use in England at the present time—Lancashire clogs and Irish cowhide shoes, roughly cured by the brine of the sea, identical with those worn by the ancient Britons. The Donegal peasants call them "pampooties," but the Shetland peasantry term them "rivlins," and seldom wear anything else in their rough tramps over wild paths to cut and bring home the peat they depend on for their winter fuel.

Striped Taffeta Waist.

For the dressy waist nothing is more appropriate than the dainty striped and figured taffetas which are now so popular. A waist of this sort worn with a handsome black skirt or one of contrasting color to the blouse, makes a costume suitable for theater or church wear.

A bodice of pale violet and green striped taffeta, was opened down the front over a vest of finely tucked plain taffeta. Tucks and insertion adorned the blouse and small sleeve. The skirt was of green amazon cloth.

White taffeta silk with colored polka dots is one of the novelties of the season for waists and very dainty they are combined with white mohair skirts.

Old-Time Fashions.

Corsets have been found on the mummies of Eyptian princesses of the Royal Family.

In 1516 Francis I. gave his queen the equivalent of £3,200 in our money to buy her a hat.

The women of the Middle Ages always parted their hair with a small dagger. When not in use it was carried in the girdle.

Wire hairpins were invented in England in 1545. Before that time the female coiffures were held in place by fine wooden skewers.

Philippe le Bel, of France, ordered that no tradesman's wife should wear a gown made of stuff costing more than twenty pence a yard.

In 1364 the pointed hoods worn by the ladies often reached 4 feet above the head, making the lady's face appear about the centre of her body.

From 1784 to 1787 the style of hairdressing in Paris changed seventeen times, and went from the extreme of short curls and a skull cap to a hat three feet broad.

In the Roman catacombs have been found several sets of false teeth, manufactured from ivory, to repair the ravages of time in the mouths of Roman beauties.

Kid and silk gloves came into use in Europe about the end of the fifteenth century. At first only princesses and ladies of high rank were allowed to wear them.

Read This Rapidly.

A comprehensive list of the names of devices for exhibiting figures by means of chronophotography given in a recently published advertising circular, shows to what extent this branch of photography has taken a place in catering to the popular taste.

The list runs thus: Phantoscope, criterioscope, vitascope, cinematograph, biograph, kinematograph, wordoscope, animatoscope, vitagraph, panoramagraph, cosmoscope, anarithmoscope, katoptikon, magniscope, zoeoptrotrope, phantasmagoria, projectoscope, variscope, cinograph, cinnomonograph, hypnoscope, centograph, X-ograph, electroscope, cinagraphoscope.

Kinetoscope, craboscope, vitaletiscope, cinematoscope, mutoscope, cinoscope, animaloscope, theatograph, chronophotographoscope, motograph, kinetograph, rayoscope, motorscope, kinotophone, thromotrope, phenakistoscope, venetrope, vitrescope, zinematograph, vitopticon, stinnetiscope, vivrescope, diaramiscope, lobterscope, corminograph, kineoptoscope.

For Summer Wear.

For spring and country wear in the summer improved patterns and qualities of the light-weight woolen fabrics have been brought out, similar to those which the best business houses import year after year, and which are bought as regularly by conservative women, and by fashionably dressed women also, who consider a tailor-made costume of such a material an essential part of their annual outfit. The choice among these suitings this year is unusually varied and handsome, both in monochromes and pretty fancy mixtures. A well-made, well-hung silk-lined skirt of these fine wool fabrics, and an open jacket neatly fitted and finished, with which various pretty vests, both light and dark, are en suite, will always give the wearer a sense of being well-dressed, and can be appropriately worn on more occasions than one would suppose.

People neither acute nor profound often say the thing without effort which we want and have long been hunting for in vain.

All the Paint World knows that this big "H" stands for Harrison

Brand and means that the goods are exactly as represented. It is due to this that Harrison is today the standard for paints of all kinds, a fact that will be explained to the purchaser when he applies Harrison Paints. A setting hen may be fooled with a china egg—but no amount of incubation will hatch it out. Just the same with paint. The unsuspecting purchaser may be duped by a bright label and an unscrupulous dealer—but no amount of manipulation can make imitations take the place of Harrison Paints. Look for the big "H."

Refined Torture.

It's on the Decrease in Plainfield Now,—A Citizen Explains Why.

Year in and year out many of our citizens have struggled along bearing unnecessary burdens of the rack, seeking relief from sources where it could not be found, suffering the refined torture which goes with a bad back. The little conqueror has brought about a wondrous change and from all parts comes the same report, hundreds of grateful citizens hasten to endorse the good work and speak publicly of their own personal benefit. Read what this Plainfield citizen says:

Mr. F. O. Smith, of 686 W. Front St., Contractor for Painting, etc., says: "For sometime past I had symptoms of kidney trouble and despite all my endeavors to get rid of it I never was successful until I obtained a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. There was a distressing pain across the small of my back which clung to me all the time. When I got seated at times if I moved a sharp pain struck me in the back and loins and almost made me exclaim. Any change in the weather or if I caught the least cold always aggravated the trouble and caused me to suffer severely. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by one of my employes who had been cured of a long standing case of kidney complaint by their use. I commenced the treatment and derived benefit from it immediately and before I had finished the first box I was cured. It affords me pleasure to recommend such a valuable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers, price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

FOR A SISTER SAINT.

THE POPE WILL SOON RECEIVE A PETITION.

Blessed Margaret Mary Alacoque, Founder of the Order of the Sacred Heart, to Be Honored—Wording of the Petition—The Canonizing Formula.

The women of the Visitation convent in Chicago are at present in a state of expectancy on account of the petition that has, through their instrumentality, been forwarded to Pope Leo by the American clergy asking that Blessed Margaret Mary Alacoque, the original promoter of the devotions to the Sacred Heart, be canonized and her name placed in the lists of the saints of the Catholic church. A letter was recently received at this place stating that the petition had reached Paris, France, and that it had been forwarded to Cardinal Perreaud, archbishop of Auton, France, who will present it to the sovereign pontiff at the earliest possible opportunity.

The request for the canonization of this devout member of the Visitation order of the seventeenth century has awakened an interest in the heart of nearly every Catholic in the United States. The devotions to the Sacred Heart instituted by this woman over two centuries ago have grown so rapidly that now the league by that name comprises within its membership the names of thousands and thousands of Catholics throughout the length and breadth of the land.

The attempt made by the Visitation sisters to secure the canonization of Margaret Mary Alacoque is the third of its kind. About a year ago a petition was received at the Vatican from the patriarchs of the eastern churches asking that she be made a saint and the protectress of the churches in the far east in order that their members might be united with the Sacred Heart. It did not receive favorable action from the propaganda, and several months later another petition was received from the Catholic archbishops and bishops of England and Ireland to the same effect.

The wording of the petition reads as follows: "To His Holiness Pope Leo XIII. Most Holy Father—As the worship of the most Sacred Heart of Jesus and the devotion to the blessed servant of God, Margaret Mary Alacoque, has now increased in an astonishing manner and has spread very strong roots in the hearts of the faithful, as well of religious as of laity, and as heavenly favors, innumerable and marked, now spiritual, again temporal, through the intercession of the servant of God, Blessed Margaret Mary Alacoque, even in these regions, have been procured, the piety of the faithful, religious and laity, earnestly importune you the canonization of the above servant of God—that is to say, Blessed Margaret Mary.

"For which reason we, the undersigned, the archbishops of the United States of North America, most humbly beg and exhort that your holiness will deem it worthy to bring the said servant of God, Blessed Margaret Mary Alacoque, into the catalogue of saints for the greater glory of God and for the adoration of the most Sacred Heart to be propagated more and more."

The petition was sent to the annual meeting of the archbishops of the United States, held at the Catholic university in Washington last October, where it received their official approval. Prior to their assembling, however, The Metropolitan had received a typewritten copy of the petition. At this meeting it received the signature of Archbishops Corrigan of New York, Williams of Boston, Elder of Cincinnati, Ryan of Philadelphia, Ireland of St. Paul, Riordan of San Francisco, Feehan of Chicago and Chapelle, then of Santa Fe, now of New Orleans. Archbishops Hennessy of Dubuque, Gross of Portland, Or., and Katzer of Milwaukee did not attend the meeting, but appended their signatures afterward. Archbishop Kain was in Rome at the time, and of course did not have an opportunity to sign the petition until after his return.

There is a certain formula required in the canonization of a saint of the Catholic church. A certain number of miracles must have been performed through the instrumentality of the canonized person. The matter is passed upon by the propaganda after it is presented to that body by the ruling pontiff. It is not expected that any obstacle will be thrown in the way of the canonization of Margaret Mary, as a number of miracles are attributed to the devotions of the League of the Sacred Heart.—St. Louis Republic.

Mgr. Conaty's New Rectory.

Mgr. Conaty, rector of the Catholic university, has obtained the consent of the trustees to build a separate residence for the accommodation of the head of the university. The present home of the rector is the Theological hall, which is directly under the control of the Sulpician fathers. It is difficult to maintain the seclusion and discipline required by these priests in the houses under their charge in the existing circumstances in the university, says The Catholic Review. The rector, while living in the building set apart for the divinity students, is compelled to open it constantly to visitors, whom he is sometimes obliged to entertain. This breaks upon the quiet and seclusion required by the students, and the only solution is a separate residence for the rector. It is understood that Mgr. Conaty will himself raise the necessary amount.

A Historical Parish.

The oldest Catholic parish in all the vast region that lies between Lancaster, Pa., and St. Louis, is St. Patrick's at Carlisle, Pa. Few parishes have so interesting a history. It was founded by the Jesuits in 1779, and has numbered among its pastors the apostolic Pellentz, the learned Brosius; Gallitzin, who fled a princedom to become a priest, and De Barth, who fled a bishopric to remain a priest.—Boston Herald.

POPE LEO'S ROOMS.

Sacred Corners In the Vatican Seldom Seen by Inquisitive Visitors.

The rooms actually inhabited by Pope Leo in the Vatican are not numerous, and only the cardinals, his immediate surroundings and those who are granted a special audience are admitted. Access to them is reached from the Corte Damaso by the Scala Regia, opposite the celebrated Sistine chapel, which latter, although it actually forms part of the private apartments, is not difficult of access to the general public.

The furniture of all the anterooms is modern and very simple, being made up of red damask and velvet, with gold lace hangings. There is nothing in them specially to attract the eye or to remind us that we are invading the privacy of the pontiff, save the baldachini or canopies, which are made use of in processions and other functions, and which have similar upholstery. Under one of those the pope takes his solitary meals, for by the etiquette of the court he is not permitted to entertain even the nearest of his relatives or to eat otherwise than alone.

The private library, which overlooks the piazza of St. Peter, has three windows, but some years ago the present pope diminished its apparent size by means of a richly embroidered damask screen artistically disposed and lightly supported by elegant columns, which divides the room into two parts. The walls are furnished with bookcases of pearly whiteness, picked out in gold, with golden foliage, but the books which repose in these shelves as well as the numerous manuscripts are not visible, being for the most part carefully covered by green silk hangings. The screen only reaches as far as the top of the windows, and thus the upper part of the room is left open.

The division of the room which has two windows contains but few books, but on the side opposite the screen is a large console in the style of the seventeenth century, on which is placed a crucifix and two immense candelabra. The only ornaments of the library consist of busts of the popes—ten in number—among which Pius VII and Pius IX are conspicuous. It is here that on certain semiprivate occasions, as, for instance, his name day (Onomastico) in August, the pope receives the visits of the cardinals and of his private friends. —Chicago Inter Ocean.

FATHER DOUGHERTY'S PLAN.

How He Arranged to Cancel the Debt on St. Monica's Church.

When the Rev. James Dougherty became pastor of St. Monica's church in New York, about eight years ago, he found that the church owed about $180,000 and was without immediate prospect of paying the debt. The liability had been incurred in good faith, but the wealthy parishioners, of whom at one time there had been a large number, had nearly all moved away, and Father Dougherty hit upon a novel plan for ultimately canceling the obligation.

He induced a number of his parishioners to insure their lives for amounts ranging from $5,000 to $10,000 each, the beneficiary in each case being the church, which pays the premiums on the policies, collections for that purpose being made occasionally. The scheme was submitted to the archbishop before it was entered into, and it met with his full approval. None of those insured have yet died, but the policies are now worth a considerable sum, and of course sooner or later the debt will be paid off. Forty thousand dollars of the $180,000 has been paid in the ordinary way since Father Dougherty took charge of the church. A rectory, school and sisters' house have also been built. The parish extends from Seventy-second street to Eighty-sixth street and from Second avenue to the East river and contains about 10,000 Roman Catholics, nearly all of whom are poor. It is said that Father Dougherty's plan of paying church debts has been copied extensively in other cities.—New York Tribune.

St. Joan of Orleans.

The canonization of the Maid of Orleans is moving on to its accomplishment. Its pleading is shortly to take place at Rome. Joan's advocate, or, properly speaking, the advocatus Dei, who defends her cause, is Signor Minetti, and the advocatus diaboli will be Mgr. Lugari. The devil's advocate is, of course, "Der Geist der stets verneint." He has to deny, discuss and detract from the five healings and the 11 acts of grace which make up her positive record. But the advocatus Dei is well armed for the conflict. He has got together his proofs, which will establish that the maid possessed all the moral and theological virtues, and the records of 26 witnesses will be produced from parchment and page testifying to five great healings wrought by her intercession. The canonization is, therefore, assured, and the advocatus diaboli will, as it were, appear in white gloves on this occasion. It was not always so. At the canonization of St. Francois de Sales counsel for the devil pleaded that the saint had once cheated at cards. "But," said the archbishop of Aix, "even if he did so, was it not to make money for the poor?"—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Peter's Pence Funds.

The reported diminution in the contributions of the Catholic world to the Peter's pence funds, which formed the subject of a recent cablegram, has been previously commented upon by the press, and now, as before, a potent factor in the falling off of these contributions is said to be the dissatisfaction of many Frenchmen with Leo XIII for his persistent support of the existing French government. Possibly this may have something to do with the matter, but the real reason of the lessened receipts of the holy see, says The Catholic Review, is undoubtedly the hard times which have prevailed to a greater or lesser extent throughout the world of late years.

NEW ENGLAND FARMS

FOUR THOUSAND DESERTED AND GOING TO RUIN.

Left by the Owners to Careless Tenants—A Scheme to Populate Them With Needy and Deserving Persons from the Overplus of the Great Cities.

There are in New England 4,360 abandoned farms, the value of which has sunk to a minimum, and yearly the number of neglected acres, once fruitful and the homes of the best and most patriotic stock in America has known, is increasing to such an extent that a practicable and immediate applicable remedy is looked for.

Sixty years ago there was scarcely a vacant farm in all New England, and there were very few that were not cultivated by the owners. They were veritable homesteads, where one family had lived for generations, and where the head of the house was the sturdy, hard working man of integrity, common sense and uncommon shrewdness, who has been passing away for a half century, and is seldom seen except in literature and the drama. His successor is the tenant, with no sentiment to bind him to the land, and very often his absence means acres returning to their original condition, and houses and barns falling into decay. All through New England are farms wrested from the forest by the axe, which for generations have been gone over year after year with scythe, and where again the sound of the ax is heard as it fells the timber that neglect has allowed to grow.

Why are these farms vacant? There are in New England 235,000 acres of land, once under a high state of cultivation, that have been strangers to the plowshare for years. Why are they abandoned? This question has been asked by railway managers who look for business in the transportation of farm products and by men interested in the science of social economies, with a view to philanthropy, to which some profit may incidentally be attached.

"Farming does not pay," the son of the sturdy New England farmer tells us. If it does pay at all, it pays best on the rich stoneless prairies of the West, many who have gone there tell us. Thousands born and reared on New England farms have taken Horace Greeley's advice and gone West. They left no one behind interested in the farm. Father and mother have finished their work, and the children have left the old homestead to strangers; or worse, to the elements. Tenants interested only in the crops have taken their places, very often a care-taker to look after the buildings is left, and often there is an abandonment, and sumac and fern thrive unmolested where once valuable grain was planted, raised and harvested.

The urban population has increased, while the rural has decreased. The daughters of the New England farmers have preferred to marry city men, the sons have gravitated to the centres of population, and the old farms have been abandoned. They have become nearly worthless, but none wants them. The selling prices of land have been cut in two, three and four times. The falling off in the rural population has meant fewer to support, the hamlets and cross road settlements have suffered, the miller, the storekeeper and the blacksmith have been, through necessity, carried by the human tide to the city.

The beginning of an effort to change the present conditions has been inaugurated by a realty company, and its promoters lay great stress on the philanthropic side of their venture.

"Is it not strange," said the president of the company, "that there should be 92,000 unemployed men in New York City and tens of thousands of acres of fertile land within a few hours' journey, where honest, healthful employment can be had that will give a happy, comfortable living, with a market for the products of labor within easy reach? These abandoned acres should be for these men. Many of them, with a little money, who are actually struggling and suffering here, could be really happy and comparatively independent on a little farm right at our door, in Connecticut, or a little beyond in one of the other New England States.

"Then, with the country districted off, a practiced farmer could look after the farms, give instructions as to crops, fertilizing, harvesting and marketing. The doing of this very thing may be the beginning of a reaction that will draw people from the congested cities to rural life and pursuits, build up farming communities and so re-establish villages and thus bring about the increased prosperity that we all wish for and talk so much about. If people once get the idea that this sort of a thing is going to happen and realize that they will be happier and more independent on the broad acres than in the narrow tenements, there will be a rush for the country, and the New England farms will again blossom and bloom with vegetables, grain and fruit!"—New York Herald.

Mrs. Ingersoll's Hour for a Nap.

This story was told an exchange by an intimate of the Ingersoll family. Very recently Mrs. Ingersoll spent an evening with a friend. At about 8 p. m. she began to give evidences of fatigue and yawned repeatedly and had the greatest difficulty in preventing herself from falling into a doze. Arousing herself with an effort she finally said: "You really must excuse me, but you know, dear, that I have accompanied the Colonel on a recent lecture tour, and have in consequence got into the habit of falling asleep at about 8 o'clock every evening." Which goes to show that no man can be an oratorical hero to his wife.

JOHN WESLEY'S HOUSE.

Now a Methodist Museum With a Mission in London.

The Methodists had a great time over in London the other day when John Wesley's old house, in City road, was dedicated as a museum of Methodism. There isn't a Methodist in America or anywhere else who dosen't regard Wesley's mission with reverence, and it is but fitting that the old house adjoining the birthplace of the Methodist Church, in which the founder of that sect lived and died, should be rescued from decay and preserved in as near its original state as possible.

The work of restoration has already been accomplished. The building was found to be in a state of dilapidation, but every vestige of decay has been removed. Preparations are being made for the housing of mission workers for the building will not be merely a museum. A part of it will be devoted to practical church work.

The first floor, however, will be preserved intact, with all the precious relics. It is a plain brick building, finished in October, 1779. The interest centres mainly on the three rooms of the first floor. The front room, with its windows facing City road, was the sitting room of the preachers who lived with Mr. Wesley, while the second was his study and bedroom as well, the room in which he died. The study opens into a small room of triangular shape, to the rear of the house. This was the closet where the apostle of Methodism was wont to pray, the most hallowed spot of all.

In the front room stands Wesley's bookcase, a well made and elegant piece of furniture, with doors glazed in a trellis kind of pattern. Also John Wesley's chair, occupied by the president of each London Wesleyan Conference since the founder's death. And here also is John Wesley's antique side table, made of oak, inlaid with walnut. On the landing is the famous clock, keeping as good time to-day as when it started the great evangelist on his ceaseless journeys, or called to early morning service at 5 o'clock.

In the next room, the bedroom and study combined, is the bureau with its cunning secret drawers where Wesley kept his private papers. On the inside of the doors are thirty-two portraits of early Methodist preachers and other ministers—placed there, it is said, by Wesley's own hand. In this bureau is the celebrated teapot of enormous size from which in the early hours of the Sabbath morning Wesley would pour out the tea while he discussed matters of moment with those other early leaders of the Methodist Church.

The old teapot is one of the most interesting relics to be enshrined in the museum. Wesley was a great tea drinker, and he was very fond of this old pot which was presented to him by Wedgwood, the famous potter of Staffordshire. An enthusiastic American tourist recently offered $10,000 for the old teapot, despite the fact that it is cracked and minus a part of its spout. Greatly in need of money as the London Methodists may be the offer was promptly refused.

The Ceylon Elephant at Work.

The elephant has his part to play, also, as a labor saving machine. Numbers of elephants are employed in rolling the heavy pieces of timber, cut in the forests, into a place of storage, and very interesting it is to see the huge brute drop down upon his knees in order to wrap his trunk more firmly about a heavy log then slowly rise and solemnly follow the coolie, who is to show him where he is to deposit his burden. And so cunning does he become that when the noonday bell rings for the coolies' dinner hour, the elephant recognizes the signal, and not one stroke more work can he be induced to do until his appetite has also been satisfied. This seems to border on the exaggerated, but no one who has seen a working elephant at his tasks will marvel at any additional signs of intelligence the creature may exhibit. The elephant we are familiar with in the menageries, all dwarfed and hampered by captivity and confinement, can give very little idea of the same animal in his native country, where he can use his intellectual powers to some useful purpose.—Outing.

A Generous Wish.

As Sir Walter Scott was riding with a friend near Abbottsford he came to a field gate, which an Irish beggar, who happened to be near, opened for him. Sir Walter was desirous of rewarding him by the present of sixpence, but found he had not so small a coin in his purse. "Here, my good fellow," said he, "here is a shilling for you, but, mind, you owe me sixpense." "God bless your Honor," exclaimed the Irishman, "may your Honor live till I pay you."

After the Battle.

He—"Then I go—and forever."

She—"Very well! But don't call tomorrow evening, for I sha'n't be in."—Life.

SPORTS

JUNIOR GIRLS WON.

DEFEATED THE THIRD CLASS TEAM AT BASKET BALL.

The Game was Played in the Whittier Building Yesterday—The Junior Class Won by a Score of 12 to 8—The Teams.

After many delays, the girls of the Junior and Third classes at the Plainfield High School again met at basket ball. The match was played in the Whittier building yesterday afternoon.

Basket ball is a popular sport among the girls of Plainfield. That was evidenced by the crowd that thronged to the Whittier building for the game. Tickets were required for visitors of the sterner sex and quite a group of favored ones gathered to witness the match.

The Juniors won. It will be remembered that they were also victorious at the first game between the two classes by the small margin of one point. Yesterday they led throughout the game and won out by a comfortable margin.

Exactly what was the matter with the players from the Third Class it is difficult to say. Both sides opened the game vigorously. This time the game was played with the division lines after the fashion used by the Third Class. It was supposed that that class would consequently have an advantage over their opponents. At the start neither side had any decided advantage. The girls played with a snap and vigor that was decidedly interesting to the onlookers, although rather exhausting to the participants.

The first half of fifteen minutes ended with the score 6 to 4 in favor of the Juniors. Then the Third Class girls seemed to lose heart. They did not show the excellent team play of the first half but nevertheless the game continued an exciting one.

The Juniors scored three goals and then their fair opponents braced up. Two goals were thrown by Miss Beatrice Miner and the Third Class team began to show its former spirit.

Hard luck was with the Third Class girls. Time after time the ball rolled about the edge of their opponents' goal but failed to enter, while the audience fairly shrieked in their excitement. The call of time found the Juniors in the lead by a score of 12 to 8.

The teams were composed of the following:

JUNIOR CLASS.		THIRD CLASS.
S. Kroen	right forward	B. Miner
M. Stirling	left forward	P. Denton
V. Fraser	centre	E. Moore
E. Randolph	right guard	R. Maxson
A. Conant	left guard	A. Morgan

Goals from the field, M. Stirling, 6, B. Miner, 3. P. Degton, 3. Referee, Charles Burdette Morse. Umpires, Walter L. Long and George Proctor Smith. Timekeeper, H. M. Maxson. Scorer, Miss Lidia Lozeaux.

Y. M. C. A. ATHLETIC WORK.

Plans for the Summer Season Formulated Last Night.

Plans looking toward the advancement of the different branches of outdoor athletics were formulated at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. building last night.

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Cyclers was first held. The attendance was very large. T. A. Cuming was made chairman.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Captain, Thomas A. Cuming; first lieutenant, Walter L. Long; second lieutenant, Edgar Sheppard; bugler, Homer Smith; color bearer, S. Clinton Crane; sergeants, F. O. Bristol and Sydney T. Perrin; secretary and treasurer, Max Moralier.

A meeting of the baseball enthusiasts was held. Sydney T. Perrin was elected captain and Carman Sutphen sub captain.

Plans for cross country runs were discussed. J. H. Green was chosen captain to look after this feature of athletic work. S. C. Crane was made his assistant.

There was talk of forming a triangular athletic league with the Rahway and Summit associations. If the interest continues to grow, medals will be offered in the different events.

HORSEMEN ORGANIZE.

"The Central New Jersey Driving Association" is the Title.

The horse owners of Union, Middlesex, Somerset and Hunterdon counties have organized "The Central New Jersey Driving Association" to advance their interests. The meeting at which the organization was perfected was held at Bound Brook Tuesday evening, and was largely attended by the representative horse owners of the counties named.

The following officers have been elected: William A. Coddington, president; W. F. Williams, secretary, and Edward Radel, of New Brunswick, treasurer. Later on four vice-presidents, one from each county, will be appointed.

During the coming summer the association purposes to give a two days' meet in each county. A fund amounting to $5,000 has been guaranteed by the different counties to insure the success of the proposed meets.

CLEAR OF ALL DEBTS.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Annual Meeting Held Last Night—The Society is on the Roll of Honor Among the New Jersey Churches.

A state of affairs that few churches can boast of was reported at the annual meeting of the Congregational church held last evening. There was an absolute freedom from any kind of debt, mortgage, note or otherwise, while a substantial balance remained in the treasury.

The meeting was held in the church parlors and was well attended. The annual church meeting was first held It was called to order by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, who acted as moderator. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the clerk, George E. Fuller, and approved.

The report of the Sunday-school for the year was made by the superintendent, Joseph A Robinson. It showed an increased attendance of 6 per cent for the year. The collections had been similarly increased; $160 were given to missions. Mr. Robinson explained that the increase in attendance made a need for more teachers.

Rev. Mr Goodrich read a report of the church work for the year. The benevolences had amounted to nearly $1,500. He stated that th church had been placed on the roll of honor at the New Jersey Conference, now in session at Montclair, for the large amount given per member.

The election was then held. George E Fuller was chosen clerk and A. J. Clarkson and L B. Morgan deacons. The three members of the official board elected were Rev. M E. Dwight, J. A. Robinson and H. C Nomer.

L B. Morgan offered a resolution, which was afterwards carried, that a vote of thanks be given A. J. Clarkson for caring for the communion service the whole life of the church.

The same collections for benevolent purposes as last year were decided on with one addition, the Church Building Society. The time for the taking of the collections was left to the official board.

The meeting of the society of the Congregational church was next held. John M. Whiton was made chairman of the meeting. The report of the treasurer showed that every bill due had been paid and that the church was absolutely free from debt and that a balance of $107.72 remained in the treasury at present.

The election of trustees was held and the following were elected: Geo. W. Rockfellow, Joseph E. Morse, Louis I. VanAlstyne, Morris C. VanArsdale, John E. Stewart, Elsworth Dwight and J A. Powlison. George E. Fuller was chosen clerk. Stacy Raynolds was elected auditor.

The board of trustees held a meeting at the close of the other meetings and organized for the year. George W. Rockfellow was chosen president and Joseph E Morse, secretary.

Volunteer Bill Will Be Passed and Signed This Afternoon—American Riots in Madrid—Minister Woodford's Party Attacked—Senor Polo Talks—Havana Harbor Blockaded—Patriotic Feeling Running High All Over the Country.

SPECIALS TO THE DAILY PRESS.

Washington, April 22.—Much excitement prevails over the report from Key West that Captain Sampson's fleet has engaged the Spanish Cruiser Alfonso XIII and sunk it.

The Alfonso is the largest cruiser in the Spanish navy. It has a displacement of 3,900 tons. For some time past it has been lying in Havana harbor in a disabled condition, owing to some derangement of its machinery.

The Volunteer Army Bill has been reported favorably by the committees in both the House and Senate. It is probable that the bill will be passed and signed by the President this afternoon. A call for 80,000 volunteers will at once be issued upon the signing of the bill. The representatives of the powers in Washington have been notified officially of the blockade of Havana by Capt. Sampson's fleet.

First Prize.

Key West, April 22.—The first prize taken in the war was the capture of the Spanish merchantman Buenaventura by the gunboat Nashville, seventeen miles southwest of Key West at 7:05 o'clock this morning. The vessel was brought here by a prize crew.

The blockade of Havana harbor begins at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The Buenaventura left the Canary Islands April 13th, bound for Havana. She is a freighter of 1,700 tons burden, and carried a cargo of lumber and supplies.

She was intercepted by the fleet this morning while on her way from the coast of Texas. The Nashville fired one six pound shot and the Spaniad at once hauled down its colors and surrendered. No attempt was made to offer resistance to the Nashville.

The Nashville is commanded by Captain Maynard, who has the title of commander.

Minister Woodford's Party Attacked.

Paris, France, April 22.—The American Ambassador, Mr. Woodford, left Madrid early this morning bound for this city. As the train had nearly reached the French frontier it was attacked and halted by a detachment of Spanish police.

They attempted to arrest Woodford's private secretary who, they claimed, was a Spanish citizen. Ambassador Woodford vehemently protested against snch an action and the Spanish authorities finally desisted. The train then continued on its way.

When the train reached Valladolid on the Spanish side of the frontier a mob surrounded the train. Tney broke the windows of the car in which Minister Woodford and his suite were riding.

Shouts and oaths filled the air. The mob cried out to kill the Americans. The Civil Guard hurried to the scene and dispersed the mob with difficulty. The Americans were unharmed by the attack, although the windows and some of the woodwork of the cars was broken.

Spanish Intercepted Ultimatum.

Biarritz, France, April 22.—With the passing of Ambassador Woodford's train through this city, which is located on the French frontier, important facts have leaked out that have heretofore been kept silent by the Spanish press censors.

The Spanish authorities at Madrid took a copy of the ultimatum sent to Woodford by Secretary of State Sherman as it was received in the cable office at Madrid.

The ultimatum was delayed in the the office until the copy could be sent to Senor Sagasta. It was then discussed by the Spanish Ministry. The message was afterwards sent to Minister Woodford after the Ministry had decided not to receive it.

To Blockade Havana.

Washington, April 22.—Captain Sampson's fleet sailed from Key West at 5:45 o'clock this morning to blockade Havana harbor. The fleet included battleships Iowa and Indiana; cruisers New York and Cincinnati; gunboats Nashville, Castine, Newport and Machias; monitor Amphitrite; torpedo boats Erickson, Foote and Windslow, and the torpedo boat destroyer Mayflower.

Back From Duty.

Frank Fulton, apothecary of the New Jersey Naval Reserves, who was ordered to report for duty at Hoboken, some days ago, returned to this city yesterday. The work assigned to the reeerves was that of taking the monitor Montauk to Philadelphia. There was some delay, however, in preparing the monitor to sail, and some o the men have returned home, awaiting orders. Dr. P. S. Simpson, of this city, is still on duty on board the monitor.

To Intercept the Paris

London, April 22.—It is reported that the Spanish fleet has left Cadiz and in now waiting in the English channel in an endeavor to capture the American Liner Paris.

The Paris sailed from Liverpool this morning, according to hurried orders received from America.

Riots in Madrid.

Madrid, April 22.—Serious anti-American riots occured in this city last evening. For a time the local authorities were helpless. Some property was destroyed but no one was injured.

The principal rioting occurred in front of the New York Equitable Life Assurance building on Alcama street. A huge American eagle was torn off the front of the building and trampled under foot by the mob.

Another figure of Liberty was treated in a similar manner. The houses of Americans on Alca street were attacked by the rioters. No one was hurt. The residence of Dr. Tinker, an American dentist, who just departed from Madrid, suffered the worst. The mob tore the American shield off the front of the house.

The interior of the house was completely wrecked and its contents strewn about the streets.

Civil Governor Aquilera ordered the people to dispense. His orders were finally carried into effect at midnight after five hours of rioting.

The Holland Accepted.

New York, April 22.—At a meeting of the Naval Auxiliary Board, held in this city this morning, it was decided that the Government should purchase the sub-marine torpedo boat, "Holland." The price to be paid for the Holland has not been made public. It is rumored that the United States will pay $175,000 for the craft.

Senor Polo Talks.

Niagara Falls, Ontario, April 22.—The Spanish Minister, Senor Polo, has arrived here. He characterized the conduct of the United States as iniquitous. He said they had no reason to rob Spain of the island of Cuba.

When Senator Polo arrives in Toronto today the City Council will make no public demonstration. He will be received very quietly.

WITH THE RESERVES.

Jersey Tars Getting Some Actual Service on the Montauk.

League Island, April 22.—Two more men were added to the contingent on the monitor Montauk yesterday. Dr. M. S. Simpson and Frank Fulton, of Plainfield, surgeon and apothecary, respectively, of the Battalion of the East, arrived at the navy yard last night. The twenty-seven men who are now on the monitor will commence to mess on board today. They are now taking their meals on the receiving ship Richmond. The quarters in the monitor have been about put into condition, but provisions have not arrived.

TWO REGIMENTS WILL BE WANTED.

Jersey's Probable Quota for the Volunteer Army.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 22.—Adjutant-General Stryker says that in all probability two regiments of the National Guard will be in camp at Sea Girt by Sunday. Major-General Plume reached here from Washington yesterday afternoon, and brought unofficial but reliable information that the Government's first demand on New Jersey will be for only two regiments. Orders or instructions to that effect are expected by the Adjutant-General today.

A meeting of the State Military Board has been called for this morning, in anticipation of the receipt of orders. Generals Plume, Stryker, Donnelly and Wanser will attend the meeting, and afterward will confer with the Governor, who will reach here on an early train.

It is believed that the orders will be for almost immediate service, and in that case two regiments of three battalions each will be sent to Sea Girt at once, to be mustered into the Government service.

It has been decided that the camp-ground at Sea Girt shall be the recruiting station of the State, and there volunteers will receive instructions and equipments.

Gen. Plume learned nothing definite upon which to make a statement as to when the New Jersey troops will be ordered to move, but the Adjutant General has directed the preparation of orders similar to those by which the National Guard was called out at the time of the Civil War.

The first regiment sent to the front will probably be known as the New Jersey National Guard Volunteers, and the regiments sent later will be known as the New Jersey Volunteers. The latter will consist principally of individuals and organizations which have already volunteered their services, unless a largely increased force is needed.

MARTIAL TREAD.

Battalion Drill of the Cadet Companies of Local Schools.

The martial tread, the natty uniforms, the glittering small-arms, al united to give the Crescent Rink yesterday afternoon a very warlike appearance. It was not an assembling of troops to fight the Spaniards, however, but only the battalion drill of the cadet companies of the Plainfield High School and Leal's School.

It was the second attempt to unite the two cadet corps as a battalion and proved very successful. Captain George F. Edwards, who is commandant of both corps, acted as major. His staff consisted of First Lieutenant A. W. Lederer, adjutant; First Sergeant Joseph W. DeForeest, sergeant major.

There were eighty cadets in line. They were divided into four companies, two from the High School and two from Leal's School. The High School companies, right and right centre, were commanded respectively by Captain Henry W. Brower and Second Lieutenant William A. DeLong, Jr. The companies from the other cadet corps, the left and left centre companies, were commanded by First Lieutenant Henry Leal and Second Lieutenant Orville T. Waring, respectively.

Quite a number of visitors, among whom were many of the fair sex, witnessed the manœuvres, which were well given.

Wants Chaplain Appointment.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 22.—Representative Fowler has tried in vain to secure an appointment as chaplain in the army for a colored minister of Rahway.

Co. E. Awaiting the First Call.

Elizabeth, April 22.—The members of Company E, Third Regiment, N. G., N. J., voted last night to volunteer as a body upon the first call by President McKinley. Their officers, Capt. D. F. Collins and Lieuts. Tries and McConnell, will offer their services with the company.

Soldiers Going South.

Early this morning at 12:15 and again at 12:30 two trains passed through Plainfield going south. The trains composed of many cars were filled with soldiers on their way to Chickamauga to join the other soldiers who were ordered there for fortification.

From Pens to Guns.

Mayor S. D. Drake, of Lincoln, says that he is going to offer the United States government a company of editors from New Jersey. It is his idea that they should stop fighting with the pen and take up the sword. The doughty mayor plans to lead this aggregation of talent against the Spaniards.

JUST WENT ON A VISIT.

Stanley G. Fielding Had No Intention of Running Away From School.

Stanley G. Fielding, the young student who disappeared from the New Jersey Military Academy Sunday afternoon, has now returned to the Academy. Dr. Warde heard from the father of the lad in Chicago yesterday saying that Stanley was at Elizabeth and had telegraphed home. Young Fielding had already written to Dr. Warde but the letter did not arrive until after the doctor's return.

Fielding did not exactly run away but after having trouble with one of the older students, he rode his wheel to Elizabeth where he remained with friends in that city until Dr. Warde went after him yesterday afternoon.

Taken Ill at the Concert.

Unfortunately, Mr. Strickiett, the tenor soloist, who appeared at the Y. M. C. A. concert last evening, was taken ill during the evening. Although he took every part assigned him, it was with difficulty that he did so. Dr. Jenkins was called to treat Strickiett and succeeded in pacifying his troubles sufficiently for him to continue.

AT AN EDITOR'S BIER.

FUNERAL OF ERNEST O. CHAMBERLAIN HELD YESTERDAY.

The Services Held at His Late Home Where Dr. Richards, of This City, Spoke Eulogistic Words—Hymns Sung.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Edgewater, April 22.—Very many personal and business friends attended the funeral of Ernest O. Chamberlain, the well-known newspaper man, at his beautiful home, "Rock Ledge," Edgewater-on-the-Pallisades, N. J., yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Chamberlain's gentle qualities and sterling character had brought together those who mourned his untimely death and appreciated in the fullest sense the sorrow of Mrs. Chamberlain and Mr. Chamberlain's relatives. The scenes and incidents of Mr. Chamberlain's thirty-eight years of life had been varied, and at the end his friends were at his home to hear the utterances of those who were keenly fond of him. Many beautiful floral tokens had been sent and were close to the casket.

Rev. James A. McCleary, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Mediator, at Edgewater, and Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of Plainfield, officiated. Mr. Chamberlain was a member of Dr. Richards' congregation. A quartette of Mr. Chamberlain's friends Mrs. Frank S. Clawson, Miss Julia J. Ketcham, Elmer E. Runyon and Charles L. Lewis, of Plain field, sang at intervals "Some Time We'll Understand," "Hymn of the Homeland," and "The Christian's Good Night."

Mr. McCleary and Dr. Richards, in short addresses, referred tenderly and justly to Mr. Chamberlain's high character as a man and husband and friend. The burial was in the cemetery at Edgewater.

The pall-bearers were: George W. Blake, Frederick A. Duneka, William O. Inglis, Robert E. A. Dorr, Franklin Files, Ralph Pillsbury, Chester S. Lord and Edward G. Riggs.

Presidents of societies are requested, so far as possible, to come to the meeting prepared to state whether or not their societies would favor the organization of such a fresh-air home. Following the above consideration and discussion, an important executive meeting of the Local Union will be held at the same place.

PATRIOTISM IN MUSIC

A DEMONSTRATIVE AUDIENCE IN THE Y. M. C. A. HALL.

Old Glory Displayed and "The Star Spangled Banner" Sang With Exhilarating Effect by the Whole Audience.

The concert given in the Y M. C A. building last evening for the benefit of the building fund of the association was attended by a thoroughly musical audience. The audience was also a patriotic one, and at the close a demonstration of more than passing notice was witnessed. The singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "My Country 'Tis of Thee," as suggested by W. A. DeLong, of Sandford avenue, had a great effect. The last number on the programme was omitted and the patriotic hymns were rendered in its place by the Lotus Glee Club and the audience. The singing brought a "Hip, Hip, Hurrah for Old Glory," from H. O. Newman. The others present quickly caught on. Men waved their hats in the air and women used their handkerchiefs. Everyone was stirred by the demonstration. During the singing of the hymns the American flag was displayed from the platform with stirring effect.

The concert was one of the best ever given in Plainfield, and the artists deserve great credit. Every number on the programme received an encore. No doubt, the hit of the evening was made by the Lotus Glee Club, composed of G. Morgan Stricklett, first tenor; George Leon Moore, second tenor; Charles L. Lewis, first bass; Miles B. Bracewell, second bass, with Frank J. Smith, accompanist. Their work was simply superb. The tenor solo by Mr. Strickiett, and the bass solo by Mr. Bracewell, fairly won the audience. Both have voices of the richest quality and strength. The appearance of Mrs. Richard C. Percy, soprano, was also an unqualified success. She has a voice of much sweetness and great control. The duet rendered by her and Mr. Moore, tenor, was appreciated.

The appearance of the piano quartette, consisting of Miss Carolyn Dewey, Miss Mabel Maxson, Miss Clyde Burnett and Miss Florence Cahoone, who were in charge of Miss S. A. Palmer, won merited applause from the audience. They appeared three times and their playing was marked by the highest art of execution.

Phillip Egner, violoncellist, won the audience completely by his playing which was of the highest order. The expresion and touch in execution was an ideal pleasure to all. Frank J. Smith, the accompanist, was perfect in his work which added greatly to the rendition of each number presented. It is seldom that a Plainfield audience has the opportunity of attending a concert given by such artists and the patronage accorded is richly deserving the Y. M. C. A. for whose benefit it was given.

DOG POISONER ABROAD.

Westfield Canine Fanciers are Very Wroth.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 22.—Westfield has a dog-poisoner, and the owners of valuable canines in the town are vowing vengeance if his identity should become known. During the past week many dogs have been found dead about the streets or on the premises of their owners, and the evidence all points to the supposition that the animals have been poisoned. A valuable St. Bernard dog, owned by William J. Bogert, of Central avenue, was one of the first victims, and a prize dog belonging to Robert A. Fairbairn, of Kimball avenue, was also poisoned. Several of the pets of Cyrus P Wilcox, a dog trainer, have also been suffering from the effects of poison. Much indignation is felt at the unwarranted destruction of the animals, and the owners of dogs in the village are guarding their canine pets carefully.

GREAT INTEREST IN MILL OWNERS' CLAIMS

Prominent Witnesses Sworn in Somerset Court.

SPORTSMEN UP IN ARMS.

GREEN BROOK NO LONGER FURNISHES GOOD FISHING.

Where Once Scotch Plains Fishermen Had to Wear Hip Boots to Get About They Now Scarcely Get Their Feet Wet—A Two Acre Pond That Was Dried Up—E. M. French Testified That Water Power Could No Longer Be Depended Upon—The Results Laid to Mountain Water Company.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 22.—Not since the murder trials were in progress at the Somerst county court here has there been such interest displayed in the evidence produced in any of the court cases. The suit brought against the Mountain Park Water Company by the mill owners along Green brook for diverting their supply of water is the subject of all this general interest.

The case was continued yesterday and the plaintiffs produced some ten witnesses all of whom had something to say regarding the lessening of the amount of water these days in Green brook.

Chief Thad. O. Doane, of the Plainfield Fire Department, was one of the principal witnesses placed on the stand yesterday. He has been in the Plainfield department since 1868. He told how the engines used to draw their supply of water from the brook, but that of late years that source had failed them. The wells, too, no longer supplied the amount of water they did formerly.

Elston M. French, a prominent citizen of North Plainfield, who has been connected with French Brothers mill for eleven years, told how since 1891 the supply of water in the brook had greatly decreased. It could not be depended on anymore he said in dry spells.

The disgruntled sportsmen from Scotch Plains, Constable Robert Walpole, John Robinson and John Reden, came to complain how their sport along Green brook had been practically ruined by the decrease of water. They were all men of over sixty five years and had lived in that neighborhood most of their lives. All three were life long disciples of Isaac Walton and had hunted and fished over the upper part of Washington Valley for many years.

They testified that while they used to have to wear hip boots to get about, it was now almost impossible to get their feet wet. They told of a once famous "frog pond" that had been two acres in extent and had now dried up completely. The fishing in that section was completely ruined, they said, on account of the lack of water.

Charles Drake, who lived on the banks of the brook for forty one years, testified that while twenty years ago there had been plenty of water, there was very little of it now.

John H. Tier, Jr., of Plainfield, told how he had been in the ice business for many years and how the water had de reased to the injury of his business.

The trial is being continued today. It is said that there are nearly a hundred witnesses to be examined in the case. The case will be one of the longest on record in Somerset county.

A PATRIOTIC GERMAN.

Led by L. G. Timpson in Westfield Clubhouse Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 22.—A delightful society event took place at the Westfield Clubhouse last night in the form of a German.

The affair was given under the auspices of a number of the young society people of the place, and proved most successful.

About forty five couples were present. Mrs. Allen Worth, of Westfield, and Louis G. Timpson, of Plainfield, leading in the German.

The affair was given a decidedly patriotic turn by the selection of dances suited to the present crisis. The musicians awakened enthusiasm by playing "The Star Spangled Banner" and other American airs, and when "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" was struck up all present joined in and the words were sung with a gusto. The music was furnished by Lander's famous orchestra, of New York.

After the prayer meeting service in Trinity Reformed church Wednesday evening an election for deacon, to fill the unexpired term of F S. Cutter, resigned, resulted in the unanimous election of Theo R. VanZandt, the flour merchant, 304 Park avenue.

WAR IS ON SAYS SPAIN

Our Ultimatum Constituted Such a Declaration.

ITS FLEET HAS STARTED

A Semi Official Note Makes Such Announcement—No Reply to Be Made—Says Expiration of Time Limit Will Be Awaited Before Opening Hostilities—Spanish Authorities Have Placed Their Possessions in a State of Defense and Their Fleet is Already On Its Way to Meet That of the United States.

Madrid, April 22.—A semi-official note issued yesterday afternoon says the Spanish Government considers the ultimatum of the United States constitutes a declaration of war.

The semi-official note adds that the fleet is already on its way to meet the fleet of the United States.

The language of the note is as follows:

"The Spanish Government, having received the ultimatum of the President of the United States, considers that the document constitutes a declaration of war against Spain, and that the proper form to be adopted is not to make any further reply, but to wait the expiration of the time mentioned in the ultimatum before opening hostilities.

"In the meantime, the Spanish authorities have placed their possessions in a state of defense, and their fleet is already on its way to meet that of the United States."

SENT WOODFORD HOME.

The American Minister Dismissed Before He Could Deliver the Ultimatum.

Madrid, April 22.—The ultimatim of the United States was received early yesterday morning, in English. The Spanish Government immediately broke off diplomatic relations with the United States, notifying the United States Minister to this effect before he was able to present any note.

Gen. Woodford left Madrid yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by his acting secretary and two servants.

The news of the rupture was received calmly. There was no excitement apparent anywhere.

The newspapers print highly-colored accounts of how Gen. Woodford was handed his passports. But the circumstances in the case were as cabled to the Associated Press. The Spanish Government, having received the text from its own sources, did not wait for the United States Minister to present the ultimatum, but sent him his passoprts.

Hostilities May Begin Now.

It is not expected that there will be any formal declaration of war, as Spain's action is considered a virtual declaration of war, and hostilities may begin immediately.

Both natons, however, may make to their own people, and to all neutrals, what is termed "the notification of war."

The Liberal say: "The Government will make no reply whatever to the ultimatum."

Continuing, the Liberal points out the advantages which Spain may derive from the use of privateers, in which connection, however, nothing has yet been officially decided.

TEXT OF ULTIMATUM.

To-Morrow Noon is the Time Set for Spain to Quit Cuba.

Washington, April 22.—The following statement of the text of the ultimatum to Spain was issued by the State Department yesterday.

On Wednesday, April 20, 1898, about 11 o'clock A. M., the Department of State served notice of the purposes of this Government by delivering to Minister Polo a copy of an instruction to Minister Woodford, and also a copy of the resolutions passed by the Congress of the United States on the 19th instant. After the receipt of this notice the Spanish Minister forwarded to the State Department a request for his passports, which were furnished to him on Wednesday afternoon. Copy of the instruction to Minister Woodford is herewith appended.

"April 20, 1898.

"Woodford, Minister, Madrid:

"You have been furnished with the text of a join resolution voted by the Congress of the United States on the 19th instant. Approved to-day in relation to the pacification of the island of Cuba. In obedience to that act, the President directs you to immediately communicate to the Government of Spain said resolution, with the formal demand of the Government of the United States that the Government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters. In taking this step the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said island except for the pacification thereof, and asserts its determination when that is accomplished to leave the government and control of the island to its people under such free and independent government as they may establish.

"If by the hour of noon on Saturday next, the 23d day of April, instant, there be not communicated to this Government by that of Spain a full and satisfactory response to this demand and resolution whereby the ends of peace shall be assured, the President will proceed without further notice to use the power and authority enjoined and conferred upon him by the said joint resolution to such extent as may be necessary to carry the same into effect. SHERMAN."

The United States Minister at Madrid was at the same time instructed to make a like communication to the government of Spain. Yesterday morning the department received from General Woodford a telegram, copy of which is hereunto attached, showing that the Spanish Government had broken off that diplomatic relations are broken [illegible]. This course renders unnecessary any further diplomatic action on the part of the United States.

"Madrid, April 21, 1898.
(Received 9.02 A. M.)

"Sherman, Washington:

"Early this (Thursday) morning, immediately after receipt of your open telegram and before I had communicated same to Spanish Government, Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs notified me off between the two countries, and that all official communication between their respective representatives have ceased. I accordingly asked for safe passports. Turn legation over to British Embassy, and leave for Paris this afteroon. Have notified consuls.

"WOODFORD."

SAILING OF SPANISH FLEET.

Leads to Recommendation from Our War Board to Strike at Once.

Washington, April 22.—The sailing of the Spanish fleet from the Cape Verde Islands under sealed orders was somewhat of a surprise to the Navy Department, but the intimations from Spain for the last few days that the first naval battle would be fought where least expected somewhat prepared the officers for the move.

Spain has evidently been trying to create the impression that she was going to let the United States take Cuba without a struggle, but, nevertheless, has been rapidly pushing forward all her efforts to concentrate her fleet at St. Vincent, so as to be ready to move, fully provissioned and coaled. The Navy Department has been laboring under difficulties for lack of official news of the moving of the Spanish fleet, because the cables at the Spanish end have been in charge of Spanish officials, the censorship of all dispatches has been most rigid, and the Spanish Government has guarded with the greatest care and secrecy all the movements of her vessels.

But the administration has been aware for some time that Spain was going to try to outplay the United States in diplomacy and prevent the the presentation of the ultimatum, if possible, and in the meantime send her fleet to American waters before it could be officially known.

The United States, however, has not been caught napping, and to-day Spain is the aggressor, and when her fleet arrives at Porto Rico or Havana it will find the United States men-of-war waiting to greet them. At the Navy Department it is acknowledged that Spain is now prepared to give battle and to contest every point.

The announcement of the Government officials that the navy will not surrender but would rather have all its vessels sunk before surrendering, shows that there is no child's play or pleasure cruise anead of our fleet. Naval officers say that it is not going to be a short war.

The expectation is that the President will not wait for a declaration of war, or for any further action on the part of Spain, but will begin military and naval operations as expeditiously as military expediency admits of. War is actually on, but the opposing forces are not in a position to come into immediate collision. Until a gun has been fired it is said the President will not ask Congress to declare war.

Spanish Consul to Leave To-Morrow.

New York, April 22.—Spanish Consul-General Arturo Baldasano y Topete has engaged passage on the North German Lloyd stemer Werra, which sails from here at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning for Gibraltar. It is understood that the Spanish Consul-General has been preparing for his departure for more than a week. The Spanish Consul-General, when seen, refused to say anything concerning his departure. He simply said: "The press of the coutry has been so unfair to Spain that the dignity of my position makes it impossible for me to make any statement."

Volunteers Will Go to Chickamauga.

Washington, April 22.—Chickamauga Park will be the headquarters of the army, as it has been decided that it offers the best facilities for the mobilization of troops. The volunteer army will also be sent to Chickamauga, and from this point it will be possible to quickly transport the soldiers to the parts whence they will be sent directly to Cuba. All available troops to be massed at Chickamauga, and this order will have the effect of adding the Sixteenth Infantry to the cavalry and light artillery troops already concentrated there.

Canadians Apply for Spanish Service.

Toronto, Ont., April 22.—Chevalier Thompson, Spanish Consul in Toronto, has received twenty-three applications from qualified members of the Canadian Militia for service under the Spanish flag, while four medical men have volunteered their services.

On Minister Polo's arrival here to-morrow he will be met by a contingent of Spanish residents of the city and afterward a reception will be held in his honor. On Monday night he is expected to be a guest at the annual dinner of St. George's Society.

Spain Trying to Buy Coal.

St. Thomas, West Indies, April 22.—Spanish agents at Porto Rico are trying to purchase coal here and in the Windward Islands. Up to the present, they have been unsuccessful. There are 7,000 tons of coal afloat, consigned to St. Thomas. Mr. Van Horne, the United States Consul here, is reported to be negotiating for a part of it. Americans and Englishment at Porto Rico, who own about 1,000 head of cattle, fear their property will be confiscated because of the food famine.

French Aid for Spain.

Paris, France, April 22.—A national subscription has been opened here in behalf of the Spaish Government and is meeting with prompt and effective support. The sum of $50,000 has already been received in subscriptions at the Spanish embassy. The Temps is much exercised over the Anglo-American relations, and asks if Great Britain "is going to separate herself from the rest of Europe in order to contract an alliance with the United States?"

The Paris Sails for New York.

Southampton, Eng., April 22.—The American line steamship Paris sailed for New York to-day. Her regular sailing day would be to-morrow, but in view of the fact that she is chartered by the United States Government her departure has been accelerated.

To Be Brigadier-General.

Washington, April 22.—It is semi-officially stated that the President will commission Consul-General Lee, Colonel Fred Grant and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt brigadier-generals of volunteers.

BLANCO'S MANIFESTO.

Cubans Called Upon to Rally to the Defense of Spain.

Havana, April 22.—The Official Gazette published an extra last night containing the following manifesto:

The General Governor of the Island of Cuba to the Inhabitants of the Island of Cuba:

Without any reason or legality, without the least offense on our part, and at a time when they have received from us only proofs of friendship, the United States are forcing us into war, just at the moment when quietude began to settle over the country, when production was flourishing, commerce taking courage, and peace approaching, with the co-operation of all classes and all parties under the new institutions granted by the mother country.

Such a proceeding is without precedent in history. It evidently manifests the bogus politics of the Republic, demonstrating the tricky plans and purposes that have always been nourished against Spain's sovereignty in Cuba, which the enemy has been conspiring for nearly a century to destroy. Our foes now carry their hypocrisy and falsehood to the extent of demanding immediate peace in a war provoked and sustained by themselves. Her prudence and moderation have been of no avail to Spain, though she has carried her concessions to the extreme limit of toleration to avoid a rupture.

She still deplores this state of affairs, but she accepts it with all the energy inspired by a glorious national history and the pride of her people, a pride which will never yield to the stranger's haughtiness nor consent to see Spain's right and reason trampled upon by a nation of nobodies. If the United States want the Island of Cuba let them come and take it. Perhaps the hour is not far distant in which these Carthaginians of America will find their Zama in this Island of Cuba, which Spain discovered, peopled, and which will never be anything but Spanish.

It is our turn to have the honor of defending her, and we will know how to do it with decision and an effort many a time put forth. I count upon you for this with absolute certainty. I believe there is no sacrifice you are not prepared to make in defense of the national territory, whose integrity is sacred to all Spaniards of whatever origin. I am sure that every one in whose veins runs Spanish blood will respond readily to the call which in these solemn moments I address to all, and that all will group themselves around me to contribute as much as they can to repel a foreign invasion, without allowing dangers, sufferings, or privations to weaken the heart of courage.

To arms, then, fellow countrymen, to arms! There will be a place for all in the fight. Let all co-operate and contribute with the same firmness and enthusiasm to fight the eternal enemy of the Spanish name, emulating the exploits of our ancestors, who always exalted high their country's fame and honor.

To arms! Cry a thousand times "Viva Espana!" "Viva el Rey Alfonso XIII!" "Viva la Reina Regente!" "Viva Cuba, Always Spanish!" Your Governor-General.

RAMON BLANCO.

WOODFORD LEAVES MADRID.

Escorted to Railway Station by a Strong Force of Civil Guards.

Madrid, April 22.—The United States Minister, General Stewart L. Woodford, left Madrid at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, accompanied by his acting private secretary and two servants. G. H. Barclay, the British Charge d'Affairs, and the Secretary of the German Embassy, Count von Castell-Ruedenhausen, saw the United States Minister off. There was a great jingo demonstration at the station.

Gen. Woodford arrived at the station about a quarter of an hour in advance of the hour at which the train was scheduled to leave, but the train started half an hour late, and during the interval Gen. Woodford conversed with the representatives of the foreign press and a number of private friends. An immense crowd gathered at the station, composed of all classes. A strong force of police and civic guards maintained order, while amid the crowd moved a large number of private detectives.

When the train arrived Gen. Woodford and his associates got into a car immediately after shaking hands with the foreign diplomats and Mme. Sickles and pretty Miss Sickles, who both looked sorry at the departure of the secretary. When finally the train steamed slowly away there were loud cries of "Viva Espana!" and enthusiastic cheers. Otherwise the order was perfect. This was not meant as a kindly farewell, but was an explosion of long pent-up feelings of vengeance.

SPANISH FLEET WAITING.

The Warships Still at Cape Verde With Fires Banked.

St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, April 22.—The Spanish Cape Verde squadron is still here, waiting for orders, with fires banked. The ironclads are coaling from the transport San Francisco.

London, April 22.—The Evening News of this city publishes a dispatch yesterday afternoon from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, which says: "The Spanish fleet is still here, awaiting orders, with banked fires. Three additional ironclads are expected forthwith."

Senator Walthall Dead.

Washington, April 22.—Senator Edward C. Walthall of Mississippi died in his rooms in the Cairo yesterday at 5.36 P. M. His death was not unexpected, the end having been foreseen several days. Senator Walthall's illness dated from January last, when he contracted a cold. In February he suffered from an attack of bilious fever, and from this he never fully recovered. He was born in Richmond and was 67 years of age.

Mrs. McKinley in New York.

New York, April 22.—Mrs. William McKinley, the President's wife; her sister, Mrs. Marshall Barber, and her niece, Miss Mary Barber, arrived in this city yesterday afternoon to spend a week's vacation. While here they will stay at the Windsor Hotel, where a suite of rooms has been prepared for them.

$100,000 Unloading Sale.

May, June and Summer Delicate Silk Weaves, Sightly Colored Dress Goods, Refined Black Textiles, Dainty Wash Fabrics and Trimmings.

Prominent importers and manufacturers, through the backwardness of the season, were seriously weighted with Summer Gown Textures. New York houses stopped buying, but we took advantage of the situation and bought the choice lots at abnormally low prices.

We now offer the goods at prices below those of the importer and manufacturer, and many shades lower than we can buy again.

Note—These are not remnants or short lengths, but full pieces, with enormous choice of colorings for summer (1898) wear.

There must be a cause!

There must be a reason for our unique position in New Jersey. With countless competitors in the field, you would expect that the business of one or two of them would nearly approach in size the business of the largest, but the truth is that ours is many times larger than any other single one.

One of the causes is that we sell Pianos that we know are the seven best, in their different grades, that America produces—CHICKERINGS, GABLERS, HARDMANS, VOSES, STERLINGS, STANDARDS and HUNTINGTONS. These names are a cause unto themselves.

A TRAVELING MAN

Gives Some Valuable Hints Regarding the Care of the Health While Traveling.

Mr. R. W. Wincherdon, a commercial traveler from Birmingham, whose business keeps him almost constantly on the road, relates in the Sunday News the dangers to health resulting from constant change of residence and the way he overcame the usual injurious effects.

He says: One thing people traveling cannot very well avoid is the constant change in water and food; the stomach never has an opportunity to become accustomed to anything and in a few years or much sooner the average traveling man becomes a hopeless dyspeptic.

For several years I suffered more or less from indigestion, sour stomachs, headaches, distaste for food, often no appetite, gas on the stomach and the usual unpleasant effects of imperfect digestion.

Nearly every traveling man has his favorite remedy for different troubles and I tried all of them with indifferent results. Finally on the train between Pittsburg and Philadelphia one day, I overheard a conversation between two ladies, one of whom had suffered severely from indigestion and stated she had been completely cured by a remedy which she called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets; I remembered the conversation because it directly interested me; and at the next town I inquired at the first drug store and bought a package for fifty cents, and from that day to this I have never been without them. They are pleasant tasting tablets, not a secret patent medicine but composed of vegetable essences, pure pepsin, fruit salts and Golden Seal; being in tablet form they never lose their good qualities like a liquid medicine would, but are always fresh and ready for use.

I carry a box in my pocket continually, and whenever I see any symptoms of indigestion I take one, also one after each meal, and for a year and a half I have not lost a day by reason of poor health and can eat anything and relish what I eat; my digestion is absolutely perfect as far as I can judge from my feelings and although there may be other stomach medicines just as good as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, I do not know what they are. Certainly for people who travel they are far ahead of any liquid medicines, as they are so convenient, they can be carried in the pocket and used whenever needed.

I believe they are sold by all druggists at 50 cents, and believe anyone who will try them will agree with me, that for indigestion and stomach trouble Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are unequaled. 4 18 20 22

KEY WEST FLEET SAILS

Capt. Sampson Ordered to Blockade Cuban Ports.

THE NAVAL PROGRAMME

Commander Schley's Flying Squadron Will Wait at Hampton Roads Until the Cape Verde Fleet Sails—Admiral Dewey's Squadron Will Move on the Phillipines in a Few Days.

Washington, April 22.—The ships of the North Atlantic Squadron, which have been tugging impatiently at their anchor off Key West for many long weeks, are now on their way to Cuban waters waters, orders in cipher having been sent to Captain Sampson yesterday afternoon, commanding the fleet to put to sea at once.

The action of Spain in sending General Woodford his passports, and in starting its fleet across the ocean, is considered by the Administration to be a declaration of war, and that as Spain has made the declaration, there is no necessity for Congress to formally pass a resolution declaring war.

At the Cabinet meeting it was decided that the Secretary of the Navy should have absolute authority over the movement of war vessels, and the following naval programme was arranged. The North Atlantic Squadron to leave Key West and to blockade Havana and other Cuban ports. It is not to attack Havana until further orders. The United States Government cannot afford to risk any ships while the Spanish fleet is intact.

Commodore Schley's flying squadron is to remain at Hampton Roads for the present. Its departure will depend on circumstances. It cannot leave until something about the programme of the Spanish squadron at Cape Verde is known. Commodore Schley may be called on to protect American coast cities.

Admiral Dewey's squadron at Hong Kong will move on the Philippines in a few days.

At the Cabinet meeting reports from two United States Consuls, one of whim is stationed at Cape St. Vincent, were read. They said that the Spanish fleet had not yet left Cape Verde, and that there was no indication that it was preparing to sail immediately.

There is good reason to believe that both the Flying Squadron and the Key West Squadron will blockade Havana. After this will come the bombardment. The fleet will depend upon fast cruisers to keep posted on the enemy's movements.

The fleet later on will be supported by troops, who will be dispatched to Cuba as soon as it, in the opinion of the President, is possible to use them advantageously in the occupation of the island.

It was decided by the Cabinet that ten days would be necessary to concentrate troops at Key West for embarkation and transportation to Cuba.

As soon as Congress passes the Army bill the President will call for 100,000 men. Eighty thousand volunteers will aid the regulars in Cuban operations and twenty thousand will man the seacoast artillery.

Nevertheless, while the specific instructions to Commodore Sampson for the movement of the Key West fleet are withheld from the public, the prevailing opinion in naval circles is that the fleet will merely perform blockade duty until the troops are ready to invest Cuba, which will be in about ten days. Information has reached the Government that large quantities of supplies that may be considered contraband of war are on the way to Havana for the Spnish soldiery, and other cargoes are being loaded. It is not deemed advisable to permit these supplies to be landed. The blockading of Havana, Matanzas and Santiago de Cuba would serve this purpose, as it would be impossible for the Spaniards to transport supplies from other Cuban coast cities through the intervening insurgent lines. It is considered probable that the line of blockade will be drawn across Havana harbor, outside the range of the guns of the shore fortifications, so as to avoid a battle before the plans for the inevestment of Cuba are ready to be carried into operation.

Some of our swift cruisers will undoubtedly sweep the small Spanish gunboats from the Cuban coast and will patrol the neighboring waters. It is understood to be the intention of Commodore Sampson to pick up the Havana cable at sea and establish telegraphic communication with Key West, cutting the Havana end. The cable between the island of Cuba and St. Thomas and Porto Rico will be cut and Blanco deprived of communication with Spain.

Captain Sampson's squadron includes the following vessels: Battle ships Iowa and Indiana, armored cruiser New York, the monitors Puritan, Terror and Amphitrite, the gunboats Nashville, Castine, Machias, Wilmington and Helena, the cruisers Detroit, Cincinnati and Marblehead, and the torpedo boats Cushing, Ericsson, Dupont, Foote, Winslow, Porter and Mayflower.

A Yale Battery of Maxim Guns.

New Haven, April 22.—Yale will send a Maxim gun battery of fifty men, already drilled by Captain Murray. Among them is "Dave" Twitchell, football manager and son of the "Fighting Parson." It is proposed to give the steamship Paris a testimonial when it takes the name of Yale as a naval vessel.

To Localize the War.

London, April 22.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily News says: "I learn at the Foreign Office that the powers, including Great Britain, are in accord. They have so far decided to keep the struggle from European waters, and to take measures to protect international commerce."

To Get Eleven More Vessels.

Baltimore, April 22.—It is said on the best of authority that the Government will acquire the entire fleet of eleven steamships of the Merchants & Miners' Transportation Company, either by purchase or charter. Negotiations are now going on.

Illinois Farmers Volunteer.

Joliet, Ill., April 22.—Nearly 100 men here have signed the call for volunteer cavalrymen. A number of farmers are signing the call throughout the country.

VOLUNTEERS' CALL DELAYED.

Tinkering with Bill in Order to Advance the Interests of Individuals.

Washington, April 22.—Another day of useless delay in Congress on the Volunteer bill. The President anxiously awaits its passage for authority to call out and enlist the volunteer forces. There was no reasonable justification nor even rational excuse for delay. It would have been an easy matter to have sent the bill to the President at 6 o'clock last night. Senator Hawley reported the Volunteer bill from the Committee on Military Affairs early in the afternoon. It had been amended in committee in several points, none of them material.

If Senators could have restrained their propensity to talk, the bill could have gone back to the House and the Senate amendments adopted. Instead the talk dragged the House along until the time arrived when Chairman Hull of the House Military Committee decided that it would be impracticable to attempt action upon the Senate amendments last night. As it is, the bill having passed the Senate with amendments must go back to the House to-day.

The Senate Committee amended the Volunteer bill so as to authorize the organization of troops, companies or battalions possessing special qualifications from the nation at large. This is to provide for the enlistment of cowboy and ranger regiments. Another amendment provides that the existing organized militia may at the discretion of the President be mustered into service for a term not to exceed one year. The other amendments make unimportant changes in the rank of certain staff officers. It is the understanding now that when the President will call for volunteers the number will be fixed at 100,000.

PENNSYLVANIA TROOPS.

Ordered to Mobilize at Mount Gretna at Once.

Philadelphia, April 22.—Orders were received here last evening from Adjutant-General Stewart, at Harrisburg, ordering all the State troops to mobilize at Mount Gretna. This order takes in the entire division of the National Guard of Pennsylvania.

In this city there are several important commands—the First Troop, Philadelphia City Cavalary, Battery A, First Regiment, Second Regiment, State Fencibles and Gray Invincibles.

The last is a colored organization and the first is considered the flower of the Keystone State's soldiers, with an honorable history dating back to the days of 1776.

For the past several days all the guardsmen here have been practically sleeping on their arms, momentarily expecting orders to move.

BLANCO ON THE ALERT.

Instructed to Expect Landing of American Troops.

London, April 22.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing Thursday night, says:

"Gov. Gen. Blanco has been instructed to expect the landing of American troops at Matanzas or Santiago de Cuba, which will be a basis of operations in connection with the naval station at Key West. He is also instructed to be prepared for an attack on Puerto Rico by the American Flying Squadron."

Flying Squadron Ready to Strike.

Fort Monroe, Va., April 22.—The men of the flying squadron were in anxious doubt last night. Not a word had been received from Washington as to when the fleet will be ordered to sea, but every one, from Commodore Schley down, expect the orders to-day. All preparations for hasty departure were completed last night. Officers and men sent ashore, to be expressed to their homes, watches, jewelry and surplus money. Crowds of them inundated the local photographer and had their pictures taken, some of them with the firm belief that they were sitting before a camera for the last time. A few of the officers had their pictures made standing alongside of their wives, with their children grouped about them.

Powers Notified of the Blockade.

Washington, April 22.—The State Department yesterday afternoon informed all representatives of the powers of the intended blockade of Havana. The first to receive the notice was Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador. The notification was next delivered to the German Ambassador. The French Ambassador here was informed, and, acting in the interest of Spain, notified that country of America's plans.

To Be Made a War Measure.

Washington, April 22.—Representative Sayers, of Texas, has introduced a bill in the House providing for an income tax of 2 per cent. on all incomes over $4,000 per annum. Its text follows closely the lines of the Income Tax bill which was pronounced illegal by the United States Supreme Court, but the fact that this is a war emergency measure will enable it to pass muster in the courts.

A bill to restore United States citizenship to Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, daughter of General Grant, who married an Englishman, has passed House and Senate.

GARY QUITS CABINET

Charles Emory Smith, of Philadelphia, to be Postmaster General.

REASONS FOR THE CHANGE

Mr. Gary Was One of the Strong Peace Advocates of the Cabinet and His Attitude is Believed to Have Been the Cause for His Resignation—The Officially Announced Reason Is Ill Health.

Washington, April 22.—Postmaster-General Gary has resigned from the Cabinet and will be succeeded by Charles Emory Smith, of the Philadelphia Press. This action on the part of Mr. Gary was, it is officially stated, due to ill health and not because of any Cabinet dissensions.

It is generally believed, however, that the resignation of the Postmaster-General is the culmination of the antagonism of certain members of the Cabinet to the war policy of the Administration. It has been an open secret in this city for weeks past there was a split in the Cabinet in regard to the advisability of the country going into war at this time for the purpose of freeing Cuba or avenging the destruction of the Maine.

The most pronounced advocates of peace in the Cabinet have been the Postmaster-General, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of the Navy. Postmaster Gary's sentiments were voiced by his close personal friends and his political sponsor, Senator Wellington, of Maryland, in the Senate a few days ago. They were and are that war with Spain at this time would be crime; that there is no reason for it, and that we have blindly rushed into our present difficulty on account of frenzied war setiment brought about by the yellow journals and jingo politicians. These are the sentiments of the Postmaster-General. They are antagonistic to the Administration, and as an honorble man General Gary felt that there was nothing left for him to do but resign.

His successor, Charles Emory Smith, is well known throughout the United States as a vigorous administration Republican, and firm supporter of President Mc Kinley and his present course in connection with the freeing of Cuba. Mr. Smith has been in the city for some time past as the guest of Senator Hanna, and has been in close and constant communication with President McKinley. "He was present at the White House Wednesday afternoon when the decision was made and General Gary's resignation was accepted. As United States Minister to Russia under General Harrison Charles Emory Smith has excellent opportunities to get in touch with foreign sentiment, and he is regarded in diplomatic circles as a man of more than ordinary diplomatic ability.

Gary Says He Has Supported McKinley.

Washington, April 22.—It is stated at the White House that Postmaster General Gary's resignation had nothing to do with our present foreign complications. It is owing entirely, it is stated, to the condition of Mr. Gary's health. He has suffered a great deal from a general break-down of his system, which progressed until finally Mr. Gary reached the conclusion that he was unable longer to carry the burden of his office.

Postmaster Genereal Gary was asked if his resignation, coming at the time of the Spanish war crisis, could in any way be attrbuted to that. He said:

"That has not entered into the consideration in any way whatever. I have at all times supported President McKinley's policy on the Spanish question and I support it now. My Cabinet relations have been most agreeable and there have been no differences of policy."

The Senate Committee on Post offices and Post Roads has been polled and agreed unanimously to report the nomination of Mr. Smith favorably. It was reported that Senator Quay was going to fight the nomination, but he told several senators that such was not the case. The nomination was not recommended by him and was wholly personal with the President.

The announcement that Postmaster General Gary had resigned and that Charles Emory Smith had been nominated to succeed him came with startling suddenness to his friends in the House. None of the Maryland Congressmen knew of Mr. Gary's prospective resignation.

WAR REVENUE BILL.

Committee Will Soon Have Finished It—Proposed Taxes on Wines, Railroad and Sleeping Car Tikets.

Washington, April 22.—The Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee expect to complete the war revenue measure and have it ready for submission to the full committee to-day or to-morrow at the latest.

One of the biggest contests in progress in the committee is over the question of taxing tea and coffee. The proposition to place 10 cents tax on tea and 3 cents upon coffee has met considerable opposition, and various suggestions have been made as to subjects for taxation in lieu of tea and coffee. Among them is a proposition to place 50 cents per barrel tax on pretroleum, but it now seems probable that this will be abandoned.

There is also a proposition to tax mineral waters, wines, etc., but a proposition which now meets with more favor is to tax railroad tickets and sleeping-car tickets 10 cents for each trip of over 100 miles. It is estimated between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 could be raised from this source.

Representative Sayers, of Texas, will offer an income tax law as an amendment to the Ways and Means bill to raise money for war expenses.

Spain Calls Out 80,000 Reserves.

London, April 22.—A special dispatch from Madrid says the Government has authorized Lieutenant-General Correa, Minister of War, to call out 80,000 reserves. Three vessels loaded with troops left Cadiz yesterday for a destination not disclosed.

No More American Coal for Spain.

Washington, April 22.—The Senate has passed Mr. Hawley's joint resolution prohibiting the export of coal or any other material used in war from ports of the United States.

THE BUILDING ORDINANCE.

There were caustic truths spoken at the meeting of the Board of Trade Wednesday night in reference to the strictly enforced provisions of the building ordinance—statements that ought to immediately prompt the Common Council to take some steps to modify the law in a practical manner. It was not the talk of irresponsible men standing on street corners, howling in political derision at the powers that be, but the just comments of substantial and conservative business men who are undergoing the dear experience of so strict and ill adapted a law for a city the size of Plainfield.

As President Lounsbury, of the Board of Trade, aptly paraprased—the ordinance has been weighed and found wanting. Wanting in what respect? Principally in the fact that its provisions are conceived and executed with the same rigidity that applies to great cities where the population is very dense. That is a palpably wrong idea of government in a town like Plainfield. Outside of a small section in the business district of the city there is no danger of fire from one house spreading to ignite another dwelling, always taking into consideration, of course, that the fire department is duly active. But yet the building ordinance now under criticism imposes burdensome conditions that do not fit in sensibility with the makeup of the town.

As pointed out by various business men at the Board of Trade meeting it needs to be materially amended. When it comes to a matter of retarding building operations, as no doubt it has, it is something in which every one who is interested in the commercial welfare of the town, wants remedied.

The Common Council should harken quickly to the requests that will be made in a short time in this direction.

WHERE EDITOR RUNYON IS.

Has Wm. J. Bryan offered his services to the Government for the impending war with Spain, or is he still shouting free silver into the phonograph trumpets? Surely Boy Billy is not afraid to stand up and fight. Possibly he fears to take the chances of depriving the country of his valuable existence.—Plainfield Courier-News.

Has the editor of the Courier-News offered his services to the Government for the impending war with Spain, or is he still writing such drivel as the above paragraph?—New Brunswick Times.

For the information of The Times we may say that Editor Runyon is just now enjoying the pleasure of basking in the sun parlors of the big hotels at Atlantic City.

NO NEW GAME LAW.

It is probable that Governer Voorhees will not sign the general game bill introduced by Senator Engle and passed by the late Legislature. The Governor wants to give last year's law a longer trial before casting it aside. He objects to the section of the bill prohibiting the killing of ring necked pheasants. There are sportsmen in North Jersey who have at their own expense stocked preserves with the pheasants, and the Governor believes they should have the privilege of shooting them.

TO THE POINT.

President McKinley did not waste any words in the ultimatum which he wrote for the benefit of Spain. The shorter the document, the crisper and the better adapted to the situation.

—The Plainfield Camera Club will meet Monday night. Reports from the entertainment committee will be received.

COMMANDER W. S. SCHLEY.

Commodore Winfield Scott Schley first attracted the attention of the world in 1884, when he was put in command of the expedition sent to the Arctics for the relief of the Greeley exploration party. He also had a part in the Chilian trouble in 1891, as commander of the Baltimore.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Lucky Plainfield! The coal dealers have been fighting all winter with the result that householders have bought their supply for next winter at $4 a ton. Now the ice dealers are at it and ice is to be sold at 15 cents a hundred, to large customers this summer.—Passaic News.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

After the City Council meeting last Monday evening, one of the councilmen remarked that he thought he would never be able to agree on earth with another member, but he might in Heaven.

* * * * *

A number of Plainfield people are beginning to wonder what has become of the patriotism of the members of various cadet corps that are organized in this city. There are a number of young men who have been drilling for sometime past, but not a word has been heard to signify that they are willing to serve their country.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

The presentation of "Jim the Penman," by the Daniel R. Ryan Company at Music Hall last night was a grand artistic performance, in which one and all the several members participated. In the character of James Ralston, Mr. Ryan appeared to special advantage, and in the opinion of many fully equalled the rendition of Frederick Robinson, the original of the role in New York. Miss Ethel Fuller as Mina, again demonstrated the fact that she is one of the best leading ladies that has ever appeared in this city. Her fine presence, magnificent toilets and superb costuming, are subjects of much comment, while her interpretation of the several roles in which she has appeared, is perfection itself. Another great performance is guaranteed tonight, the presentation the beautiful play, "Ingomar, the Barbarian," in which Mr. Ryan will appear in the title role, and Miss Fuller as "Parthenia." Tomorrow, Saturday afternoon, a special comedy bill is to be presented, "My Niece From New York," in the course of which the wonderful educated dog of Mr. Dalton's will give a sample of his educational abilities. For Saturday night, the closing night of the engagement, "The Circus Girl," a comedy par excellence, will be given, and all who have not witnessed the performances of this truly worthy company should secure seats at once.

A new and laughable farce comedy will be produced for the first time in this city at Stillman Music Hall, Tuesday, April 26th, entitled "A Wife Wanted." The name of the play suggests fun from beginning to end. The well-known vaudeville artists, Edward and Libbie Blondell, head the company, which is a guarantee in itself that the production will be first-class in every respect. Up-to-date specialties are introduced by clever comedians and pretty women; in fact there is not a dull moment from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

—Morey & LaRue, of 19 Somerset street, clean lace curtains and blankets. They never tear the curtains.

—Flynn Brothers, shoe dealers, near Music Hall, have a complete stock of new spring shoes, all the latest styles.

DENIED NATURE'S GIFT.

WHAT DUNELLENITES SAY THE SEWER BEDS ACCOMPLISH.

The Grounds Upon Which the Request to Have the Beds Declared a Nuisance are Made—Financial Interests Affected.

The following is the text of the complaint made by the citizens of Dunellen to the State Board of Health against the sewer beds of this city:

"First—the beds in and of themselves as at present located are a public nuisance because of their befouling atmosphere with a sickening stench which at times compels those in the vicinity to close their doors and windows, and thus are the victims of a double wrong in being denied the rights that are ours at Nature's gift.

"Second—That being so near and affecting the atmosphere, they must from their very nature become the source of the diseases that find germs in such localities and that spring from such influences.

"Third—That being so near, and the soil being of the nature that it is, it cannot be other than that the water of the place, heretofore healthful and fine, must become impregnated with malaria and typhoid germs which will eventuate in an epidemic, thereby endangering the lives of our citizens.

"Fourth—That the influence of all this has affected and does, and will more and more affect the financial interests of the place to a serious degree, as it already has, by putting realty at a discount, impoverishing business and causing the removal of worthy families from our midst.

"Fifth—That in addition to the points above stated, another may be properly mentioned, viz.: the stream known as Green brook, is also be fouled from the same cause, its water is rendered obnoxious to those living on its line, and unhealthful for the live stock that feed on its banks and drink therefrom that furnishes milk for our tables, and hence the evil effects of it all comes back to us and to our homes through this and other channels."

DOG THAT CAN REASON.

KNOWING CANINE A VISITOR IN TOWN FOR A WEEK.

"Dodgerfield Dalton" Can Distinguish Colors and Numbers as Well as Do Several Small Problems in Arithmetic Correctly.

There is a wonderful dog visiting in Plainfield at present. "Dodgerfield Dalton" is his title in full. "Dodger," as he is usually called, is the property of W. E. Dalton, a member of the Ryan Repertoire Company, which is now playing at Music Hall. Last Wednesday evening he entertained the audience between the acts with some of his wonderful performances. Tomorrow afternoon he will do the same.

Dodger has been exhibited all over the country to many of the leading scientific men who have been greatly interested in his performances. Some of them are so remarkable that they have been lead to believe that the dog possesses certain reasoning powers that are not usually accredited to canines.

Dodger is now three years old. His father was an Irish setter, a wanderer from the circus ring, while his mother was a blue Skye terrier. For fourteen months Mr. Dalton devoted four hours a day to the instruction of Dodger with very remarkable results.

Dodger will now distinguish a handkerchief of one of the principal colors from a group of them when its name is written on a slate or is spoken. He can also tell the principal cards of the pack. He can pick out all the coins up to the half-dollar at command and can perform short examples in addition and subtraction with the same coins. With figures he is quite conversant with all examples in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, in which the figures 1, 2, 3 and 4 are used in which the total is not over 20.

His greatest trick of late date is to distinguish the flags of different countries when the National airs are played by the orchestra.

While Dodger is performing these remarkable feats, his master sits or stands perfectly rigid and gives no apparent sign to the intelligent little canine.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text.—Forgive, and ye shall be forgiven.—Luke vi, 37. April 24, 1898

First Step.—In Matt. 18:15-20, Christ instructed his disciples with regard to the way in which we act towards those who have injured us. This aroused Peter to ask his Master how often we are to forgive any person who has done us harm. Having probably in his mind the Rabbinic rule that we are to forgive three times, he doubles it, and asks whether it be enough if we forgive seven times. Probably in asking this question Peter thought he was stretching the duty of forgiveness to its utmost limit. Judge of his surprise, then, when Jesus said, "Not until seven times, but until four hundred and ninety times." This truth Jesus then further enforced by the parable of the unmerciful servant. This servant owed his master about twelve million dollars. He could not pay what he owed, so his master (in accordance with the law then existing) commanded him and all his to be sold, and payment to be made. In agony the servant pleads for time. This touches his master's heart, and he gives him more than he asked. He frankly forgives him his whole debt. Thus relieved, the man goes forth free. No sooner does he get away from his lord's presence than he finds a fellow servant who owes him the paltry sum of fifteen dollars. At once he seizes him by the throat and demands his money. The pleading of his fellow servant for a little patience does not move him in any degree. He forgets the mercy he has just had from his creditor. He puts his debtor into prison for debt. Upon this, his fellow servants, filled with grief, report his cruel action to their master. Calling him back, the master upbraids him for his utterly heartless conduct, refuses to let him go free, and does to him exactly what he did to his fellow servant. "So likewise," says Christ, "shall my Heavenly Father do also unto you, if ye forgive not every one his brother from your hearts."

Second Step.—Ask the scholars now whether any one ever insulted them, or in any way, by word or deed, did them an injustice. Let them tell in their own brief way how they have been wronged. Every child has had some experience in this line. Ask them what they said or did in view of this treatment? Now ask one of the class to repeat the Lord's Prayer. When they get to "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors," stop the child. Then tell them to suppose for a moment that this unmerciful servant had gone to his master and had said to him, "Pray forgive me my debt as I forgive my fellow servant's debt," for what would he be asking? Would he not really have been asking his master to take him by the throat and thrust him into prison until he had paid every cent? For was not that exactly the way in which he treated his fellow servant? What an awful petition this would have been for him to make! No; he never would have dared to have asked for any such treatment. He asked for mercy, though he was unwilling to show mercy himself. Ask how many have ever prayed the Lord's Prayer. Of course, all our scholars have done this many times.

Did you really mean what you said when you prayed, "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors?" For if there is any one whom you are not willing to forgive, then to use that petition is as good as saying, "O Lord, I will not forgive my enemy; now as I do to him, so I pray that you will do to me." Is not that an awful petition to present to God?

Yet many thousands are constantly asking God to do this very thing. I know they do it thoughtlessly, but that only aggravates the evil, for thoughtless prayer is a mocking of God.

Third Step.—"But he was in the wrong," says some scholar. Exactly! But that is just what the Lord Jesus was talking about. He was not alluding to the way in which we should treat our friends, but our enemies. Even publicans and heathens treat well those who treat them well. But should not Christians treat those well who treat them ill. This is the pith of a Christian spirit that it prays, "Father, forgive them!" The spirit that cannot forgive does not deserve to be forgiven, and what is more, it will not be forgiven.

Remember the fact that no church membership or confession of Christ with our lips will be any avail at all if we cherish in our hearts a spirit of unforgiveness. Christ himself said this, and he knows.

Now ask again how often should we forgive any one who has injured us. Well, to answer this, ask first how often do we want God to forgive us? Every day. Is that all? No; every time we sin, whether it be once a day or twenty times. Well, just so often should we be ready to forgive our fellowmen.

For it shows an evil spirit to say, "I will forgive once a day, but no oftener; yet I want God to forgive ten times a day." As we are forgiven by our Master fully, often, so must we stand ready to forgive fully and often.

"I cannot do this," says some scholar, who perhaps cherishes the memory of some bitter wrong endured. We know that very well. No one can exercise this truly Christlike spirit unless the Master helps him. "To render evil for good is satanic; to render good for good is human; but to render good for evil is divine." And for divine deeds we need divine help. But, as we all know, this help, too, is granted to those who ask for it.

"Ask, and ye shall receive," applies to this as well as ot other Christian graces. Remember how freely and frequently God has pardoned you, and then pray to him for grace to go and do likewise to those who have injured you.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson For the Week Beginning April 24. Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M. Topic, The Gift of Power.

SCRIPTURE READING.—Acts i, 8; ii, 1-7; 1 Pet. i, 12.

The one peculiarity which distinguishes the science and philosophy of the present time from that of the past lies in the idea of power. Formerly all matter was regarded as inert and lifeless. Now everything is believed to be active and a thing is a center of force. All this world of active, moving things is the visible manifestation of the ever present Spirit whose will is the source of all power in the physical universe. He is reason energizing and the result of His activity is the world of visible things.

The one peculiarity which distinguishes the religion of the present from that of former times lies in the idea of power. But it is not the power discovered in the material world. It is the idea of holiness. Not a passive, inert, lifeless indifference, but active, warm and positive goodness, pulsating with life and full of feeling, emotion and power. This spiritual force is now seen to be the possible possession of every person. It is not merely present in the faroff and dimly known Divine One; it is the peculiar endowment of every true Christian. It is the gift of God to every one that believeth. It is more than reason. It is more than knowledge. No creeds can define it. No intellect can fully understand it. After all that can be known of God and man and the world, of sin and atonement and all other useful religious knowledge has been mastered, the soul still lacks the essential gift of salvation.

When the will has made choice for God and the right and the soul has determined to be devoted to righteousness alone, still the essential part of salvation has not been reached.

There is in the religious life that which passes knowledge and is deeper than the freedom of human choice. It is a wondrous experience for a soul to come through its processes of thinking to the knowledge of the existence and nature of a supreme God. No other discovery will ever be made so profoundly important to the one who makes it as this one, "There is a God, and I am His and He is my God." No other decision can ever affect the life so deeply as that which the honest, loyal soul makes when, recognizing God's claims, he resolves to serve God forever.

Beyond all this lies an experience which is the proper outcome of all that goes before. It is the reception of spiritual power. It is as distinct an experience as the getting a new thought on making a new resolution. In it the soul is as active as in thinking or making choice. But it is not of the nature of thinking or choosing. It is recognized as a gift of spiritual energy. It is realized as a force impelling to activity, as imparting its motion to all spiritual faculties. It makes trust in the promises, the power, the nature of God a thing of life. The soul grasps the Father. Hope becomes a force of joyous might. Love—love of God, in Christ, love of men as God's children—surges up and sets thought and will in motion. Body and spirit are thrilled with new energy. A consciousness of new ability, of deep and strong emotion, fills the whole being. Strength of spirit is the peculiar part of the experience. Power never before possessed, peace beyond all processes of reasoning, satisfaction and anticipation all blend.

This is the gift of the Holy Spirit. In the soul of man it corresponds to the existence of force in the natural, material world. The world obeys without thought or will of its own. Man is to receive and exercise power consciously and of choice.

What Is It Worth?

The value of a thing is not always to be measured by its cost. A lifetime may be spent in devising a perpetual motion machine and vast treasure be expended in the experiments, but the result will not be likely to be of much value. Cost and worth are two entirely different things. The same thing has different values at different times and places and to different persons. The cloak may be a hindrance to the runner in the race, but to the prisoner in the damp prison may be a necessity to life. What is the salvation of Jesus worth? Its cost makes it precious to be sure. Priceless in the sight of God and angels, what is it worth to men—to you? That depends not so much on what it cost Him as on what use it is to you. To one who desires to escape from sin and to be pure and holy and godly it has one value. To him who cares more for pleasure and pride and gratification of sense it has an entirely different value. To one it becomes "the power of God unto salvation." To the other it may become the means of condemnation to death. What is the salvation of Jesus worth to you?

Ruling or Ruled.

Slavery of body is an evil the civilized world has attempted to abolish. Slavery of soul is an iniquity the church of Jesus Christ is trying to destroy. Every man should be free—free to think right, feel right, do right. He should know the truth, love right and do good. Many are not masters of themselves. Wrong ideas, perverted tastes and affections, and, worst of all, contrary wills bring them into bondage. Multitudes have never learned to control themselves. They are slaves of passion and prejudice. Unstable and unhappy must every one be who is not master of his own being.

Every home should be a moral gymnasium where spiritual powers are disciplined and developed. Do what you ought whatever the consequences. Make yourself do the thing you know to be duty however you may feel. Then you will find it increasingly easy to control yourself and a sense of satisfaction will come to which all other pleasure is not to be compared. Be master of yourself.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 24. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Habits.—Prov. vi, 6-11; xii, 14-25; Luke iv, 16.

A habit is a constant method of action that is natural or that has been acquired by a frequent repetition of the same act. The influence of habit upon human life is inestimable. After we pass beyond a certain stage in life our almost every action—yea, even our very thoughts—is the result of habit. Habit largely determines our actions in this life and has much to do with our destinies in eternity. How careful, therefore, we should be in the formation of our habits! Gradually, unconsciously, thoughts, words, actions, by frequent repetition fasten themselves upon us and hold us enslaved perhaps forever. How important, therefore, that our thoughts should be pure thoughts, our words words of truth and soberness and our actions noble, righteous and just!

The topical references suggest a study of several kinds of habits.

1. Habits of industry (Prov. vi, 6-11). Here the habit of slothfulness is denounced, and the wise man holds the industrious ant up to the sluggard as an example that should inspire him to habits of industry. The ant, though not driven by overseer or ruler, provides in summer provision for the winter, and thus shows her wisdom. It has been recently claimed that ants do not have this habit of industry, but this has been disproved by the discovery of a certain kind of ant in Palestine that does lay up its meat in summer. This same species of ant has also been found in Texas. What the ant does by instinct we should do by habit. We should make it the rule of life to be industrious. Idleness is a curse. Industry is a blessing. It is unfortunate for a boy particularly to be born rich. Idleness usually results and consequent habits that lead to ruination and destruction. Whether rich or poor we should form habits of industry. God has work for all to do.

2. Habits of morality in word and in act (Prov. xii, 14-25). In this passage many moral characteristics are contrasted and the consequent results as well. Wickedness and righteousness, foolishness and wisdom, truthfulness and lying, diligence and slothfulness, are set the one against the other and disastrous results of that which is evil against the beneficent results of that which is good, the results showing that we should cultivate the good and avoid the evil.

3. Habits of church attendance (Luke iv, 16). This reference is a page out of the life of Christ. When He visited Nazareth, His home, we are told that on the Sabbath day, "as His custom was," He went to the synagogue. If it was Christ's habit to attend church, how much more it should be ours, that we may worship God, pay our vows to the Most High, learn of Jesus and His word and receive inspirations to perform the duties of life.

Bible Readings.—Ps. i, 1-6; iv, 17; cxix, 105-112; Prov. iii, 1-12; x, 4; xiii, 4; xx, 1-4; xxiv, 30-34; Isa. i, 16, 17; Dan. vi, 1-10; John xviii, 39; Acts iii, 1; xiii, 14; I Cor. xi, 16.

The Eclipse of Piety.

The fact is that we are an ethical rather than a religious age. We may hope that the eclipse of piety is but temporary, and that it will shine out again upon a world that will be glad to see it returning. Meantime the love of truth, which is the redeeming feature of today; the hatred of shams, which is felt by earnest and careless alike, and which is as near to religion as many seem able to come, will purify our conceptions of God and piety and enable us to start again in a worship that is in spirit and in truth. Already we can see, among liberal Christians especially—strange to say, among those who are called "radical"—a tendency to establish some daily devotional exercise which shall take the place of that which is so rapidly fading away. The need of such refreshment is evidently too great to suffer the loss of it to be permanent.—Christian Register.

Don't Worry.

What does your anxiety do? It does not empty tomorrow, brother, of its sorrow; but, ah, it empties today of its strength! It does not make you escape the evil; it makes you unfit to cope with it when it comes. It does not bless tomorrow, and it robs today, for every day has its own burden. God gives us power to bear all the sorrows of His making, but He does not give the power to bear the sorrows of our own making, which the anticipation of sorrow most assuredly is.—Ian Maclaren.

Christian Culture.

And so we come to the answer to the question of whether it is worth while to strive after culture, and we conscientiously answer yes, believing that instead of leading us away from the straight and narrow path the very essence of its highest things will draw us nearer and more firmly into the singleness of purpose and ideal of life portrayed in the New Testament.—American Friend.

Helping Others.

If any little word of ours
Can make one life the brighter,
If any little song of ours
May make one heart the lighter,
God help us speak that little word,
And take our bit of singing
And drop it in some lonely vale
To set the echoes ringing.

If any little love of ours
Can make one life the sweeter,
If any little care of ours
Can make one step the fleeter,
If any little help may ease
The burden of another,
God give us love and care and strength
To help along each other!

If any watchful thought of ours
Can make some work the stronger,
If any cheery smile of ours
Can make its brightness longer,
Then let us speak that thought today
With tender eyes a-glowing,
So God may grant some weary one
Shall reap from our glad sowing!

ORIGIN OF THE CARDIFF GIANT.

A Fake Petrified Body which Barnum Paid $10,000 for.

The recent discovery of a petrified giant of huge proportions in the neighborhood of New Haven, Conn., recalls the first osified product which was manufactured in California during the early days by a newspaper man, bearing the name of Chester Hull who not only designed the gentleman, but afterward discovered the so-called fossil himself and sold it to P. T. Barnum, who exhibited it around the country as the Cardiff giant.

Hull, who had a liking for clay modelling, conceived the idea of constructing a colossal man of cement and burying it in a damp spot on a heavily wooded hillside, where, after three years of interment, it would become mouldy and assume evidence of great age. When the time arrived for exhuming the fake Hull, accompanied by his brother, who was also something of a humorist, took out a picnic party, and as though by accident spread their lunch baskets on the very spot where the cement man was moulding himself into artificial age. Hull insisted on roasting some potatoes, brought along for the occasion, and proceeded to dig a hole wherein to build a fire. While digging he came upon what proved to be the foot of his previous plant.

He then got an old broken down geologist and an anatomist to swear that the fossil was genuine and notified Barnum at once. When the old showman saw the so-called petrification he looked at Hull laughingly and said: "My boy, I know it's a fake, but what's it worth to you?"

The builder modestly asked $10,000 and got it, and, turning over the signed statement of the geologist that it was stone, and that of the anatomist that it was once alive, delivered the petrification to its purchaser, who took it down the road and made ten times the money he had invested.

FIRST SILVER WEDDING.

Origin of the Custom Dates Back to the Reign of Hugh Capet.

The fashion of silver weddings dates back to the reign of Hugues Capet King of France in 987, says Vogue.

Once as Hugues was arranging his uncle's affairs he found on one of the estates a servant who had grown gray in the service of his relative. He had been such a friend of his master's that he was almost looked upon as one of the family.

On the farm with this old man was also a serving woman who was as old as he, and also unmarried, and who had been the most devoted and hard-working of the women servants of the king's uncle. When the King heard these praises of the two, he ordered them to be brought before him and said to the woman:

"Your service is great, greater than this man's, whose services, were great enough, for the woman always finds work and obedience harder than a man, and therefore I will give you a reward. At your age I know of none better than a dowry and a husband. The dowry is here—this farm from this time on belongs to you. If this man who has worked with you five and twenty years is willing to marry you then the husband is ready."

"Your Majesty," stuttered the old peasant confusedly, "how is it possible that we should marry, having already silver hairs?"

"Then it shall be a silver wedding," answered the king, "and here I give you a wedding ring," drawing a costly ring from his finger, and placing the hands of the thankful old people together.

This soon became known all over France, and raised such enthusiasm that it became a fashion after a twenty-five years' marriage to celebrate a silver wedding.

He Was Sorry for Their Loss.

An eminent preacher, according to "The San Francisco Argonaut," who prided himself upon his ability to discourse without the aid of notes, once got into his pulpit, but when he found himself face to face with his congregation his ideas vanished and his mind was a blank. He tapped his forehead but in vain; his ideas would not come. "My friends," he said, "I pity you; you have lost a fine sermon," and he descended the pulpit steps.

Nothing Dense About Him.

"What, no telephone?" asked one of the regular callers at the drug store. "Why did you have it taken out?"

"Most of the people in the neighborhood got to using it to order drugs from other stores. I guess I can grasp a business idea once in a while."—Detroit Free Press.

Self Respect.

"You orter have seen yerself smilin' an' primpin' when ye asked the lady fur a piece o' pie," remarked Meandering Mike. "Anybody 'ud a thought ye considered yerself a beau ideal."

"That's wot I am," replied Plodding Pete. "I'm a hobo ideal."—Washington Star.

Quite Satisfied.

Citizen—I have, for a certainty.

Visitor—I'm surprised. I can't see what you can find here to keep you busy.

CASKET DRAPED WITH FLAG.

Patriotic Tribute at the Bier of Late Cyrus E. Moore.

At the funeral of the late Cyrus Edmund Moore, which occured yesterday afternoon, the casket was draped with the American flag and the flowers, which were very beautiful, covered it entirely.

One of the floral pieces was a large pillow from Camp, No. 30, P. O. S. of A., also one from the Sons of Veterans, of which the deceased was a member. A beautiful wreath from fellow-workmen of the National Wall Paper Company, of New York city, where Mr. Moore was employed before his health compelled him to give up work. The other floral pieces, consisting of wreathes, etc., were very numerous. His friends knew that he loved flowers so he was well remembered. Rev. Charles Herring officiated at the house and the interment was made at Hillside. The pall-bearers were: Edward M. Tomlinson, Maurice Sutphen, Daniel VanWinkle, W. Jennings, F. Clarkson and W. Rittenhouse.

AT WAR WITH FISTS.

A Well-Known Former Plainfielder was the Aggressor.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 22.—Charles Welch, at one time publisher of the Elizabeth News, and William F. Ford, a New York newspaper correspondent, formerly of Plainfield, became embroiled in a controversy over the war with Spain, at the Clark Hotel last evening, and concluded to settle their differences without appealing to the code duello.

Ford, the younger of the two, while tall and slender, is lithe, and possessed of considerable athletic ability. Feeling aggrieved at Welch's remarks, Ford dexterously planted his right mawler on Welch's proboscis, drawing claret. Although stunned by the blow Welch stood up and made several vigorous lunges, failing, however, to reach his wily antagonist.

Welch, not satisfied with the result of the encounter, went before Justice Hetfield at police headquarters this morning and preferred a formal complaint, charging Ford with assault and battery. Mr. Ford, hearing of the matter, immediately proceeded to headquarters, accompanied by ex Senator Marsh, and waiving a hearing was held in $100 to answer at court, if called upon by the Grand Jury to do so.

Patriotic Service.

There will be a special patriotic service at the Congregational church next Sunday evening. The pastor will give an address on "The Fateful Month of April." There will also be instrumental trios by Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Dwight and Prof. P. Ludwig Conde.

ODD TRICKS OF MEMORY.

Forgetting One's Name and Remembering Another Person's Backward.

Joe Jefferson never forgets his lines but has an imperfect recollection of names, even forgetting his own sometimes. One day he called at a post office in a small place and asked the clerk:

"Any mail for me?"

"What name?"

"Name? Good gracious! I don't know. Let me think. Why, I am to play 'Rip Van Winkle' to-night at your hall."

"Joe Jefferson?" suggested the clerk.

"Yes. Jefferson; certainly; thanks;" and, receiving his mail, the actor went away happy.

A favorite trick of a capricious memory is to substitute some other name for the one wanted, a process due to assimilation. A couple of ladies on a Chicago street car asked the conductor to leave them at Pennsylvania avenue.

"There's no such avenue in this suburb," said the conductor.

"But there certainly is," reiterated the ladies; "We have friends living there, and ought to know."

"Perhaps you mean Keystone avenue," suggested a passenger, and they said that was just what they did mean, but they knew it had something to do with Pennsylvania, which was impressed upon their memories as the Keystone State.

A good story is told of an excellent woman who had this fatal faculty for misconstruing names. Her daughter was expecting a call from a gentleman, and she impressed upon her mother the fact that his name was a very simple one and easy to remember—Cowdry. The mother repeated it until she was sure she could not possibly forget it, and on the evening when he called hurried forward to meet him, saying, graciously:

"How are you, Mr. Drycow?"—Chicago Times-Herald.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

Their Names do not Indicate Their Special Object.

The Providence Telegram says that many agricultural colleges, especially in New-England, show a disposition to conceal their special function as schools of agriculture. "The college in Maine," it declares, "has had its name changed to 'the University of Maine,' omitting any allusion to farming, and will add a school for the production of lawyers to its equipment. The State continues to be taxed for its support. The professors of the Massachusetts Agricultural College are ashamed of the name, and want it called the Massachusetts College. Professors in our Rhode Island College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts have not waited for legislation, but quietly talk about the Rhode Island College, a title which would belong to Brown if it was to be assigned to any institution. How can these men be expected to accomplish much for the elevation of farming and the farmer when they sail under false colors and do not like to have it known that they are connected with an institution where farming is taught?"

Her Appeal Not in Vain.

Not long ago President Diaz of Mexico received a letter from a little girl of Pueblo, in which she said: "Mamma locked up my doll, and I wasn't naughty. Please make her let me have it again." A day or two later the child got by post from the genial President a handsome doll, with a note stating his belief, should she remain good, her mother would never have occasion to lock it away. By that time the girl's parents had got wind of the message to Diaz, and they wrote to him expressing regret that their wilful child had taken it into her head to communicate with him. A note was received in reply from the President's secretary assuring the worthy people that his exalted superior had quite enjoyed the experience, and was pleased to have the worry of holding office relieved occasionally by such a quaint episode. —New York Tribune.

No Cork in a Cork Leg.

The peculiarity of a cork leg is that apart from the name there isn't a vestige of cork about it. The origin of the term comes from the fact that nearly all the great manufacturers of such articles used to live in Cork street, Piccadilly, London.—Philadelphia Record.

New Clerk—"Have you ever read 'The Last Days of Pompeii'?"

Mrs. Neurich—"No; what did he die of?"

New Clerk—Some kind of an eruption, I believe."—Chicago News.

OVERT ACTS ON PART OF UNITED STATES AND SPAIN NOW EXIST.

Flagship New York Has Captured a Spanish Vessel—Possibly Alfonso XII.—American Clipper Shenendoah Surrenders to Spanish Fleet off English Coast.—Has the Paris Been Captured.—Intense Strain at the Capitol.—State and Local Side of the Situation.

SPECIALS TO THE DAILY PRESS.

Key West, April 23.—The north Atlantic squadron of the United States navy, commanded by Rear Admiral Sampson, has made another capture of a Spanish steamer. The steamer is reported to be the Alfonso XII, one of the finest vessels of the Spanish merchant marine.

The capture was made early this morning by the flagship New York. It is now on its way to this city under the charge of a prize crew.

The Spanish steamer was sighted ten miles off Morro Castle at an early hour this morning heading for the Castle. The lookout at the masthead of the New York was the first to discover the smoke of the approaching vessel.

The New York immediately steamed out to meet the stranger. When within a mile of her the New York fired a six-pound shot across her bows as a signal to heave to. The Spaniard paid no attention to it but only changed its course away from the American cruiser.

The New York fired another shot and the other American cruisers advanced toward the Spanish merchantman. The Spanish craft then turned about and steamed away at full speed.

The cruiser increased its speed and ran into better range. Three more six-pound shot were directed toward the Spaniard to frighten her. She paid no attention to the New York's shots but continued on her way.

It was seen that it would be necessary to cripple the Spaniard before he could be brought around. The New York then prepared her larger guns for action.

A five-inch shell was fired at the retreating steamer and dropped into the water within a hundred feet of the ship. The captain was evidently convinced that escape was impossible for he hove to and hoisted a white flag at the mast head.

The New York then steamed up and placed a prize crew aboard to take the vessel to Key West.

The captured steamer is supposed to be the Alfonso XII with 1,000 Spanish soldiers and a large amount of munitions of war aboard.

A SPANISH CAPTURE.

Clipper Shenendoah Caught by the Spanish Fleet of War Vessels.

London, April 23.—The American clipper Shenendoah sailing from Liverpool to the United States with a cargo of merchandise, is reported to have been captured by the vessels of the Spanish fleet in the English Channel this morning.

It is impossible to verify or contradict the report as yet as no other details of the capture have been learned. The Shenendoah is one of the largest sailing ships that flies the Stars and Stripes.

New Jersey's Quota.

Washington, April 23.—The War Department has been arranging the quotas of troops that the different States will furnish when the President issues his call for volunteers. New Jersey will be called upon to furnish 2,370 men when the call comes.

It has been decided that the First New Jersey regiment, with headquarters at Newark, will be the first of the Jersey troops to go. The Third regiment from Elizabeth or the Sixth from Camden will also go at the first call.

AT WASHINGTON.

Formal Declaration of War will Probably be Made by Congress Today.

Washington, April 23.—Congress will convene late this morning. The army reorganization bill will be considered and probably passed. It is possible that a formal declaration of war will be introduced and rushed through both Houses during the day. The President would sign it immediately.

The Volunteer Army bill was passed by the Senate last night. The President will sign it today. There is no stated number of volunteers that the President can call out mentioned in the bill. It is thought that to prevent any trouble that Congress will rush a special resolution through today giving the President authority to call out the 100,000 men.

RECRUITING IN PLAINFIELD.

Veterans Corlell and Hand are Anxious to Raise a Company of Soldiers.

It now looks as though Plainfield is to be represented in the present conflict between the United States and Spain. W. W. Corlell and Wm. Hand, members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will meet next Tuesday evening with the Post for the purpose of deciding on some action.

It is the desire of Messrs. Corlil and Hand to secure from Adjutant-General Stryker the authority to form a company of men in Plainfield, and if this permission is secured the work of recruiting will be started at once.

In conversation with Capt. Hand yesterday, a Press reporter was told that a company could be formed in this city very easily.

Capt. Hand said that if Plainfield did not furnish some men for the conflict her people would always have a feeling of shame. During the late war Plainfield furnished a number of men and there is no reason why she shouldn't do as much now.

Mettlesome Naval Reserves.

Camden, April 23.—Lieutenant Albert DeUnger, of the Camden Division, Naval Reserves, sat inert in his law office yesterday, momentarily expecting, as he has expected for weeks, an order for some sort of action. None came, however, and he felt disappointed. He said the men in the Battalion of the West are growing very restless under the suspense, and they want to move. The monitor Ajax was not taken from her moorings yesterday, and nobody knows when she will move.

THE STATE TROOPS.

Governor Voorhees Will Select Soldiers for the Volunteer Army.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 23.—Governor Voorhees and the State Military Board at noon yesterday held a council in the excecutive chamber, and decided upon a plan of action in anticipation of a call from the War Department for 1,800 volunteers for the United States Army. The Governor, Major-General Plume, Adjutant-General Stryker, Quartermaster-General Donnelly, Brigadier-General Wanser, Colonel Thomas S. Chambers, representing General Sewell, and Colonels Campbell, Hines, Smith, Lee, Cooper and Bamford, commanding the six regiments of the New Jersey National Guard, were present.

Each of the colonels reported to the Governor that his regiment was fully prepared to answer a call promptly, and that only a small number of the Guardsmen had not already agreed to volunteer for duty in the army.

After a long consultation it was decided that New Jersey, if called upon to furnish two regiments, would select two entire regiments from the National Guard, and that they would be sent to the front in command of their own officers. The selecting of the regiments was left with the Governor.

As soon as the call for the two regiments is made the Governor will order them to Sea Girt, where they will remain to await orders from the War Department. After their departure from the State the Sea Girt campground will be converted into a recruiting post, where volunteers will be drilled and equipped in anticipation of a demand for more men. These volunteers will be selected not from the National Guard, but from eligible citizens not belonging to military

DECLARATION OF WAR.

President is Preparing to Ask Congress to Formally Declare War.

Washington, April 23.—The most important announcement of the afternoon is that the President will send a note to Congress immediately asking that a declaration of war be passed. It is thought that the declaration will be rushed through both Houses and will be put in the hands of the President this afternoon.

The President has signed the Volunteer army bill and has prepared a call for volunteers that will be sent to the Governors of the several states on Monday.

It is understood that the call will be made for 100,000 troops. The plans of the War Department are now that no troops shall be landed in Cuba for the next two weeks.

Congress is now in session and will remain so until a late hour tonight. The army reorganization bill is now being considered and will probably be passed tonight and sent to the President for his signature.

THE PARIS SAFE.

Late Reports From London Say That She Was Not Captured by Spain.

London, April 23.—It is conceeded by all that the American liner Paris has escaped the clutches of the Spanish fleet. The rumor that she was captured by a Spanish torpedo boat off Lands End is denied entoto.

The report that the recently purchased cruiser Topeka of the United States Navy was run down by the steamer Albatross has been proved to be false. The vessel in collision with the Albatross was the British steamer, Jesamond.

The capture of the four-masted American clipper ship, Shenendoah by the Spanish fleet has been confirmed. The Shenendoah sailed from San Francisco January 5th. bound for Liverpool. She is commanded by Captain James F. Murphy. She is owned by Arthur Sewall & Company, of Bath, Me. She was laden with wheat.

THE NEW YORK'S PRIZE.

It Was the Spanish Freighter Pedro Bound for Havana.

Key West, April 23.—The identity of the New York's first prize has been settled. It is the Spanish steam freighter Pedro, of 1,763 tons burden, bound from Antwerp to Havana with a rich cargo.

The Pedro arrived at this city this afternoon in charge of a prize crew from the New York and under the convoy of one of the American torpedo boats. She is now anchored alongside the Buenavesta, the first prize of the war.

FINE POINT RAISED IN THE USE OF WATER

Has a Bearing on Contention of Green Brook Mill Owners.

JUDGE'S KNOTTY PROBLEM.

STATE GEOLOGICAL EXPERT HEARD ON THE QUESTION.

Senator Reed Will Try to Prove that the Mountain Water Company Has Not the Right to Draw Water From Their Wells, if By so Doing They Impair the Flow in a Material Manner on Other Property—Expert Geologist Called to Give His Evidence—The Case Goes Over the Week.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 23.—Not only will the present lawsuit over the rights to the water supply for Green brook be famous for its length and the general interest shown in it, but it promises to be remarkable for the novel questions of law that have incidentally arisen therein.

Even Chief Justice Magie said that several of the questions brought up were entirely new to him. The principal one that came up in the course of the testimony yesterday was that brought out in an objection made to a question asked by Senator Reed, as counsel for the plaintiffs, of Cornelius C. Vermule, of Orange, the geological expert of the State. The substance of the question raised was as to whether a property owner had the right to take water that was perculating through the soil and use it for some purpose which did not in any way connect with the true enjoyment and benefit of his own land. In other words, whether the water company had a right to sell the water for some purpose that was not in the slightest a benefit to the property or to any adjoining property through which the water would go if left to itself.

The trial continued all yesterday. George Harper and the other mill owners along the course of Green brook, who brought the suit, were represented by Senator Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield. The lawyers for the Mountain Park Water Company were Richard V. Lindabury, of Elizabeth, Chandler Riker and Adrian Riker, of Newark.

The day was devoted to hearing the rest of the witnesses for the plaintiff. They numbered thirty-four in all. Then there was a quantity of documentary evidence and some samples of earth submitted by Senator Reed. There were countless precedents to be submitted by both sides to show why this or that point should or should not be allowed.

William H. Pangborn, inspector for the Board of Health of North Plainfield, was a prominent witness. He told how the water in Green brook had been steadily decreased until it was necessary last summer to flush out the brook to carry away the sewage.

William H. Lake, engineer of the Hollingsworth mills at Scotch Plains, testified that while there was more than sufficient water for all purposes twenty years ago, for weeks last summer there was not sufficient water in the brook to supply the boilers at the mill.

While the defense admitted that the water company pumped away 600,000 gallons of water every day, they claimed that the mill pond could not possibly use it or store it. Samuel Hollingsworth, an engineer, a graduate of Stevens Institute, testified as to the capacity of the pond and showed by mathematical calculation how the pond could contain 1,600,000 gallons of water,

John Neagle, the weather observer for Plainfield, was put on the stand and told that during the last few years the rainfall had not lessened.

The most important witness was Mr. Vermule, who has already been mentioned. The substance of his testimony was that the water which was pumped away every day is taken from the stream and the flow of water in the latter was lessened to just that amount. He presented some of the ground taken from in the neighborhood of the pumping station. It was gravel and he pointed out that the water would pass through it very easily.

He gave a very interesting exposition of the manner in which the water drains into the wells. Mr. Vermeule is the expert of the State on all subjects relating to water supply. He had charge of preparing the geological maps for the State.

Senator Reed concluded his side yesterday afternoon and the case was then adjourned until Monday, when the water company will make its defense.

THIS CITY STIRRED BY PATRIOTISM.

War Feeling is Running High in This Locality.

STARS AND STRIPES APPEAR

TALK OF FORMING A VOLUNTEER COMPANY HERE.

Almost Every Entertainment That is Now Held Here Has a Patriotic Demonstration to it, Which Shows the True Tenor of the People—Party of Young Men Who Want to Get in Some Crack New York Regiment—Residences and Stores are Beginning to be Decked Out in the National Colors.

Plainfield is beginning to be stirred to its very depths. Every day the news of the preparations for war on every hand and the departure of troops and naval reserve to the front has roused the people to a realization that a National crisis is at hand. There have been many advocates of peace in this city and many who did not believe that the trouble between the United States and Spain would ever go as far as war. Now, however, there are few, indeed, who do not think that the conflict is here.

There is lots of patriotism in Plainfield. More than most folks realize. These exciting times have stirred it deeply. Almost every concert or entertainment that is now held in this city has introduced some patriotic demonstration which has brought forth tremendous applause, and in some cases, wild cheering.

The Stars and Stripes are now out all over the city as an emblem of patriotism. An immense American flag now hangs over the front of Edward White's big store on West Front street. Asa Collier has decorated the windows and the interior of his jewelry store on Park avenue, with bunting. Other merchants are beginning to give the red, white and blue a prominent place in window and store decorations.

A large American flag has waved from the residence of Charles W. Burton, of Watchung avenue, for several days. Captain Benjamin Doane, of LaGrande avenue, has also flung Old Glory to the breeze. There are other citizens who have followed their example.

There has been plenty of talk about forming a company here to go to war but no steps have been taken as yet. There are a party of young men who are now actively working to be taken into some of the crack New York regiments. They applied for membership to the Seventh but the ranks were filled and they are now working for enlistment in Brooklyn's crack regiment, the Twenty Third.

Harry Williams, of Somerset street, is a member of the Seventh Regiment of the New York National Guard. He is anxiously awaiting the call to turn out for active service.

From Pens to Guns

Mayor S. D. Drake, of Lincoln, says that he is going to offer the United States government a company of editors from New Jersey. It is his idea that they should stop fighting with the pen and take up the sword. The doughty mayor plans to lead this aggregation of talent against the Spaniards.

P. R. R. May Buy the Raritan Road.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, it is reported, is negotiating for the purchase of the Raritan River Railroad. This Railroad extends from New Brunswick to South Amboy, a distance of twelve miles. By its extension to the main line the Pennsylvania Railroad would have a shorter route to seashore points

WOULD LEVY ON BODY.

STRINGENT ACTION TO ENFORCE A JUDGMENT.

Rather Than Have the Constable Take His Body to Answer for a Debt, Lebbeus Ayres Paid and Went Free.

An interesting legal case has just been settled out of court and the facts are of an amusing nature. One year ago Harry Campbell, of this city, purchased a farm in Piscataway township of Lebbeus Ayres. There was about twelve wagon loads of compost on the property and it was agreed between them to leave the same on the premises until April, 1897.

Soon afterward Mr. Campbell sold the farm to Patrick Haynes, of North Plainfield, and it was also agreed to leave the compost there from April to the time the place was sold. Mr. Ayres was living on the place and he was to move in March of that year.

When Mr. Ayres moved he took the compost with him. Mr. Haynes was soon informed of the fact and he consulted his lawyer, J. P. D. Kirch. The latter at once commenced suit against Mr. Ayres for the value of the compost. The case was tried in Justice Storms' court, New Market, and the plaintiff was awarded $25.

Mr. Ayres wanted a little time to settle and he was given until April 15th last. At that time he failed to settle and Justice Storms at once issued an execution against the body to satisfy the debt. The constable went to the home of Mr. Ayres and presented his papers. The defendant claimed he owned nothing and there were no goods to levy upon. The constable then said he would levy upon the body. This frightened Mr. Ayres and he immediately paid the amount awarded, which he considered far below the worth of his body.

SOMERSET GRAND JURY.

Fifteen Indictments Reported to the Court Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 23.—The Somerset County Grand Jury concluded its work late yesterday afternoon. In all fifty complaints were considered by the jury and fifteen indictments were found. Eleven prisoners were brought before the Court and seven released. The other cases were disposed of as follows: J. Kline, atrocious assault, plea not guilty; W. Vandervoort, same charge, plea of guilty; E. Williams charged with adultery, plea not guilty; John Dorsey, breaking and entering the railroad station at Raritan, plea not guilty. The trials were set down for May 9th.

KEEN BLADE SLIPPED.

Butcher Egany, While at Work, Severely Cut His Left Hand.

James Egany, one of the clerks at Crane & Mundy's meat market, on West Front street, cut his left hand severely Thursday morning while attempting to open a can of prepared meat. The knife slipped and cut across all the fingers, nearly severing them from the hand.

Dr. W. C. Boone was called and dressed the wounded hand. Egany was able to return to the market next morning, and it is thought that no serious results will follow the hurt.

THE NEW CLUBHOUSE ON THE GOLF LINKS.

An Evidence of the Great Popularity of the Game.

PRETTY AND CONVENIENT.

FROM THE VERANDA CAN BE HAD A FINE VIEW.

The Interior of the Building Will be Finished Throughout in Wood Stained Various Colors in the Different Rooms—Exterior is a Modification of the Dutch Colonial Style—The Building Was Planned by Architect A. L. C. Marsh—Officers of the Club and What the Players Have Done.

About three years ago the Hillside Tennis Club determined, with some misgivings, to undertake to develop an interest in golf among its members. The name of the club was changed to its present title; about thirty acres of land were secured for the use of the few who were interested in the game, and the links (9 holes), about 2,100 yards in length, were laid out.

It soon became quite evident that the club was rapidly outgrowing its modest quarters; and for over a year the trustees have appreciated the necessity of securing more spacious grounds; but only last fall were they able to find available and suitable land.

They have now laid out, under the direction of Thomas Bendalow, links of 18 holes, aggregating over 5,100 yards. The limit of active membership has been increased to 200, and a non-resident membership has been provided for. The Hillside links should prove especially attractive to this latter class. The grounds can be reached in twenty minutes' drive from the Plainfield depot, which is only 45 minutes from the foot of Liberty street, New York. The club's property is unusually well adapted for the game. A very inadequate idea of the lie of the land can be obtained from the map; but the property may be briefly described as consisting of over 100 acres of rolling country, with numerous natural hazards. The links afford a wide variety of play, and the views from the clubhouse in all directions are very extended and picturesque; indeed, it has been stated by experts, that the natural advantages of the grounds are far superior to those of the great majority of 18-hole courses in this country, and are surpassed but by three or four.

The building, as planned by the architect, A. L. C. Marsh, is about 67 feet long and 30 feet deep, with a veranda 12 feet wide and 41 feet long facing the southeast and one on the northwest side 12 feet wide and 67 feet long. From these verandas may be had a fine view of the surrounding country and the new links.

The entrance hall, which opens on the southeast veranda, gives access to the dining room, lounging room, ladies' reception room and stairs to the men's locker room in the second story. To the left of the entrance hall is the ladies' reception room 10 by 11 ft. connecting with the ladies' locker room and lavatory. This locker room is provided with 31 large lockers.

The lounging room, which is directly back of the entrance hall, is 30 ft. long and 18 ft. wide. It is provided with wide seats at both ends and a large rough stone fireplace in the center of the outside wall opposite the entrance hall. Broad casement windows reaching to the floor lead out of this room to the northwest veranda. An entrance to the serving room from this veranda and the lounging room

BLOCKADE PROCLAIMED

The World Notified of Our Intentions at Cuban Ports.

PRESIDENT SIGNS NOTICE

Ports to Be Blockaded Are Named in the Document—Th Advisability of Asking Congress to Make a Formal Declaration of War Discussed at the State Department No Firing on Havana by the Fleet for Some Time to Come.

Washington, April 23.—The President's procalmation declaring a blockade of Cuban ports is as follows:

"By the President of the United States—A procalmation.

"Whereas, By a joint resolution passed by the Congress and approved April 20, 1898, and communicated to the Government of Spain, it was demanded that said Government at once relinquish its authority and government on the island of Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba, and Cuban waters; and the President of the United States was directed and empowered to use the land land and naval forces of the United States, and to call into actual service of the United States the militia of the several States to such extent as might be necessary to carry said resolution into effect; and,

"Whereas, in carrying into effect said resolution, the President of the United States deems it necessary to set on foot and maintain a blockade of the north coast of Cuba, including all ports between Cardenas and Bahia Honda and the port of Cienfuegos on the South coast of Cuba. Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, President of the United States, in order to enforce the said resolution, do hereby declare and proclaim that the United States of America have instituted and will maintain a blockade of the north coast of Cuba, including ports on said coast between Cardenas and Bahia Honda and the post of Cienfuegos on the south coast of Cuba aforesaid in pursuance of the laws of the United States and the law of nations applicable to such cases.

An efficient force will be posted so as to prevent the entrance and exit of vessels from the ports aforesaid. Any neutral vessel approaching any of said ports, or attempting to leave the same without notice or knowledge of the establishment of such blockade, will be duly warned by the commander of the blockading fleet, who will endorse on her register the fact, and the date, of such warning, where such endorsement was made and if the same vessel shall again attempt to enter any blockaded port she will be captured and sent to the nearest convenient port for such proceedings against her and her cargo as prize, as may be deemed advisable.

Neutral vessels lying in any of said ports at the time of the establishment of such blockade will be allowed thirty days to issue therefrom. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington this 22d day of April A. D., 1898, and of the Independence of the United States. The one hundred and twenty-second.

"WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

"By the President,

"JOHN SHERMAN,

"Secretary of State."

Rear Admiral Sampson has reported to the Navy Department that he had established a blockade of the northern and part of the southwestern coast of Cuba as far as Cienfuegos, but had no enough vessels to blockade the rest of the coast line.

On account of this information the proclamation issued did not declare a blocade of all Cuban ports, but merely of those which have actually been cut off from communication with the outside. The administration decided not to proclaim any paper blockade. The ports that are not blockaded are Trinidad, Santa Cruz, Jobabo, Mansanillo and Santiago de Cuba.

Advisability of Declaring War.

The State Department has been considering the advisability of requesting Congress to declare war. While there is no absolute necessity for the immediate declaration, there are several reasons why the adoption of such a course would prove advantageous to us. Strong pressure is being brought to bear upon the State Department to induce it to make a proper recommendation to Congress to serve as a basis of action.

It is held that until a formal declaration is issued we cannot set in motion the neutrality laws of foreign countries and in fact would be practically in the position that Spain occupied in Cuba—denying that war existed in spite of the actual fact.

Senator Davis, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, is of the opinion that no formal declaration is necessary. But there are some members of Congress who think it ought to be done, and they declare that a resolution declaring war should be presented to Congress at noon to-day, when the time given to Spain by the ultimatum expires. The Cabinet has decided, however, that it will wait upon Congress to make the declaration if it is necessary. In regard to the notice to the Spaniards in the United States, the Cabinet has decided that under the treaty all Spanish citizens have one year in which to leave the country, and therefore no further proclamation is needed.

A Cabinet Change Rumored.

The rumor that Secretary Sherman had resigned has been widely circulated, but no confirmation could be had at the State Department or the White House. Coupled with this story was the statement that ex-Senator Edmunds would be asked to take the place, but owing to the fact that Mr. Edmunds has hitherto stated positively that he could not accept a Cabinet position, the rumor about him is not credited. It is more than likely that any change is made that Assistant Secretary Day will be placed in charge of the department of which he has virtually been the head for months.

It is stated at the Navy Department that the policy of the Secretary is not to start hostilities in Cuba at once, and that although the fleet had started to blockade Cuban ports, it was not expected that it would open fire upon Havana or the other cities. It was to be more of a "silent blockade," unless it were attacked, and that would mean, of course, the opening of hostilities. It is the plan to wait the arrival of the Spanish fleet before anything is done, and for this reason the troops will not be transferred to Cuba for some days.

The work of mobilization of the troops in the South, however, will continue, and everything will be in readiness when the time comes for having the army in position to co-operate with the navy.

Bombardment of Havana.

One of the Cabinet said this morning that he thought it would be some time—indicating several days—before anything very exciting would be heard from the squadron. The squadron will capture any vessel that attempts to enter certain ports. These captures may at any time lead to a collision, but as long as the Spanish war vessels keep out of the way the guns of Capt. Sampson's fleet are expected to be silent. A bombardment of Havana is not expected.

Gen. Miles, who will take charge of the troops in the field, will not go South for several days. His presence is necessary in Washington until after the Volunteer and Army Organization bills are laws, as he has to have his headquarters here to issue orders carrying out their provisions.

THE PARIS SAILS FOR HOME.

Spanish Cruisers May Attack the Liner Coming with War Materials to Join the Navy.

Southhampton, April 23.—The steamer Paris of the American line, chartered by the United States Government, sailed yesterday afternoon for New York, though her regular sailing day was to-day. She had on board 150 passengers, and her cargo included a quantity of guns and ammunition.

There was great enthusiasm among the crowds on the dock, and the band of the Union Steamship Company's steamer Britain played "Yankee Doodle" as the Paris steamed seaward.

London, April 23.—The Daily Mail says:

"The Spanish Embassy immediately notified the Madrid Government of the departure of the Paris, and it is believed that fast cruisers rfom Cadiz and Corunna will try to intercept her."

The Daily Chronicle publishes a rumor that the American liner Paris has already been captured by Spanish warships.

The Liverpool correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says:

"Surprise was expressed here to-day (Friday) that the Paris should have sailed unescorted, especially as there were rumors in the Mersey that Spanish war vessels were waiting to intercept her off the south coast of Ireland. Yet the passengers of the Paris were assured of their perfect safety."

POSSESSION OF HAWAII?

Rumor That We Will Formally Take the Island as a Coaling Station.

San Francisco, Cal., April 23.—Advices from Honolulu, under date of 14th inst., state that it is rumored Minister Sewall and Admiral Miller will take formal possession of the islands in the name of the United States as a coaling station on the 15th.

It was impossible to confirm the rumor before the steamer Rio Janeiro left Honolulu.

Washington, April 23.—It was learned at the Capitol that the President in conversation with Senators asked them what they thought of the proposition to take the Hawaiian Islands as well as the Philippines as a war measure. Those in favor of annextion of Hawaii expressed the hope that the San Francisco report is true.

No Women Wanted as Nurses.

Washington, April 23.—The Secretary of War and the Surgeon-General of the army have issued an ultimatum that is calculated to create a sensation throughout the country. This is the unalterable decision not only not to employ trained or volunteer women nurses for the care of the sick and wounded in the war with Spain, but not to recognize them in any way whatever. This is the decision of the United States Government, as voiced by the Secretary of war and the Surgeon-General of the army in an interview.

To more fully comprehend what this means it must be understood that even should bands of volunteer women nurses, trained or otherwise, go to Key West or to any of the stations at which the Government hospitals for the sick and wounded sailors and soldiers are located, they will be ignored.

Key West Squadron at Havana.

Washington, April 23.—Secretary Long called at the Executive Mansion last evening with a message from Key West announcing the arrival off Havanana of Capt. Sampson's squadron. The Secretary spent an hour with the President. The information deeply interested Mr. McKinley, and the two discussed the possibility of a bombardment being unexpectedly percipitated. Arrangements have been made to obtain information with the least possible delay. Dispatch boats will be sent from the fleet whenever there is news of importance.

Spanish Fleet Still at Cape Verde Islands.

St. Vincent, Cape Verd Islands, April 23.—The combined Spanish squadrons are here still. The two battleships expected from Cadiz have not arrived and no vessel of the fleet has left this port except to reconnoitre. Fires are banked and every man-of-war is ready to sail immediately upon receiving orders from Madrid.

The Spanish fleet at Cape Verd Islands consists of four first-class armored cruisers, three torpedo boat destroyers, three torpedo boats and two transports.

Two Kaisers to Consult

London, April 23.—The Vienna correspondent of the Standard says. "Emperor Francis Joseph and Emperor William will meet at Dresden Saturday at the celebration of King Albert of Saxony. They will be accompanied by their respective Foreign Ministers, Count Goluchowski and Prince Hohenlohe. Probably they will discuss all phases of the American-Spanish war."

Armistice in Cuba is Ended by Spain.

London, April 23.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily News says the Government has instructed Governor General Blanco to declare the armistice in Cuba ended.

FIRST CAPTURE MADE

The Nashville Fired a Shot at a Spanish Merchantman.

SPANIARD SURRENDERED

The Vessel Had a Cargo of Lumber Aboard and Was on Her Way from a Mississippi Port When She Fell in with the American Fleet—Was of One Thousand Tons Burden.

Key West, Fla., April 23.—The first capture of the war was made by the cruiser Nashville south of here yesterday. The prize is the Spanish steamed Buena Ventura, of about 1,000 tons, which sailed recently from Pascagonia, Miss., for Rotterdam, loaded with lumber.

The Buena Ventura was sighted by the American squadron while it was on its way to Key West yesterday morning. The Nashville, a fleet gunboat, detached herself from the squadron and started full speed for the vessel. A moment later a gun was fired from the port battery of the Nashville, the shot striking the water a few hundred yards away. The Spaniard at this time was half a mile from the Nashville, and she held her way, making no sign of having given the shot any attention. For two minutes the Nashville continued the chase, and then tried another shot that passed apparently within a rod of the Spaniard's bow.

The officer on the Spaniard's bridge at once reversed her engines while a man ran aft and hastily lowered her flag. At this the Nashville brought alongside the Spaniard, having every gun, big and little, in the starboard broadside pointed at her.

Then a whaleboat was lowered, and Ensign Magruder, wih a boarding crew of six men, was sent and took charge of the prize. The torpedo boat Foote had run down in the wake of the Nashville, and brought to beside the Buena Ventura.

Ensign Magruder took charge of the Spaniard's papers and sent a report regarding them to the Nashville, whence they were sent to the flagship by the torpedo boat Foote.

The flagship, with the battle ships, had been lying to during this time, and soon after this a number of guns were fired from the New York, the object of which was not apparent to the newspaper dispatch boats. However, the torpedo boat Foote, after tarrying briefly at the flagship, returned to the Nashville.

She brought orders that the Buena Ventura was to be held and a few minutes later the Nashville headed toward Key West and was followed by the Buena Ventura.

As the Buena Ventura lay awaiting orders from Rear Admiral Sampson her crew hung listlessly over the rail or walked about her deck and gazed at their capturers. Two Spanish officers were on the bridge most of the time, but one, apparently the captain, went to and fro from bridge to deck and down below.

An American sailor had the wheel. Another stood on the bridge near Ensign Magruder and another guarded the main deck. The sailors carried muskets and Ensign Magruder had side arms.

The sailors on the bridge and at the wheel had bayonets in their belts, and the men on the deck kept muskets in their hands. One of those on deck was seen to examine his musket lock occasionally and handle the weapon carelessly at frequent intervals. The crew on the Nashville and the Foote, and the prize crew were entirely self-contained during the time they were waiting to start for port. No demonstrations of joy or exultation were seen.

THE CAPTURE IS LEGAL.

Usual Course of Procedure in Case of a Blockade.

Washington, April 23.—State Department authorities are convinced that the legality in international law of the act of Commander Maynard, of the Nashville, in seizing the Spanish merchantman, Buena Ventura, seventeen miles southwest of Key West cannot be questioned, Senor Gullon's note to Minister Woodford having explicitly stated that Spain considered a state of war already existed.

No other formal notification is required after that statement of the Spanish Minister. Any United States vessel meeting a Spanish vessel on the high seas is fully competent to fire upon and capture her if she can.

When Secretary Long was told that shots had been fired across the Spaniard's bows, he said: "Well, that is the usual course of procedure in case of a blockade."

Prize Worth $500,000.

The Buena Ventura, with her cargo, is worth, it is estimated, $500,000. To dispose of her as a war prize she will have to be condemned in the United States District Court. After the Court decides that she was a legitimate prize she will be sold at auction.

One-half of her value will go to the Government direct and the other half to the men who captured the prize, in the following proportions: One-twentieth to commander of the fleet; one-hundredth to the fleet captain; the remainder to the Nashville men and officers—one-tenth to commander of the gunboat, and the remainder to the men and officers, according to their rate of pay. Something will go to the naval vessel within signal distance at the time of the capture.

The Gracia Reported Taken.

Washington, April 23.—The Spanish vessel Gracia, which loaded at Pensacola with supplies and a number of army mules for the Spanish forces in Cuba, is supposed to have been captured by the vessels of the North Atlantic squadron. Navy officers think that she left Pensacola Thursday, although they have no information on the subject. Unless she got away very early, her attempt to reach Havana was probably frustrated by the American blockading squadron.

Wife Murderer Hanged.

Chicago, April 23.—Chris Merry, the wife murderer, was hanged yesterday. In November last, after a trivial quarrel, Merry kicked and beat his wife, breaking nearly every bone in her body. Then he sat down and watched her dying struggles.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

With a War on Hand Money is Close, but Trade Is on the Increase.

New York, April 23.—War is a fact and business is somewhat contracted by bankers' apprehensions. It is hardly to be supposed that seventy-three millions of Americans will want less food, less shoes or less clothoing because of war. The Paris Exchange, having to face a fall from 60 to 32 cents on Spanish bonds largely held there, has been in a state of semi-panic and inclined to realize on all American securities, but a surprising power of absorption has been developed here and stocks have fallen during this week of extreme depression only about $1.17 per share for railroads and $1.93 per share for trusts.

There is no excuse except want of nerve for decline in railway stocks when earnings have been 14.3 per cent. larger than last year for the first half of April, and 4.8 per cent. larger than in 1892, with railway tonnage eastbound from Chicago about 10 per cent. larger than in 1892.

In no aspect can the wheat market be considered without finding just occasion for a material advance in prices, which has been 7.25 cents for the week. The exports from Atlantic coast ports have been 3,104,309 bushels, flour included, against 1,190,392 last year and from Pacific coast points 435,686 bushels against 63,230 last year, making for the three weeks of April 8,389,492 bushels from Atlantic ports against 3,588,170 bushels last year, and from Pacific ports 2,529,628 bushels against 712,871 for the same week's last year. The exports of corn during the same three weeks have been 11,340,188 bushels against 10,221,161 bushels last year, which is strong evidence that the demand for wheat is in no sense fictitious. Shipments of wheat have been stimulated by fear of interruption, but the great demand shows that foreign needs are not to be satisfactorily met even by the considerable United States surplus. Indeed there is indication that the world's supply may prove too small even after American supplies has been virtually exhausted.

With 40,000 tons Bessemer iron sold at Pittsburg for $10.40, and with dealings in Gray Forge unchanged, and sales of 30,000 tons to car wheel makers alone at Chicago, and 10,000 tons at eastern works of Pennsylvania, with some at the South for pipe manufacturers, the enormous production does not diminish, and the demand for finished products includes contracts for 3,000 tons in the building of two new merchant ships, with many other contracts in sight to replace vessels bought by the Government.

The boot and shoe production this year has been the largest ever known by 10 per cent., and shipments from the East have been in April the largest on record, except in 1895, being 54,617 tons or 39 per cent. larger than in 1892.

Many works are about five weeks behind in their Spring orders, while Fall orders are the largest ever known at this season, and others are still coming forward in large number. In woolens the heavy cancellations recently reported prove to be in large measure requests for deferred deliveries, but a better demand has been seen during the past week, in some quarters on account of large Government orders. In cotton goods the resumption of work by several large mills has increased the output, and the demand does not appear to have diminished. Though print clothes are at the lowest point ever known, sales are of considerable volume, and there is at least enough demand for other goods to prevent any agreement of manufacturers as to a decrease of working capacity.

Money has been tight, althought holders are disposed to wait. Failures for the week have been 204 in the United States against 218 last year, and 29 in Canada against 21 last year.

Picked Marines Start for Cuba.

New York, April 23.—Near last midnight, in the glare of searchlights, the Panther, with 750 marines on board, left the Brooklyn Navy Yard to join Admiral Sampson's fleet. These men have been picked from all parts of the country and they are splendid specimens of manhood. They will act as a land force for the fleet in Cuba and hold their position until the regular troops arrive to support them. They are called the First Battalion of Marines. They were inspected yesterday by Colonel R. W. Huntington. The men were anxious to get to the scene of action, and when they broke ranks after the drill they cheered and sang and flung their caps in the air.

Buena Ventura Scuttled.

Key West, April 23.—There was excitement here last night over the report that an attempt had been made to scuttle the Buena Ventura, the prize taken by the Nashville, yesterday. She was noticed to be listing heavily where she lay at anchor, about a mile out, and tugs went to her assistance. At midnight the tugs were still working at her and apparently trying to drag her off a reef. She is taking in water rapidly. Considerable mystery surrounds the affair, though it is scarcely believed any one would have an opportunity to scuttle her, as the captain was the only one of her officers or men permitted to remain on board.

Fleet Sails from China for Manila.

London, April 23.—The American squadron at Hong Kong, according to a special dispatch from Shanghai, has sailed for Manila, which it will attack. The dispatch says:

"Three steamers recently purchased by the United States Government will follow the fleet with coal. The approaches to Manila are mined. It is reported here that the priests and the commercial classes in the Philippines ares in favor of a peaceful surrender rather than to suffer a bombardment, but that the military are determined to resist."

United States Cruiser Reported Sunk.

London, April 23.—The Daily Mail says it is believed in Falmouth shipping circles that the United States cruiser Topeka, formerly the Diogenes, which left Falmouth on the evening of Tuesday, April 19, foundered in collision with the bark Albatross at midnight on Tuesday. According to the Daily Mail the captain of the Albatross asserts that after the collision the steamer, whose name he did not ascertain, flashed a light and suddenly disappeared. He believes she foundered.

ARMY NOT TO GO YET

Troops Will Not Invade Cuba Until After Naval Battle.

MUST MEET SPAIN'S FLEET

Ships Must Prove Their Superiority Before Risking the Soldiers—Nothing to Be Gained by Pouring Troops Into Cuba Until the Navy Demonstrates That It Can Hold All Cuban Waters.

Washington, April 23.—The published statements that the mobilization of the army at Chickamauga foreshadows an immediate descent upon Cuba by our soldiers have no basis of truth, and, indeed, are far from the policy determined upon by the War Department. From information that may be accepted as authoritative it can be stated that there will be no effort to land the army in Cuba until the navy has settled the problem now before it.

In other words, our ships must first meet the main Spanish fleet in combat and settle the question of superiority. The commanding officers of both the army and the navy agree that it would be folly to use the army up in Cuba before it is known whether our ships can maintain a cordon around the island.

It is argued that it would be a suicidal policy to move the army into the interior of Cuba while there is a possibility of a naval defeat that would leave the soldiers at the mercy of the enemy's gun boats, and of the reinforcements that would be hurried over from Spain.

The responsible authorities believe in moving rapily and vigorously in order to bring the war to an end as quickly as possible, but at the same time they do not propose to have the army in danger of annihilation in Cuba because of the possible inability of our ships to protect them from the Spanish navy.

It can be relied upon, therefore, that the army will not start for Cuba until after the main fleets of the two navies have had an engagement, and one or other of them is in undisputed possession of Cuban waters.

When that is accomplished, the soldiers will take care of Blanco's army.

HARD CONFLICT EXPECTED.

War Not Regarded in Washington as a Holiday Affair.

Washington, April 23.—Spanish Cuba will not hold out long, the naval men think, but even those of them who are experts in the art of war are not certain that the general conflict will be a brief and unimportant affair.

The Government is in receipt of information from many sources, official and otherwise, bearing upon the preparations that Spain is making. It is admitted that she has put her army and navy into effective fighting trim. Members of Congress, as a rule, appear to believe that because Spain is all bluster and venom against the United States she is therefore making up in a vituperative war of words against this government what she lacks in military and naval strength. The naval intelligence bureau, however, could tell a different story, and those in charge there feel confident that Spain means to fight gallantly and persistently before relinquishing her sovereignty over the island of Cuba.

Nobody in Washington who has knowledge of the relative preparedness for war of the United States and Spain doubts the result of the conflict for a moment, but authorities are not ready to say that the war will be a holiday affair of a day. But whether the war is to be short or long, mild or fierce, the official opinion is that the United States are ready for it, and the outward indications are that official and unofficial Washington is like other localities, eager and awake with the fire of patriotism.

There are no parties and no factions now, in or out of Congress, and all classes of citizens are enthusiastically united in a glorious and common cause.

MUTINY ON SPANISH FLEET.

British Captain Tells Why the Torpedo Boats Went No Further Than Cape Verde Island.

Galveston, Texas, April 23.—Captain Barnet, of the British steamship Ashoun, just arrived from the Canary Islands, reports that the reason the Spanish torpedo flotilla has not sailed from the Cape Verde Islands is that all their crews mutineed. Mutiny broke out, he said, immediately after the torpedo fleet received orders to proceed from the Canaries to the American side of the Atlantic.

"We learned," the captain added, "that the men did not relish the idea of making the trip across the Atlantic. The torpedo boats had stood the sea voyage to Las Palmas pretty good, but when they got orders to proceed, the engineers, by a concerted move, disabled the machinery.

"That is the real reason why the flotilla did not proceed direct to Cuba, as ordered. Every effort was made to placate the officers and men. The officials finally got the crows of the torpedo boats into some sort of subjection, and the damage to the machinery was repaired.

"On April 2 the flotilla left. The destination was supposed to be secret, but the understanding was that they would not get further than St. Vincent, in the Cape Verde Islands."

No More Sutlers.

Washington, April 23.—The Inspector-General has prepared a list of articles to be carried by the Commissary Department for sale to officers and volunteer forces. This action will do away with the camp sutler, and will enable the troops to obtain certain luxuries, including tobacco, at contract prices. Under the old system troops were at the mercy of the sutler, and were made to pay fabulous prices for such articles, as well as for necessities.

Maccabees to Be Liable.

Port Huron, Mich., April 23.—In view of the desire of many of the 300,000 members of the Knights of Maccabees to enlist, Supreme Commander D. P. Markey has issued a dispensation which will make the order liable for the deaths of all members while engaged in the military or naval service of this country.

Doctors now agree that consumption is curable.

Three things, if taken together, will cure nearly every case in the first stages; the majority of cases more advanced; and a few of those far advanced.

The first is, fresh air; the second, proper food; the third, Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil with hypophosphites.

To be cured, you must not lose in weight, and, if thin, you must gain. Nothing equals Scott's Emulsion to keep you in good flesh.

CALL FOR 100,000 MEN.

The President Will Issue a Proclamation To-Day Calling for Troops.

Washington, April 23.—The President yesterday afternoon signed the Volunteer Army bill, and some time to-day he will issue his proclamation calling for 100,000 volunteers.

The draft of the proclamation to be issued by the President calling for volunteer soldiers is almost identical with the one issued by President Lincoln in 1861, with the changes made necessary by the difference of time and circumstances. With the proclamation Secretary Alger submitted to the President the apportionment of troops among the several States.

Although the House had not formally appointed conferees on the Volunteer Army bill, under which the President was to call for volunteers, the House conferees informally joined those appointed by the Senate, and reached an agreement. The principal differences between the bill as passed by the House and by the Senate were compromised by the informal conference.

The House bill provided that the term of enlistment in the volunteer army should be three years, unless hostilities terminated sooner. The Senate reduced the time to one year in the discretion of the President. As the bill goes to the President and becomes a law the limit will be two years, and the President's discretion is stricken out.

The provision added by the Senate permitting the organization from the nation at large of companies, troops, battalions or regiments possessing special qualifications and under their own officers (made with particular reference to cowboys, etc.), is accepted by the House with the proviso that the total shall not exceed 3,000 men.

The Senate amendment, adding surgeons, engineer officers, etc., to the regiments are generally accepted by the House.

The War Department has received hundreds of offers of service from organizations of men who have agreed to enlist in the war with Spain. To all these offers the War Department has replied that the State militia would have the preference when the call for volunteers is issued.

If the number of militiamen who volunteer is not sufficient to meet the call for men the other organizations which seem to the Government officers to be best fitted for the expected operations will be enlisted, due regard being paid to the number of volunteers for which each State is responsible.

One of the amendments made to the Hull bill in the Senate provides that the President may authorize the Secretary of War to organize five companies, troops, battalions or regiments possessing special qualifications from the nation at large.

The amendment will enable the Government to avail itself of the services of several organizations of cowboys, who are specially adapted for severe military service and who have offered their services for the present crisis.

Naval Bill Goes Over in Senate.

Washington, April 23.—There will be no business transacted by the Senate to-day. The Senate adjourned yesterday out of respect to the late Senator Walthall. The Naval bill goes over until Monday.

Walcott Had the Best of the Fight.

Philadelphia, April 23.—Tommy West, New York's crack welterweight, and Joe Walcott mixed things up for six rounds in the Arena last night. Walcott did most of the rushing, and landed a number of times on West's wind and got in several hard uppercuts. West used his right and left to advantage on Walcott's face, but when the gong sounded the colored boy had somewhat the best of the encounter.

NEW JERSEY AND WAR.

New Jersey is ready and anxious to do her part in wiping Spanish rule off the face of the isle of Cuba. In point of her position as one of the principal sea coast States which will be called upon for forces, she has already taken a prominent and active part in the preparations for war. In fact, in the amount of actual preparations for armed force with both land and sea forces she has really done more than any other commonwealth—not even excepting New York, where the activity has been confined principally to the preparations made by the National forces in and around the New York harbor. For individual State effort to preserve National honor by enforcing the demands of the President and Congress, New Jersey is in the lead.

New Jersey Naval Reserves are already in active commission and are proving that the training which the State has given in times of peace is that which will end war most quickly in our favor. It is but a matter of a few days when members of the State Guard will be called upon to do service for Uncle Sam. Though by the strict appliance of the law under which they enlist they cannot be compelled to go beyond the boundaries of the country to do battle, such technicalities will disappear in the fervor of their patriotism to wield effective and convincing evidence that the United States can depend upon the loyality of every Jerseyman to enforce its just demands.

Reduced to its true scope, privateering is merely licensed piracy and civilized nations so regard it. For this reason different nations in 1856 entered into an agreement that they would no longer in any war give their own vessels letters of marque, allowing them to prey on the marine commerce of the enemy. Spain, Mexico and the United States did not, however, sign the international compact to abolish privateering. If, therefore, either Spain or this country desired to issue to any private steamer letters of marque, giving license to fall on the other's merchantmen and capture and confiscate them, it could do so. It is not likely this will be done, however, although Spain, in her desperation, might resort to it. A peculiar feature of the situation is that while our navy is superior to that of Spain, she has many times more merchantmen on the waters of the globe than we have. Spanish fruiterers go everywhere and are known in all ports. Except in our own domestic waters the American merchant flag is practically never seen. Even if Spanish privateers were licensed and fitted out, therefore, they would have little to work on, while our regular and auxiliary naval vessels, crisscrossing the ocean, could take ample care of Spanish freightships.

Each week sees several new vessels added to the United States fleet. The latest are the Nictheroy, a regular cruiser of the Brazilian navy, and the big American liners St. Paul and St. Louis. For all three ships the government paid $5,500,000. War comes high. The Nictheroy will go into our regular navy; the Atlantic liners will be provided with protective armor and be turned into the auxiliary fleet. The St. Paul and St. Louis are swifter than any cruiser in the Spanish navy.

TAKING OFF THE DEADWOOD.

When a warship is being made ready for active service it is important that she should be stripped of all spare woodwork, boats, etc. At the same time her hull and all exposed parts are treated to a coat of paint.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

Just now a great deal of interest is centered in the United States battleship Detroit, of the "Flying Squadron," for among her crew is Dennis Keefe, a Plainfield boy. He has many friends in this city who will try to learn something about his work in warfare. Up to last night the ship was still at Key West.

"Uncle Dan" Roberts, the North avenue liveryman, has a unique pocket-piece in the form of a silver dollar which he has carried continuously since the year 1862. The coin came from the mint in that year and was presented to Mr. Roberts by a friend. He has kept it until the present day. The piece is worn almost smooth upon its faces, the date and lettering being barely discernible.

In the show window at M. C. Dobbins' cigar store on Park avenue, there is displayed a cartridge of the smokeless variety. It was presented to Joseph Bogart, of East Sixth street, Thursday evening at Jersey City by one of the soldiers of the company that passed through Plainfield on its way south. Mr. Bogert attached the cartridge to a piece of card-board at each end of which was displayed a small American flag. Written on the card just over the cartridge is the inscription "Small doses for Spanish barbarity."

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"Way Down East" enters upon its fourth month at the Manhattan and continues to be the best patronized and most generously praised play in New York. It did the largest business in town during lent and is testing the capacity of the house at every performance. One of the most delightful scenes is that of the surprise party when the quaint village constable sings "All Bound Round With a Woolen String." Miss Phœbe Davies as the heroine has gained a commanding place among the best young emotional artists of the stage. The souvenirs for the 100th performance, Tuesday, May 3rd, will be very beautiful and will commemorate the individual work of Miss Phœbe Davies.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, April 23.—The Baptist church is being wired for electricity and the main body of the church will be ready for lighting Sunday evening. The parlor of the church is already finished. Mr. Laing, of Plainfield, did the work. Stereopticon views, illustrative of Biblical scenes and acts, will be given in the church Sunday evening. The Junior Christian Endeavor Society held their first anniversary in the parlor of the church yesterday afternoon. A delightful address was made by Mrs. J. Lowry, of Plainfield. The pastor of the church also addressed the Juniors, and the little folks rendered a splendid programme. The society now numbers forty-one members. The growth has been most rapid and the meetings are helpful. Miss Lydia Hayes is superintendent, and with the aid of her assistant, Miss Addie Johnston, the society has become successful.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, April 23.—The condition of John E. Brittingham, who was seriously injured by being kicked in the face by a horse Thursday, is not improved. Brittingham, in company with Philip West and Henry Taylor, was in the wagon of Carpenter E. C. Winter when the vehicle was accidentally overturned, throwing the three men into the road. West and Taylor escaped with slight injuries, but Brittingham fell directly under the horses and was kicked in the face. The flesh was badly lacerated, and one of the man's eyelids was torn. It is thought, however, that the eye can be saved.

The annual reception and dance of the I. O. S., which took place at the Westfield Club Hall last evening, was a brilliant affair. The attendance of members and invited guests was large and all whirled in the mazes of the dance until a late hour. An midnight an elaborate supper was served and dancing was afterward resumed. The hall was decorated, presenting a pretty appearance.

The next meeting of the Westfield Township Committee will be held next Friday evening in Etta Hall. The hearing on the trolley franchise will be resumed and the ordinance will be passed to its second reading.

The Advance Club was pleasantly entertained last evening by Col. and Mrs. George H. Starr, at their home on North Broad street.

The Friday Night Euchre Club held a meeting last night at the home of Mrs. C. B. Peddie, on North Broad street.

W. H. Hale and family, of Dudley avenue, will remove to Brooklyn next week.

Miss Sophie Condit, of Elm street, is enjoying a visit with friends in Boston.

NOW!

We come a noble army,
Our country's call obey,
With hearts to God uplifted,
Forth to the glorious fray.
Downtrodden Cuba calls us
To stay the tyrant Spain.
Onward, and this our watchword,
Boys, don't forget the Maine.

Our banner floats before us,
The emblem of the free.
And 'neath its folds we'll conquer
Our foe from o'er the sea.
We love the starry ensign
That floated o'er the Maine.
And we'll uphold its honor
And have revenge on Spain.

Fair Cuba, cease thy weeping,
For soon thou shalt be free.
The Boys in Blue will help you
To gain the victory.
Down, down with the bold tyrant,
Down with the tyrant Spain.
For we can ne'er forgive her
For blowing up our Maine.

April 18, '98. —L. A. Westphal.

A BICYCLE SOCIABLE.

First of Epworth League Runs Held Last Night.

The bicycle sociable, which formed such a prominent part of the summer social life in many of the local churches last year, will again figure in the plans of the social committees for another season. The first of the year was held last evening by the Eworth League of the First M. E. church.

Owing to the cloudiness of the evening and the portending storm, the run was not as well attended as it might otherwise have been. Twelve young people gathered at the church, which was announced as the rendezvous, and at 8 o'clock started out.

James A. Stafford acted as captain and bugler of the run. Park avenue was chosen as the course. After a spin to the Oak Tree bridge, the party returned to the residence of James R. Joy, on Willow avenue, where light refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

NEW JERSEY'S POSITION.

Naval Reserve and National Guard are Already.

With its two battalions of Naval Reserves, two brigades of trained citizen soldiers and no end of eager volunteers, New Jersey is likely to take a very conspicuous place among the States in support of the Stars and Stripes, just as it stood in the forefront of the war of the Rebellion.

The State's National Guardsmen may be called minute men these days. Certainly the whole 4,000 of them could be gotten at a given point within the State inside of five or six hours from the moment the signal came. All the arrangements for this quick movement have been perfected, and every man is under strict orders to remain within instant call. The captains of companies are in such close touch with their men that the telegraph, telephone or bicycle messenger can carry notices with all possible dispatch.

The authorities are not in need of emergent volunteers, and believe that the National Guard will be all that the State will be asked to furnish. The Governor and the Adjutant-General deny that they have authorized organizations to piece out the National Guard in case of an emergency.

Mrs. E. D. Moffett, of Orchard place, has returned from a week's visit with her daughter in Trenton.

Miss Edith Proctor, of Philadelphia, has returned home after a visit with Miss Daisy Elsberg, of Prospect place.

HOLBIEN A FAVORITE OF HENRY VIII

By Tact He Managed to Retain the King's Approbation.

At the court of Henry VIII., Holbien, the painter, was a favorite. He made a careful study of the King's vagaries and with much dexterity contrived to keep his head on his shoulders, though it was many times in peril.

At the death of Jane Seymour Henry sent his favorite to Flanders, with orders to paint the portrait of Christina, in order that he might judge of her fitness to become his consort.

The portrait was painted and sent to England, and the delighted King sent back an immediate proposal of marriage.

It was fortunate for the Flemish painter that he was not at hand when Christina's answer was delivered to his patron.

"Unfortunately I possess but one head. Had I been endowed with two I would gladly have placed one at your Majesty's disposal!"

Eager to conciliate the angry King, his Minister, Thomas Cromwell, suggested that Holbein should be sent on to paint Anne of Cleves, who seemed more likely to prove a willing bride. The picture was a flattering one, and Henry made every arrangement for the marriage.

Hurrying off to meet his bride, Henry was so much disgusted when he saw "the Flanders mare," as he called her, that he sent her back. The incident cost Cromwell his head. Fortunately for Holbein, it did not strike the King that he was in any way to blame.

The Fleming was not liked by the English court, and various plots were formed to turn the King against him. To a complaint from a favorite Minister that Holbein had thrown him downstairs, Henry's reply was characteristic.

"I tell you that of seven peasants I can make as many lords, but not one Holbein.—Philadelphia Ledger.

TO CATCH BICYCLISTS.

A Net Set on a Bad Curve Near Nice, France.

The touring cyclist runs many risks; but nowhere probably was there a more terrible death trap than the Ramingac bridge, on the road from Nice to Mentone. This bridge, which spans a chasm between twenty and thirty yards deep, is the meeting place of two parallel roads, which approach it at right angles, and with a somewhat steep ascent. Consequently cyclists and vehicles which approached the bridge incautiously and were not able to turn with sufficient promptness came into violent collision with the parapet, and were not infrequently hurled over it into the chasm beneath. In less than three years a hundred persons—among them twenty cyclists—have in this way been either killed or seriously injured. The French government has at length undertaken to make such changes as would obviate the serious danger. Seeing, however, that the necessary measures would not be completed in less than four or five years, the Touring club de France have had constructed a protecting network. Strong iron supports are let into the masonry of the bridge, and over these is stretched copper wire netting capable of supporting the weight of two horses should they be thrown upon it. The work was finished last spring. Five days after its completion a cyclist came into collision with the parapet of the bridge, his machine was smashed and he was hurled into the netting, and escaped uninjured. Several other persons have since been similarly saved from disaster.—St. James Budget.

It is not a remedy put up by any Tom, Dick or Harry; it is compounded by expert pharmacists. Ely Bros. offer a 10 cent trial size. Ask your druggist. Full size Cream Balm 50 cents We mail it.

ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

Since 1861 I have been a great sufferer from catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured. Terrible headaches from which I had long suffered are gone.—W. J. Hitchcock, late Major U. S. Vol. and A. A. Gen. Buffalo, N. Y.

Collar and Jabot.

Nothing gives a smarter appearance to a walking costume than a lace ruffle and jabot; with fur trimmed coats they are particularly smart. The lace should be of a soft, cream tint and of a good quality, as with fur especially poor lace is in bad taste.

The collar illustrated has a band of violet velvet round the throat, with a pleating of the same at the back, over which falls a pleating of lace carried in a narrower width round the sides and front. The jabot consists of three frills of lace, the two lower ones being run on net to make them the required length; two rosettes of narrow lace are placed on the collar band each side the front.

A Ready Reply.

A tipsy Scotchman was making his way home on a bright Sunday morning when the good folk were wending their way to the kirk. A little dog jerked himself away from a lady who was leading it by a ribbon, and as it ran from her she appealed to the first passer-by, who happened to be the inebriate, asking him to whistle for her poodle. "Woman," he retorted, with the solemnity of visage which only a Scotchman can assume—"Woman, this is no day for whustlin'!"

She Wanted a Divorce.

Scene—Lawyer's office. Enter little girl, sobbing bitterly.

Lawyer: "Why, little one, what's wrong?"

Little Girl: "Are you Mr. Blank, the lawyer?"

Lawyer: "Yes. What is it you want?"

Little Girl: "I want—(sob)—I want—a divorce from my pa and ma."

"Do you object to having a sentence ended with a preposition?" inquired one member of Congress. "It all depends on circumstances," replied the other. "When some people here get started I'd be thankful to have them end the entire address with any part of speech that comes handy."—Washington Star.

Dainty Letter Board.

There should be in every home, especially where there is a large family, a place to put the mail when it arrives, so that each member of the family will know just where to look for the expected letter. One which is not only convenient but also a dainty ornament for the wall is made of a piece of thin wood or thick cardboard, fifteen by eighteen inches, enamelled in white or any pretty tint. Strong ribbon or silver or gold braid is used for the straps. These are stretched as tightly as possible in crisscross fashion and fastened at different points with gold headed nails. If one is handy with the brush a few dainty sprays may be painted at the bottom and with a clever bow of bright ribbon this makes a very decorative panel for the wall.

In Blue Foulard.

The guimpe effect in bodices promises to be very popular this season, the upper part in some cases extending down the front and made of some soft, light material. An effective dress made in this style, of blue figured foulard, has the guimpe of white chiffon, mounted on silk. The tabs which surround the shoulders are lined with silk and interlined with canvas, then edged around with a ruche. Collar of chiffon with lace frill at the back and ceinture of blue velvet.

Very stylish waists are made of black silk, crossed with bright Roman stripes, and a fad with fashionable young women is the wearing of handsome brocade shirt waists, with tailor-made skirts.

Tailor-Made Skirt.

In Paris some of the very fashionable tailors are making for their fair customers very handsome tailor-cloth skirts, to be worn with lace blouses made over satin the color of the cloth skirt. A jewelled belt and dob-collar to match complete the toilet, which is worn at small dinners, concerts, and the theatre. Other tailors send home a cloth skirt, elegantly silk-lined, with two or three waists to wear with the skirt—a diaphanous one, like chiffon over silk, and two of satin brocade, violet, cerise, orange yellow, or whatever color is most becoming and accords best with the color of the cloth skirt.

The Natty Short Coat.

The early prediction by some of the tailors and importers, that the long-skirted coats would prove very popular this season, has not yet been fulfilled. The model has appeared upon a few very special cloth costumes designed for tall women, most of these elaborately braided. But the greater portion of stylish and natty coats and jackets are short, and not a few accompanying tailor costumes are in the little Eton bolero and similar styles so familiar for seasons past. These, likewise, appear en suite with summer suits of pique, linen, gingham, chambray, and like materials.

Celebrated Lovers.

Heinrich Heine, the poet, was terribly jealous. One day he poisoned a parrot belonging to his lady love, for fear it should claim too much of her attention.

"The Rivals" is a true story of Sheridan's courtship, the character of Lydia Languish in the life play being taken by Miss Linley, who afterwards became the author's wife. Thomas Moore was always in love. If one looks through his poems, one may find the names of some sixteen different ladies to whom he swore eternal fidelity.

Dainty Scotch Ginghams.

The new Scotch ginghams and French zephyrs rival the taffeta silks in pattern and artistic coloring, and the summer girl who dons a gown made of these charming fabrics, with the dainty ribbon trimmings, and carries the parasol which comes to match the goods will look quite as pretty at half the cost as the girl who walks in silk attire.

Glass Spoons for Medicine.

Glass spoons are sold at the drug stores for the taking of medicines which may tarnish silver. Better, however, than there are the glass tubes which keep such powerful drugs away from the teeth as well; and better, perhaps, than both, is the attention to food and hygenic living, which does away with the necessity of any such heroic dosing.

Cotton Counterpanes.

White cotton counterpanes after being washed should never be wrung out, but carried to the drying-ground in a washing tub. Before they are thoroughly dry they should be folded quite smooth and flat, and left for 10 or 12 hours, and then well aired.

Gernsheim. Mit einem Aufwand von 500,000 Mark wird hier ein neuer Doppelhafen, für Schiffe und Floßholz, gebaut, der allen Anforderungen der Neuzeit entspricht und zum Herbst fertig werden soll. Der neue Hafen besitzt eine bequeme Einfahrt, hat Ausladestellen für hohen und niederen Wasserstand und eine circa 120 Meter lange Quaimauer bei einer Gesammtlänge der Anlegefläche von etwa 700 Meter, so daß 15 bis 20 Schiffe zugleich be- und entladen werden können. TRIUMPH OF A BOSTON GIRL.

She is Attracting Marked Attention in London by Her Violin Performances.

The latest American triumph in London is that of Miss Leonora Jackson, the Boston girl, who has astonished the metropolis with her abilities as a violinist. Born nineteen years ago, Miss Jackson displayed as a child a remarkable talent for music, and at 15 was sent to Europe to study the violin with MISS JACKSON.

Dr. Joachim at the Berlin Hochschule. She made such excellent use of her opportunties that she carried off the Mendelssohn state prize in Berlin from all the German competitors. In October, 1896, Miss Jackson appeared on the concert platform with the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, the conductor being Dr. Joachim, and has taken part since then in concerts in various continental towns, her playing having been spoken of everywhere in laudatory terms.

A CHECK FOR ONE CENT.

Lots of Red Tape Necessary in This Case to Collect Unpaid Postage on a Letter.

Postmaster McCroskey, of Newburg, owns a check on the National Bank of Newburg for the sum of one cent. And this is how he became possessor of it. A drop letter in the Newburg postoffice, to go to a person in another State, had on it a one cent stamp instead of a two cent stamp. The person to whom the letter was addressed received a letter from Postmaster McCroskery, which informed him of the holding of the leter in accordance with the postal laws for the additional one cent postage. In response the person advised sent a money order for one cent through the Postal Telegraph Company, and wired the postmaster that he had sent it. The Postmaster then sent the letter on to the person to whom it was addressed. A the telegraph office the one cent was refused until the Postmaster called in a friend to identify him. This he did and then a check for one cent on the Newberg National Bank was made to the order of the Postmaster, and the person called in to identify him signed both the telegraph book and the check before it was delivered to Postmaster McCroskery. The check will be framed as a curiosity and kept to show the "red tape" now necessary to do business. The receiver of the letter expended $1.25 for telegraphing and the money order to get the letter, and all because the sender neglected to put on a two cent instead of a one cent stamp.—Philadelphia Ledger.

EXPERT TOBACCO TESTING.

Cuban Buyers and Their Highly Developed Sense of Smell.

The greater part, in fact, practically all, of the tobacco raised in Cuba and not used by the Cuban cigar makers is shipped to the United Sttes. At certain seasons of the year the Havana hotels are filled with tobacco buyers from the States. Some of them deal with the brokers in Havana, but some who know the country and the language go out into the tobacco districts and deal directly with the planters, often buying a promising crop before it is picked. The tobacco buyer has necessarily to be a good judge of tobacco. He goes down into the very center of the bale of tobacco he is examining, extracts some samples and tests them in different ways.

The first test is that of smell. The Cuban tobacco has a strong and peculiar odor. A little variation one way or the other makes the tobacco good or bad. After smelling it the buyer is likely to roll a rudely constructed cigar out of the leaf and smoke it. He will inhale the smoke and endeavor to determine exactly the flavor. He will also examine the ash carefully and test also the combustion of the tobacco—that is, try to find out how long it will hold fire. It is a great annoyance to a smoker who is talking or writing or otherwise engaged to put his cigar into his mouth and find that it has gone out. No cigar tastes so good after it has once gone out, and a fine Havana cigar is positively rank when it has met such a catastrophe. So one quality sought for is that of holding fire. If a sample smoked by the buyer will keep lighted four minutes it is considered very good. Some will burn for five minutes and even longer without being puffed.—Ohio State Journal.

Making a Distinction.

Miss Cayenne has caused her partner a great deal of annoyance by forgetting what her long suit was and remaining oblivious to trump signals. He mopped the perspiration from his brow and ventured the observation, "I was under the impression that you said you were accustomed to playing whist." "Yes," she answered, sweetly, "I play it. I don't work at it as some people do."—Washington Star.

organizations. They will be commanded by officers selected by the Governor, who will reply to a great extent upon the advice of the State Military Board in the matter. It has been positively determined that the four regiments of the National Guard not sent out on the first call will be kept intact within the State for duty at Sandy Hook, Fort Mott and along the coast.

It is not unlikely that the two regiments the Governor will select to represent New Jersey's quota in the first troops will be under canvas at Sea Girt by Monday night.

SLOW WORK ON MONTAUK.

Reserves Disheartened Because the Monitor Will Not Sail for Some Days.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

League Island, April 23.—The Battalion of the East, New Jersey Naval Reserves, who are now on the old monitor Montauk, are downcast. Hopes of both officers and men have been dashed. They had reason to expect that the monitor would leave the navy yard here on her trip to Portland, Me., Monday next, but if she gets away by the middle of next week she will be making quick time. The carpenters, machinists and painters who have been employed on the monitors have been by no means rapid, and, though the Montauk has been completed with the exception of the finishing touches, the latter are being put on with the slowest kind of speed.

The twenty-seven reserves who have come from Newark, Jersey City and Hoboken to prepare the way for their associates, who are to fill out the crew of ninety-five, have done all the work they can do until the workmen shall have finished up. All the stores and supplies, and some of the ammunition have been put aboard, and the reserves are now simply putting in time. All is ready for the four small boats to be placed at the davits, but that will not be done until almost the last moment.

It is not known when the rest of the Montauk's crew will be called, but they will probably get the word early next week. The men for the Lehigh, which is to go out Monday, have been summoned and will arrive today. The quarters on the Montauk are better than many of the men who have not been here imagine. It seems to be the general opinion that they are to occupy a coffin-like space under the water, with nothing but inconveniences for them to put up with. While the seamen's quarters are limited as to space and light, it is planned that only half of the men will occupy them at one time, the other half being on watch. In that way there will be more comfort than was figured upon at first. Everything has been painted and made sweet and clean. The provision for ventilation is ample, and now that toplights have been put in, the darkness has been considerably encroached upon.

PATRIOTIC PLAINFIELD.

Among the merchants who have decorated their places of business are Morris C. VanArsdale, Harry W. Marshall, the Paul T. Norton Company, R. C. Rand, Edward White, Asa Collier.

Old Glory is now flying from the residence of P. M. Demarest, of Craig place, and from the residence of Dr. Carman, of Franklin place. Other householders are putting the national colors in prominent places. Many new ones were put up this morning.

A handsome flag now waves over the sidewalk in front of The Daily Press office.

A clerk in the New York office of John M. Whiton, of Central avenue, an insurance broker, is a member of the New York militia. When the company was ordered to be ready to turn out, the young man asked his employer what he should do. Mr. Whiton told him to go when his country called him, and his place would remain open for him and he would receive full pay during his absence.

Resolute Men Ready.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 23.—Commander Dahlgren last night said that his detail of 150 men ordered for the Resolute was in such shape that he could have it ready in an hour after the call to move came.

For City Girls.

The executive committee of the Local Union of Christian Endeavor, the missionary committees of the several societies and junior superintendents, will meet Tuesday evening next in the Y. M. C. A. building to thoroughly consider the advisability of inaugurating a Fresh Air Work in Plainfield to be known as the "Summer Home for City Girls." Presidents of societies are requested to come prepared to state whether their organizations would favor such a step. An important executive meeting of the Local Union will occupy the latter half of the evening.

Red Men Pay Death Benefits.

At the meeting of Paughcaugh naughsinque Tribe Wednesday night, a warrant for $100 was drawn to pay Mrs. Nellie Baxter, the widow of the late S. W. Baxter, who died of hydrophobia the 14th inst. The money is in the hands of V. W. Nash, who is awaiting her return from Brooklyn, when he will pay it over to her.

Visiting Preachers.

Tomorrow morning at Grace P. E. church Rev. Dr. Geo. R. VanDewater, rector of St. Andrew's church, Harlem, and chaplain of Columbia University will preach at the ordination service. At the evening service Rev. Dr. C. W. E. Body, professor of Old Testament Literature at the General Theological Seminary, New York city, will preach.

Mission Trustees

The following trustees were elected at the East Third Street mission last Thursday evening: C. W. McCutchen, three years; R. K. Case and L. W. Randolph, two years; L. W. Serrell and I. L. Brady, one year. The board has organized by selecting C. W. McCutchen, president; L. W. Serrell, treasurer, and I. L. Brady, secretary.

Sudden Death of Daniel D. Vermeule.

A telegram from Warden Blore, Elizabeth, announces the death this morning of D. D. Vermeule, of 115 Watchung avenue. He was stricken with a fit and died before coming out of it. A wife, son and daughter survive him.

Will Stimpson, of the News office, has purchased a new Eldridge wheel.

Miss Aimee Emmons, of Prospect place, has purchased an Eldridge wheel.

Mrs. John H. VanWinkle, of Duer street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. T. Stedman, of Hoboken.

Mrs. Arnold, wife of Judge Arnold, of Philadelphia, who has been visiting Miss Minnie Wilson, of Tunlaw, returned to her home this morning.

—The entertainment last evening under the auspices of the Junior Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church was well attended, and the young people acquitted themselves to the delight of all. A liberal offering was given for the cause of missions.

ACCEPTED CHANGE OF PLEA

Sentence Suspended in the Case of Sexton Isaac W. Kennedy.

There was quite an array before City Judge DeMeza this morning. The most important case was that of Isaac W Kennedy, charged with not interring bodies in the Methodist cemetery a sufficient depth. His attorney, W. B. Codington, presented an affidavit to the effect that he had not been circulating stories to the disrepute of the Board of Health. On the strength of that, Corporation Counsel Marsh withdrew his objection to the plea of non vult. The plea was received by the Court and sentence suspended.

James Cullen, of Belle Meade, was found drunk on Watchung avenue yesterday afternoon by Roundsman Flynn. Sentence was suspended.

The trial of William H. Smith for alleged violation of the health ordinance was adjourned for a week. So was the case of James Brown, who was charged with assaulting little Charles Miller on Paradise alley.

The trial of Edmund Brown on a serious charge was started and was discontinued until next Saturday pending settlement.

TALKED OF MISSIONS.

Superintendent of World's Y. W. C. T. U. Delivered an Address.

Last evening in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church the Christian Endeavor Society of the church held an interesting meeting which was addressed by Mrs. Frances J. Barnes, of New York, who is superintendent of the World's Y. W. C. T. U. Her subject was "Missions," and after the opening exercises were conducted by Miss C. R. Yates, Mrs Barnes made her address. She told many interesting facts concerning the mission work being carried on in foreign countries, of the difficulties and obstacles encountered by missionaries in taking the Gospel to the heathen. Mrs. Barnes, through her talk, was able to enthuse those present with a greater desire to do more for missions. She is a very pleasant speaker and she spoke entertainingly for nearly one hour.

Good Store Sense.

Weinberger, the clothier, seldom deals in generalities when he talks through advertisements to the purchasing public. A notable example of this is his column advertisement on the seventh page of today's Press. A short time ago Mr. Weinberger purchased the entire stock of J. W. Tillard & Co., of New York, and in it is to be found quality and fashion combined in handsome and serviceable suitings. Rather than hint at what he might do, if he wanted to, Mr Weinberger tells in advertising phrase what he will do. That is, he gives prices. That is what the buying public wants—prices, and low prices, too. Those are the kind that are found in his advertisements. Common sense teaches the working man who has to make his money go as far as possible to visit the Weinberger store.

Why Go Away?

Already people are beginning to talk about going away for the summer. Why should Plainfielders do this when they are part owners of the loviest summer resort in the world? It is no more necessary than it is to go elsewhere for optical attention, and in this line the scientific selection and adjustment of glasses is a specialty at Collier's, 103 Park avenue, where all examinations and advice are free.

Mrs. Linn Edsall Better.

A Church Worker.

Friends of Mrs. Charles S. Lewis formerly of Evona avenue, have supposed lately that she had returned to Plainfield, her name having been mentioned in connection with several entertainments at the Heavenly Repariah house, of which her late husband was the founder. But the Mrs. Lewis spoken of, who has been of great assistance in the church this winter, lives on Seventh street, near Clinton avenue, and only moved there about a year ago. Mrs. Charles S. Lewis rented her house immediately after the death of Mr. Lewis last autumn, and removed to Pelham, where she has been ever since.

THREE REASONS WHY WE FEEL PLEASED.

1.—More 1898 "Eldridges" have been sold than all other 1898 models together in the six cities in which we have stores—over 1,000 so far.

2.—More lies have been concocted about this concern by starving competition than about all other bicycle dealers in the State—over 50 YARNS so far and more in the process of manufacture.

3.—With nearly double the number of wheels on the road that we had out at this time last year, our guarantee repair work has fallen off 90 per cent.

NAVAL BATTLE IN PROSPECT.

Spanish Fleet Coming Towards the New England Coast.

SPECIALS TO THE DAILY PRESS.

Washington, D. C., April 25th.—The first great naval engagement of the war between the United States and Spain seems to be at hand. Such are the hints that have emerged from the Navy department. Now according to the general supposition, the fight will not be off the harbor of Havana.

It is thought that the Spanish flotilla that left Spain nearly two weeks ago, is now off the coast in the neighborhood of Block Island, near Newport, R. I., and that the battle will take place there.

A Spanish fleet, composed of the battleship Pelayo, two cruisers, whose names are not known, three torpedo boat destroyers and three torpedo boats sailed from the ports of Pelayo and Ferrol ostensibly bound for the Cape de Verde Islands.

As yet nothing has been heard from the fleet at Cape de Verde Islands, although more than sufficient time has elapsed to allow them to reach there.

Secret information from Madrid says that the fleet really left for the North Atlantic coast to prey upon the merchant marine of the United States and attack some of the coast cities.

It is suspected that the fleet is also on the lookout for the Paris returning to the United States from England on its last trip as a merchantman.

Sufficient time has now elapsed since the departure of the Spanish flotilla from the Spanish ports to allow it to reach this side of the Atlantic. The fleet is thought to be heading for that part of the coast near Newport, R. I., and Block Island.

The Spanish fleet has not yet been reported, but the Navy department considers that it is close at hand. They consider it a very formidable fleet.

The auxiliary cruisers, New York and St. Louis, now at Cramp's shipyard, Philadelphia, preparing to be converted into cruisers, will be ordered to sea at once.

They will not wait to receive their armament but will cruise along the coast on the outlook for the Spanish fleet.

It is the plan of the department to use them as scouts to discover the location of the enemy's ships and then run away and give warning of their approach.

The New York and St. Louis are faster than any of the cruisers in the approaching fleet and will be able to leave them behind in case of a chase.

Mr. Roosevelt Resigned.

Washington, April 25.—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt presented his resignation from that position today.

The resignation was expected as Mr. Roosevelt has declared his wish to take an active part in the military operations. He will probably be succeeded by Rear Admiral Walker, of the retired list.

Mr. Roosevelt is to be commissioned as a Brigadier of Volunteers. His name will probably be sent to Congress today for confirmation.

Liners to Act As Scouts.

Philadelphia, April 25.—The American Liners, New York and St. Louis, who are now at Cramps shipyard ready to be converted into auxiliary cruisers, have been ordered to sail this afternoon before the sun sets.

They will not romain to receive their armament which is now all ready to be placed on board them. It is reported that they will be used as scouts to watch for an approaching torpedo boat flotilla from Spain.

England's Position.

New York, April 25.—A despatch from London declares that the report that England has ordered all American and Spanish warships to leave her ports in forty-eight hours, in incorrect.

It is now reported that England will give the United States twenty-four hours notice when the forty-eight hour rule is to be enforced.

The bankers and brokers of Wall street have decided to organize a volunteer regiment for the war. They have opened recruiting offices.

Charles E. Quincy, secretary of the war committee of the bankers and brokers, is in charge of the movement. He is represented in charge of the enrollment by D. K. Roger.

To Intercept Spanish Flotilla.

Providence, April 25.—The cruiser Columbia, all ready for war, is making for Newport and will doubtless remain there to head off the torpedo flotilla from Spain, reported to be near.

Washington, April 25.—Portugal must either keep her hands off or declare her friendliness to Spain. Such is the decision of President McKinley and he has issued an ultimatum to Spain's little neighbor on the Iberian peninsula.

The ultimatum was sent to Portugal this morning and an answer, if one is to come, will be received at once. The contents of the ultimatum the State department has not yet made public.

It is well understood, however, that Portugal is asked to assure the United States of her neutrality in the present war between the United States and Spain. If she does not, then she will be considered an ally of Spain and treated as such.

The fact is that the United States does not like the appearances of the actions of the Portugese government. They have not taken a neutral course in the contest.

The Cape de Verde Islands are the property of Portugal. The Spanish fleet is still allowed to remain there without any protest from the Portugese Government.

According to international law, a neutral nation must not harbor a fleet of war ships of either country after the conflict has begun. Portugal is not observing that law. Now she is to be called to account.

If the Spanish fleet is allowed to remain, then Portugal will be considered a Spanish ally. Under those circumstances an American fleet is likely to attack the Islands.

An announcement has been made in political circles in this city that there is to be a complete rearrangement of the Cabinet. Several changes have been expected.

John Sherman has resigned the portfolio of the State Department. His health will not permit him to continue in that important place. It was understood that his assistant, Judge Day would fill the vacancy.

It is stated now, however, that Judge Day has presented his resignation as Assistant Secretary of State, and that he will not accept the appointment as chief of that department.

The other rumored change in the Cabinet excites some surprise. It is reported that Secretary of War Alger and Secretary of the Navy Long will both hand in their resignations shortly.

Their alleged reason is that they do nyt approve of the present policy of the President in waging what they term a "peaceful" war.

They believe that an active campaign should immediately be started against Havana and that it should be bombarded before the Spanish fleet can come to its rescue.

The navy department has received information that a Spanish fleet has set sail bound for the north Atlantic coast where an attempt will be made to bombard some of the principal coast cities.

No information has been given out as to the port from whence the fleet nas sailed. The department authorities are very reticent on the subject.

Congress will convene at noon. It seems very likely that a declaration of war will be passed at once. Then the Senate will consider the Army reorganization bill.

The converted cruisers New York and St. Louis are to be ready very shortly for service. They will be sent out as scouts to look for the approach of the Spanish fleet which is said to have sailed for this part of the coast.

No Word From Paris.

New York, April 25.—While no information has yet been received from the American liner, Paris, it is considered that she is now safe.

It is thought that had the Paris been captured, or met with any accident, the news of it would have reached here long before this.

THREE MORE PORTS CLOSED

Rear Admiral Sends Detachments to Blockade Cardenas, Mantanzas and Mariel.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 25.—Rear Admiral Sampson has closed the ports of Cardenas, Mariel and Mantanzas in addition to Havana. His war ships have captured two new prizes: The Miquel Joner, a merchantman, worth $400,000, and the Spanish transatlantic liner Catalina, worth $1,500,000. This makes six prizes in all, the others being the Buena Ventura, the Pedro, the Methide and a fishing smack. The report that Morro Castle fired on the fleet came from the fact that ten shots were fired on a newspaper tug which lost her bearings at night and got too close to land.

STATE GUARD DEPENDED ON

In Case Citizen Volunteers are Wanted W. W. Coriell Will Be a Recruiting Officer.

Comrade W. W. Coriell, of West Front street, who is endeavoring to secure permission to organize a company of volunteers from Plainfield for the Spanish-American war, received a letter Saturday from Adjutant-General Stryker, in response to one written. The State officer replied that the first call would be for members of the National Guard, and that he expected to get an order from Washington at any moment telling him to secure the enlistment of volunteers. In that case Mr. Coriell will probably receive official notification of such fact.

RESERVES DISCOURAGED.

They Say Slow Workmen Will Delay Their Departure for a Week.

(Special to The Daily Press.

League Island, April 25.—The New Jersey Naval Reserves now on the old monitor Montauk have had another disappointment. It had been hoped by the executive officer, Edward McClure Peters, and the other officers and men, that the rest of the crew, seventy men, would be permitted to come here immediately and fill out the complement of ninety-five men. The officers figured that with the entire crew here the work of conditioning the monitor for service could have been finished soon, as there are plenty of practical men in the crew who could do the jobs upon which the regular workmen at the yard are now taking so much time. There is now nothing for the Reserves to do but wait for the slow workmen to finish up. The trouble is that work at the yard is rapidly drawing to an end, nearly every vessel except the old monitors having been sent away, and the men are not hurrying themselves out of work.

Recruiting at Westfield.

Westfield, April 24.—General Stryker has sent orders to have an office opened in Westfield for the purpose of recruiting volunteers for the United States army. The office will be opened within a few days.

Minister Raising a Regiment.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, N. J., April 25.—Rev. Otis Glazebrook, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, is organizing a volunteer regiment. He will be the colonel. The minister is the chaplain of the Third Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey. He served in the Confederacy and knows what active service is.

DAMAGED BY LIGHTNING

A SERIES OF SHOWERS OF UNUSUAL VIOLENCE YESTERDAY.

The Electric Bolts Descended Chimneys and Frightened Occupants Badly—Considerable Money Loss Resulted.

A series of showers of unusual violence visited this section yesterday and continued at intervals all day. During the afternoon there was a thunder storm that wrought considerable damage in the city.

A bolt of lightning struck the residences of William Madden, 508 West Fifth street, and Mrs. Ann Kelley, 512 West Fifth street, during the storm at about 3:30 o'clock.

At the home of Mr. Madden, the lightning went up the chimney, blackened and burned the gilt moulding about the walls of the parlor and sitting room. The damage amounted to $20 there.

The lightning went up the chimney of the Kelly home. The sitting room was filled with flame and Miss Winifred I. Kelly supposed that all was afire. She screamed "fire." The tin covers to the openings in the chimney were blown out and the soot sent all over the rooms. The bolt pierced the chimney at the roof, making a clean hole there an inch in diameter. A large piece of lath and plastering was torn off the wall in the third story. The bolt went down the slate roof, tearing up the slate and splitting and shivering the rafter. It finally reached the gutter and thence through the water pipe to the ground.

The occupants were greatly frightened but felt no bad effects from the electricity. The damage will amount to considerably over $100.

During the very heavy rain of the afternoon, the water gathered under Watchung avenue railroad bridge faster than the sewers could carry it away. The sidewalks were flooded for the time. When the water went down, a sediment of an inch of soft mud was left on the sidewalks.

A few minutes before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon a very sharp flash of lightning struck an electric light wire on West Front street opposite Mr. Pier's house and broke the wire, which was left hanging over the sidewalk until Frank Vanderhoff appeared and removed it by fastening it to the fence. No other damage resulted.

TOUCHED FOR $35.

Charles Smith Lost His Wad in Front of a Newspaper Office.

Charles Smith left his home at Tonton, Mass., last week with $35 in his pocket. When he landed in Plainfield this morning he han't a cent.

One of Smith's friends is in the Brooklyn militia. Yesterday he went over to say good-bye to him. He was then coming to Plainfield to take a position at the Pond Tool Works. Yesterday afternoon they went to New York together and walked past the New York Journal office. Smith's money was in his pocketbook. His ticket to New York was in his coat pocket. Some kindly stranger relieved Smith of his pocketbook with its valuable contents. All he had left was one cent.

Luckily Smith had his ticket and was able to reach Plainfield safely this morning. He is going to board at 223 Grant avenue. He will start work at once at the Pond Tool Works.

An Acter's Claims.

Just as the goods of Daniel Ryan's Repertoire Company were to be driven away from Music Hall Saturday evening, Constable Rockafellow served a writ of attachment on them. The writ was issued by Justice Newcorn at the request of Joseph W. Clark, of New York, who was with Ryan's Company last season. The claim was settled.

Pythians Getting in Condition.

At the meeting of Crescent Company of Uniformed Rank Knights of Pythias, Friday evening, committees were appointed to arrange for a hall in which to hold weekly drills. The members of the company desire to be thoroughly efficient in tactics so that they might volunteer should the situation warrant it.

To Confer With City Officials.

Next Thursday evening the fire and building committees of the City Council will hold a conference with representatives of the Home Telephone Company, of Trenton. The company has already applied for a franchise to establish its system in this city.

Large Results From Press Advertising.

Doane & Edsall stated to our reporter this morning that during their business career they had not had such large results from advertising as last Saturday, the first day of their removal sale. They were unable to wait upon the trade so great was the rush.

Will Stimpson, of the News office, has purchased a new Eldridge wheel.

RAIDED A POKER GAME.

POLICE CAPTURED THE GAMBLERS IN THE WEST END.

A Quiet Game Was Being Played in a Room Over Kavanaugh's Restaurant—Hearing to Be This Afternoon.

The police raided a gambling den in the upper room at Kavanaugh's restaurant at the corner of Grant avenue and South Second street, last evening at 9:10 o'clock. The raiding party consisted of Chief Grant, Sergeant Kiely, Roundsmen Flynn and Frederickson and Patrolmen McCarthy and Totten.

They found half a dozen men busily engaged in a game that strikingly resembled draw poker. When the Sergeant and McCarthy entered the room there was a grand scampering. The other officers had surrounded the building and gained an entrance. The proprietor, Jack Kavanaugh, was found hiding in the coal bin in the cellar.

The others arrested were Peter Schneiderwinn, Patrick Fleason, Jos. Block and Hugh Wiertz. Cards and money were found on the table.

The prisoners were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning and held for trial this afternoon. Several other arrests will follow.

DEATH OF MRS. J. V. BEEKMAN.

Died Very Quietly Yesterday After a Severe Illness.

Mrs. John V. Beekman, of West Eighth street and Madison avenue, died very quietly at her home Sunday morning after a severe illness of about two weeks. She had resided in this city for about seven years. Her husband, John V. Beekman, is one of the officers of the Lidgerwood Manufacturing Company, of Brooklyn and New York. Mrs. Beekman leaves six children, one daughter, Miss Eda Beekman, of Plainfield, and five sons, Walter Beekman, of St. Paul, Minn.; Edward, of Brooklyn; John V., Jr., Wickham, Ill.; and James Gordon, of this city. Mrs. Beekman was a devoted Christian and a member of the Methodist church. Funeral services will be held at her late residence Wednesday. Interment will be made at Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Death of John Burns.

The death of John Burns, aged 50 years, a resident of 47 Elm place, died yesterday in the Newark City Hospital. Mr. Burns left Plainfield about ten days ago and his family did not know where he was until they were informed yesterday of his death. He had been in the hospital ever since he left this city. The funeral services will be held from his late home tomorrow morning at 8:30 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

TWO DARING HOLDUPS.

MISS MARIE PETERSON WAS ONE OF THE VICTIMS.

Her Screams Drove Away Desperadoes—James Hewitt Had an Exciting Encounter With the Highwaymen.

Two holdups are reported to have occurred on East Third street last evening between 9 and 10 o'clock. Miss Marie Peterson, of East Third street, was the first victim. Three men jumped over a fence and caught hold of her. Her screams frightened the highwaymen and they made their escape through a yard.

Soon afterward, James Hewitt, who resides near Miss Peterson, was on his way home, and he was stopped by a man, who was masked. Mr. Hewitt and his antagonist had quite a tussle, but Hewitt got the best of the man and escaped home. When he arrived home he found his folks talking about the holdup of Miss Peterson, which occurred only a short time before. The men were not known and they failed to accomplish their purpose.

ORDAINED A PRIEST.

Rev. Floyd Appleton Elevated Amid Impressive Ceremonies in Grace Church.

The services in Grace P. E. church yesterday morning were of an exceedingly interesting character, the principal event being the ordination of Rev. Floyd Appleton to the priesthood.

After the processional hymn, which was sung at 10:30 o'clock, an eloquent sermon was preached by Rev. George R. Van DeWater, D. D., of New York city. The text was First Timothy, 1:1, "The Lord Jesus Christ is our hope."

Dr. Van DeWater's sermon was followed by the presentation of the candidate by the rector of the parish, Rev. E M. Rodman, D. D. The litany was read by Rev. Milton A. Craft, rector of Grace church, Trenton.

The invocation was made by Rev. Prof. C. W. E. Body, D. C. L., and Rev. Dr. D. F. Warren, of Jersey City, gave the Scripture reading.

CONTENTION MUST GO TO JURY.

Judge Declined to Grant a Non-Suit as Asked For.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 25.—At the opening of the Court today Lawyer Lindabury asked for a non suit in the case of Harper, Hollingsworth & Co., against the Mountain Water Company and others, on the grounds of insufficient evidence sustaining their case. They claimed the defendants had obtained water from streams and springs that otherwise have flowed in their natural course down Green brook, and that the supply obtained had been secured before the water had come to the surface of the ground, thus becoming common property.

This they claimed they had no right to do. Mr. Lindabury quoted several opinions of Supreme Court Justice sustaining his opinion.

Mr. Riker, representing the Mountain Water Company, also asked for a non-suit, on the ground that Harper, Hollingsworth & Company had no right to use the water as they had no riparian rights, and they failed to show the amount of water used during the past twenty years. He claimed that they could only sue for the amount of water abstracted by them from that stream, if such was proved to be the case.

Judge Magie asked Lawyer Reed if he had any further remarks to make about the rights of his clients to the percolating water as it was a question that had been opened and discussed, but never had been decided upon. Mr. Reed had nothing further to say, and Judge Magie refused to grant the non-suit requested by the defendant's counsel.

Upon the request of the defendant's counsel, Judge Magie adjourned the case until today. The rest of the panel of jurors were dismissed until May 9th.

CALL TO ARMS TO-DAY

Text of the Proclamation Issued by President McKinley.

125,000 MEN ARE WANTED

As Nearly as Possible, They Will All Be Taken from the National Guard--How the Quotas Are Distributed Among the States--Governors Will Receive Formal Notification To-Day.

Washington, April 25.—Acting under the power vested in him by the Constitution and the laws, President McKinley has issued his long expected proclamation calling for 125,000 volunteers for the army. It reads as follows:

"By the President of the United States —A proclamation.

"Whereas, By a joint resolution of Congress approved on the twentieth day of April, 1898, entitled 'Joint resolution for the recognition of the independence of the people of Cuba, demanding that the Government of Spain relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba, and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters, and directing the President of the United States to use the land and naval forces of the United States to carry this resolution into effect,' and

"Whereas, By an act of Congress entitled "An act to provide for temporarily increasing the military establishment of the United States in time of war and for other purposes,' approved April 22, 1898, the President is authorized, in order to raise a volunteer army, to issue his proclamation calling for volunteers to serve in the Army of the United States:

"Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, President of the United States, by virtue of the power vested in me by the Constituion and he laws, and deeming sufficient occasion to exist, have thought fit to call forth, and hereby do call forth, volunteers to the aggregate number of 125,000, in order to carry into effect the purpose of the said resolution; the same to be apportioned, as far as practicable, among the several States and Territories, and the District of Columbia, according to population, and to serve for two years, unless sooner discharged. The details for this object will be immediately communicated to the proper authorities through the War Department.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington this twenty-third day of April, A. D. 1898, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-second. WILLIAM McKINLEY.

"By the President:

"JOHN SHERMAN,

"Secretary of State."

Although technically the call for troops was made to the country Saturday, the proclamation will not be carried into execution until to-day. It was the President's expressed desire that "all unseemly demonstration on the Sabbath should be avoided." As provided in all similar proclamations, the details will be executed by the War Department. Accordingly, to-day the Secretary of War will communicate with the Governors of the various States and Territories, informing them officially of the proclamation of the President, and stating the number of troops which each State is required to supply to the Federal Government under the call.

The greatest promptness is expected to follow the transmittal of this communication in ordering out such members of State militia organizations as have tendered or may tender their services to the Government as volunteers. It is the intention of the War Department that the troops to be supplied by each State shall be ordered into camp at the place where the annual encampments of the State militia organizations occur, or at such other places as the Governors of the States may designate. In accordance with this policy orders have been issued to the National Guard of the District of Columbia to enter camp to-day on the grounds of the National Soldiers' Home near Washington.

A false impression is likely to be entertained in regard to the time when the volunteer troops will be ordered to the South. The army administration feels certain that if it were necessary the entire 125,000 men could be mobilized in the Department of the Gulf within ten days or two weeks. This necessity, however, is deemed not to exist. The administration believes that the volunteer troops should remain in the State camps long enough to become "seasoned" for active campaigning and to become thoroughly equipped and drilled for service. It is more than probable that the troops will not be ordered from the bounds of their own States within three weeks; they may remain at home for a month. By that time the supplies which the War Department has ordered in large quantities for the equipment of the volunteer army will have been delivered to the Government and distributed to the troops.

The department has received a dispatch from New Orleans stating that 6,000 mules are to be had at that place. This is the consignment that was intended for the use of the Spanish army in Cuba and which was ordered back to the United States.

While it is the purpose of the War Department to secure only national guardsmen as far as possible under this first call for volunteers, yet in States where there are no national guards or where the number falls below the quota fixed in the call the States will be expected to supply the volunteers regardless of their lack of organizations. In fact, this must be done under the law. The basis of to-day's call for 125,000 men, the various States and Territories, including the District of Columbia, will be called upon to supply each the following number of volunteers.

Alabama, 2,500; Arkansas, 2,025; California, 2,238; Colorado, 1,198; Connecticut, 1607; Delaware, 341; Florida, 750; Gerogia 3,174; Idaho, 232; Illinois, 6,608; Indiana, 4,302; Iowa, 2,772; Kansas, 2,778; Kentucky, 3,407; Louisiana, 1,940; Maine, 1,259; Maryland, 1,942; Massachusetts, 4,721; Michigan 2,368; Minnesota, 3,874; Mississippi, 2,257; Missouri, 5,411; Montana, 524; Nebraska, 1,409; Nevada, 138; New Hampshire, 752; New Jersey, 2,962; New York, 12,513; North Carolina, 2,254; North Dakota, 461; Ohio, 7,234; Oregon, 829; Pennsylvania 10,769; Rhode Island, 710; South Dakota, 1,850; South Carolina, 747; Tennessee, 3,060; Texas, 4,299; Utah, 425; Vermont, 634; Virginia, 2,933; Washington, 231; Arizona, 611; District of Columbia, 449; New Mexico, 330; Oklahoma, 143.

CONSPIRACY AND BRIBERY.

Reported by Ohio Senate Committee to Have Existed in Mark Hanna's Election.

Columbus, Ohio, April 25.—A majority of the Senate committee has reported that evidence taken by them showed a conspiracy to elect M. A. Hanna United States Senator by bribery and that the attempt by General Boyce to bribe Representative Otis was known to Rathbone, Dick, Hanna and other workers in Mr. Hanna's interest at Columbus. Concluding, the committee says:

"Your committee finds from the evidence that Senator Marcus A. Hanna is guilty of the crime of attempting to bribe John C. Otis, a member of the House, to vote for him for United States Senator. The evidence, which bears the infallible test of proof, and which your committee herewith returns in writing, sufficiently proves this charge and the findings in this report. Your committee submits that such a man as Marcus A. Hanna is not fit to represent the State of Ohio in the United States Senate, and that he should be expelled from that august body."

The minority report calls attention to the fact that the case was tried by a "packed jury," and that this was the reason why Senator Hanna, Major Dick and Major Rathbone declined to appear before the committee; that the evidence was largely hearsay, and that no important fact tending to connect Messrs. Hanna, Dick or Rathbone was brought out during the investigation.

The Senate adopted the majority report by a vote of 19 to 17.

ENGLAND TAKES ACTION.

Declares Neutrality and Orders Our Ships from Her Ports.

Washington, April 25.—Great Britain has made declaration of neutrality between Spain and the United States, and has notified the commanders of United States war vessels in English ports to leave within forty-eight hours. This information came to the Navy Department yesterday from Admiral Dewey, commanding the American squadron at Hong Kong; the commander of the torpedo boat Somers at Falmouth, and the officer in charge of the cruiser Albany, formerly the Brazilian ship Abreuall, at Newcastle.

As a result of this move on England's part the offensive movement of Admiral Dewey's squadron against the Philippine Islands will not be longer delayed. Orders went to Admiral Dewey last night to up anchor and proceed to Manila immediately. He will blockade that port and other ports in the islands, and probably make an attempt to destroy the Spanish gunboats which have been operating with the land forces against the rebels in Spain's eastern possessions.

It is probable that the first real action of the war will take place in Philippine waters, and, with the knowledge of our great superiorily over that of the enemy, there can be no doubt as to what the result will be. The Spanish gunboats in the Philippines are scattered around the waters of those islands, and it will be remarkable if some of them do not meet the ships under Admiral Dewey's command.

NO SOLDIERS FOR CUBA.

Until the Blockade Has Extended Over Several Weeks—Then a Great Swoop.

Washington, April 25.—Two representatives of an enterprising Eastern paper have been in the city with a view to making arrangements for going to the front as war correspondents. One of the men in question called on a United States Senator who is known as a close friend of President McKinley, and asked his judgment as to when the United States forces would land in Cuba. The Senator said:

"You may as well go home and take a rest for two or three weeks. I have reasons for believing that no troops will be landed before the expiration of that time. My belief is that the fleet will blockade Havana until the Spaniards are pretty nearly starved out. Naval authorities in whom I have confidence are of the opinion that the Spanish fleet will not come to the rescue of the forces now on the island.

"We shall have ample time to prepare for a descent upon the island and when ready forces will be landed without the loss of a man, under the protection of guns of our fleet, within a day's march of Havana."

The Cable to Havana Cut.

Key West, April 25.—Now that the Government is preparing to strike a decisive blow at Havana, it has decided to let no further information get to the enemy. The cable to Havana has been cut, and the people of that city will have no means of knowing anything about Admiral Sampson's fleet until it comes hammering with fists of iron and steel at the door of the Cuban capital.

The Government has taken possession of the wires leading from Key West to the mainland and established a censorship over al cables offered as strict as any that Spain ever enforced. No news regarding the doings or purposes of the fleet will be allowed to go out of Key West.

Big Order for Flour.

West Superior, April 25.—A Government officer is in the city to get prices and ascertain how soon the flour mills here could fill an order of 400,000 barrels of flour, to be sent to the South.

SECRETARY SHERMAN TO RETIRE.

Judge Day to Succeed Him as Premier of the Cabinet.

Washington, April 25.—Assistant Secretary Day, at the earnest solicitation of the President, has decided to forego for the present his desire to obtain a Federal judgeship and to accept the portfolio of Secretary of State. It was deemed inadvisable for him to leave the State Department at this crisis, and as it was found impracticable for many reasons for Secretary Sherman to remain in the Cabinet, it was arranged for Judge Day to succeed him. The change will be made at once, and Judge Day's nomination may go to the Senate to-day. Whether he is to remain at the head of the State Department until the close of the administration depends on the duration of the war and the status of diplomatic questions. Assistant Secretary Day's promotion may possibly be accompanied by other Cabinet changes.

SECRETARY JOHN A. SHERMAN.

If after the war Judge Day decides to retire altogether from the Cabinet, it will be to take a circuit judgeship, and Charles Emory Smith or Ambassador Hay will succeed him.

Who will succeed Judge Day as Assistant Secretary of State is not known. It would not be Second Assistant Secretary Adeee or Third Assistant Secretary Cridler, but some outside man. First Assistant Postmaster-General Heath might possibly succeed Mr. Smith as Postmaster-General as he is a warm friend of the President and of Senator Hanna, with whom he was associated in the conduct of the campaign in 1896. Mr. Heath has made a good executive officer, and is very popular with Republican politicians.

The President evidently does not regard this as a good time to make Cabinet changes, but there are strong reasons why it may be necessary for him to do so.

STEAMSHIP PARIS SAFE.

Report That She Had Been Captured Caused Gloom in America.

London, April 25.—The best opinion here is that the American line steamer Paris is now pursuing a somewhat unusual course toward New York at the highest speed her engines can develop, notwithstanding the highly sensational newspaper stories of her being pursued or captured by a Spanish warship which was lying in wait for her on her course south of Queenstown.

Two out of four circumstantial reports of her capture have been completely disproved. Only her arrival at Cadiz as a prize of war or at New York ready to be rechristened as one of the vessels of the American Navy, can determine the truth of the other two. She was not chased in the English Channel, she did not run back to the Isle of Wight, and she has not been officially reported or sighted at any point except the Lizard.

It is doubtful if a Spanish man-of-war would have dared to molest the Paris in the English Channel. Its waters have been regarded by international consent in recent years as entirely within British and French jurisdiction, and they are, therefore, neutral. The high seas begin technically three miles beyond Lizard Point. Nevertheless Captain Watkins, the master of the Paris, was instructed to hug the coast as much as possible, in order to escape the observation of the Sapnish boats which were known to be cruising in the western waters of the Channel.

Nothing, of course, is disclosed concerning the plans for avoiding possible interception off Nantucket Light, and from there on; but nobody who knows Captain Watkins has any doubt that he will deliver the Paris safe and sound at the Brooklyn Navy Yard a week hence.

No News from the Paris.

London, April 25.—A point of vital interest for all Londoners is whether the Paris has escaped the Spanish warships. Up to midnight there was absolutely no news as to the liner at Southampton.

Portugal Heeds the Warning.

Washington, April 25.—Portugal has been notified by the United States that according to the treaty she will have to either send the Spanish fleet from the Cape Verde Islands or keep them there. It is rumored here that Portugal has conceded that the requirements of international law make it mandatory upon her to order the Spanish fleet away.

Orders have been issued, it is said, by the Spanish Government, at the request of Portugal, for the fleet to sail to-day.

To Protect Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, April 25.—Submarine mines have been placed in position in connection with the defenses of the Delaware River, forty miles below this city. The Secretary of War has issued instruction that no vessels will be allowed to pass through the channel on either side of Fort Delaware between the hours of sunset and sunrise. No vessel will be allowed to anchor within three miles of the fort without special authority. Vessels are warned that if they disregard these regulations they will expose themselves to serious damage, and will be liable to be fired on by the batteries.

Sagasta Calls It Piracy.

Madrid, April 25.—Premier Sagasta, in an interview, described the seizure of the Buena Ventura as an act of piracy, in that it occurred prior to a declaration of war. He expressed the belief that Great Britain also would protest against the seizure.

that many people are always "going to get" is a Piano. Somehow, while they recognize the need of having one, they keep waiting, like Micawber, for something to turn up. Meanwhile they are depriving themselves of the source of great enjoyment.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

INTERESTING EXPERIENCE

Of an Iowa Lady Who Was Cured of Dyspepsia After Suffering for Twenty-five Years.

Mrs. Sarah A. Skeels, an estimable lady residing at Lynnville, Jasper county, Ia., was for twenty five years a sufferer from Dyspepsia, and her complete restoration to health is so remarkable that we present the facts in the case for the benefit of our readers, many of whom have doubtless suffered in the same manner and will, therefore, be interested in learning how all stomach troubles may be avoided and cured. Mrs. Skeels says: I used only one package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I received such great and unexpected benefit that I wish to express my sincere gratitude In fact it has been six months since I took the medicine and I have not had one particle of distress or difficulty since. And all this in the face of the fact that the best doctors I consulted told me my case was incurable as I had suffered for twenty-five years. I want half a dozen packages to distribute among my friends here who are very anxious to try this remedy.

Truly yours,
Mrs. Sarah H Skeels

The reason why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are so successful in curing indigestion and stomach trouble and the reason why it never disappoints those who need it and use it is because nothing is claimed for it except what it will actually perform. It is not a cure all and no such claims are made for it. It is prepared for the sole purpose of curing Dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion.

There is scarcely a patent medicine made but what is claimed to cure dyspepsia as well as a hundred other troubles. When as a matter of fact a remedy to cure Dyspepsia must be prepared especially for that and nothing else; and among all the remedies, patent nostrums, bitters, etc., so extensively advertised you will find that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the only one advertised as a cure for dyspepsia and nothing else. The remedy is prepared by the Stuart Co., of Marshall, Mich., and for sale by all druggists at 50 cents per package, and if you suffer from any form of stomach derangement or indigestion a trial will not disappoint you.

TO BOMBARD HAVANA

Everything Indicates an Engagement with Spanish Forts.

BATTLE EXPECTED TO-DAY

British Consul at Havana Notified from London That Yankee Shot and Shell Are to Be Hurled Into the City—Americans Will Be Protected—The Blockade Thoroughly Established.

Washington, April 25.—To-day is likely to be an historic one in the present war. From information received here it is believed that the guns of our fleet may belch forth upon Havana at any moment. The Spaniards are restive. The blockade is thoroughly established. Famine is imminent.

The Spaniards, it is thought, will not wait long to begin hostilities. There has been some shooting from the forts. Blanco, it is known, wants to begin operations as soon as he finds one of our ships within a fair distance of Morro Castle. Then will come bombardment from our fleet.

British Consul Notified.

London, April 25.—The British Foreign Office has been advised that the American fleet intends to bombard Havana. Notification of this fact has been cabled to the British Consul-General in Havana.

All necessary arrangements have been made by the British Consul-General for the safety of British subjects, as well as of the remaining Americans who may apply to him for aid.

Famine Imminent at Havana.

Key West, April 25.—The blockade established at Havana has caused a great advance in the price of food and supplies there, and a famine is imminent. The poorer classes are already suffering from the lack of food, and the large merchants are selling supplies at twice the prices asked a week ago. Small quantities of food are reaching Havana from the inland towns, which are connected by rail.

Havana on the Verge of a Panic.

Havana, April 25.—Havana knows today it is to be bombarded and is on the verge of a panic in consequence. The news came in a notification to British Consul Gullin by his Government that warning of the bombardment had been given by the United States.

The news spread over the city like fire through dry grass. The newspapers all prepared extras, but the censor at the palace crossed out every line of the news. They appealed to Captain-General Blanco, but he told the editors he did nto want the city alarmed and would not permit the fact that the bombardment was imminent to be made public.

WAR TO BE DECLARED.

The President Will Send to Congress the Request To-Day—Vigorous Plan of Action.

Washington, April 25.—If the Navy Department knows what the American squadron is doing off Havana, and the hundred odd miles of the Northern Cuban coast guarded by it, none of the omcials on duty there will say so. Nobody, from Secretary Long down, will give any news about the blockade. They undoubtedly have heard from Captain Sampson, but they won't say so.

Very little of the information that goes to this department and comes from the blockading squadron is known to anybody outside of Secretary Long, Captain Crowninshield, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, and a few officers of that bureau. All the dispatches from the commanders of squadrons and single ships are delivered to the bureau, and instructions sent out by the department to these same commanders are transmitted by Captain Crowninshield and a couple of his confidential assistants.

The most stringent orders against giving information to anybody have been issued. They are hardly necessary on account of the close circle in which all news is kept.

The capture of the Buena Ventura may become an international incident out of all proportion to the incident itself. It all comes about through the neglect of the Government to recognize in some formal way that a state of war exists. This anomalous condition will be cleared up after Congress, in accordance with a recommendation to the President to be transmitted to-day, has declared war on Spain, but meanwhile all the prizes taken by United States vessels will have an uncertain status, and the officers and crews of the ships making captures will have to wait a long time for their prize money, or may not get it at all.

The State Department has learned that the French Government, as the guardian of Spanish interests in the United States, would protest against the seizure of the Buena Ventura on the ground that she was taken before war had begun. This is a nice little point of international law that may have to go to an international tribunal instead of to an American prize court for a decision.

Some administration officials were inclined to believe that hostilites were not actually inaugurated until noon Saturday, when the time limit set in the President's ultimatum to Spain expired. They recognized that Spain had declined to await the full limit given her to decide whether her forces should be withdrawn from Cuba by breaking off diplomatic relations with the United States, but there was some expression of opinion favorable to the view that war did not really exist until noon Saturday.

To clear up any doubt on the question the President will ask Congress to-day to make a formal declaration of war, or that war exists. With such an announcement to the world, there will be no longer any hesitation as to the best course to pursue. American naval vessels can attack Spanish vessels in any part of the high seas or in Spanish and American waters without fear of possible international entanglements, and there will be no question of the right of an American squadron to attack the principal Spanish fleet now gathering at St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands.

The most important news in the message will be the announcement that Spain has made formal reply to our ultimatum. This reply has not been given to the public, and it was supposed that none had been received. The document is a formal acknowledgement by Spain and also acceptance by that country of the ultimatum as a virtual declaration of war. Congress will therefore be asked to recognize this condition of affairs and to declare it to the world, using Spain's concession as a reason for it.

The atmosphere will be mightily cleared by a formal declaration from Congress, and the taking of prizes will be entered into with a zest by the bluejackets of the United States ships, who will surely feel dejected over the prospect of long litigation to determine whether they are entitled to a share of the value of Spanish merchantmen captured in the present uncertain state of affairs.

It is reported that the British Government will protest against the seizure of the Buena Ventura on the ground that she carried neutral goods. How much truth is in this cannot be ascertained. The report has reached the officials of the administration, however, and is considered as sufficient to indicate the imperative necessity of having Congress act without delay in announcing that war between Spain and the United States exists or in making a hostile declaration against the Spanish Government.

SPAIN DECLARES WAR.

Official Decree Issued Declaring That Diplomatic Relations Are Broken Off.

Madrid, April 25.—The following decree was gazetted yesterday:

"Diplomatic relations are broken off between Spain and the United States, and the state of war being begun between the two countries, numerous questions of internation law arise, which must be precisely defined, chiefly because the injustice and provocation come from our adversaries, and it is they who by their detestable conduct have caused this grave conduct."

"We have observed with the strictest fidelity the principles of international law, and have shown the most scrupulous respect for morality and the right of government. There is an opinion that the fact that we have not adhered to the Declaration of Paris does not exempt us from the duty of respecting the principles therein enunciated. The principle Spain unquestionably refused to admit then was the abolition of privateering. The Government now considers it most indispensable to make absolute reserve on this point, in order to maintain our liberty of action and uncontested right to have recourse to privateering when we consider it expedient, by organizing immediately a force of crusers, auxiliary to the navy, which will be composed of vessels of our merchant marine, and with equal distinction in the work of our navy."

GLADSTONE VERY LOW.

The Latest Bulletin Says that His Condition is One of Increasing Weakness.

London, April 25.—Alarmist reports regarding the condition of Mr. Gladstone were circulating last night. The newspapers say that he is sinking fast, and the members of his family have been summoned. The following bulletin was issued yesterday afternoon:

"Mr. Gladstone's condition is one of increasing weakness, though he is more free from pain."

The Daily Chronicle this morning says the rumor that Mr. Gladstone has not spoken in two days is without foundation. On the contrary, the paper says, he spends much of the time in conversation with members of his family,, and yesterday talked quite cheerfully with his medical advisers. Throughout the entire period of his suffering he has been most patient and uncomplaining. His pain continues to be less acutely felt, and he takes food tolerably well.

He has given his parting blessing to many friends, young and old. His calm endurance of pain and all that is before him is unchanged, and invariably those who have witnessed it cannot speak regarding it without tears.

The Oregon is Safe.

Washington, April 25.—The Navy Department has communicated with the battleship Oregon. Captain Clark, her commander, has been notified that war is on. The Oregon reached Punta Arenas, Chili, Saturday. She took on 500 tons of coal.

Officials say that the public need have no fear of the Oregon being captured. In battle she is amply prepared to protect herself. The Marietta is with the Oregon. She alone, so Department officials say, can handle the Spanish gunboat Temerario, which is reported to be waiting for the Oregon.

Coal in Neutral Vessels.

Washington, April 25.—The Secretary of the Treasury, in response to numerous inquiries, has instructed Collectors of Customs that coal may be exported in neutral vessels to neutral ports unless there is reason to apprehend an attempt to violate or evade the terms of the resolution of Congress and the regulations forbidding the export of coal in certain cases. It is understood that general regulations upon the subject will be framed and issued at once.

Pennsylvania Troops Ready.

Harrisburg, April 25.—Gov. Hastings and Adjt. Gen. Stewart have everything in readiness to mobilize the National Guard of Pennsylvania at Mount Gretna, the instant they receive President McKinley's call for volunteers.

FIVE MORE WAR PRIZES

Spanish Liner, a Merchantman and Three Schooners

CAPTURED BY OUR FLEET

Spanish Tramp Steamer Pedro Captured by the Flagship New York—Two Schooners Overhauled by the Torpedo Boat Ericsson and the Porter—Gunboat Helena Captures the Steamer Miguel Jover.

Key West, Fla., April 25.—Another prize was brought in here yesterday morning, this time by the United States Gunboat Helena, Commander W. T. Swinburne.

She proved to be the Spanish steamer Miguel Jover, bound from New Orleans to Barcelona, with a cargo amounting to about 2,000 tons of cotton and grain.

The prize crew of twenty-one men under Ensign McFarlane, from the Helena, were placed aboard. The capture was made about 100 miles east of Havana.

The Miguel Jover left New Orleans in company with the Catalonia, another Spanish steamer bound for Havana. The Catalonia, it is expected, will also be captured. She is laden with cotton and other valuable merchandise and would be a good prize for our sailors.

The Spanish tramp steamer Pedro, the second prize, which was captured by the United States flagship New York, on Friday night, now lies peaceably here, about a couple of cables' lengths from her companion in misfortune, the steamer Buena Ventura, captured by the United States cruiser Nashville.

The Pedro, when captured, was on her way from Havana to Santiago de Cuba. She had been unloading a cargo of rice, iron and beer at Havana, when the news of the descent of the United States fleet upon Cuba caused her to put to sea in a hurry. She made off in an easterly direction, but was not quick enough in getting away. She was sighted by the fleet, and the flagship started after her.

The Spaniard put on full speed and the New York was compelled to fire several shots after her from her smaller guns. As these shots had no effect the flagship fired one heavy shot, which brought the Spanish steamer to a standstill.

For a time the chase was quite exciting, the Spaniard clipping away on an easterly course for ten miles at the best speed he could get up, and the New York plowing along finely after the fleeing vessel and overhauling her "hand over flipper," to use the bluejackets' term.

The prize crew had just been put aboard the Pedro from the flagship when the torpedo boat Foote, which was scouting, ran up and reported that a large steamship had been sighted seven miles away, apparently bound out of Havana, and showing no colors. The New York soon overhauled the stranger and boarded her. She was found to be the German steamship Amrum, bound from Havana. Her papers were all right, and she was permitted to go after being informed that Havana is under blockade.

The third prize belongs to the Porter. It was captured Saturday morning close to the entrance to the harbor. It was the small fishing schooner Matilde.

The Commander of the Porter caught sight of the little vessel trying to beat out of the harbor to the open sea. The Porter soon headed her off, and, not being provided with any spare men to act as a prize crew, her commander simply ordered the schooner to run on ahead of him. In this way he chased her along until he could turn her over to the tender mercies of the cruiser Cincinnati. The Porter's officers then resumed their duties without waiting to learn what disposton was made of their little prize.

The torpedo boat Ericsson during Saturday night sighted a fishing boat and gave chase, capturing the vessel under the guns of Morro Castle.

No casualty has occurred up to the present time to any of the American vessels and everything remains quiet.

The Government has taken control of the telegraph wires at this point and all press matter will be handled subject to the decision of the censor. Telegraphic communication with Havana has been abandoned.

Latest Prize a Spanish Liner.

Key West, Fla., April 25.—Prize No. 7 is the big merchant vessel Catalina, from New Orleans for Havana. She is worth $500,000. The Catalina was captured yesterday morning twelve miles northwest of Havana by the cruiser Detroit. At 3 a. m. the Detroit, showing no light, saw the Catalina far to the westward. She did not give chase, but waited for her to come up, as her lights indicated her direction. When she was within half a mile the Detrot fired a blank shot. The Spaniard did not seem to understand, and a six-pounder sent a projectile singing across his bows. This music was understood. The Catalina reversed her engines and hove to.

It was then nearly daylight. A whaleboat with sixteen men was started for her. It was in charge of Ensign Harley Christy, who took possession of her and turned her nose toward the flagship. At 7 o'clock the New York saw the Catalina apparently racing for Havana Harbor, with the Detroit a few hundred yards astern. Not knowing just what had happened, Captain Chadwick sent a couple of shots across her bow, and she again stopped. Matters were explained, and the prize crew were ordered to take her to Key West.

A Pitiable Spectacle.

In the strong light of current events at Washington, the most momentous since the early sixties, there is a truly pitiable and pathetic spectacle thrown before the people in the faltering intellect of a man in a position to distinguish himself as no other member of a President's cabinet has since the days of Seward.

Poor old John Sherman! After a life of creditable service to his country, attained through the brilliancy of his own mind and the inborn sturdiness of his character, he is about to be relegated to oblivion when he should be at the very pinnacle of his fame and ability as one of the country's statesmen. Now of all times in his career as a National figure is his opportunity, but what is his fate? To be firmly, but gracefully and diplomatically as the exigencies of the occasion allow, invited to depart from the Presidential family, when, by virtue of his position as the Secretary of State, he should be the chief executive's mainstay in both action and advice.

Instead of bearing the brunt of duties that fall to the State department in a time of war, Secretary Sherman is but a mere nonentity so far as responsible action and decision goes. It will only be a matter of a few days before the country will hear of the retirement of Mr. Sherman from the President's cabinet.

It will be a sad finale to his record in National life.

Since the above was written Mr. Sherman has sent his resignation to the President and Assistant Secretary Day has been advacned to the head of the department.

Transmitted Power.

No problem of mechanics is today at once so important and so fascinating as that of the transmission of power by electricity. The possibility that wherever there is water in motion, in the tides, in rivers, in lakes, there the mechanical power held latent may be tapped by a slender wire and sent far and near floats like a golden dream before the mind of every electrical inventor and of many other people.

Waterfalls are especially utilizable for the electrical transmission of power. The matter is as yet only in its beginning, but already there are more than 200 electrical water power transmission stations in the United States. All these take the power from the fall and send it over a wire to points anywhere from one mile to 35 miles distant from the waterfall itself. While the plant at Niagara taps the vastest body of descending water on the globe the height of the fall is exceeded by that at Fresno, Cal. Here the waterfall is 1,410 feet high. The water pressure is 609 pounds to the square inch. With such a tremendous force power enough ought to be secured to send it electrically 100 miles.

The difficulty in long distance power transmission arises from two causes. Naturally, like sound, the waves of the electric current become weaker the farther they travel from their source. To counteract this diminishing power a powerful current must be started out over the wire. When this is done, however, much of the current escapes on the air or elsewhere, so that it becomes feeble likewise from this cause. Only for this loss of force over the long distance wire the dream of working machines in a distant city by power transmitted electrically from Niagara would be speedily realized. Indeed there is every reason to believe it will yet be realized. Science has overcome greater difficulties than this.

WANT VOLUNTEERS FROM PLAINFIELD.

Mayor Fisk's Aid Sought—A Conference Called.

The first active and decisive steps towards organizing a volunteer company in Plainfield have been taken.

Very properly the move is in the hands of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, but His Honor hopes to interest a large number of prominent and influential citizens in the movement and has already taken steps in that direction.

Saturday Mayor Fisk, in conjunction with the chief executives of numerous other cities, was communicated with by the officers of the National Volunteer Reserve as part of the plan to secure a large number of volunteers for government service through their organization. The communication came to the Mayor from the headquarters of the organization and was signed by John M. Scofield, Lieutenant General, U. S. A., Acting Commander, and A. McD. McCook, Major-General, U. S. A. secretary.

It requested the Mayor to inaugurate a movement in Plainfield looking to the encouragement and receiving of enrollments in the National Volunteer Reserve.

The Mayor talked the matter over with a number of citizens, several of them veterans of the Civil War, and was impressed with the latent patriotism in Plainfield. From all sides he was assured that a large number of volunteers ought to be secured here in the city and surrounding territory.

The result was that the following letter was received by about twenty prominent and influential citizens this morning:

"I have received an important communication from the headquarters of the National Volunteer Reserve, signed by John M. Scofield, Lieutenant General, U. S. A., Acting Commander, and A. McD. McCook, Major-General, U. S. A., secretary, asking me to organize at once a volunteer reserve enrolling committee, for the purpose of encouraging and receiving enrollments in the National Volunteer Reserve, and I would like to have you, if you conveniently can, meet with a few other gentlemen whom I have asked at my office Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, to consider the matter. Very truly yours,

"Chas. J. Fisk, Mayor."

In sending out the letter Mayor Fisk was careful not to invite so many that his office would be overcrowded and thus prevent good results from the conference.

The outcome of the meeting will be watched with great interest.

Following is the substance of the letter that was received by Mayor Fisk.

"The National Volunteer Reserve movement is a little over two weeks old, and we are able to report the acquisition to our military committee of nearly 100 veteran generals and admirals of both sides in our late struggle.

"The work is going on in many sections of the country. The Governors of nearly all the States have already signified their approval, and telegrams from the Secretary of War and Assistant Secretary of the Navy speak the approval of the National Government, and a bill is now before Congress, with the strongest approval of the Secretary of War, giving the National Volunteer Reserve full recognition, and we are hourly in expectation of its passage.

"The Volunteer Reserve is intended to be a permanent institution.

"It will have the effect of the President's calling out volunteers without expense or delay to the Government, or creating too much feeling or unnecessary alarm, or require an act of war to place us in a formidable position.

"The plan in no way conflicts with with National or State authority or with the militia, and the National Volunteee Reserve will act as a resource, encouragegment and auxiliary to the National Guard. The President of the United States is ex-officio the Commander-in-Chief of the National Volunteer Reserve, and the Governor of each State the commander of the reserve within his own commonwealth, thus fully carrying out every provision of the Constitution.

"As Chief Magistrate of one of our cities your aid is sought, and we believe it will be most cordially and energetically given in behalf of this movement, and we most respectfully suggest that you appoint a 'Mayor's National Volunteer Reserve Enrolling Committee,' consisting of one or more prominent members from each patriotic, labor, fraternal and veteran organizations (in your city and vicinity,) and in fact a representative from every organized body, adding to said committee prominent business men, and with yourself as Chairman, as speedily as possible, call the committee together, establish headquarters in one or more of your public buildings, and open the schoolhouses, lodge rooms and meeting places of the various organizations each evening for a week or ten days for the purpose of encouraging and receiving enrollments in the National Volunteer Reserve. Should tentative Military Companies already have been enrolled, they should join the National Volunteer Reserve in a body, as should others desiring to form."

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Plainfield Board of Trade at their meeting Wednesday evening discussed the necessity of repealing or remodeling the building law of that city. The law as it stands is too strict in a great many respects, and has been the means of checking the building up of that once thriving town, that bade fair a few years ago to rival Elizabeth. With its streets built up throughout with elegant modern store buildings, and just as the rush had come to stay some one prepared a building law for a little country town, probably more strict than New York or Philadelphia, making it so expensive to comply with the obnoxious law that property owners ceased to improve. Every Plainfielder with a desire for the prosperity of this beautiful little town, hopes to see the law altered so that a man having a little property may improve it without ruining his future prospects and that of his heirs, executors and assigns forever.—New Jersey Contractor.

A sight suggestive of the grim realities of war is to be witnessed in one of the Watchung avenue windows of Leggett's pharmacy. THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Just think of a villian in a play only allowed to practice his deviltries and make the people on the stage miserable for only three minutes and five seconds. Such is the case of the particular villian in the screaming farce comedy of "A Wife Wanted," to be presented at Music Hall tomorrow evening, the comedy that has made one of the big hits of the season, which has been greeted with crowded houses nightly. "A Wife Wanted" has been a success from the first night because it is a clean, wholesome comedy, written for the masses and presented by a company of clever artists, capable of entertaining the most fastidious of theatregoers with tuneful songs, new dances and up to-date specialties.

Spring Health.

With many people vitality reaches its lowest ebb in the spring. The heat producing foods of winter leave the system clogged with debris that ought to be removed. If all goes well nature will remove it, but it will take time and meanwhile vigor and energy will be lacking. It's wise to use a remedy like in the spring. It expels all impurity from the blood, increases the activity of the vital organs and gives health a new impulse.

Rawson's Sarsaparilla

Your money back if the remedy fails to give satisfaction.

A LIBERAL EMPLOYER.

That Is What Uncle Sam Is in the Matter of Vacations.

The length of time allowed Uncle Sam's servants for vacations with pay is prescribed in the Revised Statutes. Certain details, however, are left to the discretion of the executive. For instance, a recent order permitting government clerks to leave their desks at 3 o'clock Saturdays in summer had to be passed upon by the President and cabinet. The law states that "all clerks and other employes" in the civil service of the executive departments are allowed thirty days' vacation and thirty days' sick leave each year, with pay, and in usual cases of particular merit, sixty days' sick leave with pay. What employer would allow his clerks to remain absent one-fourth of the year, with pay?

Army officers may spend thirty days a year away from their posts of duty, but this may be enjoyed not oftener than once in two years, when they may remain absent sixty days altogether. Many prefer to take their vacations every three or four years, when they may stay away three or four months at a time, long enough to take an extensive trip abroad. The leaves of medical officers of the marine hospital service are regulated just as are those in the army. Officials of our diplomatic posts abroad are allowed sixty days' holiday each year, not including time required for the voyage to and from this country, if they return home. Members of the legislative and judicial branches of the federal government, of course, suit themselves as to the disposition of their time while their respective bodies are not in session. They are for the most part independent in this respect, even while they are assembled. After all, Uncle Sam is the most liberal of employers, so far as vacations are concerned.—Washington Star.

A Case of Experimental Suicide.

Journalistic enterprise has led to a curious insurance case in Paris. M. Henri Martin, chief editor of the Courier de Lyon, was found dead in his room, hanging from a cord passed over a hook in the ceiling and attached to a dog collar round his neck. His life was insured for 30,000 francs, which the insurance company refuses to pay on the ground that he committed suicide. He had, however, been publishing articles on the scientific side of hanging, and was preparing one describing the sensations of a hanged man. The counsel for his family will contend that he was making experiments on himself, and that his death was accidental.

He Constructed a Timepiece in Eight Hours.

John Curzon, a Polish mechanic, who was presented with a gold medal for his inventions, performed a most extraordinary thing when he succeeded in manufacturing a complete watch in the space of eight hours, and from materials on which another watchmaker would have looked with contempt, says an exchange. It appears that the Czar of Russia, hearing of the marvelous inventive genius of Curzon, determined to put him to the test, and forwarded him a box containing a few copper nails, some wood chippings, a piece of broken glass, an old cracked china cup, some wire, and a few cribbage board pegs, with a request that he should transform them into a timepiece. Nothing daunted, and perceiving a golden opportunity of winning favor at the court, Curzon set about his task with enthusiasm; and in the almost incredibly short space of eight hours had dispatched a wonderfully constructed watch to the Czar, who was so surprised and delighted at the work that he sent for the maker, conferred upon him several distinctions, and granted him a pension. The case of the watch was made of china, while the works were simply composed of the odds and ends accompanying the old cup. Not only did it keep good time, but only required winding once every three or four days. This remarkable watch is believed to be still in the possession of the Russian royal family.

A ROYAL MARTYR TO ETIQUETTE.

Phillip III Died Rather Than Sacrifice His Dignity.

In Spain the etiquette to be observed in the royal palaces was carried to such length as to make martyrs of their kings. There is an historic instance.

Phillip III was gravely seated by the fire; the firemaker of the court had kindled so great a quantity of wood that the monarch was nearly suffocated with heat, and his grandeur would not suffer him to rise from the chair. The domestics could not presume to enter the apartment, because it was against the etiquette.

At length the Marquis de Totat appeared, and the king ordered him to damp the fires; but he excused himself, alleging that he was forbidden by the etiquette to perform such a function, for which the Duc d'Usseda ought to be called upon, as it was his business.

The duke was gone out. The fire burned fiercer, and the king endured it rather than derogate from his dignity. But his blood was heated to such a degree that he was seriously ill the next day. A violent fever succeeded, which carried him off in the twenty-fourth year of his age.—Golden Days.

Adolph Thiers' Close Call.

One day a mother who had been to a country house near Marseilles was returning at twilight to the city with her son, a child of eight years, who had been put in a peach basket borne by a donkey, and the mother, fearing the child might catch cold (it was in November), had covered him with a thick brown shawl. Tired with running around the country all day, cosey and warm under the thick shawl, the child was soon asleep and hidden by the sides of the basket. There is a local custom-house at the gates of Marseilles, and when the inspector surmises that any package contains contraband articles he thrusts a sharp steep pick through it. He was preparing to do this with the basket when the mother, some distance behind, saw his intention and shrieked out that her son was in the basket. It was Adolphe Thiers.—New York Tribune.

Wellington's Quick Wit.

An Austrian princess once asked the Duke of Wellington:

"How is it that we in Vienna speak French so much better than you English?"

To which the Duke replied:

"Well, princess, if Napoleon had twice visited London with his armies, as he has Vienna, I have no doubt we should be much more familiar with the French language."

Louis Philippe, of France, introduced to the Duke of Wellington one of the French marshals, whom he had beaten on the peninsula. The marshal partly turned his back to the duke, which greatly displeased Louis Philippe, who apologized to the duke for his marshal's rudeness.

"Forgive him, sire," said the duke. "I taught him to do that in the peninsula."

To Render a Chain Rust-Proof.

The following advice to make a new chain dust-proof is given in The Wheel: "Coil it up and place it in a small tin box. On the top put pieces of any good candle, and place before a hot fire. The candle will melt and run all over the chain, and find its way into the links and blocks. When this has been accomplished, put aside the box and contents to cool, and when the melted candle has solidified, wipe off any superfluity. After this treatment it will be found that grit and dirt can only with difficulty get into the blocks."

Young Solomon.

YOUNG SOLOMON.....

"Sammy Snaggs," asked the teacher; "what part of speech is the word 'malediction?'"

"Noun," replied Sammy.

"What gender?"

"Masculine gender."

"Indeed?"

"Yes'm. If it was feminine it would be 'femalediction.'"—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

STORY OF A FAMOUS POEM.

Written, Then Stowed Away in a Desk for Three Years.

Mrs. Rose Hartwick Thorpe, who wrote "Curfew must Not Ring To-night," lives in a pretty frame cottage at Pacific Beach, near San Diego, Cal. When asked recently to tell how she came to write the poem that has made her famous, she replied:

"I cannot remember when I did not write poetry. I have done it ever since I was a child. My mother did not approve of my writing. One day after school I went to my room. I had been studying the historic period of the poem, and the incident impressed itself so strongly on my mind that I felt impelled to write about it. I was about half way through when my mother came in, saying a young friend had come to spend the afternoon and take tea with me. In great distress I called out: 'Oh, mother, can't she wait a little while?' My mother, thinking I was solving a hard problem in arithmetic, said she would amuse my friend until I could leave. At last I finished it and put it away.

"Two or three years later I wanted a poem for publication in a Detroit paper to which I had been in the habit of contributing short poems gratuitously. I was unable at the time to write, as usual, and, on looking over my papers, found this one, which I decided to send, though doubting its acceptance, as it was so long. A day or two afterward I received a note from the editor, complimenting my last contribution highly, and prophesying for it great and immediate success."—Philadelphia Press.

ANXIOUS ABOUT HIS MONUMENT.

Evidently Wanted His Little Plot in "God's Acre" Well Marked.

The late Dr. Tyler Hull, of Lansing, Mich., left the following peculiar will: "There shall be erected at my grave within one year after my decease a monument, if the assets of the estate shall warrant, according to the following conditions: If my estate shall foot up to $40,000 or more, then there shall be erected at my grave a granite monument worth $10,000. If my estate shall aggregate $30,000 and under $40,000, there shall be erected at my grave a granite monument worth $6,000." Then there follow six other items, couched in language similar to the above, and being in substance as follows: "Between $25,000 and $30,000, a $5,000 monument; between $20,000 and $25,000, a $4,000 monument; between $15,000 and $20,000, a $3,000 monument; between $10,000 and $15,000, a $1,500 monument; between $6,000 and $10,000, a $1,000 monument; between $4,000 and $6,000, a $500 monument." The last paragraph of the will provided that if the estate should aggregate less than $4,000, the whole question of a monument should be left to the discretion of his wife.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

PROBLEM THOUGHT TO BE SOLVED.

Photographs Sent Long Distances By Telegraph.

Dr. W. P. Dun Lany, a young inventor of Cleveland, O., claims to have solved the long standing problem of how to send pictures by telegraph.

The machine can be worked upon any ordinary line and requires only the usual battery. Weather conditions do not interfere with its working. An ordinary portrait of a person, such as is used for a newspaper cut, can be sent through and reproduced over a long or short circuit in about seven minutes. Printed or written matter can be likewise reproduced. The inventor believes that under practically the same method as employed in his present machine an entire matrix or a full page of a newspaper, properly prepared, can be placed upon an enlarged cylinder and reproduced automatically by wire at distant points in printed form.—New York World.

AN ODD SLIP.

No Official Record of Queen Victoria's Birth.

Curiously enough, neither the birth, baptism nor confirmation of Queen Victoria is a matter of official public record. One might suppose that, filed away in its appointed place among the state archives, there could be found a document formally setting forth the birth of the child who, though not heir presumptive to the throne at the time of the birth, was removed from it by only three degrees. But such is not the case. With regard to her birth, all that was deemed necessary was its announcement by the state officials whose duty it was to be personally cognizant of the fact.

The Indian Fighter's Grave.

For more than a hundred years the remains of the Kentucky pioneer and Indian fighter, Edward Boone, a brother of Daniel Boone, have rested under the sward of a bluegrass pasture on the farm of Capt. Will Burris, on Cane Ridge, in Bourbon county. The grave has never been marked save with a piece of limestone rock, and time has obliterated any inscriptions which may have been placed by friends in remembrance on the stone. The body of Edward Boone was consigned to a grave made by his companions under a buckeye tree on the bank of Boone's Creek, which sometimes covers the grave after heavy rains in the spring. After interring Boone his friends placed a lime stone rock at the head of the grave, and then carved on the buckeye tree the single word "Boone," which is yet discernible to visitors to the grave.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A WARM LAKE IN ALASKA.

The Water Never So Cold but One Could Bathe in It.

Dawson City, wonderful as it is in many things, has still another wonder about which little has been heard. It is an immense lake, located back in the mountains not far away from the greatest town on earth, the waters of which are always warm. Fish in countless thousands can be caught in the coldest weather without trouble, for the waters of the lake are never so cold but one could bathe in them. The third claim this wonderful body of water has for distinction is that, while it is hundreds of miles from the ocean, and there is no apparent connection between the two, the lake is affected by the tide. Lake Selawik is the name given to this discovery by Father Tosi, a Jesuit missionary, who for years has been working among the Alaska Indians in the interior.

Father Tosi noticed that at times during the midst of the long arctic winter the Indians had fresh salmon. He could not explain it, for all the known streams and lakes were frozen solid. Finally the Indians took him back into the hills to a lake which was sixty miles long and fifteen in width. He called it Selawik. They have kept the secret well, and only a few white men know of the lake.

Father Tosi says that a man with a boathook could kill more salmon in an hour than he could eat in a fortnight, and suggests salmon catching in midwinter as an occupation for those who cannot get other work. With two good dogs and a sled the lake is within easy reach of Dawson. There would be no trouble about keeping the fish caught on account of the high temperature. The Indians are still trying to guard their secret, but there are men at Dawson who know of the lake and its wonderful peculiarities.—Seattle Times.

Music for the Poor.

A conservatory of music has been established in a New York tenement house by Miss Emilie Wagner, of Baltimore, formerly a student at the Peabody Conservatory, and a graduate of the Woman's College, of Baltimore. The idea is to interest the ignorant and degraded in music, and thus uplift them. A beginning was made with a single room in a crowded tenement district, where lessons were given at a few pennies a lesson to little ragamuffins. Success come at length, after some discouragements, and now the conservatory has eighty students in violin and piano. Several former pupils are assistants, and some have developed extraordinary talent. The work is self-supporting, but is carried on, of course, from philanthropic motives. A result has been, it is believed, the creation of tastes that tend to elevate the home life of a number of the tenement dwellers.—Baltimore Sun.

A Model Husband.

A very active old gentleman who lives in the southwestern part of the city is noted in his neighborhood for his industry in keeping his yard in fine condition. He works hard all day in the city, but when he returns from work he is always active in helping with the work at home. He is especially good to his wife, and he helps her much in her household labors. She appreciates his help, too, for the work is done so willingly.

Not long ago the old gentleman was helping at his house. He was doing more than two hired people would do. A neighbor happened by and say him bustling about the kitchen. The neighbor remarked that he was a model husband. To this the man replied: "Well, I want to be just as kind to my wife as I can. When I get to heaven I am going to hunt up my first wife and beg her pardon for not helping her more."—Topeka State Journal.

Her Very Good Reasons.

"I would be a reformer, a politician and a real strong-minded woman, if it were not for two insurmountable obstacles," the New York Commercial Advertiser quotes the girl with the plumed hat as saying.

"And what are they?" inquired the friend who belonged to nineteen clubs.

"Well, in the first place, no meeting or club business could lure me from a daintily decorated Turkish-rugged home, furnished with plenty of books and sofa pillows. Secondly, I could never be heart and saul in the fray for women's rights while there remained children to teach, to sew for or to sing to."

CAR HORSES HARD TO GET.

Since Electricity Was Introduced the Market Channels Have Been Closed.

One of the most curious effects of the general replacing of horses by electricity and cable traction for drawing street cars is being experienced by one of the extensive car lines in New York city which still uses horses. The Sun says one would suppose that, since the only lines in the whole country which continue to use horses now form but a very small percentage of those which used them five years ago, these lines would have a much wider range of choice, and could get horses of a grade superior to the general run of those which used to be offered to them. Remarkable as it may seem, this is the exact opposite of the truth.

The New York city line referred to runs in direct competition with the cable lines of the upper west side, and its managers, who recently purchased it, determined as soon as they came into possession to place upon it a superior lot of horses, and in this way improve its running until mechanical propulsion could be introduced. Orders were sent out to buy the needed horses. Much to the surprise of the managers, it was discovered that there were almost no street-car horses of any kind to be bought.

The explanation of this situation lies in the fact that since the demand for street-car horses almost ceased, the trade machinery by which they were gathered has fallen into disuse. A few years ago the street-car horses were one of the most important features of the horse market. They were animals of a standard grade and of almost stable price, and every part of the country contributed its quota. The street-car horse had to be big and able, and sound of limb and wind, but it might be of any age. Few lasted long enough in the service to make the question of a few years more or less of any consequence. The demand was constant, and the price never varied in New York more than from about $125 to $150 each. Dealers could always count upon getting this price and getting it promptly, and as a consequence every horse which would answer the purpose was a safe investment at a little smaller price, and a clean profit of $10 a horse was regarded as a fair margin in handling them.

Horses of all sorts, which lacked the qualities of speed, beauty or youth, but possessed the other requirements, were quickly sorted out from the markets of the whole country, and every big dealer was always able to gather droves of car horses as fast as the companies needed them. The trolley has superseded the car horse, and car horses are no longer quoted as staples in the market. The companies which still use them are obliged to go out and search the marts and buy them one by one, instead of simply sending out an order for 100 or 200 of 500 and getting them readily.

DEPEW TAKES TO THE WHEEL.

The President of the New York Central Surrenders to the Bicycle Craze.

There was a subdued air of excitement around the Grand Central Station. The atmosphere was strongly tainted with a smell of iodine and liniment. Telegraph instruments clicked noisily all the day, and it wasn't long before it was known from one end of the line to the other that the president had taken to riding a wheel. That Chauncey M. Depew, after sixty-three years of total abstinence, suddenly should go on a violent and prolonged bicycle tear was too much. One glance at Mr. Depew as he sat in his office confirmed the report that he is at least an enthusiastic wheelman. Sundry scratches showed that all had not been smooth sailing on the start, but the contour of his face showed a remarkable resemblance to the bicycle face of a veteran.

A year ago Mr. Depew was the stoutest opponent of the bill compelling railroads to carry bicycles as baggage, Now he is a convert to the silent steed. He glories in the victory of the Bicycle Baggage bill, and says, with a chuckle, "It was a great victory for us wheelmen." Mr. Depew caught the bicycle fever at Newport. It was a sudden and violent attack. He learned to ride with remarkable ease, and announced that he would keep at it for all time. He smilingly said that he was not a candidate for a ride on a silver bicycle from Nice to Naples, adding: "I hardly think two trips to Europe in a year would be advisable." He wouldn't discuss makes, century runs, sprockets, saddles or other data dear to a wheelman's heart, and explained apologetically, "I am only a beginner. When everything gets in working order I will be ready to debate with any one."—New York Tribune.

PATRIOTIC WORDS HEARD IN PULPIT.

Revs. C. E. Herring and C. L. Goodrich Preach on the War Question.

Yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian church the pastor, Rev. Charles E. Herring, delivered a strong sermon from the subject, "Trusting in Warships and in God." There was a good-sized congregation present and the patriotic words of the speaker were echoed in the heart of everyone there. Mr. Herring, in commencing his discourse, quoted the words found in Psalm twentieth chapter which read, "Some trust in chariots, but we will remember the name of our God." In part Mr. Herring spoke as follows:

"It is sad to think that just now as we are about closing the twentieth century we should be engaging with another Christian nation in war. The crisis has come, however, and the year of 1898 will go down in history recording such fact. For a time commerce will be destroyed and other great damage will result, but what will be the real result of the conflict? That is the question How far will it extend, and what will be the outcome? Our prayer should be that God may speedily end it.

"We rejoice, however, in the acquisition of a navy, also in the unity of sentiment. We pray that righteousness may prevail. We are now given to comparing our navy with that of our opponent, and we wonder whether our navy is any stronger. Some are trusting in iron-clads, cruisers and torpedo boats, but we should remember the name of our God.

"God is in this affair. This world is moving on a fixed plan. It is God's world and it is He that is fighting. It is a beautiful thought to think that we are workers together with God, and to know that He is not a disinterested spectator. It makes little difference if our navy is twice its present strength, if God is against us. It is He that rules and if we are not on His side we shall lose the conflict. When God's right arm is with us we are sure victors. The man who has faith in God is stronger than he who places his trust in material power. If a man has faith he has a solid ground to build on. The man who says that the strongest battalion wins, makes a big mistake. Napoleon learned that lesson at Waterloo. God may destroy all of our ships if we are not on His side and the side of right.

"The man who trusts in God may be assured that God will never change, while warships will change. A few years ago the Government expended $250,000 for a wooden warship, and not long ago the ship was sold for 10 cents. The art of building iron ships was learned and there was no use for the wooden ship. If God is for us, who shall be against us? We need to pray a great deal that God may be on our side and help those who are fighting for Him."

At the close of the service the congregation sang "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," with great enthusiasm.

A War of Humanity.

Even from the pulpit, the present National situation is discussed. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, made an address on "The Fateful Month of April" at a patriotic service held in the church last evening.

There were several instrumental trios by Mrs. B. T. Barnes, organist, Mrs. M. E. Dwight, pianist, and P. Ludwig Conde, violinist. They also accompanied the singing.

Rev. Mr. Goodrich told of the important events in the history of the world and specially of the United States that had occurred during the month of April.

The present war was, he thought, one of humanity. Like the other conflicts that started in the month of April, liberty and self-sacrifice were to be discerned. If the war was one of revenge, as some said, then he declared that it was a damnable iniquity.

Young Patriots.

An amusing incident showing the prevalence of the war spirit among all elements of the community was witnessed on North avenue Saturday afternoon. A squadron of street urchins formed a provisional military company and marched along the street in martial array, carrying brooms and baseball bats for guns. One of the youngsters, acting as captain, marched proudly in front, waving a tin sword. Older men stood by and looked approvingly at the patriotism displayed by the youngsters.

Burned Weyler in Effigy.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 25.—The young men of Westfield exhibited their patriotism in an unmistakable manner Saturday night by burning an effigy of Weyler on Broad street, while a crowd of citizens numbering over 1,000, looked on and manifested its approval by frequent cheers.

The effigy which bore a remarkable resemblance to the portraits of the Spaniard, was brought into public view about 8 o'clock in the evening, and a company of young men of the town formed and marched it about the public square several times. The procession stopped on Broad street, and amid the cheers of the crowd a wire was thrown over one of the arms of a telephone pole and the effigy was hauled into mid-air.

The Lincoln Fife and Drum Corps furnished stirring music, and the scene was enlivened by a display of fireworks.

After allowing the effigy to hang for some time the crowd applied a torch and the flames soon consumed it. After setting off some more fireworks the crowd quiety dispersed.

Plainfielders in the Navy.

Plainfield is represented in the regular U. S. Navy by two young men. One is Fred Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bennett, of Duer street. Mr. Bennett is on the flagship New York. The other Plainfielder is Dennis Keefe, who is on the battleship Detroit, o Capt. Sampson's fleet.

Carrier Pigeons fot U. S. Service.

Since Government officials have asked all owners of sturdy carrier pigeons to communicate with Lieut. Carter, of the U. S. Navy, with a view of using the homing birds for despatch service on the battleships, a number of fanciers of these birds in the vicinity of Plainfield are preparing to aid the Government by volunteering the use of their birds for service gratis, though compensation can be secured if demanded.

To Rush Government Contract.

While the Pond Tool Works has not yet received any orders to rush their work on the disappearing gun-carriages it is deemed wise to increase the working force. Commencing with tonight a night gang will be put to work. The work on the carriages is being pused with all possible haste and it is expected that the first order for eight carriages will be completed in a little over a week.

Off for the Philippines

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Hong Kong, April 25.—The American fleet, with the exception of the Baltimore, Raleigh and Olympia, have left their port. The vessels remaining will sail today.

The vessels which sailed today were the Boston, second-rate cruiser, eight guns; the Concord, third rate gun boat, six guns; and the Petrel, fourth-rate gunboat, four guns. The Baltimore, Olympia and Raleigh, which are to follow today, are cruisers. Their destination is the Philippine Islands and in a few days they may be expected to appear there.

Will Try to Catch the Paris.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Madrid, April 25.—It is is said that, as a result of the Spanish Cabinet held yesterday, instructions were sent to the Spanish naval authorities to effect the capture of the American Line steamship Paris, on her way from Southampton to New York.

GOVERNOR AWAITS ORDERS.

Two Regiments of New Jersey Volunteers to be Sent to the Front.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 25.—Governor Voorhees arrived at the State House early today in anticipation of an order from Washington to call out the two regiments which will be New Jersey's contribution to the volunteer army provided for by an act of Congress

To avoid loss of time when it comes the Governor instructed Quartermaster General Donnelly to send 2,000 tents to Sea Girt immediately. General Donnelly ordered Colonels Cyrus F. Leutrel, of Orange, and George G. Felton, of Camden, members of his staff, to report to him at Sea Girt and assist in the work of laying out the camp, and to make preparations for housing and feeding 4,000 men.

Anticipating danger to the health of the troops through the use of the impure water at the camp grounds, the authorities a few weeks ago had the water pipes thoroughly cleaned, and since that time water has been running through them continually. The mess houses have been put in shape for use, and about all that remains to be done is the pitching of the tents and the transportation of the troops.

The Governor declines to say which two regiments he will select for the volunteer army, but it is thought that they will be the First and Third which will take one from each of the two brigades. Together with the tents a large quantity of ammunition will be sent to Sea Girt from the arsenal here.

The Governor said that he would order regimental commanders to detail guards to watch the armories.

Old Glory for the City.

The city's American flag is soon to wave in the very heart of the city The handsome flag, now on exhibition in the windows of Edward White's big West Front street store is to be raised on a flag pole that is to be placed at the intersection of Park avenue and Front street, in front of Schwed's clothing store. The flag was a gift to the city, as has already been stated, from Mr. White. It is one of the handsomest ones in the city. It is thirty feet long and twenty feet wide. At the next meeting of the Council the City Fathers will extend their heartiest thanks to Mr. White for his generosity and patriotism.

On Government Work.

This week it is expected that work will be started on the eight disappearing gun carriages at the Pond Tool Works. These carriages have been ordered by the Government and when the work is well under way it will require about ten days to turn out a carriage. Commencing with tonight a night gang will be put on at the works.

Towns Left in Ruins.

[Special to The Daily Press.]

Kingston, Jamaica, April 25.—Orders of the armistice were posted Friday at Guantanamo. Two days previous the troops began concentrating at the principal seacoast cities, abandoning all the interior towns and plantations, in many cases burning them. The passengers on the Ely believe the devastation of that part of the island will be completed before the Americans can invade the ports held by the Spaniards.

Episcopal Confirmations.

Bishop Scarborough, who visited Plainfield yesterday, confirmed eleven persons at Grace P. E. church in the afternoon, and at St. Stephen's church last evening four persons were confirmed. At both churches the attendance was large considering the weather.

He Missed a Golden Opportunity.

A New Jersey junk dealer lost what would have been the best bargain he ever had in his life when he tried to beat down the price he was asked to pay for a barrel of old iron. The iron belonged to a queer old hermit who lived alone for many years, and who died a short time ago. The man who was settling up his affairs found a barrel containing scraps of old iron in the shed, and when a junk dealer came along, offered it to him for one dollar. The junk man demurred at the price, claiming it was worth only half that, and during the discussion which followed they tipped over the barrel. There among the old iron was found a lot of gold and silver coins which counted up more than six hundred dollars.

The Shaker Quartet.

The quaintest thing in all New England is the famous Shaker quartet of East Canterbury, New Hampshire. The excellence of their sacred music has always been a strong point among the Shakers, who do not believe in offering to heaven strains that make an earthly audience shudder; but the fame of the East Canterbury quartet has spread into other sects and communities during the past year or two, and lovers of sacred music have traveled long distances to hear the four sweet voiced Shakers.—Puritan.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL TEAM WON FROM STEVENS PREPS.

The Game Played on the LaGrande Avenue Grounds Saturday—Visiting Pitcher Received a Warm Reception

The Plainfield High School baseball nine found the team from the Stevens Prep. School an easy thing. The two teams met on the LaGrande avenue grounds Saturday morning for their match for the championship of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association. Four and a half innings were played and the local players were victorious by a score of 22 to 7.

The visiting pitcher received a warm reception in the first inning. The first three men reached the first safely and filled the bases. Then Lederer came to bat. The first ball delivered he knocked in the chicken yard in left field and made the circuit of the bases. Two more runs were quickly made in that inning. Then the visitors changed pitchers.

That did not help matters any. The local team was after the ball and they found it. Sixteen runs were added in the next three innings.

Edwards remained in the box for the Plainfield team during the entire game. He pitched a great game and held his opponents down to three hits. He had better support than at the first game.

The teams were as follows:

Some Good Scores Made by Hillside Players Saturday.

The grounds of the Plainfield Hillside Tennis and Golf Club were officially opened last Saturday afternoon, when the first monthly handicap for club members was played. Eighteen players qualified and the playing throughout was excellent. The handicaps given were based on the records of the players for last year. In a few cases the handicap was large, owing to the fact that the players had no record. The cup for the event was won by W. L. Glenny, who is considered to be one of the best players in the club. As will be noticed below he was a scratch man and yet made a gross score of 82, with a net score of 82. The total scores are as follows:

POLITICS INJECTED INTO WAR LEGISLATION.

Free Silver Forces Clash With Republicans on Question of Bond Issue.

Administration Plan for Raising Expenses Meets With Opposition From Democrats and Populists—England Declares Neutrality—Three More Prize Ships—Germany Interference Talked—Other Important War News.

Three O'Clock.

SPECIALS TO THE DAILY PRESS.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—It is now feared by the adminstration that a successful opposition is to be organized by the anti-Republican senators against the passage of the bill providing for the proposed bond issue.

The Democrats, Populists and silver Republicans claim that there is no occasion at this time for such a measure.

They claim that with $100,000,000 of the gold reserve in the treasury and with $120,000,000 available cash, and the $200,000,000 to be raised by taxation, that the amount necessary to carry out the war can be secured without the issue of bonds.

It is conceded that the Democrats and silver Republicans are certain to inject a silver question into the bill by amendment.

The Populists last evening by the adoption of a resolution, placed themselves on record as opposing the bond issue.

It is predicted that there is much trouble ahead for the bill.

Secretary of the Navy Long at 11 o'clock this morning authorized an emphatic denial of the rumors current today that advices had been received telling that Morro Castle batteries had fired on the fleet and that the fleet had replied.

The conference committee at Congress on the army reorganization bill has met to consider the Senate amendments to the measure.

Chairman Dingley, of the ways and means committee, has submitted the war revenue bill to the House this morning.

It recites the necessity to immediately provide revenue because of the war with Spain. Had peace continued it states that the present revenue would be sufficient.

The bill submitted today contains three changes from the bill orginally drafted. They are as follows:

A discount of five per cent. on beer stamps is allowed after the passage of the act.

Telephone messages are to be subject to a tax, one cent on messages transmitted thirty miles or more and graduated up to ten cents where the cost of communication exceeds five dollars.

Official telephone and telegraphic messages are to be exempt.

The differential half-cent tax on mineral waters, domestic and imported, not otherwise subject to internal taxation in half-pint bottles, is eliminated so that the dividing line is the pint bottle. The tax for bottles containing less being 1 cent, more 2 cents.

The conference committee reached an agreement regarding the army reorganization bill this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Judge Day, the assistant Secretary of State, has been named by the President to succeed Secretary Sherman. His name has been sent to Congress for confirmation. Prof. Moore has been nominated as assistant secretary.

Many Bristish colonies have notified the United States that neutrality has been proclaimed between United States and Spain.

The state department has sent all foreign nations notice that Congress has passed the declaration of war, declaring that war has existed since April 21st. This was done to save our rights.

At 1:30 o'clock the Senate agreed to the conference report on the army reorganization bill.

At 2 o'clock, the House agreed on the conference report of the army reorganization bill.

Can Attack Spanish Coast.

London, April 26.—It is understood that the Powers will not attempt to prevent the United States battleships from attacking the coast of Spain in the event of such a decision by the Americans.

To Bombard Havana.

Washington, April 26.—Cipher despatches were received at the Navy Department from Admiral Sampson. The acting admiral has asked permission to shell the forts at Havana. The request is under consideration. The Department has begun to feel that it cannot maintain a peaceful blockade much longer, and uneasiness is manifested on that account.

St. Thomas, April 26.—The Spanish fleet has steam up, ready to sail today.

Columbia's Destination Unknown.

Newport, April 26.—The Columbia sailed this morning. Destination is unknown.

Operations at Havana.

Havana (via London) April 26.—Captain General Blanco has notified Madrid that he can defend Havana without Spanish warships.

General Gomez, of the insurgent forces, announces that he will aid the United States army with 30,000 men in attacking Havana from the rear.

Pacific Naval Engagement.

Washington, April 26.—It is expected that a naval engagement may take place in the Pacific Ocean between the United States warships that left Hong Kong yesterday and the Spanish battleships stationed near Manila. The American fleet consists of the cruisers Olympia, Baltimore, Boston, Concord, Raleigh, gunboat Petrel, revenue cutter Hugh McCulloch and transports Zafiro and Manshan. The war ships' coal bunkers are filled with 4,000 tons and an additional six months' supply is on the transports.

England Neutral.

London, April 26.—The British Government has issued a proclamation of neutrality. It is a routine document, and is mostly occupied with rules governing the actions of the belligerents. It provides that twenty four hours shall intervene between the departure of vessels of Spain and the United States.

The proclamation declares that the warships of the two countries now at war muet leave all British ports in 24 hours.

The ships of Spain and the United States may only take sufficient coal at a British port to carry them to the nearest port in their own country.

The same ship must not re-coal in British waters within three months without special permission. Ships of the warring countries must not take prizes in British waters.

A German Official Sympathizes With Spain

London, April 26.—Considerable importance is attached here to the statement made last night by Prince Henry, of Prussia, in which he said that Germany's sympathy was wholly with Spain.

Spain Appeals to China.

London, April 26.—Premier Sagasta is endeavoring to persuade China to declare neutrality between Spain and the United States in the present conflict. Sagasta argues that China should take this action in view of the fact that Americans are using the Mirs bay as a base of operations.

Spanish Warship Sighted.

Sidney, April 26.—Lookouts here are keeping a sharp watch for a Spanish warship that has been reported sighted off Bay Bulls, Eastport, Me. The Dominion fishing smack, Curlew, in here today, Captain Cratt, reported having sighted a Spanish warship a few miles out at sea. The warship is supposed to be lying in wait for two steamships due in this port today.

Insurgents Massing.

Hong Kong, China, April 26.—A despatch from Manilla, in the Phillipine Islands, says that the insurgents are massing round that place. A massacre of Spaniards is feared at any moment.

Three Prizes.

Key West, April 26.—The Mangrove and the Newport, of Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet, have captured three more prizes which are being brought here in charge of prize crews.

Rich Prize Sighted.

Washington, April 26.—The officials of the Navy Department have received word through news channels not available to the newspapers that the ships of Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet have steamer, fifteen miles east of Matanzas, and given it chase. From the description of the steamer it is thought to be the Spanish ship Montserrat which carries 1,000 soldiers and $500,000 in silver. Since the signal was given to pursue the Spaniard, and the ships put out after DISCUSSING PLAN OF ENROLLING SOLDIERS.

Prominant Citizens Confer With Mayor Fisk.

VOLUNTEER RESERVE PLAN

WILL WAIT TO HEAR FROM GOVERNOR VOORHEES.

Mayor Fisk Acted as Chairman of the Meeting, Which Was Attended by Many Prominent and Influential Citizens—The Movement Explained by Letters From Headquarters—Chief Doane Says 95 Per Cent. of Enrollments Would Go to the Front—Enrollment Blanks to Be Distributed.

The first active movement in Plainfield towards the pledging of volunteers for the war between the United States and Spain has been started. If the sanction and indorsement of the Governor of the State is secured, then the citizens of Plainfield will open an enrollment office and all eligible men, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, will be given a chance to volunteer their services to the Government should they be needed.

An informal meeting of war veterans and prominent citizens was held in the Mayor's office last evening to discuss the advisability of the proposed movement. The meeting was really the result of a communication received by Mayor Charles J. Fisk from the leaders of the National Volunteer Reserve, an organization formed by the leading generals of the country two weeks ago, to enroll all the eligible citizens to form a grand reserve force to be called on to enlist in case of necessity.

The substance of that communication was published in yesterday's Daily Press, so too was an outline of the call that Mayor Fisk sent out to a few citizens who assembled in his office last evening to talk it over. The Mayor acted as chairman of the meeting.

Among the guests present were: J. Frank Hubbard, director of the Union County Board of Freeholders, Assemblyman Roger F. Murray, Roland Cox and S. C. Peck, members of the New York Commandery of the Loyal Legion, Captain William Hand, a veteran of the Civil War, W. W. Coriell, past commander of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., Asa Collier, past commander of Major Anderson Post, Former Mayor Alex. Gilbert, T. O. Doane, chief of the Fire Department, John T. Baker, president of the Common Council, Walter B Rittenhouse, former ensign of the New Jersey Naval Reserves, E. L Walz, Edward White, John I. Finley, of Winfield Scott Post, and representatives of the local newspapers.

The Mayor read the letters he had received from the leaders of the National Volunteer Reserve, and also read some of the literature on the subject that had been furnished him. After stating the reason of the meeting, he asked for the opinions of those present.

Mr. Cox asked if it was clear that the movement had the indorsement of the administration. His Honor explained that in a personal interview with General McCook, the secretary of the Reserve, he had been assured that the government was heartily in favor of it. He said that he had consulted Mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth, in regard to what that city was going to do with the call. Mayor Rankin had said that Elizabeth had a regiment of its own and anyone who wanted to enlist could join it. Therefore he was not going to pay any attention to it.

Mr. Cox explained that he was not opposed to the movement but the only objection that he could see to it was that it might anticipate the work of the government and so interfere with it. His Honor then read letters from Secretary Alger and other prominent men of the administration, stating that they were thoroughly in sympathy with the movement.

Captain Hand thought that it was a good thing. His idea of it was that it merely enrolled the names of the men who were eligible and willing to go in case of need so as to give the government the moral support to be derived from the fact that there was a large army of men ready in case of need. Mr. Cox thought it would be well to communicate with the Governor and see if he approved of it.

W. W Corriell told of his attempt to start a company in Plainfield and the substance of his correspondence wtih Adjutant General Stryker. He thought that in case of war, that most of those who went into such a movement would back out when the time came to enlist. His idea was that it was far better to recruit a company as BIG JACK POT FOR CITY.

POKER PLAYERS FINED HEAVILY BY CITY JUDGE.

Jack Kavanaugh Fined $50 For Being Proprietor of the Place—Others Fined $10 Each—Kavanaugh Rearrested

City Judge DeMeza held court yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock to take care of the cases of those who were captured in the police raid on the quiet poker game in an upper room at Kavanaugh's restaurant Sunday evening.

Kavanaugh, the proprietor of the place, was the first to be arraigned. He entered a plea of guilty. Kavanaugh was arrested nearly three years ago on the same charge. On that occasion his place was raided by Rounds man Flynn and Patrolman Vender weg. W. A. Coddington, then city judge, fined him $50 for the offense.

Judge DeMeza had a lecture prepared for the veteran restaurant keeper. Then he sentenced him to pay a fine of $50 or go to jail for twenty-five days. Councilman W. L. Hetfield appeared for Kavanaugh and made a short plea asking for a light sentence.

Hugo Wiertz, Peter Snyderwinn, Patrick Gleason and Joseph Block were fined $10 each. They had all entered a plea of guilty to the charge of gambling.

Kavanaugh was afterwards arraigned on the charge of selling liquor without a license. The specific offence named in the complaint was selling a half-pint of whiskey to Jos. Block April 20th. He entered a plea of not guilty and was held under $200 bonds for trial Thursday afternoon.

PATRIOTIC ARCANUMITES.

Altar Draped With Flags, and Cheers for McKinley.

The members of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, held their regular meeting last evening and it proved to be a rousing patriotic assemblage. The altar was neatly draped with an American flag, and the meeting opened and closed with the singing of "America." During the evening there were several patriotic addresses by the members of the Council and everyone was heartily cheered. At the close of the meeting Regent Bromfield suggested that three cheers be given for President McKinley, and they were given with an enthusiasm and will. Such a display of patriotism has never been witnessed before at a Council chamber. One application for membership was received before the meeting adjourned.

Telephone Wires Under Ground.

The work of laying the underground conduits for the wires of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company will be started this week. Manager Runyon, who will have general superintendence over the work, has received a sufficient amount of the conduits to start at once. The work will start on Park and North avenues and Front street, so as to allow the street department to get at those thoroughfares as soon as possible and give them what repairs are necessary for the summer

—All bills to ensure payment must be in the hands of the city clerk by Thursday evening.

NO DEFINITE ORDERS.

NAVAL RESERVES ARE WAITING FOR ACTIVE SERVICE.

Detail Assigned to the Mantauk Will be Relieved Today by the Battalion of the West—Sargeon Simpson Waiting.

[Special to The Daily Press.]

Hoboken, April 25.—The New Jersey Naval Reserve, Battalion of the East, met for their regular weekly drill on the training ship Portsmouth last night, and incidentally discussed the chances of their being called out for actual service immediately.

Though the Reserves are literally on land as yet they are figuratively all at sea so far as knowing what they are going to do or how soon. The Naval authorities at Washington have had them under orders for nearly two weeks, but one order has followed another so rapidly and so widely different in effect that the Reserves have actually come to the point of not exactly knowing where they are at.

The detail that was assigned to the monitor Montauk at the League Island Navy yard have become tired of laying listelessly in part, doing virtually nothing but guard duty, and with no prospect of immediate sea service, and they have asked to be relieved by the Battallion of the West. The request has been granted, and today the detail assigned from the Battallion of the East arrived at the training ship and from there will depart to their various homes to await future orders.

Last night Surgeon M. S. Simpson, of Plainfield, was kept busy on the Portsmouth culling out members who were not fitted physicially for hard service and filling the vacancies with recruits who were qualified for hard work. Mr. Simpson returned home last night and will hold himself in readiness to respond to orders on short notice. Apothecary Fulton, of Plainfield, is also in readiness to respond on the instant the orders are received for duty.

A GERMAN'S TRIBULATIONS.

Fell Asleep in a Freight Car and Hated Before the Judge.

Arrayed in tattered frock coat and trousers of army blue, Frank Walking, the descendant of a noble family of Germany, entered the dingy little courtroom at the rookery this morning. Last night a patrolman disturbed his slumbers in an empty freight car. But the German nobleman has grown accustomed to inconvenient circumstances since his arrival in this country. He made no objection when they locked him up with the creeping and crawling things in a cell, but resumed his rest without remark.

His decidedly battered appearance was against him when he was brought before Judge DeMeza this morning. Walking had not forgotten the teaching of his instructors in the "Fatherland" and he made such an eloquent plea that the Judge was very favorably impressed. Sentence was suspended on condition he would depart at once. And he did.

Want Crosswalks.

People living on West Front street, west of Grant avenue, are still wondering when they are going to have some crosswalks If there is a place in the city where they are needed it is on that street.

STARS AND STRIPES TO FLOAT 125 FEET HIGH

City Flag Pole to be Located in a Prominent Place.

CHIEF TALK OF COUNCILMEN

OLD GLORY TO HANG AT FRONT STREET AND PARK AVENUE.

Several Different Locations Were Discussed—Merchants Will Contribute Enough to Pay the Difference Between a Pole 75 and 125 Feet High—A Keyless Firebox to be Established in the Business Center of the City—$100 Appropriated for Celebration of Memorial Day—Other Business.

The adjourned session of the City Council held last evening was of a short duration for there was little business of great importance to be considered The chief topic of interest seemed to be the question of where to locate the flag pole from which to float the very handsome flag, 20 x 30, recently presented to the city by Edward White.

The matter was introduced by Mr. Runyon, who stated that the flag had been presented and the question of securing and locating a pole was under consideration by the fire and building committee. It had been suggested that a pole 75 feet out of the ground be secured. A figure had been secured from a firm who offered such a pole at $125, but the merchants on West Front street said they would be willing to contribute the difference to have a pole 125 feet out of the ground. It was finally agreed that such a pole should be purchased and that the West Front street merchants be seen with a view to contributing the extra amount necessary for the purchase of the pole.

The question of where to locate the pole was brought up. Mr. Runyon said that Mayor Fisk's idea was to have the pole placed in front of the Council rooms, but the opinion of the committee was that there was hardly sufficient room at that point, and that a place in front of Schwed Brothers, on Front street opposite Park avenue, would be better. Mr. Hetfield said that he would like to have it in front of his office. Mr. Runyon said that J. E. Beerbower had offered to contribute $25 towards the general expense to have it placed near the City Hotel. Mr. Moffett thought the corner of Somerset and Front streets would be a good place, or near the Babcock or Stillman buildings. Mr. VanHerwerden gave it as his opinion that the best place would be on Front street opposite Park avenue, and then the flag could be seen by persons coming from all directions. He thought that if it was placed at the corner of Front and Somerset streets North Plainfield would have a better view of it than Plainfield. Mr. Buckle favored Front street at the head of Park avenue, and finally Mr. Runyon moved that that place be decided upon. It was so voted by the Council.

Another matter that came in for a share of general debate was the location of a keyless fire-alarm box on West Front street, as petitioned for by the merchants on West Front street. Mr. Runyon moved that the request be granted. Mr. Hetfield objected on the ground that there are two boxes very close together and it was not necessary to place another one between them. He favored the placing of boxes on the outskirts of the city.

Mr. Andrews thought it would be possible to combine one of the boxes, either at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, or at the corner of Grove and Front streets with one of the keyless pattern. This suggestion was gladly accepted and the motion made by Mr. Runyon that such a box be located was laid on the table and the fire and building committee was instructed to investigate the matter and report at the next meeting.

A communication was received from I. L. McVoy, chairman of the G. A. R. Memorial Detail, asking the Council to appropriate the usual amount of $100 for the proper observance of Decoration Day. On a motion offered by Mr. Moffett the request was unanimously granted

A communication was received from the Welsbach Light Company, of America, in which they agreed to give a public exhibition of the excellence of their system for street lighting if the Council so desired. They agreed to give the exhibition at their expense entirely. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

Mr. Barrows moved that the application of W. H. Morrison to run a hotel at Netherwood be taken from the table He then stated that the Corporation Counsel had received a

DECLARATION OF WAR

Immediate Response of Congress to the President's Message.

TEXT OF THE WAR BILL

The Resolution States That War Has Existed Since April 21—The President Says That Spain's Refusal to Recede Our Ultimatum Marked the Beginning of a State of War.

Washington, April 26.—The following is the full text of the President's message sent to Congress yesterday, recommending that a declaration of war be passed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America:

I transmit to Congress for its consideration and appropriate action copies of correspondence recently had with the representative of Spain in the United States, with the United States Minister at Madrid and through the latter with the Government of Spain, showing the action taken under the joint resolution approved April 20, 1898, "for the recognition of the independence of the people of Cuba, demanding that the Government of Spain relinquish its authority and government in the Island of Cuba, and to withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters, and directing the President of the United States to use the land and naval forces of the United States to carry these resolutions into effect."

Upon communicating to the Spanish Minister in Washington the demand which it became the duty of the Executive to address to the Government of Spain in obedience to said resolution the Minister asked for his passports and withdrew. The United States Minister at Madrid was in turn notified by the Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs that the withdrawal of the Spanish representative from the United States had terminated diplomatic relations between the two countries and that all official communications between their respective representatives ceased therewith.

I commend to your especial attention the note addressed to the United States Minister at Madrid, by the Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs, on the 21st inst., whereby the foregoing notification was conveyed. It will be perceived therefrom that the Government of Spain having cognizance of the joint resolution of the United States Congress, and in view of the things which the President is thereby required and authorized to do, responds by treating the reasonable demands of this Government as measures of hostility, following with that instant and complete severance of relations by its action which, by the usage of nations accompanies an existent state of war between sovereign powers.

The position of Spain being thus made known, and the demands of the United States being denied with a complete rupture of intercourse by the act of Spain, I have been constrained to exercise of the power and authority conferred upon me by the joint resolution aforesaid, to proclaim, under date of April 22, 1898, a blockade of certain ports of the north coast of Cuba lying between Cardenas and Bahia Honda and of the port of Cienfuegos on the south coast of Cuba, and, further, in exercise of my constitutionad powers, and using the authority conferred upon me by the act of Congress approved April 22, 1898, to issue my proclamation dated April 22, 1898, calling for volunteers in order to carry into effect the said resolution of April 20, 1898. Copies of these proclamations are hereto appended.

In view of the measures so taken and with a view to the adoption of such other measures as may be necessary to enable me to carry out the expressed will of the Congress of the United States in the premises, I now recommend to your honorable body, the executive body, the adoption of a joint resolution declaring that a state of war exists between the United States of America and the kingdom of Spain, and I urge speedy action thereon, to the end that the definition of the international status of the United States as belligerent power may be made known, and the assertion of all its rights and the maintenance of all its duties in the conduct of a public war may be assured.

(Signed) WILLIAM McKINLEY,
Executive Mansion,
Washington, D C., April 25, 1898.

The correspondence accompanying the President's message included copies of his proclamations calling for troops and announcing the blockade of Cuban ports, together with a statement of the circumstances attending the rupture of diplomatic relations with Spain by the handing of passports to Minister Woodford at Madrid and to Minister Polo at Washington.

The documents were, with the message, referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations and were immediately taken to the committee room by Chairman Davis and laid before the meeting of the committee, which was held at once.

The committee was only in session ten minutes. Acting Chairman Adams presented the bill, the same which had been agreed upon by the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, and by a unanimous vote it was ordered to be immediately reported. The bill is as follows:

A bill declaring that war exists between the United States of America and the Kingdom of Spain.

Be it enacted, etc.

First, That war be, and the same is hereby declared to exist, and that war has existed since the 21st day of April, A. D. 1898, including said day, between the United States of America and the Kingdom of Spain.

Second, That the President of the United States be, and he is hereby directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States, and to call into the actual service of the United States the militia of the several States to such extent as may be necessary to carry this act into effect.

It took the House one minute and forty-one seconds to pass the declaration of war. There was a unanimous vote and little excitement. The announcement of its passage was greeted with a round of applause in which the galleries joined.

Policy as to Prizes.

Washington, April 26.—The act of Congress in declaring that a state of war exists, does not in the opinion of the administration involve or invalidate any of the acts of the army or navy since April 21. The Administration holds that Spain declared war on the day when she broke off diplomatic relations, and that the United States had a perfect right to seize vessels.

The action of Congress is simply to officially declare that war does exist, and it covers all acts of the Government since actual hostilities began. The bill passed was drawn under the advice of the Attorney-General, and it is therefore supposed to protect the interests of the Government, especially in regard to the seizures made by Admiral Sampson's fleet.

While there can be no question as to the right of the United States in this matter, it is understood that, in view of the news from Madrid that Spain has granted American vessels thirty days in which to leave Spanish ports, the captured Spanish ships may be released "conditionally," to see if Spain is really acting in good faith. In other words, these vessels now at Key West may be held as hostages until time shows what Spain may do. If this is the case the prizes will not be sold for some time yet.

RUMORS OF OTHER CHANGES.

Secretary Gage Spoken of Among the Cabinet Officers Who Will Resign.

Washington, April 26.—With the resignation of Secretary of State John Sherman, which took effect yesterday, he retires from public life after a service of over forty years, embracing the House of Representatives, the United States Senate, the Secretaryship of the Treasury and the Secretaryship of State.

The resignation is on account of the condition of his health, which is now impaired, and the arduous duties of his present office, he being nearly 75 years of age.

The Secretary's resignation was in the form of a simple note tendering to the President the portfolio intrusted to him and asking that it take effect as soon as "may be convenient."

The withdrawal of Mr. Sherman is followed by a number of other rumors of forthcoming resignations from the Cabinet. Lyman J. Gage, the Secretary of the Treasury, is spoken of among those who are going out.

Whitelaw Reid, it is said, is being considered by the President in one of the forthcoming vacancies, but it can be positively stated that the President will make no mention of the names of the new men who will enter his official family until the changes are actually made.

He followed this plan in regard to the apointment of Charles Emory Smith to succeed General Gary, not mentioning to his Cabinet nor to his personal and political friends who was to get the Post [illegible] Department until he sent the name of the Philadelphia editor to the Senate. Under these circumstances it would only be guess work to predict how the reorganized Cabinet will be made up.

From the best and most reliable sources it is learned that Judge Day has accepted the position of Secretary of State, with the understanding that he will be allowed to resign upon the conclusion of the war. Judge Day accepts the position in order to render his valuable assistance to the President and because he does not feel that he should leave his old friend at this critical time.

In connection with further changes in the Cabinet, it is reported that the men have already been selected to relieve Secretaries Alger and Long the moment those two men find that the strain of their present positions are too severe for their health. While, of course, official confirmation cannot be secured to the rumored changes, it is understood that James Harrison Wilson of Delaware is likely to succeed General Alger as head of the War Department. Mr. Wilson was one of the best known officers of the Civil War and is familiar to army men by the soubriquet of "Fighting Jim Wilson." He is considered a fine executive officer and a good organizer. He has been in Washington frequently of late in consultation with the President and Secretary Alger, with whom he is on friendly terms.

It is reported that Rear Admiral Walker is to be made Secretary of the Navy on the retirement of Mr. Long. Owing to the fact that Mr. Walker is not eligible for this appointment under the existing law, it will be necessary for a special act of Congress to be passed to enable him to be appointed Secertary of the Navy.

BLOCKADE OF PHILLIPINES.

May Be Carried Out Before Issuance of Proclamation if Emergency Arises.

Washington, April 26.—From the fact that the State Department has not been called upon so far to prepare any proclamation giving notice of a blockade of either Porto Rico or the Philippines, it may be set down as a fact that the naval forces are not yet ready to move in that direction.

It is the usual practice, as was shown in the proclamation relative to the blockade of Cuban ports, to give due notice to foreign powers by proclamation of an intentional blockade, and although it is not absolutely necessary to follow this course it is believed the State Department will observe the usual rule.

It is entirely within the province of an admiral commanding, however, if in his opinion an emergency exists sufficient to justify it, to establish the blockade first and then give notice, and in the case of the Philippines it is possible such a course may be followed in order that the Spanish naval force at Manila may not be given an opportunity to escape capture at the hands of the United States Asiatic squadron.

To Guard French Interests.

St. Thomas, West Indies, April 26.—The third-class French cruiser Admiral Rigault de Genouilly leaves here to-day for San Juan de Porto Rico, capital of the Spanish colony of the same name, to protect the interests of France in those waters.

OFF TO THE PHILLIPINES.

Our Asiastic Squadron Has Orders to Capture or Destroy the Spanish Fleet.

Hong Kong, British Colony in China, April 26.—The guns of America's Asiatic squadron will soon be thundering in the harbor of Manila, the capital of the Philippine Islands. The last of the fleet sailed last nigh from Hong Kong. Commodore Dewey has orders from Washington to capture or destroy the Spanish fleet.

Unless Spain's warships are in hiding, the fighting will begin at or near the Philippine Islands, and the time is only a matter of hours—perhaps by Sunday.

General Aguinaldo, the President of the Philippine insurgents, has sailed from Singapore, where he has been in exile, with the members of his Cabinet. They chartered their own steamship. They will land at a convenient point on the islands, and the General will put himself at the head of an army of 30,000 well-equipped insurgents now gathered together and waiting for him.

General Aguinaldo will lead this large force to attack Manila by land while the American warships bombard the city from the sea.

The movements of that army interest Commodore Dewey and command his sympathy, but he has given the insurgents no official aid or encouragement.

Nevertheless, the two forces will cooperate in fact, and should prove more than a match for the Spaniards.

Consul Williams arrived yesterday from Manila on the steamship Esmeralda. A fast dispatch boat took him immediately to the flagship Olympia at Mirs Bay. The Consul will accompany the fleet back to Manila.

He has full information, it is believed, regarding the Spanish fortifications at Manila and elsewhere on the Philippines, and also regarding the location of mines and torpedoes planted in the harbors.

The Spanish ships are awaiting attack in Manila harbor, it is supposed, under the protection of the land fortifications.

The United States squadron consists of the protected cruisers Olympia (flagship), Baltimore, Boston and Raleigh, the gunboats Concord, Petrel and McCullough, and the transports Zafiro and Manshan.

May Be Near Our Coast.

St. John's, N. F., April 26.—It was reported here last night, though the rumor lacks confirmation, that a Spanish warship had been sighted off Bay Bull's, twenty miles south of St. John's. She is believed to be after American fishing vessels on the Grand Banks. Between sixty and seventy Newfoundland fishermen left yesterday with the intention of enlisting in the American Navy.

Port Au Prince, Hayti, April 26.—A Haytian coasting vessel which has just arrived here reports having sighted five warships, painted dark gray, passing the Mole St. Nicholas, the western point of the northern part of Hayti, on Saturday last.

Spain's Squadron Ordered to Leave.

Washington, April 26.—England's neutrality proclamation, which among other results has caused the American squadron to sail from Hong Kong with a blockade of the Philippines as its ultimate mission, moved Portugal yesterday to serve notice on Spain that her warships must leave Portuguese ports within forty-eight hours. As Cape Verd is a Portuguese possession, this step means that the Spanish fleet anchored at St. Vincent must put back to the Canaries or to Cadiz or some other home port if it does not sail westward to engage Captain Sampson's squadron now blockading Cuba.

Will Stop the Cape Verde Fleet.

Washington, April 26.—A meeting of the Strategic Board was held at the Navy Department last night. Arrangements were made to dispatch the flying squadron at once to head off the Spanish fleet which, it is reported, will leave Cape Verde to-day.

Captain Crowninshield and a force of assistants were on duty last night deciphering messages relating to the course of the Spanish ships, and if they are headed this way Commodore Schley will receive orders to sail immediately to intercept them.

Still at Cape Verde Islands.

London, April 26.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, dated yesterday, says:

"Visiting the Spanish fleet has been forbidden, and no manoeuvring, target practice or exercising whatever is proceeding. All the ships have been painted black since they arrived here. No shore leave is granted. It is reported that the vessels will sail from these islands to-morrow (Tuesday)."

Spanish Fleet to Sail.

London, April 26.—A special dispatch from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, dated yesterday, says:

"There is reason to believe the Spanish fleet sails to-day. It is exceedingly formidable, including, as it does, four first-class cruisers, six torpedo boats, and two armed transports.

"Since the arrival of the transport San Francisco, the latter has transshipped to the cruisers 2,000 tons of coal."

Bryan May Enlist as a Private.

Wichita, Kan., April 26.—Col. H. G. Boler has received from his friend, William J. Bryan, a communication asking him as to the propriety of Mr. Bryan's volunteering as a private soldier. Mr. Bryan is willing to volunteer at the first call, but has hesitated because of the scramble for commissioned places now being made in all parts of the country. He fears that his action in volunteering will be liable to misconstruction. Col. Boler has not yet framed an answer.

$750,000 Fire in Glasgow.

Chronic Kickers

Some in Every Household in Plainfield, But They're Growing Less.

Chronic kickers the kidneys are when they're sick.

What makes the kidneys sick? A simple thing.

They have too much to do.

Must keep up their work; they never rest.

Can't blame them for kicking.

Ever have your kidneys kick?

Ever have a bad back, a lame, weak or aching one!

Know it's the same thing?

The back aches because the kidneys are blocked.

Help the kidneys with their work.

The back will ache no more.

Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

It's the best proof, for it comes from Plainfield.

Citizens, read this case in point

Mrs. W. W Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue, says: "Ever since the birth of my last child I have suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping, my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling very bad last spring when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effects in a few days, and when I had finished the one box my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend to my household duties. Doan's Kidney Pills have my endorsement and I am always pleased to recommend them."

The call is so specific in instructions that there can be no misunderstanding such as has prevailed, even in some official quarters, as to the exact method of procedure in regard to the National Guard organizations. The militia regiments are not ordered out as organizations, even for the purpose of recruiting them as volunteers.

A telegram to the Governors, after mentioning the quota, says:

"It is the wish of the President that the regiments of the National Guard or State militia be used as far as their numbers will permit, for the reason that they are armed, equipped and drilled."

The Secretary also asks the Governors to telegraph at once what equipments, ammunition, arms, blankets, tents, etc., are on hand and what are needed; and also when the troops will be ready for muster into the United States service.

War Prizes Worth $2,400,000.

Key West, April 26.—The capture of the Catalina by the Detroit and the Saturina by the revenue cutter Winona brings the value of the prizes thus secured by the American fleet to $2,400,000. Of the half dozen captures the last three are by far the most valuable. The Catalina is estimated to be worth, with her cargo, $835,000. She is a schooner rigged, single-screw steamer of 4,796 tons gross, and is 415 feet long. Her triple expansion engines allowed her to give the Detroit a stiff eight-mile chase.

Sigsbee Challenged to Fight a Duel.

Toronto, April 26.—Lieutenant Carrienz of the suite of Senor Polo y Bernabe was seen yesterday afternoon relative to the report that he had challenged Captain Sigsbee, who commanded the Maine, to fight a duel. The lieutenant corroborated the story. He said he had sent his challenge on the 20th, and if he does not hear from Captain Sigsbee by the 28th he will brand him as a coward. Should Captain Sigsbee refuse, the lieutenant will challenge Consul-General Lee.

Billiardist Sexton Drops Dead.

New York, April 26.—Former billiard champion, William Sexton, 50 years of age, dropped dead yesterday afternoon in Johnston's Hotel, at Thirty-third street and Sixth avenue He was to have started for Boston on an afternoon train, a monster benefit having been arranged for him in that city for last night. Sexton was considered one of the best round-the-table-shot players that ever lived, and was also unusually clever in nurse plays.

The Plans as Formulated by the Administration.

THE FLEET TO BACK ARMY

Regulars to Be Sent from Tampa to Take Possession of a Port as Base of Supplies—Will Be Escorted and Landed by a Strong Naval Force.

Washington, April 26.—The President and Secertary Alger have decided upon the first order for troops to move on Cuba. Five thousand men of the regular army now at Tampa have been selected for this work, and they will go to the island and establish a base of supplies.

The command will be composed of 4,000 infantry and 1,000 cavalry and artillery. The Navy Department has arranged a transport to take them to one of the ports on the southern coast of the island, and their departure will take place this week. The point of landing will be some place which can be well fortified, and will be used as a base of supplies, not only for our naval forces, but to feed the Cubans and aid the Cuban army.

Supplies for the Cubans will be sent to this point for distribution after the troops have been landed and the place has been fortified.

Rear Admiral Sampson will detail a couple of his ships to protect the command, and a large marine guard will be ordered to support the troops. The War Department has not as yet selected the officer to command the force of soldiers to be sent to Cuba.

To Communicate with Gomez.

It is understood that arrangements have been completed for establishing communication between such a base of supplies and General Gomez's army, which is being concentrated for the purpose of forming a junction. The hour of the departure of troops from Tampa will be determined only by the question of how fast it is possible to get the 5,000 men on transports and put them under a naval escort. A large quantity of military supplies and provisions for feeding the destitute within reach of and under the protecton of the invading army and the army of Gomez, will be transported to the point selected as the base of supplies in Cuba. It is felt that a force of 5,000 men will be amply able to establish the base of supplies and to protect it from any force the Spanish could send against it.

As soon as the force has landed the way will be open to pour into the island all the supplies and munitions of war that can possibly be needed. The vessels which will be detailed from Sampson's fleet will be quite able to cover the landing of the troops from the transports. It is understood that the Cuban army, as fast as it can be assembled, will be provided with such arms, munitions, clothing, provisions, horses and equpment as it needs, and be put into a condition for effective service.

After it has been determined how effective a force can be relied upon from Gomez it can be decided to what extent our own unacclimated soldiers will have to be called upon for service in Cuba. Starting with the regulars, the more seasoned soldiers will be first drawn upon for the army of invasion. The militia and raw recruits will be kept in camp as long as possible, to allow them to become seasoned, and when the calls upon them begin, careful selection will be made of those best suited for the sort of service for which reinforcements will be needed.

The Regulars First.

The regular army, which will be recruited under the bill which has been passed by the House and Senate, will retain a character sharply distinguished from the volunteer arms. It will be built up by recruiting to nearly three times its present size. The recruits will naturally be of a very different class of men from those comprising the volunteer army. The men in the volunteer army will be for the most part those who would never think in time of peace of adopting the profession of a private soldier. The recruits to the regular army are expected to come from the same class of men, used to hardship and privation, who ordinarily choose the profession of soldiers in the ranks. The volunteers, coming chiefly from walks of private life, where many of them have been used to luxury and have never known what hardship is, while experience has shown that they make excellent soldiers, in fact the best in time, need to be given a longer time in camp. For this reason, it is decided that the volunteers will not be called upon to join the army of invasion for at least a month, and it may be considerably longer before any of them are ordered to duty outside this country.

Roosevelt to Raise a Cowboy Regiment.

Washington, April 26.—The President has decided to appoint Theodore Roosevelt of New York, the present Assistant Secretary of the Navy, to be a lieutenant-colonel of United States Volunteers to serve in a regiment of cowboys and mounted riflemen to be raised by Mr. Roosevelt and Dr. Wood, the President's family physician, who is now in the medical department of the regular army. Dr. Wood will be colonel of the regiment.

To Protect Klondike Gold.

Seattle, Wash., April 26.—The local Alaskan transportation company has wired Secretary Long for six gatling guns, to be placed on one of its steamers as a precaution against any Spanish warship or privateer that may be in the north Pacific Ocean when the first steamers start on their return trip from St. Michael's, with passengers and gold from the Klondike.

Gen. Miles Still Waiting.

Washington, April 26.—General Miles, commanding the army, has not yet settled on the day on which he will leave for the South. He has appointed his staff, and has been ready to leave on his tour of inspection for a week past, but owing to the passage of the two military laws by Congress has been unable to get away.

When the children are hungry, what do you give them? Food.

When thirsty? Water.

Now use the same good common sense, and what would you give them when they are too thin? The best fat-forming food, of course.

Somehow you think of Scott's Emulsion at once.

For a quarter of a century it has been making thin children, plump; weak children, strong; sick children, healthy.

CHANGES IN CAMPAIGN PLAN.

After Havana Falls Our Fleet May Cross the Ocean and Attack the Spanish in Their Own Waters.

Washington, April 26.—Startling changes in the plan of campaign against Spain may be made necessary soon by developments expected any day. After Havana falls and the island is practically under the flag of this country it may be necessary to transfer the sceen of operations to the other side of the Atlantic. The United States may have to go across the ocean to compel Spain to come to terms. If the Spaniards will not come across to fight us it follows that we will have to go to them.

Naval officers high in the service make no secret of the fact that they expect to fight across the water. They point out that this country is making quite too extensive preparations for a war to be fought out on this side only. They say that if we did not expect to fight Spain later on in her own territory it would not be necessary to put in commission the great number of auxiliary vessels or to secure at high prices the big transports and tugs which the administration is buying every day. The fact that coal is to be contraband of war is alone an explanation of why Spain has planned to make the United States fight her abroad. It is simply compelling this country to do that which Spain could not possibly do—to carry coal, provisions and supplies 3,000 miles from her base of supplies to wage war with.

Sailors Want to Fight.

Washington, April 26.—Admiral Sampson has asked permission to shell the forts at Havana. The Navy Department has begun to feel that it cannot maintain a peaceful blockade much longer, and uneasiness is manifested on that account.

The challenges that come from the forts at Havana, it is known, cannot long be resisted by Sampson. It stings his pride, as the Department is aware, to allow the Spanish gunners to fire at his fleet without being at liberty to return the fire and teach the enemy that silence on their part will insure their safety for a longer period.

The administration is opposed to a bombardment until it must come, and then only as a defensive fight. But no one here believes the bombardment can be much longer delayed.

Hurrah For a Flagpole.

Along with the fact that the city is to have a flagpole, mounting its lofty peak high up in the air, from which Old Glory is to float to the breeze, we venture the suggestion that the city officials make the date of its raising a patriotic occasion.

A patriotic celebration of some kind is what a large number of Plainfielders are aching for now, and the flagpole seems to meet the idea. It would afford an opportunity to make a display that would fit into current events to a nicety. We would suggest that some of the progressive Councilmen or the Mayor inaugurate the plan of such a celebration. Let them start the ball rolling by calling together a few of the leading citizens to make the arrangements. Once started, such a project will go on to a signal success by the popular feeling of devotion to any plan connected with paying tribute to the Stars and Stripes.

One of the distinguishing features of such an event could be a parade to include the various cadet companies of the city and borough, which number about 150, the several societies of a patriotic nature, such as the Uniformed Rank of Knights of Pythias, Junior Order American Mechanics, Red Men, Sons of Veterans, G. A. R., etc. Martial music galore could be secured from the Queen City Band and Independent Fife and Drum Corps.

Beside the organizations mentioned above, numerous citizens would also doubtless lend their presence either on foot or in carriages to make the parade a distinguished one.

Patriotic citizens would also decorate their houses in gala attire along the route of the procession, making the march a triumphant one for Old Glory.

After the parade had covered a route to be selected, it could disperse at the intersection of Front street and Park avenue, where all hands could heave to and raise the pole with great gusto. After the pole had been planted, short speeches could be delivered to the number of a half dozen by prominent men invited for the occasion. A patriotic song or two could be sung, with Councilman Runyon in the lead, and the affair ended with three hurrahs and a tiger for Old Glory as she went gliding up the pole under the guidance of Chief Doane, the fire-alarm gong, church bells and factory whistles making a great ado meanwhile.

By all means let Plainfield have a patriotic flag-pole raising.

Popular Sentiment a Safeguard.

Popular sentiment will doubtless act as a safeguard for the people's interest in the Squire county trolley franchise law which has been signed by Governor Voorhees with a very bad error in it—the failure to insert the amendment making it necessary to secure the consents of a majority of abutting property owners before the Board of Freeholders can grant a franchise.

The error is laid against the engrossing department of the late Legislature, and Governor Voorhees was much annoyed when he learned that he had signed the measure with such an important omission. Since his signature has been appended to the bill the Governor sees no other way than to let the law stand as it is.

CAPTAIN SIGSBEE AND HIS NEW SHIP.

Captain Sigsbee, the gallant commander of the ill-fated Maine, has taken command of the St. Paul, one of the four magnificent transatlantic steamers acquired by the government from the International Transportation Company.

At the next session of the Legislature an amendment can be made to cover the defect.

There is not much likelihood, however, of a Board of Freeholders granting a franchise if they knew the majority of people along the route were not favorable to the project. At present Union county is the only bailiwick in the State that is considering granting a franchise under the law, and as the Board of Freeholders is constituted there is no danger of their transgressing the line drawn by popular sentiment.

The worst effect of the error, then, is to show the slipshod methods in vogue in the legislative engrossing department.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Somerset Freeholders might have appealed more strongly to popular favor in refusing to longer permit their sheriff to feed the tramps arrested for vagrancy had they issued the order three months ago. A tramp who cannot hustle for himself now deserves to go hungry.—New York Press.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

An amusing incident of the enrollment in New York occurred. Charles F. Gong, a Chinaman, of 37 Bayard street, who is quite well-known in Plainfield, where he was introduced by Col. C. K. Moore, presented himself and expressed a desire to enlist. Gong is intelligent and has been in this country for nearly twenty years. He is thirty-five years old. He said there were a lot of other Chinamen who wanted to follow his example if his services were accepted, and he thought he and others could prove by their deeds on the battlefield that they had a right to citizenship. If he cannot enlist here, he says he will go with some others to Cuba, where he thinks General Gomez will be glad to receive them.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"A Wife Wanted," to be presented at Music Hall tonight, is the title of a new farce comedy, headed by those sterling artists Edward and Libbie Blondell. The comedy abounds in situations of the most humorous kind and laughs are guaranteed every moment. In this play the villain is killed off in exactly three minutes and five seconds after the curtain rises—a rather short existence for a villain, as usually that individual is in trouble till the end of the piece. There is an abundance of good singing and some new dances, in fact there are any amount of interesting things to keep the attention of the spectators from flagging.

Saturday night of this week the Martin Brothers minstrels and vaudeville entertainers give the first of a series of their unique performances at Music Hall. Everybody knows Officer Ed. Martin, of the Central depot. He is the director of the affair, and promises an entertainment equal to the best that has ever been seen in this city. There will be a grand programme of latest minstrelsy, and a great feature will be a cake walk, in which ten or a dozen of the refined colored society belles of this city will take part. Further particulars will be announced later. Reserved seat tickets now on sale.

letter from Robert Hunter, owner of the hotel, in which he stated that he would very soon lay a stone walk on Belvidere avenue. Mr. Barrows then moved that the license for the hotel to sell liquors be granted. It was granted, Messrs. Andrews and Moffett voting in the negative.

Mr. Hetfield called up the ordinance amending the ordinance regarding the rules and restrictions governing liquor dealers in the city, and moved it be placed on its second reading. Mr. Andrews moved that the ordinance lay on the table until the next meeting so that more time could be had to investigate the merits of the ordinance. Such action was taken.

Mr. Runyon moved that two two-way fire hydrants be located on West Fifth street between Monroe and Grant avenues, and the same was adopted. An electric light was voted for, to be located on Spooner avenue between Seventh and Essex streets, on a motion offered by Mr. Neuman. The meeting then adjourned.

DISCUSSING PLAN.

they did during the Civil War. Chief T. O. Doane said that he believed ninety-five per cent of the Plainfield men who signed the enrollment blanks of the National Volunteer Reserve would be ready to enlist when the call came.

It was the general opinion of all that the enrollment blank was not an enlistment blank and that the latter would have to be signed before the government had any real hold on them. The idea, as suggested by Assemblyman Murray, was that it merely gave the names of those who could be counted on in case of necessity to volunteer. It was a preliminary step so that the recruiting agents would know what men were eligible and willing to stand by their country in time of danger.

It was decided to have Mayor Fisk communicate with Governor Voorhees at once and see if he indorsed the Reserve. In case he did, the Mayor will appoint an enrollment committee composed of those present last evening and such others as he may select. Then enrollment blanks will be sent among the members of the various patriotic orders of the city after which an enrollment office will be opened and kept open to the close of the war.

Many of those present expressed their willingness to bear their share of the expenses that might be incurred in conducting the work of the committee.

—Next Friday evening the senior Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a union meeting with the Junior society in the lecture room of the church, and the meeting will be led by a member of the Junior Society. The meeting will be followed by a short social to which the parents and friends will be gladly welcomed.

Spring Health.

With many people vitality reaches its lowest ebb in the spring. The heat producing foods of winter leave the system clogged with debris that ought to be removed. If all goes well nature will remove it, but it will take time and meanwhile vigor and energy will be lacking. It's wise to use a remedy like

Rawson's Sarsaparilla

in the spring. It expels all impurity from the blood, increases the activity of the vital organs and gives health a new impulse. Your money back if the remedy fails to give satisfaction. 75 cents. Dollar size. Sold only at Rowley's Pharmacy, 218 W. Front St. Tel. 112 B. Music Hall Block.

ANCIENT BARBERS.

Big Men in Egypt and Had to Work Over-Time, Going from Place to Place.

The cult of the beard, according to the ancient Jewish writers, started in the Garden or Eden. Adam, they tell us, was several miles in height, and was furnished with a prodigious beard, which reached to his middle. The ancient Jews, presumably on account of this believed Edenic origin, held the beard in such esteem that they considered it a greater insult to seize a man by the beard than to tread on his corns. They cherished the hair on their faces as the callow youth of today does his adolescent mustache, trimmed it in various forms, perfumed it with odorous substances, and cut it only as a sign of great affliction. So far did they carry their veneration for its dignity that laws were actually passed regarding the manner of its wearing.

The barber's lot was a happy one in the land of Egypt, where the people had such a high regard for the tonsorial art that the majority of the men shaved not only the face, but the entire head, and capped their bald pates with wigs, while the priests went even further and shaved the entire body every third day. With this constant scraping of chins going on, the barber's trade was an important one in the home of the Pharaohs, and its followers were kept busily running throughout the length and breadth of the land from early morning until sunset. They carried their tools in an open-mouthed basket, and their razors were shaped like a small hatchet, with a curved handle.—Lippincott's Magazine.

"Chimmie Fadden's" Author.

"Chimmie Fadden" is closely associated with the man who wrote him up, and Mr. Edward W. Townsend originated him. "Chimmie" was not the Parisian gamin, nor was he the New York street Arab; he was endowed with traits which were quite his own. Mr. Edward W. Townsend came from the West not so many years ago, and gave his services to a New York journal. Very soon the strength and cleverness of his work were noted by an editor,

EDWARD W. TOWNSEND.

now lately deceased, and one who never made any mistakes as to the quality of the men who wrote for him. Mr. Townsend became familiar with the tenement districts in this great city, and here, for the major part, his characters are found, and lifelike and vigorous is his portraiture of them. "A Daughter of the Tenements" had a distinguished success, but not more than it merited. His latest book is called "Near a Whole City Full," which is a collection of short stories, and their incisive cleverness will be certain to make this last venture of Mr. Townsend a highly popular one.

His Responsibility.

A Sioux City father was going on a short business trip, and, as he kissed his seven-year-old son good-by, he said to him:

"Now, Charles, take good care of mamma while I'm gone."

The responsibility thus intrusted to the young man evidently weighed heavier on his mind that one would naturally expect, says the Journal, for one evening a short time afterward, as he lay on the floor, with half-closed eyes, he rather startled his mother by inquiring:

"Mamma, doesn't God take care of you?"

"Why, yes, my dear," replied the wondering mother. "Why do you ask?"

The little guardian heaved a sigh of relief, and answered:

"Oh, because I'm tired!"—Golden Days.

"The people," it says, "have such an insatiable craving for the beverage that they will sell their houses, their flocks, their very children, to procure it. AMERICAN SUCCESS IN GERMANY.

Well Conducted Business Enterprises Flourishing All Over the Kingdom.

It is a noteworthy fact that nearly every American firm that has come to Germany during the last few years has succeeded in a remarkable measure, provided only that caution and sound business principles have been coupled with enterprise. Thus, there is an Ohio cash register firm that established a branch in Berlin a couple of years ago. At first they were in small, cramped quarters. Now they occupy palatial offices in the leading thoroughfare, and their trade is thriving all over the empire. They employ a large force of men, and make plenty of money. It is the same way with the typewriting machines that are being imported here and that sell like hot cakes. The one that was first in the field now has a number of competitors, and all of them are doing finely. The German machines as yet cannot compare with them in efficiency, although they sell at a much lower figure.

The American laundry system was introduced here a few months ago by a German-American named Henrici. The system "took" because of its promptness and reliability in delivery and because of its low prices. Now there are three competitors in the city alone, and all are making money. Several Chicago firms are among these successful innovators. One of them, a publishing firm, is just now issuing the best and comparatively the cheapest subscription work on Bismarck yet seen, with hundreds of excellent process pictures based on instantaneous photographs. Only the American insurance companies, which for a time flourished like a green bay tree, are in the dumps, because the Prussian Government will not rescind its order forbidding their doing business according to their American methods.

THE BOY KING OF SPAIN.

In Six Years He Will Mount the Throne and Become a Monarch.

What a long name for one boy to have Alfonso Leon Fernando Maria Santiago Isidore Paschal Marcian R! Perhaps it is all right that he should have eight names, for he is one of the most interesting boys in the world. In six years more this little man of nearly twelve will mount the throne of Spain. When he was born, May 17, 1886, a royal salute of twenty-one guns boomed out from the palace, then up went the Spanish standard over the palace, the bells chimed, and the cannon roared. What a day that was! The great camerera-major, the President of the Council, the Captain-General of Madrid, and the Commander of Halberdiers, and all the lords and ladies, excitedly announced that a little king had arrived. This boy loves the sports of which other boys are so fond. His bicycle and his pet pony are his favorites. A boys' battalion was organized three years ago, and, of course, this little king became their leader. Their uniforms are very bright and pretty, and when they have their annual parade, march, drill and charge with bayonets, the sight is very stirring.

THE BOY KING OF SPAIN.

Wanted Only His Head.

After Frederick the Great ascended the throne he paid very little attention either to the adorning of his own person or to that of the individuals honored with his conversation. As to himself, he had only one pair of silk stockings, which he wore once a year, on the occasion of the Queen's birthday, when an entertainment was given at her palace. M. Thiebault, one of the professors of the Royal Academy, who has left behind him several interesting accounts of his conversations with the King, relates that, having once waited on Frederick, when summoned in a hurry, in his travelling dress, he offered an humble apology for the negligence of his attire.

"On hearing my excuses," says Thiebault, "he turned his eyes towards me with a look of disdain, and said, 'You know well enough I never attend to such miserable considerations as these. Observe me: when I send for you you may be as neglectful as you please about your dress, and I shall give myself little concern; but do not forget to bring your head, and I shall be satisfied. I want only your head.'" manner, the party must resort to its guns and hunt for the musk ox, the white bear and the seal, which sometimes are in easy reach, more frequently not to be found at all. Game in these regions is never to be depended upon.—New York Tribune.

THE SECOND BOY COMPTROLLER.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. McKinley Both Selected Young Men for the Position.

A mere boy! one of Cleveland's blunders! A stripling to hold the country's finances in his hand; folly of almost criminal type! A pity to tempt a young man into so perilous a position!

This was the general feeling, when, in 1893, James Herron Eckles, thirty-five years old, undertook, with its every plank dragged downward by the mighty undertow of business depression, to steer our banking system through one of the worst storms which had ever assailed it. But when, on the first of January, 1897, Mr. Charles Gates Dawes, only thirty-two years of age, succeeded Mr. Eckles as Comptroller of the Currency, there seems to be no outcry or alarm. For four years, a comparative youth has served in this capacity more acceptably than had any other man of any age for years. The nation waits hopefully and confidently for the second "boy" Comptroller.

CHARLES GATES DAWES.

Mr. Dawes is the son of Gen. R. R. Dawes, who is a member of the famous Iron Brigade, and who served with McKinley in Congress. Gen. Dawes and Major McKinley were also in the same army during the war, and have ever since been warm friends. Last summer, at the reunion of the "Iron Brigade," at Devil's Lake in North Dakota, Gen. Dawes, disabled by an accident, was not able to respond to the toast in his honor, and his son was called upon in his stead. The unaffected eloquence of Mr. Dawes, in referring to his father, moved the audience almost to the point of tears, an example of the enthusiasm which Mr. Dawes can arouse as a speaker.

Mr. Dawes, though his preference and instincts all turned to business, was educated for a lawyer. At nineteen, he was graduated, with honors, from Marietta College. During his vacations in college and law school, and for a little while after his graduation, he secured the experience of a civil engineer by working with construction parties in building railroads, and finally became chief engineer of a road now constituting a portion of the Toledo and Ohio Central Railroad.

In 1887, he opened a law office in Lincoln, Neb. Here, he frequently met William Jennings Bryan, between whom and himself there exists, in spite of their radically different political views, a close friendship. Finding a law practice hard to build up, and having more heart for other things, Mr. Dawes engaged, with capital advanced by his father and uncle, in several of the business enterprises of Lincoln, including a national bank, of which he was made a director; and, finding these much more profitable than the law, he practically abandoned the latter profession.

TOURING IN A TROLLEY CAR.

Denver's Unique Way of Showing Visitors the Town.

A novel arrangement has been in operation in Denver for some time past which might well be adopted in other large cities which have a complicated network of street railway tracks running to every section of the city. The institution referred to is nothing more nor less than a personally-conducted tour of the town in a trolley car. A tourist company leases a number of open cars from one of the companies, and by making arrangements with the other lines for the use of their tracks a complete circuit of Denver can be made.

The car makes one trip in the morning and another in the evening, going the rounds of the hotels, where it picks up the passengers. The trip covers forty miles, and is made in about two hours and a half. A prettily printed souvenir is given to each passenger, which illustrates and describes the several points of interest, and a guide accompanies each car and explains and points out these as they are reached. In this way, for the nominal sum of 25 cents, which is the fare charged, a visitor can see Denver without missing anything and without fatigue. The car itself is called "Seeing Denver," and has proved very popular.

Chocolate Cream.

To make chocolate cream take ½ oz. of gelatine, put it into a basin and just cover with cold milk; let it stand 2 or 3 hours. Boil ½ pint of cream, and ½ pint of milk, pour it quite hot over the gelatine, stir till it dissolves. Scrape 2 ozs. of chocolate from a cake of it, put it with 1 oz. of loaf sugar into a pan, add the cream, &c., by degrees, mixing the chocolate in quite smooth; stir over the fire until it thickens a little; take it off, leave to cool, then add the whites of 2 eggs beaten to a froth, continue to whisk until it begins to get stiff, then cut it into a mould that has been in cold water.

BOGUS RAW OYSTERS.

When Seasoned Said Not to be Distinguished from the Real Bivalve.

The municipal authorities of Paris are engaged in the suppression of an altogether novel form of food adulteration which is assuming phenomenal proportions. Real oysters are expensive in Paris, and so, with the object of suiting slender purses, artificial oysters on the half shell have been invented, which are sold at 20 cents a dozen, and they are so cleverly made and look so nice and fresh that, once lemon juice or vinegar has been added, they cannot be distinguished from the real article, especially when white wine is taken in connection therewith. The only genuine thing about these oysters is the shell, the manufacturers buying second-hand shells at a small cost, and fastening the spurious oyster in place with a tasteless paste. The municipal laboratory has not yet proclaimed the ingredients of which these bogus oysters are composed, but has announced that they are of a harmful character.—New York Tribune.

Garrett P. Serviss.

It is safe to say that no American lecturer now before the public has a more decided magnetism in manner and matter than Mr. Garrett P. Serviss, president of the department of astronomy in Brooklyn Institute. His warmth of enthusiasm, breadth of knowledge, glow of coloring in description, raise the auditor into the realm of poetic feeling. In his chosen field he conveys a vivid idea of the vast expanse of interstellar space, of the grouping of the nebulae, colored and double stars, and the Milky Way. All his lectures are replete with photographic reproductions of the heavenly bodies, made with the largest of modern instruments. "A Ride with a Comet" transports the awed listener through fields of astronomical splendor. Mr. Serviss is equally fascinating when leading his audience over a tour of the planet on which we live. All the points of interest in Europe under the charms of his camera and the bewitching allurements of his narrative style, come out with the clearness of a noonday landscape

GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Boston's Clerical Romany.

William Dean Howells and other eminent Bostonians are given as authority for the statement that there is in the capital of Massachusetts a certain clergyman of widespread fame, who, unknown to the world at large, is a Romany. Every summer this reverend gentleman cannot resist joining some gypsy band and roaming from place to place as his kindred have done since within the memory of man. Little do the good man's congregation dream that, while they picture him as sedately journeying abroad, he is sitting beside gypsy camp fires and chattering the wild Romany tongue, to all intents and purposes a vagrant. But, as Mr. Howell's pointed out, none ever heard it said that this preacher preached any the worse for his wild, free life over road and prairie. Indeed, the increased vigor and eloquence of his sermons immediately after each successive annual 'vacation' have long been matters of comment in Boston."—Washington Star.

Ruskin's Idea on the Bicycle.

Ruskin's view of the bicycle were expressed several years ago in a letter published, which has recently been brought to public attention, and contains the following:

"I not only object, but am quite prepared to spend all my best 'bad language' in reprobation of bi-, tri- and 4-, 5-, 6- or 7-cycles and every other contrivance and invention for superseding human feet on God's ground.

"To walk, to run, to leap and to dance are the virtues of the human body; and neither to stride on stilts, wriggle on wheels, nor dangle on ropes, and nothing in the training of the human mind with the body will ever supersede the apointed God's ways of slow walking and hard working."

The Boy from the Family Flat.

Teacher—Willie, that is not the way to spell "emperor." You should not end the word with an "e-r." If you will notice, all titles denoting power and greatness—at least most of them—end with "o-r."

Willie—Oh, I see! Just like "janitor."—Indianapolis Journal.

Tommy—Well, I'm not half so naughty as I could be.—New York World.

A Quencher.

"Yes," he said, "when I was young I was eagerly sought after."

"What reward was offered?" asked the sweet, young girl.—New York Journal.

May Be in Camp All Summer.

Trenton, April 26.—Adjutant-General Stryker says that the New Jersey troops will probably remain in camp at Sea Girt all summer. He believes that the Cuban Army will be reinforced by the United States regulars and volunteers from the Gulf States, who could more readily stand the rainy season in Cuba than could soldiers from the Northern States. He believes that not more than two calls for volunteers will be made and that a draft is out of the question. He has on file in his office the names of a number of skillful officers, sufficient to command an entire division, who have volunteered their services to the State, and a number of separate companies sufficient to form several regiments also have volunteered.

John VanNest, of Martinsville, has purchased a Spalding wheel of W. H. Rogers, the North avenue dealer.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company has just received a shipment of searchlight lamps that are being sold at very reasonable prices.

AFTER "SPEAK-EASIES."

POLICE MAKE ARRESTS FOR ILLEGAL LIQUOR SELLING.

A Brother of Mike Watson Now in the Toils, as Well as Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell—Examinations to be Held Later.

The police have opened a crusade against illegal liquor sellers. Within the last twenty-four hours two of the alleged offenders have been haled to the city court and brought before City Judge DeMeza.

Last evening Malachi Watson, brother of the famous "Mike" Watson, who has stood trial on the charge of illegal selling oftener than any other man in Plainfield, was placed under arrest at Watson's hotel on Grant avenue and taken to the city jail, where he spent the night in the cell.

It will be remembered that at the last trial of Watson, it was claimed that his brother Malachi, was the proprietor of the place. Now Malachi will have to answer to the charges of the police. The date of his alleged offense and the names of the principal witneses have not yet been made public.

When arraigned before the City Judge this morning he pleaded not guilty and his trial was set down for Thursday morning. His lawyer, S. S. Swackhamer appeared with him and demanded a jury for the trial.

This morning Patrolman McCue arrested Mrs. Hughie O'Donnell on the charge of selling liquor without a license at the O'Donnell establishment on South Second street. She and her husband are by no means strangers to the city court and the police. They have the reputation of being flagrant violaters of the excise ordinances.

The details of her case have not been made public either. She pleaded not guilty and her trial will be held later in the week.

PETER IS NOT AMI-BLE.

Colored Man Pays $10 in Court for Making a Disturbance.

The troubles of a family were aired in the borough court this morning before Mayor Wilson, who quickly disposed of the case. Peter Dickenson, of Manning avenue, was the defendant His wife, Rhoda Dickenson, was the complainant. A third party, who, according to the evidence, had caused the trouble, was Miss Laura Waller, the stepdaughter of Peter Dickenson.

The charge was that Peter had assaulted the daughter and had called her hard names at her home last night. Peter was arraigned and the Mayor asked him what he had to say. The defendant confessed that he had used names that were not strictly proper, but denied having assaulted his stepdaughter.

The Mayor agreed that the evidence against Peter was strong enough to convict him, and he was fined $10. In default he will go to jail for ten days, but he will probably pay the fine

A TRIUMPHANT ENTRY.

An Incident in Christ's Life Discussed by Teachers' Primary Union.

At the Teachers' Primary Union held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Mrs. Pettit, of Elizabeth, taught a most interesting lesson on "Christ's Triumphal Entry into Jerusalem." The display of an American flag with the national rally about it, and scenes in the Queen's Jubilee, preceded her description of the one scene in the life of Christ—when the populace acknowledged the man of Nazareth as King.

Cecelia's Choral Concert.

While the Choral Society concerts are not to be held this season, the Cecelia Club will give its annual concert in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Tuesday evening, May 3d. The chorus will be assisted by a soprano and a tenor soloist from New York. Mrs. Frank J. Smith, the well-known reader, will also take part in the programme for the evening Miss Jessie Utter will act as accompanist. The tickets for the concert are now being sold on subscription.

Settled Insurance Loss.

Assistant Chief James Martin responded with a fire extinguisher and quickly put the fire out. The room was damaged considerably and the insurance was amply sufficient to cover the loss.

WILL RECEIVE STATE ENTRIES.

Rule Adopted by Central New Jersey Trotting Association

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, April 26.—The Central New Jersey Trotting Association, composed of horsemen from Union, Somerset, Middlesex and Hunterdon counties, met here last night to arrange for the series of race meets which are to be held in the four counties during June and September.

After a lively fight on the part of the Union county representatives in opposition, it was voted to allow entries to be made from the State at large instead of being confined to the four counties in which the association is to hold the meets. This result was accomplished by the large delegation of horsemen who came from Somerville and favored the plan.

Over $4,000 has been assured as premiums for the various classes which will be arranged.

Next Monday evening another meeting will be held in Flemington to complete the details of the meets. A special train on the Central Railroad will run from Flemington to Plainfield after the meeting.

To Talk Business.

Tomorrow evening after the regular prayer meeting service at the Presbyterian church, the Christian Endeavor Society of the church will hold a business meeting. Every member is urged to attend as matters concerning the establishment of a local fresh air camp will be considered.

WATER COMPANY NOW MAKING ITS DEFENSE.

Trying to Disprove the Boiling Spring Contention.

MANY WITNESSES HEARD.

SEVERAL WERE OLD RESIDENTS ALONG GREEN BROOK.

Claimed That the Water Shed That Feeds Green Brook is Six Miles Square in Area and That the Water Company's Wells Only Drain One and a Quarter Miles Square—William Ballentine Swore That He Never Saw the Boiling Springs—A Professional Sportsman Testified About the Dry Ground.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 27.—The Mountain Water Company is now making a vigorous fight through its legal representatives to put aside the strong array of facts presented by Senator Reed for his clients in the big suit against the water company. The defence was begun yesterday, although Adrian Riker, one of the lawyers who met with an accident Saturday, was not able to be present.

The defence first placed in evidence a large map showing the topography of the water shed which furnishes the water at the source of Green brook. It was stated that the water shed that feeds Green brook was six sqare miles in area and of that the water company's wells drain only one and a quarter miles. Engineer Green, of the water company, was put on the stand to swear to the authenticity of the map.

The principal points that were so vigorously contested during the day's proceedings were the location of the springs in the neighborhood, particularly the location of the so-called "Boiling Spring," and the condition of the ground in the neighborhood prior to 1881

The plaintiff's side had attempted to prove that the Boiling Spring had disappeared entirely since the advent of the water company's plant. Wm. Ballentine, who sold the land to the water company, was put on the stand to disprove that. He claimed that during the ten years between 1871 and 1881 he had never seen the Boiling Spring, although he had been over the land many times. He would not swear, however, that there had not been any such spring there. When cross-examined by Senator Reed he refused to say whether he told a neighbor that the water company's well had affected the height of water in his well and spring and that the company bought his property to prevent a lawsuit.

A man named Mullen, who owned the land before Ballentine, told how the brook frequently went dry during the summer. He too, never remembered having seen the Boiling Spring.

An old farmer named Reeves had been a previous owner of that same property. The Boiling Spring had been there in his time, but had never boiled over as was testified by several of the plaintiff's witnesses. He claimed that he had helped to dig a ditch to the "frog pond" which is now dried up, to drain it. This was long before the water company was in existance. He told how he had come back fourteen years ago and had been unable to find the Boiling Spring. He, however, remembered that the land had always been very damp.

The testimony of William Hand, of East Summit, was substantially the same as the others.

The last witness for the day was Thomas Franks. He claimed to be a professional sportsman and said that he gained a livelihood in taking parties hunting and fishing through the section now occupied by the water company and along the course of the brook. He was sure that he had never seen the Boiling Spring. The testimony of the last witness was contradicted. He declared that the ground there was very dry in summer. He told about walking down the bed of the stream dry shod. As an evidence of the dryness of the ground he told how it used to crack open. In cross-examination, however, he declared that he had hunted right along through that season and found snipe and woodcock in plenty deepite the extreme dryness of the ground. There was a general laugh in the court room when he made that statement.

The case was then adjourned until today.

A New Pastor.

After many vicissitudes the Mt. Olive Colored Baptist church, of this city, has secured a pastor. The trustees have selected Rev. J. W. Webb, of Pittsburg, to fill the position, and he will enter upon his duties next Sunday morning.

UNDERGROUND WIRES.

WORK STARTED BY TELEPHONE COMPANY THIS MORNING.

Locating Water and Gas Pipes Today—Subway to Consist of Four Iron Conduits, Capable of Holding 800 Wires.

The work of placing the wires of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company under ground was begun today. It will now only be a matter of a few weeks before all the wires of the telephone system in the business section of the city are placed in underground subways.

The first thing done this morning was to locate exactly the water and gas pipes. Short ditches were dug close to the curb to get the location of these pipes. Then a map showing them all was made so that the laying of the conduits might not interfere with them.

This afternoon the work of digging the trench in which the subway is to be laid was started. Work was begun on West Front street, corner of Madison avenue, and will be continued out Park avenue to Ninth street.

On Front street the subway is to consist of four iron conduits, each capable of holding two hundred wires. On Park avenue six of the conduits will be laid with a total capacity of twelve hundred wires. The less important streets will of course have fewer conduits laid.

Manager C. W. Runyon, of the telephone Company, is going to be very particular about the way in which the streets are restored after the conduits have been laid. In Morristown the Company was greatly commended for the excellent condition in which it left the streets after its work was completed.

The present system of wires will be left up until all the new arrangements are completed. There will be no interval of delay in the service to allow the change to be made. When it is ready, the new connections will be made so that the subscribers will not be aware of the fact that they are now taking underground.

A BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT.

A Clever Programme Rendered in Washington Hall.

Washington Hall was crowded with a large audience last evening when a benefit entertainment and dance was given for Mrs. Moore, wife of the late Charles Moore. The committee in charge, consisting of Robert Eick, John Adlemann, Fred Breem, Andrew Jennings and James Daly, worked hard to make the affair a success and their efforts were well rewarded. Eugene O'Reilly furnished the music.

The entertainment consisted of moving pictures operated by Thomas Schaeffer, assisted by Will Townley and Mr. Springer; vocal solos by the Vail Brothers; mandolin solos by Mr. St. Clair; vocal solos by Alfred Springer and Councilman Runyon. Former Councilman Westphal entertained the audience with comical sayings, and the appearance of "Jack" Carney was a signal success. There were recitations by Miss Try Mattox, of this city, and R Jaeckel, of Newark. A feature of the evening was the playing of the Delcimer by Miss Engenia Adlemann.

After the entertainment dancing was commenced and continued until an early hour this morning. The soda water stand was in charge of Thomas Rafferty.

Miss Middledith's Tea.

A very charming tea was given yesterday afternoon by Miss Maude Middledith, daughter of James Middledith, at her home on Mercer avenue. The tea was given in honor of Miss Mannakee, of Washington, who is visiting Miss Middledith. The hostess and her friend received the guests in the parlor, and the following young ladies served tea in the dining room: Misses Florence Abbott, Helen Clark, Mabel Coard, May Waring, Katharine Wood, Mabel VanDeventer and Gertrude Baker. A large number of friends enjoyed Miss Middledith's hospitality.

Said to Have Assaulted a Collector.

The case of Wm. Sweeney against P. DeRosa will be tried in Justice Mosher's court tomorrow afternoon. DeRosa is an Italian, and occupies the small building known as "The City Hall," on Park avenue. He is charged with having assaulted Sweeney when the latter had called repeatedly to collect a bill of 10 cents. V. William Nash, Jr., will defend DeRosa. The defense will endeavor to show that Sweeney gave the Italian an undue amount of trouble and annoyed him continually about the bill. The case will be tried at 2:30 o'clock —Several improvements are being made in the local telephone office on North avenue.

FOR A SOLDIERS' PLOT.

A SPECIAL PLACE FOR THE BURIAL OF WAR VETERANS.

G. A. R. Has Taken Up the Matter and Will Try to Have a Plot Established in the Hillside Cemetery.

At the meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73 G. A. R., held last evening, the question of having a soldiers' plot in Plainfield was brought up for discussion. Plainfield has never had a plot where her soldiers or veterans of the late war could be buried. Of recent years most of the veterans have been interred in the plot at Westfield.

The G. A. R. members in this city think it is about time Plainfield had such a place, and at the meeting last evening the Memorial Detail was authorized by a resolution to confer with the trustees of Hillside Cemetery, with a view of making some arrangements for a plot where veterans can be buried. A report will be presented at the next meeting of the Post.

The Post also decided to run an excursion to Long Branch June 23d, the occasion being the annual encampment of the Department of New Jersey, G. A. R. A special rate will no doubt be given for the trip.

C. E. SUMMER PLANS.

A FRESH AIR CAMP ONE OF THE PRINCIPAL PROJECTS.

Endeavor Bicycle Runs Soon to be Undertaken—Support for Fresh Air Camp Must be Pledged—Revise Church Bulletins.

An executive meeting of the Local Union Christian Endeavor Society was held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. building. The first half of the evening was devoted to a thorough discussion of the proposed fresh-air camp work in Plainfield. Mr Pierson, of Westfield, was present and gave the committee the benefit of his wide experience in this work. Representatives of the societies were requested to ascertain whether their organizations would favor and render financial aid for a summer home for city girls. No action other than this was taken.

An executive meeting of the local Union occupied the latter part of the evening, with Miss Florence Hawkins, president, in the chair. It was decided to hold, at an early date, a Local Union social, probably in the lecture room of the First Baptist church. A committee will be appointed to consist of the superintendents of the social department of the Union, with one member from each society.

The Christian Endeavor Bicycle section will resume very soon its runs to neighboring societies. Miss Ernestine Smith, secretary of the Union, was appointed captain.

A committee will be appointed soon to revise the church bulletins up-to-date. A motion was adopted that a meeting of the executive committee be held the last Thursday in each month, alternately at some central location, and at the home of the members of the committee. It was the wish of the committee to admit as members of the committee the Junior Christian Endeavor superintendents. This matter will be voted upon at the meeting of the Union.

VICIOUS DOG GRABBED A BABY.

Italian Woman Attacked and Child Tore Out of Her Arms.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 27.—Mrs. Philomena Serafine, a young Italian woman, was attacked by two savage dogs, on Central avenue, yesterday afternoon.

The woman was walking with her nine months-old baby in her arms, when one of the brutes rushed at her from the right side. In order to save her child from the dog's attack, she transferred it to her left arm, not noticing in her excitement that another dog was approaching her from the other side. The second animal, when the child was placed in its monther's left arm, reached the spot and making a spring, seized the child by the clothing and ran across a vacant lot with it.

The screams of Mrs. Serafine brought a number of men to the scene and the crowd gave chase after the dog and its precious burden. The animal finally dropped the child.

Upon examination it was found that the dog, after laying the baby on the ground, had bitten it several times. Dr. Kinch dressed the child's wounds, which are not of a serious nature. The principal injury was to one of its hands which was badly lacerated by the dog's teeth.

PRESS EDITORIAL WARMLY APPROVED.

City Officials Endorse Plan for Flagpole Raising.

TO GO UP DECORATION DAY.

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES TO MARK THE OCCASION.

There is Considerable Talk About the Changing of the Location of the Pole From Front Street and Park Avenue to Some Other Point in the City—Some Want the Pole Placed in the Plaza Opposite the North Avenue Station—The G. A. R. Will Have the General Supervision of its Raising.

When the city's big American flag is swung to the breeze it is to be made an occasion for a patriotic demonstration, as was suggested by The Daily Press. The editorial in yesterday's Daily Press advocating such a demonstration made a favorable impression. The advantages of such a course were evident to all and it found favor with all readers of The Press.

Mayor Fisk said he considered The Daily Press's suggestion a good thing and thought it would be carried out. Councilman Wm N. Runyon, chairman of the committee in charge of the pole raising, read the editorial and commented on it as a good suggestion. To a Press reporter today he said he thought it would be followed out. The pole would be raised Decoration Day, in connection with the patriotic ceremonies the city had planned for that time.

There were other prominent citizens who expressed themselves as in favor of such a scheme and declared that they were willing to do all in their power to aid in carrying out the timely suggestion of The Press. The present situation of the country was such that this chance for an exhibition of the patriotism of the good people of Plainfield was too good to be lost.

So there seems little doubt but that when Old Glory waves 125 feet above Plainfield for the first time it will be received with such an ovation that seldom a flag has seen before.

It is practically decided that the demonstration will take place on the next National holiday, May 30th. The G. A. R. will probably have a general supervision over the affair, but all the uniformed patriotic organizations of the city will be asked to participate. It will be an affair that Plainfielders will long remember as an event of their lives.

There is considerable talk regarding the location of the pole that was decided upon at the last Council meeting. There are a number who are in favor of placing the pole in the park surrounding the North Avenue station as they consider it a point of greater prominence than the site already chosen. The present site, the intersection of Park avenue and Front street, has its advocates. The triangle in front of the Crescent Avenue church has been suggested as a fitting site for the city's flag. That plot of ground has been practically donated as a site for the soldiers monument, so that will prevent the flag pole from being placed there.

The attitude of The Daily Press in regard to the demonstration has been commended on all sides, and a number of communications have already been received at this office regarding the proposed plan.

BICYCLE FALL CAUSED DEATH.

Mrs Nicholas Terhune Never Recovered From Her Injuries.

The many friends of Mrs. Ida Elizabeth Terhune, wife of Nicholas Terhune, formerly of this city, will be deeply grieved to learn of her death which occurred at her home, 2,054 Seventh avenue, New York, last Monday evening, after a long and painful illness Before Mr. Terhune and his family left Plainfield Mrs. Terhune was suffering from an injury received at the Crescent Rink while learning to ride a bicycle. She was being assisted around the floor by an attendant when suddenly the wheel turned and she fell off. The injury received at that time is supposed to have been the cause of death.

During the stay of the family in Plainfield they won many warm friends. Mrs. Terhune was beloved by all who knew her for her Christian character and many excellent qualities. The removal of the family to New York was regretted by the many friends, but the change was thought advisable. Everything possible was done to restore Mrs. Terhune to health, but every effort failed. A husband and two children survives her.

—Miss Pullin, of Newark, has been visiting friends in this city.

POLICY PROCLAIMED

The President Makes a Declaration About Commerce.

STATUS OF SPANISH SHIPS

They Are Allowed in Our Waters Until May 21, Inclusive, for Loading and Departing—Spanish Ships Met at Sea Will Be Permitted to Continue Their Voyage if Loaded Before That Time in the United States.

Washington, April 27.—The President by proclamation, has allowed Spanish vessels in the United States waters until May 21, inclusive, for loading and departing, and Spanish ships met at sea will be permitted to continue their voyage if loaded before that time in the United States. Spanish vessels bound for the United States which sailed prior to April 21 are exempt from capture and allowed to discharge cargo.

The proclamation declares that the right of search will be exercised with strict regard for rights of neutrals and mail steamers will be interfered with only on the clearest ground of suspicion. The proclamation is as follows:

By the President of the United States of America,

A Proclamation.

Whereas, by an act of Congress, approved April 25, 1898, it is declared that war exists and that war has existed since the 21st day of April, A. D. 1898, including said day, between the United States of America and the kingdom of Spain, and

Whereas, it being desirable that such war should be conducted upon principles in harmony with the present views of nations and sanctioned by recent practice, it has already been announced that the policy of this government will be not to resort to privateering, but to adhere to the rules of the declaration of Paris.

Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the power vested in me by the Constitution and the laws, do hereby declare and proclaim:

First—The neutral flag covers enemy's goods with the exception of contraband of war.

Second—Neutral goods not contraband of war are not liable to confiscation under the enemy's flag.

Third—Blockades in order to be binding must be effective.

Fourth—Spanish merchant vessels in any ports or places within the United States shall be allowed until May 21, 1898, inclusive, for loading their cargoes and departing from such ports or places, and such Spanish merchant vessels, if met at sea by any United States ship, shall be permitted to continue their voyage if on examination of their papers it shall appear that their cargoes were taken on board before the expiration of the above term, provided that nothing herein contained shall apply to Spanish vessels having on board any officers in the military or naval service of the enemy, or any coal (except such as may be necessary for their voyage), or any other article prohibited or contraband of war, or any dispatch of or to the Spanish Government.

Fifth—Any Spanish merchant vessel which prior to April 21, 1898, shall have sailed from any foreign port bound for any port or place in the United States shall be permitted to enter such port or place, and to discharge her cargo and afterward forthwith to depart without molestation; and any such vessel if met at sea by any United States ship shall be permitted to continue her voyage to any port not blockaded.

Sixth—The right of search is to be exercised with strict regard for the right of neutrals and the voyages of mail steamers are not to be interfered with except on the clearest ground of suspicion of a violation of law in respect of contraband or blockade.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

In witness whereof, etc., done at the Department of States, etc., this 26th day of April, etc.

At the Cabinet meeting yesterday the matter of the prizes already taken by our fleet in Cuban waters was incidentally referred to, particularly the case of the Buena Ventura. This and all other prize cases will go to the prize court.

All nations, it is said, recognizes properly constituted prize courts as the only authority having jurisdiction, and their decisions are taken as conclusive and final. The government has no thought of releasing of any prizes taken except in rare cases, where an evident error has been committed.

FIVE MURDERERS HANGED.

Day of Legal Execution in the State of Pennsylvania.

Ridgeway, Pa., April 27.—Fred Rockwell and Patrick Ganya were hanged in the Elk County jail yesterday. Rockwell murdered Lewis Haines on December 21, 1896, and Banya murdered Paretto Agusta on July 25, 1897.

Somerset, Pa., April 27.—Two brothers, John and James Roddy, were hanged here yesterday for the murder of David B. Berky, a farmer.

Newcastle, Pa., April 27.—Frank Jongran was hanged in the yard of the County Jail yesterday for the murder of his sweetheart, Jessie Corrine.

"Roosevelt Rough Riders."

New York, April 27.—The "Roosevelt Rough Riders" has been chosen as the name of a regiment of cavalry to be led by New York's former Police Commissioner, Theodore Roosevelt, who has resigned his position as Assistant Secretary of the navy to go to the front. It will be composed of cowboys from the West and the pick from New York's police force. At the President's special request Mr. Roosevelt's resignation will not take effect for three weeks.

Blanco Is Confident.

Havana (via London), April 27.—Captain-General Blanco has cabled the Government at Madrid to the effect that the Spanish squadron of war ships can be utilized elsewhere, as he can account for the defense of Havana without the assistance of the fleet.

NOTICE TO THE POWERS.

All Informed of the Declaration by Congress That War Has Existed Since April 21.

Washington, April 27.—The State Department has conveyed notice to all of the powers and nations with which the United States holds friendly relations of the declaration of war by the Government of the United States. This is a necessary formality in order to set in motion the neutrality laws in many countries and stop claims for damages on the part of neutrals for vessels detained and turned back at blockades without due notice. The instructions which were sent to all the United States Legatons abroad directed attention to the fact that the war has existed since April 21, when the Spanish Government broke off diplomatic relations in order to avoid accepting the ultmatum at the hands of Minister Woodford. The text of the instructions is as follows:

"Department of State, April 25, 1898:

"A joint resolution of Congress, approved April 20, directed intervention for the pacification and independence of the island of Cuba. The Spanish Government on April 21 informed our Minister at Madrid that it considered this resolution equivalent to a declaration of war, an that it had accordingly withdrawn its Minister from Washington and terminated all diplomatic relations. Congress has therefore by an act approved to-day declared that a state of war exists between the two countries since and including April 21. You will inform the Government to which you are accredited so that its neutrality may be assured in the existing war.

(Signed) "SHERMAN."

Responses have already begun to flow in. First among all neutrals to take cognizance of the situation are the British colonies. It may not be of particular significance, yet it goes in a measure to support the contention of this Government that war actually existed before the declaration by Congress on Monday, that the British colonies in many cases have acted and made their proclamation of neutrality in advance of action by Congress.

The State Department officials have taken note of the semi-official statement from Germany to the effect that nation will not at present issue a neutrality proclamation. They are not very much concerned, however, believing that any advantage to be gained by Germany in refraining from adopting the usual course in this respect will be rather technical than practical. Certainly all of the advantages to be reaped by the United States from an enforcement of the German neutrality law will be claimed by our government, and it is not doubted that the laws will be put into operation in Germany whether or not a proclamation is issued at this time.

MAY GO TO PHILLIPINES.

Startling Suggestion About Spain's Fleet at Cape Verde Islands.

Washington, April 27.—The naval officials have noted with some disquiet the fact that the Spanish fleet at the Cape Verde Islands, before leaving under orders from the Portuguese Government, made heavy purchases of supplies there. These were of the most varied descriptions, such as medicine and miscellaneous goods. It is thought the purchases show a purpose on the part of the Spanish admiral to start on a long cruise.

A startling suggestion in this connection is that the Spanish fleet may make directly for the Phillippines by way of the Cape of Good Hope, to attack Commodore Dewey's Asiatic squadron, which it would far exceed in strength. The Suez Canal being closed under neutral laws to warships of belligerents, there would be nothing to do in this case but to send some of Admiral Sampson's ships on a long, stern chase after the Spanish fleet, or to instruct Admiral Dewey to repair to home waters.

President Signs the Army Bill.

Washington, April 27.—President McKinley yesterday afternoon signed the bill, introduced in the House by Senator Hull, and passed by the Senate, providing for the reorganization of the regular army in time of war. The amendments made by the Senate were all, save one, adopted by the conference. This exception was the provision for utilizing retired army officers for every service but command of troops. The House conferrees insisted that this be stricken out of the bill, and that action was taken.

The Paris Seen on Monday.

Queenstown, April 27.—The White Star steamer Majestic, which has arrived here from New York on her way to Liverpool, reports that at 4 o'clock on Monday morning, in latitude 48.52, longitude 29.06, she passed an American lines, presumably the Paris. She saw no Spanish warship during the voyage. The Majestic's passengers were most eager to learn the news as to the situation between Spain and the United States, and raised hearty cheers for America on learning that war had been proclaimed.

An Historic Pen.

Washington, April 27.—Representative William Alden Smith is the proud possessor of the pen with which the President, the Speaker of the House and the Vice-President of the Senate signed the bill declaring the existence of war between the Unitel States and Spain. The Speaker gave Mr. Smith the pen and he took it to the Senate where, at his request, Vice-President Hobart also used it in attaching his signature and later President McKinley made the final approbation with the same.

Boston Harbor to Be Closed.

Boston, April 27.—Beginning to-night the harbor will be closed between sunset and sunrise, and no vessels will be allowed to enter or leave without a permit from Lieut. Sewall, in command of the Engineer Corps.

Red Cross Society of Italy.

Rome, April 27.—The Red Cross Society has offered its services, with the use of its paraphernalia, to the Red Cross Society of the United States and Spain.

THE PANAMA CAPTURED.

Spanish Mail Steamship Caught Off Havana—Two Other Captures.

Key West, April 27.—The Spanish steamship Panama, which was captured at midnight Monday ten miles this side of Morro Castle, by the battle ship Indiana, was bound for Havana from New York, and carried supplies for the Spanish army. Her coming was expected, and the vessels of the blockading squadron were on the lookout for her. The Indiana sighted her early yesterday morning, and the steamship at once tried to show her heels.

It was dark, and the vessel showed no lights. She was close to the Indiana when discovered. The battle ship fired a shot across the Panama's bow, and the vessel at once hove to. Ensign Malcomer, of the Indiana, and a prize crew boarded the prize first. Ensign Dayton, of the Mangrove, with a boat's crew, also went on board.

Captain Quevedo was grief-stricken and greatly humiliated because of the capture. The passengers declare that they knew nothing of the blockade, and that when they saw the searchlight of the Mangrove they thought it the light of a Spanish man-of-war. The first shot changed their joy to apprehension; the second and third created a panic. The women ran screaming for shelter from the enemy's guns and the captain locked himself sullenly in his cabin.

So great was the confusion on board that instead of hauling down his colors, the captain hoisted the American flag above the Spanish, and the editor of Las Novades, a vulgar anti-American newspaper of Havana, tried to jump overboard, but was forcibly restrained.

The Panama, which is of 2,000 tons, and a stanch vessel, was heavily laden with a valuable cargo. There were about thirty-five passengers aboard, mostly Spanish refugees, who were leaving New York for Cuba. The cargo included provisions and other supplies especially desired by the Havana merchants and authorities. The prize money will be a large sum.

Half an hour before the Mangrove brought in the Panama, the gunboat Newport arrived with two more prizes, the Pirineo, a two-masted schooner, and the Alecto, of Havana, a sloop. Both were captured off Matanzas. The crew of the sloop showed fight, while those on the Pirineo prayed when a gun was fired across her bow.

No more guards are placed on prize steamers now. The eccentrics and the bonnets of the steam chest are removed, which absolutely prevents the machinery from moving.

The prizes brought in are quite small, but Captain Forsyth says that everything counts. They are a mere flee bite to Spain, but very annoying.

The Prophecy Came True.

New York, April 27.—The Spanish line mail steamship Panama sailed from this port on Wednesday last loaded down with provisions intended for the Spanish army. The vessel also had a number of Spanish refugees on board, who preferred Cuba to this country while the war was in progress. When the steamship left her pier a large crowd saw her off and many shouted to those on board that they would fail to reach their destination. All the old salts predicted that she would be captured.

PENNSYLVANIA PROTESTS.

Requests Secretary Alger to Modify His Call for Volunteers.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 27.—Gov. Hastings and Adjt.-Gen. Stewart are in Washington and are using their best endeavors with Secretary of War Alger to modify the demands made on Pennsylvania for troops to the end that some arrangements be made that will tend to keep the National Guard intact.

They believe Secretary Alger's plan has had a depressing effect on the enthusiasm of the troops and that it will ultimately disorganize and dismember the entire division. They are opposed to wiping out five regimental organizations, which will be done if only ten of fifteen regiments are mustered into the United States service, and leaving at home the three light artilery companies.

The camp and garrison stores of the Pennsylvania National Guard were shipped to Mount Gretna last evening from the State Arsenal. The troops will begin moving to-day, and the entire division will be in the field by tomorrow noon. Governor Hastings, Adjutant-General Stewart, and Inspector General Morrell with return to-night from Washington. They have strong hopes that the War Department will so modify its order for Pennsylvania volunteers as to keep intact the guard.

A conference of leading citizens of Pennsylvania was held yesterday in the Executive Chamber, and a State Sanitary Commission was organized, to take care of every soldier who goes to the front from Pennsylvania. Governor Hastings, ex-Governor Pattison, and other distinguished officials and citizens were present. The organization will look after the sick and wounded, take care of the widows and orphans, and bring home for burial the bodies of those who may be killed or die. Money will be raised by popular subscription.

Agreement With England Reported.

Berlin, April 27.—The New York correspondent of the Cologne Gazette writes to his paper that he learns from "an especially trustworthy source" that agreements already exist between the United States and Great Britain, "which, if the present British Cabinet continues in office, must lead, in the further course of events, to an alliance."

Steamer Eludes Her Pursuers.

London, April 27.—According to a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Kingston, Jamaica, the Spanish steamship Telesfora, from Galveston for Liverpool and Manchester with a cargo of cotton, took refuge there yesterday (Tuesday), having been pursued and fired upon by an American warship.

It was announced in Madrid that the Spanish admiral at St. Vincent had threatened to sail without orders unless sent against the United States war ships.

INTERESTING EXPERIENCE

Of an Iowa Lady Who Was Cured of Dyspepsia After Suffering for Twenty-five Years.

Mrs. Sarah A. Skeels, an estimable lady residing at Lynnville, Jasper county, Ia., was for twenty five years a sufferer from Dyspepsia, and her complete restoration to health is so remarkable that we present the facts in the case for the benefit of our readers, many of whom have doubtless suffered in the same manner and will, therefore, be interested in learning how all stomach troubles may be avoided and cured. Mrs. Skeels says: I used only one package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I received such great and unexpected benefit that I wish to express my sincere gratitude. In fact it has been six months since I took the medicine and I have not had one particle of distress or difficulty since. And all this in the face of the fact that the best doctors I consulted told me my case was incurable as I had suffered for twenty-five years. I want half a dozen packages to distribute among my friends here who are very anxious to try this remedy.

Truly yours,
Mrs. Sarah H. Skeels.

The reason why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are so successful in curing indigestion and stomach trouble and the reason why it never disappoints those who need it and use it is because nothing is claimed for it except what it will actually perform. It is not a cure-all and no such claims are made for it. It is prepared for the sole purpose of curing Dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion.

There is scarcely a patent medicine made but what is claimed to cure dyspepsia as well as a hundred other troubles. When as a matter of fact a remedy to cure Dyspepsia must be prepared especially for that and nothing else; and among all the remedies, patent nostrums, bitters, etc., so extensively advertised you will find that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the only one advertised as a cure for dyspepsia and nothing else. The remedy is prepared by the Stuart Co., of Marshall, Mich., and for sale by all druggists at 50 cents per package, and if you suffer from any form of stomach derangement or indigestion a trial will not disappoint you.

A little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. 4 25 27 29

Two Ounces of Blood Daily

Two ounces of blood will fill a small wine glass, and that is the quantity of rich, red blood which is daily added to your blood vessels when you take one of Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids with each meal three times daily.

No other iron medicine will do this, because all others are unnatural or acid preparations of iron, while Capsuloids contain natural iron identical with the iron already in your blood.

You cannot take any ordinary iron medicine, because it's acid, and injures teeth, stomach and bowels; but

You can take Capsuloids, or natural iron medicine, because it contains no acid, is perfectly natural, and perfectly mild.

Infants and invalids, as well as adults, take Capsuloids without feeling them in the slightest, even though they have never been able to take any other kind of iron medicine.

What are Capsuloids? They are the natural iron called Hæmoglobin, extracted from the blood of healthy young bullocks. This natural iron is just the same as the iron in the human blood. We then enclose this dissolved natural iron in little soft pointed globes of pure gelatine. They are easily swallowed, are free from taste and smell, and their contents enter the blood within from one to three minutes after they are taken into the stomach.

Capsuloids is the greatest of all tonics for the nerves, heart, lungs, bronchial tubes, mucus membranes, liver, bowels, kidneys, and especially for all monthly irregularities, when these organs are affected with blood diseases.

Capsuloids act entirely through the blood, enriching it and increasing its quantity two ounces daily. The effect upon the health, color, nerves and spirits is seen almost immediately. Think of the power and effect of adding two ounces of rich, red, new blood each day!

Many doctors have ceased using all other kinds of iron, and prescribe Capsuloids exclusively. Send for pamphlet, containing their testimonies, and local testimonials.

DR. CAMPBELL'S RED BLOOD FORMING CAPSULOIDS are sold at 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50 by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price by THE CAPSULOID COMPANY, 146 Fifth Ave., New York.

This is not a patent or secret medicine. It is prescribed largely by doctors.

CUBAN INVASION PLAN

Details of the Project Discussed by the Cabinet.

CUBAN GENERAL NOTIFIED

Lieutenant Fremont's Mission to Communicate With Gomez—Said That This Was the Meaning of the Landing of a Party from the Torpedo Boat Porter—No Formidable Invasion Until Spanish Fleet Has Been Disposed of.

Washington, April 27.—At the Cabinet meeting yesterday detailed plans were discussed regarding the invasion of Cuba that is soon to be made by a large force of the regular army, to protect the distribution of food supplies to the suffering Cubans in Havana, who are affected by the present blockade of that city.

The plans for sending five thousand troops to Cuba, which were announced in these dispatches yesterday, were carefully gone over by the President and Cabinet. Gen. John M. Wilson, Chief of Engineers, was before the Cabinet, and took with him a large number of maps and papers regarding the proposed landing of troops. He explained to the President and his advisers in detail the plan he had arranged for fortifying the point to be used as a base of supplies.

To Land Artillery.

It is the programme to land artillery, which will protect the infantry, cavalry and engineers. Strong fortifications will be constructed and heavy guns mounted. This will be one of the first things accomplished, because the point will become an important one, and it is the intention of Secretary Alger and his advisors to make these fortifications as complete as possible. At this place also will be established a base of supplies until the occupation of a more desirable point is obtained.

The Cabinet also discussed the dispatches received at the Navy Department relating to the landing of Lieut. Fremont, from the torpedo boat Porter, on Cuban soil. It is understood in official circles that among the landing party was an officer from the United States, who was the bearer of advices and communications to Gen. Gomez, of the Cuban army, in regard to the proposed invasion of Cuba by United States troops.

The advices in Washington are that the purpose of this hurried and secret expedition to the shore was to receive and convey information to, and from the insurgent forces, with relation to the landing of munitions of war and supplies. It is known that the information secured by Lieut. Fremont is of great importance, but whether the plans for a junction with Gomez's army have been successfully managed so far or not, is not disclosed. It is expected, however, that the information was satisfactory.

No Large Invasion.

It is problematical as to how many troops Gomez can assemble, and upon that depends largely immediate operations in Cuba. It is not the intention of the President to begin a formidable invasion until after there has been a test of strength between the American and the Spanish fleet, or it has been established that Spain does not intend to send her fleet to American waters. But the information secured by Lieut. Fremont was not of a character to change in any way the plan of landing 5,000 troops somewhere on the coast of Cuba to establish a base of supplies. On the contrary, it is supposed that a thorough understanding has been arrived at with the commander of the Cuban forces with respect to the establishment of the base of supplies. The American troops landed in Cuba will not be there for any aggressive movement, but will be strong enough to maintain themselves in the position which they will occupy.

Five Thousand Enough.

The authorities on which the administration relies chiefly for advice with respect to the operations on the island regard a force of 5,000 men as ample for this purpose, and this force will carry munitions of war and provisions for a large army, so that if Gomez's army should fail to make a junction with them and Admiral Sampson's fleet should be called away from the blockade duty to meet the Spanish fleet on the high seas, the force would be strong enough to defend itself against attack and would be so well provisioned as not to suffer from being cut off from communication, even for a long time. If the plans work satisfactorily, and Gomez can provide a sufficient force, the Cuban army will be well supplied and equipped for such aggressive movement as may be deemed advisable for them to make.

There are some authorities here who urge very strongly the immediate invasion of Cuba by a large force, but serious objections are raised to this, and it is not contemplated in the present plans. It is thought best that military operations in Cuba should be confined chiefly to the forces of Gomez, until the naval operations have led to some definite result.

Meanwhile our fleet will be prepared for any attack from the Spaniards. Our vessels have been so distributed as to meet any movement from the Spanish fleet. The placing of the Minneapolis and Columbia in Northern waters prepares us for any attack from the Cadiz fleet, while the fighting squadron at Havana and the flying squadron at Hampton Roads are ready for the vessels which have left the Cape Verde Isalnds. Should the Spanish fleets combine and appear on our coast, both our fleets would be able to quickly unite without injuring the blockade around Cuba, and yet be of such strength as to sweep the united Spanish fleet from the ocean.

Expect Attack Soon.

The Navy Department expects some attack soon, because it realizes that under the plan of campaign we have adopted the Spanish navy cannot be kept idly in port, while Blanco and his army are being subjected to a lingering starvation of a blockade without the power to strike a blow at our fleet in self-defense.

DAY NOW SECRETARY OF STATE.

He Succeeds Sherman and John B. Moore Becomes Assistant Secretary.

Washington, April 27.—The President yesterday nominated William R. Day, of Ohio, to be Secretary of State, vice John Sherman, resigned, and John Bassett Moore, of New York, to be Assistant Secretary of State, vice William R. Day.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations agreed unanimously to a favorable report on the nomination of Secretary Day, and the appointment was confirmed by the Senate.

Judge William R. Day was made Assistant Secretary April 23, 1897. He succeeded W. W. Rockhill and was never much in politics, being chiefly known as an Ohio lawyer of ability. He was born at Ravenna, April 17, 1849. His father, the late Chief Justice Luther Day, was for many years a prominent lawyer in Ohio. Both his paternal and maternal grandfathers were also lawyers and afterward Supreme Court Justices.

JUDGE WILLIAM R. DAY.

Judge Day graduated in 1870 from the University of Michigan. He studied law in the same university, and was admitted to the bar in 1872, settling in Canton, O., President McKinley's home.

In 1866 he was elected to the Supreme Court Bench of the Common Pleas, having been nominated by both parties. In 1889 he was appointed Judge of the United States District Court for the northern district of Ohio, by President Harrison, but failing health compelled him to resign.

In 1875 he was married to Miss Mary E. Schaefer, of Canton, and has four sons. President McKinley offered him the place on the Supreme Bench now held by Justice McKenna, but he declined to accept it.

POWDER MILLS BLOWN UP.

Works at Santa Cruz, Cal., Destroyed—Incendiarism Suspected.

Santa Cruz, Cal., April 27.—The powder mills near this city have been blown up. The fire started in the nitroglycerine mill.

Four heavy explosions followed. The Naval Reserve were called out to guard the works and to help check the flames.

It is known that seven persons have lost their lives and several workmen were wounded.

One of the wounded expresses it as his belief that the works were set afire. A suspicious character was seen lurking around the mills yesterday afternoon.

Washington, April 27.—At the War Department it was said that no official advices on the subject of the explosion at the Santa Cruz Powder Works had been received. The mill had been running day and night on Government orders, and the destruction of the works, it is said, would materially reduce the output of powder for a short time, but would not stop it, nor seriously cripple the Government. The Government has been aware for some time of disaffection among the large Spanish element about Santa Cruz.

To Protect California's Coast.

San Francisco, Cal., April 27.—The army and navy officers in this city have sent to Washington a message pointing out the necessity of the immediate establishment of a system of coast patrol, so that the presece of hostile vessels in California waters may at once be made known. The necessity of laying a telegraphic cable to the Farrallon Islands, thirty miles west of this city, has been urged upon the Government officels.

Spain Buys Three More Ships.

London, April 27.—Spain, according to a dispatch from Rome, to a London news agency, has bought the Italian Navigation Company's steamers Sirio, Orione and Regina Margherita for conversion into auxiliary cruisers.

A dispatch states that the British steamer Shenandoah is safe. It was reported that the Spaniards had captured a vessel named Shenandoah. The other vessel of that name is an American sailing ship.

DONS MAY SURPRISE US

The Cadiz Fleet May Attack Us in an Unexpected Quarter.

CHANGE IN NAVAL PLANS

Sampson's Squadron May Be Withdrawn from Havana to Meet the Battleship Pelayo and Her Flotilla, Which Sailed from Cadiz on April 17 and May Be Near—Reported Plan of the Spanish Fleet.

Washington, April 27.—The administration's naval strategy plans are all upset again because of the mysterious actions of the Spanish squadrons, and Rear Admiral Sampson's squadron, now off Havana, may receive orders to make a change of base at any hour.

Its execution will depend upon the action of the Spanish fleet at Cape Verde Islands, to some extent, but it is believed that the Navy Department is more exercised just now regarding the whereabouts of the Dons' second fleet, which is believed to be steaming direct toward the Atlantic coast. The fleet consists of the battleship Pelayo, two first-class cruisers, three torpedo boats and four torpedo boat destroyers.

The second fleet sailed from Cadiz on April 17 and should have arrived at St. Vincent before now, if that was its destination. It is now believed, however, the Cape Verde fleet will sail to join the Cadiz fleet at some point agreed upon and that a concerted attack is to be made in an unexpected quarter. This would be in line with the boast of the Spaniards that the first blow struck by Spain would be a big surprise to the Americans.

The purpose of the Spanish fleet at Cape Verde Islands has all along been a mystery to the navy strategists, and they do not intend to take any changes, and accordingly Admiral Sampson will proceed to carry out the new programme if the fleet leaves St. Vincent and is not reported within a reasonable period.

The present plan, it is said, provides for the withdrawal from the blockading squadron of the six armor-clads and their concentration at some central point on the Atlantic coast, from which they would be enabled to make a quick movement for the protection of the Northern cities or rejoin the other vessels in the West Indies. The plan of the Spanish fleet is not unlikely to proceed to New York, Boston or some other important place for the purpose of bombardment, in the hope great damage had been inflicted. As matters now stand, it would not greatly injure the efficiency of the blockade to withdraw the armistice.

If this plan is adopted a host of auxiliary gunboats, especially selected for their fitness to engage in blockading work, will be at Admiral Sampson's disposal. After these have been placed where they would do the most good and the American force in Cuban waters has been further augmented by some of the auxiliary cruisers now in course of construction at New York and elsewhere, it would be safe for Admiral Sampson to leave the enforcement of the blockade to these and the other ships of his command and take station with the more formidable crafts at this point selected in the coast of the United States.

The vessels which would be withdrawn to carry this plan into effect are the armored cruiser New York, Admiral Sampson's flagship; the battle ships Iowa and Indiana and the coast defense monitors Puritan, Terror and Amphitrite. Whether any torpedo boats will accompany them in their change of base is not known, but it is probable that some of these little craft will be detailed to act in conjunction with the big ships.

In order that Admiral Sampson may be reliably informed as to the probable destination of the Spanish fleet, and can make his plans accordingly after taking station in home waters, he will be assisted by a number of swift cruisers, which will scout the sea for hundreds of miles beyond the American coast line on the lookout for the enemy. These would consist of the Columbia, Minneapolis, the four American line cruisers and probably six vessels now in Commander Howell's squadron.

The purpose of the Navy Department in sending the Columbia to Newport and the Minneapolis to Eastport was based on the decision that it was necessary to take extreme precautionary measures to secure information in regard to the movement of hostile ships which might approach the shores of the United States.

EVIDENCE AGAINST SHAW.

State Lays Great Stress on the Finding of a Revolver.

Camden, N. J., April 27.—The State's strongest evidence against Eli Shaw, on trial for the murder of his mother and grandmother, was presented yesterday. Officers Foster and Pettit testified to the finding of the revolver alleged to have been used by Shaw in committing the crime.

This was found at the bottom of the chimney of the Shaw house. The only hole through which the weapon could have been placed in the chimney was in Shaw's room. Mrs. Sarah Dunn, who lives next door to the Shaw house, testified to hearing two pistol shots. B. P. Cobb stated that Shaw told him he heard only one shot and that was when his mother was shot.

At this time his grandmother was in bed. Mrs. Annie Knight testified that the bed in the grandmother's room had not been occupied. The statement made by Shaw when he was arrested to the effect that his grandmother was in bed, was offered.

Embezzler White Wanted.

Albany, April 27.—Gov. Black has made a requisition on the Governor of Pennsylvania for the extradition of George B. White, of the firm of William S. White & Co., Boston, who is under arrest in Philadelphia on the charge of defrauding the Central National Bank, of New York, from which it is alleged that he borrowed $19,995 on the representation that the net assets of his firm were worth over $500,000, which representations are declared to have been false.

"Army to the Front."

With profound emotion the American people hear again the stern words whose echo last died away in our country 33 years ago this April, "Army to the front." At this word of command the army of a people whose population numbers 70,000,000 moves forward to make war on a kingdom whose subjects, counting its outlying islands, dependent colonies and all, number only 25,000,000. Our country is rich and prosperous from a generation of peace, Spain is exhausted to the last few drops of her lifeblood by the savage wars she has been waging to suppress her own revolutionist children.

Yet it is not a war of aggression the powerful country declares against the weak one. In that admirable joint resolution which directed President McKinley to send the army and navy to Cuba the statement rang out clear and unmistakable that the United States had no intention or desire toward possessing the island for itself. We seek only the pacification of Cuba, and when that is accomplished the will of the American people, expressed through their congress, is to leave the government and control of the island to those who belong there. Neither is ours a war for revenge. Even the awful crime of the blowing up, at the instigation of Spanish officials, of the Maine in the harbor of Havana while on a friendly visit there, a dastardly act by which 260 brave American citizens were hurled to death, was not considered by our government sufficient reason for making war. "Remember the Maine!" will be the rallying cry of our sea and land soldiers when they meet the enemy, but it is not the casus belli lying behind the thrilling command, "Army to the front!"

We have set ourselves right in the eyes of the powers of Europe. We have declared we do not want Cuba. We have refrained from taking that just vengeance for the loss of the Maine to obtain which just vengeance no European government would have held back its hand an hour. We prepare to drive the Spaniard from Cuba because his further stay is a "disgrace to Christian civilization and cannot longer be endured."

Our army moves to the front on a crusade in the name of justice and humanity. No holier war was ever undertaken. A dozen millions of loyal Americans are at the command of the president and congress to free Cuba. That done our volunteer army will melt away and rejoin the ranks of the private citizens of a peace loving nation.

The order of the war measure was this: First, congress passed the joint resolution directing President McKinley in the interests of humanity and of civilization to intervene in the Cuban struggle and stop the war, authorizing him to use the army and navy of the United States for this purpose. The resolution was signed by Speaker Reed of the house because the house first passed it. Then it was signed by Vice President Hobart. After that it went to the president, who wrote underneath the other signatures: "Approved April 20, 1898. William McKinley." Next two witnesses signed it. Then the document, called the ultimatum, which the president had already prepared, demanding that Spain should withdraw her forces from Cuba and giving her 60 hours to reply to the demand was inclosed with the congressional resolution and sent at once to the Spanish minister, Senor Luis Polo y Bernabe. When he received it, he sent without delay to the state department asking for his passport to leave this country. It was immediately granted, and he started for Canada, there to remain, as he said, "till Spain whips the United States." Thus diplomatic relations with Spain in the United States ceased. Senor Bernabe will have several days to wait.

THE CUBAN FLAG.

The flag adopted by the Cuban insurgents and which will be the flag of Cuba should the island secure its independence consists of five stripes, three blue and two white, with a triangular field of red in which is set a single white star.

The Difference.

The difference between the evening paper and the morning paper is that the evening paper publishes the fresh news of the day and the morning paper publishes the stale news of the day before. But don't blame the morning paper. It can't help it.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Of course, everybody is going to Music Hall Saturday night to witness the performance of Martin Brothers minstrels and vaudeville entertainers. This will be an event in the amusement line, and one which we have no doubt will be enjoyed by all who go. There will be the usual "first part," with bones and tambo, jokes and witticisms, an olio of novelty and surprises, a grand cake walk and a laughable afterpiece. The cake walk is expected to eclipse anything ever seen in this city and colored society is agog with expectation about the prize to be awarded. Officer Martin will surprise his many friends by his vocal and musical talent, and the entire show will be worthy of patronage. Reserved seat tickets now ready at box office.

Hoyt's famous play, "A Black Sheep," will be Manager Maze Edwards' next regular dramatic presentation at Music Hall. This is booked to appear Thursday night of next week. It is the largest and best company ever organized and numbers over forty artists.

The celebrated Koster & Bial extravaganza, "Gayest Manhattan," which ran the whole of last season in New York, has been secured by Manager Maze Edwards for Saturday night of next week. There are over sixty people in this production and they include some of the best artists in the profession.

Press Editorial Indorsed.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Allow me to congratulate you upon your editorial of last evening in regard to making the raising of a flag pole a patriotic occasion. It is the right and proper thing at this time to do all that will arouse the patriotism of our fellows. Has there ever been a more fitting time in our country's history to pay tribute to Old Glory than the present? By all means have the flag pole raised with the old time honor and enthusiasm. Let the people of Plainfield come out of their conservation and show to surrounding towns that this city is not only the Garden city of the State, but a town alive with fire and ablaze with true patriotic sentiment. Let Old Glory tell her own story. Put out your flags, fellow townsmen, beautiful emblem of our nation's strength and glory.

THE IMPROVMENT WOMEN

ANNUAL MEETING REVIEWS WORK OF THE PAST YEAR.

Children's Auxiliary to Present a Fairy Play, "Cinderella," to Raise Funds for City Park—Officers for Ensuing Year

The Town Improvement Association, of Plainfield and North Plainfield, held its annual public meeting in the small hall of the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Pierre Malli, was in the chair. The treasurer, Mrs. Alexander Gilbert, read the annual financial report showing receipts of $1,802.17 and expenditures amounting to $1,641.67. The report was accepted and the president and Mrs. A. Stuart Patterson were appointed auditors to examine the accounts.

The report of the committee on streets showed that an attempt had been made to secure the passage of a city ordinance prohibiting the throwing of papers or fruit into the streets. The attempt was unsuccessful.

The sanitary committee reported that it had made inspections of places where fruit and other eatables were stored, and in cases where the ordinance was being violated the Health Inspector had been notified.

The superintendent of the Children's Auxiliary reported a membership of fifty. The children are planning to give the fairy play, "Cinderella," in the Misses Scribner and Newton's School early in the summer vacation, to raise funds for the new city park. The committee on trees and parks reported that the money secured by the association had been nearly all expended in improving the park. The walks had been laid deep with stone beds to secure drainage. The south end of the park is all completed, but the north end is too much shaded to allow the planting of shrubbery, as was planned. Benches are needed for the park. J. W. Butterfield has been of great assistance in completing the landscape effects in the park.

All the officers were re elected for the ensuing year as follows: Mrs. Pierre Malli, president; Mrs. Charles E. Ryder, first vice-president; Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph, second vice-president; Miss E. Stewart, corresponding secretary; Mrs. S. R. Crum, recording secretary; and Mrs. Alexander Gilbert treasurer.

Mrs. Malli, Miss Stewart and Mrs. Gilbert were elected as the delegates from the club to the meeting of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be held in this city May 12th.

TWENTY YEARS' GROWTH

PROSPEROUS RECORD OF A BAPTIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

First Church's Home Society Has Fifty-one Life Members—Members are Supporting a Missionary in Indian Territory.

The twentieth anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon in the Bible class room of the church. Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, president, was in the chair, and the annual reports of the officers were read.

The treasurer, Mrs. D. A. Bowman, reported that during the past year the sum of $545.59 had been received and expended. An interesting feature in connection with this report was that part showing the amount received during the first ten years of the society, at which time the members of the Park Avenue Baptist church society were also members of one society. The receipts received for the first ten years were $2 387 25, and during the last ten years the sum of $5,947 64 was received. It will be noticed that the increase is marked. At the same time the Park Avenue Baptist church society has also done equally well.

Mrs. S. T. Wilson, secretary, gave a report for the entire twenty years, showing the growth of the society. The society started with a membership of 121, but later the membership was reduced from the fact that the society at the Park Avenue Baptist church was formed. The present membership of the society is 100. There are 51 life members, and the society has been giving help and money to missionary interests in the south, Indian Territory and to the poor churches in the west. During the past year three barrels were sent to missionaries, and the members are now arranging to send some more barrels away. Of the first officers of the society none are now living; but Miss Ida Yerkes, Mrs. Manning Runyon and Mrs. John H. French, collectors, have served the society as such from the start.

The society is now supporting Rev. J. L. Keller, a native missionary at Wynnewood, Indian Territory, and a letter was received and read from him at the meeting. Another letter was received from a missionary in the west. This was read, as was also another one from a missionary in Dakota, who was formerly a Miss Lorenzo, and who held a membership in the First Baptist church. Sometime ago she married a missionary and is now located in Dakota. All of the letters were encouraging and showed that great good is being accomplished.

The last letter read was from the Indian "Lone Wolf," of the Kiawah Tribe, who reported that "he was glad to say that every member of his family was on the Jesus road."

The annual election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes; first vice president, Mrs. J. D. Runyon; second vice-president, Mrs. Reuben Knox; third vice president, Mrs. F. H. Biglow; treasurer, Mrs. D. A. Bowman; secretary, Mrs. S. T. Wilson. Mrs. F. H. Biglow was elected third vice-president in place of Mrs. F. E. Kinsman, who resigned.

Gashed His Foot.

Andrew Wilson, of Mountain avenue, met with an accident while working on the embankment above the new ice house of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company at Washingtonville, Monday afternoon. He was dressing a log when his axe glanced and struck his foot, cutting a deep gash above the big toe joint. He is now confined to his home. Dr. Tomlinson, who is attending him, fears that he has cut one of the small bones of the foot.

COACHING HIS CONVERSATION.

How He Conquered His Bashfulness in a Single Evening.

As an overgrown boy—for I was six feet tall at fourteen—I had experienced all the agonies of bashfulness in the society of the other sex, though greatly attracted to it. I find it difficult to convince my associates of later years that I then habitually sat mute while others chattered. A word or two of remonstrance from my mother had in a single day corrected this during my senior year, so far as the family table was concerned, and this emboldened me to try the experiment on a wider field. I said to myself, thinking of other young men who made themselves quite agreeable, "These youths are not your superiors—perhaps in the recitation room or the playground hardly your equals. Why not cope with them elsewhere?" Thus influenced, I conquered myself in a single evening and lost my shyness forever. The process was unique, so far as I know, and I have often recommended it to shy young men. Being invited to a small party, I considered beforehand what young ladies would probably be there. With each one I had, of course, something in common—kinship, or neighborhood, or favorite pursuit. This would do, I reasoned, for a starting point. So I put down on a small sheet of paper what I would say to each, if I happened to be near her. It worked like a charm. I found myself chatting away the whole evening, and heard the next day that everybody was surprised at the transformation. I have to this day the little bit of magic paper, on which I afterward underscored, before sleeping, the points actually used.—Col. Higginson in "Cheerful Yesterdays."

THE NAVAJO INDIAN'S BLANKET.

Many Stolen Articles Could Be Hid Within Its Folds.

A Navajo Indian can hide more bulk within the folds of his blanket than a two-bushel basket could hold, and can successfully hide many stolen articles before our eyes. The settlers along the San Juan and Animas rivers, during the early days, had to put all their stealable possessions in one corner of their places of abode and stand guard when the Navajoes were visitors, which was a too frequent occurrence. "Chinny ah-go!" (meaning something to eat) was the first intimation, generally, that an Indian was near (perhaps a half dozen). They rarely exceeded half a dozen in number, as they, like the American hobo, had learned that smaller numbers stood a better show to get something to eat.

One day in A. R. Lincoln's cabin, on the south bank of the San Juan River, three bachelors were partaking of their evening meal when a Navajo with a glass eye walked in. All tried to watch the Indian's movements, but he had managed to get several articles under his blanket and would not have been detected had not an accident befallen him. A hatchet which slipped from one of the folds in his blanket fell, and the sharp blade cut a long gash in the calf of his leg. The Indian looked at the roof of the cabin as if wondering where the hatchet had fallen from, but the blood spurting from the open gash betrayed him. His blanket was shaken and a butcher knife, miner's candlestick, several candles, and a package of tobacco, all belonging in the cabin, fell on the earthy floor.—From the Durango (Col.) Wage Earner.

Changes in the Status of Women.

In the largest library in Oxford, England, has hung from time immemorial this notice: "Women and dogs not admitted here." It is allowed to hang still, to show the changes in the status of woman.

No less than eight women have seats on the London Board of Education.

Milton thought it improper for women to learn Greek and Latin.

Two hundred years ago no one thought of a girl playing the piano. Only men played.

Mary Wollstonecroft had to argue personally with her friends who thought it unwomanly and improper for girls to study botany.

There was a time in the history of Boston libraries when women were not allowed to take books from the library. Now more books are taken out by women than by men.

Oil of the Olive.

The grinding and pressing of the olives are performed in a very primitive maner in Sicily. First, the olives are placed on a circular platform of masonry about seven feet in diameter, upon which a heavy millstone is turned by means of a pole to which a donkey is attached. While the stone revolves a man is constantly engaged in turning the pulped olives over and over with a spade. In half an honr about one hundred kilogrammes will have been pulped in this way, when the mass is put in soft rush baskets, which are piled in a heap in the press—an arrangement with a heavy, wooden screw, which is worked by six men. About half the oil is expressed in this fashion, the rest being extracted by subsequent operations. The fresh oil is green in color and is placed in earthen jars for eight days to settle and clarify. It is then ready for use.—New York World.

What Puzzled Him.

The most ignorant man in America lives in St. Louis. The other day he asked his employer, who was reading a paper: "Say, boss, which does you read, the black or the white?"—Kansas City Star.

"Say, Doc, lend me five cents."

"What for?"

"I just sold a picture for $10,000; I want five cents for car fare to go up and collect it."—Brooklyn Life.

PRAISE FOR THE ASS.

Virtues of the Humble Moke Have Been Sadly Overlooked.

To be called an ass is a great compliment. Humility, patience, charity and industry have been recognized as great virtues ever since mankind has been introspective; but the world has failed to notice that the ass, which is the brunt of the jests of all nations possesses these qualities more fully than any other animal or any human being, except the proverbial one in a million.

The ass is to be found in every part of the world, always melancholy and slow, nobly doing his work, whether in the Andes, the Himalayas, the Rockies, or in the place of his nativity, the Orient. Wherever he is, his dominant characteristics are the same. Wherever he is, he is generally abused; perhaps because he puts up with abuse so meekly.

Always he is the friend of the poor. In countries where horses cannot be afforded he is the sole means of transport. All day long he will go over a hot plain or up a rocky mountainside, loaded down with more than any horse could bear, though his weight is only half that of the average horse, while if a horse were limited to the food he subsists on the horse would fall down in its tracks and die, though it had no load. With the load it would fall down anyway.

That the ass can be cured of his only two vices of braying and kicking is proved by the superior conduct of the London make, who is about a third cousin of the Oriental ass of myth, of fable and Biblical story. The moke, who is about the size of a big Newfoundland dog, draws the barrels of the costermongers who vend fruits and vegetables from door to door in all parts of the city.

There is no finer playfellow for children than a moke. When his fuzzy fur is washed it is soft, fluffy and pretty. A youngster may crawl all over him and under him, and pound and pull him in every part of his anatomy, and he will only smile the contented smile of the moke who is living in the moke heaven of currycombs and good rations.

That the ass is not stupid is proved by his equal cleverness with the horse in learning tricks, by his picking his way where a horse cannot go, by his calmness under conditions that make a horse uncontrollably fretful. But he seems homely and out of proportion, unless you look at him closely; and the world too often goes by appearances. Scrutinize sharply the patient face of the ass, and you will find those qualities which make a face educational and perhaps even beautiful.—New Orleans Picayune.

SHE WAS CAUGHT BY A GIRL.

The Benevolent Old Lady Proved to be a Notorious Character.

The Philadelphia Press says that the female store detective is one of the features of department store development, and as that city has some of the largest department stores in the country it is but natural that many of the store detectives should become exceptionally shrewd. An illustration of the peculiar shrewdness required was furnished by the detection the other day of a notorious shoplifter and her confederate by a young woman who is employed solely to prevent thievery. The young person suspected a benevolent-looking old lady because the old lady's skirts seemed to be abnormally heavy. She followed her to the street, and, as the old lady's skirts did not flap in the strong wind that was blowing, she had her arrested. It turned out that the old lady was "Queen Liz," one of the most notorious female robbers in the country. Her confederate, who was captured also, is known as "Big Kid," Morgar. The strange part of it all is that a pair of rogues whose wits should have been sharpened by several successive terms in jail should have been run to earth by a "slip of a girl" whose horizon has been the walls of a department store.

Not Quite Up on Technical Terms.

The Detroit Free Press tells of a Toledo woman, who hasn't had much experience with high diplomatic folks and that kind of functionaries on her native heath, and who went to Washington last winter for a month to thoroughly familiarize herself with the usages of the best society. During the course of her giddy whirl she struck the annual charity ball—tickets $2.50 per—and while there, one of the ladies dancing attracted her especially.

"Who is that lady over there in the corner now with the low-necked dress on?" she inquired of her chaperon.

"It is the wife of one of the Ministers here," her friend explained.

"You don't say?" was the surprised response.

"Yes; there's nothing unusual in that."

"Well, well," said the visitor curiously, "it's a mighty queer place for a preacher's wife, now isn't it?"

His Manner Didn't Suit the Bishop.

A pompous bishop was having his portrait painted, and after sitting for an hour in silence he thought he would break the motony. "How are you getting along?" he inquired. To his astonishment the artist, absorbed in his work, replied: "Move your head a little to the right, and shut your mouth." Not being accustomed to such a form of address, his lordship asked, "May I ask why you address me in that manner?" The artist, still absorbed in his work—"I want to take off a little of your cheek."—Tit-Bits.

A CHICAGO MAN'S DISCOVERY.

He Makes Artificial Milk with Real Cream on It.

W. J. Cook, of Chicago, says he can make artificial milk. He does this by means of a combination of chemicals. The product is said to look like milk, to taste like it, and to have the nutritive qualities of the genuine article. Besides penetrating the mysteries of the lacteal fluid which has for so many centuries nurtured man in the infant stage, Mr. Cook further makes the startling announcement that cows were never intended by the divine economy to be milk producers, but merely beasts of burden.

Members of the Labor Exchange in Englewood gave Mr. Cook an opportunity to prove that he knew what he was talking about. Mr. Cook brought along a five-gallon can, and gave each person a glass of his milk. He then sent out for an equal quantity of natural milk. Everybody seemed to like the kind that Mr. Cook provided, and all agreed that the cow had a dangerous rival.

Mr. Cook now performed a wonderful experiment. He sent downstairs for two glasses of milk. In one was the natural staple, and the other contained the composition. They were permitted to stand in an ice-box, and were produced after a stipulated time. It was found that the artificial milk had twice the amount of cream on its surface possessed by the quality provided by natural means after passing through the mysteries of the dairy.—New York Journal.

A Woman's Club of Indian Squaws.

The Maine Federation of Women's Clubs has admitted to membership a club of squaws, which will hold sales and give entertainments to raise money for charity, just as the clubs of white women do.

This latest development of the woman's club movement is the Wabana-ki Club, of Indian Island. Its membership is limited exclusively to the squaws of the Tarratine tribe, which occupies the Government reservation on Indian Island in the Penobscot, opposite Old Town.

The idea of the club originated with Mrs. Helen Coffin Beedy, author of "Mothers of Maine." Some months ago she became interested in people of Indian Island and being an enthusiastic club woman, proposed to the squaws of the island that they form a woman's club. The proposition was well received, and within a few weeks an organization was effected. The club name comes from the tribal title of that branch of the Maine Indians, to which the Tarratine tribe belongs.—New York Journal.

Vagaries of English Laws.

"If a man," says an intelligent detective officer, "is found sleeping out without the wherewithal to procure a lodging he can be fined or imprisoned, but if a sum sufficient for that purpose be found on him he cannot be touched.

"Then, again, you are perfectly at liberty to throw as much dirty water as you please over an intruder into your house—provided, that is, that he has no legitimate excuse for remaining there; but should you honor him with a douche of clean water, you are liable to a prosecution for wasting the same.

"If a man goes into a public house, and says, 'Give me a glass of beer, please,' they cannot make him pay for it. And if you are not twenty-one, they cannot recover against you for cigarettes you have got on credit, though you may be compelled to pay as much as £50 for a fur-lined overcoat, as that is a necessity."—Tit-Bits

Education Fifty Years Ago.

Lord Londonderry's descriptions of some of the Dames' and other schools of fifty or sixty years ago are exceedingly interesting. Many of these ancient teachers were unable to write an intelligent answer to a simple question. One, on being asked as to the terms on which she gave instruction, replied: "Not understanding the question, I answer thus: With a view of reading the bibble." We have the authority of the late Lord Shaftesbury for the statement that one of these poor creatures, being asked if she gave moral instruction to her scholars, replied: "No, I can't afford it at threepence a week." A more amusing answer, however, was that of the teacher who was asked whether proper attention was paid to the morals of the boys under his care. His answer was that "they did not teach morals there, as they belonged to the girls' department."—London Globe.

His Notion of It.

"Why," she asked, "do so many of the poets write about goldenrod? It seems as if every one of them had tried to glorify it."

"Well," replied the man who had worked on a farm, "the only explanation I can give is that the poets probably never tried to raise potatoes in a field where goldenrod had got a good start."—Cleveland Leader.

Explaining It to Him.

FIGHTING JO. SHELBY.

Anecdotes Told of the Famous Confederate General.

Gen. Jo O. Shelby, for he ever signed his name in that way, was a character" with more phases than are ever wrought out by the moon, writes a correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald. I knew him before, during, and after the civil war, more intimately after peace was declared and he had returned from self-expatriation in Mexico.

After the war I first encountered Gen. Shelby in connection with "the James boys' gang," and was especially intimate with him during Frank James' trial at Gallatin, Daviess County, the home of Congressman Dockery of the Third Missouri District. Jesse James had been assassinated in St. Joseph by Bob and Charley Ford, and in the summer of 1889 Frank was arraigned for trial at Gallatin for the Winston train robbery, during which Conductor Westfall and a railway laborer, Callahan, had been killed by the raiders. Gallatin, an antiquated Missouri town, became a scene of excitement continuing three weeks. Stores were emptied to give sleeping room to those attracted to the trial. And among these were hundreds of ex-Confederates. Chief among these old soldiers of "the lost cause" was Gen. Jo O. Shelby. Frank James had been a soldier in his command, "and a good one, sah," he emphasized in his Kentucky dialect," and I am hyar, sah, to see fa'r play." And besides the General there were troops of rough riders, men who had "rid" with Quantrell as well as Shelby, and who had raided with Morgan. Not only exciting, but the times were tempestuous, and at any moment, if the word had been given, Frank James would have been whirled out of the court room at the head of as desperate a lot of men as ever rode through the brush. But it is undoubtedly due to Gen. Shelby, though never avowed, that "the word" was not given. But to better illustrate his control of these men, who came into town from all parts of Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Indian Territory, and Kentucky, let this story tell:

One day during the trial the General invited a detachment of his friends, as numerous as a squadron of cavalry, to join him in a drink. Repairing to the one saloon in the town, on entering it was found to be full of ex-bushwhackers who at times had belonged to Shelby's rough riders. A good many of 'em were full too. The General stalked in and commanded:

"You men get out of here. You have had enough. Get out."

They meekly obeyed. Bill Pool, Bill Gregg, Dud Palmer, who married Susie James, a sister of "the boys," and half a hundred more walked out without a word of dissent some of them even setting down their liquor untouched.

"Now" said the General as the room was cleared, "we gentlemen will take a drink."

Turning to Frank Tutt, a Missouri Pacific detective, I whispered: "Those men do not seem to realize that the war is over."

"You bet they don't," replied he, "when the old General is around."

Gen. Shelby was a witness for the defendant, Frank James. When summoned into court, quite early in the morning, after a campfire seance the night before, the old General was in an elaborate mood. When called upon to take the oath by the clerk, he assumed a haughty military pose and exclaimed:

"Not until I have had an introduction to the court, an honor which I have not yet enjoyed."

Pacified, the General gave his testimony, and was taken in hand on cross-examination by William H. Wallace, prosecuting attorney. Wallace said:

"Do you know Bill Ryan?" (a former member of the gang.)

"I do, sah," was answered curtly and pugnaciously.

"What kind of a looking man is he?"

"He has as villainous a countenance on him, sah, as you have yourself, Mr. Wallace."

Meeting a lady, he would take off his broad brim, slouch white hat, and, bowing low, would say in a most deferential tone:

"Your servant, madam," and stand uncovered before her, no matter how long the conversation was protracted.

At his home in Bates County, one of the largest wheat farms in Missouri, he was the prince of hosts. Let a traveler approach, he was at the door to meet him. "Dismount, dismount!" he would exclaim, and then, receiving his guest, would conduct him with cordial expressions of hospitality into the house, shouting from the hallway to his wife:

"Bettie, Bettie, Mr. —— is here; bring him a toddy."

Just as hospitable and genial as her husband, Mrs. Shelby would appear, followed by a negro girl with a tray in her hands, and the home of the Shelbys became the home of the guest as long as he wanted to make it so—for a day, week, month, or year.

NATIONAL VOLUNTEER RESERVE.

The Work of Organization—Col. Washington to Form a Brigade.

New York, April 27.—The work of organizing the National Volunteer Reserves, which is attracting interest in Plainfield, has grown to such proportions that it has been found impossible to handle it at the headquarters in New York. The President's call for volunteers having rendered it desirable that all enrollments be immediately available to the Adjutant General of each State, the Reserve officers have requested that all enrollments now in the hands of organizations and individuals throughout the country be sent at once to the Adjutant Generals of the respective States, so that delay in transit to New York and thence to the capital of each State will be avoided. It is requested that a memorandum of all enrollment blanks be reported to the National headquarters in this city.

The desire for immediate assignment to organizations has become so great at the headquarters of the reserve that Col. Washington, the President of the reserve, has consented to form a brigade, which is already far advanced. Enlistments for this brigade will be accepted today at the headquarters on the tenth floor of the Washington Building, Broadway.

Since Friday last 125,000 enlistments blanks have been demanded by the recruiting stations in different parts of the country.

STILL AWAITING ORDERS.

Jersey Troops to Go to the Front Not Yet Designated.

Trenton, April 27.—Governor Voorhees has not yet received the message from Washington giving the detail of the call for troops. He will not announce the regiments to be called out until the message comes.

The Governor, in reply to a dispatch from the War Department, stated that New Jersey was ready to put 4,000 National Guardsmen into the field, and that they were fairly well equipped. The only articles they are short of are shoes and shirts and modern guns. The guard is miserably armed, nearly all the guns being of old style.

Adjutant-General Stryker says the State will not regard the designation by the War Department of Jersey City as a place for mobilizing the National Guard. The troops will be sent to Sea Girt, where they can be comfortably quartered, as from that point they can be transported quickly and without confusion. The order from Washington said Jersey City had been selected because of its excellent facilities for transportation by railroads and water.

New Jersey Troops May Get Extra Pay.

Trenton, April 27.—Gov. Voorhees is considering the advisability of calling a special session of the Legislature to consider the wisdom of a State appropriation to supplement the Government's pay of the New Jersey troops in the volunteer army. It is suggested that only $13 a month will mean a hardship to many of the National Guard who will respond to the Governor's call for troops. The matter will probably be considered by the State Military Board today.

Westfielders Enlist.

Westfield, April 27—Chauncey K. Penington, Elliot Howe and Robert Embleton, three Westfield young men, went to New York Monday with the purpose of enlisting in the army. They did not return and it is supposed they were accepted. The former sent word to friends yesterday that he successfully passed the physical examinations and been accepted. The letter did not say whether Howe and Embleton had been accepted.

Trolley Franchises.

[Special to The Daily Press.]

Bound Brook, April 27.—A meeting of the Borough Council was held here last evening. A franchise for the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company was passed on first and second reading. The franchise gives them permission to connect with their road from Somerville and the line to New Brunswick. They are also to run a spur to connect with the trolley line to Lincoln and Dunellen.

Duty to Family.

New Brunswick, April 27.—Six members of Company D, Third Regiment, of New Brunswick, who have decided that their duty to their families demanded their presence at home, and in consequence asked for honorable discharges from the National Guard, are indignant because of the fact that Captain Kay had issued an order stating that the men had been dropped from the rolls.

Will Pay Enlisted Men's Assessments

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, April 27.—The members of Fanwood Council, No. 744, Royal Arcanum, at their meeting last night voted to pay the assessments of any members of the council who shall enlist in the army and navy.

Gave a Good Reason.

Edward Tomlinson, of LaGrande avenue, a member of the New Jersey Naval Reserves, was called last evening to appear before the court martial and give a good and sufficient reason why he failed to appear for a drill Monday evening. Decision has not yet been heard.

PATRIOTIC EMBLEMS.

Plainfielders Outwardly Exhibit Pride for Their Country.

There is no better sign of the present sentiments of the people of Plainfield than the way in which the Stars and Stripes have appeared on every hand since the war with Spain begun. As the conflict drew nearer and nearer, solitary flags appeared all over the city in the residental portions as well as in the business centre. When the first gun was fired, however, they appeared on every hand and have grown in numbers ever since until now in every street Old Glory can be seen waving.

The national colors are not confined to the decoration of building. Little American flags, knots of red, white and blue, are now to be seen on the coats of many of Plainfield's patriotic citizens. There was such a demand for the national colors at the local stores that the supply of little flags was exhausted on Monday and yesterday. Today, however, all are ready to supply the wants of the most patriotic.

Drivers of delivery wagons about the city have decorated the harness and wagon with small American flags. In a word, everybody is showing their patriotism by prominently displaying the colors of the American nation.

At the Plainfield High School yesterday a number of the girls wore neckties and belts of the tri-colored ribbon while others prominently displayed a bow of the national colors.

Handkerchiefs, consisting of miniature American flags are again being carried. There are a thousand and one patriotic devices that are hurriedly being put on the market by the makers of novelties. Then the buttons, showing the Maine in all stages before and after her destruction, with suitable inscriptions, are being worn by the small boys.

Y. M. C. A.'S WAR PLANS.

It Will Establish Branches at Once at All of the Military Camps.

An army committee of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. was named yesterday and instructed to take immediate steps for the prosecution of work at all military camps similar to that done by the United States Christian Commission during the Civil War. For two months past letters have been coming to the international committee from all over the country urging formation of a like commission in case of war. In response to these appeals the matter has been put into the hands of the army committee, Charles W. McAlpin, of New York, W. D. Murray, of Plainfield, and an official in the Government service at Washington, whose name the international committee will not give until acceptance of the place is received from him.

The work to be undertaken is to be similar to that maintained by the New York State Y. M. C. A. at Peekskill during encampment. The army committee was instructed yesterday to make necessary purchases of tents, books, chairs and supplies sufficient in number to equip quarters at Chickamauga, Tampa, Key West, Atlanta, and wherever else camps are established.

Secretaries to go to camps and take charge of Y. M. C. A. tents are to be selected at once. An advisory committee is to be formed and on it will be Dwight L. Moody. Mr. Moody was extremely active in work during the Civil War and may undertake it again during the present conflict.

—All bills against the city must be in the hands of the City Clerk's office by Thursday night.

Mr and Mrs. William Edwin Terry, of Dunellen, who were married last week, returned home last evening from their bridal trip.

—Rev. J. A. Harris, of East Orange, will preach at the Calvary Baptist church this evening. Rev. Mr. Johnson, of this city; Rev. Mr. Wallace, of Belmar, and other ministers will be present to assist. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested.

WHERE HEADS ARE USEFUL.

The Congo People Do Not Use Their Back for Carrying.

The achievement has often been referred to of the carrying of steamboats on the backs of men. The expression is not quite accurate, for the Congo natives are trained from infancy to carry burdens on their heads. When a European on the lower Congo sent his black boy to a store to buy some cigarettes, he was surprised to see the servant return with the tiny package on his head. When a Congo woman has smoked her much-loved pipe, the treasure is likely to repose on her head until she again requires it, and if her husband, unfortunately, has been able to procure a bottle of rum, he walks home with it nicely balanced on his head, throwing stones at the stray dogs and cats in his way, without the slightest idea that he is really an expert equilibrist. Most of the many thousands of pieces of steamboats were carried on the heads and not on the backs of the men.

The 50,000 natives of the lower Congo who have been carrying these steam boats and all other freight around the cataracts are the very men who could not be induced, eighteen years ago, to give a helping hand to Mr. Stanley. He wished to carry 1,830 man-loads, and he had only 190 Zanzibar and Loango porters for the work. Some of the natives would sell him a little of their time, but they would not carry his goods more than two or three miles beyond their homes. Stanley's failure to secure the carriers he needed along the river delayed his work on the upper Congo for more than a year, and the labor question was the most perplexing problem with which he had to deal. He brought his carriers thousands of miles from Zanzibar and other coasts of Africa.—Harper's Round Table.

THE DAIRYMAN ANT.

12,000,000 of This Peculiar Kind Inhabit a Ten-Acre Lot in Pennsylvania.

Twelve million dairymen ants have been discovered on the western border of Chester County, Pennsylvania. The entire colony lives in a ten-acre lot on the Phillips estate, near Atglen.

These curious little creatures gain a livelihood by securing the honey of the aphides, tiny insects which live on rose bushes and grape vines. When disturbed they yield a single drop of honey. This the dairyman ant knows, and so he pats and fairly embraces the aphide. At once the honey appears, which the ant consumes as greedily as a child devours candy. He continues to disturb the frightened aphide until its store of honey is exhausted, when he seeks, if his appetite is not satisfied, another living honey storehouse.

The home of these ants are mounds ten feet high. They are curious little fellows. The head and chest are a bright red, but the abdomen is black. Otherwise they much resemble the ordinary big black ants found in gardens in this city. Each mound contains several castes. There is, first of all, the ant aristocracy, made up of the male and female ants. They have wings and are about six-sixteenths of an inch long.

They work not, neither do they spin. It is their exclusive task to raise the young. Next in rank are the working majors. These are a sixteenth of an inch shorter than the males and females and are without wings.

THE ROTHCHILD SCHOOL.

Founded Fifty-Five Years Ago—Free Breakfast Given Every Morning.

Near Whitechapel, in one of the poorest and most squalid districts in London, is the Rothschild School, the largest in the world, educating thirty-five hundred children, belonging mostly to the poorest foreign Jews, and having a staff of one hundred teachers. It was founded fifty-five years ago by a Rothschild of that time, and has always been presided over by one of the family, the present Baron Rothschild now performing that office. Free breakfasts are given each morning to all the children who wish them, no questions being asked. In April of each year, near the Jewish Passover, there is presented to each boy pupil a suit of clothes and a pair of shoes, and to each girl a frock, with some other article of costume. In October a second pair of boots or shoes is offered to each one who needs them. Less than 2 per cent. of the pupils decline the free meals offered. Connected with the school is a savings-bank department, admitting minimum deposits of a penny, and allowing 10 per cent. on all sums deposited up to £5 for the pupils and £15 for the teachers.—New York Tribune.

SPECIALS TO THE DAILY PRESS.
[The figures of time following the date in each dispatch indicate the time of its receipt in Plainfield, and will afford readers a better understanding and appreciation of the order in which the events have happened, and their relative importance to each other.]

Key West, April 28, 10:30 a. m.—The first active operations against the Spanish fortifications on Cuba were begun by three ships of Admiral Sampson's blockading fleet yesterday afternoon. Three of the ships, the New York, the cruiser Cincinnati and the monitor Puritan, opened fire on the forts at Matanzas at 1 o'clock. The bombardment was over in less than twenty minutes.

The result of the storm of shells fired by the American ships was that the guns were silenced and the forti fication destroyed. It is believed that the loss of life must have been great. No damage was done to the American fleet.

The Spaniards have been at work on the fortifications at Punta Gorda. Admiral Sampson's purpose was to prevent their completion.

While the flagship New York, her sister cruiser the Cincinnati and the monitor Puritan were locating the defences of Matanza harbor the batteries guarding the entrance opened fire on the New York.

Their answer was a broadside from Admiral Sampson's flagship, the first fire being from the farward 8 inch gun on the port side.

The monitor attacked the Point Maya fortification, the flagship went in close and shelled Rubalcaya Point, while the Cincinnati was soon at work shelling the fortification on the west side of the bay.

In less than twenty minutes Admiral Sampson's warships had silenced the Spanish batteries.

The explosive shells from the forts fell wide of the mark: The last one fired from the shore was from Point Rubalcaya.

The monitor Puritan let go with a shot from one of her 12 inch guns. Its effect was seen when a part of the fort went into the air.

The Puritan took equally good care of Point Maya. When she succeeded in getting the range her gunners landed a shell inside the works at every shot.

The New York, after reducing the range from over 6,000 to 3,000 yards, fired shells at the rate of three a minute into the enemy's forts, each one creating havoc.

When permission was given to the Cincinnati to take part in the first battle between Yankee and Spanish forces, the cruiser came up to within 2,000 yards of the shore and almost immediately her guns were at work.

Congress to Stay in Session.

Washington, April 28, 11:30 a.m.—Congress is going to be ready for any emergency. It has now been settled that the National Legislature will not adjourn this month, but will continue in session indefinitely.

There has been much discussion as to whether Congress would remain in session during the war. Much has been said on both sides. The majority of the Congressmen and Senators are in favor of remaining in session.

The administration has not expressed itself on that point. It is probable that the President wishes Congress to remain on hand to rush through such necessary war legislation as circumstances may dictate.

The announcement was made this morning that Congress would take that action.

An Exciting Capture.

Key West, April 28, 10:30 a. m.—The monitor Terror, of Rear Admiral Sampson's blockading fleet of Havana, made another capture last evening. The captured steamer was the Spanish liner Guido.

The Guido tried to slip through the blockading squadron during the night and reach Havana. She was loaded with supplies for the Spanish army.

She was first sighted by the Terror which gave chase. Several blank shots were fired from the Monitor. The Spaniard crowded on all steam and attempted to escape.

As the Spanish steamer was much faster than the monitor, the order was given to open fire on her. Three shots were fired from the rapid firing guns, all of which struck the mark.

The Spaniard then hauled down her colors and hove to. Her pilot house was carried away by one of the shots and she was otherwise damaged. One Spaniard was injured by the firing.

The Guido had put out all her lights when she attempted to escape. A prize crew was placed on board of her and she was sent to this port.

The Guido is a steel screw steamer of 3,193 tons, numbered in Lloyds register at 559 and classed A1. She was built by Harland & Wolff, at Belfast, in 1883. Her owners are LaFlecha Company, of Bilboa, where the vessel is registered. Her dimensions are 360 feet length, 41 feet beam and 26 feet depth.

Fear the Cuban Climate.

Washington, April 28, 1 p. m.—The conference between the President and leading officials of the War Department seems to have resulted in a determination not to invade Cuba until fall.

The army officials now say that there will be no large force of United States troops sent to Cuba until November after the rainy season.

This conclusion was reached for the reason that the climate in Cuba at this time of year is considered too deadly for the American troops.

St. Paul for Scout Duty.

Philadelphia, April 28.—The auxiliary cruiser St. Paul will be ready for scout duty Monday. The indications are that practically all her crew will enlist in the American Navy.

Sunday the St. Paul will leave Cramp, and sail light to a point in Delaware Bay, where she will take on a full supply of coal.

United States Arms Cuba.

Washington, April 28.—General Nunez, member of General Gomez's staff, is on his way to Key West, where he will recruit an army of 5,000 Cubans to co-operate with the United States forces in the invasion of Cuba.

Navy Department Incredulous.

Washington, April 28, 1 p. m.—The Navy Department does not put much credit in the report that the fortifications at Matanzas were bombarded by Admiral Sampson's fleet yesterday afternoon.

Secretary of the Navy Long stated that he had received no information of the bombardment of Matanzas. He seemed to doubt the authenticity of the report.

A member of the Naval Strategic Board said that he did not believe that the Spanish forts had been attacked, but that if Admiral Sampson had fired it would have been at the outside forts to learn about their armament.

It is rumored here, however, and considerable credence is given to it, that orders had been send to Admiral Sampson to bombard any point on the coast wherever batteries are being erected to prevent any extended defence when the time came to land troops.

The Oregon Speeding Home.

Washington, April 28, 9 a. m.—The Navy Department has received word that the United States battleship Oregon was spoken a few hundred miles below Montevideo. She was booming along under forced draft and making great speed. She will stop at Montevideo for coal and proceed to Key West in all possible haste. Navy officers are not at all concerned for her safety.

Spanish Seize a Vessel.

Leeway For Quartermaster.

Washington, April 28, 1:30 p. m.—The House committee on military affairs reported favorably this morning on the bill fathered by the administration suspending important laws governing the quartermaster's department of the army.

It also provides for the purchase of

THE MEN OF MYSTERY SURPRISE THE WOMEN

An Auspicious Event in Trinity Reformed Church.

GIFT OF HANDSOME MANTEL.

THE PRESENT ESTABLISHED IN THE LADIES' PARLOR.

Members of the Ladies Christian Work Society Asked in a Casual Way to Visit the Parlor Last Night by Pastor Schenck—On Arriving There They Were Overcome by Surprise to See the Handsome Mantel Presented in Appreciation of Their Efforts in Assisting to Make the Recent Alterations in the Edifice.

Ever since Sunday the women of the Trinity Reformed church have been enjoying all the delights of anticipation. A mystery was to be revealed to them last evening. Furthermore, the mystery originated with the men of the congregation. Husbands, brothers and friends were questioned, but the secret was well kept and did not leak out until the time came for the revealing of all its details

It will be remembered that the new ladies' parlor in the church has been recently furnished in a handsome way by a committee from the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the church. When the room was planned a place was left in it to set a mantel, with a gas log beneath to heat the room during the spring and fall months when the furnaces were not running.

It was well known that the women had done grandly in helping to pay for the recent alterations and afterwards in furnishing the church. As the mantel and heating apparatus was really needed in the parlor, the men of the congregation decided to secure them and placed them in position entirely unbeknown to the women.

C. M. Thorpe, a member of the consistory, selected a beautiful mantel of antique oak, with large oval mirror above, from the large stock at his store on Park avenue. To this was attached one of the latest style of gas logs, and hot water heaters, something entirely new, that Mr. Thorpe hopes to place in many Plainfield homes, as it is decidedly the best heater of the day. The entire expense of the mantel and heating attachment will be paid by the men of the congregation.

The first the women of the congregation knew that anything out of the ordinary was to take place was last Sunday when the pastor read a notice asking them to be present at the prayer meeting Wednesday evening, stating that an important announcement would be made after the service. In response to the request there was an unusually large attendance at the meeting last evening

Before the benediction was pronounced the women were asked to tarry a little after the meeting and meet the men in the parlors After the closing words of the pastor, as everybody rose and turned to go out the sliding doors separating the parlor from the lecture room were rolled back and the beautiful mantel with the cheerful grate fire below greeted them.

The parlors were quickly filled and congratulations and thanks were showered on the men for their beautiful gift. The enthusiasm rose so high that E. E. Anthony was compelled to mount a chair and make a short humorous and patriotic speech in which he presented the mantel and gas-log to the women in the name of the men of the congregation.

Another Industry for Lincoln.
(Special to The Daily Press.

Lincoln, April 28.—Notwithstanding the uncertainity in business circles occasioned by the war, Mayor Drake is still hustling and today announces that he has induced the Palmer & Myers Company, of Brooklyn, manufacturers of glass jars, to move their factory to Lincoln. A building 200x300 will be put up, in which several hundred men will be employed This company had received an offer from the New Brunswick Board of Trade, but gave them the go by for Lincoln.

Of Interest to Teachers.

The State Board of Education has a bureau of information for teachers and school officers. Its object is to serve as a connecting link between supply and demand in our educational field; to give our teachers and school boards intelligent and disinterested service free of charge, and, as far as possible, to be instrumental in securing for boards of education the most acceptable service obtainable, and for the teacher the position to which he is best adapted. Copies of a circular and forms of application may be obtained of County Supt. Mets, of Somerville.

NOW FOR THE ARGUMENT.

THE MILL OWNERS CASE DRAWING TO A CLOSE IN SOMERVILLE.

The Defense Will Finish its Side Today and Then the Lawyers Will Sum Up—The Contention is a Test One.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 28.—The case of Harper, Hollingsworth & Company against the Mountain Water Company was continued yesterday, and a number of witnesses for the defense were placed on the stand. Among them were: Manager Bassett, of the company; County Engineer Jas. Owens, of Essex county; Engineer Thomas Mallory, of the water company; Superintendent Green and Engineer Lorenzo Oaks, of the company.

They all gave strong and substantial testimony for the defendant, showing that the water company is not responsible for the lowness of the water in the stream. They claimed that there had been less rainfall, and since 1889, when the heavy floods visited this locality, there were fewer dams to hold the water back than previously. Mr. Owens, of Essex county, gave expert testimony concerning water supplies, etc, and his evidence was quite strong.

This morning the taking of testimony was concluded and this afternoon the counsel for the plaintiff will have a little rebuttal. It is expected that the argument will commence this afternoon.

This is simply a test case and large damages are not sought as some people suppose. It is the purpose of the counsel for the plaintiff to establish the right to make the water company stop using the water or settle for all future use. It is the principal that is involved and if the plaintiff only secures six cent damages it will be sufficient to make the company stop. If the plaintiff wins it will probably result in the water company settling all claims that are likely to be made against them, without going to trial with other opponents.

READY TO SACRIFICE LIFE.

A Number of Plainfelders Who Have Enlisted for Active Service in Army and Navy.

The Press has already told of a number of Plainfielders who are likely to take part in the present conflict between the armed forces of the United States and Spain. There are a number of others who have started for the seat of war or are waiting to go at any moment.

Daniel Carr Main, son of Rev. A. E. Main, of Central avenue, and student in the Hahneman Medical College of Philadelphia, has passed the requisite examinations and reports today at Washington as a member of the Government Hospital corps. He left Plainfield this morning.

William Lawrence, of Sherman avenue applied at the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday for a position as an able bodied seaman in the United Navy. He successfully passed the examinations and expects to report for duty at the Navy Yard tomorrow. Lawrence is by no means new to ocean life as he has already sailed around the world and made various other long trips as a sailor.

Augustus D. Shepard, Jr., of East Front street, and Rowland Cox, Jr., of West Seventh street, are both members of Squadron A., New York's swell cavalry organization. They are now awaiting orders to go to the front with their comrades. All the members of the Squadron have volunteered to go at the first call of the President.

Henry Burdick, of Potter Hill, R. I., who has been a frequent visitor in this city and has a host of friends here, is one of the students at Brown University who have volunteered as members of the infantry batallion that is to go from that institution.

To Meet a Telephone Representative.

The streets and sewer committe of the city council will meet this evening and hold a conference with a representative of the Home Telephone Company, of Trenton. This concern has asked for a franchise to install its system in this city.

Will Apply for a Franchise.

The Plainfield Street Railway will probably make application at the regular meeting of the Common Council Monday night for a franchise to allow the company to connect its present lines with the proposed Scotch Plains line.

JURY FOR MURDER CASE.

SPECIAL PANEL OF FORTY-EIGHT DRAWN BY SHERIFF KIRK.

The Trial of Roesel and Manshanda Begins Next Wednesday, and the State is Guarding Against Irregularties.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 28.—There was a second drawing of the petit jurors for the May term in the special session of court yesterday. Sheriff Kirk in the presence of Judge Vail selected 48 jurors from the panel of 54 drawn four weeks ago. This procedure is new for this county, and was taken at the request of Prosecutor English in order that there could be no exception taken by the counsel for Roesel and Manshanda, the murderers of Farmer Pitts, whose trial will begin Wednesday next.

The law requires that the State shall two days before a murder trial serve on the accused a list of a panel of 48 jurors. This was not done in the case of John Freehill, who murdered Policeman Alfred Jewell in Rahway, and his counsel, Craig A. Marsh, made a point of it in behalf of the defense, and was granted by the court an exception to be settled by the court of errors. The verdict against Freehill was for murder in the second degree, and it was satisfactory to the prisoner. In consequence the exception was not pressed.

Lawyer Marsh is counsel for Manshanda, and Prosecutor English did not wish to take any risks of a mistrial in the Summit case.

Judge Vail sustained the position the State had taken, and the drawing of the special panel from the 54 was ordered.

The following were drawn for Plainfield and vicinity:

Plainfield—John T. Odam, Peter W. Mundy, Floyd D. Fuller, Bethule T. Barnes, W. H. Drayton.

Springfield—Geo. W. French, Chas. F. Langenham.

Fanwood—Lewis E. Kennedy.

New Providence—Leander D. Osborn.

Westfield—Augustus Brown, Alfred Ganzel, Joseph A. Fairborn.

Cranford—George W. Westervelt.

JERRY'S UNIFORM RIPPED.

The Aggressive Cop Encountered a Rather Demonstrative Prisoner.

There isn't any member of the Plainfield police force that manages to get into so much trouble as Patrolman Jerry Cash.

Mrs. Lottie Halands, the name of a fiery Amazon of Plainfield avenue was going to her work when she entered into a wordy encounter with a four-year-old youngster. Mrs. Halands spanked the girl. Then the nine-year old brother of the defeated one came to her rescue. Mrs. Halands smacked him until he howled with pain. Then Jerry Cash happened upon the scene.

Cash ordered the colored woman to depart and attempted to accelerate it with a push. She started for Jerry. There was sound of ripping and tearing. Jerry conquered, but his coat and clothing was sadly ripped. He marched his prisoner to the lockup.

This morning Mrs. Halands cowered before the stern glance of the Judge and pleaded guilty. She was fined $8 or ordered to jail for twenty days. It was her first offence.

The Mayor Warned Him.

Mrs. Delia Busher, a Grecian, and Benjamin Vandervoort, colored, residents of Jenning's lane, near the mountain, appeared in the borough court this morning. Vandervoort was the defendant. The woman claimed that he was intoxicated and attempted to assault her. She had him arrested on a warrant. Mayor Wilson heard the story of both parties and decided to fine Vandervoort $5 The amount was paid, and His Honor warned him not to come in court again or he would get the full penalty.

New Clubhouse Started.

The framework for the new clubhouse of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has been put up. It can now be seen from Park avenue. The clubhouse is to stand on the side of the hill from where an excellent view of all the surrounding country can be obtained. The site is well chosen.

Fire Department Improvements.

It is the intention of the fire and building committee of the Council to make several improvements in the fire department this year. Some of the apparatus is to be painted and put in good shape, and several first-class fire lanterns will be purchased, no doubt, if they are greatly needed.

Electric Wires Underground.

The Plainfield Electric Light Company is desirous of placing the wires of the company underground If possible the work should be done while the telephone company are engaged in doing the same work with their wires.

COMMUTERS DON'T LIKE TO DO JURY DUTY.

When Called They Ask the City Judge to Be Released.

SOME REQUESTS GRANTED.

MALACHI WATSON'S CASE CALLED THIS MORNING.

Trial Started in Council Chambers, but After Joseph Block, the Principal Witness for the City Had Been Called, the Lawyers for the Defense Were Granted an Adjournment on Account of the Absence of Important Witnesses for Their Side—The Jury Selected Composed of Well-Known Men.

There was an influx of prominent citizens and commuters at the City Judge's office yesterday. The cause of it all was that they wanted to be excused from jury duty. A few requests were granted. A number had been called to serve on the jury at the trial of Malachi Watson, for alleged violation of the excise ordinances, this morning. After considerable trouble a jury was gotten together. The trial started in the Council chambers this morning, but came to an unexpected termination.

Watson appeared with his legal counsel, Codington & Swackhamer. Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh appeared for the city. City Judge DeMeza was on the bench. The following jury was sworn: J. Howard Leggett, Thomas Minford, Thomas A. Cuming, Frank Bushnell, George A Chapman, Garrett Q. Packer, J T. Vail, Harry Manning, Frederick K. Fish, G. W. V. Moy, Geo. W. Rockfellow and Curtis M. Thorpe.

Joseph Block, the principal witness for the prosecution, was placed on the stand and the examination begun when former Judge Codington presented an affidavit stating that one of their most important witnesses for the defense was out of the State and asking for an adjournment for that reason. There was a wordy tilt between the counsel and then Mr. Marsh withdrew his objection to an adjournment when Mr. Codington gave his word that the witness directly related to the guilt or innocence of the prisoner and that he would go to trial in three weeks.

Judge DeMeza then adjourned the case for three weeks and dismissed the jury.

WEDDED IN BROOKLYN.

A Former Plainfield Girl Becomes a Wife.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Brooklyn, April 28—Last evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Voorhees, No. 173 Decatur street, took place the marriage of their youngest daughter, Miss Nellie Louise Voorhees, to Charles Whitely Veitch, also of this city. The beautiful home was thronged with relatives and friends of the happy couple, and the decorations were unusually pretty.

The ceremony of the Episcopal church was performed by Rev. Dr. Nels, pastor of the Church of the Epiphany, Brooklyn. The bride was attended by Miss Sadie Henderson as maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Bach served as flower girl. The best man was Franklin Jones. The ushers were Chester Franklin and William J. Phillips.

The bride wore a gown of white silk, en train. She also wore a veil, and was greatly admired for her beauty and personal charm. During the reception which followed an orchestra discoursed favorite selections. The wedding supper was replete in every particular.

Mr. and Mrs. Veitch left during the evening for Savannah, Ga., where they will spend a portion of their honeymoon. On their return they will live in Brooklyn. The bride and her parents were former residents of Plainfield, and the many friends of the bride will wish her and her husband much joy and success in their married life. They were well remembered with presents of beauty and usefulness. Those from Plainfield who witnessed the marriage were Miss Mabelle Force, Miss Cora Laire, L. Warren Randolph and Russell Johnson.

TO FIGHT AT MANILA

Spanish Fleet Sails to Meet Our Asiatic Squadron.

BATTLE WILL OCCUR SOON

Admiral Dewey's Vessels Had Not Been Sighted When the Spanish Fleet Got Away—A Spanish Gunboat Arrives at Iloilo With the American Ship Saranac, Laden With Coal, as a Prize.

Madrid, April 28.—An official dispatch from Manila announces that the Spanish fleet has sailed to take up its positions to meet the United States squadron.

The latter had not been sighted when the cable message was sent, but the American warships were expected at any moment.

At 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Governor of Manila telegraphed that an engagement between the Spanish and American squadrons was hourly expected.

An American Bark Seized.

Madrid, April 28.—An official dispatch from Manila, capital of the Philippine Islands, says that the Governor of Iloilo, Philippine Islands, announces that the Spanish gunboat Elcano has arrived there, having captured the American bark, Saranac, Captain Bartaby, from Newcastle, N. S. W., on February 26 for Iloilo. The Saranac had 1,640 tons of coal on board.

The American bark Saranac, said to have been captured by a Spanish gunboat in the waters of the Philippine Islands, was built at Kennebunk, Me., and is owned by William Simpson, Jr., of New York.

EAGER FOR A CLASH.

Dewey Has All His Ships Stripped for the Struggle That Is at Hand.

Mirs Bay, Coast of China, April 28.—The American fleet sailed for Manila, the capital of the Philippine Islands, yesterday afternoon. Commoder Dewey had all his ships cleared for action and ready for a fight. His orders from Washington are reported to be to capture the Spanish fleet now at Manila, but not to bombard the town.

It is believed on the flagship that an engagement with the Spanish fleet will occur on Saturday, as Manila is about sixty hours' sail from here.

Consul Wildman, of Hong Kong, boarded the flagship at the last moment with important dispatches from the Navy Department containing the final orders for the fleet, and accompanying him was the rebel General Aligandrino, who goes with the rebel fleet to open up communications with the rebels ashore.

Consul O. F. Williams, of Manila, will go on the cruiser Baltimore.

Late news from Manila says the Spaniards have received ammunition and torpedoes by the steamship Isla de Cuba, which also brought the newly appointed Governor-General.

The primary object is capture of the Spanish fleet, which Commodore Dewey thinks more important than capturing Manila. He is determined to prevent its preying upon American vessels. On reaching Manila he will demand its capitulation within half an hour of his arrival. His men are in the the best of spirits and excellent health.

EXPECTED BATTLE IN THREE DAYS.

Spanish Admiral Takes Up a Position for Fighting.

London, April 28.—According to a special dispatch from Madrid, Admiral Bermejo, has received a cipher message from Admiral Montejo, in command at Manila, announcing that after taking the measures necessary to organize the naval defenses of Manilo and Cavite, he was about to sail with his squadron to take up a position and await the coming of the United States fleet.

The Minister of Marine, the special dispatch continues, forthwith communicated with Premier Sagasta, who summoned the Minister of War, General Correa, and the three Ministers held a conference. Shortly afterward another dispatch arrived from the Captain-General of the Philippine Islands, detailing the military measures he is taking to support the action of the Spanish squadron, and to defend Manila, Cavite and other places against any American attempt to land in combination with the insurgents.

The Minister of Marine expressed the belief that the United States squadron would reach Manila in about sixty hours, and a battle, therefore, is expected in about three days.

The naval men here who are acquainted with the Philippine Islands believe the Spanish squadron will take up positions near Cavite, so as to be supported by the batteries there and at Manila.

The United States Asiatic Squadron, mobilized at Mirs Bay, China, consists of the flagship Olympia, one of the best cruisers afloat, Captain C. V. Gridley, Rear Admiral George Dewey, commander-in-Chief; the cruiser Baltimore, Captain Frank Wildiez; the cruiser Concord, Commander Asa Walker; the cruiser Raleigh, Captain J. B. Coghlan; the gunboat Petrel, Commander E. P. Wood; the steamer Nanshan, storeship; the steamer Zafiro, collier.

The Spanish fleet at the Philippine Islands may be able to resist the United States fleet for a short time with the assistance of the guns from the Spanish forts; but otherwise, the American vessels would make very short work of the Spanish squadron, which consists of the following vessels:

The cruiser Reina Cristina, the cruiser Castilla, the cruiser Velasco, the cruiser Don Juan de Austria, the gunboat Paraguay, the gunboat Ulloa, the gunboat El Cano, the gunboat General Lezo, the gunboat Marquez del Duero, the transport General Alava, the transport Manila and the transport Cebu.

25,000 Rebels at the Gates.

Hong Kong, April 28.—The insurgents have captured everything in the Philippines outside of Manila and are now at the gates of the city, 25,000 strong, ready for the final charge as soon as the American fleet arrives. The land attack upon the city will be simultaneous with the bombardment by the fleet.

Late last night a dispatch was received reporting that the Spanish fleet had sailed to meet Commodore Dewey's squadron. The inference is drawn that Manila being defenseless, the Spaniards thought it better to force an engagement at sea.

The United States operations against the Philippine Islands account for the revived intense bitterness of the German press. It is well understood that Germany has long had an eye on those islands, intending to grab them when the Spanish break-up should come. Now she is afraid the United States will capture and retain them.

Many Spanish vessels are leaving Manila with passengers and treasure and the Americans are anticipating the capture of rich prizes.

According to advices from Kong Kong the steamship Esmeralda, which arrived in that port from Manila Tuesday, brought Consul-General Williams, 600 refugees and a large number of insurgents. Many of the insurgents will return to Manila with the American warships.

Mr. Williams reported that the fortifications were practically useless, the guns of obsolete types and the ammunition very scarce. Guns have been removed from the Spanish war vessels in Manila harbor and mounted on land to assist the defenses.

Every dispatch from the Philippine Islands reports that the insurgents are very active in anticipation of the early arrival of assistance from the United States fleet.

It is expected that they will attack Manila as soon as Admiral Dewey's fleet is sighted. The Spaniards are aware of the probability of the insurgents joining in the attack, and have of the probability of the insurgents joining in the attack, and have made efforts to forestall such a movement. The Government at Madrid has received an official announcement of an intended bombardment of Manila by Admiral Dewey's warships, and the dispatch added that the inhabitants were preparing enthusiastically to resist the American fleet.

Warm Reception Being Prepared.

Madrid, April 28.—The Liberal reminds General Fitzhugh Lee that "five days have elapsed of the fifteen he prophesied would suffice to drive the Spaniards out of Cuba," and asks, "in view of the little progress made, whether General Lee had not miscalculated."

Continuing, the Liberal says:

"It appears that a coup-de-main upon Manila is now intended, but the Spaniards are quite confident that the result will be disastrous to the Americans. There is great enthusiasm at Manila, where 6,000 volunteers have enrolled and a warm reception is being prepared for the Americans."

In conclusion, the Liberal prophesies that friction will arise, owing to American "intrusion in the waters of the Far East, where the European powers and Japan have barely succeeded in establishing a modus vivendi, and where European merchant ships swarm."

The Liberal likens the United States squadron to "a dog among nine pins."

THREE MORE PRIZE SHIPS.

The Spanish Vessel Bolivar the Prey of the Terror.

Key West, April 28.—The Spanish coastwise vessel Bolivar has fallen a prize to the American blockading fleet. She tried to run into the harbor of Cardenas. She was spied by the crew of the monitor Terror, which was patrolling the coast at that point.

The Spaniard disregarded the monitor's signals to stop, and the Terror sent a small shot across her bows, compelling her to heave to. A prize crew was sent aboard the boat from the monitor. The cruiser Detroit towed the prize into his port yesterday.

Another steamer was taken at the same time. She was the Norwegian vessel Uto, from Philadelphia for Cardenas, with coal. The ship's papers called her destination France, so because of this irregularity the Terror made her come to Key West, threatening to send a torpedo boat after her. The Uto obeyed.

The Bolivar carried twenty-six passengers, and they were all greatly frightened when the boat was fired on by the Terror. The Bolivar was bound from Port Limon for Havana. Her cargo consisted of bananas, and $40,000 in specie was also aboard.

All the passengers and crew, except the captain and chief engineer, were landed at Cardenas. The two officers were brought here.

The captain of the steamer cried all night and begged Martin to kill him. He tried to buy a revolver from the prize crew, having been disarmed, as he wanted to commit suicide.

The lighthouse tender Mangrove claims the entire prize money of the steamer Panama. The Mangrove stopped the Panama at 6 o'clock in the evening, a full hour before the battle ship Indiana arrived. The prize money, if restricted to the small crew of the Mangrove, would amount to $20,000 apiece for every man on board.

SPAIN MAKES AN OFFER

Wants to Exchange Captured Ships—Would Have Foreign Board Arrange It.

Washington, April 28.—Spain has made a proopsition to the State Department through the French Ambassador, who is acting for her since Minister Polo departed, for an exchange of captured vessels. She proposes the formation of a board of exchange to be made up of representatives of foreign countries.

Nothing has been done in the matter by the department.

Cushing Not Fired Upon.

Key West, Fla., April 28.—The report that the torpedo boat Cushing had been fired upon and injured by the Spanish gunboat Licergia, off Cardenas, has no foundation. The Cushing's starboard engine was wrecked, it is said, through the error of Naval Cadet Boyd, who subjected the torpedo boat to too severe a strain. She has been at the dock here for two days past, and it is said the repairs on her will take a month to complete.

OUR FIRST SEA FIGHT

American Torpedo Boat Fired on a Spanish Gunboat.

OUR BOAT WAS DAMAGED

The Spanish Vessel Answering the Attack With Eleven Shots—Spanish Mail Steamer Montserrat, With Ammunition and Three Millions in Silver, Said to Have Arrived at Cienfuegos in Safety.

Havana, April 28.—The Spanish gunboat Ligera, it is announced here, encountered, at Cayo Piedra, near Cardenas, not far from Matanzas, an American torpedo boat destroyer, which opened fire on the Spanish warship.

The gunboat, it is added, answered with eleven shots. It is claimed that the American destroyer was damaged and retreated.

Dispatches from Matanzas say an American torpedo boat destroyer has twice entered the port of Motanzas. The second time, it is added, six shots were fired at her and she retired.

The Spanish steamer Montserrat, from Cadiz on April 10, via Las Palmas on April 13, for Havana, has arrived, it is announced, safely at Cienfuegos. She had on board $3,000,000 in silver and a quantity of ammunition.

The Spanish coasting steamer Cosme Herrerra, which ran the blockade on Saturday last, is, it appears, not the only vessel to have reached this port since the blockade was established, as the arrival of the steamer Aviles, from Nuevitas, is also reported.

It is announced from Cayo Frances, near Calbarien, that two United States monitors captured two schooners loaded with coal, but discovering that they were German vessels, they were released.

It is officially announced that the insurgent Brigadier-General Masso has been authorized to form a division of natives to fight against the United States troops.

The Spanish officials say that the well-known insurgent leader Juan Delgado, with seventeen of his followers, has been killed near Cano.

The local newspapers publish what they believe to be the names of the vessels composing the United States blockading fleet, and, incidentally, they refer to the Dauntless, now the dispatch boat of the Associated Press, which gave the Spaniards so much trouble, it is claimed, landing filibustering expeditions on the coast of Cuba.

The situation here is one of expectation and quiet, patriotic enthusiasm, combined with a desire, upon the part of the Spaniards, for the opening of real hostilities.

SPAIN'S FLEET COMING!

Said to Have Been to Sea for Some Days—Expected to Bombard American Towns.

London, April 28.—It is reported here from Madrid that the destination of the Spanish fleet, which is said to have been at sea for some days, is unknown to any one but the Minister of Marine, Admiral Bermejo.

But, it is added, news is expected before long of the bombardment of American coast towns.

The reports from Madrid also say that the Spanish naval authorities are satisfied that Spain can easily force the blockade of Cuba, when she desires to do so.

In the meanwhile, as the Governors of Porto Rico and Cuba have advised the Spanish Government that they do not need the fleet, the government has decided to "utilize the warships elsewhere."

St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, April 28.—The Spanish fleet is still here, awaiting orders. The sailors are not being exercised.

Lisbon, April 28.—The State Council meets to-day in order to decree the neutrality of Portugal during the war between Spain and the United States, after which the Spanish fleet must leave the Cape Verde Islands. In view of this, it is announced, several Portuguese warships have started or are about to start, for the Cape Verde Islands.

EIGHT POWERS ARE NEUTRAL.

Four of the Six Great Nations of Europe Have Issued Proclamations.

Washington, April 28.—The following powers have proclaimed their neutrality: Italy, The Netherlands, Switzerland, Norway and Sweden, Russia, Colombia, Great Britain, France.

This includes four of the six great powers of Europe. Germany and Austria are still silent as to their intentions.

Portugal, which owns the Cape Verde Islands, the Azores and the Madeiras, will probably declare neutrality to-day.

Hope to Be Taken All Together.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 28.—Governor Hastings and Adjutant-General Stewart returned from Washington last evening. They have asked Secretary Alger to modify the call for troops so the guard of the State can go into the service intact. It is expected this will be done. The Governor has urged President McKinley to appoint General Snowden as Major-General of the Pennsylvania troops and Generals Gobin, Schall and Wiley brigadier-generals. These officers have commanded the entire State troops together in camp many times. The troops are gathering at Mount Gretna as rapidly as possible.

Louisiana's Novel Regiment.

Washington, April 28.—The Secretary of War has received an offer of a regiment of Louisiana composed entirely of men who are considered immune from yellow fever, and therefore especially well fitted to fight in Cuba in the summer season. Every member of the regiment has had the disease within a year or two. The commander of the regiment is Colonel Hood, son of the late Major-General J. B. Hood, of the Confederate army. Colonel Hood adds that he can raise two additional regiments of immunes if the government desires them.

Chronic Kickers

Some in Every Household in Plainfield, But They're Growing Less.

Chronic kickers the kidneys are when they're sick.

What makes the kidneys sick? A simple thing.

They have too much to do.

Must keep up their work; they never rest.

Can't blame them for kicking.

Ever have your kidneys kick?

Ever have a bad back, a lame, weak or aching one!

Know it's the same thing?

The back aches because the kidneys are blocked.

Help the kidneys with their work.

The back will ache no more.

Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

It's the best proof, for it comes from Plainfield

Citizens, read this case in point.

Mrs. W. W Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue, says: "Ever since the birth of my last child I have suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping, my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling very bad last spring when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I go a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effects in a few days, and when I had finished the one box my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend to my household duties. Doan's Kidney Pills have my endorsement and I am always pleased to recommend them."

WARSHIPS ON THE WAY

Small Spanish Flotilla Headed for These Shores.

HOW THEY WILL BE MET

Battleship Pelayo, the Cruiser Emperador Carlos V. and Three Torpedo Boats Sighted Steaming Westward Across the Atlantic—Destination Unknown—Spanish Cruiser Waiting to Move Upon the American Liner Paris.

New York, April 28.—Spain's latest move in the North Atlantic game is indicated by advices received from European ports. Her cruiser Emperador Carlos V., which was the principal warship assigned to pursue the American liner Paris, has been sighted in the Atlantic lone of traffic coming westward at full speed. She was about 500 miles west of Queenstown on Sunday morning last when she passed the Belgian steamship Pennland, from Philadelphia for Liverpool. She did not attempt to molest the Pennland.

If the Paris had taken her usual course after she was reported as passing the Lizard at midnight on Friday, she would have been but little ahead of the Carlos V. The Pennland, however, did not sight the American liner.

The Paris was seen, however, at 4 o'clock on Monday morning by the White Star liner Majestic, which arrived at Queenstown yesterday. At that time the Paris was in latitude 48.52, longitude 29.6. She was in direct line, about 830 miles west of Queenstown. Whether or not she had followed a circuitous course is not known, but she had escaped the first trap set by the Spaniards for her capture.

The Majestic also reports what may possibly be the American liner's next danger. A battleship and three torpedo boats were sighted at midnight on Saturday. They were then coming west and were about 1,700 miles this side of Queenstown.

These are without doubt the Spanish battleship Pelayo, which was lately reported to have sailed from Spain to join the flotilla at St. Vincent, Cape de Verde Islands, together with her accompanying topedo boats. Whether they will enter the port of Halifax or lie in wait for the Paris is not known.

American line officers decline, of course, to disclose the secret instructions given to Captain Watkins with regard to the course of the Paris as she nears the American coast. She was far off her usual course when she passed the Majestic, and it is hardly possible that she will reach Sandy Hook to-morrow, the day on which, under ordinary circumstances, her present trip would end.

A Spanish cruiser, according to dispatches from Kingston, Jamaica, is now lying off that port, and is apparently waiting to move upon the Paris as she approaches the American coast.

Spanish warships may sweep the Atlantic without sighting the Stars and Stripes on any merchant steamships after the Paris reaches port. All that is known to remain in present danger are the clipper ship Shenandoah, hailing from San Francisco, and carrying 4,800 tons of wheat to Liverpool, and the small number of sailing vessels that are off the coast of Europe. Four private yachts flying the flag of the United States are said to be in Mediterranean waters.

The long delay of Spain's principal fleet at the Cape de Verde Islands is regarded as a blind to distract attention from the movements of the Pelayo and the Carlos V.

In case of attack at any point on the New England or Middle Atlantic coast, Spain's ships will have to meet the armored vessels Texas, Massachusetts and Brooklyn of the flying squadron, under Commodore Schley, as well as the San Francisco and New Orleans and the cruisers of Commodore Howell's patrol squadron.

As there is a United States Consul at the coaling station of St. Vincent, to which the Pelayo was supposed to have sailed, the Administration may wait to hear from him before preparing for the hostile vessel's apearance in waters nearer home.

Discredited in Washington.

Washington, April 28.—The Navy Department is paying little attention to reports from Madrid about the movement of Spanish fleets in this direction. If all the fleets that have been reported as having sailed from Cadiz alone for the purpose of harrying our country, and especially for the avowed object of shelling New York, were on the ocean at this time, there would be no room for the operations of American squadrons on the high seas. These reports are made one day and denied or replaced by others more exciting and more mendacious the next morning.

Spaniards to Be Starved Out.

Richmond, Va., April 28.—General Lee, who is still here waiting orders from Washington, says that the Spanish army in Cuba will be forced to evacuate without the necessity of the United States sending troops there. The blockade will prevent any provisions or other aid from reaching the Spanish army on the island. The Spanish fleet, General Lee says, is too far from the base of operations to reach there. They cannot procure coal for steaming purposes en route, nor can they obtain it even in Cuba. The coal regions of the island are in possession of the insurgents, and cannot be reached by the Spanish.

Care for Soldiers Families.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 28.—At a meeting of the Department of Safety officials steps were taken to re-establish the sanitary commission which performed such effective service during the rebellion. All soldiers passing through this city are assured in advance that their needs and comforts will be looked after in the same hospitable manner which made Pittsburg famous throughout the country in 1861-65. The commission will be appointed by councils. The intention is to care for the families of local soldiers and see that none suffers through the absence of the bread winners at the front.

BOND ISSUE FOR $100,000,000.

Secretary Gage Says It Will Be Made in a Few Days.

New York, April 28.—Secretary of the Treasury Lyman G. Gage, attended the banquet given by the trustees of the Grant Mounment Fund at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel last evening. Mr. Gage has personally been feeling the sentiment of Wall street and the banking interests in regard to the bond issue which he expects will be made within the next thirty days. He talked freely of the terms on which he thinks the bonds should be issued, when he was seen at the Waldorf-Astoria.

"I did not come to New York primarily to arrange for floating the bonds," he said, "but while I am here, I will consult with the bankers as to what they consider the best method for floating the issue. In my opinion bonds will have to be issued within the next thirty days. Probably $100,000,000 worth will be offered to the public in that time.

"The question as to the form of these bonds is causing much discussion. I believe that we should adhere to the present form. I am led to conclude that a change in form at the present is decidedly inadvisable for many reasons.

"If, as proposed, these bonds should be made payable in gold, it would always be said that the Republican party had taken advantage of a national emergency to secure recognition of the gold standard. While the provisions for maintaining our various kinds of currency at par with gold are not as complete as they should be there is a better way of making them so than by bringing up the gold question now.

"The cause for which this money is to be borrowed is a popular one, and the people are willing to bear taxes for its sake. While it might be possible to save a small amount of interest if the bonds were made payable in gold, I believe it is better not to complicate the question by such a proposition at this time. It would be better to let the proposed bonds stand upon the same basis as other public obligations, and remain identified with all the private obligations of our people."

OFFER GOVERNMENT AID.

Wealthy New Yorkers Ready with Financial Gifts—Miss Helen Gould's Generosity.

Washington, April 28.—Among the offers received by the President this week from patriotic citizens all over the country for aid to the government was a letter from Miss Helen Gould, of New York, offering the gift of one hundred thousand dollars to the United States. In her letter to the President Miss Gould says she is willing at any time to double the amount if the government desires it. The generous offer of Miss Gould has been acknowledged by the President, as have been also a number of letters containing indications of desires to make presents to the government.

Since Mr. Charles A. Moore, president of the Continental Life Insurance Company of New York, offered to become one of a number to subscribe a thousand dollars to a fund for the government, the mail at the White House has been full of letters from prominent and patriotic citizens all over the country saying that they would subscribe and asking that the fund be started. These, like other offers of money, have all been acknowledged, but not accepted as yet.

Mr. Jonn Jacob Astor, of New York, who offered on Saturday to raise, equip and put in the field a regiment at his own expense, spent some time within the last few days at the War Department receiving information from the officials in regard to carrying out his project. He has been given all the data required as to the uniforms, equipment, guns and other war munitions necessary, and where to purchase them. Mr. Astor has gone to New York to complete his arrangements for raising his regiment.

Wanamaker to be Colonel.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 28.—It is said to be the intention of Governor Hastings to form a new Pennsylvania National Guard as soon as the present Guard, now assembling at Mount Gretna, is mustered into the regular service. The services of the thousands of men who have already volunteered for national defense will be utilized in the formation of the new Guard. The Governor will issue a colonel's commission to John Wanamaker, who has offered to equip a regiment at his own expense.

Predict a Short War.

Odessa, Russia, April 28.—The Russian newspapers largely sympathize with Spain and express the belief that if the United States fails to gain a signal naval victory soon Spain's honor will be saved and Europe will insist upon the latter's capitulation in order to prevent the loss which commerce must suffer through privateering. Enormous quantities of grain have been sold to Spain.

Government Will Pay the Bills.

Washington, April 28.—The War Department has issued an order assuming payment of all necessary expenses for subsistence, transportation, sheltering, etc., of the volunteers between their enlistment and mustering into the Federal service. In many States there is no fund for mobilizing troops, and this order will avert delay.

Some cough mixtures smother the cough. But the next breeze fans it into life again.

Better put the cough out.

That is, better go deeper and smother the fires of inflammation. Troches cannot do this. Neither can plain cod-liver oil.

But Scott's Emulsion can. The glycerine soothes and makes comfortable; the hypophosphites give power and stability to the nerves; and the oil feeds and strengthens the weakened tissues.

KEY WEST, Fla., April 28. — The New York, Puritan and Cincinnati bombarded the forts at Matanzas yesterday afternoon.

The engagement began at 12:45 and closed at 1:15. There were no casualities on the American side.

Great damage is known to have been done to Matanzas, and it is believed there was loss of life.

TO REBUILD POWDER WORKS.

Manufacture of Smokeless Powder Will Soon Be Resumed in California.

San Francisco, April 28.—Within three weeks the California Powder Company, the works of which in the Santa Cruz mountains blew up last evening, will be able to resume the manufacture of smokeless powder. This statement was made by the manager of the company to-day and reassured those who believed that the explosion would cripple the Government at this particular time.

It was known that the California Powder Company's works was one of the only two factories in the United States which were making smokeless powder for the United States Army and Navy. It is said at the office of the company that only twelve employees lost their lives in the explosion. First reports had placed the loss of life as high as twenty.

The 100 tons of smokeless powder which was shipped East last week was ahead of time, and the company expects to have enough on hand for the next shipment required by the Government, notwithstanding the explosion.

SHAW ON THE STAND.

Tells His Story of Events That Occurred on Night of Murders.

Camden, N. J., April 28.—When Eli Shaw was brought into court yesterday he was cool and prepared to go on the witness stand in his own behalf. On account of the prospect of Shaw testifying there was a large gathering of women.

Shaw's counsel in his opening argument held that the State had not proven that Eli Shaw had murdered either his mother or his grandmother, and that no evidence had been produced by the State which would show conclusively that the double crime was not committed by burglars, as claimed by Shaw.

When he got on the stand Shaw told a straight and circumstantial story of the events which occurred in his house on the night of the murders, and the prosecutor made an unsuccessful attempt to shatter his testimony.

St. Paul's Guns Are in Position.

Philadelphia, April 28.—Mounting of thirty guns on the auxiliary cruiser St. Paul at Cramps' shipyard was completed yesterday. Her war paint was put on. She will be ready for scout duty on Monday. All but a small percentage of her crew will enlist in the American navy. The St. Paul will leave Cramps' on Sunday, and will sail "light" to a point in Delaware Bay for coal.

Soldiers' Pay.

Governor Voorhees cannot be accused of extravagence when he asserts that the members of the National Guard ought to receive better compensation for service in the army than $13 a month.

Some may argue that true patriotism should disregard the matter of pay when the Nation's stability and honor is at stake. That is quite true under certain circumstances. If this glorious country was on its last legs, devoid of credit and hampered as to resources, there would be reason and justice in demanding soldiers to fight our battles with meagre pay, but since such is not the case it seems to be the proper thing to compensate them at a rate of pay greater than fifty cents a day in excess of their keep.

The average members of the various State militia companies who have been called on as the first volunteers in the war with Spain are men who will undergo not a little loss in going into service.

Many of them are men with families who even in their most prosperous times earned scarcely more than what they needed to live on. Certainly it is that the militiamen of this class ought not be expected to enter into active service, leaving their families to shift for themselves—perhaps temporarily and as likely as not for all time if a Spanish bullet should strike a vital spot in their bodies. In such cases a man's patriotism is determined by his intention and effort to care for his family comfortably quite as much as it is by offering his life's blood on the battlefield. And no man can perform these duties as a citizen on $13 a month.

Others there are who will be compelled to relinquish good positions which they have only attained after years of studious and honest endeavor. Their withdrawl from the competitive business world will make better opportunities for the ones that stay at home, so that any claims the latter class may make against an increase of soldiers' pay on account of extraordinary expenses for the conduct of war in a general way, are counterbalanced by the benefits they receive commercially by the very conditions that argue the increase in pay.

The Regular and Volunteer Armies.

Our regular army consists of 25 infantry, 10 cavalry and 7 artillery regiments. The first call for volunteers will be for 80,000 men. The organized national guard will have the first opportunity to volunteer through the governors of their respective states. There are 114,000 of these militiamen in all the states and territories, and it is believed that the whole quota of 80,000 will be made up from them. Members of the national guard who do not want to fight must resign from their regiments. There will not be many of these peace soldiers, however.

Governors of the states have the right to appoint all regimental officers. The president of the United States appoints all field and staff officers. The militiamen will consider it a great and glorious pleasure to risk their lives whipping the Spaniard out of the western hemisphere.

Of the regiments of our little regular army infantry two will not have the pleasure of going to Cuba. One of them must stay in Alaska, the other along the Mexican border, in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, to watch for bands of marauding Spaniards who attempt guerrilla warfare from that side. Four regular cavalry regiments remain in the west and southwest. Artillery work will be more needed in Cuba than that of cavalry. Our country has an advantage not possessed by it in the last war. We have experienced generals who took part in that war at the head of the force at every point whence a move forward is to be made.

Athletic Suicide.

Not one person in a hundred takes proper physical exercise, even of those who perform manual labor. The farmer uses excessively one or two sets of muscles, stiffening these up and rendering them useless, while the rest shrivel and become small from not being used at all. The washerwoman does the same thing. So does as a rule the acrobat who performs feats of strength.

Such people are perhaps to be pitied more than blamed for their ignorance. The harmonious and regular exercise of all the muscles of the body will go far to prevent men and women from ever growing old if they only knew it. That their joints and muscles stiffen up and grow rheumatic is the result of nonexercise and infiltration of fat and limy substances.

Criminally guilty, however, are, on the other hand, those who exercise themselves to death, as the man did that recently died of consumption from riding 100 miles a day on a bicycle for 60 consecutive days. He was an athlete when he began, and he was an emaciated consumptive when his disgusted spirit fled and left lying in a hospital the body he had abused. Several instances are on record recently of men who have exercised themselves to death just to say they had beaten all others. Physical exercise properly taken is health, comeliness and salvation. Those who abuse it simply to make a record are the greatest fools of even our times.

General Blanco has given orders that passenger steamers from this country to Havana will not be interfered with on their regular trips, but will be considered as sailing under a neutral flag. It is not likely many passengers will make the little pleasure trip to Havana and back just now, however. They will feel rather skittish about it. Havana is rather hot as a pleasure resort at this time, even with our raw and chilly spring weather.

The regiments of the national guard will be reorganized on the three battalion plan, which is now adopted in modern armies. Under this system a regiment consists of three battalions of 400 men each, which would require 1,200 men to a regiment instead of 1,000 as under the plan of organization in the civil war. Future militia regiments that are organized will be constructed on the three battalion plan, with 1,200 men.

"Remember the Maine" promises to become as historic as the Texan battle cry, "Remember the Alamo." It was the Spaniards who destroyed the Maine; it was men of the same cruel blood who assaulted Fort Alamo in the Texan war of independence March 6, 1836, and massacred the brave men, every one, who had held that fort, mutilating even their dead bodies and burning them.

Alfonso XIII, the little king of Spain, will be 12 years old the 17th of May. But when he is crowned king, if he ever is, Cuba, which has belonged to his country more than four centuries, will be a free and independent republic, unless it is by that time one of the sovereign states of the mighty American Union.

April is the month in which many tremendous events in American history took place. It is altogether fitting therefore that in April our war with Spain for the liberation of the Cuban republic should begin.

Of the 25 infantry regiments of the regular army all but two have been for some days in readiness at New Orleans, Mobile, Tampa, Key West and Dry Tortugas.

For the first time in history the bicycle will play an important part in warfare. Tricycles will be used to transport Maxim guns, two men to a gun.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

Benjamin Mitchell, who lives with his son, Harry Mitchell, of 828 West Third street, has a curiosity in the shape of a clay pipe. The pipe was purchased in England fourteen years ago when Mr. Mitchell sailed for Sydney, Australia. For twelve consecutive years Mr. Mitchell smoked the pipe, and it has been in his possession fourteen years. The pipe looks as good today as it did when purchased, and in addition to its use it has traveled many thousand miles.

Miss Mary Whiton, daughter of John Whiton, of Central avenue, has returned to her studies at Radcliffe College, after spending the spring vacation with her family.

STAY-AT-HOME CYCLISTS.

A NOVEL SOCIABLE HELD IN THE SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Decorations Were Inclined Towards Bicycles and Patriotism—Interesting and Original Programme Was Given.

Something of the order of a stay at-home bicycle sociable was held by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church last evening in the church parlors. Instead of going forth for a little spin, the members and their friends gathered there to enjoy a decidedly novel entertainment.

The decorations were inclined toward bicycling and patriotism. There was a variety of Spalding wheels, tandems and single wheels, grouped on the platform. Four rifles were stacked there, about which the wheels were grouped. Large American flags were hung on the walls.

The programme opened with a piano duet by the Misses Cornelia Miller and Kizzie Naegle. It was their first appearance in America, D. E. Titsworth, the master of ceremonies, explained. Then followed a "Bicycle Journal" consisting of several parts. D. E. Titsworth first read a short sketch of the origin and growth of the wheel. Then followed a series of "Loose Spokes," a group of numorous sayings about the wheel and its various riders. A vocal trio was well sung by Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, Mrs. F. T. Clawson and Miss Elizabeth Allis. Miss Jessie Utter accompanied them.

Dr. Frank Wells, who was the first purchaser of a wheel in Plainfield, had been asked to tell some of his experiences with the bicycle. He presented Robert Burdette's experiences while learning to ride as much funnier than any he had passed through. Mr. Titsworth read them.

"The Story of a Tandem," written for the occasion by Mrs. Jas. Everett Kimball, was read by Mr. Titsworth. It was a well-written little sketch of the trials and tribulations of a tandem. Miss Elizabeth Allis read a story entitled "The Major's Conversion." It was a tale of wheels and wheelmen.

After another duet by the Misses Miller and Naegle, Mr. Titsworth announced that sections of bicycles would be distributed among the audience. The recipients were requested to match them with others and find the mate to theirs and escort the holder thereof to supper. Pictures of wheels and wheelmen were cut into two sections and distributed among the audience. Then refreshments were served and a social time followed.

This decidedly novel sociable was planned by the committee in charge which consisted of Miss Ernestine Smith, chairman; Mrs. William C. Hubbard, Miss Jessie Utter, Miss Maud Mosher, Frank Maxson and LaRue Bliss.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

A beautiful silver cup which is to be presented to the champion cake walkers to appear in Music Hall Saturday night is on exhibition in Collier's jewelry store on Park avenue. Ed. Martin is rehearsing his colored artists every day now, and promises an entertainment that will equal many of the traveling companies playing at high prices.

THE COURTS.

JUSTICE NASH.

Judgments—Vail against Killoran, landlord and tenant.

Summons—Morrell against Warta, on contract, returnable May 2d.

Spencer Conway Will Sing.

Rev. Preston Ross, of Albermarle county, Va., will preach at the Calvary Baptist church tomorrow evening. Mr. Ross has many friends in Plainfield and he will be glad to see them at that time. At the close of the service Spencer Conway will sing a solo entitled "Just Come from the Fountain, Lord; His Name is so Sweet." Rev. Scott Wallace, of Belmar, will also be present and speak.

State Letter-Carriers to Meet Here.

The annual convention of the letter-carriers of New Jersey will be held in this city Decoration Day. It is expected that there will be about 150 delegates present from all parts of the State. It has been suggested and thought of that the carriers may be willing to take part in a patriotic demonstration in this city, if one is held, in connection with the raising of the flag recently presented to the city.

—An entertainment will be held this evening in Warren chapel under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, April 28.—Much comment is rife among clubmen in Westfield over the action of the board of governors of the Westfield Club in summoning a number of the members of the club to appear before it for discipline. Some weeks ago John Ris, a member of the club, was nominated for a trustee, and in accordance with the rules his name was posted on the club's bulletin. Some of the younger members, among whom Ris is said to be unpopular, scribbled uncomplimentary epithets opposite his name. Ris was elected, and the matter seemed to have been forgotten or overlooked until the last meeting of the governing board, when Ris's friends brought the matter up and insisted upon an investigation. The outcome of the matter was that letters have been sent to a number of the members suspected of having knowledge of the affair, summoning them to appear before the board. Much feeling has been stirred up by this action, and it is thought if the matter is pushed it will be taken up by the friends of the accused parties and a split in the club will result.

Spring Health.

With many people vitality reaches its lowest ebb in the spring. The heat producing foods of winter leave the system clogged with debris that ought to be removed. If all goes well nature will remove it, but it will take time and meanwhile vigor and energy will be lacking. It's wise to use a remedy like in the spring. It expels all impurity from the blood, increases the activity of the vital organs and gives health a new impulse.

Königsberg. Der frühere freireligiöse Prediger und langjährige Präsident des Bundes freier religiöser Gemeinden Deutschlands, Carl Schmidt, ist hier gestorben. Carl Schmidt war ursprünglich Jurist. Als Referendar hatte er sich der von dem ehemaligen Divisionspfarrer Dr. Rupp begründeten freien evangelischen Gemeinde angeschlossen. Auf das ihm von seinem Präsidenten gestellte Ansinnen, aus der freireligiösen Gemeinde auszuscheiden, quittirte er den Staatsdienst, erlernte das Maurerhandwerk und ist viele Jahre als Maurermeister thätig gewesen. Nach dem Tode Dr. Rupps, der sein Schwiegervater geworden, verwaltete er Jahre hindurch die Predigerstelle an den Gemeinden Königsberg und Tilsit.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Thursday, April 7th, 1898, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholder Ehrlich—1

The minutes of the previous meeting, (reading of bills being omitted), were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS, PETITIONS, ETC.

From Robert M. Boyd, Jr., as follows:

New York, March 30, 1898.

Mr. Russell Ryno.

Clerk of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Rahway N. J.

Dear Sir:—I am retained by Mr. Jesse Hazell, of Woodbridge, to present to your Honorable Board of Freeholders a claim for damages which he has against them under the following state of facts:

On February 10 last Mr. Hazell was driving in his carriage along St. George's Road from Woodbridge toward Rahway. After having crossed the bridge over the South Branch of the Rahway River which constitutes at that point the line between Union and Middlesex counties, and while still on the approach to the bridge on the Union county side, Mr. Hazell, by reason of the improper and dangerous condition of said approach, was violently thrown from his carriage and received severe wounds on the head and arms and was disabled for a considerable time from performing his duties. In addition he was put to expense for medical attendance and is not yet entirely recovered from the effects of his accident.

Mr. Hazell has the most friendly feeling toward the members of your Board individually and has no desire to assume an unreasonable or unfriendly position toward them, but this is a very serious matter and he considers himself entitled to have it brought before the Board in order that he may receive a proper sum for his injuries and damages.

Please communicate with me at your earliest convenience as to whether your Board will adjust the matter without suit,

Yours respectfully,
Robert M. Boyd, Jr.

On motion of Freeholder Brucklacher, the communication was received and referred to the committee on Legal Questions and County Attorney, together with Freeholder Farrell.

From County Attorney Codington as follows:

April 7th, 1898.

To the Board of Freeholders of Union county:

Gentlemen—Regarding the matter of Henry D. Edwards committed to the State Insane Asylum by Judge W. W. Cutler, of Morris county, I would say that I have procured from the Clerk of the Court of Morris county a copy of the testimony and proceedings in the case. And from the testimony in the case as submitted it would appear that the legal settlement of said Edwards was in Summit Township, Union county.

The proceedings have evidently been taken by virtue of the act approved March 22, 1895, page 1990, sec. 59 of the Revision, which provides, that the Court of Common Pleas upon application being made on behalf of an insane person not a pauper, may call two reputable physicians and other witnesses and fully investigate the facts in the case, and that the Court shall decide both the question as to insanity and as to legal settlement and if such patient has no legal settlement in the County, the act provides that he may be transferred to the State hospital, there to be supported at the expense of the county within which such patient has a legal settlement, or if he has no legal settlement within any county of this State, then at the expense of the State. It further provides that the said court shall cause a notice to be served on the Board of Freeholders where the patient may be decreed to have a legal settlement and that the board to whom such notice shall be sent shall at their next annual meeting raise money requisite to meet the expenses of the support of said charge. I am therefore, satisfied that said Edwards will necessarily be supported by this county unless we can disprove his settlement, in which case, of course, we can have the case reopened and the decree changed accordingly. I am,

Yours very respectfully
W. R Codington,
County Attorney.

On motion of Freeholder Roll, received and placed on file.

Freeholder Little moved, that in accordance with the forgoing opinion of the County Attorney, that the said Henry D Edwards be accepted as a charge upon this County, which was so ordered without dissent.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Legal Questions presented as approved, the bond of Charles W. Dodd, warden of the County Jail, in the sum of $5,000 00 The names of the sureties contained therein were read, after which the bond was accepted and placed on file

By the Committee of Legal Questions:

Elizabeth, N. J., April 7th, 1898

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen:—Your Committee on Legal Questions, to whom was referred the claim of Lawrence Flood of Summit, for damages received by his carriage and harness at Morris and Passaic Avenues in Summit, on November 11th, last, by reason of the washing away of a part of a culvert would respectfully report that they visited the location mentioned, and have carefully examined into all the circumstances relative to Mr. Flood's claim.

It is the judgment of the committee that Mr. Flood is entitled to the amount of damages he asked for, in which the County Attorney concurs and the committee would recommend that the claim of Ms. Flood, amount $35 00 be paid.

Signed,
Chr. Ehrlich,
John H Tier,
Jacob Brucklacher,
Committee.

Freeholder Roll moved that the report be received and its recommendation accepted, which motion on roll-call was unanimously adopted.

CHURCH MADE A CLUBHOUSE

Father Frieling's Odd Plan For Reclaiming Boys Who Are Wayward.

Rev. Herman J. Frieling, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church at Beaver Falls, Pa., believes in fighting the devil with fire. Many of the young men of his congregation had gone astray. They frequented clubs and saloons and totally neglected the work of the church. Father Frieling wondered how he could reclaim them. At last he thought of a plan.

A year ago St. Mary's congregation moved into a handsome new cathedral. Since that time the old church, a small wooden structure, has remained idle, except for an occasional bazaar or other entertainment. Why not use that and convert it into a clubhouse? Without further ado he proceeded to answer the question himself by making the transformation.

The clubroom is now in working order. There are billiard tables, pool tables and card tables, and there will be a library and reading room, as well as other features to furnish entertainment for the young men of the parish. The organization will be known officially as St. Mary's Literary and Dramatic club. Said Father Frieling:

"The object of the club is to draw young men and boys away from questionable resorts by giving them a place where they can enjoy all the games and amusements they find there, which are innocent enough in themselves so long as confined within certain limits. The first purpose of the club will be literary and educational in its nature. We will have dialogues, small dramas, recitations and essays. Music of all kinds will also be an attraction, and I propose to donate a piano out of my own funds.

"One of the strict provisions of that constitution will be that any member of St. Mary's club known to have frequented any other club or any saloon or billiard hall after having been made a member of St. Mary's club shall be summarily dismissed. By this means I hope to keep our boys from the evil associations they have learned to like and make them enjoy themselves as fully and with nobler results in our own club."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"THE WATERLOO VETERAN."

First Drama to Be Given In a Catholic Cardinal's Palace.

For the first time on record a dramatic representation is to be given within the walls of a Catholic cardinal's palace. The announcement is made that, at the request of the Catholic Social union, the general committee of which includes many members of the nobility, Sir Henry Irving has consented to give early in May next a presentation of his play, "The Waterloo Veteran," at the archbishop's house in Westminster, London, the residence of Cardinal Vaughan. The cardinal has given his consent to the programme and will himself be present on the occasion. The affair will take place in the large reception room at the palace, where seats will be provided for 350 people. The price of the tickets, which will be issued to private subscribers only, has been placed at $50 each, so that the performance will net the charity the magnificent sum of $17,500. Sir Henry Irving will be assisted by Miss Ellen Terry and the members of his company who usually take part in the presentation of "The Waterloo Veteran." — Boston Herald.

Archbishop Ireland's Discourses.

A Rome correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says: "Among other evidences of the influence and effectual presence of the American mind in Italy may be mentioned the publication of a selection of Archbishop Ireland's discourses translated into Italian. This work, which has recently appeared, is published at Milan and is entitled 'La Chiesa de la Societa Moderna' (The Church and Modern Society). It is translated from the third and latest American edition and is the only Italian translation authorized by the author, being the work of the Countess Sabina di Parravicino di Revel. In a notice prefixed to this translation Countess Parravicino writes that it is well readers should know that these discourses were not written for Italian readers, and that they have not been modified in any degree in being turned into Italian. Indeed this translation was not even submitted to the revision of the illustrious author, who only after three years' asking permitted the translation into Italian."

Mass In an Old British Church.

One of the features of the curious celebration of the two hundred and forty-ninth anniversary of the death of King Charles I in London the other day was a mass in the old Church of St. Margaret Pattens, in which is his royal banner, and whose altar cloths are wrought with his monogram. The anthem on the occasion was a collection of Old Testament texts generally supposed to refer to Christ's crucifixion, and a special hymn was sung, of which this is a stanza:

With stricken heart by proud rebellion bruised,
He found a crown of thorns in crown of gold.
Marred was his face by weeping, false accused,
Like thee, O Christ, forsaken, mocked and sold.

SAVED BY AN ARTIST.

STORY OF A PAINTING FROM NAZARETH CONVENT, BARDSTOWN, KY.

It Was Destined to Be Split Up For Kindling — Artist John Ward Dunsmore Spent a Winter In Restoring It—Is Accredited to Rubens.

Professionals and laymen alike will find a peculiar interest in a large picture recently on exhibition in Cincinnati. Whether it is a genuine Rubens entirely or in part or whether it be an example of brush work by one of that master's pupils remains to be determined. Mr. John Ward Dunsmore, who reclaimed it from the kindling wood pile at Nazareth convent, Bardstown, Ky., at odd times when the mood was on him during the winter scraped and cleaned, little by little, until the old painting stands out now in all its original beauty of color and freshness, filling the beholder with a sense of awe and wonderment—a silent tribute to the art of two centuries ago.

Every artist will recognize the subject, "Adoration of the Kings," the Virgin Mary, the Christ child in the manger, surrounded by the magi and the high priests who have journeyed to Bethlehem with their offerings of jewels and money. The picture, as it appears today, gives little evidence of what it was when turned over to Mr. Dunsmore by the venerable chaplain at Nazareth, old Father Russell.

By chance learning that some very old things had been taken down from the walls of a room in which one of the older sisters had died and thrown away as having outlived their usefulness, Mr. Dunsmore, from curiosity, asked to see a picture painted on boards which had come all apart and been sent to the kindling pile to be used for fuel in the convent furnace.

The sister who called Mr. Dunsmore's attention to the incident said she thought it a shame to burn the thing, even if it had lost all its value as a picture. Few of the sisters remembered anything that would make its identity clearer. Those who did recalled that it hung for a long time in the "poor kitchen," the place where the poor were fed. When that place was cleaned and given an overhauling last summer, the picture, which with the accumulated grease and dust of years resembled more the grimy surface of one of the pots in the scullery than anything having artistic value, was thrust out to be split up for kindling.

With some difficulty the picture in question was fished out and turned over to him. The artist, it may be explained here, has been going to the convent for some two or three years giving instruction to a class of sisters. The mother superior, known there as Cleophas, readily agreed to Mr. Dunsmore's suggestion that he bring the pieces to Cincinnati with him, where he might discover what was beneath the dirt and grime. This was last September. The pieces were sent him one day soon after his discovery, and the labor of restoration begun a little later. Unlike the work of the present day masters, this picture is painted on a plaster ground, such as was used altogether those days, and which was in turn laid on hard oak panels. The whole thing, with the four panels joined, makes a picture about 25 by 40 inches in size. When found, the panels were all bulged apart, and, indeed, only hung together by the merest chance. The wood cleats which held them when planed or cut produced a fine powder, almost flourlike in consistency. This evidence of extreme age in the wood was intensified in the appearance of the face of the picture.

"There was the accumulation of years of varnish. Seemingly everybody who was called upon to clean it in years gone by had spread on it another coat of sticky varnish," said Mr. Dunsmore. "They apparently had not stopped to clean it first." The first panels, as stated, were all separated. The parting had taken away a portion of the drapery of the Virgin; there had disappeared with the separation of two others a piece of the red robe of the kneeling king in the foreground, and a small bit of the arched neck of the Virgin, who, by the way, was evidently none other than the great master's second wife, Helena Fourment, was gone.

The arguments in favor of this being an original painting by Rubens are many, not the least of which is found in the historical fact which tells of the enriching in an art way of the churches of primitive Kentucky. Father Russell, the old chaplain at Nazareth convent, tells a most interesting and probably the most authentic story. His idea is that the picture in question was one of a number—about 100—masterpieces that came over from Holland and Belgium between the years 1790 and 1810. These were secured by the early bishops of Kentucky from the galleries of the rich European monasteries, convents and the private collections in palaces of the noblemen. They were brought over without frames and distributed among the few churches and religious institutions in Kentucky at that time.

Father Russell thinks Bishop David, who was the first bishop of Kentucky, was the churchman who collected the pictures and placed this identical one in the Nazareth convent. Other high church dignitaries of the present day in conversation with Mr. Dunsmore and the convent people think either Bishop Flaget or Father Neerincks may have brought them. Both were among the earlier officials.

The picture will hang in the choicest spot within the walls of the convent at Bardstown, where it will be cherished as one of the institution's most valued and valuable possessions, in curious contrast truly to its exit on that day in the summer of 1897 when it was banished to the kindling wood pile through the door of the poor kitchen.—H. E. H. in Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

AN ABSENT-MINDED MAN.

The Cabman Believed in Obeying Orders to the Letter.

"When I was younger than I will ever be again," said the professor with a three-story head and eyeglasses of telescopic power, "I was the victim of such intense mental abstraction that I removed myself entirely from the world of practical affairs. I was in the boundless realms of thought and paid but fleeting attention to the active field of human action. It was neccessary to notify me when I should attend my classes, eat my meals and even when I should retire.

"I was at one time requested to lecture in a western village, and agreed to do so. The theme was one that had received my best thoughts, and the mere prospect of delivering it was a physical pleasure. When I arrived at the depot my thoughts were concentrated upon the proposed address. I realized that my train was an hour late and that I must hurry, but beyond the mere fact of hurrying I did not grasp a detail.

"'Drive fast!' I shouted to the driver of a dingy-looking vehicle as I sprang in and handed him a five dollar bill. 'Spare neither horse nor whip.

"Away we went with a plunge. The carriage rolled like a ship in the trough of the sea. Street lights seemed a torchlight procession moving rapidly the other way. Constables shouted, dogs barked, small boys chased us and business ceased that people might stand on the sidewalk and gaze. Up one street and down another we dashed madly. We took corners on two wheels, grazed telegraph poles and knocked over such moveables as ash barrels and dry goods boxes.

"After half an hour of this bewildering experience, I stuck my head from the window and shouted: 'Are we nearly there?'

"'Where did yez want to go, sor?' came the edifying answer."—Detroit Free Press.

MAKING $2,000 EASILY.

A Joke Which Enriched Its Author Beyond Expectation.

A certain speculator had need of a large sum of money for his operations, and found himself with a very small balance in the bank. He consulted a friend as to how he could get over the emergency. The friend suggested that he should draw on somebody in another city. The operator said he knew no one that owed him, and the friend insinuated that that would make no difference if the draft did not return too soon.

The operator reflected a time and then wrote out a draft on the Sultan of Turkey for £2,000 and deposited it in the bank. The draft came into the hands of the Rothschilds, who forwarded it to Constantinople, and it was duly presented to the Sultan's chamberlain.

"Who is this man?" asked the chamberlain of the Sultan's treasurer.

"Don't know him," replied the treasurer.

"Do we owe him anything?" asked the chamberlain.

"No," replied the other.

"Then do not pay it," decided the chamberlain.

"But if I might advise," said the crafty treasurer, "this draft comes through the Rothschilds with whom we are negotiating a loan. Would it be safe, under the circumstances, to dishonor it?"

"Pay it," said the Sultan's chamberlain, and so the speculator was £2,000 richer than he knew, to his own great astonishment.—London Telegraph.

NATIVE HAWAIIAN WOMEN.

Those of the Mixed Blood Prouder of the Kanaka Than of the Anglo-Saxon Part

Hawaiian women have a wonderful charm of manner, and their smiling faces, dark, lustrous eyes and soft voices have a fascination about them that cannot be easily defined. They carry themselves with a grace and dignity peculiarly their own—even the flower women, with their pretty lei customs—though their feet may be bare, have a certain dignity of bearing never seen in the Anglo-Saxon of the same class.

Hawaiian women are proud of their blood, those of mixed blood prouder of the dark strain, which often comes by ancestry of chiefs. It is one of the strong characteristics of both men and women—stronger in the women, who are of more pensive and intense nature—that where white blood predominates their first loyalty and pride is in the Hawaiian blood.—Chicago Times Herald.

The Lesson of the Prodigal.

The lesson was from the Prodigal Son, and the teacher was dwelling on the character of the elder brother.

"But amid all the rejoicing," he said, "there was one to whom the preparation of the feast brought no joy, to whom the prodigal's return gave no pleasure, but only bitterness; one who did not approve of the feast being held, and who had no wish to attend it. Now can any of you tell me who this was?"

There was a breathless silence, followed by a vigorous cracking of thumbs, and then from a dozen sympathetic little geniuses came the chorus:

"Please sir, it was the fatted calf!"—Aberdeen Journal.

Portugal's Position.

London, April 28, 1:40 p. m.—A dispatch from Lisbon declares that President McKinley has communicated with the government of Portugal.

The message is reported to threaten that Portugal will be regarded as an ally of Spain if she does not dismiss the Spanish fleet from the Cape Verde Islands, a Portugese possession..

Portugal's only reply is reported to be an announcement forbidding the transmission of news between the warships and the inhabitants of the islands.

The announcement caused a great sensation here as it seems to indicate that Portugal will take up a position as an ally of Spain in the present conflict.

Gen. Plume May Head the Brigade.

Trenton, April 28.—The Governor will appoint today a commandant of the military post to be established at Sea Girt. It is probable that the honor will fall to Major-General Plume. The commandant will be at the head of New Jersey troops until they are mustered into the United States service, and may remain in charge of the post indefinitely. This programme may be changed by a Presidential appointment for General Plume as Brigadier-General of the New Jersey Brigade of National Guard Volunteers. An effort is being made to bring this about, and General Plume has signified his willingness to lead the brigade if called upon to do so. The Governor has received from Adjutant-General Corbin, at Washington, information that the Secretary of War has decided that all absolutely necessary expense for the subsistence, transportation, sheltering and maintenance of volunteers during the interval between their enrollment and enlistment and their muster into the service of the United States, also all incidental expenses connected therewith, such as the hire of offices, clerks, messengers, etc., for mustering officers will be met by the Government of the United States.

Jerseymen Leave the Montauk.

League Island, April 28.—The officers and men of the Battalion of the East, Naval Reserves, New Jersey, with the exception of Executive Officer Peters, left the Monitor Montauk at the navy yard yesterday and proceeded to Hoboken. Today the belief that the refusal of the men to consider the Navy Department's enlistment plan until their return to Hoboken had something to do with the placing of the Battalion of the West men on the Montauk, is growing, though the officers of the Montauk say that their opinion is that the Navy Department has another plan in view for the North Jersey men.

Veteran Zouaves Raise a Flag.

Elizabeth, April 28.—There was an inspiring flag-raising last night at the Veteran Zouave Armory here, where a handsome American flag presented to the Veteran Zouaves by Drake's Band was flung to the breeze from the armory flagstaff. The flag was hoisted to its place by Captain James L. Bodwell, of Rahway, the oldest member of the Zouaves, who is said to have been the first Jersey soldier to put his foot on the soil of Virginia after the outbreak of the Civil War.

The National Volunteer Reserve has written to the Mayors of over 2,500 cities one of whom was Mayor Fisk, calling on them to open schools and other available places in their respective towns as recruiting offices. PECULIARITIES OF GREAT PEOPLE.

Almost Incredible to the Ordinary Person's Understanding.

There is nothing of much more interest to the world than the peculiarities of great men and women. We are told that Charles the Fifth had a passion for taking to pieces and remounting clocks, that Saliger shook with disgust at the odor of water-cresses, that Bacon fell unconscious at every eclipse of the moon, that Pascal was pursued with the thought that he was standing close to the edge of a precipice, that Bossuet courted inspiration by shutting himself up in a cold room with his head warmly wrapped up, that Paisiello sought inspiration by wrapping his whole body in warm heavy coverings. Cimarosa, for the same purpose would seek the noisiest places and those most brilliantly lighted. Madame Dudevant (George Sand) slept all day and was up all night, while Catherine de Medici could not endure the perfume of a rose. Erasmus was seized with a fever at sight of a fish, Malebranche thought he saw a leg of lamb at the end of his nose, Lalande ate spiders, and Mehul always kept a skull on his piano.

Raising Egret Herons.

In 1895 a merchant naturalist of Tunis bought a piece of ground inclosed by a wall, where a sufficient quantity of water could be introduced. In this field a large space, where there were fig trees, was inclosed by wire netting. Then he secured from nests the young egrets. In 1896, by increase, his hennery contained about 400 egrets. The females lay eggs twice a year, in April and in June; and the young, leaving the nest after fifteen days, mate the same year.

These birds he feeds on minced horse and mule meat twice a day—one animal, costing there 5 or 6 francs, sufficing for a fortnight. The nestlings are fed by their mother on small fish provided for her. The dorsal plumes are gathered twice a year, in May and September, but it is not until the bird is three years old that the plumes attain their full beauty. Each adult bird furnishes about 7 grams of these per year—that is, about 108 grains or 1-70 of a pound, yielding a value of 35 francs or $7 per head.—Popular Science News.

MONKS OF HIGH DEGREE.

In a German Monastry There Are Devotees Both in the Purple.

At Seckau, Germany, is the famous Abbey of Benzon, one of the best known and celebrated monasteries, especially because of the high station of the monks who are gathered there. The monks of the abbey include Prince Philip of Hohenlohe, who has bidden a definite adieu to the world; Father Charles, under which name is concealed the identity of a brilliant excavalry officer, belonging to an illustrious house; Prince Edward Schonburg-Hartenstein, and Father Benedict, Father Sebastian, once a major in the Saxon army, bearing the name of Baron Von Oer; Father John, who was Baron von Drais, and ran away from the court of Baden to embrace this career; Father Nicholas, who was Baron von Salis-Soglio; Father Hildebrand, who before assuming the cowl and gown was a brave captain, by name of Count de Memptinne, and many others too numerous to mention.

The Abbey Seckau is situated among the mountains of Steiermark, in a thick, wild forest, and in thirty years has united together Benedictine monks belonging to the best-known families, celebrated for nobility or riches or distinguished in the arts. This monastery, where the rules are most rigorous, was founded over thirty years ago by two brothers, Maurus and Placidus Wolter of Cologne, two learned Monks sent by Pius IX to Prussia to reorganize the monasteries there, which were degenerating. The pious Princess Catherine of Hohenzollern offered them the ancient Abbey of Benzon to establish a new house, which came into existence in 1863. Around the two brothers there soon gathered literary men and artists, especially from Dusseldorf, in love with the splendor of the Black Forest, who their continued their work, so that there is now an artistic school of Benzon, which may be said to rival the famous one of the Italian Abbey of Monte Cassino. But at Benzon they not only go in for the higher arts, but they make and provide everything for themselves.—Pall Mall Gazette.

TRICKS OF THE TYPES.

Some Amusing Mistakes of Which Compositors Are Guilty.

"What is this?" exclaimed a compositor who was expecting to be promoted to a proofreadership shortly. "'Sermons in stones, books in running brooks!' Impossible! He means, of course, 'Sermons in books and stones in the running brooks.'" And a new reading of Shakespeare appeared next morning.

A sporting compositor thought "Cricket on the Hearth" must be a slip of the pen. He made it "Cricket on the Heath."

A writer on angling had the joy of seeing his sentence, "The young salmon are beginning to run," printed "The young salmon are beginning to swim," another thoughtful compositor having been at work.

Happier was the transformation of the sentence, "Bring me my toga" into "Bring me my togs."

There is a less subtle vein of humor in the story of the editor who wrote during an election, "The battle is now opened." The compositor spelled battle" with an "o," and the other side said, of course, that they had suspected it from the first.

It was by a similar mistake that the late Baker Pasha, who might fairly be described as a "battle-scarred veteran," was called a "battle-scared veteran," the libel being by no means purged when the newspaper called the gallant officer a "bottle-scarred veteran."

Owing to an error in printing the announcement, "A sailor, going to sea, his wife desires the prayers of the congregation," became "A sailor going to see his wife deserves the prayers of the congregation."

The statement "Messrs. ——'s preserves cannot be beaten," was rather vitiated as an advertisement by the omission of "b" in the last word.

Innocently gay was the newspaper report which said that the London express had knocked down a cow and cut it into "calves."—Lesta Typographica.

The Peregrinations of a $10 Bill.

Here's a mathematical problem which the Boston Post observer heard a bank messenger putting to a man of figures the other day: "A banker found a $10 bill. At home he gave it to his wife, who paid the butcher in settlement of his account. The butcher paid it to the farmer for a calf, and the farmer paid it to the merchant, who in turn paid it to the washerwoman, and she, owing the banker a note of $10, went to the banker and paid the note. The banker recognized the bill as the one he had found and which up to that time had paid $50 worth of debt. On a careful examination he found the bill was a counterfeit." Of course, the problem is, Who lost by the transaction?

Two Angelic Kansas Towns.

Spanish Fleet Leave Cape Verde.

St. Vincent, April 29, 10:15 a. m.—The Spanish fleet, which has been laying in the harbor at this point for several weeks, pulled their anchors this morning and set sail. Their destination is unknown.

London, April 29, 10:20 a. m.—It is is rumored at the American legation here that the Spanish fleet which left the Cape Verde islands this morning early is heading for America.

Interest in Washington.

Washington, D. C., April 29, 1:15 p. m.—The news of the sailing of the Spanish fleet from the Cape Verde Islands has been received here with much interest.

It is reported that the ships have taken a southerly course. If such is the case, the officials of the navy department believe it was done for the purpose of hiding its real intention.

It is believed here that the fleet is going to Porto Rico or to raise the blockade of Cuba. If it is learned that the real intention of the fleet is to visit the American coast, it is probable the flying squadron and Rear Admiral Sampson's most powerful vessels will be sent to meet it.

Vote on War Revenue Bill Today.

Washington, D. C, April 29, 1:20 p. m.—The House convened this morning at 10 o'clock with a full attendance of Representatives. The galleries were well filled.

The War Revenue Bill was discussed was allowed before the rule for amendments under the five-minute rule went into effect.

Under the terms of the rule, a vote on the measure will be taken this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Representative Bland, of Missouri, discussed the popular bond issue feature of the bill. He spoke for the Democrats in the House, it is understood.

He declared that the Democrats could not agree to the issue of any more coin bonds which could be construed under Republican administration to mean nothing but gold bonds as long as the mints of the country were closed to the coinage of one half the money metal of the world.

The Democrats, he said, only under circumstances of extreme stress could consent to the issue of such bonds. He argued for the advisability of the immediate coinage of the silver seigniorage in the treasury.

Terrible Suffering in Cuba.

Kingston, Jamaica, April 29, 12:50 p. m.—A vessel from the southern coast of Cuba arrived at Port Antonio this morning with four hundred Cuban, British and American refugees aboard.

They sailed from the Cuban port of Santiago to escape the sufferings that are rapidly increasing on the island.

The story of the condition of affairs on Cuba as told by the passengers was a very pitiful one. They say that the soldiers have seized all the food supplies and stored them up for their own use.

The inhabitants can exist they say but for a week longer and then the food supplies will be completely exhausted.

The Spanish soldiers are disheartened by the suffering and disease which prevail among them. The work of torpedoing Santiago has been abandoned, it is reported.

Guaranteed To Run the Blockade.

Madrid, April 29, 11 a. m.—The captains of the Spanish transatlantic steamers have guaranteed to the Spanish government that they will successfully run the blockade off Cuba and carry the mails to the island.

Bond Issue Denounced.

Washington, D. C., April 29, 11:15 a. m.—The Knights of Labor have sent a circular to Congress denouncing the proposed increase to the interest bearing debt of the United States. The circular was aimed at the proposed bond issue.

Nurses to the Front.

Tampa, Fla., April 29, 12:15 p. m.—Clara Barton and a force of nurses of the Red Cross Society sailed from this port for Key West this morning on the steamer Mascot. They expect to go to the front with the army when the landing is made on the Cuban coast.

Didn't Sight the Paris.

Queenstown, April 29, 10:20 a. m.—The Campania steamship arrived in port here this morning. Her officers reported that they had not sighted the Paris on the voyage across the Atlantic. It is believed that Captain Watkins, of the Paris, has taken a different route than the usual one to avoid any possible encounter with Spanish ships that may be laying in wait for him.

Spanish Spy Arrested.

New Orleans, April 29, 10:20 a. m.—John Waltz was arrested early this morning at Fort Eads as a Spanish spy. The evidence against him is said to be very convincing. He will be court-martialed immediately and if the charges are proven he will be shot by a detail of sharpshooters connected with the fort.

American Consulate Attacked.

Kingston, Jamaica, April 29, 10:15 a. m.—A Spanish mob attacked the American consulate at Santiago last night, and made a demonstration that for a time it was feared would result in loss of life.

Their Fifth Prize.

Key West, April 29th, 11 a. m.—About midnight last night the Newport arrived with the Spanish schooner Engracia, seven men on board and a cargo of fish, captured about three miles off Fort Cabanas while trying to enter Havana Harbor

The Captain of the Newport says that a number of these fishing schooners have been caught but released.

From papers found on them it was learned that the officers and crews of these craft belong to the naval reserve. In each crew there is one well dressed officer, supposed to be a Lieutenant.

This is the fifth prize in which the Newport is interested, including the Catalina. For the last mentioned she got no credit at the time of the capture

The gunboat Newport fired only one blank shot at the Spanish boat, Ingareia. She hove to at once. She was carrying news of the United States fleet to Havana.

Judge Day Accepted.

Canton Ohio, April 28, 2:30 p. m.—Judge Day has accepted the office of Secretary of State.

Canadian Volunteers.

Toronto, Canada, April 29, 1:45 p. m.—Colonel Pope, ex-United States consul in this city, is now busily engaged in raising a regiment for the United States army of Canadian volunteers.

American Fleet Expected Sunday.

Madrid, April 29, 1 p. m.—A despatch from Manila states that the United States fleet under command of Admiral Dewey, is not expected to reach the Phillippine Islands until Sunday.

The Spanish fleet, which is awaiting the appearance of the American men-of-war, has been divided into two sections. It has been reinforced by the arrival of a large auxiliary cruiser.

Cruisers Ordered to Sea.

New York, April 29, 1:30 p. m.—The cruisers San Francisco and New Orleans, which have been laying at the Brooklyn Navy yard, have received orders to put to sea immediately.

Cuba May Be Their Goal.

London, April 29, 1:15 p. m.—A dispatch from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, says that four Spanish cruisers, three torpedo boat destroyers and several torpedo boats have sailed from there. They are supposed to have sailed toward Cuba.

EFFECT OF THE WAR ON CURRENT PRICES.

Slight Advances in the Cost of Necessaries of Life.

FOOD PRODUCTS FEEL IT.

HOW PRICES CONTINUE WILL DEPEND ON LENGTH OF WAR.

If the Conflict Ends in a Few Months It is the General Idea That No Material Advance Will be Made in the Prices of Goods—Flour Selling a Dollar More a Barrel Than It Did a Week Ago—Slight Advance in Sugar—The Difference in Most Cases Falls on the Local Retail Dealers.

"Now for war prices again," says the pessimistic citizen, with a shiver, as he recalls the rising scale for the ordinary commodities of life that swept over the country from 1861 to 1865, and those who hear him solemnly declare: "Yes, everything from a paper of pins to a barrel of flour is bound to go up."

In the different branches of trade, however, such a wide, sweeping statement is not generally indorsed. The local merchants admit that there will be an early advance, for the most part slight, on many lines of goods, but they say that some branches of trade will not be materially affected at all. Nearly everything in the way of prices, they argue, will depend upon the length of the war. Should it be terminated within a few months, it is the general opinion of local trade that no material advance will be made in the prices of staple goods. If, however, it is prolonged beyond that period, in the natural course of things, there will be a noticeable increase in the general cost of commodities.

Food products will feel the war influence first of all, but it is not expected that household furnishings or utensils, or articles of personal wear, will be affected at all within the next six months. Even in imported dry goods little advance in prices is looked for, in view of the small import trade in that line with Spain. Goods from other countries will come here in ships of non-combatant Powers, and even if the exigencies of the case should require that merchandise from Europe be discharged for the United States at Canadian ports, and sent thence overland, the increased transportation charges, it is claimed, would probably not make difference enough in retail prices to be regarded as a fixed advance.

Whatever rise or steadiness there may be in the cost of the commodities, the chief staple of all, wheat, has led the way in an upward tendency. Flour is selling today at a dollar more a barrel than it did two weeks ago. This advance, however, is not directly attributable to the international embroglio. Indeed, many grocers frankly acknowledge that they cannot understand the advance, particularly as the reports predict a fair season for the crops all over the country. They regard the Leiter wheat "corner" in Chicago as the most likely cause of the higher price of flour. Sugar, too, has advanced slightly.

Coffee has advanced about two cents a pound since the declaration of war. But little of the crude sugar cane, such as was formerly sent from Cuba, has been imported since the rebellion broke out on the island a few years ago, so the complete stoppage of that line of goods will not be very noticeable.

"Even if a tax is not put on tea and coffee," said a grocer this morning, "prices will surely advance. Teas have already risen in price about two and a half cents a pound, wholesale, and coffee has gone up two cents a pound." Pork has gone up one cent a pound, and that means that everything in that line will soon be higher. There appears to be a great demand for salted meats, possibly owing to the demand for it ordered for military use.

The price of beef has already increased somewhat in the Eastern markets, but this is not attributed to the opening of hostilities in Cuba. It is the result, rather, of the "between times" season, when grass-fed cattle are falling off, and corn-fed cattle are not yet killed in plenty.

The brewers say that beer is now down to the bottom price, and that it would be impossible to preserve the quality and sell it for less than they have been doing. The extra dollar that goes to the Government will not tend, naturally, they think, to increase the amount consumed. Realizing what the added burden means for them, they protested vigorously all over the country, and mean to keep

CASE NOW WITH JURY.

LAWYERS HAVE FINISHED WITH WATER RIGHTS CONTENTION.

Counsel for the Defense Emphasized the Point Made by Their Witnesses—Senator Reed Summed Up This Morning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 29.—The defense in the case of Harper, Hollinsworth & Co. against the Mountain Water Company had their inning yesterday and the case consumed the greater portion of the day. In the morning Mr. Green and Mr. Bassett, witnesses for the defense were called and gave some additional evidence, while Lawyer Reed, for the plaintiff, called C. J. Drake and S. Radin, of Scotch Plains, and C. Vermeule, of Orange, as witnesses to substantiate his case and clinch every point made. Mr. Vermeule was an expert witness and his evidence was strong.

After the witnesses were examined, Lawyers Lindabury and Riker, for the defense, began to sum up and they consumed fully their alloted time of two hours. Lawyer Reed only used fifteen minutes of his time yesterday and this morning he concluded.

Mr. Lindabury told the jury yesterday that the case was not a question of big damages, but if six cents was allowed it would be just as strong a a verdict as though a larger amount should be found. The lawyers for the defense used strong arguments and presented a strong case throughout.

WONDERFUL BOY SINGER

HEARD AT THE ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN IN ST. MARY'S HALL.

Bids Fair to Rival the Late William Scanlan—A Clever Programme Rendered by Parochial School Scholars.

Last evening in the Parochial School Hall a fine entertainment was given under the auspices of the Society of the Immaculate Conception of St. Mary's R. C. church. Miss M. Smith, organist of St. Mary's church, presided at the piano.

The opening selection was followed with the presentation of a drama entitled "Which is Which," or "The Fire of London." The programme as rendered was a thoroughly enjoyable one. Every part was creditably taken.

Especially noteworthy was the appearance of George McTernan, a boy singer, who bids fair to rival the late Wm. Scanlan. Another feature was the part taken by Lilly McInerney, a little tot, who assumed the part of "Polly" in the first drama.

The several selections by the chorus of school children and the rendition of "Goosey, Goosey, Gander," by the choir of St. Mary's church, were well received.

In part second a one-act drama entitled "Dutch Justice," was given in an excellent manner. Credit should be given the Sisters of Charity and Madame Bartlett for their untiring efforts in arranging the entertainment and drilling each one in the several parts. The programme was as follows:

Cantata to Be Given.

The annual concert of the Cecelia Club will be held in Y. M. C. A. Hall Tuesday evening, May 3. The club will sing a number of part songs, and a cantata entitled "The Queen of the Sea." In the latter production the club will be assisted by tenor and soprano soloists from Brooklyn. Mrs. Frank J. Smith, reader, will also give a scene from "Twelfth Night," "Mrs. Lofter's Ride," and "The King's Command," the last having a musical accompaniment, and including a pretty dance.

A PLEASANT PASSING OF THEIR TENTH YEAR

Monday Afternoon Club's Auspicious Event Yesterday.

AFFAIR HELD IN CASINO.

ECHOES OF PLANTATION LIFE THE PRINCIPAL FEATURE.

The Casino Artistically Decorated for the Occasion—Mrs. E. C. Perkins, the President, Assisted by Other Members, Graciously Received the Guests Beside the Open Fireplace—Holland, the Season's Topic, Emphasized in the Decorations—A Charming Southern Woman Delighted Audience.

Eighteen ninety-eight has given us little worse in the way of weather than the cold rain of yesterday afternoon, but even miserable weather could not make the tenth anniversary celebration of the Monday Afternoon Club, which was held in the Casino of the Union County Country Club, at 3 o'clock, anything but an entire success.

The cosy little theatre never looked prettier than on this occasion. The stage, of course, was artistically decorated, handsome furniture, rugs and many flowers assisting in the homelike effect. A novel feature of the decorations was the presence of three large Dutch milk cans, the property of George Wharton Edwards, which served as a reminder of Holland, the country which has formed the subject of the club's study during the past year. The stage was not alone in it pretty decorations, however; the whole room was arranged in drawing-room fashion, rugs covering the floor, seats drawn into cosy and less formal positions, and pretty tables, holding flowers, or arranged for the serving of refreshments, making a very tasteful ful appearance.

In front of the deep fireplace the guests found the president of the Monday Afternoon Club, Mrs. Edward C. Perkins, who was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. Duce VanVliet and Mrs Randall.

The souvenir programmes of the afternoon's entertainment were designed by the well-known artist, George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, who was the first honorary member of the club. The cover of the programmes was an imitation of the Dutch hand-made paper, and bore a charming little drawing of a woman in the costume of the United Netherlands, sitting at a window, through which can be seen a typical Dutch windmill. The tulip, the national flower of Holland, also appeared on the cover, and the whole was tied with yellow, the national color.

Mrs. Perkins, president of the club, gave a short address, describing its formation, which was the result of a desire on the part of a number of Plainfield women to help in the education of their children by educating themselves. Mrs. Perkins also explained that it had been expected that the founder of the club, Miss Eliza Elvira Kenyon, would be present, and say something about the future of the organization. It had not been possible for her to do so, however, as was explained in a very graceful note, written by Miss Kenyon and read by Mrs. Perkins.

Although Holland was the subject emphasized in the design of the programmes and in the decorations, it had no part in the afternoon's entertainment, which might be called a series of echoes of old plantation life. Mrs. Henry J. Gielow, a charming Southern woman, delighted the audience with her dramatic dialect recitations. Several of these, "Mammy's Reminiscinces," "Dat time Honey got los'," "Seein' Sperrits" and "Blow lil breezes," were arranged by Mrs. Gielow from actual occurrences in her own life on a Southern plantation. No one who had not been raised among the Negroes of the South could give with such naturalness of voice and movement, the scenes which carried the audience in thought back to the days of the plantation life, to the "mammy's" little cabin, and the "great house" where the colored woman rocked her white nurseling to sleep with her quaint crooning song. Equally interesting were the plaintive plantation melodies sung so skillfully and touchingly by the baritone soloist, James H. Childs, with their exquisite piano accompaniments, which were evidently improvised, so unusual and full of delicate harmonious touches were they.

The afternoon was one of perfect enjoyment, and the audience seemed loath to leave their seats when the last encore was sounded. Lights

MANILA FLEET READY

Awaiting the American Squadron Several Miles Out.

MAY FIGHT TO-MORROW

The Governor's Proclamation Appealing to Enthusiasm and Prejudices of the Spaniards Is, According to Madrid Advices, Having a Great Effect Upon the People—Many Volunteers Reported.

Madrid, April 29.—A dispatch from Manila, capital of the Philippine Islands, says the Spanish squadron which has taken up a position several miles from Manila, is still awaiting the arrival of the United States squadron under the command of Rear Admiral Dewey.

The Governor's proclamation, appealing to the enthusiasm, honor and religious prejudices of the Spaniards and otherwise inciting them to animosity against the Americans is said to have a great effect upon the people, who are alleged to be volunteering in large numbers, eager "to repulse the enemy."

Madrid, April 29.—The Government has received no news confirmatory of the report that the Spanish have sunk an American vessel in the Philippines.

Sagasta says the American squadron will not arrive off Manila until to-day, so it is impossible for a battle with the Spanish fleet to take place before then. He adds it is untrue that General Aguinaldo is going with the squadron; he is only going to the Philippines as an ordinary medical practititoner, and will take no part in the rebellion.

The news of the stranding of an American cruiser off Cuba has produced great impression here.

The bombardment of Matanzas is a matter of small interest of importance in comparison with the situation in the Pacific. There is good reason to believe that a desperate naval conflict will be waged near the Philippine Islands within a very few hours. A formidable squadron of the American navy has set sail for Manila, under orders, it is supposed, to engage the fighting vessels of Spain, which are reported to be awaiting its arrival, also under instructions to meet and conquer the enemy. With two great modern fleets of war rapidly coming together, each bent on the other's destruction, and both being mainly composed of vessels of a type which have never yet been fairly tested in action, it is manifest why the attention of the whole world is just now directed to the Philippines.

Laying in Wait for American Ships.

London, April 29.—It is reported in Madrid, according to a dispatch from the Spanish capital, that a Spanish squadron, consisting of nine warships, sailed from Manila on Monday last to take up positions off Subig Bay, where they will await the passage of American merchant vessels, for the purpose of capturing them.

London, April 29.—The Hong Kong correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing on Thursday last, says: "There is no news from Manila or as to the whereabouts of the American fleet. The British gunboat Linnet sailed this afternoon to watch British interests in the Philippines, and the Esmeralda also sailed for the Philippines, but without cargo or passengers, and presumably to bring away more passengers. Large sums are being paid by people anxious to leave Manila."

Victory Is Looked For.

Washington, April 29.—The Spanish fleet near the Philippines outnumbers our own three to one, and, leaving transports out of the count, there are four Spanish ships for every American. We have four of our best cruisers and two gunboats near Manila, besides a transport and collier. Spain's fleet is made up of six cruisers, some twenty small gunboats, and three transports. But Commodore Dewey's squadron, it is believed, will have no great difficulty in overpowering the Spaniards, for while our ships are all steel built modern war ships, carrying only the best of quick and rapid-fire breech-loading rifles, those of the enemy are a miscellaneous collection of steel, iron and wooden ships, mounting all sorts of small guns.

The Navy Department does not expect to hear of the results of a naval battle to-day, though straggling news indicating that an engagement has occurred will doubtless reach the officials.

HAS THE FLEET RUN AWAY?

Report That the Spanish Ships Have Fled and Scattered to Prey on Our Commerce.

Washington, April 29.—The Navy Department received information from Hong Kong yesterday afternoon that the Spanish fleet at Manila, instead of going out to meet Commodore Dewey's squadron, had fled from the port and put to sea to capture American merchantment.

No news was received yesterday from Commodore Dewey. He will proceed to Manila, and if the Spanish ships are not found he will destroy the batteries and take possession of the city.

This report seemes to be confirmed by a Madrid dispatch received in London, which says that a Spanish squadron of nine warships sailed from Manila last Monday to lie in wait off Subig Bay for passing American merchantmen.

Commoder Dewey's instruction not to bombard Philippine towns is in line with the department's course since hostilities began. President McKinley and Secretary Long believe that if a town can be captured without bombardment it should be done. There will be no shelling of Spanish towns unless Spain should force that policy upon the United States.

Gen. Lee Back in Washington.

Washington, April 29.—General Fitzhugh Lee arrived here late yesterday after a ten days' visit to his family in Virginia. With him came Miss Cisneros, the young Cuban girl rescued from Cabanas, who has been the guest of Miss Lee.

ADMIRAL SAMPSON REPORTS.

He Suggested Bombardment, and the President Ordered It.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Admiral Sampson has made an official report to the Navy Department in regard to the bombardment of Matanzas. The report was received in cipher and laid before the Board of Strategy, as well as before the Secretary and the President.

Admiral Sampson reports that, acting under orders from Washington, the New York, Puritan and Cincinnati reduced the defenses of Matanzas.

The reduction of the works came about in this way. The several scout boats conencted with the squadron reported to Admiral Sampson that the Spanish were strengthening the works at Matanzas. He reported this fact to the Navy Department, and recommended that the work be stopped and the defenses established destroyed. He regarded the point as an important one, especially for use by the military forces. The Strategic Board carefully considered the report of Admiral Sampson, and indorsed his recommendation. Secretary Long concurred in the view taken by the board, and presented the matter to the President, who directed Admiral Sampson to carry out his plan.

The dispatch of Admiral Sampson has not been made public, and details cannot be given. It is stated, however, that the bombardment was confined entirely to the defenses, and that the town was not damaged.

It is now the programme to send the Red Cross ship Texas to Matanzas with supplies for the Cubans. This arrangement, of course, could not be carried out while the Spanish forces occupied the place. It would have been necessary to drive them from Matanzas in the end, and it was concluded that to delay would only add to the difficulties.

THE SPANISH VERSION.

"After Half an Hour's Fight the Americans Were Obliged to Retreat," Says Madrid.

Madrid, April 29.—The version of the bombardment of Matanzas by the United States fleet, which has reached here, says that "after half an hour's fight the Americans were obliged to retreat."

Little credence is attached in Madrid to the dispatches from New York, telling of the bombardment of Matanzas, as the latter "conflict with the official reports."

The latter, in addition to saying the Americans "were obliged to retreat," admit that "several men were killed," and that "some damage was done to the town," also remarking that the "American loss is not known."

The forts of Havana, it is announced here, have not yet fired a single projectile, the cannon shots heard being merely signal guns.

Austria's Emperor Subscribes $100 000.

London, April 29.—The Vienna correspondent of the Morning Post says: "Emperor Francis Joseph privately contributed $100,000 to the national naval subscription in Spain and has further shown his sympathy by permitting a number of Austro-Hungarian officers to join the Spanish flag. The Archduke Eugene has gone to Madrid to stay with the Queen Regent during the critical period.

"Austria maintains the strictest neutrality, but I am informed from the best source that in the event of a revolution in Madrid the Austrian forces will be at the disposal of the Queen Regent. The Emperor is determined that Her Majesty shall have the benefit of his fullest protection."

Mexico Will Be Neutral.

City of Mexico, April 29.—United States Minister Clayton has communicated to the Foreign Department of the government of Mexico the resolution of the American Congress, declaring war with Spain. Minister Meriscal, of the Foreign Department, has replied lamenting the war and hoping for its speedy termination. He assures the American Minister on the authority of President Diaz that Mexico will maintain the strictest neutrality.

May Issue a Call for Immunes.

Washington, April 29.—It is understood that the President is considering the issuing of another proclamation calling for the enlistment of 10,000 immunes, who may be needed in Cuba. The plan is to get the colored men in the South, who have had the yellow fever, or who have by association become immuned, to volunteer, and if troops should be necessary during the Summer time, these can go at once to Cuba.

The Shenandoah Safe.

Liverpool, April 29.—The American ship Shenandoah arrived here safely yesterday afternoon. The Shenandoah was reported to have been captured by the Spanish. The tug Rathlin met the Shenandoah off the south coast of Ireland and towed her to Point Lynas for $1,500, as Captain Murphy was unwilling to risk her being intercepted. Her cargo, owing to the advance in the price of wheat, is worth $250,000.

To Release the Saturnina.

Washington, April 29.—The Treasury Department has ordered the release of the Spanish vessel Saturnina, recently seized in Biloxi (Miss.) harbor. Under the President's proclamation such vessels are allowed thirty days in which to leave port, hence the order of release.

No Apprehension as to the Result.

Liverpool, April 29.—Joseph Pulitzer, in an interview printed in the Liverpool Post, is quoted as saying: "There is not a man, woman or child in America who has the least doubt, misgiving or apprehension as to the result."

No Hawaiian Coup.

Washington, April 29.—It is understood that the Hawaiian Minister has been advised that this country will not change its policy toward the Hawaiian Islands, pending congressional action on annexation.

British Warships May Go to Havana.

London, April 29.—Owing to the arrest of several Englishmen in Cuba, accused of being American spies, negotiations have been opened for taking off British subjects by British men-of-war.

OUR FLAG OVER CUBA?

May Be Raised Over Havana if the City is Captured.

TO PROTECT SPANIARDS

The Measure Would Be Merely Temporary to Secure Order—Havana and Santa Clara Not to Be Bombarded by Our Fleet—First Troops Will Leave for the Island on Tuesday.

Washington, April 29.—A delegation of Cubans has left here for Cuba to confer with General Gomez regarding the advisability of raising the American flag over the island, after capturing the city of Havana. The Cuban delegates had a long conference with the authorities here when this proposition came from them.

This is not for annexation. This movement is intended to pacify the Spanish business element in Havana, giving it assurance that property rights will be respected and that the United States having driven out the Spanish authorities will see that there is no undue plunder and robbery of either Spaniards or non-combatants.

The programme is for the flag to remain over the island just so long as there is danger of robbery and plunder of citizens.

It can be positively announced that there will be no bombardment of either Havana or Santa Clara, for the reason that the guns and fortifications of these two cities will be necessary for their defense after their capture.

Should the fortifications of these two cities be destroyed, it would make it obligatory upon this government to maintain a large fleet in this vicinity to protect them from moves of the enemy, should the Key West squadron be forced to the Atlantic coast, either for offensive or defensive purposes.

First Troops Will Leave on Tuesday.

Tampa, April 29.—Advices have been received here that official orders have been issued for the Fourth Infantry to embark for Cuba on Tuesday night. It will be accompanied by two batteries of field artillery, which arrived from Chickamauga yesterday.

PLANNING THE INVASION.

The Bombardment a Preliminary—Said That Mantanzas May Be the Cuban Capital.

Washington, April 29.—The bombardment of Matanzas is considered in Washington as preliminary to the landing of enough troops in Cuba to establish a base of supplies for the Cuban army. It does not necessarily mean that such troops are to be landed at Matanzas, but they will be landed in that vicinity, and no opportunity will be given the Spanish to complete their defenses nor repair the damage done by the bombardment. It would not be proper or patriotic at this time to discuss the plans of the government, but it can be said that a port will soon be opened to us free from the fire of the Spanish guns, and supplies in sufficient quantity will be speedily landed, both for the equipment of the Cuban army and for the relief of the suffering noncombatants.

The time has been fixed, but an opportunity is to be given to the Cuban army to concentrate at a convenient point and to open up free communication with the harbor selected for the landing of equipment and supplies. The report from Admiral Sampson, showing that in bombarding Matanzas, he only carried out the orders of the President, makes it plain that the bombardment was not a mere retaliation for shots fired from the Spanish battery, but was done with some definite object in view. In both official and Congressional circles it is felt that things are drawing to a focus and that activity at several points may soon be expected.

It is stated in reliable circles that the plan for forming a junction with the Cuban army under Gomez and Garcia contemplated not only the provisioning and equipping of the insurgent army, but also the establishment by Gomez of a civil government in Matanzas and declaring it to be the capital of the island of Cuba. The Cuban army is to be concentrated, the capital declared, the civil government fully established under the protection of our fleet and the army to be provisioned and equipped by the United States.

It is calculated under this plan the island can be conquered largely by the Cubans themselves, and after some time their civil government can be perfected and so strongly intrenched that when the Spanish have evacuated the Cubans will be prepared to give the island a stable and peaceful government. All the relief to the starving population is to be sent for the present at least from this central point, which will also be made the base of operations for the Red Cross.

Havana Should Be Taken Soon.

Washington, April 29.—General Schofield expects great things from the small detachment of troops and marines the government will land in Cuba and he expects that, with the help of General Gomez and the Cuban forces and the aid our government will give to them from the sea, there will be little necessity for an invasion of Cuba by a large military force until next Fall, and perhaps not then.

"It takes," he said, "from six months to a year to make a good soldier out of a volunteer. The latter are well drilled and good marksmen, but they do not know how to take care of themselves in camp and it is for this reason that the mortality among them is great."

General Schofield thinks it is a military necessity for us to take Havana as soon as possible.

Coal and Supplies for Spain.

London, April 29.—Telegrams from various United States Consuls in England are almost hourly arriving at the American Embassy here, giving notice of the loading of vessels with coal and ammunition for Spain. The United States cannot ask Great Britain to stop the loading and departure of the vessels, but must capture them herself if she wants to prevent them getting to Spain.

TO SEIZE THE CANARIES.

Strategy Board Adopts Plans to Strike Spain by Capturing the Canary Islands.

Washington, April 29.—The Board of Strategy recommended at a late hour last evening that as soon as it becomes apparent that the Spanish flotilla does not intend to cross the Atlantic, the Canary Islands in the Atlantic and one of the Balearic Islands in the Mediterranean, probably the island of Minorca, will be seized by the United States as bases of supplies.

If the Spanish fleet does not come to us the Board of Strategy has decided that to end the war the United States war ships must attack Spain at home. The best war ships are certain to reach the other side of the Atlantic considerably the worse for the voyage. By seizing the Canaries they can be made a base of operations against Spain.

TROOPS TO GO IN A BODY.

Pennsylvania's Entire National Guard Fifteen Thousan Strong Accepted.

Washington, April 29.—Adjutant-General Corbin confirms officially the report that the entire National Guard of Pennsylvania will be enlisted as now organized. This is a concession to Governor Hastings. It increases Pennsylvania's quota from 12,000 to 15,000. This increase of the quota will take in the five surplus regiments atnd the cavalry and artillery companies now at Mount Gretna.

Harrisburg Troops Receive an Ovation.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 29.—The Governor's Troop andl the City Grays, the two crack commands of this city, received a great send-off yesterday. Such a patriotic demonstration has not been seen in Harrisburg since the days of the civil war, when this city was the point of rendezvous for all the volunteers in the State. When Governor Hastings made a speech to the departing soldiers in front of the monument erected to the memory of the soldiers of Dauphin County, at State and Second streets, he re-enacted a scene which many old soldiers recalled of the time when Governor Curtin sent the men of 1861 to the front.

The Governor not only made a speech to the City Grays, but he marched in the column with Adjutant-General Stewart, General James W. Lotta, the Secretary of Internal Affairs and Secretary of the Commonwealth Martin. The escort was made up of veterans of the late war, ex-members of the Governor's Troop and City Grays, city and county officers, policemen and letter carriers.

Troops at Mount Gretna.

Mount Gretna, Pa., April 29.—At an early hour yesterday morning the entire division of Pennsylvania National Guards began concentrating its forces at Camp Hastings, and by noon nearly all the commands had reported at headquarters. As soon as the trains were emptied of their loads of militiamen the soldiers were placed at work erecting tents and arranging the camp equipages, preparatory to the formal opening of the camp, which took place at 6 o'clock last evening.

INTERESTING EXP RIENCE

Of an Iowa Lady Who Was Cured of Dyspepsia After Suffering for Twenty-five Years.

Mrs. Sarah A Skeels, an estimable lady residing at Lynnville, Jasper county, Ia., was for twenty-five years a sufferer from Dyspepsia, and her complete restoration to health is so remarkable that we present the facts in the case for the benefit of our readers, many of whom have d ubtless suff red in the same manner and will, therefore, be interested in learning how all stomach troubles may be avoided and cured. Mrs. Skeels says: I used only one package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I received such great and unexpected benefit that I wish to express my sincere gratitude. In fact it has been six months since I took the medicine and I have not had one particle of distress or difficulty since. And all this in the face of the fact that the best doctors I consulted told me my case was incurable as I had suffered for twenty-five years. I want half a dozen packages to distribute among my friends here who are very anxious to try this remedy.

Truly yours,
Mrs. Sarah H Skeels.

The reason why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are so successful in curing indigestion and stomach trouble and the reason why it never disappoints those who need it and use it is because nothing is claimed for it except what it will actually perform It is not a cure all and no such claims are made for it. It is prepared for the sole purpose of curing Dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion.

There is scarcely a patent medicine made but what is claimed to cure dyspepsia as well as a hundred other troubles. When as a matter of fact a remedy to cure Dyspepsia must be prepared especially for that and nothing else; and among all the remedies, patent nostrums, bitters. etc., so extensively advertised you will find that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the only one advertised as a cure for dyspepsia and nothing else. The remedy is prepared by the Stuart Co., of Marshall, Mich. and for sale by all druggists at 50 cents per package, and if you suffer from any form of stomach derangement or indigestion a trial will not disappoint you.

A little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. 4 25-27 29

ACTION OF PORTUGAL.

She Has Not Yet Declared That She Will Be Neutral.

DELAY FAVORS SPANIARDS

She Prohibits the Transmission at Telegrams Relating to Movements of Warships—Evidently Intended to Suppress News of Spain's Cape Verde Fleet—The News Creates a Sensation in London.

Lisbon, April 29.—The Official Gazette announces that the Portuguese Government has, so far as the public is concerned, stopped the dispatch of telegraphic information regarding the movements of warships on the seaboard or in the harbors of Portugal.

The Spanish torpedo flotilla, together with several first-class Spanish cruisers, has been at St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, a Portuguese port, for some time past. Daily bulletins have been received from these, but the action of the Portuguese Government apparently closes this source of information regarding the movements and whereabouts of the Spanish fleet.

Portugal's Neutrality Proclamation.

Lisbon, April 29.—The Official Gazette will publish to-day a decree declaring the neutrality of Portugal in the war between the United States and Spain. The terms of the decree will be similar to those employed in the Government's neutrality proclamation at the beginning of the Franco-Prussian war.

The Gazette announces that the Portuguese Government has stopped the sending of public telegraphic information from its mainland ports regarding the movements of warships. The Azores and Madeira, and apparently the Cape Verde Islands, are exempt from this prohibition.

The President May Act.

Washington, April 29.—The Portuguese Minister, Viscount de Santo-Thryso, in an interview with Assistant Secretary Moore, stated that he had had no advices from his government as to the proclamation of neutrality, and could not say what would be done. When shown the dispatches from London reporting a refusal to allow messages regarding the movements of vessels to be sent over the wire, he declared that he had heard nothing of it.

The action of Portugal is creating considerable talk in government circles, and it is more than likely that pressure will be brought to bear upon her to declare her position as to harboring the Spanish fleet at Cape Vincent.

IS SHE AN ALLY OF SPAIN?

Portugal's Action Regarded as Being Taken at Madrid's Request.

London, April 29.—A sensation has been caused by the action of the Portuguese Government in stopping the transmission of telegraphic information regarding the movements of warships in Portuguese ports, as it reveals the hitherto scarcely concealed fact that Portugal is doing everything possible to aid Spain. The decision of the Portuguese Government is undoubtedly in response to the pressure brought to bear upon her by Spain, and the sole object of the order, it is believed, is to prevent news of the departure of the Spanish fleet from being cabled from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands.

A dispatch from Lisbon to-day, in reiterating the denial made in the Portuguese House of Peers yesterday that President McKinley had called upon Portugal to obtain the departure of the Spanish squadron from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, adds:

"President McKinley's notification is understood to have threatened, unless the Spaniards were ordered to leave St. Vincent, that the United States would regard Portugal as an ally of Spain, and treat her accordingly."

Another special dispatch from Madrid says the Spanish government officials are bewildered at the attitude of Great Britain. They believe the government and the people of Great Britain hold divergent opinions, and that the official acts of Great Britain are due to a secret compact with the United States Government.

THE SPANISH FLEET.

Still at St. Vincent, but Expected to Sail To-Day.

St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, April 29.—Although the Spanish squadron is still at anchor here, it is believed the warships will sail to-day, as the paymasters settled up accounts yesterday.

Coming to St. Johns?

St. Johns, N. F., April 29.—Reports to mercantile firms here from English and Spanish agents indicate that the Spanish fleet from Cape Verde Islands is likely to show up first in this locality, hoping to obtain coal here. As there is no British garrison or naval squadron here to prevent a breach of the neutrality laws, the Colonial Government is consulting the Imperial Cabinet as to what to do in such an emergency.

New Jersey Men to Move To-Morrow.

Trenton, N. J., April 29.—The First, Second and Third Regiments of New Jersey, the quota of volunteers from that State, will probably go into camp at Sea Girt to-morrow afternoon. There is no doubt of the regiments going to the front with their companies complete. The First and Second Regiments are twelve-company regiments, while the Third is of eight, but four more companies, three from the Sixth and one from the Seventh, will be added.

Gladstone Very Low.

Hawarden, April 29.—Yesterday Mr. Gladstone had occasional slight attacks of pain, and did

Helen Gladstone, replying to a letter of sympathy, writes, referring to the illness of her father:

"We cannot hope for his recovery, but the progress of his illness is very slow. He will probably remain with us for some time. He suffers much at times, but happily, the doctors are able to give him very considerable relief."

POWDER WORKS BLOW UP.

Six Men Killed and Four Injured by an Explosion Near Dover, N. J.

Easton, Pa., April 29.—Three large packing houses of the Atlantic Powder Company near Dover, N. J., containing high explosives for the United States Government, were blown up yesterday afternoon.

When the explosion took place there were twelve men in the main building. Six were killed and four others were badly injured.

The works have been running night and day turning out rush orders for the United States Government, and a large amount of ammunition ready for shipment was stored in the packing houses. This, with all other explosives, was completely destroyed.

The scene presented at the place was terrible. People who felt the shocks and saw the flames of the burning structures flocked to the place from miles around, but could render no aid to the injured. The people were terrified and held back in constant fear of other explosions. A few men who were in the buildings managed to escape, and they ran about the country bewildered. They could give no intelligent account of the cause of the explosion.

When the wives and relatives of the employees of the factory approached the burning buildings the scene was most heartrending. The women tore their hair and ran about in a pitiable manner. It was nearly 5 o'clock before the ruins had cooled off sufficiently to be approached, and before the onlookers could be induced to go near the spot. The bodies of the dead were horribly mangled. The heads were missing from some, while here and there lay legless and armless trunks. Many of the injured were cut and maimed so badly that some of them cannot recover.

The fact that the works were filling Government orders gave origin to a rumor, wild and brief, that agents of Spain were responsible for the first explosion. It was probably caused in the hurry and bustle of forced work by an employee's carelessness.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS DIVIDED.

Some Headed by McClellan Will Eventually Support the Bill.

Washington, April 29.—When the vote is taken upon the War Revenue bill in the House there will be a split on the Democratic side. The solid Democratic vote will be cast for the amendment to strike out the bond provision and insert in lieu thereof the provision for an income tax.

Mr. Bailey and the majority of the Democrats are determined to stick out against any bond authorization, because they deem it unnecessary, but quite a number of Democrats, headed by McClellan, of New York, who is a member of the Ways and Means Committee, believe that failing to perfect the bill as they desire, it is yet their duty to vote for it, and they have announced their purpose of doing so to their colleagues. About fifteen Democrats have thus far declared their intention of following Mr. McClellan's leadership in this matter.

Spanish Confidence in the Outcome.

Madrid, April 29.—The perfect confidence which appears to be felt here at the outcome of the war between Spain and the United States is reflected by the Liberal (moderate republican), which, contrasting "Spanish calm and American excitability," says:

"Spain is patiently awaiting the attack which America is noisily threatening to make simultaneously on Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands, with her undisciplined force, while her preachers and merchants, finding the task more difficult than they had calculated, are already quoting the Bible to prove that peace is a good thing for civilized nations. On the American side are hodge-jodge, brag, bluster, hypocrisy and funk; on the Spanish side are complete unanimity and readiness to die for country, trusting in God."

Woman as a Bugler.

Chicago, April 29.—Mrs. Marguerite Raymond of Chicago will go to war as a bugler. She has been assigned to Company H, Second Regiment, Nebraska National Guard, and has been ordered to report for duty at Omaha. She made application for the place, and was accepted by Captain A. G. Fisher. Mrs. Raymond is a teacher of voice culture and professes to be a good revolver shot. She is thirty-five years old.

Defense Fund Almost Gone.

Washington, April 29.—The several allotments made by the President from day to day out of the $50,000,000 national defense appropriation, now aggregates $41,222,116, as follows: War, $16,148,627; Navy, $25,078,489; Treasury, $5,000. The Navy Department has disbursed $11,145,000 and the War Department, $2,145,000.

A Poor Practice.

To the ordinary layman who is summoned to do jury duty, generally to the neglect of his business, the delays of lawyers interested in the case are sometimes quite mythical and even apparently causeless.

Such an instance was observed in the trial of Malachi Watson, for illegal liquor selling, which was set down for yesterday morning. The jury was made up principally of business men, several of whom are engaged in New York. Though the jurors were in the court room at the time they were notified to appear, it was half an hour after that before court was called to order.

The jurors could not account for the delay except that the lawyers had not fixed their affairs to be promptly on hand, seemingly unconscious that the jurors' time was quite as valuable as their own. As a result several of the jurors were detained from business longer than was necessary.

It is a fact, however, that petit courts and such official bodies as the Common Council are never noted fer the promptness with which they convene at the appointed hour. The legal talent seem to take it for granted that they are allowed a certain amount of grace in being late and not ready to commence their cases when the jury is there. It is a practice that is very aggravating to the layman.

Sea Fighting.

Those who want to get an accurate idea of what modern naval warfare is actually like may gratify their curiosity by reading two papers published at different times in The Century Magazine. The first was printed in August, 1895, and is a description of the famous sea fight at the mouth of the Yalu river Sept. 17, 1894, between the Japanese and Chinese fleets. The account was written by Philo N. McGiffin, the gallant American commander of the Chinese warship Chen Yuen, that took such fierce part in the fight. The concussions of the great guns, surrounded by so much iron and steel, are something fearful at such times. Commander McGiffin's clothes were torn to rags by these concussions. He was wounded in the fight, and at length became blind and lost his reason, and at last died from the effects of that awful encounter. He mentions in his story that one shell from the Chen Yuen struck the Japanese flagship and ignited a quantity of powder on her deck. A fearful explosion followed, which killed 49 officers and men on the Japanese vessel and wounded 50 more.

The second sea fight story is in The Century for April, 1898. It is an account of the awful battle between the Chilean ironclads Blanco Encalada and Cochrane on the one side and the Peruvian turret ship Huascar on the other. It is written by Claude H. Wetmore. Not even the charge of the 600 at Balaklava equals in tragic picturesqueness the story of the fight off the Bolivian coast Oct. 8, 1879. The Cochrane ranged alongside the Huascar on one side, the Blanco Encalada on the other, and from short range poured into her from port and starboard the shells from their deadly long range guns. The Huascar could only struggle till the last man fell, and this she did.

What the fight was like on the Huascar, what it is like in every hot naval contest, is described thus: "The turret rapidly became so crowded with the bodies of the dead that the steam training gear of the iron roundhouse was clogged and useless. As the men struggled to remove the tumbled corpses of their comrades blood became smeared over their chests, and it mingled with the sweat which dripped as they toiled in quarters that resembled a baking charnel house, through which filtered steam and smoke, while a nauseous odor rose from the bodies and the heated guns." The head of the Peruvian commander, Admiral Grau, was struck off by a shell early in the action. His name is held in such esteemed remembrance by his fellow countrymen that, as Wetmore writes:

To this day, at every muster of a Peruvian army division; at every monthly inspection on the ships comprising the fleet, the name of Grau is first to be heard on the roll call. An officer steps forward, lifts his hat, points upward and answers: "Absent, but accounted for. He is with the heroes."

GENERAL NELSON A. MILES.

General Nelson A. Miles is senior major general and consequently the highest officer in the United States army. While the country has been giving more attention to the navy than to the army lately, General Miles has had a busy time of it.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

It appears that the error in the Bergen trolley bill cannot be attributed to an incompetent engrossing clerk after all, and all the hard things that have been said about the engrossing department must be taken back and apologized for. The latest information lays the blame on the shoulders of Clerk Jones, who is said to have handed the wrong bill to the engrossing clerk. It is not to be expected, however, that Mr. Jones will accept the responsibility without a protest. What did he have subordinates for?—Newark News.

The authorities of Plainfield have so often heard of the menace their sewer beds were to health that they turn a deaf ear when their removal is mentioned. The value of health appears to them of a secondary consideration, but with a lawsuit in which dollars and cents enter, as it does in the suit instituted for damages by Mrs. Sarah A. Milliken, they may think it worth while to stop and consider the cost of such an encroachment on the rights, if not upon the health, of individuals. Mrs. Milliken claims damages to the amount of $10,000 for destroying her business, which was in providing for summer visitors, and the depreciation of her property. She is in earnest, and it may be that the decision of the court will be one of the means of the removal of these dangerous nuisances.—Dunellen Call.

up the fight; but they realize that it will be a stiff uphill battle to get the tax revolved.

The tax on cigars will fall more heavily on the retail dealer than on his average customer. The tax mean $2 per thousand, or only an increase of ten cents on the price of a box of fifty cigars. This increase is so small that dealers will not attempt to raise the price of a single cigar. The same general facts will hold true with respect to tobacco in all different kinds, forms and uses.

began to gleam out from the tea tables, however, and to the mental and emotional treat was added the physical comfort usual at an afternoon tea. Mrs John M. Whiton and Mrs. Howard Fleming presided at one table, Mrs. William H. Murray and Mrs. Charles E. Brooks at another, and a number of the members of the club assisted in passing the dainty refreshments. A buzz of conversation ran through the room, and a period of general sociability ensued. Many were the words of congratulation exchanged concerning the completion by the club of ten years of successful work, and the pleasant event which celebrated it, and many were the thanks showered upon the charming southerner, in her black satin gown, with the patriotic colors in her hair, and upon Mr. Childs and his gifted accompanist. A large number of prominent society women were present, and many pretty costumes lent life and color to the pleasant scene.

Grounded Electric Wire.

The feed wire of the Plainfield Street Railway was grounded yesterday morning on Watchung avenue in front of C. Frank French's feed store. The current ran down the iron wire and charged a large puddle of water in the gutter. The horse of W. B. Wadsworth, of West Eighth street, was driven through the water and received a shock. The animal fell on the curb and lay there. He was finally assisted out of the way. A horse attached to a delivery wagon received a shock and attempted to run away. He was caught before going far. The ground was discovered by linemen and repaired.

Arbor Day Exercises.

Arbor Day was observed at the Plainfield public schools today. Special exercises were held at the High School. Readings were given by Miss Millie Green and Miss Clara Long and Superintendent H. M. Maxson gave a very interesting address on "Birds," telling something of the character and habits of the bird common to this part of the country. Exercises were also held in the other schools and consisted of appropriate readings and recitations and singing.

Spring Health.

With many people vitality reaches its lowest ebb in the spring. The heat producing foods of winter leave the system clogged with debris that ought to be removed. If all goes well nature will remove it, but it will take time and meanwhile vigor and energy will be lacking. It's wise to use a remedy like in the spring. It expels all impurity from the blood, increases the activity of the vital organs and gives health a new impulse.

Rawson's Sarsaparilla

Your money back if the remedy fails to give satisfaction.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 1. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Little ways of bettering the world. —Phil. ii, 12-16; Math. v, 13-16.

The duty of the Christian is to make the world better. This was the mission of Christ, and what He did is to be done by His disciples. Christ taught this duty to His disciples. "Ye are the salt of the earth," He said. Salt purifies, salt preserves. It makes better and it keeps better that with which it comes in contact. Thus the Christian as the salt of the earth is to make the earth better and to keep it better. "Ye are the light of the world," says Christ again. Light shines in darkness and dispels it, thus making everything better about it. Thus, says Christ, Christians are to let their light shine, that men may see their good works and glorify their Father who is in heaven.

The Christian is to make the world better by bringing it into the proper relation to God. This is the only true way to make it any better. The good works of Christ's disciples are not to lead men to glorify them, but to glorify God. This is to be done, the apostle practically argues in Phil. ii, 12-16, by obedience to God. If we obey God in the right kind of a way, men are led to see the beauty and the true method of obedience. They are thus led to obey God properly, and it is this that leads to their improvement morally and spiritually. Obedience seems like a little thing —trifling and insignificant—and yet it is a tremendously important factor in human life. Disobedience kept the children of Israel out of the land of Canaan, and disobedience will keep many out of the heavenly land typified by Canaan. When we obey God, we work out our salvation after we are saved; but we not only work out our own salvation in this way, but fill others with longings and aspirations to serve God with untold betterment to themselves.

The characteristics of Christian obedience as set forth by Paul are: (1) A cheerful obedience. "Do all things without murmurings" (Phil. ii, 14). It is not enough to obey God. We must do it willingly and cheerfully. When we obey, but with complaint and murmuring, obedience is robbed of much of its virtue and would discourage rather than encourage others in obedience. (2) An implicit, trustful obedience. "Without murmurings and disputings." For disputings read "doubtings." How many obey God, but with hesitancy, doubt and argument? Would such obedience encourage others? Rather would it not discourage them. If Christians obey God doubtingly, how could we expect those who are not Christians to obey him. (3) Filial obedience. "That ye may be blameless and harmless the sons of God." As sons we are to obey God. The slave may murmur and doubt, but the son never. The work may be laborious, at times it may be disagreeable, and yet the son should not complain, for he is working for himself in working for his father. As a son he is the heir, and therefore the fruit of his toil will some day be his own. In working for God we work for ourselves, and if we can impress men with this truth we will indeed be as lights in the world, dispelling darkness and making the world not only better, but happier.

Bible Readings.—I Sam. xv, 22; Math. x, 42; xxii, 34-39; xxv, 31-46; Luke x, 25-37; Rom. xii, 9-21; xv, 1-3; I Cor. x, 31; Gal. vi, 9; Eph. iv, 32; Heb. xiii, 1; 2; Jas. v, 7-14; I Pet. i, 22; ii, 17; iii, 8-12.

A Well Defined System.

Let me suggest to all my young brethren that if they hope to convert sinners and edify Christians they must take a strong and unhesitating grasp on God's Word and have a clear, well defined system of Biblical theology. Your business is not to unsettle faith, but to strengthen it. Stick to the old, well tried, heaven blessed gospel. Keep the modern fogs out of your study. As a wise man has said: "You may have your beliefs and have your doubts. Believe your beliefs and doubt your doubts. Never doubt your beliefs and never believe your doubts." Then you may hope to build up a solid church on Jesus Christ as the cornerstone.—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler in Evangelist.

Doing and Knowing.

Men say that when they know they will do; Jesus says that when they do they will know. He does not promise to manifest Himself to the man who dreams or debates, but to him who keeps His commandments. The seeds of truth sprout in the soil of obedience. The words of Jesus in the mind of a disobedient man are no more vital than wheat in the wrappings of a mummy. To know the divinity of Jesus' teachings we must do His will with definite intention. Moral disobedience is mental darkness, but to submit our wills in loyalty to His law is to open our minds to the light of His truth.—S. S. Times.

Always Building Up.

Love is always building up. It puts some line of beauty on every life it touches. It gives new hope to discouraged ones, new strength to those who are weak, new joys to those who are sorrowing. It helps the despairing to rise and start again. It makes life seem more worth while to every one into whose eyes it looks. Its words are benedictions. Its every breath is full of inspiration.—Westminster Teacher.

Words and Deeds.

Do not be content with professions and asseverations, but seek to carve your affections, emotions and convictions into deeds, which, however small in themselves, still bear the effluence of the impulse that inspired them.—Jewish Exponent.

A Delight.

There is a delight in meeting and conversing with white souled people in this world that can neither be expressed nor fully comprehended.—Christian Witness.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson For the Week Beginning May 1. Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M. Topic, The Grace of Hospitality.

SCRIPTURE READING.—Gen. xviii, 1-8; Heb. xiii, 2; I Pet. iv, 9.

Many things in our modern life tend to make us look upon hospitality differently from the way it was regarded formerly. Hotel accommodations are so ample and low priced that business men have little need or inclination to seek private and free entertainment. Many families have no conveniences for any outside the family circle. Yet it still remains a fact that one of the pleasantest things in social life is forming new acquaintance and the enjoying and dispensing hospitality in friendly homes.

One of the most delightful bits of descriptive literature known is this fragment preserved to us in Genesis giving a glimpse of ancient oriental customs. The unexpected appearance of travelers in the noonday heat, the unaffected and generous proffer of rest and refreshment to strangers by the sheik of the tribe, the startling message of the new friends and the important results—all gave emphasis to the wisdom of courtesy toward all men.

No one is so situated but that he may be benefited by others. Often it happens that the one who appears to be so placed that he needs nothing himself and whose benefits must be given without hope of return may at that very time be in need of the help of the ones whom he thinks he is assisting. Abraham was the one who most needed the acquaintance formed that day in the tents on Mamre's plains. Yet he saw only the needs of dusty travelers when he urged upon them the comforts of his home.

Never did people more need the blessings of Christian hospitality than now. Never did we more need the blessings which come from the dispensing of hospitality than at present. Clubs, associations, fraternities, unions and all such rob us of much that is valuable and deceive us into thinking we are having the results of home life in such social commingling.

Financial gain or loss, the cost and the saving, are not the important factors in this question, though they must be considered by most. The uplift and stimulus which the children in a home may get from a single evening spent in company with a person of culture and consecration can not be valued in money. A stranger is entertained in the home for a single night. Only an hour or two have been spent in conversation. But that short contact with a superior mind and spirit has awakened in the boys and girls of the family new life and aspirations. The world is never the same again. Windows have opened upon new landscapes. Delicacy, sweetness, power, have all appeared.

What is the price of a meal, the trouble of caring for a few bodily needs, compared with the benefit to mind and soul derived from such a visit.

No conference passes that does not multiply such cases and begin or cement friendships which shall be eternal.

"Use hospitality without grudging."

Miles Standish, the Captain.

Valor will ever win admiration. Who ever showed more real courage than this leader of the little band of pilgrims on our bleak New England shores? He was the one military man among the company landing on forefathers' rock at Plymouth in 1620. He was at once elected their captain, and his sagacity, vigilance and fearlessness were among the principal causes of the peaceful relations which the Indians maintained with the colonists. He built the fort on

STANDISH MONUMENT.

Fort hill and mounted his cannon on the flat roof. He built the stockade around the new settlement and kept sentinels posted at the gates and on the watchtower.

He afterward removed across the harbor and built his house on Captain's hill in Duxbury, in plain sight of Plymouth. The house was burned, but near the site and not far from his burial place the noble monument to his memory has been erected by the offerings of appreciative people all over the land. From its top he seems to look out over the broad bay where the Mayflower lay and to keep watch still over the safety of the people.

A most interesting literary topic for League investigation is "The Life and Work of Captain Miles Standish."

It is said that Luther did as much for the reformation by his hymns as by his translation of the Bible. The children learned them in the cottage and martyrs sang them on the scaffold and at the stake. Christianity wins by its songs when it cannot conquer by its arguments. Men can resist reason while they yield to music.

What a power there is in cheerfulness. "The joy of the Lord is our strength."

Chemnitz. Der Waarenexport aus dem Chemnitzer Konsulatsbezirk nach den Ver. Staaten ergab in den beiden ersten Monaten 1898 bei einer Ausfuhrsumme von $1,132,666 einen Ausfall von $120,530.

Eich. Durch einen wüthend gewordenen Bullen, welcher sich seiner Fesseln entledigt und die Freiheit gewonnen hatte, wurde der Schwiegersohn des Besitzers, Reiher mit Namen, niedergeworfen und mit den Hörnern, sowie mit den Füßen bearbeitet. Reiher wurde schwer verletzt.

Leipzig. Die Revision Trojans gegen seine Verurtheilung wegen Majestätsbeleidigung durch die bekannte Veröffentlichung im „Kladderadatsch" wurde verworfen. Trojan muß also die gegen ihn erkannte Strafe von zwei Monaten abbüßen.—Gegen den aus Edenkoben in der bayerischen Pfalz gebürtigen 30jährigen Schriftsteller Gustav Minster hat das Reichsgericht die Voruntersuchung wegen Verraths militärischer Geheimnisse eingeleitet.—Die Wohnungsnoth wird hier zu einem öffentlichen Mißstand. Auch bei dem letzten Vierteljahrwechsel sind zahlreiche kleine Leute ohne Obdach geblieben und die Miethzinssteigerungen gehen in's Ungewöhnliche, 30 bis 40 Prozent Erhöhung sind keine Seltenheit. Auch die größeren Wohnungen steigen sehr im Preise.

Zwickau. Stadtrath Keil in Leipzig ist zum hiesigen Oberbürgermeister erwählt worden. Der bisherige Oberbürgermeister, der fortschrittliche Landtagsabgeordnete Streit, tritt in den Ruhestand.

Thüringische Staaten.

Eisenach. Der hier begonnene Ausstand unter den Maurern und Zimmerleuten ist auch in anderen thüringischen Städten eingetreten.

Koburg. Welch' große Hoffnungen man bereits auf unsere neue Errungenschaft in China setzt, zeigt eine Annonce in einer der letzten Nummern des hier verlegten bedeutendsten kerami'schen Fachblattes „Der Sprechsaal," in welcher es heißt: „Zur Erbauung einer Glasfabrik in Kiaotschau wird von Fachmännern ein Kapitalist gesucht."

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. Der Senat hat dem Generaloberſten Grafen Waldersee die hamburgische Ehrendenkmünze in Gold verliehen.—Die hiesigen Unterbeamten der Reichspost mußten einen Revers unterzeichnen, in dem ihnen strengstens zur Pflicht gemacht wird, weder sozialdemokratische Versammlungen zu besuchen, noch solchen Vereinen und Verbänden sich anzuschließen, überhaupt haben sie sich von allen sozialdemokratischen Bestrebungen fernzuhalten. Wer dieser Verfügung zuwiderhandelt, soll sofort aus dem Dienste entlassen werden.

Bremen. G. Wolde hierselbst hat der Deputation für die Krankenanstalt, zunächst für fünf Jahre, eine Summe von 1500 Mark jährlich geschenkt, für welche entweder ein Kranker in der Anstalt frei untergebracht werden soll oder Kranke durch Zuschüsse zu den tarifmäßigen Pflegegeldern unterstützt werden sollen.

Lübeck. Auf Veranlassung der hiesigen Firma D. v. Schack hat sich eine Einkaufsvereinigung gebildet zum Zwecke gemeinsamen Masseneinkaufs. Durch diese Selbsthilfe will man der Konkurrenz der großen Waarenhäuser entgegentreten. Die größten Fabriken wollen dieser Vereinigung außerordentliche Rabattvortheile einräumen. REVISED VERSION A DRUG.

Booksellers Are Still Overstocked with Copies of the Newest Bible.

Those who remember the enormous sales which attended the introduction of the revised version of the holy scriptures will be not a little surprised at the general collapse which has gradually made this publication a drug in the market. Over sixteen years ago the first edition of the revised New Testament was published at the Oxford Press, and at that time so strenuous were the efforts made to obtain advance sheets of it, that one house alone offered £5,000 for a single copy without success. When the revised version of the entire Bible was published, four years later, the run on the Oxford University Press warehouse was unprecedented, upward of 1,000,000 copies being issued between one midnight and the next midday. At the New York branch of the Oxford Press, in Bleecher street, the office was besieged the night before publication, and special detectives were placed around the building to prevent overeager purchasers from obtaining copies, even by depositing their money.

It is estimated that 1,000,000 copies were sold in this country during the first three weeks after the publication. Such a sale has never before been known, and several American firms, including Harper Bros., D. Apleton & Co., Dodd, Mead & Co., and Porter & Coates of Philadelphia, issued American editions in large quantities to meet the demand.

The collapse was experienced less than two months after the first appearance of the new version. The total loss to the American firms interested has been variously estimated to be between $500,000 and $600,000. From that date until now the sales have been extremely small, less than eight copies being sold to 100 of the King James version.

As a text book it is considered almost invaluable, and is used extensively by clergymen of all denominations and in many Sunday schools. Its superiority in technical accuracy is everywhere recognized. Its lack of popularity in public worship seems to grow out of a loss of sentiment, which is found to so large a degree in the authorized version. One of the passages which has evoked the most unfavorable comment is the translation of the Lord's prayer, which in Matthew vi., 9-14, is made to read as follows:

"Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts as we also have forgiven our debtors. And bring us not into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one."

The substitution of "the evil one" for "evil" brought forth a flood of criticism.

Another passage which has attracted attention is the translation of "Gloria in Excelsis." Instead of "Glory be to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men," the revised version has it: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace among men in whom he is well pleased."

These two passages, perhaps, alone have decided the fate of the new version as a book "appointed to be read in churches."—New York Times.

THIS TOWN IS A COMMONWEALTH.

A New Colony at Ruskin, Tenn., which Runs Smoothly.

Mr. Klamroth, an advocate of socialism reform, a resident of Ruskin Tenn., a small town near Nashville that is conducted on the co-operative commonwealth system, in an interview gives some very interesting facts about the new colony.

Ruskin is situated on the Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis Railroad, fifty miles west of Nashville. It was incorporated three years ago last August by thirty people. Its inhabitants now number 225 persons. The original incorporators of the town subscribed enough money to purchase half the land that is now the site of the town. The other half was donated to them by people interested in the enterprise and anxious to see the commonwealth succeed. This co-operative commonwealth colony now owns 1,005 acres of excellent ground and the stores, the farm land and the mills are all conducted on the co-operative plan. Nearly every family owns its own house but every resident in the place eats at the same dining table. In the morning the rising bell rings at 5:30 o'clock and all the members of the colony have to conform to a set of regulations which prescribe that all shall rise at this hour. At 6:10 o'clock the breakfast bell is rung and all the families of the village gather in the dining room. The table is waited on by schoolgirls, who also wash the dishes. At 7 o'clock another bell is rung that is the signal to begin work for the day. None of the men or women members of the colony are laggards or drones and as soon as this bell is sounded they at once betake themselves to the work that has been assigned.—Chicago Chronicle.

Did That Suit Her.

"What I like," she said, "is a person who is frank—one who says just what he means, without beating around the bush."

"Well, then," he replied, "I'll be straightforward. There is something I've wanted to tell you for an hour or "Yes," she urged, seeing that he hesitated, "what is it?"

"There is a big black streak down one side of your nose. I guess it's soot."—Cleveland Leader.

To live is to have justice, truth, reason, devotion, probity, sincerity, common sense, right and duty welded into the heart.—Victor Hugo.

A VALUABLE PRIZE.

The Monitor Terror Captures the Spanish Steamer Guido Near Havana.

Key West, April 29.—The large Spanish steamship Guido, which was captured by the monitor Terror on Wednesday morning, is the richest prize so far. She is roughly valued at $400,000, aside from the specie she has on board. The amount of this is not known, as it is in a big iron safe, which has been sealed and will not be opened until the prize court has formally condemned the vessel.

The Terror fell in off the coast of Cuba with the Spaniarad. It was about 4 o'clock in the morning. The Terror fired a blank shot as a signal to the steamship to heave to. Instead of obeying, the Guido put out all her lights and tried to run away.

The Terror immediately opened fire on the steamship from her six-pounder. Four shots were fired, and every one of them took effect on the Guido, doing great damage to her. Her pilot house was almost entirely carried away. None of the steamship's crew, however, was injured.

The gunboat Machias was some distance away when the Terror began firing. She came up and opened fire on the Guido with her four-inch rifle. One shot was fired, which failed to hit the Spaniard.

Another shot was unnecessary, for the Guido hove to and allowed the Terror to come up with her. A prize crew was sent aboard her from the monitor, and she was brought into Key West.

The steamship was bound from Corunna, Spain, for Havana, with a cargo of provisions and money for the Spanish army. She carried a crew of thirty-five men. The capture is regarded here as an important one.

Kaiser Explains His Neutral Stand.

London, April 29.—The Berlin correspondent of the Standard telegraphs:

"I hear from a good source that Emperor William, who is deeply interested in the Cuban question, has repeatedly taken occasion to explain his views as to Germany's neutrality. His Majesty is all the more entitled to pursue his present policy, as he possesses absolute proof that the United States do not intend ever to annex Cuba. They are prepared to suffer defeat from the Spaniards at first, but they will not end the war until Spain renounces her sovereignty over Cuba, which can then, and not till then, gradually be restored to order."

400,000 Men Offered.

Washington, April 29.—Four hundred thousand troops have been offered to the Government by the Governors of the various States. As the call was for only 125,000, the State officials will have to do some vigorous cutting, since there is no intention on the part of the War Department to change the quotas decided on.

RAMONA'S FIGHTING PARSON.

He Is Able to Emphasize His Utterances With His Fist.

Rev. Stanley Wilson, of Ramona, Cal., is perhaps the only clergyman in the country who has the record of preaching a sermon and thrashing a bully all in the same Sunday forenoon. Mr. Wilson is an athletic young man, being considered the best boxer in the mountain region of his county, and, in addition to riding the circuit embracing the various hamlets in the hills, is editor of the Ramona Sentinel. He preached the other morning in the little Baptist Church that stands among the pines of the hills back of Julian. After his sermon Mr. Wilson was accosted on the streets by Dave Putnam, a bully, who has been in many scrapes who demanded a retraction of a certain item that lately appeared in the Ramona Sentinel reflecting on himself.

"Did you write that article about me?" asked Putnam.

"I am responsible for it if I did not write it," replied the preacher.

"Well, if you are responsible for it, take that," said Putnam, striking at the eloquent young parson.

The blow failed to land. The parson sailed into the miner and they clinched. Then the dust of the streets arose in a cloud. The miners gathered around and cheered the parson to the echo. Within five minutes Putnam was knocked out and the preacher was calmly dusting off his plug hat.

Even before this occurrence Mr. Wilson did not lack popularity, but since then his stock has gone up a hundredfold. Putnam has been laughed out of the country.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A POSTMAN ON STILTS.

Getting About Made Easier in the "Landes" of France.

Between Bordeaux and Bayonne lies that stretch of open country known as the "Landes." A great part of this tract, which was formerly waste land, has been now partially reclaimed and planted with pine trees, which are cultivated for the sake of the resin that is extracted from them. The rest of it, however, remains wild and covered with gorse and broom. The villages and groups of dwellings in the "Landes" are very scattered, and in order to traverse the wide extent of the plains with ease the inhabitants use stilts, according to "The London Graphic," which are tied to their legs. Mounted on these the shepherds watch their flocks in the brushwood, and can cross pools, marshes and peats without difficulty. They carry with them a long pole, which serves as a support when resting. The postmen, too, employ this means of getting about. In winter time, when the "Landes" are covered with snow, getting about on stilts is, of course, difficult, and in order to obviate the inconvenience and to enable him to get over the ground without loss of time the postman has lately fitted to his stilts a kind of thin wooden skate, which enables him to walk on the top of the snow without sinking in.

Engineers to the Front.

West Point, April 29, 2:35 p. m.—The battalion of United States engineers leaves here today with the pontoon trains to join the army of invasion of Cuba.

Musteringin Officer.

Trenton, April 28.—Captain William Buttler, of the Third United States Intantry, has been appointed by the War Department as musteringin officer of the New Jersey troops, and the work of swearing them into the service and the final examination by the army surgeons will probably take place soon after, if not immediately upon the arrival of the troops at Sea Girt. Future movements will, of course, depend entirely upon the action of the War Department, under whose control the volunteers will then be.

Waiting for Peace to Come.

Stirling, April 29.—The Stirling Silk Manufacturing Company has had plans made to have a large wing built to the mill, but owing to the war the company has decided to wait for peace before making the improvement.

Not Mustered-in Soon Enough.

The members of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps came very near being members of the National Guard of this State and so called out for service in the present war. Some time ago the officers of the Corps made application to secure the appointment for the corps as the Third Regiment Drum Corps. The application was finally favorably considered and the Plainfield boys were to be mustered into the National Guard in May. Had they already joined the ranks they now be called out with the Regiment.

Enlisted in Navy.

Westfield, April 29.—David Curtis, of this place, and Charles Dollard, of Picton, enlisted yesterday in the U. S. Navy.

Camp Ready for Men

Sea Girt, April 29.—The camp ground at Sea Girt now lacks only one thing to give it every appearance of a real encampment, and that is the men. It has already been put in tip-top shape under the supervision of the Quartermaster General and his assistants. When the men go into camp about half of them will be supplied with cots, and these will have no floors in their tents. The remaining tents will be furnished with board floors, and those who occupy them will be provided with bed sacks instead of cots. The buildings for emergency referred to in the dispatches are those located on the grounds, and it is the intention to use these in case cold, wet weather makes the tents untenantable.

Cuban Flag Had to Come Down.

Cranford, April 29.—The scholars of the public school procured a Cuban flag and flung it to the breeze from the flagstaff at the school beneath the Stars and Stripes. Yesterday District Clerk Brendage visited the school and directed the principal to take down the Cuban flag, and gave orders not to fly it from the schoolhouse again.

Wants 100 Volunteers.

Charles J. McNabb, the lawyer, has been appointed by Col. Noah L. Cochen, of 48 Broadway, Brooklyn, to secure enlistments for the First Provisional Regiment of Cavalry in connection with the National Volunteer Reserve. He has been supplied with the necessary blanks and today advertises for 100 volunteers in the regiment.

From Plain and Plantation.

An appreciative audience gathered in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church last evening and was entertained in a pleasant manner by Mrs. Alfred Chester Coursen's "Voices from Plain and Plantation." The entire affair was given under the auspices of the Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters, of the Crescent Avenue church A prettily decorated candy table in charge of a number of young ladies of the circle was a successful feature of the affair and added a neat sum to the receipts of the evening. The proceeds will be devoted to forwarding some charitable work.

Entertained With Euchre.

Miss Etta Neuman, of East Fifth street, entertained the Thursday Night Euchre Club at her home last evening. The first and second prizes for the women were awarded to Mrs. Will F. Williams and Miss Mabelle Force, while Theodore Mantz and Judge DeMeza received the second prizes for the men. Last Wednesday afternoon at St. Mary's church occurred the marriage of Miss Alice Higgins, of East Sixth street, to Joseph Tzink, of Astoria, L. I. The marriage was performed by Rev. Father McCormick, curate of the parish. After the ceremony the bride and groom left Plainfield for their future home at Astoria.

Killed on the Tracks.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Neshanic, April 29.—An unknown man, about 35 years old, was found dead on the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks here yesterday. A letter found on his person, addressed to "Wallace McCoy, Brooklyn," was the only clue to his identity.

Thaddeus O. Doane, chief of the Plainfield Fire Department, was in Somerville one day last week, and was escorted about the town by ex-Chief Robert L Day He expressed himself as very much pleased with the equipment of the Somerville Department.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

He was young but ardent.

"I wish I were the glove that presses your lovely hand," he said to the charming maid.

She glanced at him with a bewitching smile.

"Aren't you enough of a kid as it is?" she softly asked.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Stafford, Eric Moraller and Max Moraller. F. O. Bristol and Walter Dreier appeared dressed as clowns and caused much amusement by their funny antics. There was a tug-of-war between the Students' team and the "Big Five." The latter won all three trials. In window diving, Walter L. Long and Homer Smith tied for first place. Thomas Green and Charles Hayes tied in a potato race. The medals for the season's indoor athletic contest were presented by S. B. Joseph. They were won by Frank Marcley, Walter L. Long and F. O. Eight advance purses have been opened which will close on May 28th. The 2:20 trotting class is for a purse of $1,000. There are two purses of $800 each for the 2:18 trotting class and the 2:25 pacing class, and purses of $500 each for the 2:27, 2:34, and 2:40 trotting classes (the latter for three-year-olds), and the 2:33 pacing class. ACCUSED OF PERJURY.

Law Student Willie Sweeney Gets Into More Legal Trouble.

The assault case of Willie Sweeney against P. DeRoosa was tried before Justice Mosher yesterday afternoon. The plaintiff represented himself. V. W. Nash, Jr., represented the defendant. The plaintiff had several witnesses to show that he did not assault the plaintiff. There were many contradictory statements and Justice Mosher reserved his decision until this afternoon.

Immediately after the trial the plaintiff was arrested on a complaint charging the plaintiff with perjury. The case was set down for trial next Monday afternoon at 2:30.

Counsellor W. K. McClure asked to have the defendant discharged in his custody, which was granted by the court.

To Lower the Grade

The Central Railroad Company is making extensive improvements on the section between Junction and Phillipsburg. There has always been a steep grade here, so that extra locomotives had to be put on coal trains. It is now proposed to elevate the tracks so as to do away with this grade. Twenty-five extra men and a gravel train have been placed on the section to carry on the work.

SPANISH FORT DESTROYED

Admiral Sampson Does Disastrous Work to Cuban Coast Defenses.

Key West, April 30, 10 a. m—A report has reached here of another engagement between a portion of Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet off Cuba and the Spanish batteries on shore.

The result of the conflict was the entire demolishment of the Spanish earthworks, while the American ships did not suffer from the fire from the shore.

The bombardment was brought on by the torpedo boats Erricson and Porter. They were patrolling the coast west of the Havana harbor.

They steamed close to the shore and near the batteries that the Spanish troops have erected at Port Cabanas. Port Cabanas is thirty-five miles west of Havana.

The fortifications at that port were considered strong. A number of modern guns had been mounted there in positions that commanded the harbor.

It is reported that the shots fired at the torpedo boats did no injury, as the shooting of the Spaniards was very wild.

The flagship New York steamed up at the sound of firing and took a position broadside to the batteries.

Firing was begun with the rapid firing guns and a large number of shells were dropped into the fortification. The shelling lasted for fifteen minutes.

The fire of the American sailors was very accurate and most of the shells did effective work. The fortifications are reported to be a mass of ruins.

The Spanish started to respond to the bombardment from the New York but their replies were scattered and their aim wild. The hot fire from the New York soon compelled the Spanish gunners to desert their guns.

The news of the reported bombardment reached here by a dispatch boat from the American fleet. It took place yesterday afternoon.

Latest advices from the fleet off Cuba state that the firing from the Spanish batteries near Cabanas had no effect on the flag-ship New York.

Eleven shots were fired from the eight-inch guns on the New York. Seven of them fell precisely where they were intended to go.

As far as is discernable from aboard the American ships, the fortifications were completely destroyed. Several Spanish soldiers are supposed to have been killed by the explosion of the shells from the New York.

THE PARIS IN SAFE.

Steamed Into the New York Harbor Early This Morning.

New York, April 30, 10 a. m—The American liner Paris, for which great fears have been entertained as to her safety from Spanish attack while crossing the Atlantic ocean for the last time as a private vessel, is safe.

The Paris arrived at quarantine at 7:15 o'clock.

She was soon boarded by government officials for inspection and in a short time proceeded on her way up the harbor.

Her appearance was greeted with a great demonstration by the craft in the North river. Flags were flying, whistles of every kind of boat, from the tiny shrill of the small yacht to the hoarse blast of the larger vessels, greeted her all along the way to the American pier at the foot of Cortlandt street.

Never before has a vessel been welcomed with greater glee than the Paris was. Craning necks appeared at the windows of all the tall buildings in the lower end of the city and thousands of flags blew to and fro in the morning breeze to extend a patriotic welcome to the gallant ship.

The Paris was sighted off Fire Island shortly after 2 o'clock this morning and she entered the lower bay about 6 o'clock. The news had no sooner spread than it went like lightning throughout the city, and then a surging crowd of curious people commenced to gather in West and Cortlandt street to see the steamer glide into her dock.

None of the sightseers were permitted to go inside the dock lines of the American pier.

The seventeen saloon and the thirty six second cabin passengers were not long in gaining terra firma on the American shore. Their baggage was hastily examined by the custom house officials.

Capt. Watkins was warmly congraulated by the officials of the American line for eluding the Spanish battleships that were laying in wait to capture the Paris if possible. The Paris brought the biggest consignment of gun powder ever received at this port.

The Paris left Southampton April 22.

The Government has evidently never had any doubt of the Paris' safe arrival, for orders have been sent to the Navy Yard to prepare to begin the work of converting the liner into a cruiser as the Yale.

The Paris was not once reported during her trip. She did not follow the path of ocean liners for fear that an enemy might be lying in wait to intercept her. The first report of her was when the operator, peering through the mist, sighted her four miles off Fire Island at 2:45 o'clock this morning.

After discharging her cargo, which includes a quantity of guns, gun fixtures and ammunition, the Paris will be taken to the Navy Yard.

Shaw Not Guilty.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Camden, April 30, 11 a. m.—Shaw has been found innocent of the murder of his mother and grandmother for which he has stood trial in this city. The trial has been a very sensational one and has occupied a week. The first trial resulted in a mistrial. The jury went out last night and returned this morning bringing in a verdict of not guilty.

The commandant has been instructed to place six pounder guns on her at once and to make use of the entire working force in the yard to get her ready for sea as soon as possible.

The main battery will not be placed on the vessel at once. When the small guns are placed in position she will join her sister cruiser, the Harvard and will begin scout duty.

TO INVADE CUBA IN A WEEK.

General Shafter Ordered to Land 6,000 Troops by May 4th.

Washington, April 30, 10:30 a. m—The invasion of Cuba is soon to be a reality. Within a week the American forces will move toward the island with its capture in view.

The official announcement has now been made by the war department that Gen. Shafter, with an army of six thousand regular troops, will move on Cuba May 4th.

It is rumored that Sagua, a coast city one hundred and sixty miles east of Havana, will be first attacked, and will be made the base of supplies for the American Army.

The troops that will be included in the army of invasion will be those now mobilized at Tampa, Fla., and a portion of those a Mobile.

The batteries of artillery that have just arrived at Tampa from the Chickmauga Park will also go. There will be several troops of cavalry attached to the army, but the greater force will be from the infantry branch of the army.

London, April 30, 10:15 a. m—Advices from Madrid say that the American correspondents in that city are to be expelled from Spain by the order of the Cortes which has decided on such action.

British Subjects in Fear.

London, April 30, 10:40 a. m—The British Consul at Santiago de Cuba has cabled that his life and the life of British subjects are in danger from the Spanish mob.

A war ship has been hurriedly despatched to Santiago to protect the British subjects and interests. Terror reigns throughout that district. The Spaniards have threatened to kill all Englishmen and Americans.

MILL OWNERS GET FAVORABLE VERDICT.

Water Company Loses Its Case in Supreme Court.

MUST PAY $430.95 DAMAGES

JURY WAS OUT FROM 12:30 TO 4 O'CLOCK.

The Case is a Very Important One and Senator Reed Outlined and Conducted a Prosecution That Was Effective in the Minds of the Jurors—Judge Magie in Charging Said the Evidence Was Contradictory, But the Witnesses Seemed Honest and the Jury Must Decide the Truth of Claims.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 30.—The trial of the Harper, Hollingsworth & Company against the Mountain Water Company came to an end yesterday after a contest lasting nine days, during which every point was fiercely contested. Senator Reed, of North Plainfield, represented Harper, Hollingsworth & Company, the plaintiffs, while Chandler Riker and Richard Lindabury, of Newark, fought for the interests of the Mountain Water Company. The case is one of the first of the kind to be tried in New Jefsey and the verdict naturally interests many people. Senator Reed won a great victory when he secured from the jury a verdict for $430.95 for his clients, as damages.

Mr. Reed followed every point closely and the result was that the case was clearly developed in the minds of the jury. In the charge to the jury, Judge Magie made every point clear and plain. The opposing counsel fought the case equally well and many excellent points in behalf of their clients were made. It is not likely that the case will rest, for the defendants will probably appeal and the case will then be taken before the Chancellor, who will determine definitely the amount of damage for all time. However, the outcome of the case will be watched with the greatest interest.

At the opening of court Senator Reed continued his argument. He briefly reviewed the evidence sustaining his part of the case as given by almost a score of witnesses and also reviewed the testimony given by the defense.

Judge Magie charged the jury at 11:30 and talked for one hour. He went carefully over all the evidence as produced by the witnesses. He said that a great deal of it was contradictory, although the witnesses on both sides appeared to be honest men. The jury must decide which to believe and which to leave out.

The jury retired to the Grand Jury room where they considered the case carefully from 12:30 to 4 o'clock. On the first ballot which was taken, soon after retiring, it stood in favor of the plaintiff From that time until 4 o'clock a number of ballots were taken and the case was discussed at length. Finally a verdict was given the plaintiff for $430 95. When the verdict was handed in Judge Magie and the defendant's counsel was absent, Senator Reed was present and thanked the jury for the verdict which was handed to Clerk Somers.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS' PAY.

An Interesting Case Decided in Justice Moffett's Court.

The case of Spangenberg against Bullock, which was tried in Justice Moffett's court Thursday afternoon, attracted the interest of all the real estate brokers of the city, whose interests it affected more or less.

Former Councilman Spangenberg secured a tenant for a house on Kensington avenue belonging to Mrs. Lydia P. Bullock The defendant gave a lease for three years and accepted a check for one month's rent, but refused to pay Broker Spangenberg his commission when the latter demanded it.

At the trial the plaintiff was represented by I. P. Runyon, of Pope & Runyon, and W. S. Angleman appeared for the defendant. The prosecution produced several real estate men who testified that it was customary for the broker to receive commission when the first month's rent is received by the owner.

The defense made an effort to prove that no contract had been made with Spangenberg relative to the renting of the house.

After hearing all the evidence and arguments of counsel, the Justice gave judgement in full for the plaintiff. The amount was $54.

SMART WOMEN TO MEET.

NATIONAL EQUAL SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION CONFERENCE.

An Important Event to be Held at East Orange and in Which Plainfield Women Will Take Active Part.

A National woman's suffrage conference will be held at Union Hall, Orange, Friday and Saturday, May 6th and 7th. The afternoon sessions on each day will begin at 2:30, the evening sessions at 8 o'clock. It is expected that this will be an important event in the history of the suffrage movement in New Jersey, and the National, State and local elements will be fully represented.

The presiding officer will be Miss Mary G. Hay, of New York, who will also take part in the discussion on the second day. Miss Hay is an attractive speaker and a chairman of practised ability, having been connected nearly all her life with public work of various kinds. Rev. Antionette Brown Blackwell, whose presence will honor the conference by representing the noble pioneers of the cause, will open the first session with prayer, and the same afternoon she will speak upon "Women's Place in Civilization."

The prominent National speakers will be Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt and Rev. Anna H. Shaw. Mrs. Catt is widely known as one of the most brilliant and convincing speakers in the country, and is a woman of charming personality. She is a native of Wisconsin, and has always been an ardent believer and active worker in the cause of woman suffrage. Her sub jects will be as follows: First evening. "The True Democracy." Second day afternoon, "How May We Win the Suffrage?"

Rev. Anna H. Shaw will appear on the second day, taking charge of the "question box" in the afternoon, and in the evening delivering an address. Her earnestness and eloquence is too well known in this State to need further comment. Another notable fea ture of the first afternoon will be an address by Homer B. Sprague, Ph.D., on "Suffrage and Education." Prof. Sprague's eminent character and fame as author and lecturer add much weight to his disinterested advocacy of woman's progress.

On the same occasion there will be a symposium, in which the following questions will be considered: "Does the Wife Need Suffrage?" by Mrs. W. J. Pullen, president of the Camden League; "Does the Business Woman Need It?" by Miss Jennie Morris, of Moorestown, N. J.; "Does the Professional Woman Need It?" by Dr. C. V. Luther; "Does the Tax-paying Woman Need It?" by Mrs. Isabella H. Demarest, of Closter, N. J., corresponding secretary of the W. C. T. U. All these women, representing the State, are speakers of ability.

The first evening a "Suffrage Farce," entitled "The Judgment of Minerva," will be read by its author, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, President of the New Jersey State Association, and Vice-President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Hall, the daughter of Julia Ward Howe, has for years been one of the ablest and most active workers, both for suffrage and for the club movement. Her farce is intended to show the absurd and illogical attitute of the anti-suffragists, and has been presented to many audiences, always arousing much laughter and enthusiasm.

The second afternoon, Mrs. Mariana W. Chapman, President of the New York State Association, will speak on "Women in '48 and '98." Mrs. J. D. DeWitt, President of the Essex County Association, will give "A Word to Essex County," and Miss Marion Couthouy Smith, of East Orange, representing the local element, will present the question, "Is Woman Suffrage Right?" At the beginning of each session, attractive music will be rendered. There will be singing by Mrs. Jean Slee Starr and Victor Baldwin, and violin solos by Albert Gosweiler.

A Very Nice Legacy.

John Witteman, of 546 West Sixth street, who is an engineer at the clothing establishment of Schepflin & Schultz, West Front street, has just came into the possession of $800, his portion of the estate owned by his father in Germany. The legacy was sent to him by his loving brother from his native land, Germany. Mr. Witteman's father died in the year 1889. Mr. Witteman is a hard and earnest workingman who deserves the amount left to him.

After months of preparation and hard work the doors of White's store were opened today with the store complete in every way. The growth of this business is something wonderful, and it shows that it has the full confidence of the public They never lose sight of the fact that the people of Plainfield have made this store what it is today, the shopping centre of Plainfield, and during the few years that have passed since this business was established in a room 20x25 feet, their aim has always been to sell goods of standard merit at the lowest possible prices. "I WOULD NOT LET YOU TRY A CAT FOR ME"

What Justice Nash Said to Justice Mosher.

HIGH WORDS WERE HEARD.

MCSHER SUBPŒNAED AS A WITNESS BEFORE HIMSELF.

A Great Ado That Has Grown Out of an Attempt to Collect the Incipient Sum of Ten Cents — Mosher Held Nash's Tenant for Grand Jury and the Latter Was Much Put Out by Such Action — Justice Mosher Told Justice Nash That He Was No Gentleman—The Former Asks for Advice.

There is dire trouble between Justice of the Peace Nash and Justice of the Peace Mosher, growing out of the decision of the latter to hold P. DeRoosa in $200 bail for the Union County Grand Jury, on the charge of assault and battery preferred by William Sweeney, a clerk in the law office of W. K. McClure. The case seems to be a very complicated one and is not without its humorous phases.

It seems that DeRoosa is a tenant of Justice Nash's. When Sweeney had the Italian arrested because he alleged that the former struck him in lieu of settling a bill of ten cents he was trying to collect, V. W. Nash Jr., who is studying law in his father's office, volunteered to appear in his defense before Justice Mosher. Sweeney prosecuted his own complaint and as both counsels are under age the trial was rather ludicrous.

After hearing the evidence Justice Mosher reserved decision till yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. At the appointed hour young Mr. Nash was present to hear the result. Justice Mosher stated that he held DeRoosa for the Grand Jury and then asked the youthful counsel where his client was.

"I thought he was going to be discharged," it is said young Mr Nash replied, and then added, "I don't see how you can find him guilty."

The Justice admonished the aspiring lawyer that if he didn't have the prisoner before him in half an hour he would send a constable for him.

Sometime after that Justice Nash himself, accompanied by DeRoosa, appeared before Justice Mosher, the former apparently somewhat excited. Justice Mosher says that Nash exclaimed to him, "I wouldn't let you try a cat for me," at the same time throwing a legal paper on his desk.

"You're no gentleman," replied Justice Mosher.

"I have a perfect right to tell you what I think of you," added Justice Nash in vigorous tones.

"You are no gentleman," repeated Justice Mosher.

By this time Justice Mosher had opened the legal document and found it to be a subpœna for himself to appear before himself as a witness in the case of the State against Sweeney, on the charge of perjury, which was preferred as a result of the evidence that Sweeney gave in the assault and battery case.

The subpœna was made out to Justice Mosher and says "you are hereby commanded personally to be and appear before Justice Mosher, Esq., Justice of the Peace," and is signed by "V. W. Nash, Justice of the Peace."

Justice Mosher turned the subpœna over to a lawyer for advice as to whether he could give evidence in a case which was being tried before him.

Justice Nash furnished the $200 bail for DeRoosa.

SPANISH FLEET SAILS

Cape Verde Squadron Goes to Sea in Two Divisions.

SEALED ORDERS TAKEN

Believed That the Fighting Ships Are Moving Toward Cuba While the Non-Combatants Are Going to Another Anchorage, Presumably the Canaries—The Navy Department Notified of the Movement—The Ships Included.

St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, April 30.—The Spanish squadron, which sailed yesterday, went in a southerly direction. Its destination is not known. The vesses sailed under sealed orders. They are to be opened at sea, when the fleet will shape its course according to the directions from Madrid.

Collision in the Spanish Fleet.

St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, April 30.—After the larger ships of the squadron had departed yesterday, the torpedo boats Ariete, Azor and Reyo and the armed transport ships Ciudad de Cadiz and San Francisco, returned here. It is announced that the Ariete and the Azor came into collision with one another and received slight damage, and that they will proceed to join the fleet to-day.

THE FLEET WAS DIVIDED.

Torpedo Boats and Transports Went North the Others West.

London, April 30.—The Evening News publishes a dispatch from St. Vincent, saying the Spanish cruisers Maria Teresa, Almirante Oquendo, Viscaya and Cristobal Colon, accompanied by the Spanish torpedo boat destroyers Pluton, Terror and Furor, sailed in a westerly direction, presumably going toward Cuba.

The dispatch adds that the torpedo boats Azor, Rayo and Ariete, and the transports San Francisco and Ciudad de Cadiz sailed at the same time in a northerly direction, probably going to the Canary Islands.

The News, commenting on its dispatch from St. Vincent, says:

"The import of the cablegram is that the whole effective fighting force of the squadron has been dispatched west, while the non-effective and the non-combatants are proceeding to another anchorage.

"Well-informed naval authorities are aware that the torpedo boats could not traverse the Atlantic at the present time, as they have not sufficient coal capacity for a voyage to Cuba, and the risk of coaling in midocean is too great.

"This long-delayed move is most significant. Its significance is in the fact, which can hardly be over-emphasized, that it is practically Spain's first real move since the outbreak of hostilities."

DEFINITE MOVE NOW EXPECTED.

The Navy Department Informed That the Fleet Left in Three Detachments.

Washington, April 30.—News received at the Navy Department of the sailing of the Spanish fleet was to the effect that the vessels had left in three detachments, two of which went west and the other one south. While the department officials had been expecting the departure of the Spanish fleet from St Vincent for some time, yet the definite news that the vessels had finally put to sea caused quite a stir.

Speculation was rife as to the destination of the fleet. The fact that it went out in three detachments was taken as simply an attempt to throw our officials off the track. It is confidently believed that the entire fleet will meet shortly and proceed to some appointed place.

Opinions differ as to the destination of the squadron. Some officers believe that they will turn up at the Canary Islands, while others think it is Spain's intention to attack the blockading squadron at Cuba.

If the fleet puts back to the Canaries its movements will be effectually covered, as the cable at that point is owned by Spain. If the ships are on the high seas we will have to depend upon our scouts for information as to their whereabouts.

It is likely that some definite and decisive movement will now follow on the part of our Navy. It is expected that the flying squadron will again be assembled and ordered to Porto Rico which is the first point that will be reached by the enemy if an attack on our ships near Cuba is to be made. It is possible, also, that Commodore Schley may be instructed to put to sea with orders to meet the Spanish ships and engage them.

It is certain that the moving of the fleet from Cape Verde will force the issue in some manner, particularly if the Spanish ships continue the course on which they started on leaving St Vincent.

WAITING AT MANILA.

The American Squadron Expected to Arrive There To-Morrow.

Madrid, April 30.—Dispatches received from Manila, Philippine Islands, say the United States fleet is expected to arrive there to-morrow. The Spanish fleet has been divided into two squadrons. Two cruisers, the Castilla and other vessels, remain near the front of Manila. The remaining Spanish warships, under Admiral Montejo, are patroling the western coasts, awaiting the arrival of the American warships.

The Spanish fleet, it apepars, has been reinforced by a large auxiliary cruiser, said to be capable of steaming twenty knots, and armed as a warship. She is known as the Montevideo but an examination of the maritime register fails to establish her identity. It is claimed, however, that she is a very large vessel.

No News Expected Before Monday.

Washington, April 30.—The officials at the Navy Department are awaiting with interest news from the Philippines. It is expected that the American fleet, under Commoder Dewey, will arrive off Manila some time to-day and that the first naval battle will then take place. Naval officials say that the first reports must be taken with caution because the news will come from Manila, and as that is under the influence of a Spanish censor nothing but news favorable to the Spaniards will be allowed to pass him.

Unless the American officers land, take possession of Manila and seize the telegraph wires, beyond doubt the first news will not be reliable. If news is sent from the fleet it will have to come via Hong Kong, and will take at least three days. It is hardly probable that any reliable news will reach this country before Monday.

The American Sighted Off Bolano.

Hong Kong, April 30.—It is denied that the Spanish fleet has left Manila to meet the American squadron. On the contrary, it is asserted that the Spanish war ships will remain in Manila Bay to assist the forts.

It is reported from Manila that the American war ships have been sighted off Bolanao, province of Zambales, 100 miles north of Manila, where the rebellion broke out last February, but the weather has been too stormy for the fleet to communicate with the rebels.

The insurgent chief Aguinaldo is coming to Hong Kong from Singapore. It is alleged that he absconded with $500,000 paid by the Spanish Government for the other insurgent leaders. All Manila telegrams are censorized and mail communications with Hong Kong is suspended.

As soon as the first gun is fired the insurgents will attack the city from the rear. They are well armed and expect to carry it at the first assault.

The first real news of the fight will come by cable from the British Consul at Manila. The cable has not been cut. It is probable that unless the city is captured at once the Spanish officials will cable a report of a great Spanish victory.

London, April 30.—The Daily Mail hears from Singapore that a naval battle is momentarily expected in Manila Bay.

To Bring Specie from Manila.

Hong Kong, April 30.—The steamer Esmeralda, chartered by the banking companies, has gone to Manila, Philippine Islands, to bring away the specie there. It is understood she will be able to enter and leave Manila before the United States fleet attacks that port.

She has a considerable quantity of coal on board, and also has as a passenger the insurgent leader Filipino. She is said to have sealed orders to join the United States fleet after her mission is accomplished. The cable to Manila has not been cut.

Germany to Protect Manila.

Madrid, April 30.—Great effect has been produced here by a rumor that the German Government has issued a note declaring that it will not oppose the landing of troops in the Philippines, but will not permit a bombardment, owing to the important German mercantile interests in all the towns of the islands. Germany's omission to declare neutrality is the only ground on which Spain is able to account for this rumor.

TO WATCH THE DONS' FLEET.

No Chance for a Surprise by the Spanish Cruisers—Scout Ships to Go Out.

Washington, April 30.—The Government having received definite information in regard to the sailing of the Spanish fleet from St. Vincent, is considering a plan to meet a possible attack on the northern coast of the United States. It has been suggested by the strategists of the Navy Department that the large armorclads on the northern coast of Cuba be withdrawn and mobilized at some point on the Atlantic seaboard, possibly Hampton Roads, so as to be ready for sailing northward to protect New York and Boston from bombardment by the Spanish war vessels. The torpedo boats and other minor vessels of Admiral Sampson's squadron are believed to be sufficient to maintain the blockade of Cuban ports unless a strong Spanish force should arrive in those waters.

It is said at the Navy Department that no immediate orders will be sent for the sailing of the flying squadron from Hampton Roads, but that the cruisers Minneapolis and St. Paul, as soon as she is ready for service, may go on a cruise as scouts to give warning of the whereabouts of the Spanish fleet when it shall arrive in western waters.

There is some apprehension that the part of Spain's fleet which sailed westward from the Cape Verde Islands may be bound to the island of Trinidad to intercept the Oregon and the Marietta as they approach from the south.

Spain has a coaling station in the island, and her fleet could reach there before the American war ships could arrive, unless they start at once.

Dr. Guiteras Called to the Front.

Philadelphia, April 30.—Dr. John M Guiteras, of the University of Pennsylvania, who for a few years has been the Philadelphia representative of the Cuban Junta, has been ordered by the United States Government to go at once to Tampa, Fla., where he is to take charge of the safeguarding of the American troops from the climatic diseases they will encounter. Dr. Guiteras is a Government expert in tropical diseases, especially yellow fever.

Ten Thousand Dollars for the Pennant.

Philadelphia, April 30.—Messrs. Reach & Rogers, owners of the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club to-day announced to their players that $10,000 will be divided among them if the club wins the championship pennant this season, and that for second place $5,000 will be given, for third place $2,000 and for fourth place $1,250.

Turpie Succeeds Gorman.

Washington, April 30.—Senator Gorman, who for many years has been chairman of the Democratic caucus of the Senate, resigned the position yesterday and Senator Turpie, of Indiana, was chosen as his successor.

SPRINGFIELD BANKER MISSING.

May Have Taken $200,000—Two New England Institutions Involved.

Springfield, Mass., April 30.—Savings Bank Examiner Locke and National Bank Examiner Ewer, have been examining the books of the Hampshire County National bank and the Hampshire County Savings Bank, both of Northampton. The result of the hasty examination shows that there is a shortage of about $18,847 in the savings bank and one of probably much larger proportions in the national bank, estimated last night at $75,000.

A prominent Holyoke man, well known in Connecticut Valley bank circles, said that a Government official connected with the case told him that the defalcation might be $100,000 and might amount to $200,000.

Mr. Locke discovered the first evidence of the defalcation on Tuesday and called in National Bank Examiner Ewer, as the two banks occupy the same quarters and have practically the same officials.

Lewis Warner, president of the national bank and treasurer of the savings bank, is missing. He sent word to the bank yesterday that he was ill. When Sheriff J. E. Clark went to his home after him, at noon, he was told that Warner had left the house in the morning.

United States Commissioner John L. Rice, of this city, issued a warrant for Warner's arrest, and the police of many cities have been asked to be on the watch for him. He is supposed to have left Northampton on a noon train.

Boxer McCarty Killed.

Sacramento, Cal., April 30.—Bull McCarty, of Philadelphia, who was defeated by Griffo in a twenty-round boxing contest Wednesday night, died yesterday. He did not regain consciousness after he was knocked out in the twentieth round. Those who saw the fight cannot understand how McCarty was fatally injured. There was not a knockdown during the fight, until the last round, when McCarty, who was fagged out from his exertions, from forcing the fight, went down on his hands and knees from one of Griffo's light-weight blows on the ear. He was soon up, but too weak to do much, when Griffo gave him another blow that put him out.

Shaw Jury May Disagree.

Camden, April 30.—The trial of Eli Shaw, upon the indictment charging him with having murdered his grandmother, ended yesterday afternoon, the case going to the jury at 3.30 o'clock. It was expected that the verdict quickly would be reached, but opinion was divided as to what it would be. Most of those who had heard the testimony from the start believed the jury would declare the young man innocent, and would not take an hour to do it. Others believed that within less than that time he would be found guilty.

War News Ordered Shut Off.

Washington, April 30.—The War Department has followed the example of the Navy Department in shutting off all sources of information relating to military movements. Secretary Alger has issued an order directing all the bureau chiefs of the War Department and the officers on special duty, of all ranks, to give no information to the newspapers on any subject connected with the war.

Cannon Firing Off Eastport, Me.

Eastport, Me., April 30.—This place was greatly excited last night as a result of hearing thirty-five reports of cannon firing off Quaddy Head. The firing is supposed to come from a Spanish war ship, which is said to be in Funday Bay. A mysterious, rakish vessel has been reported by several fishermen in the last three days.

Gladstone's Days Ending.

Hawarden, April 30.—Mr. Gladstone did not sleep well last night and suffered pain occasionally. The sufferer now is entirely confined to his bed or to his bedroom. The diminishing pain is a bad sign. It always marks the later stages of the disease from which Mr. Gladstone is suffering.

Fifty Thousand Rifles for Insurgents.

Washington, April 30.—An order was issued to the ordnance officers last night instructing them to procure fifty thousand Krag-Jorgensen rifles, with a corresponding quantity of ammunition, to be sent to the insurgents in Cuba.

TO MOVE ON CUBA SOON

Five Thousand Men to Be Sent Early Next Week.

PREPARING FOR ACTION

Success Confidently Anticipated—Said in Key West That Cardenas Will Be the Place Selected for the Landing—The Departure of the Troops from Chickamauga—Preparations Made for the Invasion at Tampa.

Washington, April 30.—Everything is ready for the landing of the 5,000 troops in Cuba to establish a base of supplies and to form a connection with the Cuban army under Gomez. The day for the landing and the place are settled.

It can be stated that it will take place in less than a week, and that all arrangements point to a successful movement. Early next week preparations will be made at Tampa for the departure of the fleet. The charter of eight transports by the Government to carry the 5,000 troops to Cuba is the first step openly taken by the Navy Department to this end.

The four thousand troops at Tampa will be reinforced in a few days by one thousand cavalry and artillery from Chickamauga, and together with provisions, supplies, guns and ammunition, will be gathered at Tampa in time for the departure.

At the Cabinet meeting yesterday the plans for this invasion were discussed and approved, and the War and Navy Departments ordered to go ahead rapidly to complete their work.

The Cabinet meeting was devoted chiefly to discussing the routine plans of the War and Navy Departments and the appropriations needed to carry on the war. It is understood tha Secretary Alger stated that $34,000,000 more than appropriated by the Army bill would be required for the support of the increased army. Another subject of discussion before the Cabinet was the appointment of the major and brigadier generals, and it was stated that the following had been selected among those to be made major geenrals: Generals Otis, Shafter, Coppinger, Lee, Wheeler, H. A. Wilson and Dodge.

May Be Cardenas.

Key West, April 30.—From positive information it can be safely stated that Cardenas, Cuba, will be attacked next week. Five thousand men wil be landed, part of them regulars and the rest militia.

The United States troop ship Panther, having on board 800 marines, arrived here yesterday from Hampton Roads. She was convoyed down the coast by the United States cruiser Montgomery.

TROOPS READY TO LEAVE.

Cuban Invasion Expected to Begin Early Next Week.

Tampa, Fla., April 30.—Two batteries of light artillery, Companies E and K of the First Artillery, Allen Capron commanding, reached here yesterday morning and are encamped at Fort Tampa with the guard companies stationed there about the coal bins. They expect to accompany the first troops to Cuba.

No new orders have been received, but two regiments, the Ninth and Thirteenth Infantry, are busy with preparations to move. It is the general expectation that a move will be made on Monday or Tuesday, as it will not be possible, before then, to secure the necessary thirty days' supplies.

No cavalry have been heard from yet. The plan as the officers know it is that the first embarkation will be only for the purpose of opening and holding the port of entry and for landing supplies, for communicating with the insurgent forces and giving them assistance. The men here are in excellent condition and no sickness is reported.

The Plant Railway System has under way nineteen trains for transportation of additional troops from various points North and East. All are expected to reach here by Monday.

Captain Joseph E. Dorst, late military attache in Vienna and also an onlooker in the Turco-Grecian war, is to act as press censor with the troops. No possible disclosure of coming military movements will be allowed.

TO TAMPA FROM CHICKAMAUGUA.

Universal Belief That the Orders Mean Invasion of Cuba.

Chickamauga Park, Ga., April 30.—The orders received to send the Ninth Cavalry, Twenty-fourth Infantry and the eight batteries of artillery now here to Tampa have thrilled all the Chickamauga camp. These, with the troops already at Tampa, will make a formidable force. The universal interpretation of this movement among the officers whom it affects is that it presages a landing force at some place in Cuba carefully concealed. It is doubtful whether this place will prove to be Matanzas itself, the spreading of that impression being a ruse to deceive the Spanish.

The artillery will be used to defend the landing place and protect it as a base of supplies. The infantry will march into the interior and effect a junction with the forces of Gomez. The cavalry will serve to keep open the line of communication.

The Ninth is highly elated at the honor of being selected as the first cavalry regiment to tread Cuban sail. The colored regiment has doubtless been chosen because of its splendid record for Indian fighting, and the same reason applies to the Twenty-fourth Infantry, also colored.

Miss Gould's Money Refused.

Washington, April 30.—The President has replied to the note of Miss Helen Gould, of New York, offering to donate to the Government $100,000, thanking her for her generous offer and stating that in the absence of special authorization of Congress, he is unable to accept it. He suggests, however, that if she should see fit to invest the money in a vessel to be presented to the navy, no Congressional action in that case would be necessary.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

Banks Are Running to Cover Nothwithstanding Unusual Business Activity.

New York, April 30.—Hostilities have not as yet changed last week's conditions. There is much postponement of orders by men who do not know what they are waiting for, and much restriction of loans by banks which are abundantly strong. All this checks new business. The railroads are doing a great business, 13.9 per cent. larger than last year, and eastbound tonnage from Chicago has been 254,990 in three weeks, against 161,888 last year, and 234,994 in 1892. Yet many contracts and purchases are deferred, in most cases because men do not know what the banks mean to do.

Many have been asserting, about every day for the past two weeks, that the wheat speculation has culminated, but the price has in that time advanced 21 1-2 cents, 8 1-4 cents within the past week. No such foreign demand for both corn and wheat has ever been known, and it does not seem to be satiated at all as yet. Only in one day, April 20, 1891, has the May option touched as high a price within the past fifteen years as was reached last Tuesday at $1.25, but the assumption that either the foreign demand or the domestic supply has been exhausted needs to be taken with more than a grain of allowance.

Confusing accounts about the great industries cannot cause surprise in view of the contradictory influence of monetary stringency curtailing many orders, heavy orders by Government in many branches, and all pervading confidence that after temporary conditions have passed business is going to be better. Government is buying many uniforms and great quantities of supplies, cloths, shoes, copper wire and iron for vessels and armament, and the purchasing of many ships compels building of other vessels. Banking caution at the same time is stopping work in some iron and woolen mills. Yet confidence as to future business causes refusal of very many contracts for long time, the holding of wool above its current manufacturing value, and a marked rise in hides.

The consumption of iron is still the greatest ever known, though many structural and can contracts have been deferred.

The cotton manufacture has been helped by some Government contracts and a little better outside demand, and the temporary advance in raw cotton to 6.44 cents, though the price has since declined again to 6.37 cents. Supplies have been larger in some previous years than they are now, and yet are enormous, and the demand for goods is still hindered by the great stocks in sight or reported. Woolen manufacturers are doing rather better, large government orders helping some works while other demands are more encouraging. Sales of wool are about a sixth of last year's for April, half of those in 1896, and a third of sales in 1892, though Eastern buyers are weak, but country holders are sticking for higher prices.

Failures for three weeks have been $6,428,453, against $13,472,169 last year, $9,218,616 in 1896, $9,536,690 in 1895, and $8,826,850 in 18—. Manufacturing have been $3,744,843 against $3,962,531 last year, and trading have been $2,352,373 against $4,010,704 last year. Failures for the week have been 262 in the United States against 237 last year, and 16 in Canada, against 40 last year.

SPAIN'S OFFICIAL REPORT.

No Damage Done at Matanzas—Austrian and French Consuls Protest.

Madrid, April 30.—The following is the substance of the official report of Captain-General Blanco on the bombardment at Matanzas:

"Three American cruisers fired on the batteries at Fort Morillo, Matanzas, without doing any damage. We fired fourteen shots, to which the Americans replied with a multitude of mitrailleuse (quick-firing guns) shots, which did not do any injury.

"The American squadron also fired fourteen cannon shots at the Sabanilla battery, only one mule being killed, to which the Spanish battery only replied with four shots, as the squadron was beyond range.

"The whole squadron of five ships then threw several shells into the town, without doing any damage.

"The French and Austrian Consuls have protested against the bombardment, as it was commenced without any previous warning to foreign subjects. The troops manning the stations are full of fight.

"It appears that our shots did some damage to the American ships."

FRANCE'S WAR SHIPS.

Her War Vessels Kept in Condition to Move at a Moment's Notice.

Paris, April 30.—The Aurore announces that extraordinary activity prevails in naval and military circles throughout France. At Brest there is much comment on the fact that work at the arsenal continues until 8 o'clock every night and the workmen are employed all day Sundays.

Large orders for war materials of all sorts have been placed, and all the coast batteries have been supplied with provisions and munitions sufficient for several months.

It is also announced that fresh batteries have been erected at Ushant, that all the French war ships recently mobilized are kept in fighting trim and ready for sea at a moment's notice, and that the Reserves have been notified to expect a call for active service.

Spaniards May Have Information.

San Francisco, Cal., April 30.—It is believed that plans of works commanding the harbor of San Francisco are in possession of the Spanish authorities. Captain Casa, military attache to the Spanish Legation at Washington, was here last winter for several weeks and had ample opportunity to stroll about the batteries, as no orders to the contrary had been issued.

Cost of Mustering Volunteer Army.

Washington, April 30.—The Secretary of War has sent to Congress an estimate of the cost of maintaining the volunteer army under the recent call of the President. He fixes the annual expenses at about $30,000,000, in addition to that required for the regular army.

TRAITOR ON PURITAN

Spaniard of the Crew Tried to Blow Up the Magazine.

WAS CAUGHT IN THE ACT

Found Drilling a Hole in the Monitor's Biggest Powder Magazine The Spaniard's Name is Charles Yglasiase, and He Has Been Six Years in Our Navy—Made a Prisoner and a Court Martial Has Been Recommended

Key West, April 30.—Charles Yglasiase, the Spanish storekeeper on the monitor Puritan, who was discovered tampering with the largest magazine on the vessel last Sunday morning, while the Puritan was off Cardenas, is now in double irons in the brig of the vessel at this port. The Spaniard was engaged in drilling holes in the bulkhead of the twelve-inch magazine when discovered. He was immediately placed under arrest.

A court of inquiry was convened and has found Yglasiase guilty. The court recommended a court-martial. Absolute proof was obtained of his intention to blow up the ship.

The man has been almost six years in this navy. He was for several years on the cruiser Minneapolis, and the term of his present enlistment would have expired in a few weeks. He was rated as a fireman of the second class, but was acting as storekeeper

Thorough examination of the man, as well as his suspicious actions during the last few weeks, which have been recalled by his detection, have convinced Captain P. F. Harrington, commander of the Puritan, that the Spaniard harbored an insane notion that, as his country demanded it, he was willing to make himself a sacrifice and destroy the monitor by igniting the contents of the largest magazine on board.

When searched, the man was found to have cotton waste, saturated with turpentine. This, it is believed, was to have been used as a fuse. Over fifty keys were also found on him, which, it is thought, were intended to open the magazine doors.

Great excitement is said to exist among the men on various other war ships in consequence of the discovery. A number of Spaniards are on other ships, but all are under close surveillance and have been since the Maine disaster.

The members of the crew say that if they had known and could have got their hands on the traitor he would have been torn to pieces. What has been done with the man is not known.

There is a report that a court-martial was held immediately on board ship, that the prisoner was convicted and shot. This, however, cannot be confirmed. Captain Harrington refuses to talk, and if the time for convening a court-martial has been fixed it has not been made public.

Several of the prize steamers at Key West, particularly the Catalina, have been looted in some mysterious way. The boats are in charge of United States deputy marshals, but, notwithstanding this, silver services, specie, cigars, furnishings, etc., to the value of $25,000 have been taken.

The naval authorities here have appealed to the department for a guardship to protect prizes and property.

WAR REVENUE BILL.

Committee of Ways and Means Agrees Upon Changes of Great Importance.

Washington, April 30.—Two or three score amendments, some of considerable importance, to the war revenue bill have been agreed upon by the Committee on Ways and Means since the bill was originally introduced, and it is a question whether or not, under the agreement to consider the bond sections first under the five-minute rule, the committee will get an opportunity to propose the amendments before the hour fixed for taking a vote. It may be necessary to offer the amended bill as a substitute for the bill introduced. Among the changes proposed are these:

Making the beer tax apply to stock placed in cold storage in anticipation of the increase.

Authorizing packages of fine cut chewing as well as smoking tobacco containing 2 2-3 ounces instead of 2 1-5 ounces.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue is authorized to increase the number of clerks and other employees of the bureau as he may deem necessary to assess and collect the additional taxes.

The tax on leaf tobacco dealers is reduced from $24 and $48 to $12 and $24, respectively.

Telegraph messages sent under franks, as well as press news dispatches are exempted from tax.

Promissory notes secured by real estate mortgages are to be taxed twenty-five cents.

All telephone messages upon which a toll is charged, whether local or long distance, shall pay a tax of one cent when the toll does not exceed 25 cents; of two cents between 25 cents and $1.50; five cents between $1.50 and $5; ten cents beyond $5.

Passes the House, 181 to 131.

Washington, April 30.—The House yesterday passed the Far Revenue bill with every one of the committee amendments agreed upon. Many amendments were offered to the bond feature of the bill, ranging from a proposition for the substitution of an income tax provision to an authorization for an issue of $150,000,000 greenbacks. But all were voted down.

Senate Agrees to Naval Bill.

Washingon, April 30.—At yesterday's session of the Senate the report of the conferees on the naval appropriation bill was presented and agreed to. The measure as perfected carries a little more than $57,000,000.

Big Flour Mill Burned.

Catasauqua, Pa., April 30.—The roller flour mill operated by Mauser & Cressman was completely destroyed by fire yesterday. Six hundred bushels of wheat, 800 barrels of flour and valuable new machinery were destroyed. Loss, $100,000; partially insured.

The National Game.

We rejoice to find that the war scare has not killed interest in the great American game of baseball. The season opened auspiciously as any year since we can remember. The National league men were never more full of vinegar, neither were audiences more appreciative. The audience themselves were never larger. From 8,000 to 4,000 spectators is by no means an unusual figure even thus early in the season and with everybody's mind full of war.

The common mind is so full of war indeed that the epidemic has infected the gallant players and their audiences. Even more vigorously than of old do both audiences and players fall upon their common enemy, the umpire. At New York, where, owing to the enforcing of the yellow journals, the Spanish war talk is hottest, the baseball war thus far has naturally likewise broken out hottest.

Before the season opened we read the little hand book of etiquette for baseballers that had been prepared with the especial view of making them angelic in their behavior. Now, we thought, baseball grounds will witness scenes of Chesterfieldian deportment. The fun of baseball games has vanished, we sighed to ourselves. We need not have sighed. At the very first game played by the New Yorks at their own home this season pandemonium itself broke loose. The crowd and some of the players alike attacked the umpire. They hooted, they hissed, a player shook his fist and swore awfully and stamped upon his own hat in his impotent rage.

The audience roared at the umpire like 5,000 ravening lions. "Lynch him!" cried some. "You're a robber!" yelled others. Finally a happy idea concentrated all the wrath of both players and audience in one word. "You're a Spaniard!" That finished the umpire. In the midst of a hail of cushions and other missiles around his ears that unhappy man escaped under the protection of the police.

Oh, no! The national game is not declining any in interest among us.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Predictions as to the next Governor of New Jersey are not worth much at the present juncture. The war is likely to develop new men, perhaps among those who will go to the front, and to make such changes in the political world as will upset all previous calculations.—Newark News.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News, but Just as Interesting.

One of Plainfield's fair young women is just now congratulating herself. Early in the week it looked very much as though her best fellow would have to go to the front and fight for the United States. He is a member of the Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y., and when the young woman learned that the regiment is to remain in New York, she very naturally was pleased.

* * * *

It has been suggested that the Y. M. C. A. corner, at Front street and Watchung avenue, would be the best place for the city flag. It is one of the most prominent locations in town, on high ground, and the flag would be plainly seen from the railroad, all parts of the city, and from North Plainfield. Advocates of the suggestion say it would be most fitting that Old Glory should wave above a public institution dedicated to making better citizens.

O. B. Leonard, of Madison avenue, has rented a house for the summer at Perth Amboy, to which place he and his family will move next week.

TO WHITEWASH THE ROCK

HISTORICAL SPOT TO HAVE A COATING OF WHITE.

Constable Pangborn and Edward Conshee Will Do the Work—The Plan of Chandler W Riker That Failed.

Washington Rock is to be defended. Not against the assualts of a Spanish army but against the ravages of time. It is really but right that that historical spot should be looked after especially at such a time as this.

Constable William N. Pangborn and Edward Conshee are now at the head of the movement which they have fathered for several years. It is to see that the Rock receives a coat of whitewash and that the brush about it is cut away.

For years it has been the custom of some patriotic citizens to whitewash the Rock so that it can be seen for miles around. This year Mr. Pangborn and Mr. Conshee have started a subscription to raise sufficient funds to whitewash the Rock and clear away the brush in front of it.

In connection with the movement to keep alive the historic interest in Washington Rock, there were some interesting happenings of a few years ago. Chandler W. Riker, of Newark, president of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, attempted to purchase the model of Washington's headquarters at Morristown that was shown at the World's Fair. It was his intention to bring the building here and place it near Washington Rock. He then planned to run the trolley from this city up to the Rock and make a summer resort of that part of the mountain.

The State refused to part with the house, and so Mr. Riker's plan failed.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

The entertainment by the Martin Bros.' minstrel aggregation at Music Hall tonight will be an interesting affair, comparing favorably with some of the best companies that have appeared here. The work of the comedians, Messrs. Taylor, Moon, Betts and Wilson, judged by the rehearsals, will find great favor. The ballads and specialties are artistic and laughable, the performance as a whole being worthy of patronage. Of course the cake walk will be a feature. One of the best known belles of colored society is authority for saying she means to win the silver cup offered as prize for best style, and there are six competitors.

ELECTED NEW OFFICERS.

Postponed Meeting of Endeavorers of the Congregational Church.

The postponed business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church was held last evening at the home of E. L. Suffren, of Sycamore avenue, in connection with a sociable.

The principle business was the semi-annual election of officers which resulted as follows: President, Charles Wilson; vice-president, Robert Suffren; secretary, Miss Julia Belknap; treasurer, Philip Suffren. The chairmen of the committees were chosen as follows: Prayer meeting, J. A. Powlinson; lookout, Mrs. Harold Tomlinson; social, Miss Katheryn Dwight; flower, Miss Saidee Howell; good literature, Miss Alice Morgan; and missionary, Miss Mary Chase.

The new constitution was adopted with very few changes. An informal social hour followed.

Death of Peter Connolly.

The death of Peter Connolly, aged seventy years, occurred last Thursday at the home of his son, Edward Connolly, 333 East Third street. Mr. Connolly had been feeble for sometime and his death was not wholly unexpected. The funeral services will be held from the late residence next Monday morning at 8 o'clock. The remains will then be taken to Easton, Pa., on the 8:21 train where a service will be held at St. Bernard's church. Interment will be in St. Bernard's cemetery, Easton.

Ladies' Night at Trinity.

Monday night will be "Ladies' Night" at Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar. It is the regular meeting night, but the Sir Knights have arranged for a special affair. Each Sir Knight will appear in full uniform and will be accompanied by his wife, sister or sweetheart. During the evening the pharaphenalia for the use of the commandery will be presented. There will be special music and an informal programme during the evening.

St Mary's Entertainment.

The entertainment given at St. Mary's Parochial School last evening, under the auspices of the Society of the Immaculate Conception, was a repetition of the one given the previous evening. The attendance was much larger and the entire programme was given with the exception of that part taken by George McTernan, the boy singer. The audience showed its approbation by frequently applauding the efforts of all who took part.

Spring Health.

With many people vitality reaches its lowest ebb in the spring. The heat producing foods of winter leave the system clogged with debris that ought to be removed. If all goes well nature will remove it, but it will take time and meanwhile vigor and energy will be lacking. It's wise to use a remedy like in the spring. It expels all impurity from the blood, increases the activity of the vital organs and gives health a new impulse.

Rawson's Sarsaparilla

Your money back if the remedy fails to give satisfaction.

Peck, Burlington, Vt.; General Zenas R. Bliss, Washington; General Stanley, governor Soldiers' home, Washington; General Simon B. Buckner, Lexington, Ky.; John Dufais, Edward Marshall and William D'H. Washington. General O. O. Howard was selected as chairman of the meeting, and General A. McD. McCook and Mr. Dufais were elected secretaries.

Object of the Movement.

The plan and scope of the movement, which was termed "a grand army of individual Americans," were explained by Colonel Washington. It is proposed that this new National Reserve shall consist of volunteers who shall sign enlistment blanks agreeing in case of foreign war or invasion to take up arms at the call of the president of the United States or of the governors of the states or territories in which they reside. Central headquarters are to be established which would practically be a clearing house for recruits.

It is believed that from 2,000,000 to 5,000,000 citizens will be found ready to join the body. It is not the object to interfere in any way with the existing state militia, but in case of an emergency the names enrolled in any state can be handed to its authorities for organization and enlistments under its own regulations and officers.

The officers of the organization were elected as follows: Lieutenant General John M. Schofield, U. S. A., commander; Lieutenant General James Longstreet, C. S. A., vice commander; General O. O. Howard, chairman of the military committee, with vice chairmen as follows: Major General Adelbert Ames, Lieutenant General Joseph Wheeler and Major General Grenville M. Dodge; Colonel W. D'H. Washington, president of the organization, and General A. McD. McCook, secretary.

Plan of the Organization.

The plan of the organization is to get together a reserve body of men to take up arms at a moment's notice without conscription or draft, to be maintained in connection with the present forces, without the irksomeness of military duty, without entailing upon the government or state the expense of maintaining such a large body of troops, and without drawing from their pursuits the young men of the nation.

It is proposed to enroll men of proper age and physical qualifications to bear arms who will sign the enlistment blanks, agreeing to take up arms when called upon. The original rolls would be transmitted directly to the war or navy department, there to be tabulated and included in the recognized summary of the military and naval forces of the United States.

The permanent organization will include the president of the United States, to be ex-officio commander in chief; the secretary of war, to be ex-officio vice commander of the military forces, and the general of the army, commander; the secretary of the navy, to be ex officio vice commander of the naval forces, and the admiral of the navy, to be ex-officio commander; the governor of each state, to be ex-officio commander of all the reserves of his own commonwealth, and the adjutant general of each state, to be ex-officio vice commander of that state, the military committee for the purpose of governing and fostering the organization, and a commander or president, who will have charge of the active duties pertaining to the organization and its maintenance.

An Appeal to the Country.

This foregoing organization having been effected, it was decided to send broadcast through the country an appeal embodying the principles of the National Volunteer Reserve. This appeal is in part as follows:

HEADQ'RS NATIONAL VOLUNTEER RESERVE, WASHINGTON BUILDING, 1 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY.

To the People of the United States:

Whereas the policy of the government and of the several states of the United States of America is to maintain a small organized force for the assurance of law and order within our borders and in case of a serious conflict to depend upon the loyalty of our people and volunteers to augment the regular army and militia, which would form a nucleus around which they would gather, it is apparent that in case of a serious conflict or one of long duration that our standing force would be utterly inadequate to carry it on and that the body of our army would be our volunteers.

It is acknowledged that all Europe is a vast military camp, the minds of the people of each power being directed to military affairs and taught to despise, respect or fear another nation by the consideration of comparative military strength. Familiar with the enormous armies of their own and adjoining nations, they judge the United States by comparison, and our regular army of 25,000 and 100,000 militia occasions on their part a feeling of superiority, if not contempt, and invites frequent and ready aggression, as has been proved by no less than three international difficulties in as many years, and consequently it would appear desirable at this or any other time that all doubts as to our willingness and available strength be set at rest and enrollment of our volunteers be made, which we have not had for a generation, and our military strength has been decreasing rather than increasing ever since our great conflict, while our national wealth and the ever increasing interests we are called upon to guard and protect have grown manyfold. The strength of the army of a nation lies in its reserve; consequently why not let us count our men and make manifest our loyalty to the world and the readiness of every man in the nation to defend the country and the flag, and let us above all seize this opportunity of forever closing any breach that may have occurred and forever blot out sectionalism and publicly weld together anew north, south, east and west in our ever glorious and inseparable Union?

A Measure For Peace.

The organization of the National Volunteer Reserve is not intended as an alarm or to arouse an unnecessary military spirit. It is a peace measure; but, if conflict must be, then a measure to shorten its duration. Therefore the subscribers, veterans of all classes, forever united under the flag, have organized themselves into a body to be known as the National Volunteer Reserve and have pledged their services as a military committee. They desire to rally around them the loyal men of the nation, and they confidently believe that the response will astonish the world. They have carefully prepared an enrollment blank which every loyal man of the nation can sign and thereby consecrate himself to his country and his flag. It is believed that a universal and loyal expression on the part of the people at this time will have a great moral effect not only at home, but abroad, and will discourage any coalition with an antagonistic power or interference with our affairs.

Such a declaration at this time will also strengthen the hands of the presidents and will be a voluntary expression from the people impossible to be misunderstood. To make this movement doubly forceful it must be accomplished quickly, and therefore we appeal to the people's voice, the public press, the only vehicle for reaching the nation instantaneously.

It is confidently believed that this movement will make each enrolled volunteer feel more keenly his individual interest and his integral part in national affairs and thus prove the quality of our citizenship. The plan in no way conflicts with national or state authority or with the militia, and the National Volunteer Reserve will act as a resource, encouragement and auxiliary to the national guard. The president of the United States is the commander in chief of the National Volunteer Reserve and the governor of each state the commander of the reserve within his own commonwealth, thus fully carrying out the provisions of the constitution.

The press without dissent has volunteered its cordial approval and co-operation in all sections of the country. The governors of many states have already given their enthusiastic approval. The aid of the Grand Army of the Republic, of the Confederate and of all other veteran organizations, of the Sons of Veterans and of all patriotic societies is confidently depended upon to further the movement, and each is invited to become a recruiting office of the National Volunteer Reserve.

This invitation is also extended to every fraternal and labor organization and is made individually to every loyal man to rally around the flag.

The military committee of the National Volunteer Reserve pledge themselves faithfully to transmit to the authorities all enrollments consigned to their care and subscribe themselves loyally,

JOHN M. SCHOFIELD, Lieutenant General, United States of America (retired), Acting Commander.
JAMES LONGSTREET, Lieutenant General Confederate States Army, Vice Commander.
O. O. HOWARD, Major General, United States Army (retired), Chairman Military Committee.
ADELBERT AMES, Major General, United States Volunteers.
GRENVILLE M. DODGE, Major General, United States Volunteers.
JOSEPH WHEELER, Lieutenant General, Confederate States Army, Vice Chairman Military Committee.
A. McD. McCOOK, Major General, United States Army (retired).
DANIEL E. SICKLES, Major General, United States Army (retired).
SIMON BOLIVAR BUCKNER, Lieutenant General, Confederate States Army.
JOSHUA L. CHAMBERLAIN, Major General, United States Army (retired).

R. C. DRUM, Brigadier General, United States Army (retired).
W. A. HAMMOND, Brigadier General, United States Army (retired).
ELI LONG, Brigadier General, United States Army (retired).
O. B. WILCOX, Brigadier General, United States Army (retired).
H. G. WRIGHT, Brigadier General, United States Army (retired).

J. FRED PIERSON, Brigadier General, United States Volunteers.
E. L. MOLINEUX, Brigadier General, United States Volunteers.
M. T. McMAHON, Brigadier General, United States Volunteers.
L. S. PECK, Brigadier General, United States Volunteers.
WILLIAM D'H. WASHINGTON, President.
A. McD. McCOOK, Major General, United States Army (retired), Secretary Military Committee.

All the brigadier generals and major generals both of the northern and southern armies and the admirals of both navies, by order of rank, have been elected and upon acceptance will be members of the military committee of the reserve.

Executive Committee Headquarters.

Headquarters for the organization have been secured at 1 Broadway, New York city, where the executive committee of the military committee will meet every day. This executive committee consists of Lieutenant General John M. Schofield, General James Longstreet, General O. O. Howard, General Adelbert Ames, General Grenville M. Dodge, General Joseph Wheeler, General A. McD. McCook, General T. G. Wood, General J. Fred Pierson, General E. L. Molineux, General M. T. McMahon and President William D'H. Washington.

President Washington, in speaking of the movement, said:

"If we can secure an enrollment throughout the country of volunteers, it should take away any existing uncertainty in the minds of foreigners as to the loyalty of our people. The chief objects for starting the movement just now are to make this an opportunity for a reunion both of the old soldiers and the people of all sections of the country. It is a peace rather than a war measure. It will discourage European sympathy on the wrong side in existing troubles and will make each citizen who enrolls himself feel that he is closer to and a more intimate part of the government, and it will prove the character and quality of his citizenship. The movement is absolutely devoid of politics. It is a means for the people to declare their loyalty to the president of the Union, whoever he may be, at any time. The plan outlined has already been before the war and navy departments and the executive and has met with their full approval. It is hoped to complete the movement within the next ten days."

Letters are pouring in from famous soldiers and eminent citizens from all parts of the country, approving and encouraging the movement.

Governors Approve the Plan.

The following letters, approving the project, have been received at the headquarters:

LINCOLN, Neb., March 17.

Brief examination of plans for National Volunteer Reserve appears highly commendable and patriotic. Will gladly co-operate in its promotion in present situation. Nebraska Volunteer Reserve is limited only to number of citizens able to bear arms.

SILAS A. HOLCOMB,
Governor of Nebraska.

RALEIGH, March 16.

Your plan for Volunteer Reserve force received. Two hundred and forty thousand men in North Carolina subject to military duty, and at call to defend state or nation nearly every ablebodied man would promptly volunteer.

DANIEL L. RUSSELL,
Governor North Carolina.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 17.

I have your letter in regard to the plan for a National Volunteer Reserve, and it seems to me to be excellent. It would certainly show the patriotism and power of our country to surpass that of any other nation on earth. Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH F. JOHNSTON,
Governor.

BOSTON, March 15.

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your note of March 12, which I have read with interest. It seems to me that you are pursuing the right course. Very truly yours,

ROGER WOLCOTT,
Governor Massachusetts.

TRENTON, March 15.

Your valued favor with inclosures is at hand. I have read the same with great interest and beg to thank you for the same. I will give the matter full consideration. Very truly yours,

FOSTER M. VOORHEES,
President of the Senate, Acting Governor.

Got Out of Bed to Vote.

Judah P. Benjamin was the first Jew elected to a seat in the American senate, and the contest was a notable one. Colonel W. L. Knox was a member of the Louisiana legislature, and when the senatorial fight began he was lying at the point of death at a hotel in Baton Rouge.

There was a tie vote in the legislature. Colonel Knox was a great admirer of Benjamin, and he determined to break the tie and send Benjamin to the senate even at the cost of his own life. He was placed on a cot, carried to the house of representatives, and when his name was called he voted for Judah P. Benjamin for United States senator. Amid great excitement and the wildest sort of applause Benjamin was declared elected, and, more dead than alive, Knox was carried to his hotel. He rallied in a few days and in the course of time recovered his health. — Dallas News.

When Cheek Meets Cheek.

Cheekly met his match the other day, and by the same act a match was made for his pretty daughter. Young Nerver asked the old gentleman for her hand. He expressed his disapproval and said: "Do you have the faintest idea that you could support her in the same luxurious surroundings she now enjoys? Everything must remain the same for her when she marries, sir. I will not permit her to sacrifice a single comfort. She must be provided for just as I have provided for her, sir."

"That's easy," replied Nerver coolly. "I shall move right in here with her. There are some things that might be improved, but I respect your wishes, and all shall remain just as it is."

Cheekly had to take a swallow of brandy to prevent a spell, and then he gave his consent in a weak tone of voice.—Detroit Free Press.

ANECDOTES OF MACREADY.

He Played Better When in a Genuine Passion Before Going on the Stage.

Mr. Sala charged Macready with having habitually used foul and blasphemous language behind the scenes. An apologist hints that Mr. Sala may have been led astray by the fact that in the last act of "Macbeth" Macready invariably lashed himself into a sort of fever, which he aggravated by using all sorts of strong expressions. When Mr. Phelps played Macduff to him for the first time, he was not a little amazed during the fight at the close of the last act, to hear Macready call him a beast, a scoundrel, t hell-born villain, a base-born cur and a devil. Full of resentment, Phelps hurled back the epithets with energy, and heaped foul names upon Macready. At the close Macready said:—

"Thank you, Mr. Phelps, thank you; I've never been so well supported."

In another play, where it was necessary to enter in a panting fury, full of rage, exhibiting the gasping exhaustion of mad passion. Macready used to have a hired "super" whom he would grapple and shake and curse at, off the stage, so that he could enter naturally. One night the regular "super" sent a substitute who did not quite understand the business. He resented Macready's rough treatment, which delighted the tragedian, who went at his man with increased vigor. The substitute presently "let him have it," and the pair fought savagely a good round. Macready that night burst upon his audience in a splendid rage, out-Macreadying Macready. When the substitute learned the true state of affairs, however, he bolted; but he was unearthed, for Macready came off after the first scene, gasping,—

"Hum, ha! Where is he? Hum, ha, bless me! A splendid fellow! Pay him double and let me have him every night."

ANCIENTS VALUED GOLD.

Every Effort Made Even the Committing of Crime to Obtain It.

Gold was probably the first metal observed and collected, because of the instinctive understanding of its intrinsic value. About it superstitions grew; religious and ceremonious rites and strange crimes were committed for its possession in the days when it was believed that is was of such stuff that the sun itself was made and the halls of Valhalja paved. Rock paintings and carvings of Egyptian tombs earlier than the days of Joseph indicate the operation of washing auriferous sand, and a subsequent melting in furnaces by the aid of blow pipes. Less than twenty years ago the old mines of Nubia, so graphically described by Diodorous, were discovered on the shores of the Red sea, together with a line of ancient wells across the desert; the underground workings where ore veins had been followed with the pick, the rude cupelling furnaces for assaying, picks, oil lamps, stone mills, mortars and pestles, inclined warming tables of stone, crucibles and retorting furnaces of burned tile, by which the entire process can be traced.

Here slaves and hapless prisoners of war exchanged their life blood for glittering dust to fill the treasuries of their captors. In India and Asia Minor the powdered ore was washed down over smooth, sloping rocks and caught gold in the fleeces of sheepskins sunk in the stream. It was literally a golden fleece that Jason brought back from the Caucasus. Further north and following the eastern foothills of Mount Ararat to the southern slope of the Ural mountains in Russian Siberia, where last year millions were taken out of the old mines, the ancient Scythians broke up rock and gravel with copper implements, scraped out the glittering dust and nuggets with the fangs of wild boars and carried their gains away in bags of leather.—Modern Machinery.

USING A FROG TO CATCH A FROG.

The Stratagem of a New Jersey Hunter of the Succulent Legs.

A New Jersey genius, who makes a living along the banks of the Raritan and contiguous swamps by catching frogs for the New York market, has, during the past season, surprised his patrons, who are restaurant keepers in the Washington square district, by the large quantities of toothsome legs, so highly prized by epicures. The demand for frog legs has always exceeded the supply, as the agile hoppers are difficult to bag.

The Jerseyman has, however, resorted to a strategem that makes frog catching as easy as potato digging, and is on the road to wealth. He took his idea from the success with which pot hunters employ the decoy duck, and he operates with a decoy frog. A fine specimen of the elderly male is captured and placed in a large glass jar, on the top of which is placed a wire netting. The jar is placed at some convenient point near the swampage, and the hunter lies in wait with his spear. The captive hoarsely voices his discontent, his curious fellows are attracted to the spot, and their curiosity is aroused by the peculiar spectacle. They gather around in numbers, and the hunter, with his long barbed spear, deftly adds them to the stack in his game bag. The visiting frogs are, very strangely, not frightened by the disappearance of any of their number, so intent are they in contemplation of the prisoner and in listening to his guttural tale of woe.

This hunter has been known to bag as many as a hundred greenbacks in a single day. These he skins and disposes of their legs at 25c. per pair; very fair wages for a fisherman.—New York Journal.

STORY OF A SLAVE.

CONGRESSMAN BRUCE'S PLACE IN THE HISTORY OF HIS RACE.

One of Nature's Noblemen in Ebony—As a Successful Man He Provided for the Wife and Child of His Former Owner and Master.

If the life story of Blanche K. Bruce who died a few days ago, is ever written by a biographer who is properly endowed with the sense of perspective and proportion, it will constitute a romance almost as fascinating as any masterpice of American fiction. The career of this extraordinary man presents an inspiring example of industry fidelity and honorable ambition triumphant over adversity, prejudice and injustice. Born and raised in slavery from which he was set free by the levelling force of war, he lived to prove himself fit for liberty, rising to the full level of rounded manhood and fulfilling the best ideals of patriotic citizenship. His modesty, his intelligence his charm of manner and the simple rugged honesty of his character won for him the friendship of the greatest leaders North and South. Official distinction was conferred upon him and he dignified his post. Men forgot that he was a negro—they knew him only as a sincere, honest, manly man, whose life was beautiful and true—and when he died the country knew that it had lost a loyal, earnest, devoted son and defender, whose soul was as white as the Easter lilies.

There was one strange, tender secret in his life which has but recently been disclosed, and it sheds a mellow radiance of its own upon the massive outlines of his character. It appears that the family that owned Bruce, the young slave, came out of the war as so many others of their class did, impoverished, bewildered and helpless. Their fortune had vanished in the flames that banished human bondage, and peace came only to find them without the means of support. The head of the household died soon afterward, and one member after another passed away until finally there were left only the widow of Bruce's former master and her young daughter. They were alone in the world, unused to its hardships and with no means of earning a livelihood. But their former slave remained faithful to them, and from his scanty earnings a generous share was set apart each week for their increasing needs. This thoughtful provision continued throughout Mr. Bruce's life. As his success broadened and his means increased he added to the allowance for the maintenance of the old-time mistress and her daughter, and so delicate, so modest and gracious were his ministrations of this sacred charity that they could not have been repelled, even if the beneficiaries had been able to get along without them.

The spectacle of this great-hearted man faithfully providing for the wife and child of the person who once held him in slavery is both noble and instructive. It is one of many cases in which former slaves have held fast to old associations, bound to the master's family by ties which nothing but death can sever. The relations which still exist in many Southern communities between the ex-slaves and their old-time owners are curiously affectionate. The negro still feels bound to the family that raised him, bound not by law or principle, but by ties of association and gratitude which are stronger than freedom, and which are to him a sacred obligation. This relationship is beautifully illustrated in the career of Mr. Bruce, and it reveals a trait of steadfastness, benevolence and devotion to his character which doubtless explains his splendid success in the practical affairs of life.

This fragment from the history of a colored man who rose from the drudgery of slavery to the proud position of a Senator, who enjoyed the confidence and affection of many of the most brilliant public men of our times speaks the voice of rebuke and protest against the unreasoning prejudice to which the negro race is still exposed in many parts of the country. Mr Bruce was an example of the unfolding possibilities of negro growth and progress. His public career can be contemplated with honest pride by every upright citizen, and the nation will view it with increasing wonder and admiration as the years pass by. The gentler side of his character, however, as this inadequate recital shows, was the crowning dignity of his life, for it proved that beneath his tawny skin there was the heart of a knightly gentleman and a soul of spotless white.

WAR NEWS.

claim to have proof that he was securing information for the benefit of the Spanish authorities.

Blockade is Effective.

Key West, April 30, 12:05 p. m.—The Spanish are beginning to fully realize that the blockade along the northern coast of Cuba is part of the stern reality of war.

They are also beginning to realize the full extent of its effectiveness. Another pointer in that line was received last night when two Spanish gunboats attempted to run the blockade.

For the first time since the opening of the conflict two of the Spanish gunboats ventured outside of the harbor of Havana. They attempted to pass through the blockade. All lights were extinguished on the Spanish ships.

The blockade runners were first sighted by the lookout on the United States battleship Iowa. The Iowa headed for them at once.

Several shots were fired from the lighter guns on the Iowa at the Spanish warships. The latter immediately ran back under the guns of the fortifications. The Iowa made no attempt to follow.

Signal Posts for Spaniards.

Key West, April 30, 11:15 a. m—The information has been received from the blockading fleet that General Blanco, of the Spanish forces on Cuba, has established signal posts all along the Cuban coast. They are supposed to be placed there to notify the Spaniards of any attempt to land in force on the part of the Americans.

More Troops Move To Tampa.

Chattanooga, April 30, 12:50 p. m—Eighteen hundred of the regular United States troops left the National camp here for Tampa, Fla. The rest of the troops are chafing under the restraint. They are very eager to get to the front.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Alfred Trenchard, of the borough, has bought a new Sandow racer.

Joseph Sattels, of the firm of Vanderbeek & Sattels, has purchased a new Spalding wheel.

There is some talk among the young people of the Seventh-day Baptist church about organizing a bicycle club this summer. Last year they gave a number of rides, but some are in favor of having an informal organization to arrange them.

The prices for the sundries needed in wheeling have been materially reduced this year. Lamps, bells, cyclometers, toe-clips and the like can now be obtained from any of the bicycle dealers at prices unheard of two years ago. This general reduction is partially due to the fact that so many of the department stores have taken up the sale of bicycle sundries and the regular dealers have to keep pace with them.

A new route to New Brunswick from Metuchen is now open to wheelmen. It is by the way of the trolley line between the two places. The road is now all macadamized and is several miles longer than the old route. It can easily be found by following the trolley tracks that go out of Metuchen in the direction of Bohamtown. At Bohamtown the road turns sharply to the right and leads through a pleasant country, connecting again with the old road a mile from New Brunswick

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Every pleasant day there is quite a number of the local horsemen who visit the Gentlemen's Driving Park or warm up their horses on Park avenue, near Avon Park, which is now the general speedway.

Considerable attention has been attracted among the horsemen by Samuel H. Edwards' pacing mare, "Mollie." She is a newcomer in this section and has in her recent trials against other fast horses shown herself possessed of considerable speed. Mr. Edwards moved to this city from Carthage, N. Y., last fall, and is now residing on LaGrande avenue. His son, Frank Edwards, usually pilots "Mollie" out for her exercise. He is a clever driver.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The athletic committee of the Y. M. C. A. is making arrangements for an outdoor field day, to be held in this city Monday, May 30. It will be open to the local amateurs. A number of the athletes of the association are already going into training.
